BRIDGE AT BRUCEVILLE

Approved by the State Board of Public Works.

Good news for the western portion of Frederick county and the eastern portion of Carroll County, is that the Board of Public Works, this week, approved the construction of a new bridge at Bruceville, and that work on same will begin in the near future. This bridge has been in bad condition for many years, at times, closed to travel, and its approaches were difficult.

It seems only logical that the building of this important bridge may eventually lead to the completion of Road No. 71 to the Frederick County line, and after a time this entire road may become known as the "Francis Scott Key Highway" extending from central and eastern Pennsylvania, by the way of Frederick, to the South. But, without considering anything but the Carroll County road system, the building of this bridge with new approaches will be of vast importance to an extensive local area.

GRAND OFFICERS VISIT.

Officers of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of Maryland, paid an official visit to Taney Lodge of Taneytown last Friday evening, and at the same time witnessed the conferring of the Third Degree on a class of twenty-five candidates by the degree team of Warren Lodge of Baltimore.

After the degree work Rev. L. B. Hafer introduced the official visitors, and brief addresses were made by the Grand Master, Raymond C. Hanson, of Ellicott City; the Deputy Grand Master, A. Frank Miller, of Mt. Airy; the Grand Secretary, William A. Jones; Grand Conductor, Jno. L. White and Grand Guardian, Owens McGill, all of Baltimore. Others who spoke were Past Grand Master, Thomas M. Jefferson, Past Grand Patriarch, William G. Schmidt, and Vice-Grand, Frank Krum, of Baltimore. Noble Grand, Merwyn C. Fuss spoke for Taney Lodge, expressing the appreciation of the Lodge for the efficient work of the Warren Lodge, and for the visit of the officers of the Grand Lodge and from other lodges.

The attendance included 78 members of the local Lodge and 40 visitors. Refreshments were served.

BASEBALL IN TANEYTOWN THIS YEAR.

The outlook for baseball in Taneytown this year is very doubtful. At a meeting, Monday evening, in Leister's Restaurant, with most of the directors of last year's team and several other persons interested in baseball present. The topic discussed was—should Taneytown have a baseball team this year?

It appeared that a decision had to be made the following evening, to the officers or parties interested in the Baltimore-Carroll League (Sunday baseball) whether or not Taneytown should be a member of that League for 1938.

The facts faced were that Taneytown closed the 1937 season, financially, in the "red." Officials of the club stated that the Saturday games played were a loss, while the Sundays games were played at a small profit—so small that it would not overcome the loss of the above mentioned Saturday games.

It was also brought out at this meeting that other things had to be considered in the operation of a ball club, besides the finances, such as volunteers to work—work such as conveying players from their homes to the field of play, ground-keepers, ticket sellers, etc.

It appeared that not enough enthusiasm was manifested to bring forth willing workers for these necessities for a successful ball team, and therefore these extra burdens fell on the few who were already loaded with responsibilities.

Even though several substantial sums of money were promised for a team for 1938, it was decided at this meeting that it would be impossible to join the Baltimore-Carroll League.

In the discussion of baseball, the subject of soft ball, a game that proves to be very interesting and very popular, was considered, but nothing definite was done about it; but one thing is sure, this writer believes, that Taneytown will have a baseball team representing the town, and that it will be a winner. It is true that we have lost some valuable players, but our loss is somebody's gain and Taneytown should always keep in mind that, if one player should go up into the "big leagues" we would have someone to be proud of—and "root" for.

With our factories running, employing old and young people; and baseball a clean and healthy sport that should be encouraged—offers a splendid opportunity for good baseball. Can you imagine a summer in Taneytown without a local baseball team? I would say it would be a "dead" town! —Hi Pi.

DR. TABLER DEFENDS ROADS COMMISSION.

Complained of Expenses attaches to Former Boards.

James L. Benson, State Auditor, in making a report covering the period from Oct. 1, 1934 to Sept. 30, 1935, expenses of the State Road Commission, made certain recommendations that called for stricter regard for and supervision of, expenses of the Board.

The complained of expenses were largely those inherited as practices in force in other administrations; and among other expenditures, those connected with sending officers and engineers on inspection trips throughout the country.

Dr. Tabler has stated that the Commission has already corrected most of the complaints, but defended the policy of sending officials to conventions held in other parts of the country, during which they may study modern methods of construction and maintenance.

Dr. Tabler points out that he was in office only 4 1/2 months of the time covered by the audit, and that the present commission introduced the practice of examining all expense accounts of employees from the chairman on down. He said further, according to a news report in the Baltimore Sun:

"We have nothing further to say except that all the undesirable practices cited by Mr. Benson have been corrected by this commission, and that this commission's record is being so written that it is open to the public."

"At this time the commission does not wish to discuss or bring to the public attention conditions found under some of the previous commissions."

Dr. Tabler's statement was made from his bed in the University Hospital, where he has been a patient for more than two weeks.

Governor Nice's statement, made from the mansion in Annapolis, closely paralleled that of his roads chairman.

Pointing out that Mr. Benson's report, given publicly in evening papers yesterday, was for 1934-35, the Governor asserted that the auditor was not criticizing "my roads commission" but was "dealing with conditions under the Ritchie administration."

HARD QF HEARING.

Officials of the American Society for the Hard of Hearing are a little appalled to think that if everyone in the United States who had ear trouble would vote the same ticket, they could probably control a national election, but that at the same time they have been able to do comparatively little to help themselves. There are about 14,000,000 adults in this country, the Society estimates, who are hard of hearing; of the 30,000,000 children who went to public schools last year, about 3,000,000 have ailing ears.

These facts were publicized by the Society last week as it began a campaign to arouse the public to the problems of deafness and near-deafness. These are many and troublesome; hard hearing makes hard living.

Deafness, even when it is so slight as to be almost undetectable, seems to be the largest single factor in grade school failures. Children who lose their hearing seem stupid, when they may be just the opposite. They develop excessive shyness, or even criminal tendencies. If their deafness continues untreated, it becomes progressively harder and often impossible to cure. In maturity, unless they can be helped by mechanical hearing aids, they will be cut off from sound.

To prevent this eventuality, Dr. P. P. Fowler, of New York, ear specialist and president of the Society, listed symptoms which warn of ear trouble: (1) heaviness or blockage sensations in the ear; (2) tenderness, itching, heat or pain in or near the ear; (3) ringing or other noises in the ear; (4) inexplicable dizziness; (5) moisture or wax in the outer ear.—The Pathfinder.

DENTON GEHR DEFALTER

First National Bank Protected by $25,000 Bond.

The announcement, on Monday that Denton Gehr, cashier of the First National Bank, of Westminster, had embezzled $29,490.13 of the funds of the bank, came as a shock to the general public, such as has not been experienced in Carroll County for many years.

Mr. Gehr had been cashier of the bank since 1930, when he succeeded his father, the late George R. Gehr. In all, he had been officially connected with the bank for about 25 years.

No statement has yet been made of the disposal of the money, except that it was not due to speculation. The defalcations are reported to have covered quite a number of years, and to have been mainly from inactive deposits.

The bank is protected by a bond of $25,000. He has been released in $5000. bail by James K. Cullen, U. S. Commissioner for Federal Grand Jury action.

The whole affair has been a very severe shock to Mr. Gehr's very wide circle of friends, who regarded him as an embodiment of integrity, and as an adviser of high order and above the suspicion of reproach from any direction. Such cases have a very bad effect on the general public.

URGED TO REPORT S. S. ACCOUNT NUMBER.

Hagerstown, Md., March 11, 1938.—Persons holding more than one Social Security account number are requested to report this fact immediately to the nearest Field Office of the Board, Mr. Charles E. Bailey, Manager of the Hagerstown Field Office has announced. The fact that some persons have obtained several such numbers is a definite disadvantage to them, since it leads to confusion in the Board's accounting procedure. It is highly important, that anyone having more than one account card should return those that they are not using to the Board's office, writing on the back of each card so returned the number of the card which they are keeping.

"Posting of the wage records is now progressing very rapidly," Mr. Bailey continued, "and it is to the advantage of every employee not only to have an account number, but to have only one number so that his wage record may be accurately entered to his credit."

All employees are urged to safeguard their account numbers. Every employer for whom they work is required to know the number assigned to each of his employees, in order that he may report to the Board the amount of wages paid to the employee. This information is very necessary, of course, in compiling the employee's wage record upon which his benefit payments will be based. Should an employee lose his account card, a duplicate can be obtained by applying to the nearest Field Office of the Board. It is a definite advantage, in obtaining a duplicate card, if the employee knows the number. It is strongly recommended, therefore, that a record be made of the account number for reference in case the card is lost.

GOV. NICE OPPOSES THE WHIPPING POST.

Says the Legislature Should Repeal the Present Law.

Governor Nice has expressed himself as considering the whipping post in Maryland "as a barbaric punishment that should be abolished by the next legislature."

He says he does not believe "anyone actually believes in the theory of using physical torture as punishment; but that the whole idea of punishment today is that it should be a deterrent" from committing crime.

He further said "I don't believe in whipping men any more than I believe in capital punishment, although that, too, is a law that I have to enforce as Governor."

Of course, this is all a very old debatable question with much argument on both sides, and is made all the more difficult to decide because so many criminals are "pardoned" sometimes long before their terms of punishment has expired.

PRESBYTERIAN GEN. ASSEMBLY

Presbyterian stalwarts of a century and a half ago will walk again when the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. meets for its 150th session in Philadelphia next May.

Their descendants in the church of today will re-enact the principal episodes of that historic Assembly in a dramatic pageant to be given the opening night of the 150th General Assembly, Thursday, May 26, on the great stage in the Philadelphia Municipal Convention Hall.

On that stage will be presented the Rev. John Witherspoon, Moderator of the first General Assembly, and president of the College of New Jersey, later Princeton University.

Also portrayed will be the Rev. Dr. John Rodgers, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York at that time; the Rev. Dr. George Duffield, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, and chaplain of the first Continental Congress, and Dr. John Ewing, provost of the University of Pennsylvania and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia.

Other leading figures of the first General Assembly who will live again are the Rev. James Sproat, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, of Philadelphia; Dr. Samuel Stanhope Smith, vice-president of the College of New Jersey; Dr. Alexander McWhorter, of the First Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., the pulpit now occupied by the Rev. Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, present Moderator of the General Assembly; Dr. Patrick Alison, of the First Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, and Dr. Robert Smith, of the historic church then at Pocomoke, near Lancaster, Pa., and father of Dr. Samuel Stanhope Smith. Both father and son lived to be Moderators of later General Assemblies.

Each of the 34 commissioners to the original General Assembly—23 ministers and 11 elders—will have parts in the pageant which is but one of the special commemorative events planned by the four Presbyteries in Philadelphia and vicinity which will be hosts to the 150th General Assembly.

PRICES STILL RISING.

Commodity prices have risen, since February, 1933, by 32 per cent. on the average, according to Professor E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University. Prof. Kemmerer is a world-famous economist. Therefore, when he says "this is inflation," and predicts that prices will rise nearly 70 per cent. higher, and the cost of living will double, what he says is not to be easily laughed off.

Prof. Kemmerer is not alone in those predictions. Four-fifths of the members of the American Economic Association are on record that the present trend is toward dangerous inflation of money and credit.

Prudent investors are heeding these warnings and striving to protect themselves against the consequences by putting their funds into non-perishable commodities, or contracts for the future delivery of commodities at present prices. This is a time for people to go into debt for the purchase of goods to be paid for in the future, the economists say. One of the safest investments is in building property, for real estate and building prices are among the commodities most certainly due to increase in dollar value.

As prices go up, the value of the dollar goes down, but a debt expressed in dollars can always be paid in dollars, no matter how cheap the dollar may go. Economists think that it is prudent to buy residential or business property with as large and long term mortgage as possible, in the expectation that in a few years it can be sold at a huge profit.

A MUSICAL PROGRAM.

A special musical program will be rendered in Meadow Branch Church, on Sunday, March 13, at 10:30 A. M. The Capella Chorus, of Elizabethtown, Pa., some thirty voices, will be led by Prof. E. G. Myer, a member of the College faculty of that place. He is a brother-in-law of that place. Prof. Philip Royer, director of orchestra music, at Western Maryland College. The public is cordially invited to be present on this rare occasion. Seats free.

CO-OPERATION.

Everybody should be interested in questions and enterprises outside of his or her own occupation. Not merely a passing interest, but an active one, for we learn much through broadening our views. We should of course "mind our own business" first—be a good church member, a good farmer, merchant or mechanic—but in addition, be a liberal supporter of all good projects.

There are causes and problems awaiting us in every community. They need us, but we need them too. There is a good fellowship—a fraternalism, or at least a sympathetic attitude on our part, that is worth more to us than we mostly think.

There is not so much difference in various occupations, after all. There are certain good policies and plans that attach alike to all in some degree. In other words, we need to be all-around good citizens in order to get along best through life; for the better we know others, the better known we will be, in turn.

Selfishness is a burden, and and sometimes a costly handicap. We need to co-operate with others, in order that we may be co-operated with.

GOV. NICE TO ATTEND A DEMOCRATIC DINNER.

Governor Harry W. Nice this week notified the United Young Men's Democratic Club, of Montgomery County that he would attend the "gridiron" dinner, on Friday, March 18, at the Congressional Country Club.

Governor Nice will be "select" company when he attends the gridiron dinner according to Eugene B. Casey, president of the sponsoring club, who says the governor's acceptance virtually completes the list of high-ranking State officials who plan to attend.

"In fact," Casey declared, "the list of guests will read like a 'Who's Who in Maryland Politics.' Nearly every high state official, Republican and Democrat, has made reservations which to date have passed the 500 mark. Approximately 700 tickets were provided and we have less than 200 left."

A Republican governor attending a Democratic dinner may be unique, according to Mr. Casey, but it is exactly what the Montgomery Young Democrats want. The dinner is not a political rally, but a real "gridiron" dinner planned to take the State political set-up apart and see what makes it tick.

With Governor Nice at the dinner will be such luminaries as Senators Millard E. Tydings and George L. Radcliffe, Attorney General Herbert R. O'Connor, State Senate President, Lansdale G. Sasser and a host of other leaders in both parties.

The program March 18, will start with a full-course Southern style dinner, at 7 P. M. Dinners will have a choice of either meat or fish. At 8:00 P. M., the "gridiron" skits, written by Baltimore newspaper men and enacted by thespians from the Roadside Theatre, will be presented. At 10:00 P. M., dancing will be enjoyed in the spacious Congressional Club Ballroom.

Tickets have been priced at four dollars and in the words of Mr. Casey "are worth many times that price because they admit to a show that cannot be duplicated anywhere else."

HIGH-PRICED BASEBALL AUTOCRATS.

Lou Gehrig "King of the Swat" and first-sacker in the New York Yankee ball team, who had first asked for an increase over last year's salary, or $41,400 for this year's work has offered as a compromise to sign-up for $40,000. The Yankee management offered $38,000.00 and increased the offer to $39,000.

Joe Di Maggio, fast outfielder of the Yankees, is also a hold-out. He asked for $40,000, and has refused to sign for $25,000. Other star players have followed suit at lower figures.

AMATEUR CONTEST.

Blue Ridge College is planning an Amateur Contest under the auspices of the Women's Student Government Association, on Tuesday, March 22, at 8:00 P. M., in the college gymnasium. There will be two groups of contestants—those up to sixteen years of age, and those above sixteen years. A cash prize will be awarded the winner of each group.

Those who wish to enter the contest please make application by postal or in person to the secretary of the Student Government, Miss Doris Harrison, before March 19th. The admission for contestants will be ten cents; for non-participants, 25 cents.

"WORK WANTED" NOTICES FREE OF CHARGE.

The Record has always been of the opinion that there are but few men or women within its nearby circulation who are in need of work. This seems proven by the fact that only three, so far, have made use of our free-of-charge offer to publish "Work Wanted" notices.

This offer still stands, and those who want help should also co-operate. The only requirement is that applicants must state the kind of work wanted, and their name and address. No "information given at The Record Office" notices will be used.

"PEACE ON EARTH."

In consideration of the great question of how bring about "Peace on Earth," we must consider the main reason why there is not natural abiding peace. Largely, it is due to the fact that governments find it next to impossible to secure room for increasing populations. For instance, this is the big need of Italy, Japan and Germany, now the three most pugnacious Nations.

England is also handicapped in having a major portion of its territory outside of England proper. Canada, Australia and India, contain greatly more territory than England itself. Its large holdings in Africa are isolated. It is true that in case of war the Nation finds it difficult to marshal its forces. Other great Nations own isolated areas, or have them for dependencies in case of war.

In South America much of the country is sparsely settled, and practically unfit for development and occupation. Almost always there is a little war or two going on down there, born of jealousies relating to a struggle for greater prosperity.
Japan has for years been trying for more territory, but alone has found itself unable to accomplish much. Its evident close understanding with Italy and Germany has changed this, and practically all three have joined in a mass effort to gain what each wants through segregation of armed force. The rank and file—the common people everywhere want peace, but dare not rebel against their leaders. In fact, in Japan it is part of the Nation's religion to believe that the Emperor is Divine.

Our advance in intellectualism has aided in this growth of need for more space in which to live. The science of medicine and its accompanying surgery, in connection with the development of antiseptics and anaesthetics, has largely prevented an increase in the death rate. Practically the only aid this rate has had, has been due to motorized vehicles. Pestilences have been avoided, and tuberculosis halted in part; the result of all of which has been that the span of life has been lengthened, by our ministrations.

The increase in labor saving machinery has also played an important part. Such facts as these must be taken into account in our striving to find ways of peace. It is the big question of the age, and plays an immense part in our politics—in every activity in life.

What is to be done about this growth in population, when the most of our efforts are directed toward saving life? It is human to do so; but it is also modernly human to push out others from the space we want to occupy. We want places in the Sun of activity and pleasure, and it is becoming necessary, seemingly, to fight for them.

A QUESTIONNAIRE ON THE EUROPEAN WAR SITUATION.

The Industrial News Review, Portland, Oregon, is circulating a referendum on various questions concerning the opinions of American newspapers, with reference to the European War situation. We give the questions and answers as follows:

1—Do you believe that the United States government should protect the investments of American citizens in foreign nations with armed force?
Answers 241 Yes; 1408 No.

2—Do you believe American warships should be kept in danger zones, such as China?
Answers 437 yes; 1202 No.

3—Do you believe that the United States government should be responsible for the safety of American citizens in danger zones, after they have been advised to leave and arrangements have been made for their evacuation?
Answers 91 Yes; 1564 No.

4—Do you believe that in the event of another World War, the United States could keep out of it and successfully maintain a neutral position?

Answers, 982 Yes; 591 No.

5—Do you favor an international "quarantining" of belligerent nations—that is, the erecting of an economic and trade boycott about them?
Answers 1176 Yes; 394 No.

6—Do you approve of the present Neutrality Act, whereby the President is given the authority to declare when a state of war exists between foreign nations, and to place a war materials embargo against them?
Answers, 982 Yes; 638 No.

The answers came mostly from Northern and Western States—only 9 from Maryland.

"FIVE YEARS OF ROOSEVELT."

A daily newspaper that comes to our office recently carried an editorial on the above topic. Whether purposely or not to our way of thinking the effort was a "straddle." For instance, in the beginning it says—If one is to try to evaluate these five years of the Roosevelt regime, he must look at factors whose effect is more likely to survive that long.

Again, the writer says—"Any extensive reader of biography must be aware that most of the politics of today is controversial as it was when being lived. Then, this more lengthy opinion—

"Social security, farm relief, the TVA and so forth, will long continue to be enwrapped in disputation, at least as to details, and they may all be overshadowed by some towering event in the remainder of Mr. Roosevelt's term. Yet it seems safe to assume that the Roosevelt Administration will be remembered for having brought into actuality, for good or ill, many social changes which the country had long discussed but for which it could not bring itself to feel quite ready."

This apparently shows desire to commend the administration, but it is precautionary. Comment is then made on his "courage and cheer," and as a closing paragraph. The following appears—

"He has brought a social sympathy and an awareness of the problems of the less fortunate, and of this the nation stood in need. He has tackled stupendous problems with a light-heartedness that sometimes approached irresponsibility, and his methods have seldom been as good as his motives, nor his carry through as good as his vision.

These comparisons take in too much territory, but they do indicate at least one service the occupant of the White House has performed in five years. He has made America think."

On the whole, this may be considered a wise editorial on the part of a newspaper presumably non-partisan, as well as mostly not-political. There is plenty of time within the next year or so, to write definite history of the Roosevelt regime, so plainly that everybody can understand its outcome in fruits.

Since writing the above, along comes last Friday's Baltimore Evening Sun, with a full page editorial on "Five years of the New Deal." There is nothing "middle of the road" about it. In fact, in some respects it is too extremely anti. The truth in it is uncompromisingly belligerent, and may result in stirring up doubt as to full truthfulness. The last two paragraphs are as follows;

"The one genuine beneficiary of all the roar of words, and storm of law-making and looting of savings, and multiplication of job holders has been the least deserving of all American citizens—the one crop farmer with nothing in his head but too many children and hook-worms; the city proletariat and a bad trade, or half a good one, or no trade at all; the chronic and incompetent, bemused all of his days by envy of his betters. Here is the real pet of the New Deal, and the Keystone of its singularly idiotic moral theology.

The rest is only afterthought. What is sound in the maneuvers of the Mountebank's at Washington has been borrowed from better men, and is mainly old and familiar. What is its own authentic contribution to the science of government is only a strained and ill-natured kind of nonsense."

STEP ON THE STARTER.

In the United States there are more than 30,294 dealers in automobiles, besides 4,751 separate used-car dealers. In addition there are 14,343 dealers in accessories, tires and batteries, 66,243 public garages and 197,568 filling stations, and more than 1,071 other automotive businesses. A total of these 116,705 business places are listed as stores in a summary of retail distribution of the United States Bureau of 1935—the latest complete official statistics. Unofficial estimates for the present time show an expansion of the above Government reports.

The automotive group is greater than that of restaurants and eating places combined; almost double in number of the drug stores; and more than all the men's, women's and family clothing, shoe and tailoring shops put together, writes J. E. Jones from Washington, who discovers that the sales of the automotive group as reported by the Census were $1,967,714,000 for the year of 1935.

There are more than one half million auto plant workers in the United States. General Motors has recently released a statement showing that it has an investment of more than $6,000 in factories, tools, equipment and material for each of its employees. The company explains that among 205,000 employees there are about five men employed in factory production for each worker in research, engineering, purchasing, selling, advertising and keeping records.

The automotive industry has followed a policy of higher wages to its workmen and lower prices to its customers. It buys 20 per cent of all the American steel produced, 73 per cent of the plate glass, 6 per cent of the hardwood lumber, 18 per cent of the copper, 34 per cent of the lead, 11 per cent of the zinc, 11 per cent of the tin, 13 per cent of the aluminum, 30 per cent of the nickel, 46 per cent of upholstery and leather, 9 per cent of the cotton.

Serious thought is being given in Washington at the present time towards spending several billion dollars on a new type of every wide highways across the continent to supplement the major routes. Road building is but one of the hundreds of by-products of the automobile. The greatest part of the development along these lines has taken place during the past eight years.

We have had depressions in this country at different times; but only once has a single industry—that being the automobile industry—been voted public credit for leading the nation out of its economic difficulties. That was the recent depression.

An early upturn in the motor industry would mean direct and indirect employment to a very large percentage of the unemployed throughout the country. The most important suggestion that has been made is that it is high time to "Step on the Starter."

INVESTIGATE THE TVA!

In a recent address to the Senate, Senator Bridges, of New Hampshire charged that the Tennessee Valley Authority, instead of benefiting the farmers, small business and home-owners in the Southeast, has in reality been of benefit principally to a group of very large manufacturing corporations—including some of the concerns that are now under attack for alleged monopolies.

Senator Bridges brings a wealth of irrefutable testimony to buttress this criticism. TVA power is largely sold, under contract, to big factories in the area. These contracts were closed, without competitive bidding, by the TVA directors. Inasmuch as the Authority's low electric rates are made possible only by tax subsidies, all the people of the United States are, in effect, helping pay the electric bills of the favored corporations! That may help bring the more abundant life to the lucky concerns who are getting electricity at less than its real cost—but it certainly means a less abundant life for the taxpayer.

Senator Bridges makes the telling observation that if the U. S. treasury were to make an outright gift of U. S. government bonds to a group of favored businesses, the scandal would rock the country—yet, to all intents and purposes, that would be little different from what is happening now in the Southeast. The TVA has always been ballyhooed as a boon to the common people—and scores of millions of public funds have been spent in developing it. Now it appears that these funds have been largely used to provide a below-cost service to a few fortunate big businesses.

In concluding his address, Senator Bridges asked that the Senate authorize an investigation of the Authority. In the light of his disclosures, this would seem to be an inescapable duty owed the public by our lawmakers.—Industrial News Bureau.

THE ACTUAL NON-TAXPAYER IS NON-EXISTENT.

Residents of Northern California have been given a 9 per cent reduction in natural gas rates, which will total a saving of $2,000,000 a year. Commenting on this, the San Francisco Chronicle makes a telling observation:

"If it were not for certain increased taxes on the gas companies—the saving could have been $1,000,000 more.

"This particular illustration is important merely because it happens to be publicly and officially certified. Practically, the consumers of gas are so numerous that this particular tax passed on to them will amount to very little on any individual bill. But the point is that it is passed on, and that in the case of a public utility the laws of the state require it to be passed on. In other cases the even more immutable laws of economics pass it on. So every consumer of gas or electricity is a taxpayer, even if he never sees a tax collector or personally signs a tax check.

"We are all taxpayers. What some of us lack is tax consciousness. We think the man who signs the checks pays the tax, and that it makes no difference to the "non-taxpayer" how high the taxes are. If this "non-taxpayer" realized that he paid those taxes himself, he might care."

Half the cost of cigarettes, more than half the cost of liquor, a large part of the cost of food, shelter, fuel, clothing and everything else—this is the tribute inexorably demanded by the tax collector. His unseen shadow falls over every commercial transaction, whether it involves a nickel or a million dollars. And you, the consumer, the eater of food, and the wearer of clothing, eventually pay the bill, and in full. No one, unless it be a hermit who never leaves his cave in a remote hill, is a "non-taxpayer."—Industrial News Review.

ROADS OPERATE UNDER CONTINUING HANDICAP.

By regulating all types of transport more equitably and by improving the rail carriers' opportunity to borrow for more efficient equipment, the government can do much to correct the conditions in the railroad industry, in the opinion of the Cincinnati Enquirer. It says, editorially:

"Something will have to be done to avoid gradual deterioration of the rail transportation system and financial collapse of the companies. They cannot go on indefinitely on the present basis of revenues and costs. It is certainly true, as the railways have pointed out, that the wages they pay have risen much more rapidly than revenues. But even higher rates might not give a solution. They might divert more and more business to competing forms of transport.

"One basic difficulty is the inability of the railways to borrow money on favorable terms to modernize their equipment. This forces them in many cases to use two obsolete locomotives for a long train—with two crews—instead of one modern locomotive and only one crew. It would seem that government could be helpful here by intervening in the creation of a capital market for railroads in need of new financing.

"Another important possibility is more equitable regulation of various competing agencies of transport. The railways, being earlier, are subjected to much more stringent regulation than competing forms of transportation. Consequently they operate under a continuing handicap. The government itself has added to the competition the railways face by subsidizing water transportation in many places. Local governments have done the same by building highways at public expense for bus lines—while railways must build and maintain their own rights-of-way."—Railroad Data.

FEESERSBURG.

More snow, more rain, more wind; but we are on the way to fairer days. Each morning the Sun rises a little farther northward. It really seems to be on a sliding Eastern scale.

Men are cutting wood, and some are hauling big loads of hay to market though the Almanac pictures them at making fence and plowing ground in March.

Miss Josephine Miller made a short trip to New York City early last week by electric R. R. travel with a friend, but did considerable sight-seeing; and one's first visit to N. Y. is always remarkable, never felt so home-sick in our life as one day a party of us went by boat from Asbury Park to the City, where an elderly friend met us and took us around, from the Aquarium to Grant's Tomb, thro a part of Central Park, to Wall Street where we heard the "Bulls and Bears" roar; then came near missing our return boat, and felt that we'd spend the night in tears if left in that noisy, inhospitable place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wolfe visited the Marshall Sprague family, near Rocky Ridge, on Monday afternoon. Mr. Sprague is at home from Gettysburg Hospital facing the probability of undergoing another operation to have more of his lower arm removed, as there has not been satisfactory healing when the hand was amputated. He suffers greatly in his hand, the palm and fingers, altho' it was removed some weeks ago. How little we understand our own being.

Chicken thieves have called in our neighborhood, opened locked doors, took 24 good hens, politely locked up again on their departure and speeded away. To sing "Oh! Mandy, don't you weep" to the bereft owner doesn't heal the wound—we're mad!

Well it all came to pass—the dedication of the Parish House at Mt. Union, on Sunday evening, Rev. M. L. Kroh, in charge. After a Devotional service of singing, and responsive Scripture reading; he read the Bible lesson and offered a fervent prayer of dedication; then made a good address on "Christian Joy." No strong appeal was made for funds, only an announcement of the condition of the treasury, and that gifts of cash will be gratefully accepted. Four violinists, with Mrs. Scott Crabbs at the piano played a sacred offertory while the offerings were received. The meeting was well attended, and the building much admired.

The women are garden inclined, with cabbage, tomatoes, peppers and flower seeds coming thro' the ground in the window, and next Thursday will be St. Patrick's day—for sowing cabbage seed out-o'-doors, and hearing sweet Irish songs.

Despite the chill air the frogs have been croaking already, and of course some robins have been seen—the harbinger of Spring.

We've enjoyed reading of the entertainment given by the men of the organized S. S. Class of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, for the ladies of the class. Just know it was fun for all, and still hear the echoes of the laughter, and would have done our share if present. That fashion show was right in season and something to dream about; and the play where the colored servant called all kinds of doctors—would cause one to hold their sides, and catch their breath; and the musical stunt would have been the finish—probably would have needed the attention of "Dr. Quack."

A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

So free from pain and strife.

USED CAR EXCHANGE.

The entire force of the Chevrolet dealers in Western Maryland area has been mustered to make the National Used Car Exchange Week a success, W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced in Detroit as the campaign was launched by the automobile manufacturers and dealers of the nation.

"Tangible results of far reaching consequence will be achieved by the drive to attract the attention of buyers to the transportation values in the used car market," said Holler.

"It will help to get the unsafe cars of old vintage off the streets where they are a hindrance to orderly traffic and a menace to safety. Many of the owners of worn out cars will see that they can buy a good used car at bargain prices and free themselves from the fear of bad brakes, deteriorated electric systems that make night driving a hazard, worn steering apparatus that has no place upon the traffic lanes of city or country and poor mechanical performance that annoys the owner and jeopardizes the safety of both pedestrians and other drivers.

"National Used Car Exchange Week will stimulate the automobile business for it is a foregone conclusion that thousands of used cars will be sold by the dealers and this will lessen the jam that has been halting the manufacture and sale of new cars. It is axiomatic that if a dealer has too many used cars he cannot adequately handle the new car business."

The co-operation of public officials, safety organization leaders and newspapers in supporting the National Used Car Exchange Week was characterized by Holler as an expression of civic spirit of a high order that will help both dealers and manufacturers in their efforts to return the automobile industry to a more normal field of employment and purchasing.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Dynamite!"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

A powder monkey, boys and girls, walks on two legs and munches peanuts and his natural habitat is construction camps. They don't keep him chained up but most of the construction men wish they did. You see, he's the fellow who handles the explosive on a job and the men are generally afraid he might blow up at any minute.

This is the story of one who almost blew up the whole camp, inadvertently.

Powder Monkey John T. Alfio of Brooklyn, N. Y., was handling the hot stuff for a construction job along the Columbia river, away back in 1908. John's job, as custodian of fuses, concussion caps and dynamite, was to blast holes through stone for telegraph poles. Long acquaintance with explosives, John says, makes a man careless, rather than careful, and he had a great time scaring the "ground hogs"—the men who dig the holes in the usual way—out of their wits.

John's Trick Was Quite Amusing.

One of John's pet tricks was to remove the yellow, oily wrapping from around the dynamite sticks and wrap it around a candle so that it closely resembled the real explosive. Then, during a quiet chat about the stove in the evening, he would casually toss the stick into the stove.

John says it was fun seeing how fast that shack could empty. The trick was helpful, too. It always got him the best seat by the stove. Dynamite burns like butter when placed in the fire but the danger is that a slight jar is apt to set it off. John, however, finally exposed the trick to his fellow workers and all had a good laugh at the harmless candles wrapped in the yellow cover.

Came a day when John's trick came back to roost in his own backyard. It was after lunch, in mid-summer. As the workmen rested and smoked after their meal, John climbed a cliff that rose above them, to charge some holes he had prepared. He carried several genuine sticks of dynamite with him, any one of which could have blown up the entire camp and everything in it.

As he reached the top of the cliff, John slipped. In getting his balance, he upset the pack of explosive he carried and to his horror, one of the yellow wrapped sticks of dynamite went hurtling through the air, straight for the group below. He watched its course, too fascinated to cry out a warning. The stick hit a protruding bush in its fall, and continued its dreadful path of death, toward the unsuspecting workers. John shuddered and got his voice.

Of Course the Gang Didn't Believe Him.

"Look out," he shrieked, "DYNAMITE!" The gang looked up as a man. But they never moved. John wasn't going to catch them again with that old joke! In the second the stick took to fall, John recognized a man named "Shorty," who stood by the water barrel. He was just taking a drink and threw the water from the dipper playfully in the air. The stick, John saw, was falling straight for Shorty. John held on hysterically to a bush, closed his eyes and waited for the certain tragedy.

A laugh from below brought him to his senses. He looked down and nearly fainted for joy. The stick had fallen plump into the water barrel. It had hit the one spot in the whole camp which could possibly keep it from exploding.

"Thank God," John muttered and swore then and there, never to play another trick with explosives. But his lesson was not over yet—not by a long shot! The worst was yet to come.

Shorty, thinking the stick to be a dud, picked it out of the water. The wetness, John knew, in no way lessened the danger, and, even as he screamed, and the camp laughed, Shorty drew back his arm and THREW THE STICK OF DYNAMITE STRAIGHT UP THE CLIFF!

Their Escape Was Miraculous.

John watched its slow rise, fascinated again with horror. Up, up came the sure messenger of death. It curved slightly toward the side of the cliff. The slightest bruise would explode it! Again John screamed—but like the boy who yelled "Wolf" too many times—the men only laughed.

And then came the miracle! The stick, reaching the end of its rise, landed—as gently as a cat jumping to a shelf—in a bush and hung there, suspended in the air!

John says he suffered the tortures of hell as he climbed carefully down to that bush with its awful burden. From below came stones—thrown playfully by the amused crew. The wind swayed the bush and stones played around it. Would it hold till he got there? He was terrified that a stone dislodged by his own foot might send them all to eternity.

After what seemed hours, John reached the bush. With his cap, he caught the swaying stick and as he did, nearly plunged the rest of the way from sheer relief!

Changes in United States Capitol

In 1864 congress transformed the old house wing of the Capitol into Statuary hall. On December 2, 1863, a patriotic crowd assembled to witness the placing of Thomas Crawford's Statue of Freedom on the top of the dome. When the field battery fired the national salute at noon the Capitol was complete in its main lines. Subsequently minor renovations were made to permit the introduction of steam heating (1865); elevators (1874); fireproofing (1881); electric lighting (1882); modern drainage system (1893); and air conditioning (1937).

Westminster Abbey's Towers

The Westminster abbey's towers rest on the site of towers built by King Edward the Confessor, and parts of the latter exist underneath the present building. The abbey bells hang in the northwest tower, but in the Middle ages the belfry was a massive detached building which stood on the site of the London Guildhall. It had walls of immense thickness, and above it rose a tall spire. It was demolished in the Eighteenth century.

First Color of French Flag

While it is not usual to associate red with the French monarchy, it was really the first color of the king's flag, called the oriflamme. It is only because red was also adopted by the English king that the French gave it up for blue. It was under the blue flag that Huguenots came to America first as loyal subjects of the king of France. However, the red flag was preserved on the galleys of the Mediterranean fleet where terrible suffering was endured by the unhappy men who could not understand the injustice of the king.

Spelling "Coconut"

The people of Trinidad spell coconut without an "a"—that is, cocconut. The original derivation comes from the Spanish word "coco," applied to a monkey's face, the three eyes on the nut giving it the appearance of a monkey's face, the lower eye seeming to resemble a mouth. The coconut tree, bare to within a few feet of the tassel-like top, is one of the most beautiful in the West Indies. The trade winds keep it always waving.

"GIVE," THEN YOU'LL "GET"

The Editor of one newspaper said to another recently at a press conference, "I wish you'd tell me how to get more advertising for my paper. You certainly have a lot of it in yours. How do you do it?" Thereupon the second publisher replied:

"First of all, I sell the merchant in my town on my medium, rather than selling him space and then the medium. After I get his confidence, I show him that I know what I am talking about in regard to advertising of his line of goods, then I tell him of my medium. I point out to him the things which give our paper a strong reader interest and which make it a good advertisement medium."

"I talk to him about our circulation—but not in general terms. Instead, I tell him of the large percentage of mail boxes out of the four rural routes out of our town in which our paper is deposited every week and the equally large percentage of homes in the town into which it goes. And because our subscription rate is on a strictly cash-in-advance basis I can assure him that all those people take the paper because they really want it and are willing to lay their money on the line to get it."

"After I have shown him conclusively that our paper is the one best medium to reach the people in our community, I am ready to talk space to him—only I don't talk in terms of space but in terms of service. That means what an advertisement in our paper has done for others and what I feel certain it can do for him. Then I try to figure out with him how much he can afford to spend for advertising, plan a regular campaign and offer suggestions on how he can advertise to get the best results."

"Whenever I put my proposition to him in that way I almost always get an order for advertising. And when I once get him started, I don't worry much about his keeping on with his advertising. I know we can 'deliver the goods' to him just as well as he can deliver his goods to his customers."

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

JANE'S living room has a Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde personality if you ever saw one. Sometimes you go there and it's one thing—the next time it's entirely different. Then in a twinkling it will whisk back to the first way. Which adds a lot of glamor and interest to life we think.

The explanation is simple and makes sense. Jane wanted a feeling of elegance and dignity in her furniture coverings, but the problem was how to do that with a big active family like hers who were hard on furniture at best. She compromised by having slip covers for every day but made the slip cover personality of the room just as distinguished in its way as the more formal coverings. But here are the two incarnations of the room:

The Setting—Pale gray walls and a light gray carpet (one of those indistinct patterns that are so practical and smart). White woodwork and pale yellow draperies over white sheer curtains, white lamps and accessories.

For Dress-Up—The sofa is in a fine hunter's green damask and in a pair of fireside chairs are in apple green leather. A satin striped fabric in greens from light to dark appears on a love seat. Then an odd chair has a pale yellow covering.

For Everyday—A fresh informal cretonne with a large scale flower motif and a clear middle blue ground is used for a slip cover on the sofa. This clear middle blue in a plain fabric slip covers the fireside chairs—here the welting is yellow. The love seat has a yellow and gray striped slip cover and the odd chair repeats the floral motif of the sofa.

You can picture what a transformation those changes make! The slip covers are washable, fast color, sanforized and of good stout weight and weave.

In short that's a recipe of how to preserve your dignity and have a family at the same time.

He Backed Her Up. Mrs. Howard drew the line the other day, about how to spend an unexpected piece of house money. Her daughter Katherine thought the windfall should go on a new living room rug. Her son Stephen was all for spending it on a very fancy new radio complete with all the latest tricks. But Mrs. Howard had been putting off doing over the main bedroom for twenty years, always deferring to more pressing needs. So Mr. Howard backed her up when she announced that the money was going on their room.

First—the furniture. The old set had been very good in its day—colonial mahogany of the rather massive style. The chest of drawers could be retained and the dresser was smartened up by taking the mirror rack off and hanging the mirror on Wreck of the "Griffon" According to Farmer's History of Detroit, the "Griffon," the first sailing ship on the Great Lakes, weighed between 45 and 60 tons and was armed with five cannon. She was built by La Salle at the mouth of Cayuga creek near Niagara in the spring of 1679 and was launched in May of that year. After several short trial trips, she started her first real voyage on August 7, 1679, with 32 persons aboard. She reached Detroit on August 10 and continued through the lakes to Washington island in Lake Michigan. After taking on a load of furs, she sailed on September 18 and was never seen again, but portions of the wreck were found among the islands at the northern end of the lake.

Fogs, Mists, Are Clouds Fogs, or mists, are really clouds close to or in contact with the ground. The conditions necessary are the presence of dust and water vapor in the atmosphere and the falling of the temperature of the air below a certain point. When this happens each particle of dust receives a coating of moisture, and mist is formed. This is white. In its early stages mist easily dissolves if the temperature rises slightly. If there is smoke about, each drop of moisture acquires a covering of oily film. This hinders evaporation and also gives the mist, now fog, its dark color and unpleasant flavor. Extensive fogs also occur where currents of air of different temperatures meet. This, says Lomdon Answers Magazine, is the reason why the region around Newfoundland is the foggiest in the world. There the air warmed by the Gulf Stream meets the cold Labrador current.

HOUSEWIFE HAS FAVORED DISHES

Cherished Recipes That Appeal to the Family.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ALMOST every housekeeper has some precious recipes which provide dishes that the family especially likes and that her guests appreciate because of some individual touch.

Whenever I can add a recipe of this sort to my collection, I feel that I am indeed fortunate, and I feel sure that you will like to have me share some of these with you. Sometimes, when I am given a cherished recipe, it is with the stipulation that I do not share it with anyone else.
Again I am allowed to publish it in my column, perhaps with the hope that no friend or relative will send it back to the town of its origin.
I did hear of one which returned to a southern city by India, Paris and New York.

Recipes of this sort are not always novel to everyone, but when they have been a specialty and are extremely good, they attain a sort of glamor. In any case, they are always delicious.

Here are two which have been presented to me by their owners
within the last few months.

Yorkshire Tarts.

¾ cup butter
1 pound powdered sugar
6 eggs
4 lemons
Tart shells

Cream the butter and work in the sugar. Add the beaten eggs and juice and grated rind of the lemon.
Place in a double boiler and stir over hot water until smooth and thick. Cool and use as a filling for tart shells or to put between layers of cake. This filling may be kept in the refrigerator and used as needed.

Orange Bread Pudding

1 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups scalded milk
2 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
Juice of 2 oranges
Grated rind of 2 oranges

Add bread crumbs and butter to scalded milk and soak thirty minutes. Then add egg yolks beaten with sugar and orange juice and rind. Pour into buttered pudding dish, place dish in shallow pan of water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until firm.
Cool and cover with meringue.

WORTH TRYING

Fruit Souffle.

5 egg whites
Salt
1 cup finely crushed sweetened fruit

Beat egg whites until very stiff.
Fold in salt and crushed sweetened fruit. Pour mixture into well-buttered double boiler, cover and cook over hot water one hour, without removing cover. Turn out of boiler onto serving platter and serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.

Fried Clams.

1 pint clams
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Salt
Pepper

Clean clams. Drain and chop.
Beat eggs until light, stir in milk alternately with the flour which has been mixed and sifted with the baking powder. Stir in clams and seasonings. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat, (360 degrees Fahrenheit), and cook until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve at once.

French Fried Potatoes.

Peel and slice potatoes in rather long thin pieces. Put into cold water a few minutes. Drain and dry well. Fry in deep fat, hot enough to brown a piece of bread in twenty seconds (395 degrees Fahrenheit).
Potatoes will take about twenty minutes to cook unless cut in very thin pieces. Drain on soft paper and salt before serving.

Steamed Soft Clams.

Wash and scrub clams thoroughly, changing water several times.
Put into large kettle, allow one-half cup water to four quarts clams;
cover closely and steam until shells partly open. Serve with dishes of melted butter. Serve the liquor left in kettle in glasses or cups.

Custard Sauce.

3 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups scalded milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs slightly, stir in sugar and salt. Stir in scalded milk slowly. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thickened, or the spoon is coated. Chill and flavor.

Honey Toast.

1 egg
½ cup milk
Bread
Butter
Honey
Cinnamon

Beat the egg and add the milk to
it. Slice the bread about one-fourth inch thick. Dip the slices in the egg mixture and saute in butter until slightly brown, turning once.
Spread with honey to which a little cinnamon has been added.

America of Present Day

Harks Back to W. Indies

It may seem illogical to say that America of today had its origin in the West Indies. But such is a fact, asserts a writer in the Chicago Tribune, and that is why many people visit the islands of the Caribbean.

It is easy to picture the buccaners and their victims, and the wild debauchery in which the loot was spent. Those bearded pirates were the gunmen of their period and they didn't bother much about "Hands up!" or "Don't move or I'll shoot!"
They began to shoot as soon as they got into range. Hundreds of millions of gold were collected by these freebooters, and much of it is buried somewhere between the tropic of Cancer and the equator.

Mention of the West Indies brings to mind a flood of recollections—pictures of Columbus, the discoverer; De Leon, who loved Porto Rico
so much that he sought the fountain of youth so that he might grow young again to enjoy all the longer its beauties; De Soto, who built the old fort which stands in Havana, and who sleeps in the bottom of the Mississippi river, which he discovered; Cortez, who found a splendid civilization in Mexico and wrecked it for the sake of gold; Balboa, the stowaway, who discovered the Pacific ocean; Pizarro, who spent a dozen or more years in his efforts to reach Peru so that he might rob the Incas of their vast wealth; Morgan, who sacked and burned Panama after his men had obtained its treasures; Drake, the privateer, who was just a pirate with a new name; Raleigh, who popularized tobacco and the potato;
Josephine, the little girl from Martinique who became the wife of Napoleon and thus the empress of France.

Why Guereza Monkeys Are Described as "Invisible"

The guereza monkey, roamer of jungle tree tops in equatorial Africa, possesses a coat of hair which would do credit to an Arctic animal. South African naturalists say it is to make the guereza invisible, thus protecting him against his enemies.

The guereza has long, shiny black hair, but from his shoulders down is a mantle of flowing white hair.
Black and white are not inconspicuous colors, yet Nature has taken this fact into account in camouflaging the creature. For this particular monkey spends most of his life,
awake or asleep, high in trees.

In the dense forest where he lives
the trees have black-barked trunks and branches. From the latter hang great gray masses of moss or lichen. Against this background the guereza's coloration truly earns him
the description "invisible."

Panama Cities Founded Several Centuries Ago

Cristobal, Canal Zone, Atlantic
port of entry to that strip of leased territory across the narrow part of the republic of Panama, is the gateway to a scene that dates back through the centuries. Panama City and Colon are ancient and colorful,
and Cristobal and Balboa are modern and military.

Panama City and Colon are not outgrowths of the building of the canal. They are cities founded four centuries ago, the terminals of a paved causeway built to carry the unrecorded riches of the conquista-dores, and a legend of pirates, buccaners, and the freebooters of the Spanish Main. A kaleidoscope of nations, they owe their atmosphere to a commerce originating in the Fifteenth century. The parade of nations began with the Spaniards and negro slaves, Inca chiefs and native Indians, and was carried on by the English buccaners, the French corsairs, the forty-niners, Hindus, Chinese, and Arabs. Descendants of these early merchants pass through the streets, displaying their wares in open shops that give the thoroughfares the atmosphere of an oriental bazaar.

Balboa and Cristobal contrast sharply with Panama City and Colon in all respects except natural tropic beauty. They are a result of the canal, with wharves, customs houses, drydocks, administration buildings, rows of houses and a note of military efficiency.

Why Engineering Students Flunk

Three main reasons why engineering students often flunk are: Failure to do today's work today—due to the various distractions incident to college life; natural abilities and interests lie in some other field than engineering; general lack of ability, interest and preparation.

Why Balancing Is Necessary

It is impossible to manufacture an automobile tire or tube in which every inch of its circumference contains the same weight of materials as every other inch. This applies to wheels, rims and brake drums.
That is why balancing is necessary.

Why It Is Hampton Roads

Roads is a contraction of the word roadstead, which is a place of anchorage. Hampton Roads was named for Hampton creek. It is a broad, deep channel which connects the estuary of the James river with the Chesapeake bay.

LOVE CHARM

By THAYER WALDO
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate,
WNU Service.

THERE were eight men in the office when the dark girl walked in.

Her skin was creamy
brown, her clear eyes and waving hair like coal.

They stared in silence an instant
as she stood by the door, glancing swiftly from face to face.

At last the one nearest her spoke.
"Well, what is it? Who do you want?"

The girl's steady gaze fixed on him.

"I am here because the door says William Newsom," she replied; "is it your name?"

Her voice had a soft, rich inflection.

The large man at the head of the table said:
"I'm Newsom. What's the idea?"

Deliberately the girl appraised him, but the look was not hostile.

Then she came to the director's side and held out one hand. On the small smooth palm lay a curious object—an amulet in the shape of a little blue fish with horns.

Newsom gazed down at it, and suddenly his face was ashen.

"You—you—" he stammered in hoarse confusion.

"I am Taumma," she said quietly.

For a long moment then they regarded each other: the pale shaking man in the chair and the girl with calm dark eyes.

Finally Newsom turned toward the seven who were waiting.

"Boys," he said, and the tone was thin, "I—I'll have to call off the conference for now. We'll get together again tomorrow."

No one answered but their expressions as they filed to the door were eloquent. When the last had gone Newsom slowly faced the girl again.

"Why are you here?" he asked.

It was a sort of weary plea.

"I have come to see you," she replied; "do you not want that?"

He passed a hand across his eyes and sighed.

"I don't know; it isn't a fair question. There's so much to—consider and think out—so much I'd almost forgotten."

Pausing, he glanced up sharply.

"Is—are you in Hollywood alone?"

"Yes. That is why I have brought you this."

Once more she revealed the charm.

"Do you not understand?"

Newsom rose abruptly, gesturing his agitation.

"Oh, of course—of course!"

He went to the windows and remained there half a minute, his back to her. When he swung around a forced composure was evident.

"Taumma, my dear," he said,
"you must forgive me. This has been so sudden—really a shock. We must talk about it more fully and sensibly. But right now I'm in the midst of shooting—directing a picture, you know. I wonder: would you care to come on the set with me and watch it?"

A quick smile of delight showed her perfect, gleaming teeth.

"Yes!" she told him. "I think that would be pleasure."

There were more than fourscore men and women on sound stage six when they entered.

Someone near the door noticed Taumma at once, and a hum of whispering ran like prairie fire through the place.

Newsom led her to his own chair
beside the cameras and said soft-
ly:

"Now just sit here and I'll get them busy."

He turned to an assistant and gave crisp orders.

Raising a megaphone, the man
shouted: "Clear! Places for Scene 12, Sequence B!"

A mass movement that seemed like chaos began then; but order came out of it, and soon only a handful of costumed actors were left on the set. It was the portico of a Southern plantation; a group of belles and gallants sat at their ease or sauntered about, chatting gaily.

Newsom stood off to one side at a point of vantage; but he watched Taumma rather than the scene.

For several moments he gazed thoughtfully at her, observing each new emotion as she followed the players' speech and movements.
Quite apparent it was that her heart and spirit entered wholly into this mimicry.

Suddenly he went to the side door of the building and stepped out.

Just across the lot stood a long gray limousine, a chauffeur at its wheel.

Newsom called and the man came at a trot.

"Chris," said the director, "I have an important little job for you."

He led the way and took the chauffeur's arm as they entered the stage.

Indicating Taumma, Newsom said:
"Take a good look at that girl
and listen to me and don't ask questions. Ten minutes from now I'm going to bring her out to the car
and say you'll take her to my house;
but you won't. You'll drive to San Pedro-Pier 33—and put her on board the Hilo and give her this."

He shoved a thick wad of bills into the fellow's hand, adding: "And remember—no strong arm stuff.
Just get her on and see that she stays. The boat sails for Honolulu at eight this evening."

Exactly that routine was carried through.

Newsom brought her out, made his explanation briefly, smoothly,
and put her in the limousine.

Then he watched its gleaming length glide down the drive and out of sight.

The next four hours were crowded.

Three scenes remained in that particular sequence of the picture,
and he ran them off with neat celerity.

After that, two more conferences, and at last back to the office to study and blue-pencil a new script.

Through it all he gave no sign of preoccupation; none of those who were with him during the period noted any strangeness or constraint in his manner—not until 6:54, that is.

He was seated at his desk, dictating notes on the scenario.

Suddenly his secretary saw him staring at the small clock which stood between them.

For a moment there was silence, save for the rhythmic ticking as its hands crept on toward the hour.

Lesson for March 13

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:30-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—Give ye them to eat.
Mark 6:37.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Fed a Hungry Crowd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy's Part in a Great Miracle.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sharing What We Have.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Providing for the Needs of All.

"My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:19). Such is the assurance of God's Word. Countless Christians have proved it to be true that they may trust God to supply every need—temporal or spiritual.

The lesson for today first presents the disciples as they had come back from their preaching expedition and presented to the Lord Jesus a report of their stewardship in ministering the bread of life to the spiritually needy. He invites them to a place apart from the busy walks of daily life for a time of communion and rest. The multitude would not be denied, however, and follow our Lord to the desert place. Having taught them, Jesus has opportunity to instruct His disciples in the important ministry of supplying for those in need the bread for their bodies.

I. The Ministry of the Bread of Life.

Reports of accomplishments in the field of Christian work (although sometimes an earnest accounting of stewardship of service and money) are all too often prepared for the purpose of impressing men and seeking their financial assistance. The real report is the one which disciples make to their Lord. It concerns two vital points.

1. "What they had done" (v. 30).

One of the temptations which face the preacher and teacher of Christian truth is to avoid unpleasant and difficult problems by simply proclaiming the truth and doing nothing about the outworking of that truth in daily living. It sounds very pious to say that we will present the Word and let it do its own work, but the Christian worker who evades his duty to deal at close grips with sin and disorder in the church and community has not discharged his responsibility to Christ.

2. "What they had taught" (v. 30).

The second temptation of the preacher is to follow the specious reasoning of the modernist who says that it does not matter what a man believes, it is what he does that counts. The foundation of Christian character is Christian doctrine, therefore the disciple of Christ must know what to teach, and give account to the Lord for his teaching. Teaching and doing the commandments of God go hand in hand.

II. The Ministry of Daily Bread.

Jesus found no rest, for the multitudes followed Him to the other side of the lake. Ere long the evening approaches, and the disciples begin to be concerned about how this great multitude is to be fed. They follow the inclinations of the flesh and decide to solve the problem by asking Jesus to

1. "Send them away" (v. 36).
The church has followed their example in dealing with the social problems of the people down through the years. The result is that being denied fellowship, comfort, and help by a church which was too busy building up a vast organization or a beautiful order of worship, the common people have responded to the appeal of political leaders who have provided a substitute for what the church should have given them.

Serious thoughts are these. It will not do for us to "send them away" from the church empty hearted and empty handed. Our Lord says—

2. "Give ye them to eat" (v. 37).
Reckoning hastily on what a small boy had brought for his lunch (trust an alert boy to be ready!), the disciples soon demonstrate that it is impossible to feed this great throng.

Logic is such a devastating thing when it operates apart from faith in God. They were absolutely right in their reasoning and in their calculations, but they had forgotten the one factor that really counted. Jesus was there, and Jesus is God, and God is omnipotent.

3. "He commanded . . . and they did all eat" (vv. 39, 42).

When God speaks all the limitations of the finite disappear, and the needs of men are fully met—with "twelve baskets full of fragments" left over!

Let those who labor in difficult places with limited resources take heart—and trust God.

Wisdom

Wisdom allows nothing to be good that will not be so forever; no man to be happy but he that needs no other happiness than what he has within himself; no man to be great or powerful that is not master of himself.—Seneca.

Longings

Every longing should become an active impulse in the soul. Our longing should lead us into all paths of Christly service and all heroic duty.

MEN AND WOMEN AGREE ON FOODS

Seems to Be No Real Sex Division on Tastes.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ARE foods that men like so very different from women's favorite foods? Actually, I don't think there is any real sex division when it comes to taste in food.

Perhaps women in general are fonder of sauces and thick salad dressings, but I have yet to find a woman who scorns the steak which many men choose as their favorite dish, or a man who will turn down a pudding with a rich sauce.

Women seem as a rule to like vegetables better than men. Men, however, are apt to be devoted to such vegetables as fried onions and baked potatoes, although I do know men who actually dislike onions. Not long ago just for amusement, I asked a number of men to tell their favorite dishes and this is the list:

Steak
French fried onions
Apple pie
Ham and eggs
Cheese cake
Chocolate cake
Sweet potatoes with marshmallows.

French Fried Onions

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 3 cups water
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 egg white
10 to 12 large onions

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add water, beat smooth; add oil. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Slice the onion one-eighth inch thick. Separate into rings, reserve the small rings for other use. Soak in milk to cover one hour. Drain and dry, dip in batter and fry in deep oil about two minutes. Drain on soft paper.

Sweet Potatoes With Marshmallows.

5 sweet potatoes
Hot milk
Butter
Marshmallows
Seasoning

Cook the sweet potatoes until soft. Pare, press through the ricer, and add seasoning and hot milk, enough to make a soft consistency. Add a tablespoon of butter to each pint of potatoes and place in a greased baking dish. Cover with marshmallows and bake in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

Casserole of Chicken.

1 chicken (3 to 3½ pounds)
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped carrots
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup cream
¼ cup sherry

Cut chicken into pieces for serving. Melt butter, cook vegetables in it until they are yellow, not brown. Remove vegetables. Cook chicken in butter until all sides are golden brown. Add more butter if needed. Place chicken in casserole, add cream and wine and cover with vegetables. Cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until chicken is tender.

Savory Scalloped Oysters.

5 tablespoons butter
4 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup minced green pepper
½ cup ground ham
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pint oysters
Melt butter, add crumbs, green pepper, ham and seasonings and mix well. Drain oysters and arrange in alternate layers with the buttered crumbs in a greased baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit).

Pate de Foie Gras Canapes.

3 tablespoons pate de foie gras.
2 tablespoons cream
Cayenne pepper
Salt
6 rounds of bread
Sliced truffles or sliced stuffed olives

Mix paste with cream and seasonings. Rub through a fine sieve and spread on the rounds of bread. Garnish with sliced truffles or sliced stuffed olives.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes.

6 large baked potatoes
½ pound grated cheese
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon paprika
1½ teaspoons salt

Cut potatoes in half lengthwise and scoop out the centers. Put through the ricer. Add cheese to hot milk and beat until smooth. Mix with mashed potatoes, add seasonings and beat until light and creamy. Refill potato shells, return to hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) and bake until brown.

Pound Cake.

1 pound butter
1 pound sugar
10 eggs
1 pound flour
½ teaspoon mace
2 tablespoons brandy

Cream butter, stir in sugar gradually and mix until light and fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg yolks and flour sifted with mace. Add brandy and fold in well-beaten egg whites. Bake in a deep greased pan one and one-quarter hours in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit).

Shoo-Fly Pie.

Line a pie tin with pastry rolled a little thicker than usual. Sprinkle plentifully with brown sugar, dot with butter and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 minutes.

Why Outline of Moon Is Visible

The outline of the moon is sometimes visible when there is a new moon. It is due to earthshine. On clear nights the light cast on the moon by the earth makes the surface slightly visible.

Why They Are "Sickle" Pears

The name "sickle" pear was originally Seckel, named for a man in Philadelphia, who had the first tree bearing this small reddish-brown pear.

Why Electricity Is Dangerous

In kitchens, bathrooms, laundries, or other rooms where plumbing fixtures are installed, great care should be exercised in placing light fixtures. They must, of course, be so placed that they will give proper light for the operations that go on, but if they must be over or near a plumbing fixture, they should be controlled by a switch at a distance from it. To hold a faucet with one hand and pull on a light with the other is distinctly dangerous. It is even unwise to operate a switch while standing or sitting in a bathtub. A drop of water from the hand may form a contact that might be fatal.

Why Large Chair Is Displayed

The largest chair in the world, on the highway in the center of Thomasville, Ga., advertises the fact that Thomasville produces more chairs than any other city in the world.

Why Rome Is the Eternal City

Legend states that Rome was raised by or under the immediate supervision of the immortal gods.

Why They Are New England States

The group was named by Captain John Smith in 1614 because of its resemblance to the English coast.

HUMOR BIRDS FOR POULTRY PROFITS

Catering to Hens' Whims Is Found Good Plan.

By H. M. Alp, Poultry Extension Specialist,
University of Illinois—WNU Service.

It will pay poultry producers to learn how hens behave like human beings. Whims in poultry behavior can be noticed in fowls just as easily as they can be in human beings, and in many cases they are likely to be similar.

Although there is a difference of opinion as to whether human whims should be catered to, the successful poultryman knows that for good egg production, poultry whims can not be overlooked.

For instance, putting fresh feed in a feed hopper for poultry works just about the same as putting fresh bread on the table for the family meal—it usually results in increased consumption. A feeder which requires frequent filling is a distinct advantage, since the frequent filling encourages egg production.

Just as humans dislike water that has been heavily chlorinated, so hens will turn up their noses at water which has been polluted with some pill or powder. Such a practice is likely to result in low water consumption and low egg production.

The more appetizing the water, the greater will be its probable effect on egg production. When it is cold it will pay to keep water warm as well as clean.

To many people a dessert makes a meal complete and often helps to make up for any shortcomings of the main course. Judging by their reactions to a moist mash feeding once a day, poultry would agree that such a feeding serves them well as a dessert. Many flock owners resort to moist feeding as a means of feeding some of the vitamin and mineral concentrates such as codliver oil, sardine oil and milk products.

Hens also react favorably to clean surroundings. When clean litter is substituted for dirty litter, there is much singing and scratching which helps increase egg production.

Electric Farm Fence Is Regarded as Dangerous

It is extremely dangerous for anyone unfamiliar with the principles of electricity to experiment with the electric fence, says Harry L. Garver, investigator in rural electrification at Washington State college.

Electric fences operated by storage batteries and properly constructed by expert electricians will give safe service. But it is never advisable for the amateur to attempt to build his own equipment, Garver says. In all probability, it would not meet safety approval, thereby making the owner liable for any damage that might be done by it, he added.

While it is possible to build electric fences that are connected with the home wiring circuit, this practice is not encouraged; there is too much danger of unskilled persons making the wrong connection and sending the full charge through the fence. It is believed advisable to post warning signs on all electric fences.

Nests for R. I. Reds

A nest for a Rhode Island Red hen should be from 12 to 15 inches square and about 12 inches high. One nest of this type must be provided for every four or five hens in the flock. The dark front nest with an entrance from the rear is coming into general use. It avoids egg eating and losses from pick-outs. The "community type" of nest is a favorite with many poultrymen. It has the same general construction but is built without partitions dividing it into individual nests. This nest may be six or eight feet in length with a four-inch board in front to retain the litter.

Hardware Bad for Cows

Hardware has its very important place in our scheme of farm operation, but baling wire, nails, bits of steel, etc., lodged inside Bossy's body are bad medicine. Just a few precautions are mentioned by Hoard's Dairyman: Account for all baling wire from hay, straw, or shavings used in the cow barn. Unwind the wire, do not chop it in two. Stage a continual pick-up of wire, nails, etc. Do not mend stanchions with wire. If a nail is missed while making a repair about the feed alley, find it. Outlaw the steel brush around the feed department.

Feeding the Hens

The feed for hens depends upon several factors. First, the development of the bird; second, the rate of production; third, the condition of the house in which the birds are kept, and fourth the amount of mash the birds consume daily. You cannot weigh out the scratch grain. The only way is to feed them what they will eat up clean, giving them all they wish at night, when they should go to roost satisfied and with full crops.

How Kaleidoscopes Are Made

Kaleidoscopes consist of a tube containing two plane mirrors placed lengthwise along the axis and hinged together along one edge, so as to form an angle which is an aliquot part of 180 degrees. One end of the tube is supplied with a magnifying lens, and the other is closed by two glass plates, at a small distance from each other, and between which are placed small fragments of glass or other colored objects.

How Shepherd's Pie Is Made

To make Shepherd's pie line a greased baking dish with fluffy well seasoned mashed potato. Dot with butter or fat and pour into the potato mold minced cooked meat which has been mixed with meat stock or gravy seasoned with salt and pepper. Cover with more of the mashed potato, dot with butter or other fat, put in the oven for a few minutes to brown.

How Owl Was Named

The owl gets its name from the Cockney mispronunciation of howl.

THE SQUEEZE!

Uncle Sam's "Peace Table" at New York World's Fair 1939

NEW YORK — (Special) — Giant steamshovels are tearing away at the soil and hundreds of men are working on the $3,000,000 Federal Area for the New York World's Fair where Uncle Sam will preside, figuratively, at a 1939 world peace table that is expected to have a lasting beneficial effect upon international relations.

Uncle Sam will be represented by a huge Federal Building which will be placed at the head of a Hall of Nations, where foreign countries, 64 of which have agreed to participate, will show their official exhibits at the Fair. All the buildings will be grouped around an enormous parade ground which will be the scene of parades, pageants, drills and other colorful events of a like nature, and where many thousands of Fair visitors will gather on opening day to listen to a speech by President Roosevelt. The architect is Howard L. Cheney.

This structure, which is now being built under the direction of the United States New York World's Fair Commission, will contain exhibits interpreting the background and functions of the legislative, judicial and executive branches of government. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A.

Wallace is Chairman of the Commission and its membership includes Secretary of Commerce Roper, Secretary of Labor Perkins, Senators Wagner and Copeland of New York and White of Maine and Representatives Merritt and Wadsworth of New York and McReynolds of Tennessee.

Air Spaces in Eggs

The air spaces in eggs are supposed to aid in the development of the embryo chick. The chick makes use of the air in this pocket during the brief period between the time when it begins to breathe and the time when it is strong enough to break through the shell with its beak. This air sac enlarges materially during incubation, and in a normal egg the chick at hatching time always has its head pointing toward the large end of the egg and the air space. It is the opinion of the United States bureau of animal industry that the air sac is formed by the contraction of the contents of the egg immediately after it is laid. The temperature of an ordinary hen's body is about 107 degrees Fahrenheit, and it is reasonable to suppose that as soon as an egg is laid the yolk and white contract somewhat. Because of the peculiar shape of the egg the air space is nearly always formed at the large end. Now and then it occurs on the side, but never at the small end.

Counting Vitamins

Of all the vitamins chicks need, most important are A, D and G. A good chick mash must supply these vitamins in the amounts needed—plus a margin for safety.

Vitamin A:

Chicks require 1400 to 1800 units of Vitamin A per pound of feed. Southern States Starting Mash contains more than 9000 units per pound.

Vitamin D:

Chicks getting no direct sunlight need 180 units of Vitamin D per pound of feed. The cod liver oil in Southern States Starting Mash furnishes 454 units per pound of mash.

Vitamin G:

This is the growth vitamin, during the early weeks chicks need 1300 units per pound of feed. More than 1700 units are supplied by each pound of Southern States Starting Mash.

Southern States Starting Mash, 100 pound bag, $2.35. This price is made possible only by co-operation.
