THE TANEYTOWN HIGH COMMENCEMENT.

A Fine Program Rendered For The Class of '31.

The fifteenth annual Commencement of the Taneytown High School began with the sermon to the graduates in the Reformed Church, on Sunday night. Airy, his subject being, "Discipline is the beginning of wisdom." The music was furnished by the Glee Clubs of the school under the direction of Miss Estella Essig.

The Commencement exercises the Class of '31 Taneytown High School attracted to the auditorium what was perhaps the largest crowd it ever had, which means that the seating capacity was soon exhausted and a very large number enjoyed the program, standing. The event was greatly like preceding ones, but to the class of '31 it was very different, as it represented their big "commencement" the wonderful experience that we

The Processional "Praise ye the Father" preceded the invocation by Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, following which the orchestra and Boys' Glee Club presented numbers.

The address to the graduates was made by Dr. Albert Dieffenbach, Editor of the Christian Registerwhogave his conception of "Education," which he said had been greatly simplified and almost made enjoyable. He gave a few of his own early experiences a few of his own early experiences to meet the requirement which he jocularly stated might have been more fruitful had his teachers known how to teach him.

He spoke of education as a great system, as well as a great invest-ment, and that mainly he considered it something that added to the enjoyments of life, and puts everything we see and hear into such a form that it

He illustrated by telling a short story of a man who complained of having so much "outside pressure" and was asked whether he had plenty of "inside bracing"—which he explained as meaning braces for the mind and character.

He said education is not so much preparation for life, as it is life itself -a prepartion for the business of life -not of value in itself, but in what we do with it. One should entertain an affirmative attitude toward lifenot negative; the body, the mind, our general attitude, should be affirmative, aggressive and progressive. That education should mean performing a service of mutual benefit, accompanied with kindness, character and dependability, and it is sure to represent an absolutely sure foundation of success, and help to guarantee the stability our democratic form of government.

Following the address the Girls' H. Ralph Yealy, President of the Alumni Association, presented the School medals given by the Association. The School, medal for the best all-around girl was given to Nadine Ohler; for the best all-around boy, to Vernon Zimmerman. Mr. Smith then presented the medal given by the Parent-Teachers' Association for scholarship to Charlotte Myers. Mary Young was awarded the Citizenship medal, given by the Patriotic Sons of America.

COOLING MILK ESSENTIAL.

Cooling the nights milk is particularly important at this season of the year according to L. C. Burns, County Agent. The health department regulations require that the nights milk be cooled immediately, so as to keep down the bacteria to a minimum. In many cases coolers are too small to meet the requirements because Bacteria increases according to the temperature of the milk. Bacteria in milk at 70% degrees would increase 700 times in a period of twelve hours. At 60% degrees it would increase 15 times in twelve hours, while at 50% there would be little or no increase in the bacteria content.

It is highly important, therefore, that dairymen use every precaution to see that milk is immediately cooled especially the evenings milking. L. C. BURNS, Co. Agent.

LARGE PEA CROP THIS YEAR. The Crop Difficult to Harvest Due

The best pea rcop of many years greeted western Maryland canners as the annual pea canning season got under way this week. A fairly cool, moist May, with ideal ground conditions, in contrast to the hot and dry May of the previous year brought forth a crop even better than normal, canners say, in contrast to the less-than-half crop of a year ago.

While wind and rain swept over a great many peas in the past week or so, making the crop somewhat difficult to harvest, the crop is exceeding expectation, and Frederick, Carroll, Montgomery and Washington county packers are commenting on its good quality.

The bumper pea crop finds the price scale a little below that of 1930, with ton prices ranging between $55 and $58. Last year the general price level was $60 per ton.

Frederick city canning operations began Monday afternoon, and canning throughout the county in many instances started Tuesday. The Mt. Airy plant, one of the largest in this part of Maryland, began canning five days ago and expects to reach the days ago and expects to reach the peak of its operations in the next three days. Other plants handling peas are at Cavetown, Washington county, Buckeystown, Gaithersburg, Keymar, and Sykesville. Many of the Frederick county canning plants do not begin operations until the tring hear season in early July or string bean season in early July or the corn and lima bean season in Au-

MARRIAGE STATISTICS.

A report of the number of marriages performed and divorces granted in Maryland in 1930 has been issued by the State Board of Health, by comparison with 1929. By totals, there were 24,592 marriages in 1930, and 25,124 in 1929; and 2045 divorces in 1930 to 2,111 in 1929.

The figures are given by counties, Carroll County had 450 marriages in 1930 and 468 in 1929; divorces in 1930 were 18, and in 1929 there were 15. In Frederick county there were 746 marriages in 1930 and 851 in 1929; divorces in 1930 were 62, and in 1929 there were 68.

Cecil county continues its reputation as a "marrying" county, with 3329 ceremonies in 1930, and 3464 in 1929. In the matter of divorces, it drops to the normal, with 13 in 1930, and 10 in 1929.

Just why Howard county should be a favored sport for marriage ceremonies, we do not know, but it reported 1070 for 1930 and 1002 for 1929. The population of Carroll is 35,978, while Howard has only 16,169. The same peculiar situation applies to Garrett county, that reported 1236 marriages in 1930, the population being only 19,908. Evidently, Carroll county with only 450 marriages, is in had standing, by comparison.

JUNE 14-FLAG DAY

Some Dates and Important Uses for our Country's Flag.

June 14, Flag Day, will this year direct the thoughts of every good American to the future as well as to the past. The patriotic citizen will be reminded that June 14, 1931, marks the 154th. anniversary of the day when the Continental Congress. passed the resolution officially establishing, as the emblem of the United States, a flag "of thirtten stripes al-ternate red and white," and "that the union be 13 stars white in a blue field representing a new constella-

According to the plans of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, every American, in every state and city of the country, will then be encouraged to honor the flag with appropriate ceremonies and with a new devotion, linked as it is with the life and labors of George Washington. Washington.

Historians may regard as unsup-ported by fact the story of Betsy Ross' stitching the first American flag, but no one disputes the fact that the legend has become part and par-cel of American folklore. In any case it is known that Washington had an intense personal interest in the creation of a national flag, and may have had a part in its design. And no one disputes the fact that he accomplished more than any other American in giving that flag a meanand in unfurling it over a strong and united nation. In 1932 it will be the country's privilege to render new honors to George Washington's memory, and new loyalty to this immortal symbol of his greatness.

Meanwhile, this year, it is well to recall some of the great dates in the flag's history. Its first display by the Continental Army was on August

It was first carried into battle by George Washington's troops at Brandywine on September 11, 1777. It was first saluted by the British at the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga on October 17, 1777.

For the Navy, John Paul Jones took the first salute to the Stars and Stripes on February 14, 1778, when he sailed his ship "Ranger" into the harbor of Quiberon, France. In the same ship he forced the first striking of colors to our Flag by the British ship "Drake," on April 24, 1778. The ship "Bedford," of Massachusetts carried the first American flag into a British port on February 3, 1783. It was first carried round the world by the ship "Columbia," sailing from Boston in September, 1787. Captain John Greene, in the "Empress of China," had previously taken it to China in 1784.

BILLIONS TO INVEST.

The huge oversubscription of the Treasury's $800,000,000 bond issue, marking the greatest public response to an offer of Government securities since wartime, was decidedly encouraging. The applications, exceeding $6,000,000,000, show that the Government's credit has not suffered in the slightest degree from the depression and the coming Treasury deficit. In some previous periods of adversity the Government's credit was seriously affected, so much so that it had to pay high for its borrowings. It is obtaining this money at the lowest rate of interest for a similar offering since the war. This is the significant fact, rather than the amount of the oversubscription, although that is most gratifying to the administration. It was well that hundreds of millions of dollars were available owing to the fears of investors and the equally unreason-able reluctance toward the buying of

Most of the bidders did not expect to get bonds to the amount asked for, but it is apparent that a much larger issue, one running into the billions, could easily have been absorbed. This showing ought to exert a generally wholesome psychological effect. It ought to set the possessors of these billions to thinking that is is time they began resuming wide investment and also necessary purchases to hasten the return of prosperity for them-selves and others.—Phila. Ledger.

Survey Shows Big Saving Results From This New Practice.

New York.—Centralized purchasing has been adopted in 36 states and in more than 200 cities of the United States and in three privinces and 25 cities of Canada, according to a survey just completed by Dr. Russell cretary of the National Municipal league and associate professor of government at New York university, for the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

"A sentry at the tax exit gate" is the phrase with which Doctor Forbes describes this system of governmental buying. It is "the delegation to one office of the authority to purchase supplies, materials and equipment needed for use by all the several branches of the organization."

A billion dollars a year is spent by federal, state, county and municipal governments for this purpose, Doctor Forbes estimates, and centralized purchasing can save on the average of 10 to 15 per cent of the total, he be-

Under the new system, in one contract for gasoline for the state highway department, the purchasing department of California saved more than three times the annual cost of operating the purchasing system. On a long-term contract, the state secured a base price of 12% cents per gallon of gasoline; at the same time the dealer's price was 16 cents per gallon f. o. b. refinery and the retail market price was 20 cents per gallon. Savings in the price of goods are only one of the many advantages of this system, Doctor Forbes reports. Others include better delivery service, reduction in overhead cost through reduction in personnel; reduction in the volume of "paper work"; centralized supervision over deliveries and stock, closer accounting control over expenditures, saving of discounts through prompt payment of invoices and the elimination of favoritism in buying.

GROWING TURKEYS MADE PROFITABLE

Confinement Method for Poults Is Practical.

Eastern states have an advantage in growing turkeys, with the development of new methods and the closeness to market, providing they send high quality turkeys to market, according to Ira J. Hollar of the New York state college of agriculture.

In the Middle West many small flocks are kept as a sideline, but because of the blackhead, a disease of the intestines and liver, and low prices many of these flocks have been discontinued. The western states that have grown the most turkeys are now growing fewer and some states that have not been considered important are now increasing their flocks. Pennsylvania shows a 25 per cent increase in 1929 and 8 per cent more in 1930,

The old theory that turkeys must have plenty of range is not only false but more expensive than the new methods. It has been proved that turkeys can be profitably raised in confinement. At the Pennsylvania state college 93 per cent of all turkeys started were raised to market age when confinement was practiced. In New York state the Jeffers method of partial confinement has also proved satisfac-

Housing Early Pullets

Helps Egg Production Prof. Willard C. Thompson of the New Jersey station gives the following sensible advice about getting pullets into their laying houses: "When the combs of early-hatched pullets begin to turn red, it is time to make the laying houses ready for them. Then, if moved into their new quarters promptly, these birds usually can be depended upon to add to the poultryman's income at a time when the hens are slackening their efforts.

"Space for the early-hatched pullets can be found in the laying houses by removing market hens and culls, and concentrating the survivors in fewer

"Pens reserved for the incoming pullets should be cleaned, disinfected and supplied with litter. Space may be allotted at the rate of four square feet a bird, and, once the pullets are in their new quarters, they should be kept confined to the pens. The regular laying rations are advised for the pullets as they go into winter quar-

Art of Caponizing Is

Profitable Operation

Poultry raisers who can spare a little time should study up the art of caponizing. Capons demand a good price upon the market, and are always in good demand. The operation process is easily learned and is so profitable that it pays any poultryman to try his hand at it. The slips are not lost, and if you kill a few by practicing you can sell the carcass on the market or use it for home consumption. Of course it is necessary that you have proper tools to do this work, but these can be purchased at poultry supply stores anywhere.

Poultry Hints

Eliminate the males and improve the quality of summer eggs.

If poultry owners are in earnest about building up a flock of pure breds and keeping them up to the mark as layers and breeding fowls, they will soon begin to make more

Potatoes are not a good poultry food for summer, because they contain too much heat-giving substances; but a proportion may be used with advantage when the weather is cold.

During the hot weather leave doors and windows open in the poultry house to give all possible comfort to the Good ventilation is not confined to expensive poultry houses. An effective system can be devised cheaply for any

Before putting the birds in range shelters, the cockerels should be separated from the pullets, and this is done when they are eight or ten weeks of age. The sooner the better.

The per capita consumption of eggs in the United States is about 204 as compared with 313 in Canada.

By culling the flock and removing worthless hens feed is saved and room is made for better layers.

Whey is not harmful for chickens and would not cause a decrease in egg production. In fact it makes good drink for chickens and is fine to mix wet mashes. It does not contain much food value for its bulk but is useful in the poultry ration.

Apparently Beggar Had

Found Ruse Profitable The New Yorker thought he had experienced every form of panhandling extant. Recently, however, he visited Washington and learned a new wrinkle in extracting money from the pockets of the public. Walking through a public square in the afternoon with one of the numerous judges who lives in the capital, a man approached. In his arms was a baby; at his side was his wife and walking in front were two more children not over six years old.

Holding a half-dollar up between his finger and thumb, the man with the baby muttered to the New Yorker as he passed: "Won't you help me pay my rent?"

The visitor dug into his pocket for a quarter, but the judge stopped him. "You don't know if this man is worth helping," he said. "We have a community chest in Washington to take care of such cases."

As the New Yorker argued the point with the judge, the man and his family disappeared.

A few minutes later a taxicab swept past and as the New Yorker jumped back to avoid it he saw, comfortably driving home, the man who had pleaded for assistance with his rent, and

People of Asia Minor

First to Breed Mules? The mule, which is the product of a cross between a mare and a male ass, has been bred as a beast of burden since early times. The inhabitants of Mysia, Paphlagonia and Capadocia, ancient countries in Asia Minor, are said to have been the first people to raise mules. This, while not definitely established, is borne out by Homeric tradition. Mules were bred in large numbers by both the ancient Greeks and Romans. The Jews were forbidden to breed mules by Leviticus 19:19, which declares, "Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverse kind." Evidently, however, the Israelites either imported the hybrids or broke the law, because early in their history they possessed large numbers of mules, which in a hilly country like Palestine were preferable to horses and asses for many purposes. It is probable that in some cases "mule" is employed in English translations of the Bible when "ass" would be the proper word.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Islands Now American

Wake island was acquired by the United States in 1898, as a result of the Spanish-American war, and was ceded to this country by Spain under the treaty of Paris, which ended the war. Midway islands are now a part of the Hawaiian group, and under the jurisdiction of the Hawaiian government. They were discovered by Capt. U. C. Brooks in the ship Gambier on July 5, 1859, and officially taken possession of in the name of the United States on August 28, 1867, by Captain Reynolds of the U.S. S. Lackawanna. Baker island was taken possession of in the name of the United States in 1839 by an American named Michael Baker, who first discovered it in 1832. Howland island was discovered by George E. Netcher in 1842, and officially possessed in the name of the United States in 1857.

In Old Celtic Lands

Of all the interesting trips in France, Brittany should be included, especially the south coast, with its sea resorts. This is the land of the "Pardons," those semireligious and semipagan festivals, when the villagers don the costumes and play the ceremonies which go back to the days of the dolmen and menhir of their wild moorlands. Paris-Nantes-Savenay -St. Nazaire is the route to follow, and the great Pardon centers are at Auray, St. Malo, Quiberon, Quimper, Daoulas, Plougastel and St. Anne-la-Palud, where the most important Pardon in Brittany is held on the last Saturday and Sunday in August. These old Celtic lands of France have a fascination different from the rest of France.

And He Fled

A golfer who has devoted the better part of the last five summers to the pursuit of the little white sphere was the happy recipient on his birthday of a set of expensive matched clubs. The first thing he did was to summon a companion in the sport and gloat (as only golfers know how to gloat over such an acquisition) openly before

"Ah." exclaimed the friend tartly, "that's a wonderful set of clubs. Now all you have to do is to learn how to play the game." And he fled from the house followed by a flood of epithets (pronounced as only golfers know how pronounce them).—Springfield

Chemists of Olden Days

The Egyptians appear to have possessed greater knowledge of chemistry than any other of the ancient nations. For one thing, it takes unusual skill to preserve a corpse for centuries in such perfect condition as the ancient mummies unearthed in Egypt happen to be. The Arabs, Greeks and Romans all obtained their knowledge of chemistry from the Egyptians without being able to add anything of importance to this

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

That Canada leads the world in talking by telephone will be a surprise to many people, who know that the United States has the greatest telephone density. The Canadians make 257 calls per capita annually as compared with 231 in this country. The next "talkingest country"

Edwin F. Hill is New Zealand, where 212 conversations are made for each person.

Denmark leads in telephone conversations in Europe with 148.6 per capita; Sweden is next with 125.7. in Norway the calling rate in 1929. according to Telephone and Telegraph Statistics of the World, was 86.5 conversations. Austria makes 758 calls per person, Australia about 70, the Netherlands 60.4, Switzerland 53.2, Japan 48.8, Germany 40.6, Great Britain and Northern Ireland 32.1, Belgium 253, and France 19.1.

More than two-thirds of the world's telephones are operated by privately owned systems due to the relatively heavy American development, the report shows. In the United States all telephones are operated by private companies and this country not only nas more telephones than all the rest of the world, but also excels in the number of telephones relative to population. In fact, the United States with 16.4 telephones for each 100 of its people has nearly nine times the relative telephone development of Europe, which has only 1.9 telephones for each 100 people.

Canada, with 14.2 telephones per 100 population, is the only country whose telephone density approaches that of the United States New Zeaand takes third place with 10.3, followed by Denmark with 9.6, Sweden with x.3 and Australia with 7.9 telphones per 100 population. In both Canada and Denmark most of the telephones are owned and operated by private companies.

Getting Deaf

A certain well-known local hypochrondriac has a new fear-that is getting hard of hearing. His doctor assures him it isn't so, but he worries constantly about the possibility of becoming deaf. His complex took the form of announcing to his office mates that he was going to buy some sort of an earphone, to see if that aided him. Consequently his colleagues were ready for him when he appeared with It next day, and whispered every word they addressed to him or to anyone in his presence.

Now he's telling his doctor that the good man doesn't know what he's talking about. Mean? Maybe-but have you ever lived with a hypo-chrondriac? -Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Properly Southern States

The original Mason-Dixon line was the boundary line between Pennsylvania and Maryland; just before the Civil war the line was accepted as the dividing line between free and slave states. The states generally regarded as southern are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland and Delaware. The Mississippi river, which forms the eastern boundary of Missouri, does not change its name. The Missouri river divides the state, but the whole of Missouri is considered as a southern or border state.

Making a Market

A market for any kind of goods is any assemblage of buyers and sellers of that commodity. This market does not necessarily mean that the buyers and sellers must be in close contact. as on the New York stock exchange, but there can be no actual market unless the buyer and seller are in communication with each other. Thus modern inventions like telegraphy, telephone, wireless and other means of communication have greatly enlarged the possibilities of markets.

One Use for Poetry

A group of women gathered at a literary tea in New York city were discussing a certain collection of poems. "Oh, yes," said the hostess-she was by no means the least among the literary personages-"I have already worn out one volume; this is my second, and it is getting worn out, too. I always have a volume of poetry on the telephone stand, and read it while waiting for a number; it keeps me from losing my temper. It's as good a use for poetry-for an anthology of poetry-as any, isn't it?"

The budget for the coming year was submitted for final approval. The amount for current expenses to be raised by the county is $304,386.19 which includes the deficiency item required to meet the expenses of the past year, close to $20,000 below the requirements of last year. This is brought about by the consolidation of eighteen rural schools. In addition to this the capital outlay is $105,843.18, which is distributed as follows: for land, building plans, architect's fees and preliminary operations for a new high school in Westminster $25,000,of which $4,000 was levied for in 1921 and is now in the treasury of the County Commissioners;$15,000 for the construction of an additional building at Uniontown,$9,488.58 for a sanitary addition to the Westminster school building on Center Street, a long needed and very much required addition to that building. This will be just as necessary if the high school is removed from this building, as it is now, because the building will be used in future as an elementary school. WASHINGTON'S PIED PIPER RESIGNS JOB

Sees No Future in Work of Catching Rats.

Washington.-The Pied Piper has quit. A lifetime consisting of nothing more inspiring than luring rats to that bourne whence no traveler returns holds no charms for A. Gentry, rat catcher in ordinary of the National Capital. Gentry's soul cherishes loftier ambitions.

"Rats!" he said, in commenting on his resignation. "'Big rats, little rats, fat rats, scrawny rats'-they're all just rats to me.

"And after you have succeeded in trapping them what have you to show for your pains. Just rats and 40 cents an hour. I tell you, sir, a man's life is too important to be frittered away in that fashion.

A Poor Profession.

"You may well say that catching federal rats is a public service, and many and boy, I've caught some big ones in my time, but I have been forced reluctantly to the conclusion that rat trapping is not my metier. of deceased rodents-nothing more."

Gentry's nightly feud with the federal rats is fought out on a field of the rats' own choosing-the old Center market district. It was here a short time ago that two young ladies from Virginia-students of heraldrywere frightened out of several years' growth by a platoon of the pests encircling their car and defying them to enter. It took the authority of a policeman to persuade them to dis-

Remarkable Jaw Power

The strength of jaw of warmblooded animals cannot compare with that of reptiles, an article in Pearson's Weekly points out. The bulldog and mastiff are famous for their strength of grip and the hyena is said to be able to bite through the thigh bone of an ox to extract the marrow, but they take back seats to the power and tenacity of a lizard in the Calcutta reptile house.

of East Indian Lizard

The lizard was of the sort known as the "go-samp" and weighed about 100 pounds. As it was being drawn out of the cage which it shared with the pythons, it seized a twelve foot snake by the neck.

Locked together, the two creatures were drawn out. Keepers made every effort to lever the jaws of the lizard apart. But it was useless, and the python's neck was flat as a pancake when at last the lizard let go.

A record illustration of the muscular power of the turtle was given by the late Frank Bullen. He and his mates captured an immense turtle weighing 1,800 pounds and cut it open. They removed all the meat and left only the head attached to the shell.

A young man began examining the ad and foolishly put his fingers into the turtle's mouth. They were bitten off as cleanly as if they had been cut.

Historian Sees Symbol in "Song of Nibelungs"

A strange theory, according to which the famous "Song of the Nibelungs" is partly a symbolic description of metallurgical processes, has been published by the German historian, Carl Ludwig Antz. While Herr Antz does not deny that some of the personalities and motives of the song may have a historical background, his thesis is that the poet of the Nibelungs used old fairy tales and myths merely as a garment. The life of Siegfried, Herr Antz contends, is full of such indications. In his opinion, it is highly remarkable that metals have been mined in the territory around the city of Worms, the seat of the Nibelungs, for several thousand years. Siegfried's fight against the dragon is explained as a symbolic interpretation of mining. Brunhilde, who lived in Brittany (not in Iceland), is described as the queen of tin, and Siegfried conquers her for Gunther, the king of copper. Gunther (copper) marries Brunhilde (tin) and the result is bronze. Alberich, the dwarf, is a miner who reveals the secret of mining to Siegfried.

Britons Unearth Skeleton

Believed 4,000 Years Old Brighton, England.—This seaside town has a rival to the famous "Peiping Man" which was found on the cliffs here recently. A well-preserved skeleton, said to be at least 4,000 years old, is Brighton's latest bid for tourist trade. Experts who examined this "Homo Brightonensis" were not able to tell whether it was a man or a woman. Brighton discovered its family skeleton in a sewer. Despite its plebian grave, Brightonians are confident their ancestor was a person of considerable importance in the days of Babylon, Nineveh and Tyre. The experts said it was a person of mature

The skeleton supplied another strange link between the past and the present. It was found lying on its side with its knees drawn up toward its chin. This is said to be the common sleeping posture of the older inhabitants to this day.

MOUNT VERNON HOME WAS FURNISHED BY WASHINGTON

Old Bills Show George, Not Martha, Was Our First Interior Decorator.

Paris.—The ancient bills of lading show conclusively that George Washington, not Martha, was the first interior decorator in America.

It was he who furnished Mount Vernon, planned the type of furnishings to be used, where they should go and even selected the curtains and draperies to hang at the many windows of the great house.

This information came to light in an interview with Miss Frances Wolfe. who is in charge of the interior decorating and furnishing of the French Mount Vernon erected in the Bois de Vincennes for the French colonial exposition.

"England supplied practically all of the furniture as well as the clothes used by George and Martha," said Miss Wolfe, while Grand Rapids has equipped the Mount Vernon of Paris. Fourteen different furniture companies have donated fine reproductions of the original Presidential mansion setting. The electric light furnishings and all of the mantelpieces have come from Detroit, and many authentic bits of silver and accessories have been picked up, or donated, or

"New York has furnished us with all the fabrics to be used in the mansion here," said Miss Wolfe, "and the designs and materials have been copied as nearly as possible from the originals. We have had to search for samples of the originals in museums and private collections, make sketches of them and then have them made up. It has all been terribly interesting but we have had our troubles," she added.

"Martha may have had a lot to say about what went into the original Mount Vernon, but it was George who did the ordering, and in searching through old records and documents we found that he did most of the arranging when the furniture arrived from England."

Arizona Seeking Land for Canal to Tidewater

Phoenix, Ariz.—Gaining a seaport for a landbound state is a task for giants, Arizona political and business leaders have learned. Despite obstacles, however, there is no abatement in a drive to accomplish that task.

Were it a mere engineering job, Arizona would have had a deep water outlet long ago. Tidewater is only 100 miles away, but between the Arizona border and that coveted goal lies territory belonging to another nation. The proposal involves the digging of a canal, or utilization of the Colorado river chanel, from the Arizona-California-Mexico junction at Yuma to the Gulf of California

Due to the stymie of internationalism, the matter soon passed from the hands of Arizona and became an affair between the United States and Mexico. This prompted Senator Henry F. Ashurst to introduce a resolufion in the United States senate asking that negotiations for title to a strip of Mexican land be acquired.

As an engineering feat, the matter is comparatively simple. Less work would be required than was necessary for the canal from the Gulf of Mexico to Houston, Texas. Dredging would be easier than that done in clearing a 35foot channel in the Columbia from Portland, Ore., to the river's mouth at Astoria

Pigeons Coo at Guests,

Lose White House Home Washington.—The eaves of the front portico of the White House are being remodeled to dispossess a horde of cooing pigeons that had established themselves there. Across from the White House is Lafayette park, which is almost as famous an abode for pigeons as St. Mark's square, Venice. The birds found that fresh peanuts were being placed on the White House lawn for native squirrels and moved across the street to dip into the squirrels' larder.

Carpenters were put to work to place pasteboard across the eaves in order to keep out the unwelcome visitors, who at times set up a din of cooing when famous guests and statesmen were arriving and departing from the White House.

Health Survey Shows Student's Job Safest

Detroit.—Being a student is the safest of all occupations, according to the annual report of Dr. John Sundwall, director of hygiene of public health at the University of Michigan.

Recorded student deaths during 1930 ere only .55 per 1.000, as with four or five per 1,000 in groups of the same age outside the university, Doctor Sundwall's report showed.

Half the deaths resulted from violence or injuries, the report said, Doctor Sundwall admitting that he saw no way of curbing the "characteristic recklessness" of college students.

Man Carries Piece of Copper in Head 11 Years

Ellington, Conn.-Eleven years after J. B. De Carli, garageman, lost an eye in an explosion, he suffered pains in his throat. X-ray pictures were taken at Hartford hospital and a large piece of copper was discovered near the root of his tongue. An operation was successful.

Mexico Plans Dredging

of Abandoned Harbors Mexico City.-Many harbors on the Pacific ocean and the Gulf of Mexico, which, in the last few years, practically have been abandoned, will be improved during the present year, it has been announced by the ministry of communications.

Dredges at present are at the Vera Cruz harbor and in the Panuco river at Tampico, and very soon a third dredge is due to arrive from England at Salina Cruz, an abandoned tropical Pacific port. Another is due in July, to be used at Manzanillo, Mazatlan and Guaymas on the West coast and at the Lower California ports. Puerto Mexico and other lower Gulf of Mexico ports are also included in the improvement program.

State's New Death House Still Without a Victim

Santa Fe, N. M.-No one has been put to death in New Mexico's now $20,000 death house, which was built after the 1929 legislature changed the mode of death from hanging to electrocution. And now there is before the New Mexico legislators a bill to abolish capital punishment and substitute life imprisonment. Five men are under death sentences now, some originally sentenced to be hanged, some to be electrocuted. The question now is pending in the Supreme court as to whether those at first sentenced to be hanged can be put to death in the electric chair.

WIN BATTLE ON CHILD DISEASES

Expectation of Life at Birth Is Increased From 48 to 58 Years.

Washington.-Up to the present time, according to the United States public health service, the most significant advances in public health achievement have been manifested among the lower age groups. It is true, of course, that the great sanitary reforms, such as the filtration of water supplies, have remarkably diminished diseases of certain kinds among all ages and classes of persons, but the actual saving of life has been most pronounced among children, and especially little children and infants. It is for this reason that the expectation of life at birth-that is, the average length of time that all children born at a given time will live-has increased from 48 to about 58 years in the last 20 years.

This is very encouraging, because it shows clearly that much of the disease from which the human race has been suffering, and many early deaths, can be avoided if specialists put their best existing sanitary knowledge into practice. But while it is gratifying to know that the nation is on the right track in the battle against disease, it is true that there is another side to the picture—a great wastage of health and life still continues, due to the failure to apply existing knowledge.

Avoidance Still Is Need.

There are some diseases which may be controlled and eventually eradicated by general measures undertaken by the community in which the individual citizen is seldom called upon to take part. There are a great many other diseases, however, for which as yet no general measures have been devised, and in the avoidance of which the individual is called upon to exert his own initiative. Conspicuous among such diseases are those conditions which are prevented by immunization. It may be freely granted that the inoculation of individuals in order to render them immune to one disease or another is not an ideal procedure. Health officials wish as much as any one else does that there were some simpler general measure which would make this procedure unnecessary; in fact, for many years they have been attempting control by such means as quarantine, isolation and disinfection to check the spread of communicable disease.

These efforts have met with some measure of success in the case of certain diseases. For example, it has been possible to reduce typhoid fever to the disappearing point by the sanitary control of water and milk supplies, and yellow fever and bubonic plague may readily be controlled in progressive communities by measures against the mosquito and the rat, respectively.

On the other hand, smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever and a number of other common infections have never shown much amenability to control by any means other than by actually immunizing each susceptible individual.

Disease Unnecessary.

According to the public health service there is really no need for any one nowadays ever to have either smallpox or diphtheria, and those diseases, as is well known, have been in the past among the most deadly of scourges. Vaccination against smallpox, repeated in a few years, will protect against smallpox.

Such great improvements have been made since the introduction of this method that no one should hesitate to have his children vaccinated during the first year of life.

X-Ray May Determine Old Painting Existence

Philadelphia.-The X-ray method of determining whether an old painting is genuine may be utilized to learn if a Gilbert Stuart masterpiece hides under the more recent coat of paint applied to the sign of the old king of Prussia tavern.

The sign is now owned by the Germantown Historical society. Local traditions say that Stuart painted the original, and many old residents of Germantown believe that the ancient sign, which witnessed the march of the continentals under Washington. was covered with paint during the last 50 years.

Dog That Rides Surf Board Is Real Sea Dog

Honolulu.-A real sea dog is owned by Philip Auna here. Night Hawk is the name of the Irish terrier, and it is thought to be the only dog in the world who can ride a surfboat. It took Auna three months to teach the dog how to ride the waves on the flimsy craft. Dog and master spend an hour each day at the sport.

 "Stop" Sign Halts Car; Driver Dies

Los Angeles.—A "stop" sign flashed at a boulevard here and Frank D. Lovett, sixty-one, brought his automobile to a halt. When the "go" sign came the Lovett car failed to move.

Other motorists honked horns for a time and then investigated. Lovett had died from heart disease.

BUILDS YACHT FOR SCIENTIFIC STUDY

Sportsman Will Gather Data in Pacific Ocean.

Long Beach, Calif.—One of the costliest pleasure craft ever completed on the Pacific coast was launched here recently for Capt. A. Allan Hancock of Los Angeles, sportsman, "godfather" of a city and mariner. The craft is Valero III, a 195-foot twin screw steel Diesel cruiser, driven by two 850 horse power engines. She has a cruising radius of 9,500 miles.

During the coming years Capt. Hancock will use the craft for scientific cruises in South Pacific waters. Resembling a navy light cruiser in lines, the usual luxurious furnishings of a yacht have been dispensed with, and it has been outfitted only with necessities for a long cruise.

Captain Hancock several years ago became interested in Santa Maria, situated in the northern part of Santa Barbara county. The center of a large agricultural area, the civic spirit of the town interested him, and he decided to "grow up" with it.

His first move was to buy the Santa Maria Valley railroad, a small standard gauge road extending down the valley from Guadalupe, lettuce growing center of California. The entire line was rebuilt under Captain Hancock's direction, and new rolling stock, including locomotives, was added.

Next he built packing houses, the most modern in the valley, where farmers take their produce for shipment to market. He bought a ranch near the eastern terminus of the line, hired the county farm adviser as manager, and developed one of the most notable model farms of the state.

Has Flying Field. A radio station also was erected by Hancock to extol the virtues of the community.

And as a fitting climax to his efforts to aid the thriving community, he founded and endowed the Hancock College of Aeronautics, which draws young men from all parts of the country for a thorough education in flying.

Library of Congress to Buy Books Owned by Czar

Washington .- The Library of Congress has announced it will purchase part of the library which was once the property of the former royal family of Russia.

No mention was made of the price involved. The books will be obtained from Israel Perlstein of New York, who acquired the Russian collection a few months ago from a state concern dealing in books in Soviet Russia.

The collection is said to embrace about 1,700 volumes. It includes books that belonged to Alexander II, Alexander III, Nicholas I, the Count Alexis, and the Empress Marie Feodorovna, wife of Alexander III.

The collection formerly was in the winter palace at Leningrad. The purchase includes numerous secret documents embraced in more than 50 volumes which had belonged to the general staff of Russia and related to military preparedness of various countries adjacent to Russia.

The books are printed in Russian, French, German, English and other

"One instrument has been developed in Washington, but has not as yet been constructed for actual work in the field," the captain said.

May Get School Diploma Forrest City, Ark .- When graduation exercises are held at the city schools this spring, a dog may receive a diploma. The dog has a perfect daily attendance record for the last eight years, attending classes with Addison Bradford, its youthful owner. The students voted that "Fritz," the dog, should receive the diploma and school authorities have indicated they will grant the request. "Fritz" is a terrier.

Driver Wrecks Auto to Save Life of Dog

Westport, Conn.-A pet dog owes its life to the fact that when it ran across the highway here Zenon Hackey was so kindhearted he swerved his automobile off the road, the machine overturning and plunging 30 feet into salt marshes.

"Well, I'm glad I avoided the dog," said the driver as he climbed back to the road.

Lesson for June 14

THE RESURRECTION AND THE ASCENSION

GOLDEN TEXT—Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea, rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who maketh intercession for us.

maketh intercession for us.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:25-51.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Now.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Living Now.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of the Resurrection.

The resurrection of Christ is one of the foundation truths of Christianity. It is the grand proof that Christ was what he claimed to be-the Messiah, the Son of God (Matt. 12:39, 40; John 2:19-21).

I. The Empty Tomb (vv. 1-12). Luke does not enter into a description of the manner of the resurrection of Christ or offer any proof of the fact other than that the tomb was empty. He does, however, indicate the process by which the disciples had become convinced of its reality.

1. The testimony of the men in shining apparel (vv. 4-6). The women who had come to the sepulcher bringing spices found the stone rolled away and the sepulcher empty. While they were in a state of perplexity these men in shining garments informed them that Jesus had arisen.

2. The report of the women to the disciples (vv. 7-11). The women believed the announcement made to them because they found that it was in agreement with what Jesus had prophesied. They immediately reported the fact of the empty tomb to the dis-

3. Peter investigating (v. 12). Peter was so impressed with the news brought by the women concerning the empty tomb that he ran to see whether the report was true. He was convinced that the tomb was empty, but was perplexed over the matter. If he had believed the words of the Lord his personal investigation would have cleared the matter in his mind.

II. Two Discouraged Disciples (vv. 13-35).

1. The walk to Emmaus (vv. 13-15). Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. The topic of conversation was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. So little had the Lord's teaching about his resurrection impressed the disciples that the reports which the women brought were to them as idle tales. 2. An unrecognized companion (vv.

16-24). a. Who he was (v. 15). While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the last few days, Jesus joined them. Even when he questioned did not recognize him. b. His question (v. 17). Perceiv-ing their sadness and perplexity he sought to help them by calling forth an expression of their grief. c. Their answer (vv. 18-24). His question so surprised them that they thought him a stranger in Jerusalem. for the condemnation and crucifixion were so recent and notorious that no one that had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

3. The Scriptures opened (vv. 25-31).

a. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). Jesus did not rebuke them for not believing the strange stories they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament Scriptures, the very center and heart of which have to do with the death and resurrection of Christ.

b. Jesus recognized (vv. 31-35). While sitting at meat with the disciples they perceived him as the Lord when they saw him bless the bread and distribute it. They were so filled with joy over this revelation that they hastened to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

III. Jesus Stands In the Midst of the Eleven (vv. 36-47).

1. He said, "Peace be unto you" (vv. 36, 37). Instead of receiving peace from him, they were terrifled and affrighted.

2. He showed them his hands and his feet (vv. 38-40). He gave them tangible evidence that he was not a mere spirit.

3. He ate before them (vv. 41-45). He commissioned them to evangelize the world (vv. 46-49). They were to testify concerning his shed blood and resurrection and on this ground they were to preach repentance and remission of sins to all nations. IV. Jesus Ascends Into Heaven (vv. 50, 51).

Having given them the parting message to evangelize the world, he ascended into heaven.

Crocodiles Victims of

Their Own Bad Temper Crocodiles have been endowed beyoud other creatures with the gift of tears and are believed to find it a business asset. While the world has stood gaping at the spectacle of so tearful a reptile, the crocodile has gaped to greater purpose. Now, however, he is to lose the advantage of surprise and his tears will be a puzzle no longer, says the London Times. Imperial scientific research has found out something about crocodiles which it would be very decidedly worth their own while to know.

Researches carried on in Uganda have shown that crocodiles have a secret grief. They are very human in some ways and are inclined to sleep with their mouths open. There is nothing wrong so far, and if crocodiles pass most of their lives in a snooze nobody will complain. But it appears that the tsetse fly is addicted to walking around the open mouths of sleeping crocodiles and to biting the softer parts.

Crocodiles let this irritation master them and pay a terrible price for their bad temper. They snap their jaws and swallow the flies and with them the germ of the sleeping sickness. It is the old story of the lion and the mouse—that kindness, or at least forbearance, from the bigger beast pays in the long run.

One Mushroom Variety Expert Had Overlooked

One of the most nourishing viands to be found in the fields is the mushroom, and while they are rather liberally consumed, there are many persons who will not risk eating them for fear of mistaking the poisonous toadstool for the edible mushroom.

But it is rare that one hears of a man dying through experimenting with foods. Yet it happened a short time ago. A famous expert on mushrooms, M. Cottin, died of mushroom poison-

This Frenchman was probably the greatest living expert on mushrooms, and wrote a book on his pet subject. He was also careful to illustrate the book with pictures showing mushrooms that could be eaten with safety and those that were dangerous. Apparently M. Cottin discovered a mushroom that he had not listed. He ate it to make sure and died.

English Like Pantomimes

Englishmen in exile seem to cling to pantomime as tenaciously as to plum pudding, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. When the Resolute wintered in the ice at Melville island in 1852 Christmas was celebrated by the production of a pan-tomime, which had the novelty of being played entirely for the fun of the performers. There was no audience, for every member of the crew took part, with the commander, Sir George Nares, starring as Columbine.

In 1875, when on another polar expedition in the Alert, Nares "reopened the Royal Arctic theater" after it had been closed for 25 years, and pantomime was again the favorite pastime of all concerned.

"As You Like It"

Various commentators have advanced different theories as to why Shakespeare's play was given the name "As You Like It." Braithwait, however, in his "Barnaby's Journal," speaks of "As You Like It" as a proverbial motto, and this seems more likely to imply the true explanation of the title of Shakespeare's play. The title of the comedy may on this supposition be exactly parallel with that of "Much Ado About Nothing." The proverbial title of the play implies the freedom of thought and indifference to censure which charactepizes the sayings and doings of most of the actors in this comedy of human na-

Head or Heart?

"Lately," informs a Tablet subscriber, "I am importuned, day and night, to subscribe to this and to that: Considering the times, wouldn't it be better to give a bit to each and ask no questions, than to be considered hardhearted?" "That," replies the editor, "we can best answer by quoting Theodore Roosevelt, the beloved. He said: 'Hardness of heart, is a doubtful quality, but it is doubtful whether it works more damage than softness of head."-Exchange.

Many of our COMFORTS"

We depend a great deal on electricity for many of the comforts we enjoy in our home. It begins its good work in the morning at breakfast by percolating our coffee and by making us crunchy, golden brown toast right at the table.

Then through the day, it's always busy around the house. On Mondays, it takes over the old drudgery of washing, and it speeds up the ironing. Several times a week it helps give the house a thorough cleaning by running the vacuum. It may even be called on to curl my hair . . . or to make waffles when guests drop in unexpectedly for luncheon. And in the evening, we always like plenty of light to save our eves and keep the place looking cheer-

Why, getting along without all this comfort and convenience would be like going back to the Dark Ages. Yet electricity costs us only about $3.74 in an average month. No wonder we feel this is most reasonable for the value we receive! Mrs. L. M. B. (an actual Potomac Edison consumer).

And Electric Cooking!

Besides all the advantages Mrs. L. M. B. is receiving from electricity, a Potomac Edison customer may have that of electric cooking at very little additional cost - only from $3.00 to $4.00 a month for the typical family.

Our local office will be glad to give you specific information about what electric cooking would cost you. And remember - electric cooking is economical! Not only are electric ranges more efficient; but it has also been your service company's policy to decrease the average cost of current with increased consumption, and to study constantly how to reduce rates.

The more you use electricity . . . the more you benefit . . . the less it costs
