Mrs. Elizabeth Galt is confined to bed and very ill at this writing.

Basil L. Crapster is spending several days this week, in Harrisburg, Pa., and Princeton, N. J.

Miss Kathryn Koons is spending her vacation with friends at Springfield, Mass., and Boston, Mass.

Miss Marie Little, of Baltimore, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Little.

Miss Mary Neary, of Baltimore, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cain, near town, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Feeser and Miss Ina Feeser and Edward Flohr, visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baker, at Woodbine, Md., on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sauerhammer and Miss Ethel Sauerhammer, of Littlestown, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson, on Sunday.

Peaches have been sold rather plentifully, this week, on our streets, at prices ranging around $1.00 to $1.25 per bushel for sound fruit.

The Misses Annan, of Washington, D. C., have returned home after spending several weeks with Mrs. R. L. Annan and the Misses Annan.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leister, of town; Mr. and Mrs. James Baumgardner, of Charles Town, W. Va., are spending several weeks at Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Earl Crabbs, daughter Betty, and son, Earl, Jr., Baltimore, are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Overholzer and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Crabbs.

Mrs. Grace Smith entertained over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Macauluso daughters Mary Jo, and Constance and son, Jackie, and Miss Hilda Smith, of Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Jesse W. Fuss and daughter, Miss Pauline, visited the Englar home Tuesday night. These visits have been kept up regularly, for many years, between the two families.

Roland Zentz, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aaron D. Zentz, Baltimore, visited Taneytown, on Wednesday. This family lived in Taneytown about 40 years ago. He was accompanied by his wife.

Grapes and plums are reported to have been greatly injured, likely by the continuous rain. At any rate, a large percentage of both have burst open. The grape crop is below the average.

Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Benner and son, Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baumgardner, daughter, Miss Mildred; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mehring, daughters, Idona and Wanda, and son, Richard, attended the Basehoar reunion held at the home of A. Calvin Basehoar, on Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Wantz who had been confined to bed for several weeks is able to be up and around. Those who visited her during the week were: Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Zimmerman and Miss Nora Miller, of Waynesboro, Pa.; Mrs. Halbert Poole, of Westminster, and Mrs. A. J. Baumgardner.

On Tuesday morning Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown, had charge of a devotional hour over Station WMFD. Frederick. Rev. Guy P. Bready, delivered a short address, and a male quartet consisting of Murray Baumgardner, Delmont Koons, Edgar Fink and Harry M. Mohney, sang a number of selections with Mrs. Edgar Fink, at the piano. The program was heard by a number of listeners in Taneytown.

The High and Elementary Schools in Taneytown will open for work on Tuesday morning, September 7, at 9 o'clock. School will continue for a full day's session, dismissing at the regular hour in the afternoon. Since the cafeteria will not be open, children who come on a bus or children who are accustomed to stay at school during the noon hour will bring lunch with them. The busses will run on the regular schedules in the morning.

Taney Lodge No. 28, I. O. O. F., will have at least two visiting degree teams this month. The Lodge itself will confer the initiatory degree upon a class of twelve candidates this Friday night. On Friday, Sept. 10, the degree team of Garden Lodge, of Baltimore, will confer the first degree. The second degree will be given on the following Friday, Sept. 17, by Gettysburg Lodge, of Gettysburg. The team to confer the third degree on Sept. 24 has not yet been selected.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Krout were last week-end guests at a house party and corn bake given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham at their summer home at Braddock, Md. Other guests were: Mrs. Mary Huegler, Indianapolis, Ind.; Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Gray and son; Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Madigan, Washington, D. C.; Miss Irene Madigan, Mr. Michael Madigan, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Whitmore, Lewis-town, Md.; Billy Hann, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Miller, Miss Mary Hann, Hagerstown, Md.

MASSED BAND FESTIVAL

Held Last Sunday Afternoon in Pipe Creek Park.

A largely attended band festival was held last Sunday afternoon in Pipe Creek Park, in charge of J. Robert Menchey, director of the Taneytown Junior Band. The guest conductor was Col. Edw. J. Gobrecht, of Hanover, who conducts several bands in Pennsylvania, and is a member of the Pennsylvania Band Masters' Association.

Four bands participated in the event: Boiling Springs High School; 65 members; Penn Grove, 25 members; Alesia, 25 members, and Taneytown Jr. Band, 35 members.

Mr. Gobrecht conducted the massed bands in the rendition of the marches "Memoria" by Seitz; "Billboard," Khlör; "Coast Guards," Davis; "National Emblem," Bagley, and "Sabre and Spurs," Sousa. Lyman G. Breneman, director of the Boiling Springs High School Band, conducted the bands in playing, "New Colonial," R. B. Hall, and "Our Director," Bigelow. Vernon Baublitz, conductor of the Alesia Band, led the bands for F. Seitz's march, "The Talisman," and J. Robert Menchey, conductor of the Taneytown I. O. O. F. Band, led in "Grandioso," by Seitz. Mr. Gobrecht then surprised the bands and the audience when he presented his son Lewis, aged four years, who conducted the bands in the playing of the march, "Transcontinental" by Weber.

TWO LADIES INJURED—STRUCK BY AUTO, IN TANEYTOWN.

On Wednesday evening, about 8:00 o'clock, Mrs. Rosie Miller, 1302 Linden Avenue, Baltimore, and Miss Daisy Klinefelter, also of Baltimore, while crossing the street near Johnson's Inn, Taneytown, were struck by an automobile.

The ladies were taken to the office of Dr. C. M. Benner who examined and treated them for their injuries. Mrs. Miller received a broken right leg, four inches below the knee, spine injured and suffered from shock, and was removed to the Maryland General Hospital in the Carroll County ambulance.

Miss Klinefelter was suffering from head injuries, brush burns and shock, and was later removed to the Johnson Inn where the two ladies had been spending their vacation at the time of the accident.

No hearing in the case has yet been held. The report is that the ladies, in attempting to cross the street, stepped from behind a large truck going toward Baltimore in front of the car that was going toward the center of the town. The driver of the car was from Baltimore, and promptly stopped to render assistance.

DEATH BY SUICIDE AT PLEASANT VALLEY.

Edgar Thomas Logue, of Pleasant Valley, committed suicide in the basement of his home, early last Monday morning, by shooting himself by the use of a shot gun. An investigation of the case was made by acting coroner Sherman E. Flannagan, State's Attorney, George N. Fringer and Deputy Sheriff, Walter Shipley, who decided an inquest to be unnecessary, as death had evidently been self-inflicted.

Mr. Logue who was 39 years of age was in the employ of Wm. E. Myers & Son, meat dealers, Westminster, and was 39 years of age. He arose at the usual hour in the morning, and while his wife had gone to the barn to do the milking, and the rest of the family were upstairs, he secured the gun, descended into the cellar and shot himself, perhaps using a toe to discharge the gun.

He was a son of the late Theodore and Elizabeth Logue. Surviving are his wife and five children: Helen, Theodore, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoke, Thomas and Alice Jane; also one grandchild and several brothers and sisters.

DOES NOT LIKE TEXAS.

Rev. Warner P. Thompson, Sykesville minister, who is visiting Texas for his health, accompanied by his wife and sons, writes as follows to the Sykesville Herald:

"This is undoubtedly the country that God forgot." "There's no hay fever here," he says "but staying in this country is a dear price to pay for not having hay fever."

"Outside of being high and dry and having bright, sunny days constantly," he continues from El Paso, "the land has nothing to offer. No trees or grass here, except the hot-house variety, and this desert sun has made all of us about the same color as the Mexicans."

He is feeling much better, Rev. Thompson relates, adding with characteristic zest that already he has gained enough strength to whip about two newspaper editors. And, he concludes, while that isn't necessarily much strength, still he is on the way up.

LAST CALL ON CALENDARS.

Our calendar orders for 1938—larger than for several years—have been shipped to us, the manufacturers claiming "lack of storage space." We will still receive orders, at slightly higher prices, because of additional freight or express charges, and because a pretty general advance of 10 per cent has been made.

When your tax bill has been paid and the coal is in the bin—just begin to get ready to do the same thing next year—and be happy.

MORE INFORMATION CONCERNING STRIKES.

From the very center of the many Organized Union Activities.

Well, here we are again, with some more comments on the old—by this time—subject of "Strikes." I surely felt rewarded, for what I have written, the past few months, when I read the article by my old friend, Prof. Wm. James Heaps, in last week's issue of the Record. For if I have not done any good, or interested any one else in this subject, I am thankful that such an able writer and profound thinker as Mr. Heaps, should take notice of my humble efforts to help out the Editor and give his readers some idea of what is happening in this city and state.

I first want to say that there is not a single line in Mr. Heaps' article that I do not indorse and firmly believe in. In the discussions which inevitably must occur when everybody is interested in a subject, I have always maintained that I could not see why Capital and Labor could not get along, without antagonizing each other, and without outsiders stepping in and stirring up trouble.

I believe in organization not on the lines of the C. I. O., John Lewis' organization, but rather on those of the A. F. L., as it was governed by the late Samuel Gompers. For years (I am now writing about conditions in Detroit), the officials of the large Automobile Companies, and other large concerns, have been organized, and we have often heard it said, that if a man was "fired," from some factory, his record was common property with these officials, and very often it was a difficult matter for such a man to get another job.

So, I hold that it is the right of the workers to organize, in order to protect themselves against unjust discrimination. I also believe that labor should receive its just reward, and receive the highest wages, its work it worth. And such a committee as Mr. Heaps advocates, should surely help to bring about a period of good feeling between these two widely separated classes.

While we are discussing this subject, we must not lose sight of what has existed since the creation of mankind—Human Nature, and the tendency of everybody to "get while the getting is good." And this "getting" is just what the matter is in this city today. We hear it often said, "We don't know how long this is going to last, and want all we can get while it does last."

We have an instance before us at present. The Directors of the Michigan State Fair, which is held in Detroit, decided to renovate and enlarge the looks of the grounds and buildings, and put a large number of men at work. I do not know if all these men were union or not. But the painters were, and were getting $10 a day—$12.50 per hour, for 8 hours. As the Fair starts this week, they desired them to work on Saturday and Sunday. The Union officials demanded $20.00 a day for the men, or double time, and were very sure that they would get it, as our Governor has always sided with them.

But, he was overruled, or did not take any part in the bargaining, and the Directors turned this demand down. And then an awful howl went up. I have this first-hand, from a member of the Union, and whom I am intimately acquainted. Now if any one can convince me that a man working at common painting is worth $25.00 an hour, and that this attempt to collect that much was not an attempt to carry out what I have said above, then I do not know what I am writing about.

And just at present, we have a more serious threat hanging over us—the notice of the C. I. O. officials to call a strike among the employees of the Gas Co., despite the fact that all demands for an increase of wages have been met up to this time. But the Union has not been recognized, and that is the all-important thing with the officials, whose jobs depend on the amount of trouble they can stir up.

One of our dailies, in an article last week, told us who and how many people would be affected—private homes, hotels and restaurants left without fuel for cooking, large factories, garages, bakeries, creameries, etc., deprived of gas used in their different operations. The number was appalling, and as it went on to show the amount of suffering such a strike would cause, we wondered how the reading of this article would strike the minds and those who are most concerned in bringing such a calamity to pass.

But I assume that, as was the case in the strikes of the past, it does not matter to them, who it will hurt, just so they attain their ends, and make their jobs secure. It would seem that their actions during the past year would disgust any thinking man.

Maybe I should not feel the way I do, or endeavor to put in print my sentiments, as I belong to the class which has no say, and which is not allowed to work. But I suppose that is why I have been writing these articles—to let out a little steam. I surely wish the time would come when all this industrial strife will cease, and when all will have a decent chance at making a living. Let us hope that this time is not in the distant future, but is near at hand.

Mr. Reid's articles are widely read, as we know from first hand information, and they are very clearly worded and practically informing.—Ed.)

LAW CONCERNING SCHOOL BUSES

Chapter 193, Section 1, Article 209A Laws of Maryland—1937.

"All school buses on the rear thereof shall have the word 'school bus' painted or printed in large letters and shall be equipped with signals or devices to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles showing from the rear when said vehicles are about to stop, which signals or devices shall be employed whenever such bus is about to stop to take on or discharge any child or children. All vehicles behind such bus shall stop when the signal is set, at least ten feet behind the rear of such bus when it has stopped, and shall remain standing until the bus starts or the stop signal is released. Any operator of a vehicle who fails to stop when such bus stops, with the stop signal set, to take on or discharge children, or otherwise violates the provisions hereof, when such bus actually halts for the purpose of taking on or discharging children, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00); provided, however, that this section only apply to Carroll, Wicomico, Charles, Washington, Howard, Montgomery, Talbot and Frederick Counties."

Section 2—"And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on June 1, 1937."

Approved May 18, 1937.

SALESMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

George A. Younkens, aged 35, of Hagerstown, drove his auto into a truck, on Wednesday afternoon, near Finkburg, and died from the effects of his injuries while enroute to a Baltimore Hospital. Younkens drove his auto past a stop sign and struck a truck operated by William Topper, Emmitsburg.

The Younkens auto was badly damaged, and he was thrown out of it by the force of the crash. Younkens was in the employ of the Atlantic Supply Co., of Hagerstown, and was on his way to the firm's headquarters, in Baltimore.

He is survived by his parents, his wife and one daughter, in Hagerstown, and by four brothers and one sister.

NAILL FAMILY REUNION.

The 12th. annual reunion of the Naill family will be held on Sunday, September 12, at Bethel M. E. Church and grove, near New Windsor, Md. Interesting program. Special musical numbers. Prominent speaker. The officers are: Mrs. Winter Bond, Secretary, Reisterstown, Md.; M. W. Naill, President, Hanover; C. Edgar Nisbaum, Chairman of Executive Committee, New Windsor, Md.

FROM EDWARD W. AND ELMER W. FLEAGLE.

Elmer W. Fleagle, of Hagerstown, is visiting over Labor Day with his brother, Edward, of 415 Warburton Ave., Yonkers, N. Y., who is now convalescence from a serious illness in St. John's Riverside Hospital, Yonkers, N. Y., having undergone four operations, is now home. Mr. F. is improving every day and growing stronger in his daily walks, on the Ave., and in the park. After having spent three months in the Hospital Mr. F. is delighted to be home and spend the next week with his brother Elmer who will celebrate their birthdays together on Sept. 4th.

EDWARD W. FLEAGLE.

Elmer W. Fleagle, of Hagerstown, who had his eye operated on by doctor Knorr, Eye Specialist, on Aug. 16, at the Presbyterian Clinic Hospital, Baltimore, proved a success, is now visiting his twin brother Edward in Yonkers, N. Y.

Edward Jr., had us out on the Hendrick Hudson drive just recently open to the public, is one of the finest drives now known. Mr. Fleagle will visit his sister, Mrs. Charles Davidson and family, Philadelphia, and brother George, of York; sister, Mrs. L. A. Kohr, Hanover, and niece, Mrs. Walter Selby, Littlestown, and sister and relatives, Mrs. Edw. H. Winter, Taneytown. At this age of travel and speed, made the trip in 5½ hours from Hagerstown, by the Western Maryland R. R. to Baltimore, there connecting with the High Power Electric train from Washington, to New York City, which is the finest, cleanest and safest way of traveling. To appreciate this trip, is just try it some time when visiting the great Metropolitan City.

COUNTIANS ATTEND CANADA EXPOSITION

One of the Finest of its Kind Ever Shown Anywhere.

Monday morning thirty-four Carroll Countians and eighteen from Frederick left Taneytown by special train for Toronto and other points in Canada, by way of Niagara Falls, to attend the Canadian National Exposition, which features the field of Agriculture and associated activities. The Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, welcomed the guests from the states.

The trip was so arranged going, for travel by daylight, while the return will be at night. Niagara Falls was visited, going, and then on to Toronto.

An immense array of carefully designed exhibits were shown. The internationally famous pageant on the World's largest outdoor stage was this year built around the British Empire's Coronation ceremonies. Fifteen performers displayed the historical incidents in the lives of all former English monarchs.

Business men from all over the world are said to visit this largest of all expositions to learn the new trends in the field of trade and commerce. In addition, the exhibition has never lost sight of its responsibilities to the basic industries. It covers the field of agriculture and associated activities. Products and commodities in infinite variety, shown in settings suited to the particular purpose, are displayed and demonstrated in a most delightful way.

Miss Mary Alice Chenoweth, Taneytown, was one of the party of thirty-four, the others being from Silver Run, Westminster, New Windsor, Uniontown, and various other parts of the county. They returned home this Friday morning—having been gone just four days.

OPENING OF SCHOOL NOTICE TO AUTO DRIVERS.

On the eve of the Fall school term motorists are urged by the Keystone Automobile Club of Maryland to give their fullest co-operation to the movement fostered by the Club for the protection of school children.

Garrison P. Knox, Manager of the Club, points out that many dangers confront children returning to school after the summer vacation, and emphasizes the responsibility of motorists in safeguarding the lives of pupils.

"A factor having important bearing on the problem of child safety," he said, "is the appearance on the streets of thousands of youngsters attending school for the first time. These children have not had the benefit of safety instruction in the classrooms, and in their behalf we appeal particularly to motorists. To very great extent, the safety of first-year pupils will depend upon the care with which motor vehicles are operated, not only in the vicinity of schools, but on all streets where children are walking on their way to and from their classrooms."

"All drivers are strongly urged to use the utmost caution where children are crossing streets. No one can foretell when a child is going to rush forward from a group into the path of moving vehicles. Because of this uncertainty the duty devolves upon the motorist to have his car under such control that he can stop at a moment's notice. Safe drivers never take chances where children are concerned."

"The Keystone Automobile Club of Maryland also wishes to impress upon motor vehicle operators the importance of co-operating with the School Safety Patrols. The boys and girls who constitute these patrols are doing a splendid work in accident prevention. They are always on the alert to safeguard fellow pupils, but their efforts will be hampered without complete co-operation of motorists."

REPORTS ON STATE TAX LAW RECEIPTS.

The first two months of Maryland's Relief tax laws seem to show results below expectations, the amount of the receipts having been $682,625, while the amount for the year was estimated to be $5,010,000 annually. The July receipts were considerably higher than for June, which is regarded as encouraging the belief that the total for the year may be sufficient.

The gasoline Tax for August produced $1,042,793, as compared with $922,717, in 1936. Since January 1 the gasoline tax has amounted to $6,790,164, an increase of $845,628 over the same period last year.

The relief tax program includes a 1 per cent admission tax; 2 7-16 cents per gallon beer tax; 10 per cent cosmetic tax; 2½ cents per gallon whisky tax; 1-10 of 1 per cent recordation tax; 1 per cent automobile titling levy; $10 to $35 pin ball machine tax; $15 music box tax, and a $1.00 re-registration charge for all motorists.

Should the present laws prove inadequate to return the full amount required, then a general sales tax seems inevitable. Public speakers are already urging it as the best plan.

THE COUNTY STATEMENT.

The County Statement, this week, takes up two pages; but this statement is of decided interest to many, and is worthy of more study than many others give it. We could have made a supplement out of it; but once a year, we think we are entitled to "make hay," and give less reading matter.

HUNTING SEASON NOTES

A Brief Summary of the Laws for Maryland.

The following "open" season apply to Maryland, as we understand the laws;

Railbirds—September 1 to October 31st., inclusive. (Supersedes Federal law.)

Doves—September 1 to September 30th., inclusive, and November 15 to December 31st., inclusive.

Squirrels—October 1st., to October 15th., inclusive.

Woodcock, (male) English.

Ringnecked, Mongolian or Mutant Pheasants;

Rabbit or Hare.

Wild turkey, partridges, (Quail)—November 15 to December 31, inclusive. (Except in Garrett and Allegany counties the open season is November 1 to 30, inclusive.)

Male Deer, with two or more points to one antler—December 1 to 5, inclusive.

"It is unlawful to hunt with any automatic loaded or hand-operated repeating shotgun capable of holding more than three shells, the magazine of which has not been cut off or plugged with a one-piece metal or wooden filler incapable of removal through the loading end thereof, so as to reduce the capacity of said gun to not more than three shells at any one time in the magazine and chamber combined."

The Federal regulations on bag limits, are as follows;

Railbirds 15; Woodcock, 4; Doves, 15; Rabbits, 6; Squirrels, 6; Partridge or Quail, 6; (male) English Ringnecked, Mongolian or Mutant Pheasant, 2, not over 6 per season; Ruffed Grouse, 2, not over 6 per season; Wild Turkey, 1, not over 4 per season. Deer (male only) with 2 or more points to one antler 1 per season. Wild geese 5; Wild Ducks 19, (conforming to Federal regulations.)

BLUE RIDGE COLLEGE TO FEATURE ATHLETICS.

After an absence of 17 years from intercollegiate football, Blue Ridge College once again is entering the field of competition. It will return to the game this season with a freshman eleven, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. W. S. Y. Critchley, president of the New Windsor school.

Steve Grenda, former Columbia University guard and gridiron star, who captained the 1932 eleven and who has been line coach under Lou Little since 1933, has been named football coach and director of athletics.

Grenda is to report immediately for duty and will get things in working order for a quick start when college opens on September 20th.

Only a freshman schedule will be adhered to this season, but next year the college will enter varsity competition and in the reorganization plans Blue Ridge will have a full program of varsity athletics.

According to President Critchley there will be football, soccer, basketball, ice hockey, baseball, swimming, lacrosse and track. Plans already have been drawn and, it is said, the money is on hand to build a fieldhouse and swimming pool.

Work on this, however, is not to be started until next spring, so in the interim Blue Ridge will continue to use its present gymnasium.

The athletic fields, for football and baseball, are being reconitioned, with the greatest amount of work now being done on the gridiron. The entire college has undergone improvement and President Critchley feels that the student body will reach 175 this season.

About eighty per cent of these students will be men, Blue Ridge being coeducational.—Frederick Post.

Random Thoughts

TALKING TOO MUCH.

We quite innocently at times, and at other times not so innocently, cause trouble by talking too much. It is not the commonly known gossip peddlers that cause the most trouble, as they are usually known, and what they say is subject to discount, and not so apt to be repeated.

But, whenever a lot of congenial spirits get together they are apt to represent a sort of produce exchange, one often presenting an appendix to what somebody else has said on the same subject until quite long stories are completed, so far as their information or "I heard" goes.

Even in the best of society, stories are apt to grow beyond bounds, and often without much real foundation, for the temptation is strong to add opinions and guesses in order to add more interest, and "stretching" the truth is common.

Most folks like to be known as "good company" which means talking a lot, and maybe too much—with emphasis on the latter. Our Socials, and Parties of various kinds are fully half arranged for talk-fests, and what we expect, or hope, to hear. Perhaps if we would read more, and "Party" less, it would be wiser.

Unquestionably, we talk too much when we are not sure of the truthfulness of what we talk about; and it is wisdom, as well as the charity shown by good breeding, not to tell all we know, at times, even when true.

GOV. NICE IN "RUN" CLASS.

It is said by those who watch political winds, that Governor Nice will "run" either for Governor or U. S. Senator, next year, but is watching signs for the best chance—and of "signs" there promises to be plenty.

Something is pretty sure to develop, nationally, that will assure Democratic disaffection with various administration policies; and the outlook is that there will be trouble among Democratic leaders for state office.

Gov. Nice, however, will not likely have as easy a prospect as faced him in his victory over Ritchie, and it is not quite clear that he has strengthened himself in his own party during his term as Governor.

And so, there will be some watchful waiting, by a considerable number, during the months to come. That is what usually results when there are more pegs than holes.

REPUBLICANS PREPARING FOR 1938.

Republicans leaders are gathering in groups, trying to outline a plan of united aggressive action, looking ahead to 1938. Last week representatives of fourteen states—Ohio, Massachusetts, California, South Dakota, Virginia, Rhode Island, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Nebraska, New York, Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas and Illinois, held a meeting with John D. Hamilton, National Chairman.

Individual opinions were highly optimistic that sufficient serious indictments of the present administration would be assembled and proven, in order to widely change the complexion of Congress, and state governments. At least thirty-five members of Congress are predicted for gain, on present favorable prospects.

Other meetings will follow a wider scouting campaign. The object of which will be to focus public sentiment as a reaction to new deal legislation, and this scouting will include at least several Southern States. October 1 is the date set for this campaign.

LIQUOR BARRED FROM RADIO, IN CANADA.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has barred all advertising of alcoholic liquor, throughout the Dominion. This action should be adopted in the United States, as liquor advertising is most obnoxious to millions of radio listeners.

In the United States, hard liquor advertising is barred by the National and Columbia Broadcasting Systems, but some stations on smaller systems have not. All of the systems, however, advertise Beer—some of them continuously, every day.

Of course, they can be "tuned out" if one is quick about it, as they are sandwiched in between the longer programs.

It may be considered narrow minded, and extreme, to protest against these radioed beer boosts; but considering the young folks, there is another face placed on the matter. Parents, as a rule, object seriously on this account, as they have a right to do.

WHAT TO PRINT.

A publication issue in the interest of weekly newspapers, has lately invited wide discussion of the question, "should a weekly paper publish all of the happenings in its community, whether creditable or discreditable?"

Naturally, the replies received have been various, and from one extreme to the other. The one argument being that a newspaper does not make the news, and is not responsible for it; the other is, that publishing a lot of the bad news, serves no good purpose.

The following comment by the Ranona (Cal.) Sentinel, very largely meets with our approval.

"It is not too much to say that the success of a small town editor hinges not on what he prints, but what he does NOT print. A small town is an enlarged family. Ninety per cent of what happens is known. If it is bad, publication simply brings sorrow to the wrongdoer's friends and family, who are in no way responsible. Such a policy, like the widely-advised "vigorous editorial" policy, destroys the small town newspaper's power for good and converts it into a community irritant which breeds factionalism and community sores which do not heal until the editor finally fails and is followed by a better type citizen and—incidentally—a better business man who comes in to build back the paper's prestige."

Our plan is not a fixed one, but each case considered separately. We believe that the publication of some criminal acts is wise, because of the rightful interest the public has in them. Thieving, burglary, automobile accidents, wilful violation of laws designed to protect the peace and security of a neighborhood, should be made known.

Cases of murder, fatal accidents, arson, hold-ups and numerous other crimes should be published at least to the extent of giving bare facts.

We do not believe that cases of ordinary drunken brawls, cases in which immorality is the chief feature, divorce cases, family troubles of most kinds, nor a long list of cases which are of a more or less private character than many persons would like to read of, should be given publicity.

The weekly paper is not primarily a police court paper, but should use a wide amount of discretion in its editing, for even in pursuing this course it will not always escape severe criticism from those who are directly concerned in unhappy events.

The proceedings of court are public property. The evidence need not—in most cases should not—be given in detail, but certainly the publication of news of this kind is proper.

BIBLE BOOMERANG.

Any good politician knows that nothing is more calculated to win public support than a strong defense of Virtue or a thumping attack on Sin. Governor E. D. Rivers, of Georgia, is a politician but how good a one was a matter thrown open to question last week.

A few weeks ago, jovial, young Governor Rivers thought he had gathered to his side all the right-thinking people of the state by hitting upon the exact two-edged formula for political success. His plan was to present every public school child in the state with a copy of the Bible.† Not satisfied with describing the Bible as an influence for morality, Governor Rivers also declared that by the free distribution of 800,000 Bibles, Communism would be stopped dead in Georgia.

Governor Rivers made at least two mistakes and these were quickly pointed out by religious and educational leaders. One error was to specify that the Bibles were to be of the King James version—official text of the Protestant faiths. Said the Rev. D. Lois D. Newton, Baptist leader in Georgia: "If the state can decide for every child what constitutes the Bible and can take everybody's tax money and buy the state's definition of what constitutes the Bible, why couldn't the state go and tell each teacher what he or she must say about the Bible?"

On this point, the Governor could have recalled a decision of the California courts several years ago, but apparently did not. A California school board had purchased King James versions of the Bible for public school libraries. Religious and educational groups attacked the transaction as favoring Protestantism, but the courts upheld the purchase. However, the courts also ruled that if citizens demanded it, the school board could be forced to give equal status to any other version of the Bible or other Holy Book.

In four states—Illinois, Louisiana, South Dakota and Wisconsin—the state supreme courts have held Bible-reading laws to be unconstitutional, but 12 other states have upheld such laws. The United States Supreme Court has never ruled on the question, refusing some time ago to review a Washington state supreme court decision which upheld a constitutional provision prohibiting the reading of the Bible in public schools.

The Governor's other unfortunate statement was that it would stem Communism. To this, Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, Presbyterian minister and president of Oglethorpe University, replied: "Oddly enough, no one has suggested the inappropriateness of using the Bible to combat Communism. Jesus Christ practiced Communism during his whole earthly ministry, and his example was followed by the early church, whose members 'had all things in common.'"

As more and more educators and ministers rallied last week to attack the Rivers proposal, the Governor and his school text book committee lost no time in preparing to abandon the plan.—The Pathfinder.

†Georgia is one of 12 states which require that all public schools must have a passage from the Bible read each day. Thirteen other states permit but do not require the reading. Eleven states specifically prohibit reading of the Scriptures in public schools.

PRICE INCREASES FOR ADVERTISING AND PRINTING.

When newspaper men gather these days, the talk generally turns to increased production costs and the question of what is to be done about raising rates for advertising, subscriptions, and commercial printing, says an article in a recent issue of the Wisconsin Press.

During the depression publishers in many cases dropped subscription and advertising rates. Now the problem is to get them back at least to pre-pressure levels.

"In the last six months at least a dozen Wisconsin weeklies announced in their columns an increase in the subscription price of the paper. In these instances news stories pointed out the reasons for the increase, and thus justified the increase effected."

Printing prices must, of course, be increased as costs rise. In many places printers have grouped and pledged themselves to raise uniformly and adhere to price systems based on cost schedules.

In advertising the problem is a little more complex. Rates are not raised uniformly by publishers, and national advertisers become irritated and fail to understand the situation when one paper raises rates, another does not, and when the raises are not proportional and uniform. There are other cases when the national rate is raised and the local rate is not. These papers, the New York Press points out, are said to be the particular target of advertisers in their drive against increased rates. Incidentally, the New York Press also calls attention to the fact that when rates are raised, the rate cards are not changed.

While advice cannot be given concerning such a flexible and general subject as the raising of advertising rates, it does seem that rate increases throughout the country in the weekly press should at least generally conform to these principles:

1. Rates should be as uniform as possible when increased and should be proportional to circulation figures and circulation break-down.

2. New, up-to-date rate cards should be sent to agencies and national advertisers informing them of the change.

3. Local, as well as national rates should be increased so that the national advertiser will not feel he is being discriminated against. Why not go to your local advertisers and explain to them that your rates have to be raised for the same reason that they had to raise the cost of their products; that if you can't raise your rates, you'll have to quit."

BRIGHT SPOT ON THE RECORD.

A bright spot in the record of things done or not done by Congress is the enactment of a bill calling for an unemployment census.

On the basis of the facts to be thus revealed, we will know for the first time what the nation actually needs for jobless relief. Until now, we have been guessing about that, probably guessing too high.

For the tenth successive month, the United States Employment Service reports a decline in the number of people seeking jobs.

More than two and a half million fewer people sought jobs through the service in July than two years ago.

Our spending for relief ought to be declining in proportion, but we know it is not. The new relief appropriation is a billion and a half.

And in the meantime, the Civil Service Commission, adopting a new reporting system, discovers there are 16,000 more people in the civil employ of the Government than the public had suspected. The June payroll to 857,220 civil employees took a total of $129,050,938.

Congress did nothing about all this spending in the last session, except to go on spending.

We hope it will get close enough to the people during the recess to learn that Federal spending and taxes are preventing normal recovery.—Balt. News-Post.

Old Horse Finds Rest

One of the new arrivals at Scotland's rest farm for horses is Monarch, a pit pony which worked underground in a Northumberland coal mine for 20 years. During all that time Monarch never saw the light of day or felt grass under his feet, for never once was he brought to the surface.

Rats Are Friends of Montana Miners

Zortman, Mont.—The Piper of Hamelin with his magic flute may be welcome in most cities and towns to drive out rats, but there is one spot in the United States where he would be totally unwanted.

Under strict orders from the management, the employees in the mines near this small mining community protect the hundreds of rats that scurry from tunnel to tunnel and regard them as their friends.

The rodents have saved many miners from injury and possible death because of their uncanny sense to detect a cave-in.

Termites Destroy Wood, Paper, Sometimes Cloth

Termites are tiny, blind insects that destroy wood, paper and sometimes cloth. Their nearest living relative is the cockroach, writes a correspondent in the Boston Herald. There are many species of termites, but in this country the most common are those called subterranean termites.

These termites live in colonies deep in the earth where it is dark and moist, not in the wood as many suppose. They shun light and soon die if cut off from moisture.

There are three castes of termites in a colony: The workers, which provide food and shelter for all. The soldiers, hard-headed and with fierce jaws, who defend the colony against attack. The sexed termites at mating time, spring and fall, develop wings and eyes, they swarm from the ground, fly a short distance, mate and then shed their wings. Each mated pair tries to creep back into the earth to found a new colony. The queen spends the rest of her life laying eggs, hundreds a day.

Most of the termites in any subterranean colony are the workers. They never stop work, day or night. Their chief duty is to provide food for the entire colony. Their food is cellulose. As wood, paper and cloth are mostly cellulose they naturally attack articles made from these materials. Their chief source of cellulose supply is the wood in buildings. Even if the walls are not wood, the floors, sills, joists, etc., are. Termites are seldom seen at work because they are blind and work in the dark.

Musk-Ox Was First Seen Along Hudson Bay Shore

The musk-ox was first seen on the American continent by a French officer along the west shore of Hudson bay, Canada, in 1720. The S-shaped horns are indigenous to the musk-ox in North America and closely resemble the horns of the dangerous African cape buffalo.

At one time, according to scientists, the musk-ox roamed as far south as Philadelphia, but now they are non-migratory. One record tells of a bull that roamed less than a half mile from one spot during a whole summer.

The oxen eat the Arctic grasses, lichens, and moss and in winter they use sharp hooves to break through the snow crust to reach vegetation beneath. They have developed "pushers" on their nostrils, similar to the snout of a pig.

When attacked by Arctic wolves, the oxen form a threatening phalanx, heads outward.

Arctic explorers frequently have urged domestication of the animals and their importation into the United States.

Its odor is the musk-oxen's only defense against the hard-biting flies that thrive in the Arctic circle. The musk-ox has no tail.

History of Cremation

The custom of cremation is very ancient, and was almost universal among the Aryans of early India, the Greeks, Romans, Slavs, Kelts and Teutons, states a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. The graves of North Europe throughout the Bronze age contain only jars of ashes. Christianity, and a belief in the resurrection of the body, gradually suppressed the custom of cremation; but, beginning in Italy in 1870, the custom revived, and has been legal there since 1877. The practice spread throughout Europe and very rapidly throughout the United States. Germany's first crematorium was erected in 1878, England's in 1885. The first municipally owned crematorium in England was built by the city of Hull in 1900. Crematoriums in the United States date from 1876, when Dr. F. J. LeMoyne established one at Washington, Pa.

The Chaldeans

The Chaldeans were not Egyptians but were a Semitic tribe, similar to the Babylonians, who probably migrated from Arabia into lower Mesopotamia about 700 B. C. They were absorbed in the great Persian empire and some of their descendants probably remain in that part of Asia. They were polytheists and noted for their knowledge of astrology and occult science. It appears quite likely that the Wise Men from the East were Chaldeans or Babylonians.

Claims First Sleeping Car

That the first sleeping car to be built and placed in actual service on this continent was designed and made in Canada is stated in an article in the Canadian National Railway Magazine. The plan for a sleeping car was prepared in 1859 in preparation for the visit of the then Prince of Wales, later to become Edward VII, and the actual construction was carried out at Brantford, Ont., in a plant later used for malleable iron castings for passenger and freight cars.

"Old LaFayette House"

The "Old LaFayette House" built in East Haven, Connecticut, by Captain Bradley more than one hundred and sixty years ago, is preserved in excellent condition. The house received its name from the fact that LaFayette stayed in it on two occasions. When Captain Bradley built his home, it was painted white. The house was moved to Darien, Connecticut.

NATIONAL PARKS DO THRIVING BUSINESS

Increase in Revenues and Attendance Reported.

Washington.—Business is good in the national parks this year, according to reports submitted to the national park service by park superintendents throughout the country. Almost without exception they show substantial increases in revenues for the current year to date over a similar period of last year.

The greatest percentage rise was at Crater Lake National park, Oregon, the receipts of which to date this year show a 68.3 per cent increase over the same period in 1936. Not far behind were Glacier National park, Montana, with a 60.6 per cent increase, and Lassen Volcanic National park, California, with a 52.1 per cent rise.

Growing popularity of the cliff dwellings at Mesa Verde National park, Colorado, brought an increase of 44.9 per cent in park receipts.

A larger total of revenues was received at Yosemite National park, California, than at any of the other parks which are experiencing greater prosperity. An additional $56,048.13 above last year's total brought this year's figure up to $494,069.64.

The same trend was evident at Yellowstone National park, Wyoming, where a 28 per cent upturn over last year's receipts was registered. The total this year to date is $352,716.87.

Some of the most prosperous parks are underground. During one month alone the net earnings of Carlsbad Caverns National park, New Mexico, amounted to $11,978.35. Park revenues for the year to date totaled $208,421.35, an increase of 34.7 per cent.

A good year is also reported at Wind Cave National park, South Dakota, where revenues are running 20.7 per cent above last year, and at Mammoth Cave National park, Kentucky, where the number of paid admissions to the cave is about one-third higher than in 1936.

Girl Engineers Ship

Charlotte Wilson, seventeen years of age, of St. Andrews, Scotland, has qualified as a marine engineer and has carried out the traditions of her family by going to sea. She is engineer on her father's fishing vessel, the Katherine, and along with her father and grandfather she will sail regularly to the fishing in the bay. She dresses for her work in a blue jersey and overalls. It is her task to start, stop and maneuver the ship. She also helps to pull in the nets. She admits that it is a hard life for a girl, but she much prefers it to housework.

U. S. Army and Navy Enlistments

The term of enlistment in the United States army is three years. Enlistment is general and no applicant can be assured that he will be assigned to a certain type of work. Assignment to a particular branch depends upon the qualifications the man manifests after he is in the service. The term of enlistment in the United States navy is four years.

What Price Glory

The nice lady entered the restaurant and ordered an omelet. The waiter took the order.

"I'm sorry to have to explain, madam," he said, "that the price of omelets has been raised. It's on account of the war, you know."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for September 5

GOD REQUIRES SOCIAL JUSTICE.

LESSON TEXT—Leviticus 19:1-18, 32-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise, Luke 6:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—At Harvest Time.
JUNIOR TOPIC—At Harvest Time.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Championing the Rights of Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—My Responsibility for Social Justice.

Labor Day—in this year of our Lord 1937—looks out upon a world deeply divided in opinions of what is right and what is wrong in the relationship between capital and labor. Political and economic leaders are talking much of social justice, of a planned economy in which all shall have a full share of the products of labor. Surely, we would all agree that there should be only kindness and justice in all such dealings of man with man. But how to accomplish that result in a world of selfishness and sin, that indeed is the question.

Unfortunately, many of those in the church who have greatly stressed social relationships have forgotten that the true foundation for such teaching and living is the preaching of the gospel of redemption. In reaction to their impossible position, others who have faithfully preached the necessity of regeneration have forgotten to stress the need of the expression of regenerated life in the social relationships of man. We need God-given balance, with a proper reflection of gospel truth in honest and helpful living. God wants his people to show that they belong to him by

I. Providing for the Poor and Needy (vv. 9, 10, 14, 15).

When Jesus said, "Ye have the poor always with you" (Matt. 26:11), he referred to one of the responsibilities which thoughtful and considerate men have always gladly borne, but which has been a constant problem to both individuals and nations. We have dealt with it in our day on a broad and supposedly scientific basis, but those who are closest to it are quick to admit that we have even now an imperfect solution. In the days of Israel the poor were fed by the purposeful leaving of gleanings in the field—which the needy were free to gather as their own. Thus they had the joy of helping themselves even as they were being helped by others, and, in the final analysis, by God himself.

II. Guarding Another's Reputation (vv. 16-18).

Gossip is a destructive means of breaking down the good standing of another. It is a sin all too common in our day, even within the circle of God's own people. Tale-bearing and evil-speaking are a blight on our social and religious life. We should put them away.

III. Honoring the Aged (v. 32).

Old-age pensions undoubtedly have their place in our complicated social life, but it is evident that they would be entirely unnecessary if men and women had in the fear of God honored "the hoary head" and "the face of the old man," even as God gave command to Israel.

IV. Loving the Stranger (vv. 33, 34).

The man who knows what it is to have been a stranger, and to meet with love and protecting care, should never forget to go and do likewise. Living, as many of us do, in great cities makes this somewhat of a problem, and yet one sometimes wonders whether the bustling city is not often kinder to the stranger than the little community, which makes him feel like an "outsider."

V. Being Honest in Business (vv. 11-13, 35, 36).

No stealing, no false swearing, no defrauding, no withholding of wages, for all these things dishonor or "profane the name of thy God."

A good motto to hang up behind the counter or over the desk in a business house is found in the words of verses 35 and 36. False bottoms, trick scales, short measure—oh, yes, they are against the city ordinance, and you will be fined if you are caught. But remember, they are also an abomination in the sight of the Lord.

The closing verse of our lesson reiterates that important truth. In carrying out the tenets of social justice we are not simply being humane and kind. We are observing the statutes and ordinances of the Eternal One, him who says, "I am Jehovah."

Being One in Faith

It is good to know that in whatever country we are found, and under whatever sky, we are, through faith in the divine Saviour, members in the same body, sheep in the same fold, children of one home.

Pay Up Our Debts

Debt comes under the eighth commandment. It hangs a millstone round the neck of the man or woman who incurs it. It corrodes honesty.

NIGHT AND DAY SERVICE

An English tourist was on his first visit to Niagara Falls, and a guide was trying to impress him with their magnificence.
"Grand!" suggested the guide.
The visitor did not seem impressed.
"Millions of gallons a minute!" exclaimed the guide.
"How many in a day?" asked the tourist.
"Oh, billions and billions!" answered the guide.
The visitor looked across and down and up, as if gauging the flow.
"Runs all night, too, I suppose?" he remarked nonchalantly.

Awaiting a Chance

The man who had made a huge fortune was speaking a few words to a number of students at a business class. Of course, the main theme of the address was himself.
"All my success in life, all my tremendous financial prestige," he said proudly, "I owe to one thing alone—pluck, pluck, pluck!" "Yes sir; but how are we to find the right people to pluck?" asked one student.—Montreal Star.

TURNED HIM DOWN

"What does Clara think of your suit?"
"She said it was hardly fashioned to her taste."

How Safe It Was!

One morning a young clerk reported to his boss that he had lost the key to the safe containing important books and documents.
"But I gave you a duplicate key," said the boss. "You haven't lost it as well, I suppose?"
"Oh, no, sir, I know where that is."
"Well, then, you can open the safe!"
"Please, sir, I thought I might lose the duplicate key, so I put it in the safe!"

Destination Unknown

Mr. Brown was sitting down to breakfast when he was astonished to see in the paper an announcement of his own death. He rang up his friend, Smith. "Hello, Smith," he said. "Have you seen the announcement of my death in the paper?"
"Yes," replied Smith. "Where are you speaking from?"

Early to Bed
Guest—Well, goodnight, I hope I haven't kept you up too late.
Host (yawning)—Not at all. We should have been getting up soon in any case.—The De Laval Monthly.

ROUND ONE

"We have been married a year today."
"Yes—I suppose we ought to observe the anniversary of our entrance into war."

Right, Anyhow

Friend (at a French play)—Why did you applaud so vigorously when that comedian made his speech before the curtain?
Spriggins (confidently)—So that folk would think I understood French. What did he say?
Friend—He said that the remainder of his part would be taken by an understudy.

Hand-Me-Downs

"I say, dad," questioned sixteen-year-old Tommy, "what are heirlooms?"
"Why, heirlooms are something that are handed down from father to son," was the reply.
"Well," said Tommy, as he hitched up his trousers. "I think these heirlooms must be too big for me."

Engineering Problem

Laborer—I dug this hole where I was told to, and began to put the dirt back like I was supposed to. But all the dirt won't go back in. What'll I do?

For a long while the supervisor pondered the problem. Then: "I have it. There's only one thing to do. You'll have to dig the hole deeper."—Montreal Star.

All Explained

Customer—Are my clothes that you are cleaning and pressing ready?
Tailor—Not yet.
Customer—But you said you'd have them ready if you worked all night.
Tailor—Yes, but I didn't work all night.

LOVE LETTERS AND HANDCUFFS

By ISABEL W. GREAR
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

MISS AMELIA FINLEY peered nearsightedly into the coin purse inside her shabby black bag and handed the depressed bell boy a chary dime before she closed the door.

With a quivering sigh of content she surveyed the impersonal room—her haven for the night, the night she had awaited for an endless year. This yearly pilgrimage of hers to the city from the disordered suburban house in which she was enduring her colorless years with her niece's turbulent family was viewed jocosely by Ted, the niece's husband.

"Well, auntie," he had called to her as she boarded the train that morning. "You're off on your annual spree. Don't do anything I wouldn't do."

But he and his wife, Letty, never would know what this yearly night alone meant to her.

First, it meant a year of sacrifice, of denials, of petty economies. The ten cent tip, for instance, represented the box of hairpins which she needed but had not bought. The money for her room, for her railroad ticket, for her meals and for the show, too, had been hoarded for a year—a nickel here, a penny there.

"What do you do in the city?" Ted always wanted to know. "Is it worth scrimping all year for it?" What did she do? No one should ever know.

She carried with her, painstakingly tied up with a ribbon from her graduating dress, the fourteen yellow letters she had received from Allen that year before he died. She carried his picture, and her great store of memories of the youth who, with tousled hair, laughing brown eyes and impudent grin, had been taken from her before he had ever been really hers.

In the hotel room, alone, free from ever-present, curious grandnieces and nephews, she would read over and over again all the letters. She would gaze at his picture, though his image had never faded from her mind. And then suddenly he would seem to be with her. Together they would go out to a softly lighted place for dinner, and on to a show—one about two young lovers, and she would shamelessly weep when troubles approached them, knowing that Allen, there beside her, would understand.

"Is it worth it?" Ted had asked. But of course he didn't understand.

There she was, then, in the small hotel room where she would be alone, with Allen, for the one night of the year.

In the chair by the window she rocked, the window that had been opened by the bell boy, when she heard a girl's voice, clear and distinct, saying, "Central 5-000."

A door slammed and a woman's voice ordered, "Put that receiver up!"

Amelia looked out the window with curiosity and saw that her room was the first one on a wing and that, just a few feet from her, was the window of another room. The woman began berating the girl.

"Going to call him, huh? You little fool. Didn't I tell you to keep away from that phone? Just wait until I tell Lew. He'll tend to you."

"Why can't I see Jerry?" The girl's voice trembled. "We love each other."

"Jerry Thorn is not for you, young lady. You might as well forget him. Love? Pooh! Why, I was engaged eight times before I married your father. And look at me now—married again. You might as well forget Jerry, because you can't see him again."

"But why—" the girl was sobbing weakly.
"Oh, shut up. You don't have to know why. I'm going out now, Elsa. I'm to meet Lew and we'll come back here. Be ready to leave in a hurry. Don't call Jerry."

There was silence in the room, silence that was soon slashed by the slamming of the door; silence that was then blotted out by the sobbing of a broken hearted girl.

"Poor, poor Elsa," Amelia mourned for her. "No one has the right to separate lovers. If God gave them love He meant for them to marry, to be happy."

Her faded blue eyes filled with tears. Why didn't Elsa, if she really loved Jerry, call him, even if she had been ordered to keep away from the phone? Her idea of love was wrong. Amelia knew what real love was.

Suddenly she gasped faintly and clutched her frail hands tightly together. Her breathing grew labored. Could she—would she—dared she? Resolution, born of her own life-long unhappiness, was given to her. She lifted the receiver from the hook and in a firm voice called the number Elsa had spoken.

"Central 5-000." A man's voice answered. "I'd like to speak to Jerry Thorn," she unhesitatingly stated. "Jerry Thorn. Elsa is in room," she calculated quickly, "615 at the Grand hotel. Hurry."

The hand that had so calmly lifted the receiver from the hook replaced it with great difficulty. Trembling, she sank once more in the rocking chair to await the coming of Jerry. And then she heard a key rattle in the door of Elsa's room. The girl had been locked in, and Jerry could not possess a key. It was Pearl and Lew who entered.

"You little fool!" stormed Pearl. "You haven't budged since I left, and I told you to be ready." "Get a move on you, Elsa," Lew, deep-voiced, curt, urged. "Every minute counts. Dump those things in this bag, Pearl. Grab your wraps, Elsa. We're in a jam. Open the door, Pearl. Hurry, Elsa." Lew's voice broke with anxiety.

There was a loud, insistent knock on their door. Jerry? "Open that door!" called a man sharply. "We know you're in there. You can't get away. Open that door."

Silence.
"All right, O'Brien." With a heavy blow and a wrenching noise the door was forced open. "Up with them."

"Jerry!" Elsa screamed. Curt commands—rough, entangled voices—violent threats—desperate resistance—overturned furniture—a shot—two shrieks—sobs. Amelia's heart pounded wildly. What in heaven's name had she done?

"Elsa, did you call him?" Lew's voice gasping was unbelieving. "She couldn't. I cut the wires just before I left," Pearl answered shortly.

"Well, we've got you at last! And look what we have here—the nicest pile of counterfeit bills I ever saw." Amelia pressed a trembling hand to her colorless lips. Counterfeits. "Captain, you don't want Elsa. She's not in on this," a young man was pleading—Jerry.

"She passed them, didn't she?" "Counterfeits?" Elsa gasped. "I've passed them. Why—I—I—So that's why you wouldn't let me leave you. So that's why I couldn't see Jerry!"

"Let's get going." Clicks, menacing clicks. "All right, Lew. You too, Pearl—About you, young lady—"

"Leave her with me, captain. She's—I'm—we're going to be married."

Amelia blinked her eyes. "O-ho. So that's it! Well—"

"Who talked?" Lew growled. "Some woman called me at the News and told me where Elsa was!"

"Who was it? I'll get her! Say—see who is in that room across there!" His voice rose shrilly.

There was a moment's comprehending silence.

Amelia gasped painfully, grabbed her hat and coat and suitcase and fled down the corridor, flung some money recklessly on the desk downstairs, and scuttled wildly down the street, the suitcase almost tripping her with every step.

Ted and Letty were startled when, white-faced and silent, Amelia entered the house and went slowly, wearily upstairs to her room.

"I wonder what's wrong?" Letty anxiously asked Ted. "She looks so little all of a sudden."

"Found out she was too old for her spree, I guess," Ted grinned. "Poor old soul. She sure leads a tame life. A whiff of excitement—" "I'll fix her some tea. Why not take her the evening paper, Ted? Weren't those counterfeiters caught in the hotel she stays in?"

"Yeah. She was probably right there when it happened and never knew a thing about it. Say, won't she be all a-twitter when she reads that Lew—whatever his name was, killed himself right there in the hotel? Yeah, while they were searching the next room for a confederate. I bet she never goes back there again. Aunt Amelia and counterfeits? Say, she'd run from them!"

John Q. Adams Tells of Inaugural as President

John Quincy Adams is the only one of our Presidents who wrote an account of his own inauguration. Here it is as given by the Washington Post:

"After two successive sleepless nights, I entered upon this day with a supplication to Heaven; first, for my country; secondly, for myself and for those connected with my good name. About half-past eleven o'clock I left my house with an escort of several companies of militia and a cavalcade of citizens. We proceeded to the Capitol, and to the Senate Chamber.

"The Senate adjourned, and from the Senate Chamber I repaired to the hall of the House of Representatives, and pronounced from a volume of laws held up to me by John Marshall, Chief Justice of the United States, the oath faithfully to execute the office of President of the United States. After exchanging salutations with the late President, I retired from the hall, passed in review the military companies drawn up in front of the Capitol, and returned to my house with the same procession which accompanied me from it.

"I found at my house a crowd of visitors, which continued for two hours, and received their felicitations. Before the throng had subsided, I went myself to the President's house and joined the multitude of visitors to Mr. Monroe. Then I returned home to dine, and in the evening attended the ball, which was also crowded, at Carusi's hall. Immediately after supper I withdrew and came home.

"I closed the day as it had begun, with thanksgiving to God for all His mercies and favors past, and with prayers for the continuance of them to my country, and to myself and mine."

A BUSY MAN REPORTS...

"THEY laughed at me when I began to answer the question: 'What do you think of the labor situation?'"

"They laughed because they thought I couldn't express a sound opinion on a current subject. But as I started, they realized that I knew what I was talking about!"

"There was a time when I had to say when they asked me for my opinion: 'I don't know. I haven't had the time to read much more than the headlines.'"

"But that was before I discovered The United States News—and found how quick and easy it is to keep informed. As a reader of The United States News, I now speak with ASSURANCE on questions of national importance. My conversations are MORE INTERESTING, MORE CONVINCING than ever before."

"And the surprising part of it all is that I do less reading now than I used to do when I tried to get my information by piecing together unrelated news articles."

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R. on Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

FEESERSBURG.

Much rain, much humidity; but when did we have such luxuriant growth in August? A field of soy beans outside our window is a joy to see, and good things to eat are abundant.

The bake sale conducted by the "Smiling Sunbeams," with full co-operation of the membership of Mt. Union, held on Saturday afternoon in Union Bridge was all that could be expected. Almost everything was sold and a profit of $23.00 realized which was promptly donated to the repair fund, with sincere thanks to all the good workers and kind helpers.

The memorial windows are in place in Mt. Union Church, and reflects credit on the workmen and donors. It is amazing what can be accomplished with willing hearts and hands.

Mrs. Bertha Albaugh, Mrs. E. Scott Koons, and their brother, Almer Lindsay, of Washington, with L. K. Birely attended the annual home-coming at the Sam's Creek M. P. Church, Sunday afternoon, and heard Dr. Sexsmith, President of Md. Conference deliver one of his good sermons from the text: "And when they had prayed." Mr. Howard Gray and Mrs. G. H. Stocksdale sang "When I think of the Cross." A former pastor, Rev. Edgar T. Reed spoke in the morning and Mr. J. Hartzler sang "O My Soul, Bless Thou My Lord."

Some of our young friends from Waynesboro left on Tuesday for their homes, because the schools opened on September 1st.

S. Queen Mary, back to New York. She was favorably impressed with Denmark and Poland; but Russia is sad—without bright, smiling faces. Mrs. Parker has been giving "talks" on her tour to various organizations in Frederick. It is very interesting to hear of the long, long twilights, with only a few hours of night—when it is not really dark, and the early dawn—or sudden brightness of day.

The Ross Wildhide family, Mrs. Myrtle Sentz and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Koons, Mrs. Mary W. Starner, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zollicker, and the Goode family visited Hershey Park, on Sunday.

RISKING IT

A small boy at a party had been eating steadily for an alarming length of time. When he asked for another helping the hostess spoke to him earnestly.

"Willie," she said, "I'm quite serious. If you take another helping of tripe you'll burst."

Willie listened, alarm spreading over his features. He hesitated, and gazed at the dish of tripe. Finally, he sat erect, a study of heroic resolution.

"A right, then," said he, "gie's anther helpin' and staun' clear."—Birmingham (Eng.) Post.

Clever Pupil

The battleship captain was eager to teach his young son something about geography with a view to getting him interested in the navy. He described the United States and the wide reaches of the Pacific ocean and their relative positions in regard to each other, and then asked: "Henry, if I stood on the beach in California, facing north, what would I have on my left hand?"

"A wart," promptly replied Henry.

GONE WITH THE BREEZE

The rest of the mourners didn't know there was a ventriloquist at the negro funeral. The story of what happened was explained afterward by one of them, relates a writer in the Washington Post.

"Well, suh," he said, "they begins tuh lowah pore ole Sam intuh de hole, an' he say, 'Go easy dere, boys!'"

"Well," asked an impatient listener. "Did they bury him anyhow?" The story teller's eyes rolled. "Mistuh Man," he asked, "how yo' all 'spec me tuh know dat?"

Customer—Yeah, but I never can think of that darn name!

Life's Little Trials

"Pa, what's the difference between a hill and a pill?" "I don't know, my son, unless it's that a hill is high and a pill is round—is that it?"

"Naw! A hill is hard to get up and a pill is hard to get down."

Conscientious Arithmetic

New Office Boy—I've added those figures up 10 times, sir.

Employer—Good boy! "And here are the 10 answers, sir!"

GET A HAMMER

Dealer—That statue is really worth $100, but there being a little chip off here, I will sell it to you for $80.

Customer—Can't you break off another little chip and let me have it for $60?

Why He Lost

Said the judge to the plaintiff in a compensation case: "Now show the court the effects of the accident upon you."

"The plaintiff got up and, with infinite pain, hobbled across the floor. "And now," continued the judge, "show us how you used to move before the accident."

Plaintiff took a hop, skip and jump across the court.

Links-Eyed

"Oh, I say, waiter," called Percy, "take a look at the ends of this sausage."

The waiter did so. "I don't see anything wrong with them, sir," he said.

"Come, now," remonstrated Percy, "don't you think they're awfully close together?"

Some Crusts Are Like That

"Where is the paper plate I gave you under your pie?" asked the bride.

"Was that a plate?" inquired the groom anxiously, "I thought it was the lower crust."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Worn Out Welcome

Guest—Well, goodnight. I hope I haven't kept you up too late.

Host (yawning)—Not at all. We would have been getting up soon anyway.

AND EMPTIED OUT

Optimist—There is always room at the top.

Pessimist—Yes, and it would be just my luck to find, after I got there, that the blamed thing had been turned upside down.

Even There

Bill—They tell me you are going around telling everybody you have been a patient in every hospital in the city. I bet you haven't been in the Women's Hospital.

Will—Don't be silly—I was born there.

Something Simple

Patient—What will this operation cost me?

Doctor—At least $200.

Patient—But doctor, I want just plain sewing—no hemstitching.

Good Lesson

Teacher—What lesson do we learn from the busy bee?

Smart Boy—Not to get stung.

Why Men Rise

The grown-up folks were talking about so-and-so who rose to be a great lawyer. One of the boys listening to the conversation said to another:

"Why is it that your father doesn't rise to be a big lawyer?"

"Cause it takes him all his time to rise to get to work," was the prompt answer.

LIKE REAL DIPLOMATS

Bill Brawnley, the strong man of the village, met one of his fellow-villagers in the local inn. During their conversation Bill called the other a disparaging name.

The villager naturally resented this remark.

"Look here, Brawnley," he said, "I'll give you just five minutes to take that back."

Bill smiled.

"Is that so?" he replied, extending his chest impressively. "And suppose I don't take it back in five minutes?"

"Then," said the villager, after a slight pause, "I'll extend the time." —Tit-Bits Magazine.

Solution

A woman driver ran into an embankment and bent a fender. It worried her. So she went to a garage and asked the mechanic:

"Can you fix this fender so my husband won't know it was bent?"

The mechanic looked at the bent fender and then at her and said:

"No, lady, I can't. But I'll tell you what I can do. I can fix it up so that in a few days you can ask your husband how he bent it."

OUT OF CONTROL

Jones was the proud owner of a new car, and regarded himself as an authority, London Tit-Bits states.

"Yes," he said to his friend Smith, "there's nothing in driving these modern cars. It's only in wet weather on bad roads that they're likely to get out of control."

"Weather doesn't always matter," said Smith. "It wasn't through either bad weather or fine weather that my car got out of my control."

"What happened to it?" asked Jones.

"I got behind with the installments."

Cutting In

Scene in the drawing room of a house in a fashionable part of the town. A demonstrator is instructing a woman subscriber in the use of the telephone dial.

"Now, madam, I will ask you to dial a number which I know is unobtainable, so that you can hear the 'Unobtainable' tone signal. Lift the receiver and dial Mayfair 12345. . . . Now describe what you heard."

"How beautifully simple! I've just heard a man's voice say, 'Half a mo', Bill, I've lost the blankety pliers.'"

An Efficiency Study

"Bliggins is doing even less work than he used to do."

"Yes. He has gotten into the way of wasting time for himself and others, standing around talking about 'efficiency.'"

Well, Well

HIS OLD GIRL

By ETTA WEBB

© Associated Newspapers.—WNU Service

"YOU'LL wear your purple chiffon tonight, Ethel," Joe Peel said as he carefully folded the morning paper and crumpled his napkin into a tight wad preparatory to making his morning getaway to the office.

His wife looked at him, rebellion darkening her pretty blue eyes. Joe was always like that.

He was forever interfering with things that she thought belonged entirely to her sphere.

For the first few weeks after their marriage she had rather enjoyed his telling her what she should wear and what food she should serve. Lately, however, Joe's continued requests for her to wear this dress or that dress had begun to get on her nerves.

"I just can't wear that dress tonight, Joe," sighed Ethel.

"Well, maybe you have worn that dress long enough," Joe said. "I guess I'll stop in at the Fashion and see what they have that I think will make my little Honey look pretty. You leave it to me, Ethel. Don't you worry. You'll have some clothes that will outshine everybody tonight."

With a hasty kiss Joe rose from the table, snatched his hat and hurried away, beaming with joy at the prospect of bestowing fresh love tokens upon his wife.

In the course of the morning a messenger brought several packages from the Fashion. Ethel opened them. There was a purple dress, sheer stockings and slippers with amethyst-studded buckles. The doorbell rang before she had opened half the packages. It was a man from the florist's with a corsage bouquet of purple violets.

Any other time Ethel might have accepted as inevitable the purple ensemble, but today she simply could not endure the sight of so much of the color she was growing to dislike so intensely.

Joe might be blind to the awful combination her bright red hair and purple clothes made, but others were not. She just couldn't go to the club banquet if she had to wear it.

She would call Joe up and tell him so.

"Joe," she said when she got her husband on the telephone, "I can't wear purple tonight."

"Can't—wear purple tonight? Why, what's got into you?"

Joe was plainly astonished.

"Weren't the things I sent up all right? They certainly cost enough. That mess sent me back half my month's pay. You're to meet one of my old girls tonight, and I wanted you to look your best."

"Then that's all the more reason why I won't wear purple. She'd think I was crazy. I'm sick and tired, Joe, of having my things bought for me just as if I were a kid," she managed to say.

Her heart was crushed with hurt feeling and sudden jealousy.

"Very well, my dear—"

Oh, how Ethel hated Joe's voice when he said "My dear" in that cold tone! "If you don't think enough of me to do as I want you to it's just as well if we come to an understanding right now. You will either wear those things I had sent up for you, I say, or you can stay at home. Furthermore, I won't come home tonight until I get good and ready."

"Suit yourself, Joe," Ethel said, but her voice trembled.

A click on the wire warned her that her husband had hung up the receiver. It was the first time that Joe had ever done such a thing to her.

After a good cry, which helped to clear the atmosphere a bit, Ethel began to realize that a mere choice of color was a silly thing to quarrel over. But she had started something. It might be a turning point in her life, and she would not turn back. Perhaps the thought of Joe's old sweetheart helped to strengthen her determination.

She bathed her face, powdered her nose, and put the purple ensemble back into the boxes and returned herself to the Fashion. She was gone several hours and when she returned she brought many packages.

Joe kept his word.

He did not come home to take Ethel to a banquet. So she went alone. She had her own ticket.

Joe was on a committee, so no one would notice if she did go alone. When she arrived at the clubhouse she was late. The doors of the big dining hall were already open. She glimpsed Joe well to the head of the line. He evidently was taking in a big blonde who was dressed in spangled purple chiffon.

The big blonde was losing no time in trying to make an impression. She was gazing into Joe's face with rapture in her eyes.

Ethel's chin shot out in a determined way. She just would not cry.

In the dining hall Ethel was directed to a seat at a small table where three other women were already seated. They were all strangers to her, so she devoted herself to the menu and program. She stole a glance in Joe's direction. It was some time before he saw her and then he did not seem to recognize her. She saw him take off his glasses, polish them nervously, adjust them and stare again in her direction in a dazed sort of way.

As soon as her heart ceased its nervous flutter and the blood stopped pounding in her ears she realized that her three companions were talking about Joe and the big blonde. They had not recognized Ethel.

"I see Joe Peel has Bernice Carrier in tow tonight. I wonder how that happened," one of the women said.

"Why, don't you know? Bernice was one of Joe's old girls. She was crazy about him."

"Why didn't he marry her? She was a handsome girl."

"She's got over it—I mean, looks. Why, Joe told my husband he never got so tired of a girl in his life as he did of Bernice. She was pure saccharine. You know the kind? She let him boss the life out of her, even let him tell her what to wear. He liked purple, and she wore purple to please him."

"I wonder if that's the reason that little red-headed wife of his always wears purple. By the way, I don't see her tonight!"

"She isn't here. If she was she'd look like a purple pansy. You couldn't miss her."

The conversation drifted off into other channels.

Ethel wished she could vanish in thin air.

The rest of the meal was a dream to her.

Ethel had slipped out, intending to go home before anyone recognized her. She was putting on her coat when Joe appeared.

"Where you going, Ethel?" he asked in his dearest voice.

"Home," Ethel managed to say.

"Nothing doing, darling. You are going to stay right here and meet the folks. I want you to rescue me from that dumb Dora I had to sit beside. If you don't help me get rid of her I'll—why, I'll hang myself. Say, baby, you're the sweetest thing I ever saw in that black. You look like a duchess or something. Gosh! I'm proud of you. I'll tell the world I'm proud of my wife's good sense."

There was a demure sparkle in Ethel's blue eyes.

"Will you love me, Joe, if I still refuse to wear purple?"

"Say, if I ever catch you wearing purple again I'll—say, will you forgive me? I've been a blind fool. But here comes some of the crowd, and the old girl leads the way. This is what happens only once in a lifetime. Miss Carrier, meet the little wife."

To her dying day Ethel would never forget the pride that swelled Joe's voice.

Average California Bird

Something of Smoke-Eater

Proof that the average California bird has all of the smoke-eating qualities of the big city fireman is being furnished to the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology of the University of California. A number of badly smudged avian specimens from the citrus belt of Southern California have been received at the museum, together with much first-hand evidence to show that the birds kept right on with their singing and their household chores in the thick of the black, billowing smoke from the orange grove smudge fires during the record cold snap.

Humming birds, house wrens, thrashers, warblers, goldfinches, sparrows and towhees were seen flitting about from one smoke cloud to another during the smudging period, their bodies black with soot, but they showed no outward evidence of being bothered. Unlike the big city firemen, they were unable to remove the grime after the smudging period had passed, for it worked into their feathers like a dye. Many may be seen in Southern California disguised as black-birds, while many others have gone on their migrations still bearing this evidence of their experience with the citrus smudge fires. The molt, however, is expected to bring back their feathers in their natural hues.

The scientists in the museum explained the limitations of instinct and the necessity for home building in the old haunts prevented the birds from flying away and escaping the smoke. But why the thick, choking smoke caused no apparent rise in the mortality or the conduct of the birds, is a question that the museum staff would like to answer.

Lee, Jackson in Shenandoah Valley

Gen. Robert E. Lee, after the Civil war, went to the Shenandoah valley as president of Washington and Lee university, at Lexington—the oldest of the many schools and colleges for which the valley is famous. Stonewall Jackson entered the valley soon after the outbreak of the Civil war and, with an army of 10,000 men, drove back 60,000 invaders.

Fires in Anthracite Mines

Fires in anthracite mines result on occasion from the accumulated heat of reactions which originally occur at fairly low temperatures, according to Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, publication of the American Chemical society. Analysis of gases in the mine atmosphere is recommended for detecting incipient heating.

Cabot Discovered Nova Scotia

Nova Scotia was discovered by Cabot in 1497. In 1604 the country was settled by the French, who called it Acadia. It became British in 1713.

A Grave Mistake

A bombastic man met his somewhat henpecked friend, whose badly injured face suggested a recent motoring accident!

"Good heavens!" his friend exclaimed. "How did this happen?"

"My wife—I!" the injured one began.

"Your wife?" was the breezy reply. "Ah, evidently you haven't acquired the secret of married bliss. I, for instance, never have a row with my wife. I have no secrets from her."

"Neither have I!" Henpeck sighed. "That's the trouble, I'm afraid; I only thought I had!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

PENN-MARYLAND LEAGUE

GAMES THIS SATURDAY.

Union Bridge at Taneytown.
Rouzeville at New Windsor.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won	Lost	Perc.
Taneytown	8	6	.571
Rouzeville	8	6	.571
Union Bridge	6	6	.500
New Windsor	4	8	.333

THE COMING GAMES.

The game last Saturday between Union Bridge and New Windsor was not played, due to wet grounds. Taneytown and Rouzeville have each played 14 games, and Union Bridge and New Windsor, only 12 games.

As the schedule now stands Taneytown and Rouzeville have 4 games yet to play, and Union Bridge and New Windsor 6 games, as follows:

Two postponed games between Union Bridge and New Windsor, dates not yet announced.

Sept. 4, Union Bridge at Taneytown. Rouzeville at New Windsor.

Sept. 6, Union Bridge at Rouzeville; Taneytown at New Windsor.

Sept. 11, Taneytown at Union Bridge; New Windsor at Rouzeville.

Sept. 18, New Windsor at Taneytown; Union Bridge at Rouzeville.

After the game on Monday Taneytown will have only two more to play—one at Union Bridge on the 11th, and on the 18th, on the home ground with New Windsor.

TANEYTOWN 4—ROUZEVILLE 3.

As was generally expected, the game last Saturday between Taneytown and Rouzeville was a hard fought one. Rommel pitched for Taneytown. The first man up in the first inning, struck out. Then followed two singles and a base on balls, filling the bases, with the heavy hitters up, but another strike out and a force-out at first ended what promised to be a bad start for the home team.

Taneytown took the lead in its half of the inning, scoring 1 run on a double and single. Rouzeville scored 1 in each of the 3rd and 4th innings, but Taneytown came back in its half of the 4th, scoring a run and tying the score at 2 each.

In the 5th, Taneytown had 8 men at bat, and on 3 hits and 3 passes to first, scored only 2 runs, but it was enough to win on.

Rouzeville scored its third run in the 7th, in the 8th. The team used three pitchers, one of them (Scott) who replaced Myers, lasted only part of an inning, and Houser finished the game from the last of the 5th, in on to the end.

Rommel was hit in a scattered way, but kept game well in hand, and also made two singles. Campbell starred for the home team with 3 hits, one a double that scored two runs, and was also fast on the bases, scoring one of the runs.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The Japanese-Chinese war still continues vigorously mainly along a 20-mile front, but in a general way along a much longer front. The main battle is around Shanghai, the main Chinese city.

The Chinese forces are making a desperate resistance, evidently well officered and equipped, to the extent that the invaders have gained but little during the past two weeks, and are decidedly more cautious.

A number of complications have arisen that affect mainly the interests and property of England and the United States, some of the evidence appearing to show that efforts are being made to draw these countries into the war.

Russia, Italy, Germany and France appear to be interestedly looking on; and for the time being, the war in Spain is the lesser problem, but may have an under cover part in the whole mixed-up European situation.

FARM CROP COMMENTS.

Farmers expect to harvest a normal sweet corn crop, and the outlook is for a bumper field corn crop. The yield of wheat is below normal and the price outlook is not so good.

The latest move in the Federal food-buying program is the allocation of $500,000 to buy up canned tomatoes "as a means of increasing returns to tomato farmers." A score of other products have been diverted from the market since 1935 including apples, beans, grapefruit, oranges, peas, peaches, pears, prunes, butter, cheese, eggs, skimmed and evaporated milk, wheat and cattle.

Federal food purchases are made by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, a federal agency originally established to supplement relief grants with relief in the form of commodities. With the tapering down of relief, the corporation has shifted its emphasis from the giving of relief to the surplus removal function.

The produce-buying programs usually run over a short period of time when the AAA finds that a surplus production above normal demand in any particular area is tending to depress the national price of the crop. Canned tomato purchases, about to begin, will run over a period of six weeks.

ORPHANS' COURT PROCEEDINGS.

William L. Green, administrator of Lewis Green, deceased, returned inventory of personal property and received order to sell same.

William H. B. Anders, guardian for Robert Downey and William Burns Downey, infants, received orders to pay out funds.

Margaret Ruppert, administratrix of William A. Ruppert, deceased, returned inventory of personal property and received order to sell same.

Lewis P. Fitze, executor of Susan B. Fitze, deceased, reported sale of personal property and settled his first account.

Charles W. Oursler, administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. of Richard Manning, deceased, reported sale of real estate, which, upon consent of parties of interest, was ratified by the Court.

Margaret Elizabeth Mellor, executrix of Edwin M. Mellor, Jr., deceased, settled her first and final account.

Monday, September 6th., being a legal holiday, the Orphans' Court of Carroll County will be in session Tuesday and Wednesday, September 7th. and 8th., 1937.

LIFE-PREPARATION FOR THE YOUTH.

For a half century the Moody Bible Institute, of Chicago, founded by D. L. Moody in 1886, has provided instruction and training without cost for tuition to earnest minded young men and women who desire either to be better informed workers in home churches, or to devote their lives to full-time Christian service in some specialized field. Ministers, evangelists, missionaries on home and foreign fields, Christian education directors, gospel song directors for churches and Sunday Schools, and many other types of workers, have received their training at this school. More than 2,000 students were enrolled in the Day and Evening schools during the past year. Moody trained missionaries numbering above 1,400 are now laboring under different church boards in some seventy countries.

The Bible ranks first in all Institute courses, and around it are gathered such subjects as Sunday School Administration, Gospel Music, Public Speaking, Home Economics, Manual Training, and also Homiletics, Apologetics, Greek, Hebrew, and medical subjects for missionary work.

There are three terms a year—Fall, Winter and Summer. An illustrated catalogue will be mailed on request. Address, 153 Institute Place, Chicago.

NO TRESPASSING.

Our No Trespassing register will be commenced, next week. The cost, as usual, will be 25c for the whole hunting season, and will continue until December 10th. No Trespassing signs, required by law for "posting" on property, on sale at 5c each, or 6 for 25c.

BLUE DUST STORMS.

Astronomers are puzzled to account for the strange haze that suddenly cloaked the planet mars and then vanished abruptly. Read this intensely interesting scientific story in the September 19th. issue of the American Weekly, the big magazine which comes every week with the BALTIMORE SUNDAY AMERICAN.
