COMMUNITY LOCALS

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc., are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Larger events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

The local Boy Scout troop will have a refreshment stand at the Nussbaum sale on Saturday, March 9th.

Miss Catharine Kephart, Philadelphia, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Kephart.

Mrs. Clarence Powell and daughter of Vincentown, N. J., are spending several months with her sister, Mrs. Raymond A. Kelly, near town.

Don't forget that The Record is seen free to the Hospital at Frederick, Gettysburg and Hanover, for the use of patients who ask for it, while there.

Seven colored children, of Taneytown, go to public school in Westminster, by bus, every day, and are reported as doing well with their studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, of McComb, Ill.; Mrs. Charles Baumgardner and daughter, Miss Mary, Ipava, Ill., are visiting Mrs. David Hahn, Mrs. Laura Reindollar and Mrs. Albert Angell.

Miss Edith White, of Kingsdown, Kansas, who is a student at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, visited Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ritter and other relatives in Taneytown and vicinity the past week.

Rev. and Mrs. Irvin N. Morris announce the birth of James Irvin, on Saturday, March 2nd, at Taneytown. Miss Esther Morris, R. N. a sister of Mr. Morris is spending a few weeks at the Manse, as is Mrs. L. Binnix, mother of Mrs. Morris.

Mrs. William E. Ritter informs us that her son, Luther Ritter, will show pictures of their recent trip to the Pacific Coast, in the Lutheran church at Keyville, on Sunday evening, March 10, at 7:30 P. M. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

This week a male subscriber came to our office and commended our "Random Thoughts" in last issue. As we had plainly stated "This week we give the thought of others" the commendation extends only to the fact, of having selected good ones—and that, is something.

Mr. and Mrs. David Smith entertained to dinner on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, children Gloria Jean and George; Mr. and Mrs. George Ness and children, Gloria, Delores and Glenn and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowser and children, John, Loretta and Carl, all of York.

J. J. Wolf, popular young owner and proprietor of the J. J. Wolf's Garage, East Baltimore St., purchased the Conaway Garage, on Court Street, Westminster. The purchase price was $3320. Mr. Wolf plans to operate this garage specializing in Ford tractors. He will continue here with his Ford Sales and Service business.

At a recent meeting of the town council, Mayor Shoemaker reported a number of minor improvements on the streets of town during the past month. The question of limiting the time of parking of automobiles on the streets of the town was discussed. It was felt that some action should be taken along this line in order to relieve the situation of "all night" or "all day" parking.

Eighteen Odd Fellows and Rebekahs from Taneytown attended the meeting of the Manchester Rebekah Lodge on Tuesday, when in the presence of a large attendance of the members and visitors, the Rebekah Degree was conferred on two candidates. The work was done in a skillful manner. After the meeting refreshments were served.

We thank a large number of subscribers who have paid up their subscriptions, and the most of them paid ahead, during the past three months. There are still numerous others who should do likewise, as our aim is an all paid in advance list. Please examine the label on your paper. If the last figure is a 9, that means paid until 1939; if it is a 7, or 8 that's too bad and needs your prompt attention!

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Hesson, East Baltimore St., entertained at dinner on Sunday, in honor of their week-end guest, Miss Edith White, of Kingsdown, Kansas, a student of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. Other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide, Miss Doris Wilhide and Fred Wilhide, of Keyville; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hesson, Miss Olive Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Doty Robb and daughter, Mary Jo, of town.

A TRIBUTE TO COL. BIRNIE

Published by The Army Ordnance Association.

We reproduce the following from the December issue of "Army Ordnance" referring to the late Col. Rogers Birnie, that we are sure will be read with interest by those who knew him.

That this official tribute to him was fully merited, is beyond question of doubt. We regret that this information came to us unmarked, which explains why it was not published at an earlier date, and was finally found by chance.

"Col. Rogers Birnie, Army Ordnance medalist 1935, and a pioneer in the development of modern artillery, died at his home in Washington September 27, 1939, in his eighty-eighth year. Learned, kindly and always devoted to Ordnance, Colonel Birnie was the personification of the best traditions of the military service. He was genuinely admired by the countless officers and civilians with whom he came in contact during his long career.

Colonel Birnie, a native of Taneytown, Md., was born April 5, 1851, and was appointed to the Military Academy from that state. He was graduated a member of the Class of 1872 when he began his brilliant career in the Army. While inspector of ordnance at West Point from 1880 to 1886, he began his work on the construction of guns which later was to bring into being the general use of steel for weapons. Previously he had served as observer, Ninth Corps, French Army, in 1880. He was acting Chief of Ordnance of the Army, October 1912 to July 1913, and was president of the Ordnance Board 1913-1915. He was retired from active service, April 5, 1915.

In his epochal treatise "Gun Making in the United States," published in 1887, Colonel Birnie wrote: "No one will pretend to say that this gun of today is the culmination of science or that experiments or tests of promising systems should be discontinued. The argument is directed chiefly against the delay and procrastination which must be ever present with us if we continue to defer making guns in quantity so long as plausible designs continue to be put forward."

The Army Ordnance Association in 1935 chose Colonel Birnie, together with Bernard M. Baruch and the late Newton D. Baker, to receive its Medal of Merit. The citation which accompanied Colonel Birnie's award read as follows:

"For engineering skill and invention in the development of modern armament. The Ordnance Association acclaims Colonel Birnie as a leader in the field of modern construction and as a technical officer of exceptionally distinguished service to the Ordnance cause. In 1887, he presented a thesis before the Military Service Institution on 'Gun Making in the United States' which marked the beginning of a new era of metallurgical development in gun construction and modernized the entire theory and practice of gun design and manufacture."

To the memory of him whom the Army Ordnance Association honored in life, it now adds its final tribute. The researches of Col. Rogers Birnie, scientist, administrator, officer and gentleman, are of the highest importance to the things of peace no less than to those of war."

SMALLER NICKELS?

Why not? The government would be saving by using less metal. There is not enough difference in size between a quarter and a nickel. In fact the latter is slightly the thickest. As both contain heads in relief, and when new, both are very near the same in appearance—especially the new design nickel.

A slightly smaller and thinner nickel would be as popular as the smaller notes—reduced weight, and more distinctly different from the silver quarter.

Minting and designing could easily make the change—and the saving in cost of metal we are assuming, of course, that copper is cheaper than nickel.

BASE BALL FANS AND THE "SENATORS"

Those locally interested in the "Senators" team for 1940 will likewise be interested in what Buckey Harris has in mind, that he thinks will strengthen his team and place it in the first column this season.

He will transfer Buddy Lewis from third base to right field to create a vacancy at short for young Jimmy Pofahl, Cecil Travis moves over to third base. The change may be good for Lewis who has failed to improve as an infielder.

Pofahl and Gerald Walker obtained from Chicago, are strong right-hand hitters. Pofahl led the Association teams in number of hits until in June when he injured a wrist in sliding to a base, but even so finished with a record of 302, having made 35 doubles, 9 triples and 19 homers.

Wardell returns from Minneapolis to play first, with a batting record of 323, and 29 homers. Buddy remains at second. George Case and Sam West stay in the outfield and, Jake Early will assist Rick Farrell behind the box.

The pitching end is not so sure, but Leonard remains in the line-up, with a season's record of 20 games won and 5 lost. There is a string of new ones to be tried out. Among them is Sid Hudson, 6-ft. 4 inches, who in the Florida League won 24 and lost 4 games. The pre-season practice games should throw light on the general subject.

BANK BANDIT CASES ABOUT ENDED.

They were identified by Bank officials and others.

The following bank robbers went on trial in the U. S. District Court, Baltimore, on Monday, before Judge Coleman and a jury, as follows: Gerald Peabody, Highfield; Dallas H. Whipp, Frederick, formerly of Braddock Heights; William P. Dunnock, Baltimore; and Sidney J. O. Thompson, Easton.

Thompson had pleaded guilty in the Walkersville and Clear Spring cases, Whipp pleaded guilty in the Walkersville case, and Peabody and Dunnock pleaded innocent.

A number of witnesses testified among them being Mrs. Claggett, cashier of the Walkersville bank, who identified each robber individually, telling just what part he had in the hold-up. Rev. John W. Fisher also identified the four men, stating that all of them carried pistols.

Peabody and Thompson were identified by Geo. F. Hall, cashier, but George B. Rohrer, who entered the bank when the hold-up was in progress, identified Dunnock as the second man after he had first identified Peabody.

Attorneys for the prosecution summarized evidence that they would produce, giving in detail what officials of the law had discovered more completely covering the cases. At the conclusion of the day's testimony the court stated that the trial would be continued.

Dunnock, one of the bandits changed his plea from not guilty, to guilty, hoping thereby to get a lighter sentence. George Peabody is now the only one to hold to the innocent plea. Efforts are still being made in court to widen the case so as to include round-up of the operations of the gang.

HOMEMAKERS' CLUB MEETS.

The monthly meeting of the Taneytown Homemakers' Club took place on Thursday, March 7, at the Fireman's Building. The roll-call response for this meeting was "The Best Magazine Article I have read lately." Several important business matters were discussed, and a revision to the Constitution was adopted. The Homemakers then passed their approval on a Community Center project which will be sponsored by the Taneytown Club. A committee consisting of Miss Angela Annor, Mrs. Walter Bower, Mrs. Joseph Elliot, Mrs. George Harner and Miss Adeline Hoffman has agreed to begin work on the project.

Mrs. Bach, who is the County Chairman of a program to sponsor our getting acquainted with our South American neighbors, gave the first in a series of lectures on this subject. This lecture was mainly concerned with the people and geography of South America. Our project demonstrators, Mrs. Joseph Elliot took charge of a demonstration on "How to Buy and make Glass Curtains."

The project demonstrators wish to remind the club members of the special demonstration meeting to be held on Tuesday, March 19, at 2:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith.

FINNISH RELIEF FUND

Only $27,000 Yet Received Through State Committee.

The State Committee for Maryland of the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., has just sent another check for $1500 to Herbert Hoover, the national chairman, for civilian relief in Finland. With the amounts previously sent in this check raised Maryland's contributions to over $27,000.

The Committee is particularly grateful to the newspapers of the State for their support, and also the cooperation of the many banks, women's clubs and other organizations who have been active in the statewide campaign in behalf of the fund.

In connection with the recent appeal issued by Mr. Hoover for another million dollars to be contributed by the American public to the Finnish Relief Fund for the care of refugee women and children, the following letter has been received from John Jay Hopkins, Vice-Chairman of the national committee:

"The coin collection boxes have proved to be such a success that Mr. Hoover has decided to order a large quantity and to attempt a much more intensive coverage.

"Mr. Hoover will sincerely appreciate it if you will try to secure as thorough a coverage of your state with these boxes as possible. This plan, he feels, furnishes the best means available to capitalize upon the remarkable good-will which has been created for our Fund throughout the country."

Accordingly, collection boxes are now being distributed throughout the State, and it is hoped that the people of Maryland will consider this an opportunity to increase the contribution of our State to the Fund and to enhance the usefulness of the Fund's work.

W. FRANK ROBERTS, Chm.

THE ROAD IMPROVEMENT AT KEYMAR.

The State Roads Commission has announced that a new bridge will be built over Big Pipe Creek, at Bruceville, this year.

It is current report that the road will pass Mrs. Craig's property to the right from the present bridge; that it will then curve around Bruceville, avoiding the present steep hill and come back to the old road at this end of Keymar, and then on the present road through Keymar, on into Frederick county.

The new bridge will be higher and much longer than the old one. Just when construction work will be commenced, has not been stated.

PASTOR-ELECT ACCEPTS CALL.

The churches of the Uniontown Lutheran charge have received a communication from Rev. George E. Bowser, Jr., accepting the call extended to him last week to become pastor of the charge. He will begin his work on the field April 1st.

This will be the new pastor's first regular charge. He will be ordained in his home church, Leechburg, Pa., next Sunday. Rev. L. B. Hafer will continue to act as supply pastor for the remainder of this month.

FARM ELECTRIFICATION CONTEST.

Farm electrification will be stepped up throughout Maryland this year through the acceptance by the State Extension Service of the National 4-H Rural Electrification Contest. Full particulars may be secured from the local county agent. It is open equally to 4-H members on farms with and without electricity.

The contest is aimed to encourage and assist boys and girls to conduct a study of the values of electricity to a community, to determine practical uses in their homes, to do their part in adding to the conveniences and efficiency of the farm and home operation, and to develop an understanding of how electricity may be utilized in producing light, heat and power.

Many communities have benefited by past activities clubsters in this line, and in a number of cases county rural electrification committees have been organized as a result of 4-H sponsored lectures and exhibits.

The contest offers gold medals for county winners and all-expense trips to the 19th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 29 to Dec 7 for top State records. Six college scholarships of $200 each are provided with the other named awards by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for a national blue award group selected from State winners. No fee or obligation of any nature is involved.

KIWANIS CLUB MEETS.

The Kiwanis met at Sauble's Inn, Wednesday evening, with almost a hundred percent in attendance.

The Club was surprised with an unexpected visit of Lieutenant Governor Dr. Waitman Zinn, Baltimore. He was well pleased with the attendance and complimented the Club on the fine work they were doing.

The meeting was in charge of the boys and girls committee, with Jack Crapster, chairman. He outlined the work which the committee hopes to accomplish. Jack, introduced, Prof. Terry, of Blue Ridge College, who gave a most interesting safety talk with the aid of motion pictures.

Charles Ritter will have charge of the meeting for next week which is in charge of the Agriculture committee. A most interesting program has been planned. The Club hopes to have 100% in attendance.

THE BAR ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Elected after a Big Dinner was served.

The Carroll County Bar Association returned Monday to a practice established many years ago, but not always followed, of holding a dinner at the time for its annual meeting and election of officers.

The dinner was held at the Windsor Inn, with the Judges of the Circuit Court as guests. Persons present were: Chief Judge Francis Neal Parke, Associate Judges William H. Forsythe and Ridgely P. Melvin; Theodore F. Brown, president of the association; John M. Roberts, Chas. O. Clemson, Ralph H. Cover, D. Eugene Walsh, Rev. L. B. Hafer, James E. Boylan, Jr., Senator A. Earl Shipley, John Wood, Jr., Bruce Bair, George N. Fringer, Donald C. Sponseller, Ralph G. Hoffman, David H. Taylor and Lloyd P. Bowlus.

Ivan L. Hoff and Stanford I. Hoff were unable to be present on account of the death of Mrs. Ivan L. Hoff. The association ordered a letter of condolence to be sent to these two members.

At the close of the meal the following officers were elected: Theodore F. Brown, president; Ivan L. Hoff, vice-president; Ralph G. Hoffman, secretary, and D. Eugene Walsh, treasurer. Directors chosen were the four officers, together with Messrs. Boylan, Clemson and Cover.

A committee on By-Laws, consisting of Messrs. Boylan, Hoff and Clemson made a partial report. The committee was continued to recommend amendments at the next meeting. Messrs. Wood, Boylan and Cover were appointed a committee on admissions. Other committees will be announced later.

After the meeting the group were invited to the home of Ralph H. Cover to witness the showing of some fine motion pictures in the projection room of the home. Mrs. Cover served light refreshments.

A CONSOLIDATED MEETING OF AUTO CLUBS.

A consolidated meeting of the Board of Governors of the Home Office and the seven branches of the Automobile Club of Maryland was held at 12:30 P. M., on Thursday, February 29, at the Longfellow Hotel Baltimore. C. M. Falcomer, president of the Club, presided. Russell E. Singer, General Manager of the American Automobile Association, was the main speaker and delivered a most informative address on subjects confronting the motorists of today.

He stated that the organization of AAA School Boy Safety Patrols had done much toward reducing accidents among school children in the past five years and it is very seldom that an accident occurs to a child going to and from school where there is a well planned School Boy Safety Patrol functioning, he said. While in this period of time, he said, fatalities had reduced considerably in the age of from six to twelve, they had increased in other ages by leaps and bounds.

He brought out the fact that the greatest accident frequency now exists in the high school age and in an endeavor to relieve this condition, the AAA had instituted a safe drivers course known as "Sportsmanlike Driving" which is now functioning in over eight hundred high schools. Every high school in Cleveland, Ohio, is including this course in the regular curriculum, he said, and each school is using a "dual control" automobile in instructing the students in safe driving.

He urged the education of pedestrians in the observance of traffic signals at street intersections and stated that many large cities, including the District of Columbia, had enacted laws effecting the pedestrian and in cases of violation, they were arrested the same as a motor vehicle operator who had violated a traffic law.

The progress of highway transportation, diversion of road funds, the parking problem and the educational advantages derived by traveling were among the subjects included in Mr. Singer's address. Those attending the meeting from Westminster were: Charles W. Klea, A. L. Loy, Atlee W. Wampler, Jr., G. Raymond Sauble and Percy M. Burke.

SOME POLITICAL STRAWS.

The New Jersey Assembly voted on Monday, 41 to 14 against a third term for President Roosevelt.

The President's name was placed on the Pennsylvania preferential ballot, on Monday and will remain there unless withdrawn by Saturday. His name has also been presented in Wisconsin.

Other names prominently mentioned are Secretary Hall, James A. Farley, Paul V. McNutt, Senator Wheeler of Montana; Robert H. Jackson, Attorney-General, and of course Vice-President Garner.

Hon. Wm. P. Cole, Democrat, Second Congressional district, and Ambrose Kensev, Democrat, Fourth District, Maryland, will run again for Congress.

A state-wide fight continues between Senator Radcliffe and Mr. Bruce, seems to show the situation to be in doubt between the two, with perhaps the chances favoring Radcliffe.

There is no such thing as idle curiosity—all curiosity is busy.

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES.

The Situation is Unchanged. Is Quiet on Eastern Front.

Premier Mussolini, of Italy, strongly protests the English blockades of coal shipments from German territory into Italy. This is taken by many to mean that unless England backs down, Italy may openly back Germany against the Allies.

Early in the week the Finns were reported as victorious on three points against the Russian forces, in which about 1200 of the latter were killed.

One Swedish and two Dutch transports were reported to be sunk by German bombs.

The rift between England and Italy over the seizure of Italian ships carrying coal from Germany, seems to be growing wider. It is now complicated with a demand from England on Romania, for oil, at least equal to the amount of oil that Germany is getting. Nine Italian coal ships are reported to have been seized.

Piles of Russian dead are reported to have been left on the field by Russian forces, following an unsuccessful attempt to surround the Finnish forces.

Among other reports is one that England and France are cultivating better relations with Russia. Another is that Gibraltar is likely to be attacked from the air.

Peace proposals are said to be under way in Sweden to arrange a plan satisfactory to Finland and Russia. At present the neutrality of Sweden is preventing the sending of armed forces from the Allies, as it would be necessary to use Swedish territory to get them there.

The Queen Elizabeth, the largest and swiftest British vessel, arrived safely at New York, on Wednesday, having evaded submarine attack. To make the vessel safer it was painted gray, and was less visible.

Russia has offered peace terms to Finland, but they are reported to be unsatisfactory, and are not likely to be accepted.

Just what Mr. Welles, special representative of President Roosevelt, is accomplishing through his conference with the European powers, has not been made known. The chances seem to be that his visit will not help to bring about peace.

UNEMPLOYMENT CLAIMS.

Baltimore, March 6th—Friday, March 8, has been set by the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board as the first day for the acceptance of unemployment benefit claims based on earnings in the year 1939.

The first week in April will be the initial period for which benefits will be paid based on 1939 earnings. This means that although a worker may submit his first claim on March 8 he will still have to wait until the expiration of one week in April before he receives any pay. By advancing the date for the reception of claims the Board seeks to expedite the clerical work of the unemployment divisions so that payments can be made without delay.

Random Thoughts

NEW PUZZLES.

There are many new questions under the Sun, these days some of which puzzle us to find right answers. As the Cross word puzzle Architects now use the map, history and slang of the world to build their creations, they are not doing so in order to stimulate intelligence, but to aid in making such unreasonable demands on mental exercise as to discourage an otherwise commendable modern newspaper feature.

Our legislators and self-interest propagandists are doing the same thing. The average every day life and occupation already contains puzzles enough for the wisest to cope with, without having idealistic fancies and experiments added.

Among ourselves, even, we manufacture new habits that sometimes become new curses and expenses. Our entertainment features are sometimes over-indulged in, and become puzzles where there should be none.

"Minding our own business" that was once pretty closely adhered to, has been stretched to include a long list of items, until we do not know where our own business begins or ends.

"FUNNIES" AND ART.

We expect that Thomas H. Nast, who was a well known artist in this country during Civil War days—and later turned his talent to caricatures for Harper's Weekly, and who helped thereby to defeat Horace Greeley, editor of the N. Y. Tribune, who in his candidacy in 1872 attempted to defeat Greeley and Schurz for President and Vice-President—when Grant was candidate for election as President for the second term, is really responsible for the degradation of art as we now have it in so-called "Comic Strips."

At any rate, Nast popularized the influence of extravagant imagination as later shown by Happy Hooligan, Mutt and Jeff, Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs, the Gumps, and many other strip features that the average boy likes, and calls "the funnies." Maybe they have good standing as such, but we doubt it.

We say sometimes that actions speak louder than words, and it may be that these "funnies" are merely actions. "It may be too, that these 'funnies' inspire our smart boys to show disrespect to odd-shaped humanity, who can not help their facial of physical handicaps, and when this is true, 'funnies' is not the right word.

We do not know just how far "freedom of speech" is allowable, and an individual right, but when such comic strips, or comics of any sort, are used as a revenue encourager, we see no reason why they should not be specially taxed, by a government always eager to find something new to tax.

How long some of the well known fictitious characters may live, we do not know. Perhaps it will be long after the passing of the originator; in which case we suppose duplicates are already in training to fill in the breaks, in order that this class of "art" may be continued indefinitely; but we think it would be no loss to literature or art for them to go out, and stay out.

MR. LORD SPEAKS OUT.

Every now and then, we taxpayers get a new picture of where the money goes that comes from our tax payments. This time, it is Charles G. Lord, member of the House of Delegates from Baltimore county, who "lets the cat out of the bag" when he recently stated that eighty-eight door keepers who were paid about $8,300 to guard our legislative halls during the session of 1939, who alone represent a good-sized crowd in our little State House—if they were all on the job at the same time.

He thinks that three door keepers in each of the two houses, should be ample, and that the six should be paid $5.00 a day, and thereby save about $5,500 per session.

Mr. Lord seems not to be a regulation member of the legislature, who acts as though each biennial session is a persimmon tree gala affair, and that legislation is more or less an imposition on the pleasurable of the guest. Instead, Mr. Lord takes the job seriously, and would save dollars instead of distributing them among the faithful.

We guess Mr. Lord does not expect to go back again, and think he might as well state facts. He rather laments, too, that legislators get only $5.00 a day, the same as door keepers and parasites. We like your spunk, Mr. Lord, and we wish your tribe was more numerous.

FRANK R. KENT DISCUSSES MR. HOOVER.

The Record does not believe it will be in conflict with copyright restrictions to summarize a bit on Frank R. Kent's article "The Great Game of Politics" in last Sunday's Baltimore Sun, in his very kindly reference to Mr. Hoover. There was a time we think when Mr. Kent would hardly have written in the same vein, but, circumstances and conditions alter cases. He says in small part, in substance—

With a certain class of newspaper writers, when bereft of other ideas, sock Mr. Hoover as a sinister, scheming fellow, sour, selfish and devoid of shame, bent on capturing the nomination for the presidency for himself in order.

Probably the most degraded form that this smearing has taken is that Mr. Hoover's interest in behalf of Finland is inspired in by the hope of promoting himself politically; while the truth is that Mr. Hoover has become active on a direct personal request from the Prime Minister of Finland—an old friend—who insisted that the Polish people had remembered gratefully what he did for them twenty-five years ago.

That he is not a candidate for renomination, and should he by any chance be nominated, he would be greatly disturbed thereby. He is 68 years old and has no desire to take on the burden of a campaign. The chances that he will be renominated are too remote to discuss. He has not, and will not, take any steps in that direction. His interest is solely in having nominated some Republican who can be elected.

VARIABLE STATISTICS.

The following paragraph is informing, as far as it goes—

"The Civil Service Commission reports that the total number of Federal employees reached an all-time high in December—987,538. More than 127,000 of them live in the Nation's Capital."

The big question is—Where do these Washingtonian machine runners vote? We'd be willing to bet a nickel that most of the 127,000 get a day or two "off" at full pay, and vote in harmony with other jobs. Either that, or voting by mail, may be practiced.

Its a pity that our statisticians do not tell the whole story. And here is another from the same source, that should have a question mark attached.

"We owe our main attention now—industrial management, labor unions, government—to the business of speeding and strengthening economic recovery—of making more jobs, normal jobs in which hard work and intelligent cooperation will yield satisfaction and opportunity, jobs that will open doors too long closed to many of our people. This is our common problem, our common duty."

We doubt whether "normal jobs in which hard work," etc. will "open doors," are so much in demand unless they are strictly personal interests and profit is at the end of the job. Easy, rather than "hard" work is the prime object.

But, labor union, industrial units, individual standards of living, etc., are difficult to handle and bring them on a fair common ground. Yes, it is time to be on our way toward this end.

COMMENTS ON CENSUS QUESTIONS.

It is a pity that the objections naturally raised by many Americans against certain questions in the new census have been exploited for partisan ends in Congress. Equally unfortunate would be final approval of inquiries on income, mortgage payments and bathing facilities by a straight party vote, as happened in the House of Representatives.

The Democrats have shown that this is not the first time some very personal questions have been asked in Uncle Sam's enumeration of nephews and nieces. Representative Woodrum pointed out that back in 1907 when the Republicans were running the show inquiries touched on such things as breakfast menus and the number of petticoats possessed. Administration supporters also say business men have asked for some of the questions as a survey of purchasing power and that governmental social agencies need to know more about how Americans live.

Both of these arguments might well be questioned by non-partisans. If a Republican Administration invaded the privacy of citizens a similar invasion by a Democratic Administration does not automatically become right. If an action was wrong in 1907 the presumption would be that it is equally wrong in 1940. The real question is whether such invasions of privacy can be justified.

The argument that business men urge these questions is no justification. The citizen may need as much defense against business as against government. He is already too burdened with circulars and pressure selling. If business made a survey, it couldn't jail a man for not answering. One of the worst aspects of the whole matter is the assumption that for his own good, or for its concept of his own good, the Government can make the citizen disclose intimate information.

If the Government were as ideal and impersonal as we would like it to be this procedure would be more tolerable. But when enumerators may be neighborhood gossips or political hangers-on and when millions feel that Government is already encroaching too much on the individual who make criminals of citizens who wish to defend some of their privacy?

If the law remains it should be obeyed—unless for purposes of a court test—but it would be well for Congress to consider the question Senator Tobey asked Senator Bailey: "Would you be in favor of putting everybody in jail who didn't answer these questions?" The American people will give an instinctive answer to that question. Congress probably would give the same one. It ought not to sanction a law which goes contrary to its own and the people's feeling.—Christian Science Monitor.

"ISMS AND WASMS."

I think it was Bugs Baer who originated the term, and it is a good one and like many of his prophecies, clothed in humor, is likely to come true.

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty and that vigilance is manifesting itself splendidly in the Dies investigations now going on, and being published.

I have met Martin Dies personally, conferred with him in his office, dined with him, and consider him a safe sane American Congressman whose ambition is to serve his country. His committee should be continued.

He will show up evils that threaten our institutions, and bring resulting good if his recommendations are followed. He is a Democrat of the deepest dye (a real Jeffersonian) and with it all, a patriot and statesman of whom the Nation can feel proud.

He is blistering the "isms" that flourish here, sometimes in high places, and when the people get all the facts and information that the Dies committee develops, unless I mistake my guess; there "isms" will have passed into limbo and have become "wasms."

And why not? Why should we continue to permit a Madam Perkins (evidently communist minded) to permit to remain here the thousands of criminal Aliens that Congress has already ordered deported—an order she refuses to obey?

Why should the several million unnaturalized aliens be permitted to remain here, while other millions of American citizens are idle and cannot find employment?

Why shouldn't all immigration into our country be suspended until the ranks of unemployed are reduced to below the five million mark?

"Isms" may be practiced by American citizens, who debauch the name citizen by espousing these "isms," but "isms" are not American; They are alien, and should be banished.

We need more protection, and the exercise of greater care in our attitude toward isms. Banish them and large appropriations for defense will not be needed. W. J. H.

WHAT CHANCELLOR HITLER STANDS FOR.

In a speech in Berlin, on January 30, Chancellor Hitler said in part;

"This is the task of the German nation today. Eighty millions are now ready to step into the breach to face an enemy equal in numbers. Today our eighty millions possess an excellent internal organization unrivaled anywhere in the world. They are strong in faith and their leadership is not of the worst but, as I am fully convinced, the very best. Both Fuehrer and nation today know that there can be no settlement until we have clearly established our rights. We do not want to have to fight for our rights again in two, three or five years.

Here the rights, not of a party or of a movement, but of eighty millions are at stake. What am I? I am nothing but your spokesman, proclaiming your rights. The people have placed their trust in me and I shall prove myself worthy of that trust. In so doing I shall not cast my eyes upon myself and my surroundings but look into the past and into the future. It is my desire to acquit myself honorably in the eyes of the past and of the future, and that, together with me, the German people shall acquit themselves with honor.

The present generation is the bearer of Germany's destiny, Germany's life or Germany's death. Our enemies are shouting: Down with Germany. To that, Germany will always give the one unyielding answer: Germany will live and therefore Germany will be victorious. Today, at the beginning of the eighth year of the National Socialist Revolution, our hearts turn to our German nation and its future. Its future we shall serve. For it we are prepared to fight and, if need be, to die; we will never surrender, for Germany must and will be victorious!"

DOG'S LIFE.

"It's a dog's life indeed," sighed the mutt. "Here it is March 1st, again and taxes are due. Alvin Moxley, up there in Rockville, will be down on my neck if I don't find some way to get my dog tax paid up again. Seems like every time I turn around it's something."

"Let's see. Last year we (my boss and I) hauled ashes and split wood and this year it's running errands just to get a couple of bucks to keep me going to the pound." He shuddered. "Yes, if it's not one durned thing it's another. Just suppose some time my boss couldn't pay the bill."

"And what's furthermore, where's all this justice these human beings are talking about? 'Taxation without representation is tyranny,' eh? Well, why don't they let me get down there in Congress and see if I can't do as well as some of those birds about this tax business? Believe me, we dogs oughta get together. We oughta unionize. We oughta have a Boston Tea Party or something. We'll demand our rights, is what. We're taxpayers, ain't we?"

"Trouble with this country is," he murmured, thoughtfully scratching at a flea, "it's the guys as does the worrying as gets it in the neck. I'm the cuss that worries and Lord knows I do my best and you gotta admit I'm hampered. Yes, sir, it's little Fido who goes to the pound when the tax bill isn't paid. Maybe it's the same sort of thing that's worrying these businessmen I hear about.—Bethesda (Md.) Journal.

'Little Sheriff' Digs Up Gold for 50 Years at Home

Makes Good Living Panning Streams and Low Spots On Plantation.

MORGANTOWN, N. C.—The half-dozen little specks looked bigger when Miss May Mills said they were gold. Carefully, with expert little swishing motion of the heavy iron pan, rifled on one slope, she let the water wash away the gravel and sand. "Not everybody can pan gold right," she said.

But Miss May Mills of Brindletown can. She ought to. For 50 years she has panned the streams and low places of her Burke county "gold plantation" and it is no trick at all for her to walk back of her house and pan out some "color," as she called it, for visitors.

For 50 years Miss May Mills, locally known as "the little sheriff," has made a good living from gold, and she has never mined a step off her own property. For many years, her father profitably mined the land, and his father before that. First discovery of the precious metal was made in 1828—21 years before the California rush—by a sailor walking home to New England, and operations have proceeded almost continuously ever since.

Plenty of It There.

The Forty-niners' rush took the gold-mad horde pell-mell to the West, but it didn't sweep the Brindletown folks away. Gold in this section did not come in great prosperous hunks, but plenty of it was there; washed down into the low places from undiscovered veins in the hills. The family stuck to its knitting. Most of the various types of placer mining have been used, beginning with the crude cradle-rocker washed with a stream piped 10 miles over the mountains. More ambitious machinery has moved in, mined profitably, and moved out. For months—even years—operations have lagged. But ever and anon when a bit of gold was needed—as it often was—the old iron gold pans came back out, and little sacks of dust were collected. Miss Mills toddled along stream banks before she was old enough for first grade and panned for the sheer fun of it. The fascination has never left her; her deep gray eyes still glow with gold-fever, and her conversation is easily turned to stories of mining and of the possibilities which her long-harvested gold farm still contains. At present, her mining at Brindletown will shortly be resumed on a grandiose scale, now that the price of gold makes such operations profitable.

Miss Mills confessed that there was no reliable cure for the bite of the goldbug, but she doesn't care. She pursues gold with the same quiet energy and determination that, in other circumstances, have led the valley folk to name her "The Little Sheriff."

Solves Knotty Problems.

"Go get the little Sheriff," is a command that has solved many a knotty problem, curbed many a disagreement, healed many a sickness. Despite her courteous manner, the Little Sheriff's power is widely respected in Brindletown. Daughter of a renowned Confederate soldier, her soft voice is the voice of authority, her snug stone-and-log lodge a fortress of resourcefulness and generosity. Here she lives alone, remote from the nearest house, guarded only by her pack of dogs, and her guns stacked in a corner.

Because of her education, poise and calm courage, the Little Sheriff is the acknowledged leader of the community. But also, one suspects, she has gained enormous respect because she took over her father's gold farm alone and made it pay while other occasional miners in the region pecked away futilely or went to other fields.

Now they say that as soon as the new road is finished, heavy machinery will move in again and placer operations resumed. The Little Sheriff, carefully picking out the gold dust from the pan, said the neighbors were probably right.

Pheasant Upsets Town

But Statute Protects It

WILLOWS, CALIF.—Local residents are wondering if California's laws for the protection of pheasants shouldn't be revised for the protection of human life and property.

A pheasant which flew into town at a terrific speed knocked out a plate glass window, lost some of its feathers tearing through a canvas awning, flew through a crowd of men who scattered in all directions, nearly nipped off the ear of Enos Jensen, twice circled the Tank Service station and then left the city in peace.

Man Discovers Missing

$90 in Friend's Vest

NEW YORK.—Ninety dollars, missing a year, popped up recently neatly tucked in the vest pocket belonging to the loser's friend. Raymond Harvey, loser of the money, went ice skating last fall in Madison Square Garden with his friend, Kenneth Mygatt. Harvey, getting ready to take a shower, tucked nine $10 bills into a vest in the locker he shared with Mygatt. The money turned up when Mygatt sent a suit he had stored away for a year to the cleaners.

FEESERSBURG.

March came in like a lamb, cool and bright; the month for Easter—the resurrection-time; for St. Patrick and the dear Irish songs; for the annual return for the robins; for the commencement of spring—on the 20; and according to the American Indians—the time of "the wild-geese moon." Its gem is the Blood stone—for courage; its flower the Jonquil—for affection.

Saturday proved to be another day of rain, hail and snow all gently falling down. Altho we heard much of the wonders of the evening sky, have not had many clear evenings, for star gazing; only that great sparkler—Jupiter was visible thro fog and mist sometimes and the four planets, venus, mars, Jupiter, Saturn will be making a fine display this month.

Mrs. Robert Bostian and children, Kenneth and Beverly, spent the first part of last week with our former neighbors, the Sterling Lescalleet family east of Westminster.

A message from Raymond K. Angel of Catsonsville, tells us he is recovering from a mean cold, and his daughter, Mary Mrs. Robert Barthel—is now in Maryland University Hospital where she was operated on for appendicitis on Saturday morning, and is doing as well as can be expected. Her husband underwent a similar operation in the Hospital at Christmas time.

Mrs. Addie Crumbacker is off to spend the week with Mrs. M. McKewin, in Baltimore, and attend the funeral of her cousin, Miss Laura Griffith, who passed away Saturday night at her home on N. Calvert St. She had been in failing health for several years and her sister, Miss Carrie Griffith was her faithful attendant—who recently returned from Union Memorial Hospital where her Doctor sent her three weeks for a complete rest. Funeral service was at the home on Tuesday morning and burial in Loudon Park cemetery.

Such a very inclement Sunday only 43 were present at Mt. Union Sunday School in the morning. Rev. L. B. Hafer, of Taneytown, conducted the Preaching Service which followed, speaking earnestly on the theme: "The Christians Individual Battle," and urged all to "fight the good fight of faith." Mrs. Mary W. Crabbs was organist in the absence of Miss Louise Birely, whose parents are recovering from their recent illness, but haven't descended from the second floor yet. Owing to the weather and bad condition of the roads, there was no C. E. meeting in the evening.

Frank P. Bohn has secured electrical employment with the Glen L. He and Scott Crabbs, who has been one of the employees the past year, travel together to and fro each day; early to rise and return home about 7:00 P. M.

Hurrah! one real sleigher called on Wednesday of last week, Jesse Lescalleet, who took our brother for a short ride. Had a beautiful dark horse with a miscellaneous outfit; as the sleigh once belonged to Charles C. Haugh, the bells on the shafts were Dr. Diller's; the saddle chimes purchased of Frank Rowe, neck bells from Wilbur Devilbiss. Another string of bells from Ornie Hyde. Now that's keeping one's friends in remembrance.

Cars may come, and cars may go. So L. K. Birely has purchased a new Ford De Luxe, which looks just like all the other "turtles" on the road.

The by-roads have been almost impassable over the week-end some park their cars on the hard road and walk to their destination; others try the soft roads and get fast in the mud—requiring assistance to get to safe passage again; then there are the very reckless ones—who skid on the icy highway, bounce off, car turning over a few times, and all picked up as wrecks; but they were only going at 90 miles an hour.

FACT THAT "WE CAN'T BE SEEN" MAKES IT EASY TO NEGLECT PHONE MANNERS

Local Bell Companies Stress
Need for Courtesy in Conversations

It's easy to pick up a telephone, carry on a conversation, then slam the telephone down. It's easy to be cross and snappy in telephone conversations. It's easy to shout over the wire—it's easy, yes, but why is it done? Because the person at the other end of that wire can't see who he is talking to! That makes all the difference in the world. In a face-to-face conversation we wouldn't finish our talk, then slam the door. We would say "good-bye" politely. We wouldn't shout in somebody's face and chances are we would think twice before being cross and snappy. But with a good many of us that telephone makes courtesy and personality unnecessary. We are just "talking over a wire" and if nobody can see us, why worry?

But according to employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies we should worry. Actual surveys made by local Bell System companies prove that courtesy and personality in our telephone conversations bring results. Take, for example, the telephone directory pictured above. It is suffering from "cobwebitis," which means that its owner, instead of looking up his number, has been trying to call from memory. This is a sure way of irritating you and the person you called by mistake. BE SURE OF THE NUMBER. If you are not sure it will save time and wear and tear on the nerves to look up the telephone number in the directory. It will bring results.

Answering a telephone by simply saying "hello" may be a good guessing game, but it probably won't put the called party in a very good frame of mind. In business always answer by giving your name.

Don't create a bad impression by constantly interrupting a telephone conversation. Be attentive. You wouldn't interrupt a face-to-face conversation and the same rules of etiquette apply in telephone conversation.

The observance of these and other simple rules of courtesy will aid in developing your telephone personality. Remember them the next time you telephone.

If you are not sure it will save time and wear and tear on the nerves to look up the telephone number in the directory. It will bring results.

Answering a telephone by simply saying "hello" may be a good guessing game, but it probably won't put the called party in a very good frame of mind. In business always answer by giving your name.

Don't create a bad impression by constantly interrupting a telephone conversation. Be attentive. You wouldn't interrupt a face-to-face conversation and the same rules of etiquette apply in telephone conversation.

The observance of these and other simple rules of courtesy will aid in developing your telephone personality. Remember them the next time you telephone.

But according to employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies we should worry. Actual surveys made by local Bell System companies prove that courtesy and personality in our telephone conversations bring results. Take, for example, the telephone directory pictured above. It is suffering from "cobwebitis," which means that its owner, instead of looking up his number, has been trying to call from memory. This is a sure way of irritating you and the person you called by mistake. BE SURE OF THE NUMBER. If you are not sure it will save time and wear and tear on the nerves to look up the telephone number in the directory. It will bring results.

Gold Filling.

A human skull, unearthed near Rattlesnake Bar, Calif., during mining operations, was turned over by the finder, who didn't like bones, to a Chinese miner. The Chinese didn't like human skulls either, but something glittered through the eyeless sockets and he took it down to the nearby stream and washed it. The dirt about the skull contained an ounce of gold and inside the skull was a nugget weighing 10 ounces.

Baltimore . . . About 250 million miles of cotton yarn—enough to encircle the world 10,000 times — are washed in a single year in the factories of the Western Electric Company, manufacturing organization of the Bell System. It was found that washing makes this cotton 100 times better as an insulator for telephone wires.

Colombo . . . One of the largest installations of dial telephone service ever made in the tropics has settled a 60-year old problem for Colombo, capital and principal city of Ceylon. To cope with the very humid climate of Colombo, which is only seven degrees from the equator, it was necessary to provide the apparatus with a special tropical finish and to air-condition the operating rooms of the three exchanges where it will be installed with dehydrating plants which maintain a prescribed humidity at all times. Ceylon had its first telephone only four years after the art was invented by Alexander Graham Bell. Telephony had been demonstrated in Ceylon in 1879 and in 1880 the first line was installed.

New York . . . Telephone service is the sum of many tiny things. For instance, the miniature fuses on the distributing frame in a large long distance telephone center like that of New York are called "grasshoppers." When one of the 120,000 little fuses blows, a lamp lights, a bell rings, and the "legs" of the "grasshopper" stick out so that in a second or so the fuse is located and replaced. It is "grasshoppers" like this that have put speed and reliability into telephone service.

Weston . . . The fact that they have a telephone in their bedroom and that the wife goes to work early in the morning probably saved Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Darr of Weston, W. Va., from death by carbon monoxide poisoning. Realizing that something was wrong when he woke and found his wife collapsed, Mr. Darr turned toward the telephone which was on the other side of the room. He collapsed before reaching it, but he did not lose consciousness and was able to drag himself to the telephone and call for aid, which came quickly.

Cairo . . . Sometime ago negotiations were started between the Egyptian and Sudanese governments for the installation of a telephone line between the two countries. The 1,360-mile telephone line will be built at an estimated cost of $162,000.

Pittsburgh . . . A telephone call from an alert resident saved an Army pilot from a possible crash when the flier became lost in a snow storm above the Pittsburgh, Pa., district, according to the United Press. Through the telephone call attaches at Allegheny County airport radioed the pilot, Lieut. O. Mohler, his position and instructed him how to proceed to the airport. Lieut. Mohler and a passenger, Capt. W. Anderson, landed safely a few minutes later, their fuel supply almost exhausted.

Rat Killing Champions

Two brothers, Raymond and Wayne Swartz, claim the rat killing championship of Missouri. They killed 410 in one day at Bethany.

Telephone Work Is Interesting Because Of Unusual, Exciting And Humorous Problems

Request For Lemon Pie Recipe Is Example Of Odd Questions Asked

Pick anyone of the thousands of employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies, ask them if their work is interesting and a unanimous answer will be "yes." And they have reasons to back up that answer. As one young lady put it, "the work is interesting because we are constantly running up against unusual, exciting and humorous problems."

For example, one of these unusual problems had nothing to do with telephone service. A young lady in a local telephone business office received a call from a housewife who wanted to know the recipe for a lemon pie. Instead of refusing the request, the alert employee thought for a moment and was soon able to tell the customer where she could get a "recipe for a lemon pie."

Then, there was the case of the subscriber who wanted to save money. He called and inquired about the cost of installing one of the newer type telephones to replace his old one. When he had the information he made the classic remark that "for half-price I'll take a second-hand one." After some explanation he was convinced that the company had no second-hand telephones. He took a "new" one.

Still another subscriber was asked a simple question in regard to a minor business matter.

"What is your telephone number?" the girl asked the subscriber.

Disregarding the question the subscriber answered "I was born in 1880 in a little town in Virginia. I am married and have five children. My husband is employed—"

"But," interrupted the telephone employee, "that information isn't necessary, all I want is your telephone number."

Again the question was ignored and the subscriber chatted merrily for several minutes until she had completed a thumb-nail sketch of her family history. (P. S. The telephone employee finally got the number.)

It is such incidents as these occurring day in and day out that make telephone work so interesting.

Damp Closet Remedy

Closets are likely to become damp during prolonged wet periods, and this will frequently result in mildewed clothing. Several methods of absorbing dampness are available, but one of the cheapest and most effective is by turning on an electric light in the closet and letting it burn continuously with the door closed until the trouble has disappeared. Quicker results are obtained when the light is placed near the floor, as this position aids circulation of the heat. A lamp of 25 watts is usually sufficient for the average closet. The home owner should avoid placing the bulb where it would come in contact with clothing and thus create a fire hazard.

Tin Roof Should Be Painted

Most roofing authorities recommend that the tin roof be painted immediately upon installation and every two years thereafter. In cases where galvanized sheet metal is used, the roof should not be painted for at least six months after installation, as this period of conditioning is necessary to free the surface from acids which otherwise may tend to loosen the paint. Peeling paint should be removed with steel wool, sandpaper, or a wire brush before new paint is applied.

Ivory By-Products

Nothing is wasted in the use of ivory. Scraps and shavings are carefully hoarded and made into dust for polishing, India ink and even food in the form of ivory jelly.

RENO MONEY

By PHYLLIS GALLAGHER
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

JEANNE pulled the dress over her golden curls and began the feminine ritual of primping, not proudly, but from a habit that had begun at sixteen, five years ago, when she had discovered the importance of makeup.

She wondered about that now. It was important before marriage, but what about afterwards?

Makeup or no makeup she was always beautiful to Ned.

"Honey!" Ned would say. "I'd love you if you were bald!"

Ned always expected that to enrapture her. But it didn't. It hurt her.

Why select clothes with discrimination, work over lashes and complexion when Ned wouldn't notice?

Jeanne rather slammed her face together now, for Ned wouldn't care and she didn't primp for other men. Not yet!

Then she went over to the twin beds and with a struggle—she was only five feet and none too hefty—brought forth an envelope marked Reno Money which she had hidden from Ned.

It bulged with frugal savings from the housekeeping budget. She hated cutting on Ned's food.

Mrs. Worthington, next door, had done that and for months afterwards told how thin Mr. Worthington got while she "was starving the Reno money out of him!"

Monotonous? That was it! Her life was monotonous! Ned was monotonous! He wasn't like other women's husbands, smoking, burning holes in the furniture, flashing a promiscuous eye—things to inspire arguments. Consequently, they had no blissful nights of reconciliation.

Ned was handsome enough, at least she had once thought so. But was he? If he were handsome other women would flirt with him at parties. True, Ned didn't give them much encouragement. He always cornered some duffer, old as sin, for an economic discussion.

Even if a dozen men rushed Jeanne, Ned wouldn't notice. Jealousy was foreign to him.

After one party she had probed, hopefully, "What do you really think of so many men rushing me, Ned?"

"They've damn good taste!" he answered, yawning. And then, "Gosh! Two a. m.! My head'll be an army blimp at dawn!"

Jeanne thrust the Reno Money in her purse, slammed a pillow hat over one determined blue eye and banged the door behind her.

Walking rapidly in the clear gold noon, her rebellion rose.

She didn't know quite what she wanted; not other men.

There were wives trying that pancea but Jeanne Evans would use her Reno Money before she'd sink to that!

She wanted only to feel on tip-toe again . . . thrilled with today . . . uncertain of tomorrow!

Suddenly, she found herself in Washington park near a bench that she and Ned had sat on one spring afternoon, two years ago.

She stopped and stared at it, an aching lump in her throat.

She was remembering a party where Ned had escorted ebony-haired Eunice Walters, a visitor from Paris. Ned had acted with Eunice that night very much as he acted with the economic duffers. Jeanne had left early, and for five days she had nursed her wound and refused to see him. They had met, accidentally, at this very bench. She could imagine Ned beside her on it.

"Jeanne! Eunice Walters means nothing to me!"

His eyes had implored her to understand.

She hadn't been sure of Ned then. "I just wouldn't marry a two-timer, Ned!"

It was silly remembering all that now. Ned Evans, two-timing! . . . Jeanne started off hurriedly. She couldn't bear to think of that vanished Ned.

On State street Jeanne paused before Marker cafeteria's pastry display. Ned loved French brioche and when she started in to buy some, she stopped suddenly, her eyes dilated.

Ned was at a lacquered table with the most ravishing brunette that Jeanne had ever beheld! In the brief second she stood doubting her eyes, she saw the woman reach over and touch Ned's arm, possessively! And Ned chuckled!

In a poignant revelation, Jeanne realized that she hadn't tried for a long while to make Ned chuckle!

Jeanne backed out and leaned in-ertly against the window-pane.
Emotions conflicted.

She wanted to rescue Ned from that insolently beautiful hussy; she wanted to march off to Reno and never, never see him again!

But she didn't do either.

Instead, she spent her Reno Money, spent it all quickly for a finger-wave, dresses, a Bruges lace negligee that trailed over impudent satin mules.

When Ned came home that evening he stared at Jeanne with such dark eyes that her heart trembled beneath the new magenta dress.

He had stared like that once long ago . . . Did he look like that because he was remembering someone dark and lovely? She had to know about that woman . . . this minute! They were in the living room and Ned slouched to the divan.

Jeanne cuddled near, a nervous finger tucking in his breast pocket. "Have a trying day, angel?"

"Sort of," Ned sighed. And then: "I hope dinner's on time. I'm starved."

"Gracious! You sound as if you hadn't had lunch!" she said promptly. That opening! From heaven itself!

Ned looked up quickly. When he kept staring, she wanted to cry out, panic-stricken, "Ned! Tell me about that woman!"

"I had a rotten lunch," Ned said, calmly. "Jim Walker and his wife were in Marker's and that darned woman gabbed so much she forgot her milk and butter and . . . well, she kept Jim and me hopping back to the counter every minute for something. By the time she was all set, I was late for a client. Ever seen her, Jeanne?"

Jeanne's lids drooped with relief? She believed Ned.

No matter if she had heard that chuckle, if she hadn't seen Jim Walker at all! She was thinking fast now. Even if what Ned had explained were true, and it probably was—or was it?—there were stenographers in Ned's office just as lovely as Mrs. Walker, and unattached. Funny she hadn't thought of that part of Ned's life, his temptations.

Jeanne's jaw set.

From now on life was full.

Ned wouldn't keep on loving her, if she were bald. Not in a world full of Mrs. Walkers! Why hadn't she realized before that holding a man was as thrilling as catching him!

She sighed wanly.

"No-o-o. I've never seen her, dearest. Is she pretty?"

"Pretty?" Ned chuckled. "Gosh, no!"

Ned wasn't chuckling over Mrs. Walker not being pretty. He was chuckling because he was having one great time listening to Jeanne's "dearests" and "angels" . . . names she hadn't called him for one heck of a long time. When he drew her into his arm, her cheeks flushing bright at the contact, he thought he must be dreaming!

And he wondered and puzzled over this change in Jeanne, he struck on a happy, irrelevant thought: "Guess it'll be safe now to buy a new car with that dough I've been saving up to add to Jeanne's Reno Money that she's been hiding for months under the mattress."

Rabbit Fur Is Popular
With American Women

In touch with the times, rabbits—not the kind that run wild, but those that provide half the fur coats, neck-pieces and muffs for American women—are becoming streamlined.

The American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association believes the most attractive animal fur is the long, sleek "Havana Satin," which featured a new and important development—a glossy coat.

Free of the rough guard hairs of the common domestic strain, this new type offered to furriers a pelt short, soft, uniform in texture, possessed of an unusual, natural sheen.

Rabbit breeders are considered almost as important to furriers of this country as those men who provide sable, ermine and exotic brands. Although foreign furs are more expensive, the rabbit, simulating other animal pelts, is offered to the fur-conscious public in great quantities. Nubian seal is one type rabbit fur. There are 21 other legal trade names.

Annual shows are held to exhibit improvements and developments of old strains, and the origin of new ones, to commercial breeders. The fanciers, those who breed rabbits as a hobby, are "laboratory technicians" or the rabbit fur industry. With time for experiment and without too many animals to occupy their attention, they are constantly introducing new fur or changing old style pelts.

Regulations of the association require a new breed to be exhibited three successive years before gaining recognition as a genuine "new model." Then, the breeder must show proof of some characteristic to justify this breeding innovation independent of other types.

Most breeds can be traced to Europe, and the bulk of the show rabbits are descendants of rabbits prevalent as far away as Patagonia and India hundreds of years ago.

A new line starts when a breeder sees a mutation, an unpredictable freak, in a litter. Always weak, the freak requires introduction of vitality, then over a six-year period the strain is strengthened. A likely offspring is mated back to the parent. This is repeated for five generations, when a cross is made with another branch of the now very large family. The six years, 12 generations, produces a true breed, a literal thoroughbred.

Bunglesome Burglar

The only thing a bunglesome burglar didn't do wrong in Philadelphia one night recently was to shoot himself with his own gun. As he entered the apartment of Miss Evelyn Daetsch through a window he tripped over an electric cord. With a thump and a clatter, he and a coffee pot to which the cord was attached went to the floor. The noise awakened Miss Daetsch, who screamed. The panicky burglar quickly seized a handgun and scuttled down a fire escape. As he ran the catch of the handgun loose and out tumbled its contents.

Endurance: Frank Oliver, Reuters correspondent, in New York for a brief visit after several years in the Far East, told of a conflict with Japanese military authorities at Peiping because he published a story about a Jap sentry slapping the wife of the governor. The Japs demanded a retraction but, insisting that the story was true, Oliver stood pat. The day after the military inquiry, 40 Jap buglers appeared in the vicinity of his residence. One Jap bugler is terrible, he said, so it is easy to imagine what 40 of them could do. It was hard to take but he just sat back and let them bugle. They kept it up for three days. Then the newspaper man was again summoned before the generals. They informed him that the story having been found true, they were ready to apologize. And with that, bugle practice ended abruptly.

Gotham Gadabout: Dinah Shore in a Radio City drug store singing the alma mater song of Vanderbilt U with two former classmates . . . Benay Venuta at a Broadway milk bar drinking a chocolate mix . . . Crowds during the luncheon hour stopping to watch pirouetting figures at the Rockefeller Center ice rink . . . Bea Wain, hatless, in a CBS lounge, signing up members for her "Hats-off-in-the-movies" campaign . . . Johnny Green, observing a vagrant picking up a butt, offering him a cigarette and being refused with the comment, "It ain't my brand" . . . Shopkeepers idly staring from windows and wondering when the public will recover from the holidays.

Going Up: James Stewart, of the movies, was the 4,000,000th visitor at the Empire State building tower recently. Stewart, who received the motion picture critics' award for the best performance given by a male screen star during 1939 for his work in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," was accompanied by Miss Olive Cawley, of New York. Being connected with pictures, Stewart naturally had a picture postcard made of himself and his companion. Incidentally since the tower was opened on May 31, 1931, it has had visitors from every country in the world. Despite the war, they are still coming. During a recent week, representatives of 35 countries, other than our own, were registered.

New York: Dick Todd, youthful singer from Montreal: "New York is a funny town. While they were tearing down the Sixth avenue elevated they were tearing up Sixth avenue to build a subway" . . . Milt Herth, organist from Kenosha, Wis.: "New Yorkers risk injury to duck into a section of a rapidly moving revolving door, saving, at the most, two seconds. Then they waste hours watching a building being constructed or two taxicab drivers engaged in an argument" . . . Kay Kyser, orchestra leader from Rocky Mount, N. C.: "A New Yorker will religiously remove his hat in a hotel elevator. But he will remain seated in the subway or a bus while an aged woman, loaded down with bundles, totters precariously in front of him."

Lesson: Abe Lyman recently saw in a Broadway movie house a film of the Dempsey-Willard fight in 1919 when Dempsey tore the giant Willard to ribbons. "He babied Willard compared with what he did to me one night," Lyman commented on his way out. "I confided to Jack my secret ambition to become a prize fighter. He took me to his private gym and said, 'Abe, this is going to hurt me more than it will you but I've got to knock that notion out of your head.' Then he let me have it." P. S.—Lyman and Dempsey are pals.

End Piece: Encountering a friend on Broadway, Frank Luther recalled that he hadn't seen him in some time and had heard things weren't going so well with him.

"How's business?" he inquired.

"Business is a little weak," was the reply, "but not from lack of rest."

SCRANTON, PA.—A defendant in court here was acquitted of bootlegging charges when he explained that his still was to make cough medicine for his 15 children.

Sunday School Record

Perfect for 39 Years
SHELTON, CONN.—Miss Ethel G. Smith has attended Sunday school every week for 39 years without missing a session.

The International Cross and Crown society, organized in 1902, had honored her each year since that date by awarding her a gold link.

Several times, she said, she arose from a sick bed to attend school so as not to spoil her perfect attendance record.

Old Westerner Relates How He Arrested Train

SNOW HILL, MD.—John Young Doak, who plowed record-making furrows of 200 miles in 1879, celebrated his ninety-first birthday here—behind a plow.

Doak's long furrows measured nearly 200 miles on each side of the Kansas Pacific railroad between Wilson, Kan., and Denver. For 47 days Doak and five other plowmen worked the long route so that grass between the furrows and the rails might be burned, saving cattle lands from the danger of sparks from passing locomotives.

Doak, making a fresh start after building a fortune and losing it, paused in his birthday plowing to recall the time he "arrested" a train at Republican City, Nev.

"The railroad owed me a bit of money for burning grass," he said, "so I got a writ and stopped their train. And I didn't let 'em go until they paid me."

Rich Silver Mine Proves Geologists Were Wrong

KELLOGG, IDAHO.—The greatest silver-producing mine in the United States—the Sunshine—has proved that geologists can be wrong.

Located in what is called a dry ore belt, the mine when first begun was regarded by geologists and mining engineers as of little importance. Then the fabulous silver strike was made.

Later they said that when the shaft reached a certain depth silver would be replaced by lead or copper. It was not.

The same prediction was made when two other formations were reached. They were wrong.

How wrong they were is shown by the fact that for every 100 feet of depth, the Sunshine mine has produced 2,000,000 ounces of silver.

Fireman Braves Flames To Rescue Wailing Pup

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Fireman Paul Zahm dashed through flames to the second story of a burning home, seeking to rescue a "baby" whose wails, heard above the crackle of embers and clanging bells, indicated it was trapped in a bedroom. Several minutes later Zahm emerged, his eyes watering from smoke but a grin on his sweaty face. Under his arm was the "baby"—an Irish setter pup, still whimpering.

Thieves Break Patience Of Patient Housekeeper

WEBSTER, MASS.—Louis Faucher is a patient man, but there is a limit to everything.

He didn't mind it so much when he learned thieves had stolen an outside fireplace from his cottage—what really roused his ire was the fact that the thieves used his wheelbarrow to cart it away.

Ship Raiders Lose Sting, Officer Says

Finds Conditions Different From World War.

BOSTON.—Ernst Rudolf Heitzmann, captain of the self-interred Nazi oil tanker Pauline Friedrich and a hero of one of Germany's greatest naval exploits of the World war, predicts that small raiders will play only a minor role in the current war.

This war, the curly haired, 62-year-old seadog says, will produce nothing like the 15-month exploit of the German raider Wolf, which claimed capture of 14 vessels and the damaging or sinking of 14 others.

"Battleships and cruisers may get through blockades, but not slow ships like the Wolf, on which I served under Capt. Karl August Nerger as warrant officer. In those days we did not have to worry about airplanes looking us up. Today how could a vessel like the Wolf, which did only 11 knots, get away?"

The Wolf, whose adventures were chronicled in a recent best seller, covered 64,000 miles in the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans without putting into port for supplies. During most of the time the Allies were unaware of the ship's existence.

When the Wolf returned to Kiel February 24, 1938, Heitzmann was awarded an Iron Cross for his part in the exploit. "Captain Nerger," he says, "was ready for anything, but he knew when to take a chance and when not to. That's how he got us home."

Despite the shortage of food at times and the fact that the crew was on board ship without any contact with the world for 15 months, Heitzmann says he would do it all over again if he had the chance.

If there is a raider like the Wolf at sea now, Heitzmann believes some of his old shipmates probably are aboard. Captain Nerger, however, never can go to sea again because of poor sight.

Once after the war Heitzmann met an American seaman who had been a prisoner on the Wolf.

"What did I say? Why, I said what all sailors say, 'Have a drink.'"

Lad 'Hitches' Ride Straight to Cell

ROME, GA.—A youth stood on the road near Rome to thumb a ride. Along came an auto driven by two men who didn't mind giving a stranger a lift. But the lad proved to be no stranger, at least not to the two county policemen in the auto. And the lad's lift was a free ride to jail, where he was being held as an escaped convict.

GETHEMSENE: TRIUMPH THROUGH SURRENDER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 26:36-46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Not as I will, but as thou wilt.—Matthew 26:39.

Surrender brings victory.

The world would say that our statement is not true; surrender is the mark of defeat. It is the final chapter in a story of struggle against impossible circumstances, against a stronger power, and finally of giving up to accept the bitter sorrow of subjection and sometimes destruction. But again we say, the way of strength is through surrender, for we speak of the spiritual realm and of our relationship to God. Here there is no victory until there is surrender. In fact, the measure of victory is the degree of surrender. Full submission to Christ means complete triumph for the Christian. The Lord Jesus does not ask His disciples to walk a way which He has not trod Himself. He went the way of full surrender to the will of God in the garden of Gethsemane. We observe five things about this way of "triumph through surrender." It was

I. A Way of Sorrow (vv. 37, 38).

He was exceedingly sorrowful unto death. It was not an easy thing that the Saviour did as He fulfilled the will of God the Father in the garden. We know that no man ever sorrowed as He did on that day, for only He bore the sins of the world. There is, however, a lesson here for us who are His disciples. If this is the road the Master trod, should not His servants tread it still? The way of victory for us is through surrender.

II. A Way of Self-Denial (vv. 39, 42, 44).

Self-denial does not consist in depriving one's self of some little cherished luxury. It means the denial of self, namely, that self-will is put aside and God's will is supreme.

It was no "easy thing for Jesus to carry out the Father's will and to go to the cross. He was submissive to that will; yet in this hour of anguish in the garden, when the unspeakable horror of what lay ahead almost overwhelmed His soul, it means much to say, 'Not as I will but as thou wilt'." (Dr. B. L. Olmstead). It may be a hard thing to do, but by His grace we too may say, "Thy will be done."

III. A Way of Loneliness (vv. 36, 37, 40, 41, 43).

There were three disciples with Him as He entered the garden, and their very presence reminds us how very much alone Jesus actually was. There were twelve with Him in the upper room, but one went out into the darkness to betray Him. Eleven came with Him to the gate of the garden, but only three came into the garden with Him. Even they could not go all the way with Him. He prayed and agonized alone, and the three who were near at hand failed Him and slept through the dark hour when He most needed their fellowship in sympathy and prayer.

Alone? If the Master had to walk the way of surrender alone, let no Christian expect that it will be otherwise for him. Let us thank God for every blessing of true fellowship, but let us not be surprised if we are often called to walk alone—with God.

IV. A Way of Betrayal (vv. 45, 46).

"He is at hand who doth betray me," "into the hands of sinners." One feels that the cup of the Master is already overfull without adding betrayal by one of His own, but there it is, a dark and tragic reality. Note with what peace and assurance Jesus goes to meet it. The victory has already been won in prayer, in communion with the Father, and in submission to His will.

No one of us will ever know such a betrayal as that of our Lord, but we do face similar crises as we go on in a life of devotion to God's will. We do well to remember the experience of Christ that we be not overwhelmed by the treachery of men and that we prepare ourselves to meet it with the power and grace of our God.

V. A Way of Divine Fellowship and Blessing (vv. 39, 42).

The way of surrender is a glorious and delightful way to go. But, some one may ask, have we not been talking of sorrow, self-denial, loneliness and betrayal? Yes, but even these things may become the means of blessing if God is in them.

Springs of Water

And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water; in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes.—Isaiah 35:7.

National Roads Survey Aids Highway Planning

Surveys to guide the planning of future highway improvements are progressing rapidly in 46 states and the District of Columbia, according to the annual report of the U. S. public roads administration. These surveys, jointly financed and conducted by the road administration and the state highway departments, include complete inventories of all rural roads and detailed studies of highway traffic, and highway finance.

The report states that one of the most generally useful products of the planning surveys is a series of large-scale state and county maps. The county maps, generally on a scale of one inch to one mile or greater, show, in addition to transportation facilities, all physical features and man-made improvements, and will form the first up-to-date and comprehensive series of county maps ever made. Other series of maps to be drafted on the base maps show highway and other transportation systems, bus and truck routes, postal routes, school-bus routes, and traffic volume.

The 1940 federal census will be more complete because of this mapping work, according to the report. For the first time the boundary limits around the settled areas of unincorporated urban communities of 800 or more population have been established in 29 states, making possible census reports for such communities.

Field surveys, which form the basis of the map work, and also an inventory of the present extent and condition of all rural roads, have been completed in 43 states, covering an aggregate of 2,748,853 miles, the report states.

In co-operation with the Association of American Railroads pertinent facts relating to rural and urban grade crossings are being supplied. This information will be combined with data from a field inventory of the crossings and with traffic counts to develop new improvement programs in which first attention will be given to the most dangerous crossings.

Field work on the traffic surveys has been completed in all but nine states, according to the report. At 3,237 stations the weights of trucks, commodities carried, and other data trucks and truck-trailer combinations. Information on the weights and dimensions of buses and number of passengers carried was also obtained.

Special Driving Tests Reduce Accident Cases

In a special automobile driving test based on psychological principles given by a group of the 97 of California's worst traffic violators, the result showed a drop of 63 per cent in major and 40.6 per cent in minor violations for the group.

A similar select group of chronic and dangerous violators remained untested. These untested drivers experienced a rise in violations after the testing date. For the two years after the tests the untested group had 557 convictions for traffic law violations as against 164 convictions for the tested drivers.

Similar tests were made on a group of good drivers, represented by the track drivers of a certain corporation. Variations in their driving efficiency were measured in terms of accident frequency before and after testing. Following the administration of special tests, the records of the tested drivers improved even more. A group of untested drivers from the same company, used as a control, experienced more accidents after the testing dates; although all of the drivers concerned, both tested and untested, were considered safe, cautious and capable.

The only conclusion that can be drawn, according to the authors of the tests, were that the tests in question made better drivers out of good ones and materially improved both the driving technique and the caution of the poor drivers.

Insomnia May Be an Idea

If insomnia troubles you, it may be an imprisoned idea, trying to break through the dark folds and crevices of your brain, according to Dr. Elliot D. Hutchinson, assistant professor of psychology at the University of Rochester. Hutchinson states that more than 80 per cent of artists, writers, musicians, scientists and other creative persons interviewed have moments of "insight" when troublesome problems suddenly clear up. Such creative insight, he believes, is the result of hard thinking, long effort without apparent results, a period of emotional irritability and high tension, followed by a period when you may forget the problem entirely.

Ancient Egyptian Bread

In the Metropolitan museum of art in New York city, there is a basket containing the oldest bread in the world. This basket of bread was discovered in the tomb of an Egyptian woman by the name of Ra-Mose and her husband, Hat-Nufer, who lived about 3,500 years ago. This ancient bread is well preserved today. One loaf has a hard, glossy crust. Another seems to be a kind of fruitcake which may have been the wedding cake of this married pair. According to the religious beliefs of ancient Egypt, the soul after death required nourishment, just as in life. Thus, bread was often placed in the tombs.

St. Eustatius Isle Linked With Early American History.

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's recent presentation of a bronze plaque to the authorities of St. Eustatius island, in the West Indies, added a postscript to an early chapter of United States history. The gift was in commemoration of the first foreign acknowledgment of United States sovereignty made to a national vessel.

"In 1776, when the guns of St. Eustatius roared a salute to a Baltimore brig o' war (thereby recognizing the Western hemisphere's first republic), this island was one of the West Indies' richest spots," says the National Geographic society.

"As a free port, it was known as the 'Golden Rock,' where ships of many nations came to trade, and to take on water and food supplies.

"About 200 miles east of Puerto Rico, St. Eustatius, with only seven square miles of area, was a garden whose fertile fields produced sugar cane, coffee, tobacco, indigo, cotton, and cassava, a starch-yielding plant.

"Hundreds of ships, old records say, sometimes lay at anchor outside the harbor at Orange Town. In the streets of the town rough chests of tea and bales of cotton were used by merchants as temporary desks, while a chorus of bids and counter bids rose in half a dozen tongues.

"During the first period of the American Revolution, St. Eustatius carried on an active trade with the struggling colonies, serving as a depot for military and other supplies from the Netherlands to be used in the conflict.

Suffers Fatal Blow.

"Within five years of the island's gesture of recognition toward the new American government, however, St. Eustatius suffered a fatal blow from the British, then at war with the Netherlands. In 1781, a British commander seized the port. Selling off the property of the islanders, the conquerors reaped a financial harvest estimated at from fifteen to twenty millions of dollars.

"At Orange Town, today, only the ruins of its many warehouses remain as a reminder of St. Eustatius' former prosperity. The island's population now is less than 1,500. Yams and cotton are its chief exports today."

Rubber's 'Little Brother' Is New Synthetic Product

An outstanding achievement has come out of the laboratory of the oldest rubber company in the Middle West, where scientists have brought into the world a synthetic material so closely akin to rubber that it is being called rubber's "little brother," writes Florian E. Wood in the Scientific American. This material is not a synthetic rubber, its scientific god-parents are careful to point out, for no true synthetic rubber exists in the world today, although there are other rubber substitutes. It is made from such common substances as limestone, coke and salt.

This new chemical compound opens up a vast new field of utility because it has proved its ability to operate in places where rubber never could perform. It is adaptable to varied uses, and in a variety of forms ranging from the fire-resisting coating on power transmission cables to lining in hot acid tanks and the fine-textured clothing in milady's wardrobe.

Significantly scientists point out that it would require an acre of rubber trees 17,520,000 hours, or 2,000 years, to produce the same amount of natural rubber which could be turned out synthetically in one hour by a laboratory only one acre in area. This fact alone dramatically illustrates the importance of any synthetic material which possesses qualities that would enable science and industry to substitute it in services where natural rubber long has functioned.

Since it is waterproof, sun-resisting and heat-repelling, Koroseal is especially adaptable to the home for table coverings, wall paper, draperies, shower curtains, covering for outdoor furniture and a horde of other uses.

Wiring Military —Ps

Maps, key to all successful military operations, were transmitted by wire to field troops for the first time in history at the recent Plattsburg, N. Y., maneuvers of the United States army. Using standard teletype machines, commanders scouting "enemy" positions were able to wire maps covering their exact tactical situation within seven minutes.

High Spots on Record-Breaking Run

Signs of the times in a motor age—these highway markers tell the story of a two-year, 100,000-mile truck test run recently completed by Chevrolet. In Canada, Mexico and every state of the Union, the truck operated on all types of highways and under every conceivable weather hazard, setting a new world mark for sustained and certified automotive operation, under the sanction and official observation of the American Automobile Association. The unit carried a 4,590-pound "payload." An average of 15.1 miles per gallon of fuel was maintained throughout the 100,000 miles, at an average operating speed of 33.07 miles per hour. Oil mileage was correspondingly high—1,072 miles per quart.

FISH FILLETS IN TOMATO CUPS

See Recipes Below

My Family Likes Fish!

"There's all the health of the sea in fish," according to an old saying, and modern home makers find that there's variety and economy for menus, too.

Fish and sea foods are available the year 'round in almost limitless variety. In most markets it's possible, now, to purchase (1) fish "in the round," just as it comes from the water, (2) fish that is cleaned, scaled, and ready to cook, (3) boneless fish fillets, and (4) fish steaks. Fish and sea foods may be purchased quick-frozen too.

If fish is purchased "in the round," that is with skin, bones, head, and tail included, allow one pound of fish per serving; if purchased cleaned and scaled, allow one pound for two servings, and if purchased in the form of fillets or fish steaks, allow one pound for three servings.

Fish cookery is simple, especially when you use fish that is cleaned and scaled, fillets, steaks, or the quick-frozen products. Remember, though, that the flavor of most fish is delicate, and that you need well-seasoned sauces and accompaniments to serve with it.

You'll find practical and easy-to-follow recipes for preparing fish and sea foods in my booklet, "Feeding Father." There are recipes for the old-fashioned cod fish balls men love, for delicious clam chowder, and for the other fish and sea food dishes you'll want to serve your family often.

Fish in Pepper Shells.

(Serves 6)

6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
½ cup top milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups cold fish (flaked)
6 whole green peppers
1 cup bread crumbs
Paprika

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add flour and blend; add milk and cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from flame; add salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Then add flaked fish. Place in cleaned green peppers, top with bread crumbs, combined with remaining butter (melted), and a dash of paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Fish Fillets in Tomato Cups.

(Serves 6)

6 to 8 tomatoes
1 package haddock, sole, or perch fillets
Salt and pepper
½ cup butter (melted)
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup parsley (chopped)

Remove a slice from the stem end of each tomato and scoop out the pulp, leaving a firm cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper. Cut fillets in lengthwise strips. Brush each strip with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and parsley. Roll the strips firmly and place in the tomato cups. Brush tops with melted butter, sprinkle with parsley, and place in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking.

Baked Spiced Whitefish.

1 medium sized whitefish
Salt
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon parsley (minced)
2 peppercorns
1 tablespoon tomato catsup
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons olive oil

Clean fish and sprinkle with salt inside and out. Place on a well-greased baking pan. Mix all other ingredients in the order given. Open fish and brush inside with the mixture and then spread about ½ of it over the fish. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 40 minutes. Baste during the baking period with the remainder of the spiced mixture.

Oyster Stew.

1 pint oysters
¼ cup butter
1 quart rich milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Place oysters, strained oyster liquor, and butter in a saucepan and cook gently until edges of oysters begin to curl.

Heat milk in a separate saucepan at the same time. (Caution: Milk should be thoroughly heated—but should not boil.) Add oysters to milk and season to taste. Serve immediately.

Sautéed Oysters.

(Serves 4)

1 pint oysters (large)
1 cup cracker crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter

Drain oysters. Add salt and pepper to cracker crumbs, blend thoroughly, and then roll oysters in the seasoned crumbs, covering thoroughly. Melt butter in frying pan and sauté oysters until they are golden brown on one side. Turn with spatula or pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve very hot with catsup or tartar sauce.

Hot Oven Baked Boneless Perch.

(Serves 4)

4 perch fillets
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup hard bread crumbs
¼ cup butter (melted)

Dip fish in milk to which salt has been added. Drain and then roll fish in hard bread crumbs, covering thoroughly. Place in a well-oiled baking pan and brush thoroughly with melted butter. Bake 10 minutes in a very hot oven (550 degrees). Serve at once. It is not necessary to turn fish while baking.

Crab Meat Sunday Night Supper Sandwiches.

(Serves 5)

1 13-ounce tin crab meat
5 slices white bread
¼ pound Roquefort cheese
¼ cup cream
1 head lettuce
1 15-ounce can pimiento-stuffed olives

Toast bread on one side only. On untoasted side, place a generous covering of crab meat — flaked. Cover crab meat with Roquefort cheese—softened in cream. Broil lightly until cheese mixture has browned. Serve on lettuce and garnish with stuffed olives.

Old Kentucky Law Bars Cow in Home

Revision Committee Bares Some Queer Statutes.

FRANKFORT, KY.—It's against the law to keep a cow in a tenement in Kentucky.

Nudist colonies in the state must be surrounded by a 20-foot wall of brick, cement or stone and must be inspected "at such times as may be deemed necessary by the attorney general."

The statute revision committee of the Kentucky general assembly is faced with the task of considering the value of the foregoing statutes and scores of others. The committee, headed by Robert K. Cullen, is revising Kentucky laws, suggesting the repeal of many enacted years ago which seem ludicrous today.

One law, passed in 1922, prohibits a person from walking along a street dressed in a bathing suit unless the town has police protection.

Another law provides that if a person dies aboard a river boat and no one claims the body the master of the vessel shall "cause the body to be buried on shore at least four feet deep."

In fourth-class cities, a law says, a police court shall have jurisdiction "over all cases of blowing horns, flying kites and crying aloud by day or night."

Pioneer days still exist for laws which provide that oxen, home-made yarn and spinning wheels shall be exempt from court executions levied to settle judgments.

In Kentucky you can't feed or allow any animal to wear a bell while it is pulling a vehicle on a turnpike, plank or gravel road.

One strange law provides that any person operating a steam-propelled engine on a state road must "send ahead and keep at least 200 yards in advance of such engine a messenger, whose duty it shall be to warn all persons of its approach."

ANOTHER GALLUP POLL.

A late survey purporting to represent the sentiments of those who favor continued governmental spending plans, and those who do not, seems to show 36 percent in favor, and 64 percent against.

In other words, that candidates who are opposed to spending, are greatly more in favor, than those who are for continuing it. The vote among Republicans was 8 to 2 in favor of economy, while among Democrats 51 percent was for spending.

The Gallup Institute of Public opinion made the poll for the purpose of discovering just what voters would say if confronted by two candidates, one who promised to cut Federal spending, and one who promised to continue it—as in the case, for instance, of two candidates for the U. S. Senate.

Let him who neglects to raise the fallen, fear lest, when he falls, no one will stretch out his hand to lift him up.—Saadi.

Widely used by Australians as a treatment for sea and car sickness is a piece of brown paper wrapped around the stomach.

More accidents happen in the home than anywhere else, so statisticians say, but the folk of the great outdoors are not immune. The Benton County (Mo.) Times reveals that "for the second time in 12 months Jim Allison has broken a toe as a result of kicking a hog."

Light Weight plus Power plus Traction in the amazing New Ford Tractor with Ferguson System

Forget your old notions about weight for power and weight for traction. The new Ford tractor with Ferguson system and wheel-less implements brings a new principle to the farm. Because it is so light, loading is no longer a problem, it plows 28 inches wide!

Here the power-unit and the implement are one. Wheel-less plows, cultivators and other tillage tools can be put on or taken off in a few seconds. The implement is not only raised and lowered by a unique hydraulic mechanism, operated by a finger control, but is actually kept in the ground at any desired depth—automatically.

The four wheels of this all-purpose tractor hug the ground so that work is done in all kinds of soil and on hills that even horses can't work. The new Ford tractor with Ferguson system is so light that it handles easier in an automobile on soft ground. It rates normally on only a gallon of oil per hour. Come in and try this farm equipment that does everything your horses can do. Does it better, cheaper, quicker, and with less effort on your part.
