ADVERTISING ALONG OUR HIGHWAYS.

Would be strictly regulated by Additions to State Laws.

A proposed law of state-wide interest appeared in the House of Delegates this week, in the shape of a second and more sweeping bill re-garding highway sign advertising, that would add twelve sections to the present State Highway laws. An annual license fee of $200 would be required of all individuals or firms engaged in "what is commonly known as outdoor advertising. Non-resident persons or firms engaged in the business would be required to post $1,000 bond to insure compliance with the regulations.

A permit for each board erected within 500 feet of a State highway outside of city, town and village limits would be necessary. An annual tax of 3 cents per square foot of dis-play and border surface would be imposed. For sale and for rent signs and boards advertising business on the same premises would be exempt-

Applications for permits to erect billboards would be accompanied by a statement naming the county in which the display is to be located, the election district and telling whether the place is in an area over which the Legislature granted any board or body the power to create zoning restrictions.

A plat, drawn to scale by a surveyor or civil engineer, would be re-quired to show the dimensions of the proposed sign and its location with reference to State highways, cross-roads and railroad crossings. A fine of $1000. would be imposed for vio-lation of the regulations.

THE RED CROSS FUND.

We have not seen a published statement, this week, concerning the total received throughout the U. S. toward the $10,000,000 Red Cross Fund, but it is probably about $9,000,000.

Receipts for Carroll County up to Thursday morning, amounted to $1322.00. Other receipts will come in over the week-end. County officials will keep on presenting the need for contributions.

To the best of our knowledge the total for the County Red Cross fund, sent in from Taneytown, amounts to $156.80. Of this amount $141.80 was sent through The Record, which in-cluded $10.00 from Middleburg dis-trict, $42.80 from Lutheran Church offering, and several subscriptions received from outside of the county. The Record will ontinue to receive subscriptions.

SENIOR PLAY OF T. H. S.

The Senior Play of the Taneytown High School will be presented on the nights of Feb. 27 and 28, at 8:00 P. M., in the High School Auditorium.

AUTO FATALITY HEARING Odd Circumstances Connected with Death of Young Man.

Bridge road near Johnsville, was in-vestigated by Frederick county offi-cials, later on Friday. The evidence seemed to be to the effect that the affair originated following a dance held at Union Bridge, when some young men in attendance talked of fight, and several auto loads left the town going toward Johnsville, to see the outcome the outcome.

The evidence appears to indicate that, as the car had turned back to-ward Union Bridge, then turned again toward Johnsville, and the second time turned toward Union Bridge, following conferences among the party, it had been decided to "call off" the fight, and it was fol-lowing the last conference and turn that the car left the road and turned over. The occupants of the car were John Utermahlen, driver. Howard Crawmer, the man killed, Paul Selby and Gordon Yingling. There were other cars in the party. From the published evidence, it does not seem clear who the fighters were to be, nor what the quarrel was about. Fol-lowing the first hearing, the coroner reserved his decision in order to se-cure further information.

The car, a Chrysler sedan belonging to Utermahlen, was pretty com-pletely demolished. Utermahlen, who was hurt to some extent, was released on his own bond pending further action. The other two occupants were only slightly scratched.

VETERANS' LOAN BILL HAS PASSED.

Presidential Veto Likely, but will be passed over it.

A Compromise Soldier's Bonus bill was passed in the House, on Monday, 363 to 39, which allows veterans to borrow up to fifty percent of the face value of their certificates at 4½ per-cent interest. The Democrats voted solidly for it, while 210 Republicans voted for, and 39 against the meas-ure. This is the bill to which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had declared his opposition. President Hoover, early in the week, voiced his disapproval of the Soldiers Bonus bill as it passed the House, indicating his main objections, as follows:

"The total cash which might be re-quired to be raised by the Treasury is about $1,280,000,000 if all should apply. The administrator of veterans' affairs informs me that he esti-mates that if present conditions con-tinue seventy-five percent of the veterans may be expected to claim the loans, or a sum of approximately $1,000,000,000 will need to be raised by the Treasury." While recognizing the country's ob-ligation to the veterans of the World War President Hoover said:

"The country should not be called upon either directly or indirectly to make loans to those who can by their own efforts support themselves" and "by far the largest part of the huge sum proposed in this bill is to be available to those who are not in distress.

Acknowledgment of the seriousness of present economic conditions and prediction that they may be prolong-ed is made by the President in these words

"The acute depression and unemployment create a situation of unusueconomic sensitiveness, much more easily disturbed at this time than in normal times by the consequences of this legislation, and such action may quite well result in a prolongation of this period of unemployment and suf-fering in which veterans will themselves suffer with others."

On Thursday, during the closing hours of the debate in the Senate, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, with-out any hope of changing a vote, re-stated the objections to the bill. He took the view that the defeat of the bill would be a service to the veterans who may take advantage of it, for the reason that the government can settle its obligations for half the val-ue of the insurance certificates, because of interest charges; that the benefit to veterans will be only tem-porary, and that they will be sacri-ficing an investment that should be held for their families, and that a large percentage of the cash. value paid will soon be squandered.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE

Measures have been introduced in both branches against the operation of "day-light saving" time in the state, both having originated in coun-ties near Baltimore. While "daylight saving" has most of its supporters in Baltimore, there is strong sentiment against it there too. A bill has been introduced in the House of Delegates providing for a rate bonus of $9,000,000 to war vet-erans. The bill apparently does not have the support of state veteran's organizations, and it seems to be pretty generally regarded as unwise, and not likely to pass.

The House on Thursday, passed the "anti-Snooping" bill, which nullifirs the law that permits the division of fines in criminal cases with informers. The law has applied mainly in cases of violation of the liquor laws and the game and fish statutes. Requests for the exemption of certain counties were voted down.

A bill has been presented in the House to change the lines of the 4th. Congressional District, in order to mak it safely Democratic. Portions of the present district would be add-ed to the First and Fifth districts. This is a purely partisan measure.

PREVENT POULTRY PARASITES.

It is easier and cheaper to prevent poultry parasites and diseases than them. Infectious diseases to cure reach the flock through new birds from infected flocks, exposure at poultry shows, or contact with dis-eased fowls. Infection may also be spread on shoes or animals' feet, or by free-flying birds. The greater the number of fowls kept on a farm and the more they are crowded, the greater the danger of disease and parasites. General control measures for parasites include arranging houses and yards so that rain water will not wash from one to another, and draining marshy places and fil-ing holes in which water collects. It is desirable to rotate yards; one yard may be ploughed under and planted to green stuff when not in training holes in which water collects. It hour week the legal maximum. In France, the situation is some-what better, but the French are fru-gal and intensely patriotic people, and are practicing economy volun-

Remove and dispose of droppings frequently. It is dangerous to use chicken manure as fertilizer if it is spread where poultry have access to it or where small animal forms feed on it. Poultry houses and feeding and drinking utensils should be clean-ed and disinfected frequently. What we know as "hard times" is fully as prevalent, or more so, in Great Britain than here, and public finances are about as badly off as those of individuals. The treasury deficit for April is laid at between $200, 000,000 and $260,000,000, and public officials are clamoring for economy. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, the equivalent of our' Secretary of the

he was welcome to have the job. Next year, like here the financial situation in a public way, will be worse than now, owing to the pros-pects of a heavy fall in revenue, at the time when big obligations will come up, for payment, and unemploy-ment figures are apt to be worse than now. He disavows any drive to re-duce wages, or curtail employment, but asks what is to be done. This country shows no disposition to take warning from England's plight, but is going on with heavier demands on the treasury than ever before in the history of this country, and state legislative bodies are fol-lowing the same plan. Also, in Englowing the same plan. Also, in Eng-land as in this country, political par-ties are playing in the game for partisan effect. Economy in expenditures is the one thing that is unpopular. Increased revenue from taxation seems practically impossible in both countries, through loans and expen-ditures are encouraged.

Germany reports some 16,000,000 workers unemployed, and 4,000,000 occasionally employed. A number of schemes to remedy the situation, but none so far have succeeded. The latest plan is a 5-day week, with ob-The ligations on employees to pay for the total number of working hours lost. The Governmnt's decision has been made to put through this plan, but it intends first by negotiation to induce industry to accept it voluntarily. The Berlin metal industries took the lead yesterday by introducing a five-day week for 50,000 employes. Important, however, is the fact that if industry refuses to accept it the Government is prepared to make the plan effective by legislation, and to this end the Ministry of Labor al-ready has worked out and perfected laws to make the five-day or forty-

AN APPEAL FOR SECOND HAND CLOTHES.

The National Red Cross has asked the Carroll County Chapter for sec-ond-hand clothes, for distribution in sections where the people are not only without food, but without sufficient clothes, to prevent suffering and sickness, that may result in death.

The request is for coats, suits, dresses, underwear, shoes, that are in wearable condition and will be of practical use for these destitute men, women and children. No evening clothes, high heel shoes, straw or stiff hats are needed.

In compliance with the request the Chapter has set apart Wednesday, February 25, as the date for receiving second-hand clothes at The Times Building, Westminster. Mrs. George Mather, secretary of the Chapter and Mather, secretary of the Chapter and others, will be on duty from 9:00 A. M. until 6:00 P. M., in Room No. 6, floor of Times Building, where all contributions of clothes should be delivered.

A NEW BASEBALL.

A new baseball has been adopted by the major leagues, mainly, the change consists of heavier and raised stitches on the ball. The change it is believed will benefit the pitchers by giving them easier control, and that it may operate against the heavy batters by decreasing its "flying" qualities. The ball will undoubtedly be .'deader," and is supposed not only to mean less safeties, but sharper curves and more "strike outs."

ENGLARS IN SWITZERLAND.

In oder to verify, in part, the cor-rectness of the published history of the Englar (Engler original) family, that Philip and Jacob, brothers, and Adam, an uncle, emigrated from Ap-penzell or St. Gallen Canton, in Switzerland, to this country in 1748, the Editor of The Record made inquiry through the American Legation at Berne, Switzerland, as to what is known, if anything, of the family at this time in either of the Cantons named, to which, the following reply was received this week. American Counsular Service

P. B. Englar The Carroll Record Co.

Taneytown, Md. Dear Sir:

The receipt is acknowledged of your letter of December 29, 1930, which was forwarded to this Consulate General for reply by the American Lega-tion at Berne. You ask whether the name Engler (or Englar) is still represented in Switzerland, and in par-ticular you refer to a Mr. Philip Englar (or Engler) who you say was born at Appenzell or St. Gallen in 1736.

Inquires have been addressed by this office to the Cantons of Appen-zell and St. Gallen. From Appenthis zell a reply has been received to the effect that a family of the name of Engler, of Hudwil, Ausser Rhoden, is at present living in "Freihof" Ap penzell, Switzerland. The authori Ap. ties at St. Gallen state that the name Engler is frequently met in with in that Canton, and that according to their registers the name is known in the districts of Herisau, Hundwil, Stein, Trogen and Sevelen, all in the Canton St. Gallen. They add that to enable inquiries to be made concerning a given per-son, full details would be required including the name of the home town of the person concerned.

Very Respectfully Yours, LEWIS W. HASKELL, American Consul General. (This reply verifies the claim that the original spelling of the family name is Engler, and that Englar, an anglicized form, must have been adopted in this country.—Ed.)

CONCERT AT BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE.

On Monday night, Feb. 23, at 7:30 o'clock in the Blue Ridge College auditorium, the first concert of the lar time, 8 o'clock, has been changed to 7:30 for this particular concert. Besides the faculty and students of the local music department, a number of accomplished musicians from Carroll County will appear. The visiting soloists will be Mary Mal-colm Hunter, contralto; Eleanor Ditman, soprano; Mary Leese Kroh, so prano, and Philip Royer, violinist, all of Westminster; Carolyn Bullock, pianist, of New Windsor, and Melba Messler, mezzo-soprano and Thelma Wimmer, violinist, both of Union Bridge

Mr. Royer and Mrs. Wimmer will play a violin duet and Mr. Fisher and Miss Bullock will play the "Beauti-ful Blue Danube" waltzes on two pianos. The public is cordially in-vited to attend this program. Admission will be free.

HOME-MAKERS' CLUB MEETS.

The Taneytown Home-makers' Club met on Friday, Feb. 13, with an at-tendance of 29 members and five visitors. Three new members were added: Mrs. Edward Morelock, Mrs. Clarence Naille and Miss Ruth Snider It was voted to give $5.00 to Red Cross for the national emergency, also a contribution to be given to "Child Welfare," later.

A most interesting and practical demonstration of the uses of dried fruits as desserts,marmalade, etc.,was given by Miss Slindee. An enjoyable recreation consisted of a vocol solo by Mrs. F. T. Elliot and a reading by Miss Ruth Stambaugh.

The deficit in the department, this year, is estimated at $100,000, said to be largely due to increased salaries, and more revenue seems to be imperative. As it is an "administration" proposition, increased rates are almost sure to be opposed in the Senate.

LARGE SIZED SALE BILLS.

The idea seems to prevail that the large sale bill is not much good for sale advertising. In our opinion it is worth more than ever, as buyers now come by auto twenty miles or more to sales in a very short time. These large bills should be posted then, a long way off from the locality of a sale. Most persons having sale have friends around the distant edges who will easily pay the additional cost of the large bills.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1931. WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

IN 1932.

We Americans are strong, to say the least, for honoring the great men in the country's history, and never seem to tire of it; and as a trait of National character not much is to be said against it, except that we may perhaps over do, at times even our good impulses. So, in February 1932, a year hence, we are going to stage an immense celebration of the 200th. anniversary of Washington's birth for which a publicity bureau started some months ago to boost.

Hundreds of monuments, statues and memorials of many kinds have in the pass 200 years been erected. Consistently, February 22 has been a National holiday. We have no less than 28 Washington cities and towns in this country, and 16 other places for which Washington is first in a two or three line name. How many public institutions may be named Washington, perhaps nobody knows, while literally millions of persons have Washington as part of their name. And even all of this only represents in small part the devotion of our country to its first Presidentlovingly known as the "Father" of our country.

We are great on celebrating centennials, bi-centennials and even ter-centennials, because we like it and like something expend our surplus of energy on, and to parade and brassband over. Without Washington and Lincoln we might not be as badly off for this exercise as we imagine, for we would simply replace them with others who have been eclipsed by the shadows of the two whom we can not too much honor, even though we might the more truly do it in our lives, rather than by mere ostentation.

The coming celebration is to be participated in by South and Central or give the money, why should we give it? And the worst of the situation is, that Red Cross appeals for the future are likely to be irreparably handicapped, and the natural voluntary spirit of aid from the whole people, in cases of world-wide or country-wide distress, has received a corresponding back-set.

IF ALL MEN WERE HONEST?

If all men were honest, the world would be so changed as hardly to be recognized. Criminality of all kinds comes from some form of dishonesty, though we do not commonly realize this fact, but call it by some other name. We say men murder, steal, defraud, commit perjury or arson, or any one of a long list of crimes; but if men are honest they will do none of these things.

We associate dishonesty, as a rule, evil consequences is almost beyond estimating. Men are bankrupt in many cases, because somebody other than themselves helped them into it, dishonestly. A common form of dishonesty is lying and deceit, which, if passed on, under sufficient plausibility, makes victims of innocent persons.

This world is full of erring Adams and Eves who would be living better lives, were it not for the dishonest Satans who infest the world and ply their plausible lying blandishments. The man who says he will do an honest promised thing, but at the same time knows he will not, deserves the severest punishment but does not get it—and often his false pretenses are in law mere breaches of trust. the chief blame being attached to the victim for not having known better.

EXPERIENCE AND ADVICE.

Henry Ford boasts that he never saved a cent until he was 40 years old, but invested all he made, in himself. This was a right enough policy for Henry, but not many men are as lucky as he was; so the average young fellow had better stick to a good bank as an investment place for savings, and not play too strong on "self."

Another very successful man-Andrew Carnegie-advised "put all of your eggs on one basket, then watch the basket."

But handing out one's experience as safe advice for all to follow, is dangerous business, for all men are not built alike, nor do they have chances alike, nor do the "breaks" always come their way. Most folks who succeed financially had better be mighty thankful for it, and not follow Solomon's job too extensively.

Some general rules do apply, of course. All should invest in themselves up to a certain point-getting an education, cultivating industry and America, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Ford or Carnegie to the extent of inhonesty, but not in following either vesting "everything in self" until 40 years old, nor in placing "all the eggs in one basket." Exceptions do not make rules with everybody, all of the time.

"Moral sanitation is certainly as much within the control of government by the people as physical san-itation. If it is legal to compel a man to screen his rain barrel and drain a pool in order to get rid of fever-infecting mosquitos, it is equal-ly within the power of the community to remove a source of spreading intoxication. The cry of "sumptuary legislation," however far it may apply to what is made for consumption in one's own home, is pure piffle when it seeks the opportunity of public barter. The "Pure Food and Drug Act" may not enable the police pow-er to invade a kitchen where sarsaparilla roots are being boiled to furnish medicine for spring fever, but it can regulate its sale. In the matter of alcoholic beverages, the right of a majority to outlaw the manufacture and sale of an intox-icant cannot be gainsaid. They need only to decide whether it is or is not only with financial transactions, and even in this field alone its trail of crimes it precipitates and the suffer-ing it causes outweigh the satisfaction a temperate use of it might of-fer. If it is not worth what it costs it can be forbidden the use of the channels of legitimate trade."

"We suggest that folk become more "country-minded." City per-City persons especially need to interpret the availability of intoxicants in terms of human beings and not in terms of abstract principles and of unknown der to show contempt of the law. built is a fair minded attitude toward , siasm to inflict pet theories on the your neighbor.

It's a well established general rule that when your neighbor prospers your chances to prosper increases. Also, when your neighbor is injured financially, you are injured with him. There are some exceptions to that rule-exceptions to all rules, but exceptions prove rather than disprove the general rule. When your neighbor is contented, and happy, your chances for the same blessing is increased, also the reverse.

The good book says no man liveth to himself and no man dieth unto himself. That's a better communitybuilding slogan than many of the modern ones. There will always be envy, strife, but let's not be guilty of manufacturing it. It breeds unhappiness.

superstate" where "real liberty is Mr. Hoover finds a timely text in the various plans for relief from the depression through which the Nation has been passing. In insisting that the chief efforts be made by local governmental and private charitable agencies, he has exemplified the principle just stated. He has sought to avoid "the opiates of Government charity and the stifling of our national spirit of mutual self-help." And there was never more need for the firm re-establishment of this cardinal American principle.—Phila. Ledger.

BRICKS AND GUNS.

The National Rifle Association points out that whenever an accidental firearm killing occurs there is an immediate demand on the part of reformers for laws to outlaw guns. However, whenever an automobile, an axe, a club, a brick or some other such common instrument is the cause of death, the voices of the reform element are still.

The automobile, the brick, the butcher knife, the axe and the rest have, of course, useful and innocent purposes. And so have the rifle or revolver. #### IN LINCOLN'S DAY AND NOW.

From the room in the White House in which Abraham Lincoln on January 1, 1863, signed the Emancipation Proclamation, President Hoover on Feb. 12, over the radio spoke on some present problems and tendencies in our national life which were equally vivid in the day and generation of his great predecessor. In Lincoln's time the dominant issue was that of States' rights. Today a paramount problem turns upon the relationship of the Federal Government to the States's duties and responsibilities. While Mr. Hoover recognizes that the central Government has assumed many new responsibilities since the Civil War and will probably be called upon to bear additional burdens, he As a rule country people and the asserts that there is an essential prin-agriultural sections of the United ciple at stake which should be mainasserts that there is an essential printained at all costs. Faced with 'unceasing agitation" that it shall accept new financial obligations and authority to regulate abuses and prosecute crime, the Federal Government must distinctly limit its responsibilities to supplementing action by the States and must not assume the major role. For "to do otherwise threatens the whole foundations of Eagle Building Association. local government, the very basis of self-government." Every shifting of local responsibilities to Washington, as Mr. Hoover points out, involves a surrender by a State or community to a "remote bureaucracy" which has no direct intertardiness in raising the amount, but the fight in Congress for a direct ap-propriation of $20,000,000 has had a great deal more to do with it. Even our most liberally inclined citizens are hardly to be censured for saying - "If the government is going to loan

FATTEN BROILERS BY USE OF PENS

Confine Fowls Two Weeks Before Marketing.

Many New Jersey poultrymen find that cockerels to be marketed as broilers can be pen fattened to advantage. Two weeks before they are marketed the broilers are confined to pens and fed a special fattening ration. The following ration has given good results in the state: One hundred pounds of corn meal; 50 pounds of wheat middlings; 50 pounds of ground heavy oats or ground oatmeal; 30 pounds of meat scrap.

This mash is mixed with water and fed to the broilers three times a day, all they will clean up in 15 to 20 minutes. When milk is available for mixing, the meat scrap should be omitted from the mash, advises the poultry department of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station. If semisolid buttermilk is used, dilute one part of it with three parts of water and then mix with mash. When powdered milk is used, substitute 30 pounds of it and omit the meat scrap. Water should be kept available for the hirds.

It is not advisable to market the broilers until they weigh two to two and a half pounds, says the poultry department.

Early Maturing Pullets

Usually Best Layers In every flock of growing chickens there are always some that grow faster than the others. Observations and experiments have shown that it is these early developing pullets that are the best ones to select for the laying flock. They will start laying sooner than the others and will keep it up longer, provided they are fed a good laying ration and are fed in such a way as to maintain body weight.

Occasionally some will develop sexually, that is, their combs will redden up and become large, and these birds will lay eggs. They may make this development at the expense of their body growth. Such birds should be given a little longer time to put on more growth and weight before expecting them to continue laying. This is done by cutting down the protein in the growing ration, cutting down the meat scrap to about 5 to 10 per cent, and feeding heavily of grain. Follow this procedure for about two weeks.

Preventing Instead of

Curing Poultry Ills A "cured" fowl is a menace to the poultry owner because, as a rule, the bird goes back into the laying flock and loses its identity. It continues to produce eggs or is mated to hens that are laying eggs to be hatched. The Large Pack Oatmeal, 29c chicks from these eggs will inherit the constitutional weakness that made the ancestor or ancestors susceptible to the disease.

For this reason, if no other, prevention is far better than cure. Birds which do not have the opportunity to become sick will produce greater returns than those that are kept under insanitary conditions and under improper methods of feeding and management.

Poultry Notes

ooooooooooooooooooooooooo

Nests should be easy to remove to facilitate cleaning.

* * *

Provide clean feed, clean quarters, clean ground, and start with clean chicks. . . .

Geese are naturally grazing fowls. They have been grown for many generations on pasture.

Washed eggs have proved unsafe for storage. Therefore nests, houses, and the place in front of the door should be kept clean and as dry as possible.

If the pullets are laying heavy and getting a little thin in flesh, they may need a little more grain.

Hatch heavy and medium breeds between February 20 and March 20; light breeds, March 20 to April 20. Do not hatch chicks after May 1. * * *

Speltz is not much used in poultry feeding. The reason for this is that it is hard to thresh clean and it has sharp points and the hull is very tough and difficult for the hens to digest.

. . . More than half the ability of a hen to lay a large number of eggs depends upon the breeding of her immediate male ancestors.

No matter how carefully the culls have been rejected, the good pullets will not lay profitably in poorly constructed houses.

During the past ten years poultry has been of increasing importance as a source of meat. The relative price of chickens has increased more than the price of eggs during this period.

Simple Explanation of

Youngster's Well-Being While the town of Arden was celebrating its thirtieth anniversary as a single-tax colony, old timers retold a story on Upton Sinclair, the writer, who at one time was a resident of the colony.

At that time he was writing diet articles for the magazines and trying out his theories on his son Davey. He boasted how well Davey was getting along on a diet of nuts and, as a matter of fact, Davey seemed to be getting along very well indeed.

Davey was a great demonstration of his father's theories, the proof of the pudding, as it were. Also, Davey was discretion itself. His noted father never guessed that always, at meal time, the lad dropped in at a neighbor's. He would gaze with wide; sad eyes

IN WORLD GROUNDED

Gilmore Grows Too Large to Fit in Airplane.

Los Angeles, Calif.-Gilmore, the only flying lion in the world, who has traveled 25,000 miles by air in the last nine months-is on the ground for

He took his last ride from United airport here recently with his master, Lieut. Col. Roscoe Turner, in the Gilmore Lockheed monoplane which practically has been his "home" since he was four weeks of age.

When Turner "adopted" Gilmore the animal was a furry little cub, barely tipping the scales at 17 pounds.

But he is almost full grown now-125 pounds of African llon, with the start of a mane, growl and all.

His size, however, is all that cut short his air career. Turner points out Gilmore's disposition is remarkable and at the age of ten months he still allows strangers to pet him and is as playful as when he used to take nourishment from a bottle instead of indulging in his present diet of six pounds of fresh meat daily.

Has Special Arena.

Just because he is going to lose his place as Turner's air mascot does not mean that Gilmore is to be relegated to an ordinary cage on a lion farm or in a circus.

A special arena, playground, house and all, has been completed for him at a cost of $2,300 at the corner of Fairfax avenue and Beverly boulevard.

"It's going to be as tough on me as on Gilmore-his having to give up flying," Turner declared.

"I have become attached to him. He has been a model air passenger and I'll miss him plenty, particularly on long solo flights. He has hardly been out of my sight during the time I have had him. He still minds, is as affectionate as ever and only his size is against him."

Has Special Chute.

Among Gilmore's most noted flights were the transcontinental hops of last May, in which Turner piloted the Lockheed to a new east-west record, and the nonstop air race from here to the Chicago national air races last September.

On these and many other trips Gilmore wore a special parachute which Turner could have opened preparatory to dropping him overboard had the occasion arisen for a midair escape.

Gilmore has been a "guest" in practically every major hotel in the country, and some in Canada and Mexico, during his travels with his master. He stayed in Turner's room, ate choice steaks and, so to speak, has had a lion's share of thrills and happiness during his short life. He was born at Goebel's Lion farm. His mother is named Queen and his father Andy, who recently was poisoned.

From now on Gilmore will have plenty of time to rest in his special home, but he is "grounded" for keeps and will only be able to cast an envious eye as swift craft skimming overhead to recall the days when he was in his way a hero of the skies.

NOT only as a healthful and de-licious fruit, but also as an important flavoring agent, the orange deserves a prominent place in the cuisine. This latter use of the orange is not so well known as it deserves to be, but along with limes and tangerines, the orange

Odd Rites to Overcome

Spite Work of Fairies

"A generation ago Shetlanders were extremely superstitions," writes a contributor to a London weekly paper. "They believed firmly that fairies existed, on the whole friendly to mortals, yet quick to punish any slight, the punishment being usually some ailment. Once, when a child, I ceased to thrive, and a servant persuaded my parents to take me to her home for a change. There was a concealed purpose, however. She believed that the fairies, having some grievance against our house, had stolen my heart, and near her home was a wise woman who held the secret of working cures when anyone was 'hurt from the hills.' "The details of the rites used are forgotten, but the main features are vital. A lock of my hair was put into a Bible, which was placed on my head, on the Bible was set a dish of water into which, through the scissors already used, molten lead was poured. A piece of this lead shaped like a heart was selected, and blessed, and each morning part of it was scraped into my porridge. Thus the stoten heart was supposed to be restored. It must have worked in my case, as I have reached a hale old age."

Precocity, or Coaching? There are in existence but the most meager threads of information conerning the youth of Francis Bacon. To to his thirty-first year there is correly one fact of his life which is of importance to a biographer.

Upon one occasion Sir Nicholas Is said to have taken Francis to court and presented him to the queen. Elizaeth fondled his hair, called him "my young lord keeper," and asked him his age. To this question the child enswered, "Just two years younger than your majesty's happy reign!" To some biographers this precocious reply has seemed a prophecy of Francis Bacon's later skill at flattering royalty; to others, however, it seems but a tribute to the coaching abilities of Sir Nicholas .- From "Sir Francis Bacon," by Byron Steel.

Cold Weather Freezes Up Pet Turtle's Neck

Ely, Nev. - After withstanding weather extremities for 500 years, a turtle owned by Roy Rigsby just got too cold and froze up.

Old age may have something to do with it, but when Rigsby went out to feed his pet one morning he couldn't find its head. He turned the turtle on its back and found the wrinkles on the head projection apparatus frozen tight in perfect accordion plaits.

He placed his pet in an oven to thaw out and shipped it to a southern Nevada ranch, where turtle care and comfort is a specialty.

MYSTERY OF "MAN IN IRON MASK" SOLVED

Name on Dungeon Walls Establishes Identity.

Cannes, French Riviera .- The tiny island off the coast here on which the man in the iron mask was kept prisoner, the Ile Sainte-Marguerite, has been classed by government archeological authorities as a historic site. Simultaneously comes announcement that the 300 years' mystery of the masked man has been solved.

In the Sixteenth century, the island was strongly fortified. Under the great Cardinal Richelieu it had been built into a formidable little fortress, but the century following it was used mainly for certain political prisoners.

Toward the end of the Seventeenth century the man in the iron mask was brought there. He arrived late one night in a tiny row boat, and was lodged in one of the dungeons. His identity no one knew, but it was whispered that he was the twin brother of King Louis XIV.

Mask Was of Velvet.

All during the time he remained on the island he wore this heavy mask, variously stated to have been made of iron and steel, but which is now established to have been of velvet. As mysteriously as he arrived, he was taken away, to be lodged in the bastille in Paris, where he died in 1703.

Search among the ruins of the fort on the Island of St. Marguerite is now stated to have revealed scratchings on one of the dungeon walls in the form of the name "Mattioli." This fits in with earlier clews and seems to provide the solution to the enigma, sought during centuries.

A mask was placed over his features in order to keep his identity secret from the public. Thus disguised he was taken to the chateau of Pignerol. Thence he was transferred March 19, 1694, to the dungeon of St. Marguerite. He remained there two years, being removed in September, 1696, to the bastille.

According to Voltaire, the mystery man was undoubtedly the brother of Louis XIV, but it is now conclusive that he was the secretary of state of Charles IV of Lorraine, Mattioli. Having betrayed the confidence of Louis XIV, Mattioli was arrested by surprise on Louis' order. This was May 2, 1679.

Visited by Thousands.

Thousands of tourists annually cross the short stretch of water from Cannes to visit the island prison of the man in the iron mask, and it is because of fear of desecration of the place that the island has been officially classed among France's historic spots.

The island at another epoch held another famous prisoner, the Marshal Bazaine, who was alleged to have betrayed his country in the Franco-Prussian war in delivering up Metz to the Germans. He was condemned to death in 1873; the sentence was commuted and he was sent as prisoner to the island. He escaped to Spain, where he died.

INVENTOR OF BOMB TURNS TO BULBS

Mills' Story Forms Interesting Bit of History.

London.-In a beautiful garden on the French Riviera, Sir William Mills, inventor, is forgetting the World war, whose horrors were multiplied by the bomb his brilliant brain devised.

More than 75,000,000 Mills bombs were used during the war and military authorities said their effectiveness threatened to replace the rifle. However, the seventy-four-year-old inventor got little but thanks and a knighthood for his work. He maintains he lost money through his invention.

The story of the bombmaker is an interesting one. In April, 1915, after he had spent thousands of dollars in experimental work, government experts were convinced of the effectiveness of the bomb and ordered 50,000 supplied quickly. By working day and night Mills was able to deliver 8,000 the following month.

In 1921 Mills asked one English penny for each of the 75,000,000 used as a commercial royalty, but the royal commission on awards to inventors granted him approximately $138,000.

Two years ago, in contesting a tax action by the government, Mills said he had been given orders for the manufacture of only 4,000,000 of the bombs, from which he derived a net profit of $390,485. On this amount he paid an income tax of $80,265 and an excess profits tax of $365,710, leaving an excess of taxes over profits of $57.490 and in addition was paying a supertax of $50,000

The master of rolls expressed his sympathy with Mills' predicament, but said sympathy could not affect the question of law and Mills was ordered to pay.

The change from bombs to bulbs was an easy one for the inventor, who has maintained an interest in floriculture for years. He is a collector of art and books, of which he has an extensive knowledge.

To Divide Five Pups Is Odd Issue Up to Jurist

San Francisco.-The judge who hears the divorce suit of Mrs. May Ellen Bruton will have to be a Solomon. He's going to be obliged to divide five pups between two persons. The five small fox terriers were named as community property by Mrs. Bruton in her suit for divorce filed by Attorney S. M. Modry.

Mrs. Bruton charged Arthur J. Bruton, a roofer, with cruelty. He falsely accused her of associating with other men, was jealous, and failed to provide for her, she claimed. Also, he made her nervous when they went automobile riding, by driving too fast and cutting in, she says.

The Brutons were married October 6, 1928, in Reno, and separated September 18, 1930. The plaintiff asks a divorce and half the community property, which consists of furniture and automobiles-and the five pups.

GUSHERS DWARF ALASKAN GOLD

Oklahoma City Faces Serious Problems as Oil Wells Dot City.

Oklahoma City. - A southwestern metropolis which 41 years ago was virgin prairie has, within the brief period of two years, become the Klondike of the oil industry.

Oil from hundreds of gushers, many of which stand shoulder to shoulder with warehouses, schools, and residences, has made Oklahoma City possessor of untold potential wealth, dwarfing that of the fabulous Alaskan gold region.

The old era-that of a rather unwieldy country town, the product of old pioneer toil-passed on December 4, 1928. At that time a crowd gathered at the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company's No. 1 fee well four miles southeast of the city saw a dark brown column rise high over the derrick from a 6,500 foot hole in the ground.

It was the signal for transforming the city into a metropolis, the beckoning call of riches only a small portion of which have been realized.

Intense Development.

So intense has been the development that oil has encroached upon the plans of the city builders. When the two recent wild gushers, the Mary Sudik and the Morgan-Stout, showered the city with highly inflammable crude petroleum, endangering the lives of thousands, the parallel was drawn of the Frankenstein of fable that threatened to destroy its creator.

The field has extended until at least one-eighth of the 19,425 acres within the corporate limits has been leased or prospected for oil development. The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company, a Cities Service subsidlary, set the pace for the first year of development. It was paced by Wirt

Franklin and the late Tom Slick, independent oil operators. Gains National Prominene.

By the first of the year the field, gaining national prominence, brought swarms of oil men and promoters. The "proven" territory crept closer to the city.

Residents in the southern part of the city saw 122 foot steel derricks edging along the industrial section comprised of sheet iron oil field supply warehouses

Seized with the hysteria of possible overnight wealth, these citizens razed their modest homes, organized town lot blocks, and formed companies with the aid of shrewd promoters.

Today 80 wells are drilling within the city limits. Some of the field's largest producers, flowing as high as 110,000 barrels of oil daily, the largest high gravity wells in the world, and a gasser making 340,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, stand at the city's doorstep.

New civic problems have developed and are being solved daily. However, the ban on drilling remains the most problem of the city. Zoning laws and

BIG BLUE-WHITE DIAMOND

Rio de Janeiro.-A magnificent bluewhite diamond weighing 51 carats has been found accidentally by a poor field worker near the village of Balisa, State of Goyaz, who, ignorant of its value, sold it for less than $10,000 to some wealthy farmers of the Araguaya river diamond district. The stone later was resold to a diamond merchant here, its price not being disclosed. It was cut in two sizes, the largest one weighing 20 carats, the small 10 carats. Since the first diamonds were discovered in 1725, near the present city of Diamantina, Brazilian mines have yielded numerous matchless stones. It was the discovery of diamonds and of other precious minerals, in Brazil, that induced the King of Portugal to raise Brazil to the rank of viceroyship, a form of government that lasted until it became a kingdom in 1815. Up to that time the Portuguese monarchs had paid little attention to their South American colony, thinking it had no mineral wealth whatever, all their colonizing effort being devoted to the possessions they had in India at the time. The marvelous crown stone of Portugal, known as the Braganza, also was discovered in Brazil, on the slopes of the Itambe mountains, state of Minas Geraes. It has the fabulous weight of 1,680 carats. The famous 'Star of the South," which weighs 1251/2 carats and which belongs to the Gaekwar of Baroda, was discovered in the Bagagem diamond district, and weighed 2551/2 carats before cutting. It is valued at more than $100,000. Among the most important recent discoveries, the matchless pink diamond, "Southern Cross," stands out. The purchasers of this stone, a Rio de Janeiro firm, say it is the largest pink diamond in the world. It was found July, 1929, in the Abaete river diamond district, Minas Geraes, and weighs 118 carats, when cut it will weigh more than 20 carats.

Musk Oxen Herd to Find

Home in Alaskan Wilds New York .- Musk oxen, the strange creatures which make their home in the northernmost part of Greenland, are soon to try the life of Alaskan pioneers in one of the most ambitious of all game stocking experiments. Thirty-four of these bison-like animals, valued both as noble game animals and as a food source, were captured last summer in Greenland, and after a 5,000-mile journey in crates have been landed at Fairbanks, Alaska, the United States biological survey has informed the American Game Protective association.

These 34 animals will form the nucleus of a herd with which it is hoped to stock the Alaska barrens, for it is believed that the animals will thrive in their new surroundings. For the present they are confined for study in a 40-acre enclosure at the agricultural college experiment station at College,

There are some things to support such a theory, not the least being the fact that even a convict in solitary confinement can have an exceedingly long arm if he is plotting revenge.

SWEDE INVENTS NEW WORLD TONGUE BASED ON ENGLISH

"Anglic" Uses Simplified Spelling; Students Read, Speak It After Twenty Lessons.

Stockholm, Sweden .- A new world language called "Anglic," based on modern English but in simplified spelling, has been launched by a Swedish professor, R. E. Zachrison, of Upsula university.

Th advocates of this manner of expression, who include a number of spelling reformers in the United States and Great Britain, claim that "Anglic" has an excellent chance of becoming the dominating world language of the future.

Teaching experiments conducted by Professor Zachrison and started immediately following the publication of his linguistic system a few months ago are reported to have given successful results. Professor Zachrison's students were reported able to read and converse readily in his "reformed" English after a course in "Anglic." They took twenty lessons of ninety minutes each.

Experiments were said to have shown that the students who previously had no knowledge of the English language had almost no difficulty in reading English books even in ordinary spelling. Representatives of the Swedish state school board who controlled the final examinations expressed surprise as to the rapid progress achieved in these first teaching experiments in "Anglic."

All sounds in "Anglic," as a rule, are represented by a single symbol in letters. While the "i" sound in ordinary English is expressed by a variety of letters or combinations of letters, this sound in "Anglic" is invariably expressed by the letters "ei." The statisticians showed that the most frequent combination of letters for this sound in common English was "ei."

Porto Rico Finds English Prefer Small Grapefruit

San Juan, P. R.-Between the American and English markets Porto Rican grapefruit growers are able to seal their products regardless of size, one of the island's leading fruit men reports. American buyers demand a good-sized fruit which when halved makes a satisfactory juicy breakfast course. Anything else is contemptuously branded undersized and passed by.

The English, on the other hand, prefer the smaller fruit, and their preference is decided that they are willing to pay much more a box for their choice than are the Americans for the larger product. Because of what, from the American point of view, is an oddity of taste on the part of the British, from 15 to 20 per cent of the island grapefruit crop would otherwise be thrown aside, finds a profitable market.

Bum Rodgers could be found? Texas Sportsmen Led U. S. in Paying Farmer New York .- Since sportsmen and conservationists recently adopted a national policy of paying farmers for raising and protecting game on their property, eyes of the hunting world have turned toward the land of the cowboy and cattle-Texas. That state got the jump on the rest of the country and has already established a wellworking system in which hunters compensate landowners for shooting privileges. Many landowners made more out of their game crops last year than on cotton or cattle in Texas and gameconscious farmers as well as game birds and animals have shown a large increase every year, according to reports sent to the American Game Protective association by J. G. Burr. director of research of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission.

Shanghai .- "Superstitious and unlawful organizations" of Chinese farmers and peasants have come under ban of the national government.

Such organizations include those for the purpose of making periodical sacrifices to the spirits and the Red and White Spear societies.

While the religious and superstitious groups are not for the most part harmful the Red Spear organizations in particular have developed into close knit peasant militia at some points and the government finds them hard to control.

The government announcement says that secret organizations have been taken advantage of "by persons with ulterior motives who utilize them to further their own sinister ends."

Find Gold Nugget in California Hen's Craw

Los Angeles .-- Somewhere nearby a rancher is raising chickens on feed worth its weight in gold-whether he knows it or not.

For Donie Kuykendall of this city while dressing a chicken found a nugget of gold in its craw.

The fowl came from a meat store on San Francisco road. The nugget was nearly as large as a pea, according to Kuykendall.

Cat Came 600 Miles

Pittsburgh, Calif .-- Tony Melrose banished his cat, Peggy, to Eugene, Ore., when she developed a fondness for canaries, but the other day Peggy came wandering home, having made the 600-mile journey from Eugene here by foot. The feat is considered a remarkable one as a mountain range lies between Pittsburgh and the Oregon city.

Cactus of Arizona

Bears Good Fruits Coolidge, Ariz.-The giant Sahuaro and organ pipe cacti and the smaller organ pipe or pitahaya cactus of Arizona produce a good crop of delicious fruits used for centuries by the Indians for sirups, conserves and dried food.

They bear fruit even after three years a streme drought.

Glasgow .- The story of the Garden of Eden will in future be omitted from the religious teaching given to pupils on the elementary schools here. Stories dealing with Noah and the flood, the sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham, and other Old Testament subjects also are to be banned as unsuitable for young children. They will be given instead a simple story based on the life of Christ. It is to be told sympathetically and left to make its own impression. The narrative of the fall of Adam and Eve is to be omitted from the teaching of junior pupils. Senior pupils will be taught the story of Jesus as a hero, then as a friend, and finally as the Saviour.

The new teaching is based on the revised code agreed between the Church of Scotland and the Educational institute of Scotland.

University Builds Model

High School for Students Columbus, Ohio.-A model high school, which will employ the newest methods in efficient instruction and will embody an economical arrangement of classrooms, laboratories and offices, is being built on the campus of Ohio State university for $450,000. The news building will be a teachers' training school and an experimental plant. It will offer high school and preparatory instruction to 450 pupils. assuring them the most advanced principles of scientific teaching. It will be completed by January 1, 1932.

Halve Diamond Output to Maintain Price Level

Paris .-- The chief diamond producers of the world agreed to cut their output in half to maintain the existing price level.

The decision was reached at Amsterdam recently by the international diamond commission and was ratified by the Amsterdam Diamond association. Hereafter diamond cutters will work only one week out of two.

Poor Girl Wins Sight and Music From Duce

Pola, Italy.-Maria Rinoselli's life dream has come true, because she had the courage to write a letter to Mussolini

Maria, who is twenty years old, was born blind, but to offset her affliction she had a natural gift for the piano. An operation would give her sight, but her family, poor people, could not afford it any more than they could afford to buy her a piano. She wrote the Duce, asking his aid.

In return, Mussolini sent her money for the operation, which was successful, and enough extra to buy the piano she had always wanted.

Highway Officer Aids Hotel for Unemployed

Seattle, Wash .- Their "hotel for wandering unemployed" is far from an elegant roadside inn, but Highway Patrolman Earl Ramage and the proprietors of a highway grocery and garage feel that they are doing their bit. Ramage, during his trips along the highway north of here, directs forlorn job seekers to the "hotel," a vacant house near the grocery store. There the men are provided with axes to cut wood for their fires, and food is furnished by the store. Ramage and the grocery store and garage proprietors split the cost of supplies.

Colorado Springs, Colo .-- Foresters at the Freemont station of the United States Forest service on Mount Manitou in the vicinity of Pike's Peak have declared war on porcupines, and have been armed with clubs with which to exterminate the pesky nuisances. Porcupines have been raising havoc with newly replanted forests in the region, and it is in hopes of protecting the tender young trees that the foresters have been armed. One man has been detailed to fight porcupines with poison in the Pike forest. Deer are also reported to be doing

Niagara River Foghorn Ends Work for Season

Buffalo, N. Y .--- Buffalonians may sleep easier through the winter. The Niagara river foghorn, whose deep and persistent "um-pah" has distracted residents many miles from the river during the season's Lake Erie traffic, has been put to bed with the closing of the shipping season. The good news is not permanent, however. Roscoe House, superintendent of the federal lighthouse service in this district, aunounced that the horn would be polished up and ready for use when the first boat steams

Dry Lake May Flood San Joaquin Valley

Corcoran, Calif. - Tulare lake, marked on many maps as permanently dry, may again come back and flood the 750 square miles of the San Joaquin valley it once covered.

C. E. Grunsky, government engineer, is the authority for that prediction. The lake was alternately dry and full for several decades until lately when it has been dry most of every year.

Grunsky points out that studies of trees and other natural records show the lake has covered as much as 750 square miles many times, and once covered 800 square miles. For periods of as long as half a century the lake has averaged 350 square miles in area and for equal periods it has been practically dry, he points out.

Tulare lake bottom for the last half century has proven one of the most fertile large areas devoted to wheat in the United States.

Church Weddings Losing

Popularity in London London .- Church marriages are losing in popularity in England, according to latest figures of the registrar general.

In five years, religious ceremonies have declined 19 per 1,000 and the number of civil marriages has increased proportionately. In London one marriage in every three is contracted outside the church.

Northern brides evidently still like the church, for in Lanchashire and Cheshire only one marriage in six is purely civil. There was a total of 42.316 marriages in London last year; 27.601 of them were religious.

Thus the mosquito, which has never relieved anything-except monotony, perhaps-before, is serving to relieve unemployment in times when relieving unemployment is equivalent to a war-time contribution to the government's coffers.

The Department of Agriculture of Massachusetts reveals this latest development in the mosquito's history, in a bulletin reviewing the progress made thus far in the campaign to eliminate mosquitoes from the Cape by drainage of their breeding places.

Children of Jobless

Hijacking Mates' Lunch Sandusky, Ohio.-Hijacking methods of school children caused by the unemployment of their parents were disclosed recently in the warning of County Probation Officer Hal Delamathe that offenders will be prosecuted.

Delamathe revealed he had received complaints from parents that their children were being waylaid and their lunch boxes seized by boys who explained their lunch pails were empty and their fathers out of work.

Most of the offenders were generous in dividing the spoils with their victims, the probation officer said.

Nicotine in Tobacco

The quantity of nicotine contained in tobacco varies from 2 to 8 per cent, the coarser kinds containing the larger quantity, while the best Havana cigars seldom contain more than 2 per cent, and often less. Nicotine does not appear in tobacco smoke. It is split into pyridine and cellodine. Of these the latter is said to be the less active, and to preponderate in cigar smoke, while the smoke from pipes contains a larger amount of pyridine. The percentage of nicotine varies with the kind of tobacco and with the district in which it is grown.

GOLDEN TEXT-And it came to pass afterward, that he went throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the king-dom of God: and the twelve were with her the twelve were Queen Charlotte Sophia, wife of King George III of England, was so fond of snuff that she was the principal cause of making it fashionable, wrote Rees Howell Gronow in "Recol-PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaching About God. "I recollect having seen her majesty on the terrace at Windsor, walking with the king, when, to the great delight of the Eton boys, she applied her finger and thumb to her gold snuff-box, out of which her majesty appeared to have fished a considerable quantity, for the royal nose was covered with snuff."

Parade of Mighty Midgets

As numerous and small as are the molecules, they are not a circumstance to the atom; and the atoms in turn are far outnumbered by the electrons. Take an ordinary 25-watt incandescent lamp and let us visualize for you, if we can, the number of electrons that must pass through the filament of that lamp every second to provide the necessary current. First let us imagine each electron enlarged to the size of a raindrop, about two-tenths of an inch in diameter. Then imagine the electrons extending in a row, one behind the other, and a thousand rows placed side by side, so that they would pass before us, like an army, a thousand abreast, it would reach from the earth to the sun 25 times.

Odd Oriental Tastes

Koreans, like many Orientals, live mostly on rice. They cook their seaweed in oil and serve it with slices of red peppers. Kimshee, a kind of sauerkraut, is a favorite Korean dish. To the north, the natives of Kamchatka relish the tongues and the marrow of the bones of reindeer, but the piece-de-resistance is the meat of unborn fawns. From the stomach of the reindeer the natives obtain their greens-half-digested balls of moss. A delectable native dish is reindeer sausage which has been surrounded by dough and dropped in boiling water. Boiled fish eggs are considered a delicacy.-Exchange.

Canadian Playground

North of the great fertile belt devoted to agriculture there lies in the province of Saskatchewan a region of rocks, woods and water which seems almost to have been formed by nature as a special playground for man. Here are found thousands of crystal lakes. White birch, jack pine and white spruce grow here to unusual size and

High Ideals Sought in

Principles of Bahaism The religious sect known as Bahaism originated in Persia in 1844. The first prophet was Ali Mohammed, or the Bab. Hosein Ali was the first adherent of the Bab and later announced himself as the one Bab foretold. He became known as Baha'u'llah. He died in 1892, and before his departure named his oldest son, Abdul Baha Abbas, interpreter of his text and the center of his covenant. He passed away November 28, 1921, and in his will designated his grandson, Shoghi Effendi, guardian of the cause. The general principles of the Bahais founded upon the teachings of Baha-'u'llah are: The oneness of mankind; the independent investigation of truth: the foundation of all religions is one; religion must be the cause of unity; religion must be in accord with science and reason; equality between man and woman; prejudice of all kinds must be forgotten; universal peace; universal education; solution of the economic problem; a universal language; an international tribunal. The Bahais believe in the essential necessity of the intermediation of the Messianic principle, or the holy spirit, in the life of humanity.

Stevenson's Tribute to

Civil Autograph Hunter In "Word Shadows of the Great," Thomas F. Madigan tells of a lucky man who received this charming letter from Robert Louis Stevenson, then living in Samoa, to whom he had written, asking for his autograph:

"For the one civil autograph collector, Charles R.:

"You have sent me a slip to write on; you have sent me an addressed envelope; you have sent it to me stamped; many have done as much LOUIS STEVENSON."

Bad All Round

Apropos of Prime Minister MacDonald's efforts to secure a world peace, a prominent manufacturer said at a meeting of the Society for Universal Peace in Pittsburgh:

"We should all lend a hand in this peace movement. We should do so not only to prevent our young men from being sacrificed, but also for our own benefit.

"Warring nations," he continued, "suffer in lives lost. We suffer in our business, our pocketbooks, and, by consequence we suffer, too, in all our luxuries and conveniences.

Sealskin Production

Sealskin is obtained by dressing, which necessitates the removal of the coarse water hairs which grow beyond the fur. It is accomplished by shaving down the flesh side of the skin to cut off the roots of the hair, which grow deeper than the fur. The hairs are then pulled out, and the fur, originally a rusty brown, is dyed black. the process requiring seven dippings. Both these processes are trade secrets. and they require great care and skill. Experienced and successful work at once doubles the value of the skin.

Cintra the Beautiful

Cintra lies at the foot of steep wooded hills and is one of the most beautiful and historic spots in Portugal. Byron wrote of Cintra: "If there be any place in the world entitled to the appellation of an enchanted region, it is surely Cintra; Tivoli is a beautiful and picturesque place, but it quickly fades from the mind of those who have seen the Portuguese paradise. When speaking of Cintra, it must not for a moment be supposed that nothing more is meant than the little town or city; by Cintra must be understood the entire region, town, palace, quintas, forests, crags, Moorish ruin which suddenly burst on the view on rounding the side of a bleak, savage and sterile-looking mountain. The other side is a mingled scene of fairy beauty, artificial elegance, savage grandeur, domes, turrets, enormous trees, flowers and waterfalls, such as is met with nowhere else beneath the sun."

"Dizzy" and His London

All lovers of the primrose will want to see something of Lord Beaconsfield when they are in London. Disraeli's statue is in Parliament square and like other famous men he has many hirthplaces. No. 22 Theobald's road, Bloomsbury, seems to have the best tradition. He worked at 6 Frederick place, Old Jewry, four years before he startled the world with his "Vivian Grey." Then he lived at 29 Park lane. opposite Grosvenor gate, until 1872 where he wrote "Coningsby" and made his climb to political power. Later he lived at 2 Whitehall gardens. His last London home was at 19 Curzon street, where he died, and where, 'tis said, he gently declined to see Queen Victoria because "she only wants me to give a message to the prince consort."

Dutch Water Village

No traveler knows Holland unless he has seen at least one water village. One of the loveliest is Aalsmeer-famous also for the box trees grown there. Aalsmeer consists of one long, straight village street-in fact, no more than a towing path-with a canal on either side. Small swing bridges connect the houses with the path, and many of them are entirely encircled by water, each one solltary, picturesque and prosperous. The villagers propel their barges by means of a pole when they take to market cargoes of delicious strawberries and curiously shaped box trees. They are cut into the shapes of men and animals-looking just as if some enchanter had turned a whole menagerie into box trees.

Simple Old Method of

Evading Penalty of Sin Every one unacquainted with old English customs is interested by the story of the Sin-eater in Mary Webb's novel, "Precious Bane." Sin-eaters did not constitute a religious sect. They were employed in some counties of England and in Wales in connection with funeral rites. Their office was to eat bread and drink ale which had been placed on the bier. and thus symbolically take upon themselves the sins committed by the deceased person. Having done this, the sin-eater pronounced the "ease and rest" of the dead person and asserted that to procure this he had pawned his own soul. There were not wanting men to perform this rash office, but it was not so rash as might appear; for the sin-eater could see to it that the same means of acquiring impunity was invoked for him at his decease, so that no matter what accumulation of sin he had made himself responsible for, the whole burden would be lifted by a subsequent sin-eater. The custom seems to have lingered in Wales until the forties of last century .- Montreal Family Herald.

Ancient Stockings

At Vienna, among the earliest coronation robes of the emperor, are a fine pair of Thirteenth-century stockings which were made for William II of Sicily. They are made of red damask in two parts, the foot and leg being joined. The leg is embroidered and the foot portions are made of plain material.

The inventories of St. Paul's in London mention Thirteenth-century stockings embroidered with roses, eagles. lions, and in the upper part, wine leaves. In museums in England. France, Germany, Italy and Hungary, many royal and pontifical stockings of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries are exhibited.

Wool From Camel

Camel's hair is a textile material made of hairlike wool from a camel, generally light brown in color. The value depends upon the quality of the fibers. A good grade is very light and soft. The cloth is usually twill. The finer underhair of the camel is about one inch long and is soft and silky. The long, coarse hairs from the camel are three-fourths of an inch long. In the shearing process they cannot be separated and are baled and exported In a mixed condition. When spun the hairs are sometimes separated but more often are woven together, giving the material the rough, shaggy appearance.-Washington Star.

lives are fruitless because of being preoccupied with earthly cares, riches, and the pleasures of life (v. 14).

d. The good ground (v. 8). The seed here sprang up and bore fruit to the full measure. This is a picture of the honest heart which receives the gospel message and allows it to produce in its life a full harvest of grain (v. 15).

2. By the lighted candle (vv. 16-18). The Word of God is compared to a lamp or lighted candle. A lamp is of use only as it sends out light. One who hears God's Word and does not witness for Christ is as a lamp covered up.

8. Kinship with Jesus Christ (vv. 19, 20). Only those who receive the message of God's Word and render glad obedience to it can claim relationship with Christ.

VI. Jesus Performing Wonders (vv. 22-40).

1. Calming the storm (vv. 22-25). Jesus fell asleep while the disciples were sailing the ship. They were overtaken by an unusual storm and were affrighted. In response to their cry of distress Jesus arose and rebuked the storm, and likewise the disciples.

2. Casting out demons (vv. 26-39). When Jesus came into the country of the Gadarenes he was met by a demon-possessed man. Knowing their doom, the demons requested permission to enter a herd of swine. Jesus granted their request, after which the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake. The effect upon the people was such that they besought Jesus to depart from them. The salvation of this man from demon possession ought to have awakened gratitude on the part of the people. The delivered man desired to be with the Lord. His request was refused because it was more important for him to make known to his friends at home the great deliverance which had come to him.

Only One Deliverer

No one into whose soul the iron of sin's bondage has entered can free either himself or others. Our emancipator must be one who is in fullest. uninterrupted communion with the Father, and comes, armed with his power, to break every yoke and bring liberty to the captives.-Alexander Maclaren.

Pickerel, pike and gray trout are plentiful in the lakes and streams while moose, deer, bear and many species of game birds abound. A typical example of this region is Prince AL bert national park. It was set aside in 1928.

Molde, Honeysuckle Town

Molde is one of the most beautiful of Norwegian summer resorts with about 3,000 inhabitants. Its gentle beauty and coloring, its windsheltering rocks make its vegetation luxuriant. Although farther north than Russian Leningrad, its honeysuckle, roses and other flowers are famous. Its fjord is wide and dotted with great numbers of fir-clad islands and the view of the town from the water is very pleasing. Many visit the town to see Axel Ender's famous altar painting, "The Women at the Sepulcher," which has been reproduced on Easter gift cards all over the world.

Nothing

At a trial in a fraud case in an adjoining county to Indianapolis the receiver of the company in the case was asked by counsel to state in as few words as possible what the company had, what he sold and what he received as receiver.

"Well," he said, "they had nothing, 1 sold nothing, I got nothing."

Stage Tragedies

The word "tragedy" is from Greek words meaning goat songs. There are many explanations of the reason for this. Possibly "goat songs" was applied to the chants used by the men. clothed in goatskin, who represented the saturs in the festival of Bacchus. Tragedy took its rise from these songs. The Greek developed it to a high point, especially in the dramas of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides. Aristotle gave as the reason for the existence of tragedy "the purification of the passions through the arousing of fear and pity."

Revised Version

Twelve years ago a certain author announced that it was his wife's brains, not her beauty, that attracted him. "But now," he writes, "after twelve years of marriage, I imagine it must have been her beauty, because I don't see the brains." - Collier's Weekly.

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

BY EDWIN F. HILL

A new use has been found for gold, platinum, and silver. Each of the millions of Bell telephones contain these precious metals. It has been found that gold. platinum and silver. although high in initial cost. are inexpensive over a long period, as

Edwin F. Hill they resist erosion due to electrical and mechanical action, which in time would prevent telephone equipment from functioning properly

Telephone users in this country now make about 83,000,000 calls daily. When the telephone receiver is lifted from its hook, two springs come together until their points make contact and establish a circuit to the central office. Gold is one of the metals out of which the contact points of these springs are made, the others being platinum and silver.

Platinum wires conduct the current into the glass globes and thus light the filaments of the almost numberless electric signal lamps used on telephone switchboards. Platinum is used for this purpose because it expands and contracts, when subjected to temperature changes, at the same rate as does the glass in which the wires are imbedded. Wires of other materials might shrink away from the glass and destroy the usefulness of the bulb by permitting air to enter its vacuum

These metals are also employed in making contact points of the thousands of relays, or electrically controlled switches, used on equipment throughout the Bell Telephone System.

The siren has had enough try-outs, and now when it sounds it should actually mean a fire —an official alarm. An alarm was again sounded at 11:00 o'clock, Wed-nesday night, due to a fire in the working shop of Dilly Mort, at Har-ney, but before the Company laft ney, but before the Company left town word was received that the fire was under control.

Come To Taneytown!

TANEYTOWN is a clean thriving town in northern Carroll, County-the second sized town in the county. Concrete roads in every direction; five well supported Churches; High School; Parochial School; two strong Banks; a Newspaper and Printing Plant, two Hotels and Sauble's Inn; Carroll Coun-ty Fair Ground; two Steam Bakeries; Railroad; fine Bus service; two Can-neries; large Milk Products Plant; Sewing Factory; good Stores of all kinds; seven Fraternal Orders; Steam Flouring Mill, two grain Elevators; six Gar-ages; two large Chicken Hatcheries; a Mutual Fire Insurance Company; a Moving Picture Theatre; Furniture and Machinery dealer; Undertaker; An Automobile Club; Chamber of Commerce; Public Library; all kinds of me-chanics and Plumbers, Electricians and Machinists; Real Estate and Insur-ance Agencies, and many small shops.

chanics and Flumbers, Electricians and Machinists; Real Estate and Insur-ance Agencies, and many small shops. It has many fine homes; good building: lots for sale; an up-to-date Fire Company and Municipal building; a fine class of citizens; numerous social or-ganizations; dairymen; produce dealers; Physicians; Dentist; Dressmakers; Electric Light and Power Service; the best water in the world; several private houses that entertain transient guests—in fact, what it does not have is hardly needed in a town that is especially attractive as a town of homes, and with a bright outlook for the future with a bright outlook for the future.

with a bright outlook for the future. And, the surrounding country matches the town. There is hardly the sign of "unemployment" anywhere, and undesirable citizens are conspicuous by their absence. Farm properties are generally well kept; very few prop-erties are heavily encumbered by debt, and notwithstanding the year of drought, farmers are generally in good spirits, because they have been good business men. There are no big factories to close down and cause loss of work; houses are practically all occupied, town and country, and the "Com-munity spirit," while conservative is about all that could be desired. To home seekers, there is no better town nor community anywhere with-in fifty miles that equals "old Taneytown"—an "old" town with a youthful, optimistic spirit that invites the better classes of people to come and take a look at it, and locate, either for business or for a home.
