LETTER FROM DETROIT

An Interesting Contribution from Our Former Co-worker.

Several months having elapsed since my last letter to The Record, and not having anything in particular to look after, nor any job to worry about, I have concluded to send another letter to the Editor, in the hope that I may be able to interest the readers of The Record, and be of a little assistance to the Editor in his efforts to give the people of Taneytown a paper that they may be proud of.

But in the very start I want to say that I cannot promise how interesting the article may prove to be, as it seems to me that there is very little occurring out here that would interest the people of Taneytown and vicinity. About all we hear is about the struggle the residents of Detroit are having to make both ends meet, even with the much heralded aid the National Government, through the NRA, is giving. The business world, as well as the people generally, are all giving this much talked-of plan their hearty support, although I have heard numerous opinions that it is not suited to conditions in Detroit. It is pointed out that as work was not very plentiful before the code went into effect, the effect will be to spread out the jobs among more men, and the result will be that while there is a large number were making a decent weekly wage, now the work will be so divided that no one will be able to make enough to live on.

It is a fact that a number of the large automobile factories made special efforts to build far ahead of their present requirements, placing the cars in storage, and are now cutting down on their production thus using less men in fewer hours. How they expect any employee to buy cars, or any other luxuries, is beyond me. It is true that in a great many cases wages have been raised, but the cut in hours more than balances these raises, and does not begin to compare with the cuts given the past few years.

While it is true that more men are being employed, it remains a fact that Detroit is not a very desirable place to come to, in search of employment. The recent Legislature passed a law empowering Detroit to register the unemployed. This was done, with the result that over 102,000 men were placed on this list, and I will venture to say that half that many more did not go to the trouble to register. It would be of no use for a man over 50 to go to that trouble, as he could not get a job anywhere. Nor could a man who is not physically sound in every respect. This latter requirement is brought about by the provisions of the new Compensation Law. What they expect an old man to do, is a question I cannot answer.

I presume you are not bothered with any trouble caused by the legalizing of 3.2 beer. Well, out here there is plenty of trouble and dissatisfaction. Not that it makes many people tipsy—they say it is too weak for that—but in the administration of the law. More than one-half of those who took out licenses are now sorry that they did so, and are, in a great

TANEYTOWN SAVINGS BANK REOPENED.

The Taneytown Savings Bank, having completed its plan of re-organization and been licensed to open on a 100% basis, reorganized its board at a special meeting on Wednesday evening, Aug. 9, 1933.

The members of the old board who have been untiring in their efforts to re-organize the bank will compose the new board, Daniel J. Hesson was appointed President, Norville P. Shoemaker was appointed vice-president, in place of Calvin T. Fringer, deceased; O. E. Dodner, Secretary and Treasurer, Clyde L. Hesson, Asst. Treas., and Wm. E. Burke, Jr., Clerk. Other members of the board are: David H. Hahn, Norman R. Hess, Norman R. Baumgardner and Merle S. Baumgardner. In addition to these vacancies on the board were filled by the appointment of George R. Sauble and Edward E. Stuller.

These are all well known successful business men of the community and it is felt they will use their best efforts and judgment to make the new bank a success.

The bank has also been considerably strengthened by the increase of its capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000 and the setting up of a new surplus of $12,500, by the sale of 2500 shares of new stock at $15.00 per share, held by 186 stockholders. With the added new capital and interests this bank should stand second to none in strength and stability and should commend itself to the general public.

J. ALBERT ANGELL'S 79th. BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

J. Albert Angell was accorded an unusual honor last Sunday afternoon in the United Brethren Church, the occasion being the celebration of his 79th birthday. A sketch of the many activities of his life was published in last issue, the record being one seldom reached even by those privileged to live 79 years.

After all the number of one's years amount to but little—it is how one lives them, and Mr. Angell has certainly lived not only a long, but a useful and good life.

The church could not hold all who desired to show their respect by being present, and some turned away. About 65 automobiles were parked along Middle St., many of them from Pennsylvania. An excellent program of addresses and music was rendered.

BARN BURNED NEAR WESTMINSTER.

On Monday, fire destroyed all the buildings on the Ivan L. Hoff farm, tenanted by Howard Easworth and family, situated along the Washington road near Dorsey cross roads. The fire started in the straw stacks, and spread rapidly to all other buildings, including the dwelling. The Westminster Fire Company responded, but due to scarcity of water could not save the dwelling.

In addition to the buildings 300 bushels of wheat, in sacks, ready to be marketed, were burned. The household furniture and many of the farming implements were saved. The loss on house and barn is estimated at $7000., not including other buildings, or contents. The house and barn were insured but no other buildings. Mr. Hoff has asked the State Insurance Commissioner for an investigation.

MONOCACY OUT OF BANKS.

The heavy rain, of Thursday, that reached flood proportions afternoon and night, will be of considerable benefit to late corn and to pastures. Owing to a very heavy downpour in the Marsh Creek and Gettysburg sections, the Monocacy and tributary streams were out of banks. At Bridgeport a cabin owned by Taneytowners was flooded about three feet, and the surface of the water was up to the floor of the new concrete bridge. Other buildings along Monocacy are also reported to have been flooded.

THE N. R. A. EXPLAINED

Gen. Johnson Called for Action at Baltimore Meeting.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who has charge of the N. R. A. campaign, made an address in the Lyric Theatre, Baltimore, on Thursday night, that was broadcasted over the Columbia system in which he explained in part, the objects of the Act, and some of its advantages and penalties, and designated it as President Roosevelt's own idea.

He urged it as a cure for depression and emphasized the importance of its general acceptance. That the Blue Eagle sign represented the President's determination to put people back to work and that this Blue-Eagle buying is not a boycott, but it is a "white list." A portion of the exact address follows:

"In the first place, don't forget that nobody expects employers to pay the cost of reemployment. That is not possible. The consumer—as always—pays the bill.

"It is inevitable that the employer will raise his price and will himself pay nothing at all. The only restraint that is asked of him is that he not raise his prices any more than his costs are raised. Except in a limited class of cases, there is simply nothing to the claim that any employer pays this bill.

"Another wide complaint is that the increased bill will ruin some employers in three months. Now it may very well be true that, for a limited time, there will be higher costs before there are higher sales, but unless this whole plan is to fail, this condition will not last long and in the short time that it does last the burden is not very heavy for anybody. The public will soon buy more for the simple reason that it needs much and can afford to buy more.

"There is a point of perfectly tremendous importance here. It is nothing less than the point of success or failure. I have no words strong enough, or voice loud enough to emphasize this point. The public must buy now. It must buy under the Blue Eagle, and it may buy to the full of its reasonable and prudent needs. It cannot be otherwise. To support increased wages there must be increased business. To get increased business there must be increased buying. Increased wages depend on increased buying, and we can't have one without the other and that is as certain as that two and two make four.

CORNER'S JURY FAILED TO PLACE RESPONSIBILITY.

The coroner's jury called in Taneytown, last Friday evening, to hear testimony concerning the automobile accident on the Taneytown-Keymar road, Thursday night, that resulted in the death of Austin G. Shuff, aged 22 years, of Frederick, was made up as follows: George Winemiller, chairman; Charles Shoemaker, Newton Six, William Houck, John Harman, Luther Wachter, William Crum, Edward Shorb, Edward Baumgardner, Norman Reaver, Benjamin Crabbs, and Delmar Riffle.

After hearing testimony and deliberating for over two hours, the jury made the report that "Austin G. Shuff came to his death, August 3, between Taneytown and Keymar, by a collision with a truck of A. F. Reis, Hanover, Pa., operated by Frederick Mills, Frederick, Md."

Coroner George E. Benson, who presided, said no further action would be taken unless the State's Attorney for Carroll County, or the Grand Jury, decides to do so.

Mills, the truck driver, his daughter, Mrs. Helea Nusbauer, and George Debery testified that Shuff was standing on the running board of his car; while Mrs. Shuff, the widow, who was in the car with her husband, said he was not standing on the running board, but was leaning with his head out of the window, looking ahead, thinking an accident had occurred to their friends in another car ahead.

The truck, Mrs. Shuff said, then hit the front of her husband's car, catching his head in its tire rack and smashing the rear fenders of the car and continuing down the road.

She pulled the emergency brake, she said, and ran to look for her husband, being joined by Mr. Wiles and Mr. Gilbert, who ran back to see what had taken place.

When Mills came back to the scene of the accident he found the other members of the party lifting Shuff's body from the road. The tire, it was stated, was wrenched from the carrier and was found 40 feet from Shuff's car.

Another auto fatality of an unusual character, occurred on Monday about a mile east of Libertytown, when a 5-year-old colored child, while attempting to beat off a swarm of wasps, ran in front of an auto operated by George M. Hampson, Pen-Mar, and received injuries from which he died before reaching Frederick Hospital. His name was William Duppins.

The child ran down a lane from the home of its parents on the highway, with the bees after him, directly in front of the car which was running at about 40 miles an hour. A charge of reckless driving was lodged against Hampson, and an inquest was ordered to be held.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Another auto fatality of an unusual character, occurred on Monday about a mile east of Libertytown, when a 5-year-old colored child, while attempting to beat off a swarm of wasps, ran in front of an auto operated by George M. Hampson, Pen-Mar, and received injuries from which he died before reaching Frederick Hospital. His name was William Duppins.

The child ran down a lane from the home of its parents on the highway, with the bees after him, directly in front of the car which was running at about 40 miles an hour. A charge of reckless driving was lodged against Hampson, and an inquest was ordered to be held.

At the inquest Tuesday night before Justice Guy K. Motter, acting coroner, Hampson was exonerated from blame for the accident, and the technical charge of reckless driving was dismissed. It developed in the testimony that the child was running with head down, beating off the bees, and apparently hearing a warning cry, had doubled back across the road.

BOARD OF EDUCATION PROCEEDINGS.

Teachers Appointed, and Several Contracts Awarded.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was called to order in the office of the Board, Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1933, at 7:00 P. M. All the members were present.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and one special meeting were read and approved.

The lists of paid and unpaid bills presented to the Board were approved and ordered paid, with the exception of one bill for $333.03 from the Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which was ordered held up for investigation.

Superintendent Unger reported on the funds from the State. There is still an amount of about $15,500 outstanding.

The Superintendent also called attention to the demand from the attorney to the County Commissioners for a report on balances and overdrawn amounts. The Board ordered, upon the advice of its attorney, Mr. Clemson, that this information should be given to the County Commissioners in the form of the annual audit and appointed President DeVries and Superintendent Unger as a committee to get bids from about five auditing companies and to arrange for an audit by the most suitable company as soon as possible.

The attention of the Board was called to the latest developments in the Ehrhart case by the Superintendent.

THE CHILDREN'S AID DRIVE.

The following letter is being mailed to former subscribers to the work of the Children's Aid, but we wish to make this appeal a personal one to everybody in Taneytown district. We will be grateful for your help whether large or small as each of us is responsible for whatever aid he can give to those in need in our midst. Gifts may be mailed or brought to Mrs. Walter Bower, Mrs. William Bricker and Eleanor Birnie.

ELEANOR BIRNIE, Sec'y.

Westminster, August 11, 1933.
My Dear Carroll Countians:

Through the courtesy of the local press the recent twelve months' report of the Children's Aid Society of Carroll County was presented to the reading public. You probably read this article, but because there were so many vital points in that report that bear repetition, we want to present some of them again in our annual letter to members and other friends.

There were 150 different families of the county given material relief, counsel, planning, encouragement and guidance during the year just past. 638 visits were paid these families and 781 office interviews were given in their behalf, but such service could not possibly have been given without the volunteer assistance of approximately 150 county women and men who have been organized into District groups by the Society for speedy investigation and more efficient handling of the cases of need. None of these volunteers receive any salary or commission for any service rendered or for any mileage necessary in carrying out the work. There is only one paid worker in the whole organization a full time, trained, social worker.

In addition to the families aided, 56 little children without homes were under the care of the Society during the past year; children who, for imperative reasons, had to be removed from unfavorable homes and safeguarded by the Society. 252 visits were made in behalf of these children and 265 office interviews were given.

The Social Director traveled over 6,000 miles for the Society last year and this figure does not take into account the time given or the miles traveled, without any cost to the Society, by the volunteer groups interested in the organization.

There is grave need existing in our county and there is no other county-wide agency attempting to meet and correct it. You too, have assisted in this work since its beginning by your contributions, without which we could not hope to go on.

We do not wish to sound an alarming note but conditions will not right themselves for a long time, even after prosperity is again known in the land. Please make your gift just as generous as you can.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. WALTER A. BOWER, Chm.

OPEN HOURS IN WESTMINSTER.

Westminster merchants held a well attended meeting, on Tuesday night, for the purpose of each class agreeing on opening and closing hours, and to work together in harmony along these lines. It does not appear, however, that the agreements reached are in exact harmony with the NRA code, but may lead to that. All classes of business were not represented. The following are among the agreements reached.

Grocery stores, open at 7 A. M., and close at 6 P. M., and on Saturdays at 10:30 P. M.

Plumbers and electricians, open at 8 A. M., and close at 5 P. M., 6 day each week.

Lumber and Feed dealers, open at 8 A. M., close at 5 P. M., six days each week.

THE WHEAT ACREAGE PROBLEM

Carroll County Farmers Likely to Agree to Signing-up.

The acreage to be sown to wheat, this fall, is still the subject of much speculation, the result being that many farmers are undecided as to whether to accept the government's proposed acreage cut—the extent of which does not seem to be definitely fixed, but will be somewhere between 10 percent and 20 percent. The proposed cut will be a percentage based on the average acreage sown for the past five years.

It is estimated that home consumption requires only about 54 percent of the wheat grown in this country which makes it desirable for production to be decreased. The limit granted by Congress was a cut of 20 percent in the acreage, but it appears that this percentage may be reduced by authority of the government through the Secretary of Agriculture.

If the whole 20 percent is finally agreed on, then production in Maryland would have to be reduced by 29,120 acres; below this year but if a 15 percent reduction is called for, the acreage would be reduced only 5690 acres, and with only a 10 percent reduction throughout the whole country, then, strange to say, the Maryland acreage could be increased some 17,740 acres more than in 1933.

It is therefore easily seen that the whole question is decidedly mixed up, but it would appear that so far as Maryland is concerned, farmers are likely to gain by signing-up, while in some other states the situation might not be so favorable to signing.

No doubt, through meetings and explanations, the farmers will soon be able to make up their minds to "sign up."

STATE LUTHER LEAGUE.

The state Luther League Convention will be held in Frederick, Sept. 2-4, 1933.

The sessions on Monday will combine business as well as pleasure. From 9:20 to 11:30 A. M. the routine business of the convention and the election of officers for the ensuing year will be transacted. Mr. Fred Heise, president of the State Luther League, will preside. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, D. D., of Washington will deliver an address, "Christ the Light of the World." In the afternoon the convention business will be completed, general Luther League conferences conducted, and the newly elected officers will be installed by Rev. J. Edward Harms, president of the Maryland Synod who will subsequently address the convention.

The various committees are as follows: Credentials—Sister Catherine Nevhad, chairman; Mae Mercer, Margaret Bediet, Kathryn Fritch, and Marie Trede; Resolutions, Mary Mathaney, chairman; Fred Mowen, Dr. J. Edward Harms, Helen Mercer, Iva Blanche Lathrum, and Philip Krautwurst; Auditing, Gilbert Major, chairman; Louis E. Hoover, Jr., and Herbert Lee, Nominating, Beard Miller, chairman; William Muly, Gilbert Major, Rev. Raymond Sorrick, Henry Falk, George Whetstone and William Armbruster.

Monday evening concludes the convention and is given over to the banquet and farewell address by the Rev. Chester Simonton, on Harrisburg. "Leaguers who have attended for previous conventions know what an inspiration such an evening will be.

Random Thoughts

CHESTNUTS.

Just when, or why, it came into use for the word "chestnut" (slang) to be applied to an old joke, we do not know; but our good old authority of Noah Webster's descent has so recognized it, these many years. As we know the familiar sweet nut, we might easily imagine a certain bad reputation attaching to it because of the well fed worm that often abides within its shell, but this fact is not recorded as being responsible for its reputation.

But, we are in the habit of taking many of our expressions as we find them, without inquiring into, or caring about, their origin; and so, we will go on through the ages to come saying "chestnut" to any expression that we prefer to belittle; just as we also say "rats" when we profess disbelief.

But even so "random" a topic as this may point a moral, for the excellent reason that we should try to avoid using "chestnuts" in our speech, under the guise of telling a story to illustrate a point; for there is no failure in speech, plea, or quite so dismal common conversation, as an "old one" that don't fit, and fails utterly to produce the expected applause—or favorable verdict.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

It is a matter of sincere congratulation that the State Roads Commission is "fixing up" some of our dirt roads in a very satisfactory manner. One of the engineers is reported to have said that he "didn't know there were such roads in the state" as were found in the upper section of this county, and no doubt the same expression could properly be applied pretty generally throughout the county.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the building of state highways has caused other roads of almost equal importance, to be neglected. It is the natural result of centralizing public funds on building inter-state and certain main roads; and it must be admitted that this plan was the logical one to undertake first, in order to provide something like a real "system" of state roads.

But, this object has been well carried out; and it is just as logical and proper now, to centralize on the repair of these secondary roads before entering on the boulevard plan so selfishly advocated by leading individuals and sections. Common fairness to neglected taxpayers points solely in the direction rebuilding dirt roads.

In connection with the beginning of this secondary plan of road improvement, there occurs the thought that these roads should be protected, by laws and regulations, from permitting such roads to be cut up by heavy truck hauling; for if they are not so protected, this class of new road work will soon be placed back in the same deplorable condition from which they are being, temporarily at least, removed. Let the good work go on, and be adequately protected.

ONCE TOO OFTEN.

The unusual number of auto wreck fatalities noted in last week's record, was remarkable only because of so large a number in so small an area. Taking the country at large, fatalities such as these are occurring every week, from a wide variety of causes.

And this points out the danger in auto travel—the large variety of accidents—so-called—that may happen, mostly from some form of inattention, recklessness, or perhaps plain unjustifiable carelessness.

Driving an auto is much like the old proverb—"Familiarity breeds contempt." We become so used to "our car"—to taking chances with it—to the belief that nothing bad will happen—that we go on and on, taking these chances, until we come to the "once too often."

And, it is ever so. We don't care enough for rational protection against the most serious of possibilities. This is true with other things than automobiles. The thousands of cases of drowning are in the same class, and so are accidents with even familiar machinery. We become careless once too often.

Folks argue that they can "take a drink" and no harm comes of it; or, they can take more than one, as often as they like, and "it's nobody's business." And this may be true, or seems to be true, but just the same, there may be easily a "once too often." Taking a chance, is always what it means—"taking a chance."

MORE BUYING NECESSARY.

The new buying campaign may not start right now—but soon. Nor can work be provided for everybody, right away—but that too is due to occur—soon. In the meantime, let us be patient, and let our expectations be modest. "Rome was not built in a day," a saying which nowadays might be equivalent to the substituting of New York, or Chicago, for Rome.

Whether we are optimistic, or skeptical, about the exact time of the coming of National Recovery, this is not so serious as the question—suppose it does not come at all?

It just must come—this prosperity planned for—or we will have had but a pleasing holiday for the last few years, while thinking we had hard times.

Taxes a-plenty, must come from somebody, somewhere, with which to pay for the purchased good times we are to have. We do not know how big this bill of taxes will be. We talk so familiarly about millions and billions, these days, that we are beginning not to think of their size, nor of our connection with them. But, we may think more and understand better, later on.

And then, more people at work, means more goods produced, for which there must be more customers not only willing, but able, to purchase.

So, we must prepare ourselves to be heavier purchasers, as well as heavier taxpayers. The fact is, the whole National Recovery Act must depend largely on increased buying, at increased prices, for its success, unless we fail to grasp its meaning and effect.

The program is based on an economic theory that industry is expected to work out. It is a big task. It may be asking and expecting, too much; too much, especially for the little fellows in business who has a mighty hard time, at best, to get along. If business, or industry was healthy—and profitable to all—it would merely represent an enforced "loosening up" for the benefit of—the unemployed and less prosperous—and profitable business should stand for that. The theory is a bold one—may it also turn out to be a wise and workable one.

A "CODE" FOR CHURCHES.

The suggestion of a certain "editor of a religious journal" may represent a fine bit of work by a joke-smith. Some editors are that way, and there may be specimens in the religious arena of the craft; but even so, we are in doubt as to whether the following editorial in last Saturday's Philadelphia Inquirer, is the continuation of a joke, or whether it may be taken for dead earnest.

"There is no apparently sufficient parallel between the work of religious and business organization to make codes for churches, as suggested by the editor of a religious journal, either necessary or desirable. The plea for better preaching does not imply longer hours of labor. There must be few, if any, churches, where a forty-hour week would not cover all the services. In cases where it might, the clerical staff would doubtless be large enough to prevent overworking. Sunday services rarely occupy more than five or six hours in all. Week-day services are ordinarily held in the morning hours, with perhaps one hour or so in the evening. As for the individual clergy, they, like most other professional men, are often called upon for labors which can not be gauged by the time spent on them. Priests and doctors can not very well decline to answer summons at all hours of the day and night."

GREED AND SPECULATION MAY WRECK IT.

Solemn warnings those that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, and the American Federation of Labor broadcast from Washington. They speak alarm at the speculative surge in industry and the stock market. "If we can't come along here with increased purchasing power to support this higher production, I shudder to think what will happen," Johnson told newspaper men. "This country can't stand a new collapse."

In its monthly survey of business, the A. F. of L. said: "Industrial activity has made a spectacular increase in the last three months, but when the figures are analyzed it is clear that much of the present feverish activity is speculative. Wholesalers and retailers know that, when the agricultural processing taxes go into effect and industrial codes begin operating under the Recovery Act, prices will rise, and they want to get in ahead of price increase."

It is not difficult to divine the minds of industrial generals, captains and lieutenants. They are thinking that "under the Administration's plans we are soon to lose much of our independence. The labor cost per unit of our output is to be increased. We shall be required to pay higher prices for raw materials. Self-interest requires us to stock up now with raw materials and speed up factory production on the present basis of wages and hours of labor."

A good deal can be said in defense of that position, and it is doubtful if scolding will drive the industrial operatives and business men from it. They have had their lean years, their heavy losses, and they are as anxious for their share of prosperity as are the other interests in the nation. They must be reached by patient reasoning and frequent reminders that the long view will be the best view for them and everybody; that they should be content with moderate profits, or even no profits at all for a while, in order that the country's industrial machine may be restored to normal operation. —Spokesman-Review (Spokane, Wash.)

YESTERDAY IS DEAD!

You young fellows just out of school. You have had a tough time the last two years. You were anxious to get to work. Nothing opened up. You felt you were butting your heads against a stone wall.

The Star passes on to you a phrase it saw the other day—to you and to the others who will join your ranks this spring.

That phrase is, Yesterday is dead! The country has been bogged down before. It is going to begin to pull out shortly, just as it always has pulled out. But mark this. Business is not coming back just as it was before. It never does, after going through the wringer.

A lot of the old leaders and old methods have passed out. A new bunch of aggressive and resourceful young fellows will come stomping up to grasp new opportunities.

For yesterday is dead! New opportunities, mind you. Not the opportunities of the last decade. Those are gone. If experience is a guide, recovery will not come in orderly fashion, along the old lines. Keen men will see business chances here and there even while things are at a low level. Chances that grow out of the depression with its changed demands.

Perhaps these will lie in new products of science, in inexpensive novelties, in house cooling, in cheap farm lands. Men who live in the past will overlook these opportunities. They will be thinking of things as they were in 1929. So they will fail to see the new conditions and take advantage of them.

But the alert young crowd will jump at the new chances, develop them, build up with them as business builds up.

Yesterday is dead! Have you heard of the flu-fu bird that flies backwards? It wants to see where it has been. It doesn't give a darn where it is going. Don't be a flu-fu bird.

You youngsters, seize any decent job that offers. But keep your eyes open. Be ready for new conditions, new ideas. Your humble job may have possibilities that the old order did not reveal.

Remember, Yesterday is dead.—Kansas City Star.

NEWSPAPERS AND RUMORS.

The newspapers are sometimes criticized as being sensational. But we have the testimony of one of the most famous American newspaper men that the papers are not nearly so sensational as the public. This newspaper man, Chester S. Lord, for 41 years with the New York Sun, has this to say, in an interview in Editor and Publisher:

"Did you ever think how much good the newspapers do in denying exaggerated reports spread by the people and in telling the exact truth about them? What reporter approaching the scene of a great calamity has not been met by an avalanche of exaggerations as to its extent? Two trains have been in collision and a hundred persons are killed, cry the people as they wring their hands. Yet when the careful, painstaking investigator comes to count the dead and write down their names and addresses he finds that four persons are killed and six are wounded. He publishes the facts and the tension is relieved."

"On the evening of the great blizzard of 1888 I came across one of the young men of the Sur thawing out his feet in a bucket of water. 'What's happened to you?' I asked. 'Oh,' he answered, 'some fool started the story that three funeral processions had been snowed in in Greenwood, and since there are no cars running I've been all the way there and back on foot.' And the next morning this man had printed in the paper, at the cost of seven hours' work and two frozen feet, a paragraph that read something like this: 'The rumor that several funeral processions had been snowed in in Greenwood was found on investigation to be untrue.'"

"There is a flurry in Wall street. Two banks fail and there is a run on two more. The people take up the cry, and rumor, faster than any telephone, starts up town with it. By the time the city hall is reached four banks have failed and six are in danger; at Fourteenth street ten banks have failed and the rest are tottering; by the time Twenty-third street is reached, all the banks have failed, there is a panic on the stock exchange, the government has ceased to pay; the militia has been called out and red ruin stares everybody in the face."

"About that time along comes your favorite newspaper with the exact facts. Two banks have failed of dry rot and there was a run on two more. Nobody is ruined. Immediately a calm settles down over the people. Yet the newspapers are sensational. I repeat, it is the people who are sensational. Only stop the publication of every newspaper in New York and Brooklyn for three consecutive days and I grant you will have a wild-eyed panic-stricken populace, panic-stricken over stories they themselves have started and which have gathered impetus with every repetition because there were no newspapers to deny them."—Arkansas City (Kan.) Tribune.

LYNCHINGS IN 41 YEARS.

The Baltimore Catholic Review, last week, contained a news article headed "3724 persons lynched in U. S. in 41 years," said article referring especially to a book, "The Tragedy of Lynching" by Arthur Raper, and published by the University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, N. C. The article says only 49 persons were indicted for participation in lynching in 1930, in which 21 persons were killed, and only four of these have been sentenced.

"Lynching," says the author of the book, "can and will be eliminated in proportion as all elements of the population are provided opportunities for development and are accorded fundamental human rights. Whether in the field of religion, education, economics, jurisprudence, or politics, anything which looks toward the end is a factor in reducing mob violence. For fundamentally lynching is an expression of a basic lack of respect both for human beings and for organized society."

It is noted by the author of the book that in every community in which lynchings have taken place, the church going population was overwhelmingly protestant, except in one instance, and in this one the Catholics took no part in the lynching.

Over four-fifths of the victims of lynchings were Negroes, less than one-sixth of whom were accused of assault on white women. The article goes on in detail, making quotations from the book, the closing ones being—

"Of the tens of thousands of lynchings and onlookers, the latter not guiltless, only forty-nine were indicted and only four have been sentenced. Chief among the factors rendering the courts ineffective was the prevalent indifference of peace officers and court officials and the apathy of the general white public concerning matters affecting Negroes."

"And so the lynchings went unpunished and the communities paid the bills. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property was destroyed with no insurance collectible; indirect financial losses accrued from the unfavorable publicity. Labor was disorganized and racial antagonisms were accentuated, forming the basis for further racial exploitation. The local and State governments were openly defied; the officials along with the general public, by winking at the lawlessness, rendered more difficult the realization of a community where the basic rights of human beings are respected."

BITTER BONDS.

Holdings of $91,000,000 in Arkansas road bonds were asked by the legislature to exchange their 4 to 4.75 per cent bonds for new 3 percent bonds because the state could not meet the higher interest rates. This the bondholders refused to do, contending that the state's action was a breach of contract. So the state accepted the challenge and defaulted on the interest payments. It could do nothing else if the money was not in the treasury. No government wants to resort to such high-handed methods and does so only when pushed to the wall. It means the loss of its credit, and that may mean an end to public improvements on borrowed money for a generation.

Bondholders thus treated will consider themselves betrayed by their own government. Arkansas was not the only state which borrowed beyond its ability to pay. It may work out for the best if a few bondholders had a few domestic bonds among the bad. The American people need to be discouraged in their habit of reckless borrowing for public uses.—Frederick Post.

SHIRT SLEEVES.

"Men in shirt sleeves are writing a new economic order for America," said a Washington correspondent of the Monitor the other day, telling of the work of the National Recovery Administration. From Seattle, Wash, at the other edge of the continent, lately came a story of how 964 "White Shirts" marched in an Independence Day parade.

In Boston before the recent session of the Massachusetts Legislature adjourned the presiding officers invited state senators and representatives to shed their coats and vests, and more recently a federal judge decided it was quite in keeping with the dignity of summer-time justice to hold court in shirt sleeves.

Andrew Carnegie is reputed to have said, concerning the uncertainties of wealth in the United States, that it is only three generations from shirt sleeves. But with the rising temperatures of a summer that seemed eager to deliver its full quota of calories, and with a rising courage born of several summers' steaming, many men of customarily dignified and conventional habits have opined that three generations is too long to wait.

Newspaper opinion, usually cautious in such matters, has ventured to support them in various sections of the Union. One editor believes he has found a reason for masculine discon-

SHE MAKES MONEY BY TELEPHONE!

We know a farm woman who sells many things by telephone. In one season it is strawberries. At other times it is eggs, cream, dressed poultry. People pay her a premium to get things fresh from the farm. She says these telephone sales bring many additional dollars into the family purse.

Your telephone can help make your farming profitable. Yet the cost is only a few cents a day.

The Fandango

The fandango is danced by a man and a woman. The time of the dance is 6-8, but the figures are very lively and the music is supplied by castanets in the hands of the performers, and by a song which is accompanied on the guitar. Sometimes the music is stopped, whereupon the dancers also stop, and remain rigid until it is resumed. When one couple is tired, another immediately takes its place and the music and the dance go on as before, with no interruption.

Shakespeare's Education

William Shakespeare had all the education necessary to write the plays attributed to him. The Bard of Avon was well qualified to do the work he did. Far from being an untutored rustic, he probably was as competent a scholar as Bacon himself, Chaucer, Spenser or even Milton. He had the same training that they had, but he made more of his opportunities than they did.—Exchange.

Temperature at Equator

The temperature at the Equator varies with the altitude above sea level and also proximity to water. Quito, situated almost on the equator, lies at an altitude of 9,350 feet and the annual range of temperature is less than one degree. The daily range, however, is considerable. The early morning temperature is about 47; the midday 60.

Uneducated Women Drawback

Students of political and social economy declare that the resistance of the uneducated woman is one of the principal factors in delaying progress. She may have enough schooling to enable her to vote in countries that have woman suffrage, but she thinks along ancestral lines and refuses to admit the modern viewpoint.

POULTRY

NOT ALL EGGS ARE CLASSIFIED GRADE "A"

Quality Changes Rapidly to Still Lower Type.

An egg is never better or fresher than when it is first laid, but not all eggs are grade A when they are laid, according to Prof. H. E. Botsford of the New York State College of Agriculture. One hen may lay grade B eggs consistently while another may lay grade A eggs. An egg may mature, he explains, and be ready to be laid just after the bird has gone to roost in the evening and be held in the hen's body until the following morning. Several hours at a temperature of 105 to 107 degrees Fahrenheit may change the quality a grade or more.

Regardless of the quality of an egg when it is laid, this quality changes rapidly toward a still lower grade, unless something is done to check the move. Eggs are like milk in perishability, except that they do not go bad so quickly. The changes in eggs are different and just as important to quality. Low temperatures are important to holding quality in both eggs and milk.

Frequent gathering and storage in a cool place help to keep egg quality high, he says. And then, if the eggs are shipped at least twice a week, the quality of the pack is more likely to be high-grade. If the poultryman has enough eggs for twice-a-week shipping, it will pay to sort the eggs according to size and interior quality, and to pack each size in strong, clean cases with clean flats and fillers.

Free Choice of Grain and Mash Is Good Plan

Giving pullets on range free choice of grain and mash is a good practice, according to C. M. Ferguson, specialist in poultry for the agricultural extension service at the Ohio State university.

"Here at the University farm," he says, "we have been carrying our pullets on an all-mash ration containing 10 per cent dried milk and 8 per cent meat scrap until they are from twelve to fourteen weeks old. At that time we have been reducing the milk to 4 per cent, leaving 8 per cent meat scrap in the ration and continuing to use an all-mash feed. This method has given us very satisfactory results but may not be applicable to all farm conditions, particularly farms producing their own grains."

If the poultryman has his own corn and wheat, the ration could be left unchanged and the pullets given free choice of a grain mixture of wheat and corn in addition to their mash containing 10 per cent milk and 8 per cent meat scrap. This method of feeding is gaining considerable prominence even for laying flocks.

At the present price of milk, Ferguson points out, many farmers are turning to the use of the skimmed produce as a means of saving some cash outlay for protein concentrates.

Poultry Hints

The first competitive poultry show was held at Worcester in 1865.

If grain is fed at all, it should be fed in troughs where it can be kept in sanitary condition until eaten.

For the fourth successive year Ohio turkey raisers are increasing production, according to reports to county agricultural agents.

Vaccination for the prevention of fowl pox should be done when Leghorns are ten to twelve weeks old, and when the heavy breeds are sixteen weeks old.

Oat hulls have come into new use as a litter for chicks and laying hens. Light and fluffy, they allow droppings to work through to the floor, keeping clean on top where the birds tread.

Door mats for hens, if you please. They are nothing more nor less than troughs filled with gypsum, placed in front of the door and nests, to keep the hen's feet clean and prevent soiling the eggs.

A pullet can withstand a range in temperature from nearly zero to about 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

Where turkeys are confined throughout their growth, it takes about 42 pounds of feed to grow a pound of turkey, live weight.

A duck that lays black eggs is owned by Alex Christian, owner of a large poultry yard at Welston, Ohio. The eggs are perfectly shaped and ordinary in other respects.

The first poultry show in America was held in a tent on the present site of the Public Garden, Boston, in 1840.

Ranging birds are healthier and have more vitality and the breeding flock should be allowed to range at will unless the weather is raw and blustery.

Within six years the number of eggs exported by Australia has increased from 1,000,000 dozen to 18,750,000 dozen, said a report to a conference at Melbourne of the egg producers council.

Lusitania's Cargo
The Lusitania, sunk by a German submarine, carried 5,400 cases of ammunition, consisting entirely of cart-rigged for small arms. These were carried by permission of the United States Department of Commerce and could not, according to the report of the collector of the port of New York, be called explosives under the terms of the statutes. She carried no troops, guns, loaded shells or high explosives. The cargo consisted of copper articles, brass and furs and was valued at $750,000.

Cinque Ports of England
The original Cinque Ports of England were located on the coast of the counties of Kent and Sussex. The original ports were Dover, Sandwich, Hastings, Hythe and Romney. Later Winchelsea and Rye were added. These ports were granted special privileges by the later Saxon and early Roman kings of Britain, on condition of furnishing a certain number of ships during a war. There was no permanent British navy before the reign of Henry VII.

Synthetic Stone Strong
Synthetic stone will stand a compressional strength of 600 pounds to the square inch. Its toughness, as determined by the height from which it can be dropped to cause a fracture to appear is from 7-8 centimeters. Other common stones rate: Limestone and dolomite, 3-9 cm.; sandstone, 4-11 cm.; marble, 2-6 cm., and quartzite, 8-21 cm.

Constitutional Monarchy, Kingdom
The difference between a constitutional monarchy and a kingdom is that a constitutional monarchy is a sovereign state having a constitution, and a king, queen, or emperor as the highest executive authority. A kingdom is a country ruled by a king, and may be either a sovereign state, a dependency, or a sphere of influence.

Leads With Phosphates
Florida continues to hold the position of being the country's largest phosphate rock producer. Out of 1,711,000 tons mined in 1932, Florida produced 1,483,435 tons. Tennessee was a distant second, with 182,000 tons to her credit, while Idaho furnished 23,000 tons and Montana 20,000 tons.

What a London Fog Does
All sorts of mischief has been attributed to the London fog, which is famous alike to those who have experienced them as well as those who have not. The latter are acquainted with the London fog by reputation. London's shipping alone is interfered with to the extent of £1,000,000 sterling per day. It doubles the electric light bill, causes disease or death and increases the laundry bills of those who are compelled to penetrate it.

The baby sponge is a single creature, but as it grows it forms buds, which we might compare with the buds of a branching shrub. Peanut butter first came into use about 25 or 30 years ago as a food for invalids. It soon became a staple article of food. Peanut butter contains only the ground kernels of roasted, blanched peanuts, with the addition of 1 to 4 per cent of salt. The food value of peanut butter is very high.

The Bridge of Sighs

NO. 6355 EQUITY.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity.

REUBEN A. WILHIDE, widower,
Plaintiff,

vs.

Minnie E. Kelly and Joseph E. Kelly, her husband, Edward S. Harner and Carrie Harner, his wife, Jonas F. Harner and Mary Harner, his wife, Mabel Harner, unmarried, Frank A. Harner and Ruth Harner, his wife, Lillie Wenschhof and Edward W. Wenschhof, her husband, and Elinor (Nellie) Gladfelter and Paul Gladfelter, her husband, and Joseph E. Kelly, judgment creditor, Defendants.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

The object of this suit is to secure an account under the direction of the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity, of the debts due by Flora V. Wilhide to the petitioner and others; and to have the assets marshaled to the extent that Joseph E. Kelly, judgment creditor, and all other creditors of Reuben A. Wilhide and Flora V. Wilhide, jointly, may be required to pursue their remedy against the joint property of the said Reuben A. Wilhide and Flora V. Wilhide; that the proceeds of the sale of the real estate of Flora V. Wilhide, or so much thereof as may be necessary, may be applied to the payment of the indebtedness of the said Flora V. Wilhide, and for general relief.

The petition states that Agnes Crabbs, the petitioner, appears as plaintiff by virtue of the authority contained in the decree passed in this cause on the 5th day of July, 1933, and that she asks as well for herself as all other creditors of Flora V. Wilhide: that Flora V. Wilhide, late of Carroll County, died intestate on or about the 12th day of September, 1932 seized of a lot of land in Frederick Street, in Taneytown, containing one-half acre, more or less which was conveyed to her by Agnes Flans, by deed dated April 1, 1914, and recorded in Liber O. D. G. No. 125, folio 469; that letters of Administration upon the personal estate of the said Flora V. Wilhide were granted by the Orphans' Court of Carroll County unto Reuben A. Wilhide; that the said Reuben A. Wilhide has qualified as said Administrator and entered upon the discharge of his duties, but that the said Flora V. Wilhide was indebted to the petitioner in the amount of $2743.43, and to divers other persons, firms and corporations in an amount greatly in excess of the amount of her personal estate; and that in order to discharge her debts it is necessary to apply the proceeds of the real estate for that purpose; that the said Flora V. Wilhide left her only heir-at-law, her husband, Reuben A. Wilhide, and the following brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews: Minnie E. Kelly, as sister of Joseph E. Kelly; Edward S. Harner, a brother, whose wife is Carrie Harner; Jonas F. Harner, a brother, whose wife is Mary Harner; and children of Robert A. Harner, a brother who died during the life-time of the said Flora V. Wilhide, namely, Mabel Harner, unmarried; Frank A. Harner, whose wife is Ruth Harner; Lillie Wenschhof, wife of Edward W. Wenschhof; Elinor (Nellie) Gladfelter, wife of Paul Gladfelter, all parties to this suit; that all of the above parties are adults and all residents of the State of Maryland, except Lillie Wenschhof, residing in Dauphin County, Pennsylvania; Edward W. Wenschhof, residing in Mechanicburg, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania; Elinor (Nellie) Gladfelter, whose last known address was Steelton, Dauphin County, Pennsylvania; that part of the indebtedness of the said Flora V. Wilhide is a judgment of Joseph E. Kelly against Flora V. Wilhide and Reuben A. Wilhide, her husband, for $1522.00 dated June 27, 1929, and recorded in Judgment Docket No. 23, folio 82, &c.; that said judgment is the obligation of Reuben A. Wilhide as well as his wife, Flora V. Wilhide, and was incurred to secure part of the purchase price of a tract of land containing 137 acres conveyed to Reuben A. Wilhide and Flora V. Wilhide by deed of Hezekiah Spangler and others dated August 18, 1924, and recorded in Liber B. M. No. 44, folio 330, &c.; that said judgment was a first lien upon said land belonging to Reuben A. Wilhide and Flora V. Wilhide, which, since the death of Flora V. Wilhide vested in the said Reuben A. Wilhide; and that Joseph E. Kelly, judgment creditor, has access to said land and in justice and equity should pursue his remedy against the same, whereas the petitioner and other creditors of Flora V. Wilhide individually are left to the individual estate of the said Flora V. Wilhide to satisfy their claims; that by decree of this court passed on July 5, 1933, the real estate of Flora V. Wilhide was directed to be sold, and Michael E. Walsh and James E. Boylan, Jr., were appointed Trustees to sell said real estate; that they qualified as such Trustees, and on the 29th day of July, 1933 sold said real estate for the sum of $222.00, which sale will be reported to this Court.

It is thereupon this 2nd day of August, 1933, by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity, ORDERED that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Carroll County once a week for four successive weeks before the 5th day of September, 1933, give notice to the said defendant, Lillie Wenschhof and Edward W. Wenschhof, her husband, Elinor (Nellie) Gladfelter and Paul Gladfelter, her husband, of the object and substance of the petition, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 25th day of September, 1933, to show cause, if any they have, why the relief prayed in the said petition should not be granted as prayed.

FEESERSBURG.

The good rain of last Thursday evening was a blessing indeed to vegetation, and all living creatures, as it broke the extreme heat. Cool fresh breezes were delightful and we have had ideal days and nights since then. Mrs. Leslie Koons and daughter, Betty Jane, returned to their home in Detroit, Mich., at the end of last week, aboard one of the great Eastern buses at Gettysburg on Friday, after a month with the Koons relatives in this locality. She lives with her mother, Mrs. George Humbert, and is in the employ of a Tailoring Co., and is highly esteemed by her friends, in Maryland.

Sister Magdalena Kasewurm, of the Lutheran Deaconess Mother House, Baltimore, with the H. B. Fogle family, of Uniontown, spent Wednesday evening of last week with the Birely's. She is in good health and spirits, a model for others with fair vision, and greatly enjoys the best things on the radio. A crowd of people attended the Ohler auction of fruit and vegetables, near the F. Miller home, in Middleburg last Friday evening. There was music with string instruments, and Mrs. Miller served a ready lunch to all who would buy.

William Stichtenoth, of Baltimore, is spending some time with his friends, the Jas. Kaibach family, near Mt. Union.

Camp Shellman, on Big Pipe Creek, near Crouse's Mill, where the Boy Scouts of Westminster are vacationing, has received many visitors. We can't imagine there are any dull hours, where 60 boys are located; and sometimes across the hills we hear their bugle call.

The M. E. S. S. picniced at Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge, on Monday, leaving the church in Middleburg by bus and auto about 10 o'clock and returning at 5 P. M., after a day of religious program, lunches, games and a general good time.

A drive across the Blue Ridge to Waynesboro, where we had a look at the green zoo, or more scientifically known as Gilbert's Topiary Zoo (which is the growth of hedges or shrubbery trimmed in form of animals, fowls, baskets, etc.) thro the Eastern Cumberland Valley, and the White Pine Forest along the Lincoln highway to Caledonia, and the popular swimming pool to a cozy tourist camp, near McKnightstown, where we ate a picnic supper, then thro Gettysburg and return, filled one delightful afternoon recently. Such a scenic tour and those wonderful pines is good for long day dreaming.

A group of our citizens attended the picnic and festival, at Keysville, on Saturday afternoon and evening, and report a well attended success, with the Union Bridge Band making music and a social time with many friends.

Mrs. Washington Shaffer is critically ill at this writing with dropsy, tho all is being done for her that is possible. Her nephew, Chas. Bear and wife, of Baltimore, who spent the past week with relatives at Stewartstown, Pa., stopped over to see her on their return on Tuesday, and with the neighbors had a hymn sing for her that evening.

Mrs. Bucher John, who suffered with a sore foot, visited a specialist in Baltimore, last week, who performed a slight operation, and removed the cause of the trouble. Miss Ruth Utermahlen will represent the work shop for the blind, Baltimore, with their products of basketry, small articles of apparel, etc., at the Taneytown Fair, next week. One neighbor is making his 3rd crop of alfalfa hay; one is plowing ground for Fall wheat; another is picking this seasons crop of potatoes; and others are out motoring, and time moves on.

UNION BRIDGE.

The wedding of Miss Mary Helen Baker and Charles Samuel Bowman, which took place in the Methodist Episcopal Church here, on last Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, drew a record breaking crowd of both invited and uninvited guests to the church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Marsh, an uncle of the bride, and he was assisted by Rev. E. W. Culp, pastor of the Church. After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman left, by auto, for Atlantic City and other points. After returning they will reside in the furnished apartment at the home of the bride. Our baseball club showed some real speed on the local diamond, last Saturday, when they defeated Frederick in a close game, with a score of 5 to 3. Charlie Minick was our choice for the mound. We are now leading a single race in second place.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Koons, of Union Bridge; Mrs. Edith Padan (nee Edith Bohn) and little daughter, of Tacoma Park, Washington, Mrs. Rosa Bohn, and your correspondent, motored to Gettysburg, on Friday noon of last week, and although we have been there many times previous, we could not help but think of the ability that God has given to man, that man is able to carve and erect the numerous monuments and markers that dot the battlefield, and after all why should we act as so many little school boys who fight it out? Why do we settle our difficulties through the terrible medium of war? When will we be men enough and women enough to settle our difficulties through the Prince of Peace?

THE BRAVEST BATTLE.

The bravest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men
Nay, not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or nobler pen;
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought
From mouths of wonderful men.
But deep in a walled-up woman's heart
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part—
Lo! there is that battle field.
No marshaling troop, no bivouac song
No banners to gleam and wave;
But oh! these battles they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave.

Yet faithful still as a bridge of stars,
She fights in her walled-up town—
Fights on and on in the endless wars;
Thence silent, unseen—goes down!
O ye, with banners and battle-shout
And soldiers to shout and praise!
I tell you the kinliest victories
Were fought
Are fought in these silent ways.

O spotless woman in a world of shame
With splendid and silent scorn,
Go back to God, as white as you came,
The kinliest warrior born!

LETTER FROM DETROIT.

many cases, trying to get their money back, and some even are going out of business. In the meantime the bootleggers, who handle mostly hard liquor, are still doing business about the same as before beer flowed like water.

I see in the advertising columns of the Record that the troubles of the town banks are about over. Well, I'll bet that these out here would be glad if they could see the end of their troubles. It looks as if they would never get things straightened out. And the great pity of it all is that the trouble ought never have occurred, as was the case with your banks. If a fellow had the money this bank business has cost, he would never have to worry about his financial future.

We have been having some very hot weather out here—the thermometer running about 90 degrees day after day, but the past few days have been really cold and chilly, thus showing what Detroit can do in this line. Our weather observer says that the record for temperatures that high have been broken, and that thus far, 21 days have run over 90 degrees, one more than was ever recorded at this station in any previous summer. And we have August still to come—a pretty prospect.

Hardly a week goes by that

In regard to this the Board passed the following resolutions: "Resolved by the Board of Education of Carroll County, Md., that the demand of Mrs. Olive Ehrhart for payment of $1300.00 for which she claims that she is entitled to be paid for the school year 1932-1933, be and the same is refused." Turtle 250 Years Old
A seventy-eight-pound turtle, which was dubbed Methuselah because it is estimated he is two hundred and fifty years old, was found in a pond near Tyler, Texas. It has a shell so thick and tough that a man can stand on its back. Methuselah was placed in the city park.

SCIENCE THROWS NEW LIGHT UPON FAMOUS CRIMES

Reveals Ruth Snyder Tried to Poison Gray After Husband's Murder.

Milwaukee, Wis.—A veritable museum of modern crime, with several hundred illustrations of the latest methods of scientific crime detection, was presented here before several thousand leading physicians and surgeons from this country and abroad at the opening of the exhibit of the thirty-fourth annual session of the American Medical Association.

The exhibit, one of a large number of other exhibits, was prepared by Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner of New York city; Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, chief New York city toxicologist of Bellevue hospital, and Dr. Harrison S. Martland, chief medical examiner of Essex county, New Jersey.

It shows in a manner more thrilling than any crime fiction how medicine, toxicology, and chemistry are aiding the police in solving some of the most baffling crime mysteries in recent times.

Refer to Famous Cases.
Two of the items which drew large crowds of fascinated physicians all day relate, respectively, to the Judd Gray-Ruth Snyder murder case and the mysterious death by drowning in 1913 off the coast of Long Island of Starr Faithful.

In the Snyder-Gray case the exhibit brings to light a hitherto unknown fact which adds a more sinister and dramatic aspect to that murder. A small vial shows a quantity of whisky given by Ruth Snyder to Judd Gray after the murder, which he was to drink on his way home from Queens Village to Syracuse.

The vial contained enough bichloride of mercury, Doctor Gettler said, to kill several persons, thus showing that Mrs. Snyder plotted to poison her lover after he had helped her to kill her husband.

It was only by mere chance, it was learned later, that Gray did not drink it.

Gray, Doctor Gettler told the physicians, offered the liquor to the detectives who arrested him, but the detectives took it along as further evidence. This evidence never was presented at the trial, which resulted in the conviction of Mrs. Snyder and Gray and their death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison.

Drug in Girl's Brain.
The Starr Faithful exhibit shows two vials containing luminal, a sleeping drug, recovered from the dead girl's brain and liver. A total amount of 12 grains was recovered, sufficient to produce a deep sleep.

The legend explaining the luminal vials reads:
"Chemical analysis revealed that the chloride content of the blood of the left heart chamber was considerably higher than that of the blood of the right heart chamber, proving conclusively that death was caused by drowning in salt water.

"Further analysis revealed a large amount of luminal in all the organs. The total estimated amount of luminal in the entire body was about 12 grains. This amount of luminal indicated that the girl was in deep sleep when she reached the water.

"She could not have jumped into the water. She must have been thrown in."

Thus a definite scientific solution is offered for a mystery which baffled the police here and abroad and which still is regarded as a case of suicide particularly in the light of letters written by the girl just before she died.

The two little vials reconstruct the story of her tragic death as though she had herself come back to tell it.

Woman's Pet Woodchuck Hears Call of Kitchen
Shepherd.—Last May a neighbor of Forest Divilbiss, living near Shepherd, dug a baby woodchuck out of a stump in the sugar bush. Nellie Divilbiss took the tiny animal, its eyes not yet opened, to her home, where it was provided with a sheepskin-lined slipper for a bed.

"Sandy" grew up fat and lazy but thrifty. Last fall he carried papers and scraps under the Divilbiss house. September 1 he crawled under the house and hibernated until April 1, when he reappeared suddenly in the kitchen, heavily furred, a little thinner, but friendly as ever. "Sandy" romped with the Divilbiss dog and proceeded to make himself at home again.

Dream of Jail Trusty Sent Him to Hospital
Seattle, Wash.—John Peterson, sixty-three, trusty in the county jail, recently was sent to the hospital following a dream.

"Everything was swell," he said. "I was dreaming I was in heaven when I suddenly saw a copper. Right away I knew there was something wrong. I dreamed I started to run from him, force of habit, I guess, when crash, I woke up and found myself on the floor."

Peterson was treated in the hospital for a lacerated eye.

Slap Kills Baby
Visalia, Calif.—A mother who slapped her baby to stop his crying was held in county jail here on a charge of manslaughter after the child was found dead.

Vail Medals And $250 Each To 3 Telephone Employees

National Vail medalists: Mrs. Lila Cook Gaddy, operator, Streetman, Tex., Henry R. Bell, line foreman, Salem, Mass., and Mrs. Irene Regina Duncan, operator, St. Joseph, Mo., awarded Theodore N. Vail medals and cash awards of $250 for noteworthy public service.

Three silver Vail medals accompanied by cash awards of $250 each will be presented Mrs. Irene Regina Duncan, St. Joseph, Mo., operator of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company; Mrs. Lila Cook Gaddy, Streetman, Tex., operator of the Three States Telephone Company; and Henry R. Bell, Salem, Mass., line foreman of the New-England Telephone and Telegraph Company, for noteworthy public service.

The citation accompanying Mrs. Duncan's award reads: "For courage and perseverance in delivering an urgent telephone message." On September 9, last year Mrs. Duncan was asked to locate a man whose son had just died. He was employed on a government dredge working in the Missouri River near St. Joseph. After a hazardous trip of thirteen miles through a rough and dangerous area, the man was located and the message was "put through." The messenger service ordinarily employed for such calls had unsuccessfully attempted to locate the person wanted.

Accompanying Mrs. Gaddy's award, was a citation given "for alertness and initiative which led to the apprehension of two desperate criminals."

While operating her switchboard January 3, 1932, Mrs. Gaddy learned that two men had ditched a car on a nearby highway. After their disappearance it was discovered that the automobile contained firearms. The car answered the description of one being driven by two fugitives whom she had heard described in a radio broadcast concerning the shooting of several police officers at Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Gaddy notified police, who started in pursuit and two days later the fugitives shot themselves rather than submit to capture.

The award made to Mr. Bell was "for rescuing a man caught by fallen debris in a partially burned building." While working with a line crew at Peabody, Mass., December 1, last year, Bell learned that a man had been caught by the collapse of a portion of the second floor of a building which had been partially destroyed by fire. Hurrying to the scene of the accident, Foreman Bell and his men braced the building in such a way that the victim was pulled free. He was then placed in an ambulance and taken to a hospital where he fully recovered.

Vail medal awards are provided from a fund established as a memorial to Theodore N. Vail, former president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who at the time of his death on April 16, 1920, had long been recognized for his conspicuous service in the development of the art of telephony.

FABLE OF BEING CORRECT AND PROPER

By GEORGE ADE

ONCE there was a Man named Alonzo Frothingham whose wife used to bawl him out something scandalous on account of his crude Manner of Speech and his Penchant for using all of the Smart Aleck Slang he could pick up. Even when Company was present he made no apparent Effort to recognize the Presence of the Dominie or the College Profs, but seemed to take a loafsish Delight in saying, right out in front of them, "Not on your Whiskers!" or "How do you get that Way?" or, possibly "I'll tell the cock-eyed World." He sure was an Injun.

The wife, whose front name was Mehitabel, often told him that one Reason why she let out such a Yelp about his Coarse Language was that he had no Excuse for pulling the Hick Stuff. He had been incubated in an Atmosphere of Culture, and, later, attended the State University. He had read all the Works of Sir Walter Scott and Robert W. Chambers. He had delivered Orations which were Scholarly and full of bang-up Words, such as "Vouchsafe," "Ekeomonyary" and "Peradventure," so what was the Large Idea of trying to make folks think he was a Longshoreman?

No matter how thoroughly a Lady is On to her Permanent Affliction and however low may be her Estimate of his Moral Grandeur and Intellectual Prowess, she always tries to be loyal to His Nobs and spread the Impression among the Neighbors that he is a Combination of Elihu Root, Herbert Hoover, the Pope, Dr. Butler and Dr. William Lyon Phelps of Yale. He may be a Mutt at Home but when he gets to the Bench Show he is a World's Champion with a Ribbon around his Neck.

Now there was simply no Let-Up to Mehitabel raging Alonzo on account of his Predilection for the low-brow Vernacular. She said that no refined Gentleman would ever speak about busting the Slats of an Enemy or designate the Family Doctor as a Slice of Herkimer or refer to a Young Lady Caller as a Pip.

Suggests Soft Pedal.
She told Lon that their Social Ambitions would never be realized and they would not receive the Sacred Pink Tickets admitting them to the most inner and refrigerated Circles of Polite Society until he put the Soft Pedal on his Roughneck Conversation and learned to apply Salve instead of Red Pepper.

She dinged at him so long that finally he made what is known as The Married Man's Compromise, i. e., he decided to let her have her own way in Everything. He said he would Chop on the Chuck Connors Dialect and make Lindley Murray sound like a Bulgarian. He would convert his most trivial Talk into a Well of purest English undefiled, so that all who heard him would be prone to emit Exclamations of Wonder and Admiration. Yes, indeed!

At that, the Good Wife was not prepared for the Verbal Confectionery which he began to lavish upon her. For instance, they were seated at the Dinner Table and she wanted to know if he had put in a pleasant and profitable Day, whereupon he replied: "On the Contrary, I have been subjected to a Series of rather harrowing Experiences, all tending to disturb my Calm and ruffle what is, under all but abnormal Circumstances, a truly Angelic Temper."

"Have you gone off your Nut?" asked Mehitabel.

"No ma'am, I am trying to let you know that Everything went Punk with me today, but I am endeavoring to convey the Information in Language so chaste and dignified that even my best Pal and severest Critic cannot find Fault with her little Alonzo."

"You can lay off of the cheap and rowdy Expressions without trying to make a Fool of the Dictionary," suggested friend Wife.

"Unfortunately I cannot do so," he replied. "There doesn't seem to be any happy Compromise between Slang and Jaw-breakers. When one decides to correct his Manner of Speech by refraining from the current Catch-Phrases of the Street, the homely Colloquialisms and all of the barbarous Americanisms which are so repulsive to High School Superintendents, he finds himself at once imbedded in a Bog of polysyllabic Circumlocutions."

"Slip me that Last One again," said Mehitabel. "I muffed it."

"I was endeavoring," said Alonzo, "to suggest that when One starts in on a painful and determined Effort to make all of his Oral Efforts comport with the inflexible Rules of the Lexicographers and Purists, he will find himself up against it unless—I beg pardon—he will find himself confronting a Dilemma, in that he will be compelled to use only those Words and Phrases which have not been vulgarized by Common Usage. He will have to can the Anglo-Saxon and cotton to those long double-jointed Derivations from the Latin and the Result will be, as I remarked a Moment ago, a Series of Polysyllabic Circumlocutions."

"I am glad that you remember some of the Long Words you heard in College," said she, "but don't think you are going to jar any Laugh out of me by springing that line of Low Comedy. One can be Civilized without trying to talk like an Editorial."

"Whatever else they may hang on to you, you will always go Free when accused of being Funny," said Mehitabel, giving him the Fishy Eye. "I am trying to get you Parlor-Broke and teach you to eat with a Fork and you, with your Usual Deficiency in ordinary Bovine Intelligence and appalling Absence of Good Taste, are trying to kid my noble Efforts, gum up the whole Program and make me look like a desiccated Wham. Many a Woman has beat it to Reno and got a Decree for a good deal less than I have put up with."

Sweet and Sanitary.
"You wrong me, Sweetie," insisted Alonzo. "I am trying, with all of my Boyish Strength and with my Fingers crossed, to make my Talk sweet and purty and sanitary. For nearly One Hundred Years, as nearly as I can estimate the Time, you have been throwing the Harpoon at me because I talk like George M. Cohan instead of George the Fifth. Up to the time that our Honeymoon evaporated and you began to give me a Line on my spectacular Inferiority, I labored under the pleasant Delusion that I was one of Nature's Noblemen. And now because I use the only kind of Talk which can be understood by the Dubs with whom I am compelled to associate, you are trying to make it out that I am a flat-headed Moron. I don't know just what a Moron is but whatever it is, that's me. Now that I have got rid of my Burglar Tools and am trying to go Straight and want to keep away from the Old Life, why does the dear little Helpmate refuse to lend a Helping Hand? Remember, that no matter how long a man may have been talking Loose Talk, he may be down but he's never out."

"At this juncture, when you should be singing 'Rescue the Perishing,' and getting ready to leave me the Life Line you are sitting there with a Dirty Look in your Eye, regarding me as if I were a loathsome Reptile instead of a dandy little Fellow with a Heart of Gold."

"I don't remember the exact Wording of our Nuptial Agreement," said Mrs. Frothingham, "but I am sure there is nothing in the Contract to the Effect that I would be expected to live in a Nut College. When you are at your Top Form, Alonzo, you are no Leon Errol and just at present you are as excruciating as a Hearse with Plumes on it. The only way I can fit into the Picture with you is to wear Black the Year round. When it comes to assassinating Mirth you have certainly got many a Notch on your Gun."

Alonzo began to suspect that his attempt to duplicate the banner performances of Thomas Babington Macaulay, Joseph Addison and Walter Pater had gone blooey and Blah.

He had started out to qualify for the Intelligentsia and had landed back in the Ash-Heap.

It became evident that he was not a Rhetorician, but a Rube. So he gave Notice that in the Future he would confine himself to Words of One Syllable.

"Make them as Few as possible," said Mehitabel, "unless you want to break your Plate and get the Air."

MORAL: There never was a House big enough for two High-Brows.

River Rhone May Give Up Old Art Treasures

The success which has attended the recovery of ancient treasure from the ocean's bottom at several different points, has been the means of stimulating interest in other projects of the same character. Preparations are being made for two boats loaded with valuable Roman treasures which were sunk in 1572 in the Rhone river. It was the ill-fated year of the St. Bartholomew massacre when thousands of Protestants were killed in France by order of King Charles IX. Queen Catherine of Medic, the king's mother, ordered several artistic treasures of Arles to be transferred to Paris. Eight columns hewn in porphyre and several saccophagi and bas-reliefs were loaded on two barges in the Rhone. But as soon as the barges left the Arles harbor, the current of the river toppled them over and they went to the bottom with their precious load.

Divers are now at work and it is hoped soon the Arles museum again will count among its riches the objects carried away 350 years ago.

Favors Round Houses
"People who live in round houses will never be ill." So declared Miss Grace Cope, a woman architect, in London. Among her reasons are: "It is a recognized fact that the eye responds much more readily to a curved line than to a straight one. Wastage of health, both mental and physical, is practically nil in a circular house. If we could get curves standardized in the architecture of our homes we should have a much stronger nation."

If, in addition, Miss Cope added, we have "more psychology in the kitchen," the perfect house is complete.

His Own Latin
The medieval cobbler who used to attend the public disputations held at the academy, in Latin, was once asked if he understood Latin. "No," replied the cobbler, "but I know who is wrong in the argument." "How?" he was asked. "Why, by seeing who is angry first."

Lesson for August 13

HANNAH

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 1:9-22, 24-28; 2:1-2.

GOLDEN TEXT—Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain; but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised. Prov. 31:30.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Gift of Mothers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—An Honored Mother.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What We Owe to Our Mothers.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Devout Motherhood.

As indicated by the lesson committee, the lesson text practically covers chapters one and two of I Samuel. In order to get a full view of this unusual woman the salient features of these chapters should be made to stand out.

I. Hannah's Sore Trial (1:1-8).
Elkanah had two wives, in violation of God's law. God's primal thought for man was one wife only. Therefore, for Adam he made Eve. Hannah's sore trial grew out of jealousy which naturally springs up between two women, wives of one man. The violation of this law of God concerning marriage has always been attended with trouble. Since Hannah's name is mentioned first, we may legitimately infer that she was his first and lawful wife.

II. Hannah Prays for a Son (1:9-18).
She had the good sense to take her trouble to the Lord. Believers should do this even though the troubles result from sin.

1. Her bitterness of soul (v. 10).
Though Elkanah loved her and sought to lighten her burden, he was unable to bring to her heart the needed solace. Only in God can help be found sufficient to stay the soul in time of great trial.

2. Her vow (v. 11).
Hannah asked God for a son. In connection with her asking this gift from God, she vowed to give the child back to God. Samuel was therefore a Nazirite all the days of his life. Much can be expected of children born into the world under such circumstances.

3. Hannah misjudged by Eli, the priest (vv. 12-16).
The priest observing the motion of her lips and not hearing the sound of her voice concluded that she was intoxicated, demanded that she put away wine. She defended herself against this vicious inference, assuring Eli that in bitterness of soul she was pouring out her heart to God in prayer.

Even good people may be too ready to impute evil motives to others. The devout Hannah must have been shocked and grieved that Eli should so unjustly accuse her. The Golden Rule should be applied in judging others.

4. Hannah blessed by Eli (vv. 17, 18).
Her explanation satisfied Eli, who in turn pronounced a blessing upon her, joining in prayer that God would grant her petition.

III. Hannah Consecrates Samuel to the Lord (1:19-28).

1. Her prayer answered (vv. 19, 20).
So definitely did she realize that God had answered her prayer that she named the child Samuel, which means "asked of God."

2. Samuel taken to Shiloh (vv. 20-24).
Hannah refrained from going to the place of yearly sacrifice till Samuel was weaned.

3. Samuel lent or returned to the Lord (vv. 25-28).
According to her vow, she took Samuel at an early age to the sanctuary and gave him over to the charge of Eli, the priest, to minister therein. It is a beautiful sight to see Samuel in his tender years ministering before the Lord. Godly mothers will train their children for God's service. It was, no doubt, a trying experience for Hannah to part with her child. She dedicated him unto the Lord to the end of his life.

IV. Hannah's Thanksgiving to God (chap. 2).

1. She rejoiced in the Lord (vv. 1-10).
So really God had answered her prayer and so definitely had she consecrated Samuel to the sacred service, that she wholeheartedly rejoiced in that she could give up her child in the service of the Lord. She declared that none was so holy as the Lord and that there was none other like unto the Lord. She realized that the Lord was almighty and that the blessings which had come to her were from him.

2. Her love for Samuel (vv. 18, 19).
This was expressed in the making with her own hands a coat for him and taking it to him from year to year as she went to Shiloh with her husband to worship the Lord.

The priestly blessing upon Hannah and Elkanah (vv. 20, 21).
The old priest highly prized the ministry of Samuel and expressed his appreciation by pronouncing a blessing upon his father and mother.

Faithful Prayer

Faithful prayer always implies correlative exertion. No man can ask, honestly and hopefully, to be delivered from temptation unless he has honestly and firmly determined to do the best he can to keep out of it.—John Ruskin.

Must Be Patient

We have only to be patient, to pray, to do his will, according to our present light and strength, and the growth of the soul will go on.

Science of Health

By Dr. Thos. S. Englar

14 "ACIDOSIS."

"The doctor tells me that I am inclined to have acidosis."

How often one hears this statement made by persons suffering from one or other of a variety of ailments. Nearly as often, you will find, the "patient" has only the most hazy notion of what is meant by the term, acidosis, as applied to his body. Confusion arises in his mind as to the acidity of his stomach secretion, which, he may remember from his physiology course, is normal. So, let it be said that when the doctor speaks of "acidosis" he refers to the blood and tissue fluids of his patient, and not to the stomach contents or urine, which are normally acid.

This is a matter in which, truly, "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." From our first lessons in chemistry we learned that an acid is a substance containing hydrogen (H) in a combination from which it may be displaced by a metal to form a salt. An acid is a sour substance, in its concentrated form corrosive and used as a solvent; in its milder forms natural to the body, as the dilute hydrochloric acid of the stomach, or the citric of the lemon or tomato.

One able to take only a superficial view of the subject would naturally suppose, then, that in acidosis the blood would manifest at least some of the properties of an acid—presumably of a very weak acid, since none would believe that a human could live with sulphuric or "muriatic" (hydrochloric) acid flowing in their arteries.

The fact is that man could not survive if his blood stream were even the least little bit acid in reaction, because blood, to perform its functions in the human organism, must be alkaline. Acidosis, so-called, is a relative term, and means merely a reduction, in measurable degree, of the natural alkalinity of the blood. The body maintains an alkaline reserve, ready to meet and neutralize an acid "invasion," from whatever abnormal condition it may arise. Bear in mind that, in health, the blood and lymph (tissue fluid) is always alkaline by a good, wide margin of safety.

If the foregoing has seemed somewhat theoretical, it may serve as introduction to some very practical considerations. It is true that, in certain disorders of the subtler bodily functions, the alkaline reserve may be reduced, giving rise to this condition of relative "acidosis" which has been under discussion. How, then, to correct it? This would seem quite simple: by merely changing the diet so as to include a greater proportion of alkaline foods, or those which, like most vegetables and fruits, when oxidized (burned) in the body, produce, as we say, an "alkaline ash." Alas! it is not nearly so simple as that. The testimony of reliable authority is that, except in cases of actual freak diets, what we eat has no very marked effect upon the acid-base, or acid-alkaline, balance of the human organism. The body, when it is quite normal, is fully capable of maintaining this acid-base equilibrium, even on a diet in which the acid-ash foods may preponderate rather heavily at times. When this equilibrium is upset, it involves a disturbance in the delicate glandular or chemical-regulatory mechanism, a disturbance which goes deeper than diet, and which may require expert diagnosis and treatment to correct. Your "acidosis," you see, is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of your real illness. The whole thing may be a hard nut for a capable physician to crack; it is certainly not a condition which promises much improvement under self-treatment.

Leopard a Bad Actor

The leopard is about as mean and fearless an antagonist as any man can face. When they charge they present so narrow a target, and come so swiftly, that a hunter who has faced one successfully inclines towards great respect for them, and is apt to endow leopards with qualities they do not possess.

Cocos Island

Cocos Island belongs to Costa Rica and is uninhabited. For a time Costa Rica maintained a penal colony there and pirates and whalers have visited it. One treasure hunter remained on the island for several years in an unsuccessful attempt to colonize it.

"Mother" in Vinegar

"Mother" in distilled vinegar is a group of vinegar cells. Saccharomyces aceti is an organism in the vinegar which causes the alcohol to be converted into acetic acid. After this change takes place in the vinegar, the "mother" appears.

Wild Goat an Antelope

America's only species of wild goat (so-called, at least), is not a true goat at all, but a goat-like antelope. This animal, which ranges from California to Washington, Idaho and northern Montana, is generally Mountain goat.

Cockroach Race Included in List of Freak Sports

Wagers have been made on the most unlikely things. Railway passengers have been known to bet on the raindrops falling on the window—as to which of two selected ones would reach the bottom first—and Mark Twain's immortal story, "The Jumping Frog," is the classic instance of the lengths to which man will go in this direction. French sportsmen at Juan-les-Pins are exhilarated over the sport of racing thoroughbred cockroaches! It is said that bookmakers cover bets of thousands of francs on each race. The method is simple but effective. How would you make two cockroaches run for their lives? The answer is: Show a light! Narrow tracks covered with glass are provided. Each competitor is numbered with white ink. At the starting line the cockroaches are restrained by transparent covers. At the finishing line is a large black box, invitingly open. At the starting signal a strong light is switched on behind the roaches and their cover instantly removed. Hating bright lights, and loving darkness, the black competitors run for the darkness for all they are worth. The first into the dark box is the winner.—Montreal Herald.

Redbud or Judas Tree Is Known to Old Fishermen

The redbud is known as the Judas tree, and there is a tradition that this was the variety on which Judas hanged himself. Most observers know the trees as redbuds, and about the only tradition associated with the redbud or the dogwood has to do with fish. Some of the larger fish are said to spawn when the redbud blossoms, and there is a belief that the fisherman will have luck if he casts his line when the dogwood is in flower. The affinity between blossoms and fish originated, however, before legislatures established a closed season for certain species.

The redbud is found in Canada along the shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. It runs through New York to Michigan and south to the gulf states. In Indiana is recorded a redbud having a circumference of two feet nine inches, a clear bole of twenty-three feet and a total height of fifty-four feet. Many of them are considerably smaller.

Oldest Suspension Bridges

The Cincinnati suspension bridge over the Ohio river between Cincinnati and Covington, Ky., is claimed to be the oldest of its kind in the United States. Plans for this bridge were begun in 1846, but it was not completed until 1866. A suspension bridge which antedates this one, however, spans the Allegheny river between Pittsburgh and Allegheny, Pa. This bridge was begun in 1857 and completed in 1860. The Cincinnati bridge is a single span, while the one at Pittsburgh is a double-span.

A renaissance altar, recently discovered in Vienna, is called by experts the finest example of the period in the Austrian capital. It is made of sandstone.

Heroes of Mountain Pass Rescue Fallen Wayfarers

In recent years it has become the habit of certain thrill-hunting tourists in the Alps to get "lost" deliberately so that they may be "rescued" by the St. Bernard dogs and find shelter in the famous Hospice of the Augustinian monks, whose grim morgue was, in ages past, filled with the bodies of real fallen wayfarers. The highly-trained dogs were sent out in snowstorms to see what they could find, and their well-developed sense of smell frequently located human beings who had fallen victims to the terrors of the St. Bernard pass.

The travel industry has commercialized the fine record of heroism of the monks of this highest winter habitation in the Alps, so they are looking for a place where they will be better able to restore the spirit of self-sacrifice of their founder, St. Bernard de Menton, who established the monastery in 962. They are extending their work of mercy to the wild Si-La pass in the Himalayas.

The Brotherhood consists of about forty members, who deeply regret that their Hospice should have become a mere show place for holiday-makers.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

King Solomon Was Second Judean Monarchy Ruler

Solomon, the son of David, who succeeded his father on the throne of Israel and ruled from 974 until 937 B. C., was the second ruler in the Judean monarchy, and was of that branch of the white race which settled in Palestine in prehistoric times. Modern Jews are descended from the same stock, says a writer in Pathfinder Magazine.

The assertion sometimes heard that Solomon was of the black race is no doubt founded on the fact that Ras Taffari, ruler of Abyssinia, claims to be a descendant of King Solomon. This claim is no doubt well founded, for the civilization and culture of Ethiopia (now Abyssinia) parallels that of Egypt, and early records and legends may be given historical credence. The queen of Sheba visited Solomon when he was king, and from their son, Menelek, the kings of Abyssinia claim direct descent. There are unmistakable traces of white blood in the Ethiopian aristocracy.

Bird-Eating Spiders

The London zoo has been enriched by a large number of giant bird-eating and other "out-size" spiders. A constant supply is provided by the many lines of banana boats, but notably those that come from Jamaica. As one explores the tier upon tier of holds in these ships, containing in all some 1,500 tons of fruit, these 6 to 8-inch-long spiders make a weird spectacle as they skate over the walls or sit waiting for the small birds which never appear. Some of the species can give a very severe bite, and dozens perish at the hands of the crew for every single one that arrives at the Regent's park menagerie. Zoo specimens become very tame, allowing themselves to be handled by their keeper.

Mohammedan Calendar

The Mohammedan calendar is the lunar calendar employed in all Mohammedan countries since July 16, A. D. 622. The era began with the Hejra, or flight, of Mohammed, the prophet, and his disciples from Mecca to Medina, following religious persecution. The years consist of 354 or 355 days. The beginning of the year thus retrogrades through different seasons, completing the circuit in about thirty-three years. The thirteen hundredth year began Sunday, November 12, 1882. The year comprises 12 months of 29 and 30 days, supplemented by the addition of a day each to 11 years out of every 30 years.

Armless Justice of the Peace

David Moylan has been a municipal judge in Cleveland since 1916. He is armless, and writes with a pen or pencil gripped in his teeth, turns the pages of his law books with a flip of his chin and has a special contrivance to hold his telephone receiver to his ear. In 1896 an accident in the Pennsylvania yards where Moylan was working as a brakeman caused him to lose his right arm. He went back to the Pennsylvania yards as a clerk in the freight office and later as a switchman. In 1904 another accident caused him to lose his other arm. In 1906 he took up the study of law, and passed the bar examination three years later, ranking among the first ten successful candidates in the state.

Horses Still Favored

Bermuda refuses to outlaw the horse. Although the rest of the world has, in varying degrees, turned to motorized transportation, in Bermuda the horse and carriage is still the chief means for going places, says the New York World-Telegram. Many persons in the United States think that the bicycle is the most popular vehicle in Bermuda, chiefly because most of the pictures taken in Bermuda feature persons riding on bicycles. But as a matter of fact, there are about as many horses as there are bicycles in the islands.

Russian Oil Second

Russia, which in 1931 boosted its oil production to the extent that it ranked second in total output, maintained that rank the year following although her production fell off more than 7,000,000 barrels. The United States, of course, still led in output, the wells of this country supplying nearly 60 per cent of the petroleum consumed. Venezuela ranked third, Rumania fourth and the other nations producing oil fell off rather sharply from these leaders.

Wild Cats Increasing

The annual report of the county treasurer at Pittsfield, Mass., shows that wild cats are increasing in number in the Berkshire hills. Last year, bounties were paid on 25 cats killed, compared with 20 in 1931 and an average of 16. The favorite lairs of the cats are the rough and dismal crags of Mount Hunger.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Met Clifford W. Hartridge as he was hurrying along West Forty-third street. The name isn't familiar? A little more than a quarter of a century ago it was on first pages all over the world. Twice a day he held conferences with newspaper men, the dean of which was none other than Irvin S. Cobb. Whatever he had to say was carried by wires across and up and down the nation and under the sea. He was quoted directly and indirectly. Newspaper men lay in wait for him. When he appeared on the streets, he was stared at. In an overcrowded courtroom, eyes never left his face and his every move was noted. Clifford W. Hartridge was the attorney of record in the first trial of Harry K. Thaw, charged with the slaying of Stanford White.

Not a head turned as Mr. Hartridge continued along Forty-third street. His appearance, according to those who knew him then, has not changed greatly since those exciting days when he faced William Travers Jerome, who was trying to send the young Pittsburgh millionaire to the electric chair. But Mr. Hartridge is no longer in the public eye. He was one of the tragedies of that famous case, which caused so much furor at the time. Because of that case, he was disbarred and has never been reinstated.

After the case, Mr. Hartridge brought suit against the Thaw family for his fees and money expended. He had been paid some on account but claimed that approximately $90,000 was still due. He started the suit in the state courts, but on petition of the family, it was transferred to the Federal court. Mr. Hartridge introduced proof that the fee, out of which he was to pay his law partner who had died before the case came to trial, was not all for legal services but included also about $30,000 of his own funds which he had spent in Thaw's behalf. He lost the suit and the matter was taken up with the Bar association. That body held that his bill of particulars had not been ethical, and so he was barred from practice.

Before taking the Thaw case, Mr. Hartridge had been a successful New York attorney, his income at that time, so it was said, having been about $25,000 a year, not a bad figure for 1906. Fate took a hand in his entering the Thaw case. Through his interest in bridge, Mr. Hartridge knew Thaw. So when Thaw was confined in the Tombs, after that tragedy on the old Madison Square Garden roof, he went to see if he could do anything for him. He was at once engaged as Thaw's attorney. Others came into the case, including Delphin M. Delmas, but Mr. Hartridge was the attorney of record. Thus he became known over the world. And now he goes about New York unnoticed. Curiously, to me at least, his interest in bridge is undiminished. He not only still plays but writes about it.

After a short chat with Mr. Hartridge, I continued along Forty-third street and at Eighth avenue met a friend familiar with the ways of the underworld. The depression has hit those who live without the law as well as others, he said. Employees of racketeers no longer get the wages they did in the past. For instance, they will commit a petty theft for $5; wreck a place and beat up anyone handy for $25, and "put the arm on" (kidnap) for $100. A beating so severe that there is risk of a murder charge is done for $150, and a bomb job calls for $100. These prices are per man, the total cost of the job, of course, depending on the number engaged.

British Railway Runs Planes in Daily Service

London.—One British railroad has turned to air transport in its effort to combat the competition of the highways.

The Great Western has opened two daily services between Cardiff, on the south coast of Wales, and Plymouth, on the English channel coast. The line is operated under a bill passed in parliament four years ago, but this is the first time the measure's provisions have been put into effect.

The entire time for the air journey is just under an hour, as compared with more than four hours by rail.
