MRS. MARG'T ANGELL 100 YEARS OLD

Former Taneytown Citizen is Now a Centenarian.

Mrs. Margaret Ann Angell, who spent most of her life in Taneytown, but who has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Fisher, in York, during recent years, was 100 years old, November 17. Mrs. Angell has been visiting Taneytown regularly, once or twice each year. regularly, once or twice each year, and retains her long-time member-ship in Trinity Lutheran Church, of

She has been a widow for 63 years, and has been a widow for 63 years, and has been active mentally and physically, all of her life; and even now is remarkably spry for her great age. She spent her birthday making a patch-work quilt, without the use of glasses, and enjoyed a good dinner at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Sallie Sullivan.

She thinks the young women of to

She thinks the young women of to-day are very giddy with their dress, as well as with much of their con-duct, and are too much for having what they call a "good time." She says;

"I never thought I would live to be so old. I just tried to live as close to God and my neighbor as I could, and I always worked hard, when I could, and I believe that is the secret of why I lived so long. I still work and do the best I can."

do the best I can."

Mrs. Angell lived in and owned the house on "Bunker Hill" Taneytown, the property now owned by John L. Zimmerman; and whenever she visits Taneytown she stays with Mrs. Charles A. Kemper, and visits The Record office where she has been paying her "church money" for years. She has of course been a subscriber to The Record since it commenced publication. We trust that she may continue for some time yet, to make her periodical visits. She has many friends in Taneytown who extend their congratulations.

STEALING CHICKENS.

Weekly papers have recently been rather full of accounts of cases of chicken stealing; fortunately report-ing numerous cases in which the thieves were caught. Later on, it is reasonable to assume that this old-time nocturnal practice will be more frequently practiced, which as natur-ally calls for increased protection and watchful vigilance over chicken hous-

Perhaps for more secure houses, better locks, and—shot guns, in extreme cases where average means of protection fail to stop the thievery. Somewhere, the stolen chickens must be disposed of without much questioning, for otherwise the business would be too deargerous to follow would be too dangerous to follow. And, these "stand-in" dealers are equally guilty with the thieves—both are in it "for the money" rather tha for the chickens.

We should say that the location of chicken houses within easy sight the dwelling of the chicken owners, and not too far away, would be a good help. Perhaps a good dog, who understands his business and has the courage of his convictions, would be a good night policeman. Every chicken farmer must work out his own problem, and he should not neglect it.

WORK OF THE RED CROSS.

Approval of the Red Cross by Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop Boston.

"I cannot permit the Fiftieth Anniversary of the American Red Cross to pass without a word of hearty congratulation and commendation. A half century of unselfish service to humanity, as the agency of mercy and relief, is a glorious record which deserves the unbounded gratitude of all men of all classes.

The work of the Red Cross stands out as one of the most consoling chapters in the history of our great Republic. Born upon the battlefields in the midst of suffering and death, its noble purposes have been fulfilled on every occasion when affliction has come upon humanity. It has been truly said that the American Red Cross is America's answer to the cry of human distress or need. It has placed our beloved country before the world as a Nation of mercy and fraternal charity. In the late war it proved that patriotism did not prohibit care of the fallen enemy as well as our own heroes. In its efforts during the past year to relieve suffering it has again demonstrated its readiness and efficiency to immediately meet the cry of distress. Its record clearly proves the greater the emergency, the more impressive its

I am sure that the people of this country will gladly respond to the Red Cross, an organization which has renewed the spiritual life of our Nation, while at the same time, bringing unnumbered material blessings to

BANKS TO REOPEN.

The Return of Public Confidence on Important Facts.

The Detour Bank, that closed on September 13th., is reported to be formulating plans that may result in the reopening of the bank, at an early date. The Commercial Bank, at Frederick, and the Middletown Savings Bank, are also reported to be likely to reopen soon; and others more distant, in the state, as soon as their financial status can be accurate-ly surveyed. Heavy withdrawals of funds were important factors in the closing of these banks.

There appears to be a return of public confidence, as well as some general improvement, far and near, in business conditions; which will in time likely bring about the reopening of nearly all of the closed banks in

Plans for reopening the Littlestown Savings Institution were discussed at a meeting held Thursday night, and will no doubt soon result in definite favorable action.

THE OLD TANEYTOWN. Part I.

This is not an "old methods" article, but one on "old Taneytown" as it was in October 1877 when the writer was in October 1877 when the writer came to the town. What changes have been made since then! For instance, the only buildings on the north side of Baltimore St., between the square and R. R., were the Elliot Hotel, now The Central; hotel stable; the brick dwelling of the Misses Galt, now Edward S. Harner's; the frame dwelling of James Reindollar, now Claudius H. Long's; the S. E. Reindollar warehouse: small frame dweldollar warehouse; small frame dwelling occupied by Wm. T. Crouse, and T. H. Eckenrode's fertilizer warehouse and hay shed (the last four having been destroyed in the big fire of 1807)

On the south side of the street were:.Crouse's Stone Hotel; hotel stable; frame dwelling owned by Banes Wright, now S. C. Ott's store; frame dwelling owned by Mrs. Ellen Crouse, now D. W. Garner's; J. Davidson & Son, hardware store and dwelling,now the property of Milton D. Koons; brick dwelling owned by Mrs. Henry Hess, now Geo. K. Duttera's; brick dwelling owned by Amos Duttera, now occupied by Mrs. Alma Newcomer; the Geo. A. Flickinger store and dwelling, now owned by Mrs. Samuel H. Mehring; and the T. H. Eckenrode main warehouse, now the property of The Reindollar Co.

There were no buildings on Balti-

Reindollar Co.

There were no buildings on Baltimore St. east of the R. R., except the R. R. office; the dwelling of Adam Clark, now owned by Walter A. Bower, and the present Clabaugh home. There were four frame dwellings on George St., one belonging to W. F. Clingan, one to Geo. A. Shoemaker, and two owned, we think, by George Henry Fair.

and two owned, we think, by George Henry Fair.

Middle Street, as we recall, had only one dwelling, owned by Levi D. Reid, now Mrs. Thomas Shoemaker's, and possibly the dwelling owned by J. Albert Angell. The street then ended at "the Mill road." Mill Avenue and Fairing Ave. had not become nue and Fairview Ave. had not been opened; and York St., also ended at "the Mill road." There was no building, nor dwelling of any kind, from Adam Clark's to J. N. O. Smith's.

The hotel stables, barnyards and garden covered all of the space from the hotels to what is now stand-pipe alley. There were but few sidewalks worthy of the name, and all of the streets were unimproved, except for occasional filling up of the worst mud holes, a job usually in charge of "Pete" Smith.

"Main Street", in the old days, was what is now York and Frederick Sts., on which there were more dwellings; and "Pink" or Emmitsburg St., now West Baltimore St., was fairly well built up; but only very few of the original dwellings on either of these streets are now standing as they were

At both Hotel corners there were stone steps on Baltimore St., as well as at numerous other points in town, in order to go from one sidewall grade to another. Many of the dwellings were log, brick-cased or weatherboarded, and a few original log; but there were also a few substantial brick and frame dwellings, looking almost out of place, by comparison with their neighbors.

During these 54 years, the entire old town, with very few exceptions, has either been newly built or so remodeled as to be unrecognizable. There were no street lights, no telephones, and no display windows in the stores. There were six places at which liquors were sold. The public well in the centre of the equare was furnished with a wooden pump—later changed to an iron one with railing around, and still later closed up entirely. There were three churches: Lutheran, Rev. W. H. Luckenbach, pastor; Catholic, Rev. John Gloyd, pastor; Reformed, Rev. P. A. Long, pastor, all of the churches being at their pres-ent locations, but all since extensively rebuilt. The cemeteries, too, were then much smaller, and not comparable to their present size or excellent condition. But, with all of its "old-timish" defects, it was likely the equal of most towns of its size and

TWO REBUILT ROADS TO BE OPENED.

Formal Program to be held this Saturday Afternoon.

Two roads of considerable importance to Northern Carroll and Southern Adams Counties, have been completed, and their formal opening will be celebrated this Saturday afternoon. One is the road from the Taneytown-Littlestown road to the Maryand line, near Harney; and the other is what is known as the Bonneauville-White Hall road, all in Adams county, about 5½ miles in length.

The building of the road toward Harney, is now the second road that Carroll county, or the state of Maryland, is invited to connect with, both near Harney, the other road being the road from the Gettysburg battlefield border to within a short distance of Harney. As both of the Maryland links are short, it would seem that their completion should be entered their completion should be entered into at an early date.

Still another link—and a most important one—unfinished in Northern Carroll, is the Keymar link that would practically complete the Francis Scott Key Highway, from Frederick and the south through Taneytown to Littlestown and into control Panna. to Littlestown, and into central Penn-

The formal opening of the two Pennsylvania roads will be celebrated on Saturday afternoon, from 1 to 4 o'clock, beginning with a parade that will form on Frederick Street, Littlestown, at 1 o'clock, and go over the Harney road first, then to Gettysburg and on to Bonneauville and Hall. The Francis Scott Key Automobile Club of Taneytown, will participate, meeting in Taneytown at 12 o'clock. The County Commissioners of Carroll County have also been in-

The program will conclude with appropriate exercises, music and addresses on the lawn of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, Littlestown. The wide-spread interest in the completion of these two roads, will guarantee a large attendance at the event.

WARNED TO PLOW TOMATO LAND THIS FALL.

Growers who are planning to put in tomatoes next year should at this time seriously consider the advisabiltime seriously consider the advisability of plowing the land now which they expect to plant in that crop next spring, according to H. A. Hunter, specialist in canning crops diseases for the University of Maryland Extension Service. This will greatly aid in reducing the losses from leaf blight which did considerable damage in the State this year.

in the State this year.

This recommendation is sound, whether the land was in tomatoes the different plants. They live through the winter on diseased tomato plants, on the dead stems of a good many weeds, and on the plant organic matter of almost any description that is left above the surface of the ground. On the other hand, it has been proved that if all dead vegetation is plowed under to a reasonable depth and the soil permitted to lie in this condition during the greater part of the winter, the organisms of the disease will be destroyed. While the disease spreads easily from plant to plant and from field to field in one season the fall plowing practice eliminates much early infection. Hence, the more thorough the job of turning vegeta-tion under, the better will be the con-

Aside from the benefit of reducing loss from leaf blights, fall or winter plowing is considered a good measure because it gets the soil in an excel-lent cultural condition for the crop. This advantage alone, Mr. Hunter points out, is probably worth the add-ed expense which might be incurred.

Tomato seed beds that are to be used again next spring should also pe plowed carefully this fall or winter to turn under the dead plant refuse. If this material is left on the surface of the ground until next spring, plant-bed infection may occur. Diseases are then carried to the field with the seedlings and cause much greater losses than infections which occur later in the field.

TULAREMIA, OR 'RABBIT FEVER'

Hunters, and all who dress or handle wild rabbits, are warned against Tularemia, a disease sometimes present among rabbits It introduces itself to man through abrasions of the skin, or cuts, but it may be carried to the eyes or nose. Its victims often become very ill, with chills, fever, weakness, and sometimes with enlarged glands. Produce dealers, cooks and housewives are apt to be victims.

To prevent the disease, rabbits should be dressed by wearing rubber gloves, or if not, then the should be washed afterwards with a mild disinfectant. The presence of the disease in rabbits can usually be detected by the appearance of the liver and spleen which is dotted with tiny white or yellowish spots.

The disease requires prompt medical treatment. Thorough cooking of the meat destroys the germ, rendering the meat harmless as food.

HEALTH CONFERENCE For Children, to be held in Taney-

A health conference for babies and preschool children, will be held in the

All parents should be more interested in the welfare of their children than in all other subjects. Too often, however, we allow the pleasures of life, or the care of the home, or business, to take first place. When the children are visited by sickness or death, we realize how near and dear they are to us, and we see our mis-take. How much better it would be to avoid these troubles, by seeing to it that the children are in such condition that a great many illnesses will not have a chance to develop, or if they do develop that they may be controlled.

The examination of children in all parts of this State, and in all states, where such examinations are being made, shows that many children have physical defects which are not even suspected. These defects which are for the most part preventable, may result in permanent damage, and of-ten are a cause of ill health in later

Dr. Knox, Chief of the State Bureau of Child Hygiene, is going to send a physician to the above mentioned place, on the date given, to examine such children as are brought in for the purpose. The big object in this meeting is to help mothers to keep well babies well.

Health conferences of parents and Health conferences of parents and doctors are among the regular activities of the State Department of Health. The conferences have served to point out to many parents that children they have considered well are really handicapped for lack of regular medical care.

The local physicians are always welcome at these conferences, and are especially invited to send obscure cases to them. All children found in need of treatment, are referred by letter to their family doctor.

NOT INDIAN SUMMER.

Somehow the impression has got about in certain circles that the weather of the last few days is another phase of Indian summer. Nothing could be a baser canard. Indian summer is that period of the American autumn when the skies are clear, the air is balmy by day, chill by night and a faint haze hovers in the distance, becoming light mist in the vallevs at dusk and dawn. Its dates are not set by the calendar. Sometimes it comes in October, sometimes in November, occasionally in December. Whenever it comes it is as pleasantly inspiring as the first real days of spring. Last week was a good examspring. Last week was a good ple of Indian summer weather.

But to term as Indian summer such murky weather as has engulfed the whole North Atlantic seaboard this week is no less than insult. It is late autum in a fog of indecision, and a smudgy fog at that; it is November, wondering whether to turn summery or wintry; it is unpleasant, depressing weather, and nothing less. Let no man mention it in the same breath with Indian summer.-Phila. Ledger.

AUTO TAGS FOR 1932

Requests for freak license tags will not be complied with, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles E. Austin Baughman said Tuesday in announcing that applications for 1932 tags will be called to extend the complex through mailed to automobile owners through-out the State on November 27 and de-livery of the plates will begin on November 30. The new tags will bear red numerals and lettering on a white background, the reverse of the 1931 plates. Motorists may use the 1932 tags December 15th.

In putting his foot down upon the further practice of discrimination in distributing the plates, Commissioner Baughman said in past years as many as 500 motorists have asked for tags with numerals of their own choosing. When possible the tags were issued, but often several persons wanted the same number. The cus-tom made additional work for the clerical force and sometimes caused a mixup in the records. As usual, however, tag No. 30,000 will be sent to Governor Ritchie for the car provided him by the State. The Governor will have tag No. 300,000 for his personally owned ma-

MURDER CASE REMOVED TO CARROLL COUNTY.

The case of Harry C. Olewiler, charged with being the slayer of Maurice A. Unglebower, at Nolan's Ferry, near Licksville, several weeks ago, has been transferred to the Carroll County Court by Judges Urner and Willard, of Frederick, following Olewiler's petition that he had cause to believe he could not obtain a fair and impartial trial in Frederick county court.

No date has been assigned for the trial, but it will likely be taken up at the close of the docket, some time in December. There are said to be only a few witnesses in the case, which may mean that it would last only a day or two, unless there would be difficulty in selecting a jury.

NEW MODELS.

Just about now, automobile manufacturers are getting out "New Models" for the coming year. This may actually mean better autos, or it is the more likely to mean better business; for there are always' many who will have nothing but "the latest and are more or less willing to pay the price for it.

For instance, there are a lot of "square-tops" floating along that at sight give it away that they are in the aged class. In other ways, the new models are apparent by sight, and not hidden by hoods or bodies. Mere change in appearance may not mean greater speed, comfort or safety, but they do mean greater selling appeals, and that is good for the business.

The 1932 model developments are said to represent more changes in design and construction than those in any single year in the history of the motor industry, and along with this, it is said prices will also be liberally reduced, all very good news to selling forces.

These changes in models cost manufacturers a great deal of money in preparing to adopt them. Very often an immense amount of heavy specially designed stamping and casting machinery must be replaced by manufacturers, together with patterns and blue-prints; but even these heavy costs are no doubt quickly met in the greater sales sure to follow.

These "new models" give a tip to other lines of business, without question of doubt; for being up-to-dateor down-to-date-appeals very strongly to the users of out-in-front equipment and appliances generally, as it does to automobile owners. In other words, the "latest style" is not at all confined to our autos. Second-hand, or out of style things, are made use of by many because of their cheapness, and not because of preference.

FOREIGN N. Y. CITY—AND SOME QUESTIONS.

According to 1930 figures there are 2,283,400 foreign born white citizen in New York City. There are 2,788,-625 native whites of foreign or mixed parentage. This means that there are over 5,000,000 persons of foreign stock in New York City. A large number of conclusions may be drawn from these figures, which in turn raise many questions of importance, serious or otherwise, accordingly as we view the subject as a whole.

Among these, is the question, whether Americans actually govern this country-elect Presidents, Senators, Members of the House; and Governors of at least our states containing very large cities?

Another is, which is the safest voice of the American people; that of the large cities; or that of the counties-agricultural sections, and small town population?

And which influence most strongly dictates the policies of our large city daily papers? Perhaps by studying the figures from such great centres of population, we can find plainer answers to many of our greatest National questions?

WHAT HOME MISSIONS?

A lady solicitor, last week, made an appeal to us for Home Missions. It happened to be one that we had parted with a Dollar to, on previous like occasions, without question; so in this latter appeal it seemed to her apparently, as a matter of course, that the Dollar would easily be forthcoming

It did not so happen. On being asked what denomination she represented, she said "No demonination" and offered no further explanation, but departed, saying she "felt badly" about our refusal. We are therefore in complete ignorance of the genuine need of her efforts.

Perhaps this was actually a worthy representative of a worthy object, and we are not presenting our decision in the case to anybody for their adoption, generally. What we do say, is, that cases of this sort should be questioned, especially in view of the exist-

ANOTHER WOMAN SENATOR.

Gov. Harvey Parnell, of Arkansas, has appointed Mrs. Hattie Caraway to succeed her husband, the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway. She will occupy the seat until a successor is chosen at a special election, January 12th. By virtue of this appointment, Mrs. Caraway will be the second woman in history to sit as a member of the Senate.

The appointment suggests the likelihood that she may be a candidate for re-election for the remainder of the term, that expires in March 1933.

CASH STORES ARE MAKING MONEY.

We read the other day, in an account of business done by a number of nation-wide concerns for various periods this year, by comparison with like periods last year, showing reduced sales approximating ten percent a year. In one particular case the profit was given after paying depreciation and Federal taxes, and it was the immense sum of over $3,000,000. In another case, gross sales for ten months of this year, were given as approximately $136,000,000. neither case was the actual net profit given after the deduction of all selling expenses.

The fact that stood out, however, was that the store with the $136,-000,000 sales, was a "spot cash" store. Most of the big stores are of this class-cash, on or before the delivery of the goods. As a rule, they own no real estate, and thereby escape paying heavy taxes to state and county in which they operate. They also have no uncollected sales accounts. They credit nobody, either as an accommodation, nor for friendship, nor because of purchaser's needy circumstances.

Their competitors, who likely own property, are part of the community in which they operate, contribute to churches and local charities, and feel a sympathetic and neighborly interest in the home life of the community, are also those who do extend credit to their customers.

One would think—if one is a square thinker—that such stores should be entitled to very liberal home support; ed—when the ready cash is in the interest." pockets of the "independent" spending public.

We are not advocating either the spot-cash, or the credit business, for both have their good points. The great bulk of the business of the world is conducted on credit, in one form or another. Even the "Cash" stores get credit on their purchases; and, as many of them are stock corporations. their stock-holders must wait for their Possibly an ideal plan of doing business-selling goods-would be to sell for cash, or on the same terms on which the retailers buy. Any person, or firm, with a fair credit reputation, can buy on thirty days time, and possibly subject to a 2-percent discount. No dealer would object to credit selling on the same terms, if bills were paid when due.

But, this is the rub. The retailer must pay his bills on time, or become known as "slow pay" and have the best buying markets closed against him. The retailer simply "charges" his sales, and never has the assurance of any definite time in which the charged bills will surely be paid. In addition, he takes chances concerning the reliability of his debtors that the city jobbers do not take.

That the credit business in rural districts is in a deplorable status, is true, and responsibility for it is not so much due to the "easy" nature of storekeepers, as it is to the lack of honorable intentions on the part of so many buyers. This, however, is aside from the point we want to make; which is, that where one gets his credit, there one should in all fairness and decency spend his cash. Those who always have money, and never ask for credit, are of course not included in this verdict. They are privileged characters, in this respect.

GEORGE WASHINGTON AND PEACE.

Armistice Day, as the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points out, should recall to every American mind George Washington as the devout believer that he was in peace. Throughout the eight years of the Revolutionary War, Gen-eral Washington fought with the aim of peace forever in mind. During his Presidency his scrupulous efforts to keep the United States out of for-eign entanglements had as their aim the single thought of peace.

For Washington, particularly in his later and more mature years, war had lost whatever glamor it might ence of so many reliable organizations, working almost everywhere, for the relief of needy cases; and it would seem that individual canvasses should hardly be necessary.

"Home Missions" these days, can be found in almost all localities, and the individual giver can usually get rid peace by having paid its price in sacrifice, in trial, and even in the exposure of his person on the field of

> He proved the sincerity of his love of peace again and again, by the very readiness to resort to arms once more, when occasion demanded. When what is known as the "Whiskey Rebellion" threatened for a time, early in his second administration, he lost not a moment in despatching troops to put it down. When he had retired from the Presidency to the enjoyment of Mcunt Vernon, he cheerfully accepted 30x5.55 Auto Tubes, 49c 30x5.50 Auto Tubes, 49c the responsibility of Commander-inthe responsibility of Commander-in-Chief once more, when our differences with France brought threat of war. Fortunately the storm-cloud passed, but Washington had proved his readiness to resort to the battlefield had necessity beckoned.
> But the necessity of war alone induced Washington to take up arms

duced Washington to take up arms. History records what a fighter he was, when the cause was just and the fight was forced upon him. In every other respect he was a warrior who 29x4.75 Auto Tires, $6.05 abhored war.

George Washington had his Armistice Day when England signed arti-cles of peace with the victorious Col-onies in 1783. The moment the cause for which he had fought was won and triumph was a reality, he turned his back on military glory. As soon as decorum permitted, he resigned his commission to Congress and turned his face toward home, never again, he hoped, to be drawn away from peace ful pursuits as a private citizen. And this was the act of a man, but a year before, had but to lift his hand to grasp the dictatorial power tendered him by any army that adored him and that raged at the neglect of Congress. His devoted officers virtually begged him to assume monarchial powers, and his only answer was indignant refusal.

So one of the greatest of soldiers remained one of the greatest advo-cates of peace, but, be it remembered, always the peace of honor. As head of the army he proved how honorably a war may be won; as President of the United States he proved how a statesman may preserve peace with honor. On more than one occasion the country, during his two adminis trations, faced the risk of being drawn into European conflicts. Wash-ington saved the country from the peril, but he saw to it equally well that its honor was in no way sullied. In the great political classic he left us, the Farewell Address, delivered to the American people as he laid down the Presidency, the note of peace is sounded in lines that should be forever branded in memory:

"... nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathics arguingt particular nations."

pathies against particular nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded; and that in place of them just and amicable feel-ings toward all should be cultivated. The Nation which indulges towards another habitual hatred or an habitual fondness, is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection either of which is sufficient

The passage ends on a note which counsels freedom from these entang-lements for the sole purpose of maintaining our peace.

On Armistice Day this year the country is reminded again of those who gave their lives for country and who sleep in the peace of death. Over 2-lb. Mint Lozenges for 25c their bodies George Washington would pronounce his blessing. In deeds as eloquent as his words, they proclaim-ed America's faithful adherence to the principle that he laid down for the principle that he laid down for our perpetual guidance—peace as long as it is honorable, but war to the death when it is forced upon us, and always for the purpose of restoring peace again.—From the George Washington Bi-centennial Commission

WINTER SUNSHINE GOOD FOR POULTRY

Ultra-Violet Rays Needed by Flock.

So much evidence has been accumulated about the value of winter sunshine in egg production that it cannot be ignored by poultry raisers who want to get profitable results.

It has been shown that ultra-violet rays are a powerful factor in increasing egg production, hatchability and fertility, as well as in maintaining healthful conditions.

Ultra-violet rays promote bone and body g wth, and building vitamin D. During le winter months, when poulnfined, ordinary glass and th curtains bar them out and some : ans must be employed to make t_m available.

You need good housing and good management to get best results. Published data by such representative bodies as Wisconsin experiment station. University of Arkansas; Ohio experiment station and others have shown the effect of ultra-violet rays during the winter months. Records at egg-laying contests (notably the Vineland egg-laying contest) also give practical proof of the egg-producing value of ultra-violet rays.

Poultry needs winter sunshine. Layers must get ultra-violet radiation or its equivalent. This is also true of chicks. The wise poultry raiser will make sure his house is properly constructed this winter and next spring. -Ohio Farmer.

Size of Eggs Can Be

Influenced by Feeding Egg size is influenced by breeding and also by feeding. It is as natural for some hens to lay large eggs as it is for some cows to give a heavy flow of milk. It is important to select eggs of the desired size when saving for incubation, because the size of egg laid, to some extent, is inherited by the offspring. However, it is possible to influence the size of eggs to a considerable extent through proper feeding and a proper supply of minerals necessary for egg shell.

A ration of grain alone or even with milk will probably not give best results so far as egg size is concerned. A balanced ration carrying not less than 3 per cent of bone meal and possibly 1 or 2 per cent calcium carbonate in some form, like crushed limestone or calcite, is considered desirable for best eggs.

Plan Now to Increase

Production of Eggs One of the imperative needs of the poultry industry is to increase the consumption of eggs, said Reese Ricks of the International Baby Chick association, in addressing the American Institute of Co-operation at Manhattan, Kan. Other foods are giving eggs a battle for a place on the breakfast table, and according to Mr. Hicks, this is what can be done about it.

The first step toward increasing egg consumption is for producers to supply high quality eggs. The second step is in standardizing the product so that the public will know what it is buying. The third step is for cooperatives to join hands with other agencies in the poultry industry to educate the public as to the value of eggs.—Nebraska Farmer.

Poultry Facts Oat hulls are not harmful to chicks if ground fine enough.

Among the incurable poultry diseases are chronic coccidiosis, tuberculosis, bacillary white diarrhea, fowl cholera, fowl typhoid and blackhead. Serious cases of chicken pox and roup might also be included.

The poultryman's biggest asset right now is the flock of new pullets that are being developed for next winter's laying flock, and whatever he can do to protect that flock so these birds will continue to lay, worth real money

Culling a flock is one of the important things which is most commonly neglected. There is also a neglect to procure and keep pure-bred chickens. Vermin are commonly found in poultry houses.

Several poultry diseases are quite similar in many external symptoms. One or two additional symptoms usually, to the experienced, determine the accuracy of the superficial diagnosis. Post mortems prove the superficial diagnosis and therein lies experience.

Either whole oats or hulled oats may be used in a grain ration that is fed to chickens. However, hulled oats makes a better feed because a large part of the fiber is removed and the birds will, therefore, get a bigger percentage of grain.

Keep records of the number of eggs received each day and how they are disposed of. An account book will tell where the money goes and where the money comes from and will enable one to make economies on the one side and increase income on the other.

20 FAMILIES TO BE MAROONED ON ISLE

U. S. Employees to Care for New Lighthouse.

Venture, Calif.-Water, water everywhere, not a drop to drink.

Just like the Ancient Mariner, 20 government employees and their families will be marooned on a barren island 20 miles off this port when a new lighthouse station is ready for occupancy this fall.

Not a drop of water is to be found on the wind-swept bit of land, narrow and less than two miles in length. The precious fluid must be brought from the mainland in barrels, just as though the workers were living in the heart of the Sahara.

Difficulties of erecting the huge lighthouse, radio compass station, power house and foghorn station may be imagined with water so scarce. Sea water was found impractical for use in mixing concrete, so it was necessary to bring it from the mainland, land is on the beach and haul it over a rocky cliff to the building

Anacapa island, most southerly of the Santa Barbara channel islands, is directly in the path of coastwise steamer traffic, and has been lighted previously with only a small flashing light. Despite this, there have been no serious wrecks on its rocky shore.

Fate evidently plotted the courses of vessels so that they would pile up on San Miguel island, most northerly of the group, or on the opposite shore of the channel, at Poing Ar-

Although isolated and uninhabited until the arrival of the construction crew, Anacapa island has for years been a favorite haunt of fishing and pleasure craft.

Fine Weather to Order. Dutch Professor's Claim

The Hague.—"Fine weather to order" is the claim made by Prof. A. Veraat of Rijswijk, near here.

Veraat went up in an airplane, taking with him 11/2 tons of powdered carbon dioxide, to a height of 5,000 feet and sprinkled the powder onto the upper surface of clouds 600 feet below. Immediately heavy rain fell.

The professor's theory is that the falling particles of powdered carbon dioxide become laden with electricity by their fall, which transforms them into innumerable microscopic drops of liquid gas. These drops condense the clouds into rain.

Four military airmen who accompanied the machine from which the experiment was conducted reported that the rain fell over an area of six square miles.

Professor Veraat declares that his system has been inspired by the desire to make it possible for mankind to enjoy more sunshine. By throwing "dry ice" powder of the clouds in the early morning, he says, the sky can be cleared for the rest of the day. He is confident that fog mist can be attacked in the same way and made to disappear in a short shower of rain.

To Build Hospital for Defective Delinquents

Washington.-Plans for a new federal hospital for defective delinquents to be built at Springfield, Mo., at an approximate cost of $2,500,000 were announced by the federal bureau of prisons.

This was accounted further progress in the government's program for bettering penal institutions and affording free medical care to prisoners who need it.

It was expected the proposal for bids would be issued in about six weeks and the construction of the building would start in the fall. The total bed capacity of the hospital will be 850, of which 500 will be for insane and psychopathic, 150 for tubercular and 200 for chronic medical

HINDENBURG MOST POPULAR GERMAN

No One Else Has His Hold on Love of Masses.

Berlin, Germany.-In all Germany today there is only one "most popular man," only one who is so loved by the masses that no other can approach his hold on them.

Paul von Beneckendorf und von Hindenburg, president of the German republic and former field marshal in the imperial armies, a weary old man of eighty-three, probably longs for the day when he can retire, yet is kept going by his one passion—the burning desire to save the fatherland at all

One has to see the president at close range in order to realize just how his age is beginning to tell, and to realize the determination to carry on despite the shortcomings of the

It is said of President Hindenburg that he displays no emotion by his facial expression. But he does. When he is angry, his right eyelid droops.

Still the Soldier. The influences of soldier life are apparent in the president's executive office in the palace in Wilhelmstrasse.

The room is somewhat dark. The massive carved desk is placed by the window overlooking the palace gardens. There are a few pictures. Several leather chairs are there for guests, although most visitors never get to that comfortable stage, for the president usually stands during the brief audiences.

Hindenburg is not a good listener. Even in receiving diplomats he often breaks the conversation with short, pertinent questions, giving it a new turn abruptly, without, however, los-ing the thread of the message, or taking the man from his subject.

Hindenburg's passion for hunting is the one thing which he indulges. He is an excellent shot. Late in the summer he brought down a one-point buck on his grounds at Shorfheide. Love for Children.

Although his great age is beginning to tell, Hindenburg still maintains his 6. In the summer he goes for a walk in the palace gardens, accompanied by his shepherd dog, Rolf.

No picture of Hindenburg would be complete without mention of his fondness for children-especially his son Oskar's two daughters and one small son, Gertrude, nine, Helga, seven, and Hubertus, three, who live at the palace. He has ten grandchildren in all and one great-grandchild, the grandson of his daughter. Frau von Brouckhusen. He has one other daughter, wife of Major von Pentz. The families often visit in Berlin.

Germany's first lady is Frau Oskar von Hindenburg, who plans the official receptions and dinners.

Time Clock Crowing Governed by Whistle

Kingston, N. C.—A hen owned by William R. Brinkley, master of the local fox hunt club, laid a freak egg. Ridges on one side formed the rough likeness of a clock dial.

The hen was broody. Brinkley allowed her to keep the egg. The egg was hatched and produced a chick. The chick became a cockerel.

A few days ago the young rooster started crowing. Brinkley noted that it crowed at 6 a. m., noon and 6 p. m. -on the dot. He was astounded. It maintained the schedule day after Neighbors were informed. They kept tab on the bird and verified Brinkley's claim that it "kept time." Then Brinkley made a disappointing discovery. The cockerel crowed only when incited by a mill whistle in the neighborhood and the whistle sounded at 6 a. m., noon and 6 p. m.

Tennessee Woman Provides Guides for Sightless.

EUROPEAN BLIND

Paris, France.-A clever and philanthropic American woman from Tennessee, Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, has made it possible for many blind men and women of Paris to develop an independence they never have known before, and she does it with dogs. At her home in Vevey, Switzerland, Mrs. Eustis has established an organization called the "L'Oeil qui Voit," or the "Seeing Eye," where she trains German shepherd dogs as guides for the blind. She says she conceived this idea after visiting Potsdam, where a similar enterprise has been successful.

Special trainers teach the dogs to be the "eyes" of the blind, and a number of blind people are received into her home where they are kept until they are accustomed to the dog.

Assisting Mrs. Eustis are two fellow countrymen, Miss Edith Doudge and E. S. Humphrey, whose efforts are concentrated on bringing help and relief for the blind throughout the country, for requests come to them from all parts of the world.

Only two or three dogs are trained at a time, and very close and concentrated attention is given to them until they become proficient in their task. By certain movements the dog is taught to make, he tells his sightless partner when to step up or down, from a curbing and when it is safe to cross a street.

Mrs. Eustis says that she does not allow the animals to be punished so that they have the slightest fear of their trainers.

In Memory of MRS. AGNES S. HARNER, who died November 25th., 1925.

Six years has passed since that sad day, When one I loved was called away. God took her home, it was his will, But in my heart she liveth still.

Before my eyes she faded, Growing weaker every day, Doing all I could to save her, Until God took her away.

I miss your help, your cheery way; With you I spent my happiest days. I miss you when I need a friend, On you I always could depend. By her husband, EMANUEL HARNER,

In Sad But Loving Remembrance of our dear mother, SARAH ELLEN SHORB, who departed this life Oct. 15, 1931.

LONG HERMIT LIFE

Spends 23 Years Alone on Isle Playing Solitaire.

Crisfield, Md.-After playing hermit for 23 years and using up 500 decks of cards playing solitaire, a former Jersey City lawyer is married to a Jersey City woman.

Charles Hardenberg, better known as the hermit of Watts Island, is the bridegroom. Miss Katherine Seipel, Jersey City, is the bride. They were married at the Methodist parsonage at Accomac, Va., by the Rev. N. J. Hunt. For 23 years Hardenberg has lived alone on little Watts Island, about ten miles from here. In 1908 he left his law practice in Jersey City and landed on Watts island. He was then thirty-three, and he has been alone ever since until he took his bride home with him.

House Built in 1874.

The house to which the hermit of Watts island has taken his bride is made of brick and was built in 1874 by the government for a lightkeeper. Later an automatic light was installed and the house was sold to Hardenberg's brother.

Watts island was discovered in 1620, and at one time was a flourishing farm with fruit trees and a large acreage of tillable land.

Hardenberg hasn't a radio, he keeps no dogs. Three chickens are the only creatures there beside himself and his

Has Lived 23 Years.

His provisions have been brought from Crisfield and when he got tired of canned goods he caught a few fish or took up a few oysters from the rocks in front of his door.

Hardenberg has lived for 23 years a life of solitude, his only companion the surf beating on the lonely shore of his island. Once he went to New York for the funeral of a relative, and an occasional visit to Crisfield has been his only touch with civilization.

Once a playwright, Wilard Robinson, put in to Watts island on his yacht, and later created a part in a play, "The Sea Window," called Charley Watts, which was supposed to be Hardenberg. Although he had one of the largest libraries in Jersey City, Hardenberg has few books on Watts island.

Pennsylvania Town Puts

Curfew on Radio Sets Shamokin, Pa.—Councilmanic ordinance set 11 p. m. as the curfew hour for all radio sets within Shamokin borough.

At that hour all sets must be turned down so that they cannot be heard outside the house and all windows must be closed when the radio is playing. Shamokin was not alone in seeking to place restrictions on radios playing late at night.

At Wilkes-Barre police anounced that they would respond promptly to any complaints against excessively loud radios and would direct set owners to cut down the volume imme-

Water Diviner Claims Streams Aid Health

Bolzano, Italy. - Signor Giovanni Gotsch, diviner for water-seeking citizens of this region, claims that underground streams possess radiations which are beneficial for many maladies. Gotsch, who has been long noted for his ability to find underground streams by the use of a diving rod, has made experiments in these underground radiations. He claims that a sick person placed over the path of one of these hidden streams reports an improvement in health.

New Submarine Valley Named for Survey Ship

Boston.-A submarine valley, discovered by the United States coast and geodetic survey near the southeast edge of Georges bank, henceforth will be known as "Corsair Gorge." The pit, located off the Massachusetts coast and not previously known to exist, is reported to be more than a halfmile deep in places. It was named in honor of the survey vessel which discovered it—the yacht Corsair, formerly owned by J. Pierpont Morgan.

Claims World Title for His Traffic Fines

Kansas City, Mo.—To R. M. Rosier of Bolton, Mo., goes the doubtful honor of having paid the highest aggregate of traffic violation fines. He settled for $159, having 30 separate tickets against his automobile.

Sailors Catch Eagle Exhausted at Sea

Boston.—The dragger Venture
II returned from the fishing grounds with an unusual catch —an American eagle with a fivefoot wingspread. Capt. Fred Surette reported that the big bird, exhausted, had alighted on the Venture's deck while the dragger was 130 miles southeast of Boston Lightship. Engineer
W. H. Mayo kept the eagle confined to a box until the boat docked. The bird was presented Boston.—The dragger Venture fined to a box until the boat docked. The bird was presented to Franklin park zoo.

Uncle Sam Gives 90,000

Lessons in Geography Washington.-It may sound strange to say that 90,000 persons in the United States-and merely in a small section of the United States-took geography lessons during the month of June. But that is the case.

Ninety thousand persons went on field trips and attended lessons in Yellowstone National park during the month of June. This was just twice the number that attended last year's courses.

The ranger-naturalist service of the national parks, which conducts the lessons and field trips, is the outgrowth of the constant demands by park visitors for authentic information concerning the scientific value of the parks.

Panama Canal Tolls

$300,000 Under 1930 Washington.—Tolls collected at the Panama canal dropped more than $300,000 in August from the total collected in August, 1930, Governor Burgess radioed the War department. For the six months ended August 31 tolls were $1,674,915 less than for the corresponding months of last year.

Total tolls collected in August were $1,770,202 and in August, 1930 $2,080,-230. A total of 390 ships passed through in August, compared with 465 in August, 1930. For the six months' period the ships totaled 2,516 in 1931 and 2,914 in 1930.

Death of Shakespeare

Held Due to 13 Diseases

London.-The death in 1616 of William Shakespeare, forty-two year-old bard, was due to a complication of 13 diseases, according to an article in The Lancet, British medical weekly, by Dr. MacLeod Yearsley, consulting surgeon to St. James' hospital.

According to Doctor Yearsley, the famous playwright's death resulted from complications of fever, typhus, typhoid paralysis, epilepsy, apoplexy, arterio-scerosis, over-smoking, chronic alcoholism, gluttony, angina pectoris, Bright's disease, pulmonary congestion and locomotor ataxia.

Hunger Now Good Form

wvery school child used to be asked these two questions: Do you live to eat? Or do you eat to live? When he replied that he ate to live, his teacher was gratified by his intelligent discrimination.

Now the fashion has changed-appetite is stylish, and hunger is in good form, according to the etiquette tipsters of the Woman's Home Companion. They assert that society is now unanimous in ruling that nowadays no one wishes to eat merely to live. It is recognized frankly "that eating has a part in mental happiness, efficiency and good health."

Odd Headache "Cure"

In the Sixteenth century to cure a headache, the patient took a mixture of pepper and mustard, rolled into a ball about the size of a bean, and rolled it on his tongue. He was to eat nothing, but was to keep rolling this awful mixture in his mouth until cured, says an article in a Boston

The "evil humors" of the head were supposed to be drawn by the pellet in the mouth. Without a doubt, the patient thought he had the evil humors in his mouth after rolling the mixture around for a few minutes.

Monkeys Are Troublesome

Mischievous wild monkeys which live in the mountains around the historic Japanese town of Nikko are worrying villages by raiding fields and poultry yards. The worst depredations are reported from the Fukushima prefecture where, according to villagers, the monkeys are chasing horses into the hills. A Japanese, Zainiwazuka, recently reported that while cutting hay his horse disappeared. He gave chase and saw the pack animal in a distant valley with a monkey leading him into the hills.

Old Grist Mill Active

Scituate, Mass.-The wheels of a grist mill built 291 years ago turned again recently as a feature of the fifteenth anniversary celebration of the Scituate Historical society. The old mill stands near Old Oaken Bucket pond, in the Greenbush section.

Thanksgiving Dinner in 1621 Hardly What Would Be Considered Much of a Special "Spread" Today

A modern, transplanted to Puritan , out, because the food did not have the New England, wouldn't give many thanks over Thanksgiving day dinner. He would find it pretty bad fare.

Cranberries were available in 1621, and wild turkey-if the head of the house was a good marksman. There were nut trees in the woods, and wild grapes. But the stock of perishable foodstuffs was meagre. Probably grain was to be had to supplement the small supply of Indian corn, but butter, milk and eggs were almost unheard of in Plymouth 310 years ago. Maybe they had potatoes in 1621, but if they did they came by ship.

A modern expert in nutrition, given a Puritan Thanksgiving dinner to analyze, would have several conniption fits. Dr. Walter H. Eddy points out in Good Housekeeping that he would find fiew green vegetables, no milk, a high preponderance of proteins and acid ash.

"Wild fruits may have helped to avert scurvy," says Doctor Eddy, "but this disease was always imminent in the winter, and probably much of the so-called winter rheumatisms were due to scorbutic joints." Pneumonia and what was called conproper vitamin content.

"Palatability and quantity were in those days almost the sole guides to dietary adequacy," he says. "But families were large and, in spite of high mortality that would produce a scandal in health circles today, they managed to survive and gradually increase

FROM time immemorial, the bringng in of the last sheaves of corn and the cutting of the last of the fruits of the land have been accompanied by feasting and all the outward expressions of joy and happiness. It is a time for reunion of families, for happy greetings, for the renewal of friendships and of general gaiety.

THANKSGIVING day is only our annual time for saying grace at the sumption wiped out whole families in table of eternal goodness .- James M. old New England, Doctor Eddy points I Ludlow.

PAUL IN ROME

GOLDEN TEXT-I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth LESSON TEXT-Acts 25:1-12; 28: PRIMARY TOPIC---Paul in the Great-

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the Greatest City of the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Life-long Ambition Fulfilled.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel

in Rome.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

I. Paul Appeals to Caesar (25:1-12). In order to appreciate this action on the part of Paul it is well to get a synthetic grasp of the experiences which forced him to make this appeal,

1. His trial before Felix (Acts 24). The officials of the Sanhedrin were represented by Tertullus, a Roman barrister. He brought a fourfold charge against Paul:

a. A pestilent fellow (v. 5). b. An inciter of rebellion (v. 5).

c. The ringleader of a sect (v. 5).
d. A profaner of the temple (v. 6). To this charge Paul replied in a clear and dignified manner, setting forth the facts of his life, and demanded that his adversaries bring proof of their accusation. Felix was greatly moved by Paul's testimony concerning Christ, but postponed decision, expecting to receive a bribe from Paul,

2. Trial before Festus (25:1-12). Festus was the successor of Felix. Two years had elapsed, but the Jewish hatred had not abated. Paul's foes in Jerusalem sought to have him brought there for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus, willing to please the Jews, purposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. For this Paul rebuked him, declaring that he very well knew that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice at the hands of Festus, he made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar. Festus was taken by surprise and found himself in an embarrassing position, as he was unable to explain to Caesar as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

3. Trial before Agrippa (25:13-26:32). This was occasioned by the visit to Festus of Agrippa and Bernice. Upon their arrival Festus told them of his perplexity. Therefore, they expressed a desire to hear Paul. Paul gladly made his defense before them and appealed to them to accept made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Haven (vv. 9-12), but his advice was unheeded. In verses 14 to 20 we have a most graphic description of the storm. Tempestuous winds as well as soft breezes await God's faithful ones. Paul's serene faith (vv. 21-26). God is as near to his faithful ones on a stormy sea as in the quietude of the home. Paul was not only calm, but bade the people be of good cheer (v. 22). He promised them safety though the ship would go to pieces.

The ship's crew safe (vv. 27-44). All turned out as God had promised. III. Paul's Ministry in Rome (Acts 28:15-31).

1. Welcomed by the brethren (v. 15). They met him at the Appli forum, a distance of about forty miles from Rome. This was the first time he was thus welcomed.

2. Paul's lenient treatment (v. 16). He was allowed to hire a house and live apart, being guarded by a soldier.

3. Conference with the leading Jews (vv. 17-22). He allowed himself only three days to rest. His object was to have a fair understanding with the Jews. He explained the reason for his being there. The result was that the Jews took neutral ground, but expressed a desire to hear what Paul could say in defense of a sect which was evil spoken against. 4. Paul expounding the kingdom of God and persuading concerning Jesus (vv. 23-31). He pointed out a real kingdom, the Messianic Kingdom, with the historic Jesus as the King. The kingdom to Paul meant a definite reign of a definite person, not merely an improved state of society. This he showed from the Scriptures. He went through the Old Testament, carefully showing the kingdom teaching to be in harmony with the law and the

Personal Consecration

There is also need of a clear understanding of what consecration means. It is not an indulgence in pious yearnings and smug phrases. It is the willingness to face facts squarely, to deny one's self in behalf of others, to give, to work with one's heart and soul that God's kingdom may come upon Pleasures Not Lasting The pleasures of sin are but for a season, but the punishment of unpardoned sin is everlasting.

Facts and Figures on Your Telephone

By EDWIN F. HILL

Telephones operated by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia have been increased 16,309 in the first nine months of the year, a net gain of 2,427 having been made in September.

During the first Edwin F. Hill nine months of this year the Bell System had a net loss of about 207,500 telephones or one and one-third per cent of those in service at the beginning of the year, according to the October 15 statement made by President Walter S. Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to the stockholders.

For September, he states, there was a net gain of 12,500 telephones and the usual seasonal increase in long distance calls. Of this net telephone gain about 19.4 per cent was made in the territory of the Chesapeake and Potomac Companies.

Special sales effort, according to Mr. Gifford, is being made with the view to improving growth in the number of telephones and increasing the use of toll and long distance service. The total operating revenues for the Bell System for the nine months were 1.9 per cent below those for the same period last year. Total operating expenses, including depreciation and taxes, were 2.8 per cent below those for the corresponding period in 1930.

For the nine months, the earnings of the company have exceeded dividends by $6,800,000. In addition the company's net equity in the undistributed earnings of its subsidiary companies, including the Western Electric Company, for the period was upproximately $3,500,000.

World Apt to Neglect

Its Great Benefactors Humphrey O'Sullivan was a world benefactor, but he posed as a mere business man. He invented the rubber heel as a necessary sequel to the development of hard streets and sidewalks. Few of the so-called minor inventions have given so much relief and prevented so much injury as the resilient heel. The great benefactors are not always acclaimed. The man who invents a new gun or deadly gas or blows up a town is more likely to be conspicuously honored than is the student, scientist or mechanic who tries to help humanity. The inventor of the machine gun was, judged by street standards, a greater man than the one who developed the Concord grape. Jesse James was more prominent than Burbank. The heroes of the workbench, farm, shop and library are not the ones who reap the grapes of public favor. Somehow humanity prefers a killer to a builder. O'Sullivan died almost neglected. The same week a fat, degenerate gangster died in the same city of New York and he had a $20,000 funeral and several miles of

Most of the people are supplied every day with fresh water, conveyed to their doors in casks, from a pump near the head of Queen (Pearl) street, which received it from a pond almost a mile from the city. Several proposals have been made by individuals to supply the citizens by pipes, but none have been accepted.-New York

To handle them is not a job for a weakling."

Day's True Spirit

Not Ourselves Alone, Is Thanksgiving Motto.

our moans! -With Many Apologies to Browning.

Like the turkey and the epicureans, we are prone to eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die. We must have a particular day appointed in which to give thanks, lest we forget. We take so much for granted, accept all the good things of life without stopping to count our many blessings, or to name them one by one, as we were admonished in Sunday school so long ago.

We enjoy years and years of health, forgetting what a wonderful gift it is until illness lays us low. We accept our friends who strew our path with roses and cheer our way with kindness until one is gone, and we realize how much more we might have been to him. We think we love our children, but when they have all left the nest, how gladly would we have them back that we might show them how much more we could prove our love.

The editor of the Outlook, some years ago, expressed the true spirit of Thanksgiving so effectively that I quote him verbatim: "If the end of society is to produce the largest number of free human spirits, of generous human hearts, of strong human hands, of pure human homes, of noble human lives; if the liberation of serfs, the setting free of those in bondage, the care and reverence for the man as a man, the open door to the boy and girl whose feet are eager to climb, the breathing of the breath of life through a stagnant world, means progress toward the ultimate goal, then let us reverently thank God that we were orn in an age and in a country in which it is our supreme good fortune not to be ministered unto but to minister."

"If we are to return thanks," he goes on to say, "not for ourselves alone but for all men; not for work done, but for noble chances to work; not for a finished civilization, but for the greater civilization that may be developed; not for a few choice spirits, but for the opportunity for all men to lift themselves into the light; not for things which make for our own comfort, but for the things which make for the healing of the world; not for the life that has been Nved, but for the boundless life that is to be, then let us thank God that he has given us, not things but chance of growth: not comfort but opportunity of service: not ease of spirit but the toils of the unselfish life."-Indianapolis News.

Fish Suicide Seen as They Die by Tons

Washington.-Department of Commerce fish experts are wondering if fish commit suicide. Suicide was the only explanation they could give after a careful investigation into the mystery of several tons of dead fish found floating recently on the waters of Nantucket shoals.

The fish were not diseased, it was determined after an inspection by experts who visited the area on the Albatross II. Conditions otherwise were normal. Report that the fish were killed by navy depth bombs were discredited when naval officials said there had been no operations in that area recently.

STAGE COACH TALES By E. C. TAYLOR

The Vanderbilt of the Stage Era

L UCIUS WITHAM STOCKTON was to the stage coach era of transportation in the United States what Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt was to the railroad era-the outstanding figure, almost the "czar," of his time. Stockton was born in Flemington, N. J., the son of Lucius Stockton and grandson of Rev. Philip Stockton, famous as the "Revolutionary Preacher," who was a brother of Richard Stockton, signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Little is known of his early life, but it is known that he drove stage coaches for a time, and appeared in Uniontown, Pa., lured westward by the call of the National road, and married Rebecca Moore, daughter of Daniel Moore, an old stage proprietor of Washington, Pa., before he was twenty-four years of age. They had six children. His second wife was his first cousin, Katharine Stockton, and four children were born to them.

Stockton became wealthy operating stage coaches over the famous old National road from the Atlantic seaboard to the Middle West, and was perhaps the most colorful figure of

Early in his career he once raced a horse and buggy against a locomotive between Relay House and Baltimore, Md., and won the race. He drove a favorite gray horse in that contest. Stockton was a great lover of horses, and developed his own special strains for his stage coach lines. He had a strain called the "Murat" and another called the "Winflower," which many experts declare have never been surpassed for nerve, beauty and speed. This can never be determined, however, as the two strains have died out. He was a familiar figure along the National road, and became known as the "speed maniac" of his day. He had a span of beautiful Winflower mares, which Hanson Willison, one of his drivers, has recorded were named "Sal" and "Bet." He frequently drove this span from Uniontown to Wheeling, W. Va., between breakfast and tea time, stopping two or three hours at midday in Washington, Pa.

Stockton always had the hostlers add a little whisky to the water given this span to drink, and the spirited, fleet steeds became so accustomed to their "tipple" that they refused to drink unless their water had a little whisky in it. He also frequently drove from Uniontown to Cumberland, Md., in a day, stopping at the stage coach station along the way to transact business. Also a drive from Cumberland to Hagerstown, Md., a distance of 66 miles, was an ordinary day's drive for him. He had a private carriage, a long, open vehicle, which he called "The Flying Dutchman," and which was famous among horsemen and sportsmen of the time.

The famous span once with him, when he was driving his wife and sister over the National road. His sister clutched frantically at him, but he didn't pay any attention to her cries, and soon had the spirited team under control.

Stockton had a factory in Uniontown where nearly all of the coaches of the National Road Stage company, which he had organized and which ran nearly all competitors out of business during the heyday of the National road, were built by experts. Maj. William A. Donaldson was one of the foremen at the factory on Morgantown street.

All stage coaches of the National road days were named, mostly for famous personages of the time. Stockton had one named "John Tyler" in honor of the Vice President of the first Harrison administration. When Tyler, on the death of William Henry Harrison, succeeded to the Presidency and vetoed the United States bank bill, Stockton was very much angered. Going into the stage coach yard, soon after the veto was announced, he spied the "John Tyler" and shouted to Donaldson:

"Donaldson, can't you erase that name and substitute another one? I won't have my coaches named for a

"Certainly I can," Donaldson replied. "What shall the new name be?" "Call it 'General Harrison.'"

So the change was made. Donaldson was a Democrat, and was much amused by the incident.

Stockton died in Uniontown April 25, 1844, at "Ben Lomond," his elaborate estate. He is buried in the cemetery at Washington, Pa., where rest many other builders of the Allegheny Mountain region. (©. 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Spider Builds Diving Bell

A spider that lives under water is an air-breathing insect like the garden variety. It can remain under water for many hours at a time and even builds its nest there and rears its young by means of air which it collects on the surface, and stores in a reservoir made of its silk.

In midwinter, among the pondweeds, it spins a delicate, flat web, an almost invisible sheet. Then it climbs a plant to the surface, to collect air. It may swim awhile on its back to entangle air in its thick hairy coat, and then smartly dive. The effect is, the air goes with it, caught by its hair, and between its eight legs.

Drain Lake to Recover Ancient Indian Relics.

Calcutta. - A secret underground treasure vault used by the ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, India, has been rediscovered with the aid of Sig. Mancini, an Italian architect. The utmost secrecy surrounds the finding of the treasure, "lost" for so many years near the artificial lake of Saugor.

Jewels and gold found in the vault are said to be worth about $500,000,-000, but they are sacred relics, and the maharajah has not decided whether to reseal the vault or appropriate the treasure. Frequent attempts have been made in the past to discover the jewels and huge sums were spent in searching for them.

The maharajah was once told by an astrologer that he would recover the what was wrong, and while working lost fortune, and he destroyed four old palaces and then built new ones in

Of Mystic Value.

The ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, who claims to descend from the mythological King Rama of Ajodhya, had been charged with the preservation of the historic imperial jewels of the last Hindu emperor, Rana Prithwlraj, who was defeated in the battle of Panipat in the Sixteenth century. The famous crown of the Pandava emperors was said to have been found after the vault was opened.

To the Hindus the jewels have great mystic value, embodying the ruling principles of kingship among them. The possessor of the jewels, Hindus claim, hold the power to rule India in the future.

During the excavation for a huge irrigation reservoir engineers came upon the ruins of an ancient palace. A copper plate was found containing verses in Sanskrit, which indicated that the treasures of the Hindu emperors were carefully stored in vaults near the "lake in the hills."

Lake Drained Dry.

Sig. Mancini, who has been engaged to supervise the contraction of a new palace for the maharajah on Mount Abu was asked to help in the hunt for the hidden cache. The "lake in the hills" was decided to be the beautiful Lake Saugor, and, under the pretext of changing the water, it was drained dry. The lake's bed was cleaned out. In the center was discovered strong masonry work. On examining it an entrance was found behind a huge movable stone.

A tunnel under the lake bed led to the vault lying hidden deep in the rocky hills. In the first chamber was found a huge copper vessel.

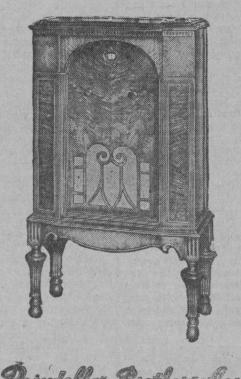

On being opened, the vessel was found to be full of gold. It was one solid mass, apparently having been melted and poured into the vessel before it was placed in the vault. Tracks on the ground led to the corner in the wall where the second entrance to a second vault was located. There the $500,000,000 in jewels and gold was
