This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, persons, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc. are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Larger events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

Mrs. Franklin Stair who had been seriously ill is rapidly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Bowers, Westminster, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Stonesifer.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Garner, of Baltimore, will leave tomorrow (Saturday) for a two-weeks vacation in Florida.

Rev. W. O. Ibach has been on the sick list and confined to his bed for about a week. He is suffering from a severe cold.

Lee King, of near Union Bridge, graduated from the National Radio Institute, Washington, D. C., Monday February 3, 1941.

Mr. Ralph W. Brining, of Philadelphia, Pa., was the guest of his uncle, Mr. Benton Brining and family, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jesse Stonesifer, near Frizellburg, spent Monday evening with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carbaugh.

Mr. J. Ross Galt, of New Windsor, is spending the week with his sister, Miss Jennie E. Galt, at the home of Mr. H. I. Reindollar.

Louis Lancaster returned home on Wednesday evening from the Marine Hospital, Baltimore, where he had been under observation.

The moderation in the weather, this week, has been a decided improvement over the most of the New Year—and is very welcome to stay.

Mr. and Mrs. David Little, of town, and daughter, Marie, of Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with Rev. Joseph Lane, of Mt. Savage, Md.

Miss Bessie Yingling, of near Frizellburg, spent several days the past week with Mrs. Lum Feagle and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Koons, of town.

The World's Day of Prayer will be held in the Presbyterian Church, on February 28th. An announcement more in detail will be made next week.

Robert S. McKinney and Miss Jennie Galt, are spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Harry I. Reindollar. The McKinney Drug Store is open as usual.

Among the very ill, in town, is Mrs. James E. Galt, who for some time has been under the charge of Mrs. Jere Overholzer, and now needs additional care.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bankert, Silver Run, entertained a number of guests from Littlestown and Taneytown, on Tuesday evening. The event was in honor of Mr. Bankert's birthday.

There was an 86 year old salesman in town, the other day, who canvassed the town "foot-back." We do not know what success he met with, but he was surely "on the job" like a youngster.

Again we are compelled to omit several lengthy articles, for want of time, and not because of lack of interest, nor for any personal reason whatever; but we do "have as heart" as the saying goes, for our employees.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hiltbrich, entertained over the week-end: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Keefer, Perryville. Visitors at the same place on Sunday were: Miss Oneda Hiltbrich, Miss Pauline Watson, Mr. and Mrs. James Wolfe, all of York, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koons, of town.

The third in the series of Bible Quiz will be held in the Reformed Church, on Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock with two teams participating. The questions will be from the book of Exodus. This is sponsored by the C. E. Society. The public is invited.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Grace Reformed Church will sponsor the movie "Little Nellie Kelly" at Shriner Theatre, on next Thursday and Friday evenings, Feb. 27 and 28. All persons expecting to attend are urged to purchase their tickets from an Endeavorer or at Reid's Food Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bower and Miss Virginia Bower, attended a kitchen shower given by Miss Ruth C. E. Nushbaum, New Windsor, for their daughter, Miss Ruth Ann Nushbaum. Miss Nushbaum will be married Saturday afternoon, Feb. 15, at 4 o'clock, at the Sorority House of Maryland University, College Park, Md.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

The P. T. A. of the Taneytown School will hold the next meeting in the school auditorium, on Monday evening, February 17, 1941, promptly at 7:30. Following the meeting and program there will be a basketball game. The Taneytown team vs an independent team.

London's official regulations provide 400 questions, any or all of which a policeman may have to ask in case of a fatal road accident on his beat.

JURY SERVICE FOR WOMEN

Bill Would Give Women Same Rights as Men.

An old-time debate is now going on in the State Senate before the Judicial Committee that give to women the same rights as men to serve on juries, or would excuse them too, the same as men. In fact, there is a sentiment in favor of compelling them to serve.

This is opposed by many women, who are in favor of optional service, while there are others who oppose the service as being unwomanly. Others take the position as they have the right to vote, the same as men, should not be refused by state law from jury service if they want it, just as they can vote, or not vote.

The question of juries, part men and part woman, also enters the argument, as well as does the making of a grand jury.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

Through an oversight on our part, mention was not made last week of the coming, Feb. 12, of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. We are making mention of it now, not only to do honor to the date, but to call attention briefly, to an address made by him in 1858, when he was a candidate for U. S. Senator, the main issue between the parties being slavery. He was defeated for Senator, but it so happened that it was the slavery issue that brought about the Civil war, which led up to the later address made by him at Gettysburg, that has been published a number of times in The Record. He said in part—

"A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free. I do not expect the union to be dissolved—I do not expect the house to fall—but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing or all the other. Either the opponents of slavery will arrest the further spread of it, and place it where the public mind shall rest in the belief that it is in course of ultimate extinction; or its advocates will push it forward, till it shall become alike lawful in all the states, old as well as new—North as well as South."

Recent research into the genealogy of Abraham Lincoln has developed the information that he was not the "poor white" stock, as his old-time enemies used to call him, but was a descendant of "English gentry" in south-western England, and that his father had lost his money about the time the family came to this country.

COVERED DISH DINNER.

The combined Missionary Societies of the Lutheran Church held their annual covered dish dinner, on Thursday evening. The tables were tastefully decorated in honor of the patriotic birthdays of the month. During the evening the "secret sisters" exchanged gifts.

The program consisted of singing of patriotic hymns, scripture, prayer, solo, "I am an American," Freddie Teeter; vocal selection "The Rose of Tralee," Misses Edith and Hazel Hess, Mrs. Murray Baumgardner, Mrs. Olive Martin and Mrs. Alice Ecker, Miss Mary Louise Alexander at the piano; also a play entitled, "Polly put the Kettle On," characters: Mrs. Harry Crouse, Mrs. Merle Ohler, Misses Catherine and Mary Crouse, Mildred Stull, Louella Sauble and Mary Louise Alexander. There were present a few over a hundred.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

The Taneytown Leadership Training School for church workers will have its annual school this year on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, February 17, 18 and 20, the first week and the 24, 25 and 27, the second week. The meeting place the first week will be in Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown; the second week's meeting place will be in Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown. There will be two class periods each evening beginning at 7:30 and will be over at 9:30 P. M.

The courses under consideration will be the following: Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe will teach the course in "Improving Our Leadership." Rev. Irvin Morris will conduct his course in "The Kingdom of God." Rev. A. W. Garvin will bring a study on the "Miracles in the Apostolic Church." The materials needed is a Bible. There is no registration fee, as the school is a cooperative movement of the Sunday Schools of the Taneytown district and it is sponsored by the Taneytown District Sunday School Association. Mr. Carroll Hess is president; Mr. Murray Baumgardner, treasurer. The public is invited to enroll in these courses.

DR. W. W. DAVIS DEAD.

Dr. W. W. Davis, well known secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance for 30 years, died early Tuesday morning, after two weeks treatment in the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore. He had been a well known figure at many sessions of the legislature, in opposition to legislation that in any way interfered with a strict observance on Sunday; in his work had appeared in many of the pulpits in the state.

He had also been pastor of various Methodist Churches, and for several years acted as superintendent of Mountain Lake Park, then and now under the management of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Funeral services were held on Thursday at the First Methodist Church, followed by interment in Loudon Park cemetery.

JUDGE FORSYTHE NAMED CHIEF JUDGE

Governor O'Connor Gives Clear View of the Situation.

I have proffered to Judge William H. Forsythe, Jr., of Howard County, the appointment of Chief Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, and he has advised me of his acceptance. Judge Forsythe will succeed former Chief Judge F. Neal Parke who recently retired upon reaching the age limit.

Judge Forsythe has been a member of the Bench for more than 35 years, the longest service of any of the present Judges of the State and, possibly, the longest Judicial service ever to be rendered by a Judge in Maryland.

Endorsements of the Bar Associations of Anne Arundel, Carroll and Howard Counties, the three counties comprising the Fifth Circuit, have been presented to me. In fact, it is proper to say that every lawyer in the circuit has signified his preference for Judge Forsythe.

Some time ago I invited the cooperation of the Maryland State Bar Association in filling vacancies in Judicial offices. At its meeting last month, the State Bar approved this arrangement and authorized its president to appoint a committee to make such recommendations. I consider this one of the most forward steps ever taken in selecting Judges throughout the State and I desire to commend the officers and members of the State Bar Association for their manifest interest in preserving the high standards of our Courts.

The Committee of ten representatives of the State Bar met recently and considered the situation caused by the retirement of former Judge Parke. In a written statement, submitted to me through President Walter C. Capper of the Association, the committee appointed out that certain considerations of public policy were presented in this appointment and consequently the committee offered alternative recommendations. The State-wide committee advanced for consideration the names of Judge Forsythe and James Clark of Ellicott City, as worthy of the appointment to the highest Court in the State. Of Judge Forsythe, the committee made the following statement:

"Judge Forsythe has been an Associate Judge for 33 years, which is the longest term of service of any Maryland Judge now on the Bench. He is an able, experienced, conscientious Judge. His service has been satisfactory to the Bar and the people of his Circuit and the State. His appointment to succeed Judge Parke would be a merited recognition of past service. Furthermore, his appointment as Chief Judge would make possible the appointment of an Associate Judge from Carroll County which has always had a resident Judge. Unless these considerations

MORE ABOUT THE BUDGET.

(For The Record).

The "Citizens' Commission" which is working for a reduction of the proposed budget for the state, issued this week an analysis of the matter of salaries. They show the number as 5,558, and the appropriations asked for two years as $13,412,394, an increase of $1,399,637 over the budget for the current two years, ending September 30, 1941.

Besides this there are lump sum appropriations in various departmental salary budgets, and the appropriations for the University of Maryland are not included, so that the "commission" says "just how much of the State's budget goes for salaries cannot be determined even after exhaustive study."

A comparison of the budgets for all the years from 1920 shows that in that time the amount has been multiplied almost by five, increasing from $11,284,346 for 1920 to $53,756,608 for 1943.

YOUR INCOME TAX RETURN.

We had a very clear statement on this subject in last week's issue, but to give our readers additional warning we repeat the matter in a nut shell.

If you are single and had a gross income of $600, you must make a return. Remember the gross income is the amount before any allowable deductions are taken off.

If your life partner died any time before December 31, or if you were separated, you count as a single person.

If you were married and living together all the year and your combined gross income was $2000, you must make a return.

Do it now. There are just four weeks until the deadline, and if you must ask for advice or help, your advisor may be busy or absent or ill at the last minute, and you risk a penalty.

We have received from the U. S. Treasury Department numerous circulars, and recently a printed sheet of 33 prepared articles, which, if printed together, would fill the first page of The Record five times.

PASSES TEST.

Miss Rosanna Keilholtz, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grier Keilholtz, near Taneytown, has passed the Pennsylvania State Board Examination for nurses, and now is a registered nurse. At the present, Miss Keilholtz is working at the York City Hospital, York, Pa.

CARROLL COUNTY BOY SCOUTS.

A Meeting Called for Tuesday February 14th.

After a series of meetings held by persons interested in the advancement of the Boy Scout program in Carroll County, an organization has been effected. The district will be known as the Carroll District and will include all of Carroll County. It will be affiliated with the Baltimore Area of Boy Scouts of America under the leadership of the scout executive, W. P. Bradley, District Committee, have been organized in other counties of Maryland and it is a most effective means of promoting scouting.

At the present time there are only seven troops in the county and it is hoped that through this committee more troops will be organized and the whole program of scouting given greater impetus. This District committee has under consideration the advisability of employing either a part-time or a full-time scout leader in Carroll County and full details will be announced at a later date.

The following chairmen and committees were appointed at a recent meeting: District Chairman, Raymond S. Hyson, Westminster; District operating committee chairmen: Camping and activities, C. V. Griefenstein, Manchester; Advancement, F. E. Hilmer, Finksburg; Training, Charles Havens, Westminster; Organization, George E. Caylor, Hampstead; Health and Safety, Dr. Homer E. Cooper, New Windsor, chairman, and Charles Gendell, Mt. Airy, vice-chairman; Finance, Evan F. Bowers, Westminster.

The District Committee personnel is organized as follows: Institutional Representatives, F. E. Hilmer, Westminster Boy Scouts Troop 321; C. V. Griefenstein, Manchester Troop 320; George Caylor, Hampstead, Troop 344; Dr. Homer Cooper, New Windsor Troop 369; Louis Lancaster, Taneytown Troop 348, and Emory Minnick, Union Bridge Troop 330. Members-at-large are Evan F. Bowers, Paul Lawyer, Silver Run; Asa Watkins, Mt. Airy; Charles B. Gendell, Mt. Airy; Frank Mather, Westminster; Holmes Lockard, Sykesville.

Assisting on the camping and activities committee will be Paul Lawyer and Henry Hilmer, Westminster. On the finance committee in addition to the chairman will be Carroll Crawford and James Shriver, Westminster. Asa Watkins and Frank W. Mather.

A meeting has been called for Tuesday, February 8, at 7:30 P. M. of all members of the District Committee to perfect the organization and discuss plans for the scout program.

CAMP MEADE IS MUDDY.

Those who have arrived at Fort Meade, and are good judges of what camp life is, are pretty unanimous in the opinion that it is a decidedly muddy place, including the roads that are breaking down because of heavy traffic.

However, the hope is being held out that during the Summer time, conditions will be greatly better; in fact, it has some indications of a southern summer resort; and even now, the rations are excellent, and the quarters very comfortable.

There are many visitors, of course, and as the registrants increase in number, a limit may be placed on excursionists who have no interest there—except curiosity to see what may be seen.

World War veterans who had experience in France, recall the mud "over there" and are skeptical as to whether it will disappear at Meade; but as good soldiers are not complaining to any great extent.

THE RETURN OF WILLKIE.

The return of Wendell L. Willkie has been attended by more publicity in the newspapers, as to the impressions and knowledge he received than we had expected. Notwithstanding the wideness of public interest in the war in Europe, we doubt the advisability of this report.

Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of England, in a lengthy radio address on Sunday, boldly stated that with the prompt help of the U. S.—not in men but in war munitions and supplies—England was sure to win the war. That England had already laid its plan for 1942, and had no thought nor intention of meeting defeat.

According to published information, Mr. Willkie is of the opinion that the United States should help England as fast as possible, and even fears that so doing may be too late. He says the lease-lend bill represents the only chance to defend liberty without war.

Mr. Willkie's report was made before the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A NEW "COUNTY RECORD."

This time, it is a new weekly, published at Towson, that says it is "An independent Democratic newspaper, dedicated to the advancement of Baltimore County." The name of the paper is the County Record, and it presents a comely appearance and a wide variety of local and general news.

A CENTURY OLD WEEKLY.

The Ellicott City Times is 100 years and 6 weeks old. It means to celebrate its centennial "soon," and we'll bet it will be a hummer, worth waiting for. We are not sure but expect Brother Stromberg's paper must be the grand-daddy of all Maryland weeklies.

HOFF'S WEEKLY LETTER FROM ANNAPOLIS.

Concerning Pari-Mutual Betting at Carroll County Fair.

(To The Carroll Record)

For a number of years it has been obvious that some action must be taken to save the Carroll County Fair. In spite of all efforts on the part of those in control of the Association the Fair has been steadily sinking deeper into financial oblivion. At the present time the Fair Association owes $15,000.00 on a mortgage to one of the County banking institutions, another $15,000.00 to ten individual judgment creditors, around $3,000.00 back interest and some small amount on other obligations. The stock of the Association, held by 164 individuals in varying amounts, is worthless, the last transfers being made at a price of less than 10c per share.

For ten years the Fair has had no season that could be regarded as reasonable successful. Officials of the Association have readily confessed that the only reason the Fair has been able to continue in existence this long has been due to the capitalization upon that somewhat gruesome spectacle known as the "public wedding."

The officers, directors, stockholders, creditors and other individuals interested in the preservation of our Carroll County Fair have concluded that there is but one course to pursue to prevent the Fair from closing, namely, the legislation of pari-mutual betting machines. The bill has been prepared (and I am informed will be introduced before the publication of this column) that will permit these machines to be operated at our Carroll County Fair.

As I have not yet seen the proposed bill there is very little more that I can say about it at the present time. I hope to be able to follow up this matter next week in more detail.

I feel that it is my duty to the citizens of Carroll County to clarify my position on this question now. (I regard fence-straddling as a rather low form of politics). I believe that this measure will not only save the Carroll County Fair, but will make it one of the outstanding Fairs in the State of Maryland. I believe that Carroll County will greatly benefit by the capital that this move will cause to be spent in the county. I believe that the exhibitors of Carroll County produce and live stock would materially benefit by the additional expenditures that could be made to develop this portion of the fair. I am, therefore, in favor of the legalization of the use of the pari-mutual machines in Carroll County.

As this identical situation arose in Harford County some years ago when their Agricultural Fair was virtually "on the rocks," I was interested in getting one of the Harford County legislators to give his version of the situation in that county. It was briefly this:

"That when pari-mutual betting was legalized for the Harford County Fair it was done over a storm of protest from individuals and organizations throughout the county.

"That immediately after betting was legalized there was an increase in the size of the agricultural exhibits at the Fair and a considerable increase in the prizes and awards given to the exhibitors.

"That the businesses in Harford county were benefited by the thousands of dollars spent by the much larger crowds of people drawn to the Fair.

"That the Harford County taxpayer was helped by the extra taxes derived by the County from the race track.

"That the Fair was definitely saved by the use of pari-mutuals.

"And oddly enough, that many who objected most strenuously to the legalization of pari-mutual machines in Harford County are now ardent supporters of the Fair and would be the first to object at the abolition of betting at their Fair."

The two bills introduced on February 5, exempting Carroll County from the list of counties whose roads are to be maintained by the State Roads Commission, are Senate Bill 207 and House Bill 252. Both bills have been referred to the roads and highway committees of the Senate and House, respectively.

There has been some discussion concerning the introduction of a bill that would require all persons erecting or repairing any buildings to first obtain a permit from the County Commissioners, in the event that such work shall cost more than $250.00. The purpose of the plan is to keep the assessment books up to date.

I feel that the inconvenience to the public would outweigh the benefits anticipated. For example: If Mr. Brown in Mt. Airy district wished to alter his barn, at a cost of more than $250, he would not be able to start work unless he first came to Westminster and obtained a permit from the County Commissioners. Mr. Jones in Sykesville could be haled into Court and fined if he built that new garage behind his house without a permit. I am afraid that the principal effect would be to discourage property improvements in Carroll County.

Until next week, I am sincerely,
STANFORD HOFF.

(We believe that all who are interested in any of these proposals should express themselves to either Senator A. Earl Shipley, or Delegates C. Ray Barnes, Stanford Hoff, Paul C. Leister or Randall D. Sporlein.—Ed.)

HOME-MAKERS CLUB WORK IN CARROLL COUNTY.

The Homemakers' Club work in Carroll County is well under way for 1941 and printed programs have been distributed to the 619 club members. Figures from the 1940 report of the Home Demonstration Agent reveal some interesting facts, beside the achievement records of the Club members themselves. Figures from the past year show that 857 callers were received at the Home Demonstration Agent's Office, which is a large attractive room in the Postoffice Building. Beside this number of callers, there were 1147 phone calls, 769 individual letters written, 75 circular letters sent out, and about 500 bulletins distributed. Miss Hoffman traveled about 5000 miles in the county making home visits and attending meetings. There are 619 club members in the 22 Homemakers' Clubs, 283 girls in the 174 4-H Clubs. During the year, the Homemakers Clubs made noteworthy contributions to the Red Cross, Children's Aid Society and other local charities, and as a county group, raised $300.00 for remedial health work among underprivileged school children in the county. 54 girls attended the County 4-H Club Camp, 63 girls participated in the Style Re-View at the Annual Achievement Day and 88 girls exhibited at the County Fair.

The program for Homemakers' Clubs last year was chiefly Home Furnishing and Home Management. Achievement reports in these projects show that 36 club members improved one or more windows in their homes by changing the shape, size or location, 78 club members improved the styling of their window treatments in one or more rooms, 87 gained a better understanding of treatments suitable for windows in each room. As a result of demonstrations of window curtains and draperies, 65 club members improved curtains by remodeling them, 71 club members selected new curtains according to demonstrations, 49 club members made curtains at home according to the demonstrations, 61 improved their selection of material for curtains, and 81 improved their method of hanging curtains. 26 club members report making better selection of draperies, 22 made draperies at home according to demonstrations, 45 improved styling and hanging of draperies. As results of the demonstrations on the selection and making of table linens, and the selection of china were, 33 club members report making better selection of table linens, 38 club members made table linens at home, and 170 report giving more attention to table setting. 45 club members made selection of dishes according to demonstrations, 58 club members are using their own china more effectively and 271 club members report that they have gained a greater interest in dishes and table appointments and have observed them more closely. Results of project schools show that 48 spring units in overstuffed furniture cushions were repaired, 66 hooked rugs were made, 58 other type rugs were made and 111 slip covers were made.

Results of the Home Management project shows that 135 club members improved one or more hazardous conditions in their homes to avoid accidents, 133 club members changed one or more unsafe practices they had been carrying on in their homes, 165 club members improved the color schemes in their kitchens, 107 refinished the surface of their kitchen floors to make them wear better, 60 refinished kitchen walls, 87 took measures to exterminate household pests.

The Homemakers' Club program for 1941 is based on foods and nutrition and clothing, and includes the following demonstrations: "Foods Planning and the Family Health," "Low Cost Meals in the Food Plan," "Purchasing Staple Foods," "Foot Health and the Selection of Shoes," "Foundations of Beauty," "Positive Posture," "Purchasing Ready Made Clothing," and "Fitting of Ready Made Outer Garments."

Project schools for the year will include "Chair Caning," in February; "Dressmaking," in April; "Canning and Jelly Making," in June; "Coat Making," in October; and "Hooked Rug Making," in November. Bi-monthly office exhibits will be announced nearer the time of each exhibit.

Random Thoughts

CROSS-WORD PUZZLES.

We suppose that only a small percentage of newspaper readers are interested in cross-word puzzles; but the very fact that they have so long been given space in both daily and weekly papers, should testify to their value and interest.

They represent mental exercise and familiarity with the use of words—a study of definitions, puzzling, to be sure—but a good test of mental acrobatics—and the extent of what we call our vocabulary.

The best government against these puzzles is the fact that their architects go far in their efforts puzzle-using foreign words, geographical names and expressions, so obscure as to cease to be measures of intelligence.

As these puzzles are accompanied by solutions, the temptation is to "give up" too soon, the benefits of this really educational feature. By all means, keep up with this exercise, for by so doing one will gradually accumulate most of the answers. A good dictionary will help too, to master the puzzles.

STRIKES MAY LESSEN.

There are indications that strikes may gradually disappear, especially as they may relate to slowing up orders for war munitions and supplies, as strike leaders are beginning to realize that interference with the government's business is a serious procedure.

Whether we like all of the interpellations of democracy of the United States concerning the war in Europe, it is pretty sure they will not be replaced by a strike leader democracy. There are intimations in some quarters that back of our labor unions there are influences of distinctly German—or other foreign nations—and this, if even only slightly true, will not be tolerated.

It is also now said that such strikes of a major character that have been called, have not as yet interfered to any great extent with production, but are being settled by changes in working rules and wages.

Whether or not—or to what extent—the U. S. should aid England, is the business of American sentiment legally expressed, and if there are foreign agitators in labor organizations who would try to decide this question, they should be weeded out, the sooner the better.

The following statement, recently issued, is reassuring—

"At a time when employee and management troubles are causing stoppages in vital production in many other places, the Reynolds Metals Company, biggest independent aluminum enterprise in the country, announces a formal pledge signed by its president and seventeen officials of C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions devoting combined man power and plant energies to the supply of war materials.

The text reads: No greater trust has ever been the responsibility of any generation than that of defending and preserving for posterity the right to live in the freedom of democracy which is ours today. We pledge the resources and facilities of the Reynolds Metals Company twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week to supply strong aluminum alloys, vital to the defense program.

To the fulfillment of this obligation every employee and executive of this company, individually and collectively pledges his energy and unflinching loyalty. As Americans we cannot do less; as human beings we cannot do more.

"This is our purpose and our pledge."

WATCH AND CHAIN MAN.

Edgar A. Guest once wrote one of his half-serious, half-humorous poems, on "The man who gets the watch and chain," and even permitted his imagination to go so far as to say "I'm always sorry for such a man."

But, this old-time quite common public function appears to have gone out of date as a reward for meritorious services rendered, and we have substituted honors, instead of jewelry—honors frequently attached to fat salaries and perquisites or it may be that the honor of being chosen is sufficient—something along the line of heading a parade.

Without doubt, the motto "Get a good man and keep him there" sounds like good business sense; but the long practice of even a good motto of this kind is apt to become monotonous, just as mono is a prefix of monopoly.

Just now we are trying out a third term President, but we can hardly say that this was a "watch and chain" gift as much as it was the result of political planning on a very wide scale—a leading part in a long list of new deals.

BIG BONDS AND BABY BONDS.

The prologue for the "buy a bond" campaign is being chanted by Government officials. The public will be told that Government bonds are "a good thing for everybody."

Everyone has heard of Government bonds. Even to the younger generation—they know all about "baby bonds," such as are sold in the post-offices. Young and old folks will have no difficulty in buying some of the new defense war bonds. City and village banks will help in the 1940's just as they helped purchase in the first World War.

The banks are actuated by self-interest to support these campaigns inasmuch as they automatically create new customers for the banks, and help to promote community prosperity. The private citizen takes no risk, and when the hard times come again—as they will after this war excitement is over—the bonds will be easy to sell in the public markets or they may be called in and redeemed by the Government.—N. I. News Service.

THE COUNTRY'S GONE SOFT.

We've been hearing a lot lately about how the country's gone soft, and the youth are all reds or anarchists or close to them. And sometimes we look at our own sons and summon up some frost-bitten memory from the days of our own youth and pontificate about how "things ain't what they used to be."

Now this is a funny way for us to be acting. Practically the whole nation is yowling its head off for more naval bases in South America, more production at home, a bigger army to defend America, a more belligerent governmental attitude when America's toes are stepped on by any foreign power—and the ones we have selected to back up this yowling are our soft youth. Maybe we're a mite inconsistent.

When we stop to think of it, this crazy world hasn't been any bed of roses these past ten years for the boys in our town. Some of them are just now getting started in good permanent jobs; and while there are always some loafers, most of them have been trying all the time.

Our youth are all right. Any bunch that can get turned down fifty times for a job and come up still hoping for the fifty-first are bound to be all right. And that's a lucky thing for us. Who'd we get to back up our yowling if they weren't?—Community Reporter, Mt. Airy.

ENGLAND'S DEBT TO U. S.

Isolationist propaganda about the failure of Great Britain to pay its war debts to the United States has left the impression in the minds of many Americans that the British failed to "pay back a dime." Just to keep the record straight, Great Britain paid this country, in principal and interest, $2,024,000,000 up until the depression brought England and most of the rest of the world close to economic collapse in 1931.

What is more important, and yet seldom is mentioned in discussions about war debts, is that of the Axis nations Germany and Italy owe the United States substantial sums of money. On October 31, 1940, Treasury Department figures showed that Italy's debt was $2,026,901,442.35, and that Germany's was $1,269,368,369.74. At the same time Great Britain owned this country $5,651,792,208.17.

But those figures do not begin to tell the story. When Great Britain war debts were funded in 1923, they were set at $4,600,000,000 with an interest rate of 3 percent increasing to 3½ per cent by 1933. In 1925 arrangements were made with Italy whereby its debt was funded at $1,648,000,000, with interest rates to start at ½ of 1 per cent, and never to exceed more than 2 per cent during the entire life of the loan.

In other words, payments made by Great Britain up until 1931 amounted to more than $2,000,000,000, yet the high interest rates have kept the debt increasing at such a rate that Britain now owes more than it did when the debt was funded. Meanwhile, Italy has paid only a total of about $100,000,000, yet the low interest rates have kept its debt from increasing as rapidly as Britain's. During the same time, Germany has paid only slightly more than $33,500,000 on its total indebtedness to this country.

It must also be remembered that Great Britain loaned about the same amount it received from this country to France and other Allies. These countries failed to keep up their payments to Great Britain during the world economic crisis, and the British were deprived of an important source of income they expected to use in keeping up the installments due the United States.

Despite these facts, we still hear of plans to seize British possessions in this hemisphere as payment for these back debts. Little is said, however, of seizing the 27 Italian and 2 German ships now lying in American harbors as part payment for the back debts of the Axis partners.—Scottish Rite Service.

LINCOLN'S OPPORTUNITIES

Young people who say they have no chance in life should read the life of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday was celebrated on February 12th. Little "Abe" did not probably have over a year of schooling. Most American boys and girls have far better school chances than that now.

A school that would be called poor in these times, with inadequate equipment and a teacher with insufficient education, would probably be a good school compared with the average run of country schools in Lincoln's early youth.

If a boy can rise to exalted heights, and become President of the United States after such poor chances, few boys or girls today can say the doors of opportunity are closed to them.

The fact that a youth has opportunities does not prove they will do him any good. Opportunity has to be utilized. Lincoln had very few opportunities, but he made use of all he had. The few good books in his father's home he read and re-read. Then he borrowed what he could from neighbors. He read real books, that made him think and gave him valuable information. They were books like the Bible and Shakespeare and the history of the United States and the Life of Washington.

There should be enough money in this country to give opportunities to all. Persuading boys and girls to use them, is something different. If a boy has ambition, but of the crowd with which he trains is inclined to idle loafing and mischief, the ambition is likely to lose its zest. The teacher that can persuade such a boy to really work, and cut loose from idle companions, should be the making of a very fine man, perhaps a great one.—Caroline County Sun.

DEFENSE PRODUCTION.

American industry, in its day-to-day defense production, is making poor prophets out of all the writers who have contended that "you will never make a satin purse out of a sow's ear."

So far as modern researchers know, James Howell, in 1659, was the first man to put that phrase into writing. Now, 300 years later, Washington hears daily of new industrial accomplishments for defense which make transformation of a sow's ear into silk look like child's play.

The handicaps in many instances are tremendous—but since the government is setting the policy and needs weapons and machines for defense, industry is producing them.

To the layman, this production might seem a simple job. But facts talked privately in Washington show that it is far from simple. Here is one especially interesting illustration:

When drafting men for military service was under consideration, some government officials favored deferring watchmakers because they would be useful in making the fuses which explode shells and bombs. But now these fuses are being produced. And men who regularly work on women's minute modern wrist watches are too clumsy for fuse making.

Watchmakers just didn't have the required skill. So the fuse producers turned to women who are needleworkers, doing embroidery, crocheting, and other fine handwork. The result is perfect fuses.—I. P. Service.

MOLASSES ADDS FOOD TO SILAGE

Tests Establish Its Value as Nutrient.

By C. B. BENDER
(Assoc. Professor in Animal Husbandry, Rutgers University.)

Alcohol and the same acids which are found in vinegar, cow's milk and rancid butter occur in grass silage when molasses is added and they are also contained in corn silage. But that's nothing to be held against silages, for these ingredients are used by cows for heat and energy.

Experiment station trials which brought about this conclusion were started because many dairymen were of the opinion that the cost of molasses is a direct preservation charge when the molasses is used in the preservation of grasses and legumes as silage.

Some farmers felt that molasses is added to silage in order to preserve it because the bacteria convert the sugar in the molasses to various acids which preserve the green crop in the silo. Although dairymen have fed molasses to cattle for years and know its value, some believed this value to be lost as soon as the sugar is converted into acids.

The studies were made to determine the chemical changes which occurred in the silo when silage is made with grass and preserved with molasses. It was found that the sugar is converted by bacteria into alcohol and into acetic acid which is found in vinegar; lactic acid, which is found in cow's milk, and butyric acid, which is found in rancid butter.

Another experiment was then set up whereby these acids and alcohol were fed to animals. As the result of these metabolism trials it was definitely established that all of them were utilized for energy or heat by the animal's body. This means that they take their place along side of the carbohydrates in corn, oats and other dairy feeds as definite nutrients.

Advices Blue Banding

Winter's Heavy Layers
Mid-winter—which means sometime during December and January to the poultryman—is the proper time to examine each laying bird in the pullet flock carefully and "blue-band" the heavy producers for future identification, says Dr. W. C. Thompson, poultry husbandman at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station, Rutgers university.

Farmers who find trapnesting impossible may accomplish this identification job accurately and inexpensively by the "blue banding system." This involves handling and examining the pullets, reading the external characteristics and deciding which individuals possess those traits indicative of heavy egg yield during the past two or three months. A blue celluloid leg band is placed on the right shank of each pullet judged to be in heavy winter production at that time. Such simple designation becomes at once a record and an indicator.

"The heavy layer in mid-winter has a deep broad body, long keel, easily pliable skin, bright red soft head parts, brilliant prominent eyes and shows loss of yellow pigmentation."

Mites on Poultry

Mites do not live on chickens as do lice, but suck blood from the skin of the birds while they are on the roost at night. They then return to some dark place during the day. Cracks and crevices in the poultry house or on the roosts are the places they generally hide. Painting the roosts with nicotine sulphate will prevent the loss from these parasites.

Farm Notes

At present prices for tankage and corn, 100 pounds of skim milk is worth about 30 cents to feed to hogs. This amount of milk will replace 6.5 pounds of tankage.

Eggs as packaged by nature are an excellent food but too much heat in cooking them will damage the food and health values originally in the package.

Exports of nearly all United States farm products, except cotton, were greatly reduced during the first 12 months of the current European war, reports the U. S. department of agriculture.

Rubber tires on farm equipment may reduce rolling resistance by as much as 46 per cent.

Present indications are that hog slaughter will be reduced materially in the first quarter of 1941, according to the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

If fully developed, the usage of cotton for a new cement-cotton roofing shingle might require 1,000,000 bales annually, a U. S. department of agriculture official estimates.

Poor Reading Intelligent Otherwise
The discovery that as many as four out of every five persons retarded in reading ability have normal or superior intelligence has prompted the Reading Clinic at the Pennsylvania State college to enlarge its program of instruction.

"Too many people believe that reading problems are solved in the first six grades of a child's educational experience," explained Dr. Emmett A. Betts, who is in charge of the clinic. "On the contrary, between 8 and 25 per cent of all school children have reading faults and as high as 50 per cent of adults display little interest in reading."

In the face of these findings, it is the job of educators through modern methods, to correct reading difficulties while the person is still in school, he said.

Sulfathiazole Effective
Sulfathiazole, the latest addition to the sulfanilamide family, proved effective in bringing about the recovery of a child suffering from staphylococcus aureus (a yellow pus-producing bacterium) meningitis (inflammation of the membranes surrounding the spinal cord and brain), Frederick W. Dietel, M. D., Churchville, N. Y., and Albert D. Kaiser, M. D., Rochester, N. Y., report in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Staphylococcus aureus as a causative agent of meningitis is comparatively unusual in children, but when it does occur the mortality rate is high. In the case reported by the two physicians the drug was administered by mouth daily for a period of nine days. "At the end of three weeks there was complete recovery," they say.

In, Out, In Again
A prisoner in Granville, S. C., finished serving a 20-day sentence for drunkenness and rode from the county farm into town with one of the guards. Turned loose, he promptly got drunk again and when the guard returned to camp three hours later he took the prisoner back with him, this time to serve 60 days.

World Small Place
The world is a small place after all, judging by the size of particles, such as electrons, that make up all matter. Westinghouse research physicists, who smash atoms to learn more about matter, say that if an orange and an electron could be magnified until the orange was as large as the world, the electron would still be invisible.

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time. All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESBURG.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yeagley, Hagers-town, with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Johnson, spent the first part of last week in Western, Virginia, stopping at the Roanoke Hotel, where a meeting of about 150 wool growers was held—Mr. Johnson being one of the Directors of the Association. On Monday they visited his aunt, Miss Annie Johnson in the city of Roanoke. They returned on Tuesday evening reaching home shortly after midnight, and report a very interesting meeting, and a delightful trip.

Mrs. C. S. Wolfe accompanied Mrs. Maurice Late to Baltimore last Thursday and Saturday to see an oculist because her vision has become impaired, who did not promise new eyes—but relief.

On Wednesday evening of last week through the courtesy of H. B. Fogle, Miss Sue Bivly and her sister took dinner with the Baughman-Pegles in Uniontown and had an opportunity to offer congratulations to the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Howard West, and view their wonderful array of wedding gifts—much too numerous to mention, and too beautiful for description. Soon they will move into a new house in Baltimore, and enjoy finding a place for everything.

We have had the privilege of seeing and reading the Book of Remembrance presented to Mrs. L. U. Messler in the Linwood Church at Christmas time, and certainly admired the thoughtfulness of the ones who made it possible, for it is indeed a lovely gift of appreciation from her pupils in private school and Sunday School—flowers of love while she can enjoy them. We congratulate Mrs. Messler and her loyal learners.

The Ladies' Bible Class of the Methodist Church in Middleburg are planning an apron social for the near future—date not fixed yet. A tiny apron is presented, and a rhyme tells you to "Measure your waist line inch by inch and see that the measure does not pinch," then drop a penny for every inch into the pocket, soon they will have scores of raised doughnuts for sale and they are always palatable.

Mrs. Clara Wolfe has spent some time the past week with her sister, Mrs. Dallas Blacksten, who is critically ill. The hard part is that when one sees their loved ones suffer—there is so little one can do to give relief.

Mrs. Roger Roop (nee Olive Main) was taken to the Md. General Hospital on Sunday for examination and treatment of some internal trouble which was causing much distress recently.

Miss Ida Smith, daughter of Peter and Margaret Smith, deceased, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Brooke Heltbride, on Long Cabin Branch—the former Jasper Garner place. She had been in failing health for some time, suffered a heavy attack of pneumonia, and passed away on Saturday morning. Service was held at the home on Tuesday afternoon with burial in the Lutheran cemetery at Uniontown.

Two sisters, Mrs. John Graham, living with her daughter, Mrs. Heltbride, and Mrs. Ellie Shaw, of Uniontown remain.

Wilbur Miller, Jr. looking handsome in a new military uniform, was home for the week-end. We fear in this we are on the mountain top of anticipation before we descend to the valley of realization.

On Thursday of last week, Mrs. Addie Crumbacker and "yours truly" called to see Dr. Hoot, in Taneytown where she had a painful tooth removed, and we had some repair work done; but the drive between the snow covered landscape was lovely. Two new houses one for F. G. Hs. Baugh in Middleburg, and another for Chas. Mehring, near Keyman, are in building, and we saw the pier set for the new bridge at Bruceville on the way.

Mrs. J. H. Stuffle received a fine little basket of tropical fruit from her friend, Mrs. Blandey, of Rockville, who with Rockward Nusbau, Jr., toured Florida the past month.

On Sunday the Bucher John family enjoyed a turkey dinner at the Geiman home in Westminster, a feast in honor of two near birthdays in the family. The fowl weighed 30 lbs. when dressed, and at the table our friend asked for a drumstick—and one was more than enough.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Gardner, Blue Ridge Summit, Miss Sarah Crabs, of Union Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Delphrey; Mrs. Frank Miller, Middleburg, and Miss Emma Ecker, of New Windsor, and Mrs. C. S. Wolfe and Mrs. Addie Crumbacker, of Feesburg, were visitors at the Bivly home the first day of this week.

B. B. John has more than 50 baby lambs, and on Friday had about 30 of them "docked" which seems rather cruel, but for some reason it is considered necessary.

This week the Boy Scouts of America are celebrating their 31st anniversary with big parades, much music and brave speeches—now to practice what they preach. Their motto is service and we like the idea of doing a kindness for some one each day.

The most powerful airplane engine manufactured today has slightly more than 2,000 horsepower.

The maximum age limit for British pilots has been raised from 28 to 31 years.

JUDGE FORSYTHE NAMED JUDGE.

are outweighed by opposing considerations, the appointment of Judge Forsythe would be in the public interest."

Referring to Mr. Clark, the committee said:

"In the judgment of the committee, after consideration of other possibilities, Mr. Clark, is, in character, ability and experience, well-qualified to be a member of the Court of Appeals, and is generally so regarded within his Circuit and outside his circuit."

I agree with the recommendations of the committee, and after weighing all considerations, I feel that the circumstances not only justify but require the elevation of Judge Forsythe. I discussed frankly with Mr. Clark my views of the matter and he agrees with me in the decision.

In addition, the Bar Association of Anne Arundel County reiterated its endorsement of Judge Forsythe and added that if he were not to be appointed, the members of the local Bar recommended Judge Ridgely P. Melvin. While I, too, have the greatest respect for Judge Melvin's abilities, I understand that he prefers that Judge Forsythe receive the appointment.

The people of Maryland have the satisfaction of knowing that from Judge Forsythe, they will receive on the Court of Appeals, the same intelligent, painstaking and high-minded judicial service as have characterized his work over three decades.

His ripened judgment and lengthy experience are most valuable assets, and the fact that all the Bar Associations unite in endorsing him speaks volumes to his credit.

In filling the vacancy, I cannot resist the urge to voice publicly, in the name of the people of Maryland, deep appreciation of the most valuable judicial service rendered by former Judge Parke. It is difficult to overestimate the benefits accruing from his work on the Court of Appeals and in his Circuit. Everyone familiar with it agrees that it has been second to none in our generation.

I think it fortunate that the attention of the general public has been focused upon judicial appointments. No selection by a Governor are more important than those to the judicial service, and it is reassuring to have the Bar manifest such an interest by putting into effect an arrangement whereby advice and counsel may be supplied prior to such appointments.

FEEDING FOR FITNESS.

Speaking of the importance of "feeding for fitness" as a part of the defense program, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said "we are slowly waking up to the fact that the intelligent selection and use of the kinds of food necessary to maintain health and to keep our physical machinery in the best possible condition, are of more importance to each of us, than merely eating food that is chosen without regard to its nutritive qualities."

"In a comparative study made some time ago of the health of school children in two widely separated districts—one in an agricultural community and the other in an industrial one—a large percentage of the children from the farming sections were found to show marked signs of malnutrition, while those from the industrial area were in much better shape physically.

"Although milk, other dairy products, fruits and fresh vegetables—all of which are essential for a well balanced diet—were really available in the farming sections, the children had been allowed to indulge their preference for less familiar and less nourishing foods, with the result already mentioned.

"Certain factors that affect nutrition—and not all of them apply to food—must be given due consideration in 'feeding for fitness.' A six point program as outlined by the nutritionist of the State Department of Health stresses the following:

"First, the diet must be adequate. That is it must include a generous supply of the protective foods—milk, fruit, vegetables, eggs, whole grain breads and cereals.

"Second, enough sleep and rest are necessary—without them true fitness is impossible.

"Third, there must be freedom from physical defects, such as decayed teeth or diseased tonsils, to insure the best utilization of food.

"Fourth, correct elimination is essential in the utilization of food.

"Fifth, exercise and fresh air are necessary to help to stimulate the appetite.

"Sixth, good posture is included because it gives the digestive organs room to function well."

SINKING THE MAINE.

(An Old Story.)

Twinkling lights flashed fitfully over the waters of Havana Harbor where the U. S. S. Maine lay peacefully at anchor on the night of Feb. 15, 1898.

Over the quiet reaches of the harbor came the musical notes of "Taps," destined never again to be sounded by the young marine who was performing one of his last official duties for the day.

Suddenly a terrific explosion all but disintegrated the vessel. Death, agony, horror, flames, smoke, gas and water took their toll as the forward part of the ship catapulted upward in a searing flame. More than 250 men lost their lives.

In the moments that followed, discipline was superb. Every able-bodied member of the crew did his part in rescuing those not fatally injured, even though threatening flames and minor explosions still harassed the warship.

Private William Anthony, of the Marine Detachment, at the time of the explosion was the orderly of Captain Charles D. Sigsbee, who was in his cabin. The lights were instantly obscured and the compartment filled with smoke. There was immediate and intense darkness.

Although he knew that the ship was about to sink, Anthony groped his way through the darkened passage of the doomed vessel to find his captain. Instinct urged him to seek his own safety. The call to duty proved stronger.

Eventually he stumbled into Captain Sigsbee in the darkness and said "Sir, I have to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking." He remained at the captain's side until the ship was abandoned.

Small wonder that Captain Sigsbee wrote later that Anthony's action was a noble one that he considered an honor to call to the attention of the Navy Department.—U. S. Marine Corps.

BELGIANS STARVING.

Former President Hoover will broadcast Sunday evening, Feb. 16th, from Chicago. Former President Hoover, who with the aid of the Quakers, directed the feeding of 10 million people during and after the last World War, is studying the appalling conditions in Europe caused by the present World War.

On Jan. 9th, he sent a commission of experts into Belgium to get facts. They found the allowance of food per person to be about one-half the ration issued in England and Germany.

"Major food supplies to maintain any Belgium ration will be non-existent in a month. This means literal starvation—unless supplies are brought from somewhere" says this commission experts on large scale famine relief.

Due to rationing, caused by acute shortage of the necessities of life, conditions among Netherland's 8,600,000 inhabitants, Norway's 2,900,000, Central Poland's 14,000,000, and Finland's 3,700,000 add to the seriousness of the situation.

Is America who gave her sons to die for these same Belgians in the last war going to stand silently by and not raise her voice in behalf of these innocent starving people being allowed to feed themselves by spending their own money that is here in the United States and carry the food in their own ships that are tied in our docks?

Former President Hoover is broadcasting a message for the American people this coming Sunday night, Feb. 16, at 10:30 E. E. T. from Chicago over the Columbia network. A message every American who is interested in his fellow-man should hear. Let this broadcast be announced from every pulpit Sunday morning.

Local committee, Rev. John J. Joan, Rev. W. A. Ledford, Mrs. Clara C. Cooper, Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Bixler, all of New Windsor; Rev. Frank Willard, Mt. Airy.

Remember the name Gabriel Gallardo figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 25, lives in San Francisco, and thinks the conscription chiefs have his number already. So why should he buy himself a new suit if Uncle Sam is taking his measurements? Arguing along that line, he told his tailors he didn't think he'd keep the suit they made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, thanks. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and brought suit against Mr. Gallardo in the small claims court. Municipal Judge Kaufman pointed out that, even if he is conscripted, Mr. Gallardo will appreciate a change into "civies" on his day off, and told him to start paying.

Women Poor Parkers Speaking of parking, why is it women are such poor parkers of cars? It is because their clothes are too tight around the arms and they are afraid if they turn the steering wheel too much they will rip their sleeves.

CITIZENS' STATE COMMITTEE TO FIGHT BUDGET.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 10, 1941.—Representative delegations from Washington, Frederick and Baltimore counties this week will carry to Annapolis their fight against the proposed all-time high State budget of $106,000,000. A special hearing has been arranged for the county taxpayers before the Senate Finance committee at 8 P. M. Tuesday night at the State House.

Meanwhile plans for similar action by City organizations are expected to crystallize at a meeting of the civic leaders called for Thursday night at the Emerson Hotel by Dr. Douglas Huntley Gordon former president of St. John's College and Chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Tax Control Committee of Baltimore. Declaring that in their recent battle against the City's tax rate boost Baltimoreans plainly demonstrated their strong economy sentiments, Dr. Gordon said the time for wishful thinking is past, adding that "We must do something about constantly mounting costs of State government or face catastrophe."

Resolutions condemning the proposed $60,000,000 budget increase already have been lodged with the Legislature by these Baltimore groups: Park Heights Civic Improvement Association, Linwood Building and Loan Association, East Baltimore Business Men's Association, East Baltimore Building and Loan Association and the Retail Furniture Dealers' Association. Like action is looked for at meetings this week of the Traffic Club of Baltimore, Exchange Club, of Highlandtown and the Soroptimist Club.

Four motorcades will converge on Annapolis for the hearing. Members of the Washington County Taxpayers Association will leave Hagerstown early Tuesday evening, led by their president, Roy Mowen. In Frederick president Charles F. Feete will bring his Frederick County Taxpayers' Association delegation. Baltimore countyans will form their motorcade at Towson under the leadership of Harry S. Middendorf and the Montgomery County taxpayers will be under the direction of Curtis J. Ireland, their president.

Quoting a statement issued by the steering body, the Citizens' State Budget Emergency Committee, County spokesmen will tell the Senate Committee just what the $106,000,000 Maryland proposes to spend in 1942 and 1943 really means. That amount, it is pointed out, actually exceeds the total taxable real estate base in one-third of Maryland counties, namely, Calvert, Caroline, Howard, Somerset, Kent, St. Mary's, Charles and Carroll. The comparison is based on official figures for 1938—the last publicly available—in the State Tax Commission's Twelfth Biennial Report to the Governor and Legislature.

Further to highlight the formidable increase in governmental costs in recent years, county speakers will show that taxpayers under the proposed budget will have to pay approximately $28 toward the State's expenditures in 1942, whereas twenty years ago they paid only about $7.77, or one-fourth that amount.

Another point the budget protesters will emphasize is the pending increase of over a million dollars in the State appropriation for public schools delving into cold facts and figures again, the county people have found that alongside a population increase of some 400,000 or 25 per cent in the last two decades, during the same period public school appropriations, have stepped briskly ahead to increase some 300 per cent. The total appropriations in the last twenty years for public schools—exclusive of County and City school taxes—has totaled $94,000,000. That, it has been found, exceeds the entire State expenses for the two years of 1938 and 1939 and in fact roughly equals the cost of operating the State government for the years 1921 to 1925 inclusive.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS.

The American Legion through its 11,715 posts is going to register all of its 1,078,119 members, if possible, for national defense service. Unaffiliated World War veterans also will be asked to register. The registration will be entirely voluntary. Its purpose is to provide the local, state and national leadership of The American Legion with a complete inventory of the assets of the organization in manpower, experience and special training that could be made available to the government if needed in the defense of the nation.

National Commander Milo J. Warner has proclaimed Saturday, Feb. 22, the 209th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, as national defense day for all Legionnaires and unaffiliated World War veterans who care to do so. On that day every American Legion post in the country will ask its membership and local World War veterans generally to fill out a questionnaire. It will chronicle every Legionnaire's capabilities and talents which could be used in national defense. From these copies will be compiled post, department and national indices of American Legion national defense assets. These indices will enable the American Legion quickly to locate any member or veteran for whose special services governmental agencies might have a need.

The Hesson-Snyder Post No. 120 of The American Legion will undertake to register all Legionnaires and unaffiliated World War veterans in this community and surrounding area. "This is a summons for possible important service to God and Country whom we served as young men in 1917-18," Commander R. Rohrbach of the local post said. "I feel certain that every Legionnaire and World War veterans generally will welcome this opportunity of perhaps doing another bit for their country. We do not expect to be called for active military service. Most of us are beyond that age. But there are many home defense duties to be performed.

"I urge every Legionnaire and other interested World War veterans in this community to register on Feb. 22. It is a patriotic duty, and we of The American Legion have never shirked our duty, or lagged in our patriotism. The time has come again when we may be called upon once more to stand up for America, and I am sure every Legionnaire in this community is ready."

Appointment of a special committee to handle the voluntary registration of all local Legionnaires and World War veterans generally has been made.

Commander R. Rohrbach has named J. O. Crapster as chairman of the special national defense registration committee. Other members of the committee are Charles R. Arnold and Clyde L. Hesson. All the officers of the local post will serve as ex-officio members of this special committee.

There is nothing compulsory about the registration. Filing out of The American Legion national defense questionnaire and rendering any service that may be called for later, both will be entirely voluntary on the part of the individual. Registration does not involve any military liability.

It is merely for the purpose of cataloging the qualifications and special talents of all Legionnaires and World War veterans for national defense.

MARINES AND MUSKETS.

Accuracy of rifle fire has always been a specialty of the U. S. Marines who have won their full share of prizes for skill on the rifle range and elsewhere.

But it is a far cry from the modern high-powered infantry rifle to the old-fashioned muskets, which also were used to good effect by the sea soldiers in the days of Old Ironsides and other sailing frigates.

A wide variety of small arms were used in the early days of the last century, including the musket, pistol, boarding-pike, cutlass, bayonet, knife, dirk, or tomahawk. Each weapon had its use in the days when war vessels often fought at close quarters.

The musket, however, was the weapon of the marines. It was usually of the flint-lock, muzzle-loading, smooth-bore type and fired a ball of from one to two ounces. It was fairly accurate at 100 yards, could inflict a fatal wound at 200 yards, and had diminishing degrees of effectiveness up to a quarter-mile.

While loading a musket the sea soldier had much more to do than to insert a cartridge clip and manipulate the bolt, as is the case with most of the infantry weapons today.

In those days he had to bite off the bullet from the top of the cartridge so as to expose the powder. He then sprinkled a little of the powder into the pan of the gun, snapped the pan to, dropped the cartridge down the muzzle, rammed it home with the bullet on top, and then took aim and fired.

There were numerous occasions when the musketry fire of the marines proved to be an important factor in the winning of sea battles. Their marksmanship was highly praised by J. Fenimore Cooper and a number of other naval writers.—U. S. Marine Service.

Mosquito Boat Is Deadly Craft

Speedy, 70-Foot Vessels Are Not Vulnerable to Torpedoes.

NEW LONDON, CONN.—A tiny armored sea rled, which skims over the water at 60 miles an hour, presenting an almost indestructible target as it smashes at the enemy with torpedoes, depth charges and anti-aircraft guns, may become one of the navy's most efficient and deadly fighting units.

Officially, these sleds are known as "mosquito boats." They are 70 feet long, of shallow draft that permits their safe passage through mine fields and makes them invulnerable to torpedoes, and are the modern version of the destroyer that is now more heavily armed than the light cruiser of 30 years ago.

Two dozen of these boats are being built by the Electric Boat company for the navy. They are similar in pattern to those used by the British for channel and coastline defense.

Has Four Torpedo Tubes.

The American "mosquito boat" mounts two 21 or four 18 inch torpedo tubes on its deck, has two anti-aircraft guns, at least six depth charges racked over the stern, is equipped with smoke screen apparatus and is the speediest and most maneuverable boat afloat.

It has a cruising range of 700 miles at 44 knots; 1,200 miles at 20 knots, and more than 2,000 miles at 9 knots. It is so easily handled and perfectly balanced that it can counteract over its original course in slightly less than 15 seconds—about the same amount of time it takes a destroyer to begin a turn.

The "mosquito boat" can accelerate from 8 to 40 knots within 8 seconds, and reduce speed from 40 to 3 knots in 3 seconds. The quick acceleration is made possible by having the forward speed lift the boat bodily from the resistance of the water. When the speed is reduced, the vessel settles back into the water and comes to a quick stop.

Can Side-Slip Like Plane.

Navy officials believe the small craft virtually immune from aerial bombing and machine gunning, inasmuch as it is the only boat capable of duplicating on water the sideslip of an airplane.

An official navy bulletin regards the new "hit-and-run" ship in this light: "These so-called 'mosquito boats' have a sting out of all proportion to their size. At a fraction of the cost, they carry the same deadly weapons as their larger counterpart, the destroyer. Without unduly stretching the imagination—given the time, the place and the opportunity—if two torpedoes will seriously damage a battleship, two torpedoes will certainly sink a cruiser under ordinary conditions. Because of their shallow draft, the military assets of these 'mosquito boats' are further augmented, since they cannot be torpedoed and can, for the same reason, enter mine fields without danger of contact.

"These motorboats would be just as difficult to detect as a well-hidden scouting patrol on land under cover of night or stealthily approaching behind a smoke screen. Wave after wave of these tiny boats could be sent to the enemy battle line, each succeeding wave laying a chemical smoke screen to screen the boats following."

Pitcairn's Ke-Discoverer Will Receive a Tribute

MASSILLON, OHIO.—Authors of "Mutiny on the Bounty" have been asked to assist in honoring the memory of the old Yankee skipper and early Massillon settler who more than 130 years ago found the secret South Sea island refuge of the Bounty mutineers.

Citizens here plan to erect a memorial marker at the grave of Capt. Mayhew Folger, the seafarer who re-discovered Pitcairn's island.

Lord Nelson's Grandson Lives Quietly in Maine

DENNYVILLE, MAINE.—In this quiet town 3,000 miles from Europe an 80-year-old man eagerly watches for news of the war.

His concern is deeper than most Americans'. He is Horatio Nelson Lund, grandson of England's Lord Nelson.

Lund has great faith in Britain's ultimate victory. He sees success because of the sea power that his ancestor built to greatness.

Cupid Writes in the Sky To Tell of Couple's Troth

LAKE ARROWHEAD, CALIF.—Miss Ethel-Mary Hamilton, Briarcliff Junior college graduate, and Harold Spurrier Anderson Jr., Stanford university student, had their engagement announced with a flourish.

At the home of the bride's mother here, 40 guests watched an airplane skywriter link their initials in the sky and encircle them with a heart.

Blind Girl, 18, Writes Prize-Winning Fantasy

SEATTLE.—In Marion Anderson's world of darkness there is no room for butterflies. She is blind.

Yet the 18-year-old girl won a short story contest sponsored by the Braille Searchlight magazine. A fairy tale, entitled "How the Butterfly Got Its Name."

With her prize money Miss Anderson contemplates purchase of a cello.

GOVERNMENT of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

—Abraham Lincoln

Standing on the battlefield of Gettysburg where almost 46,000 soldiers of the North and South had died, Lincoln dedicated the National Soldiers' Cemetery on November 19, 1863, with a masterly oration. It contains fewer than three hundred words, but each is a forensic pearl of price.

Expert Assigns Names To Two Hundred Colors

"Color is experiencing its greatest boom in American history," asserts Mrs. Margaret Hayden Rorke, who comes as close as anyone to being America's "color-dictator." The Textile Color Card association, of which she is director, has 1,300 subscribers, running all the way from makers of apparel and cosmetics to manufacturers of automobiles and furniture.

Origin of the association goes back to 1915, when this country was still dependent on Europe for dyes. In those days almost anything from orange to deep pink was likely to be labeled "coral," Mrs. Rorke says. So her first task was to influence an entire nation to agree on a single definition for color-names. Issue of the first list followed weeks of discussion, but now questionnaires are sent and conferences held annually, with the result that more than 200 color-names have been "stabilized." Three months of each year Mrs. Rorke travels to study trends in other parts of the world.

"New quirks in color can be found anywhere," she told the New York Times recently. "It is possible our next source of color may come from a country spotlighted because it isn't in the war. Other than that possibility, the only effect the war has had on colors is to make them gayer. France indulged in drab tones for the last year. Today it senses the value of color psychology."

Cork Supply Is Ample For U. S. Requirements

C. Dudley Armstrong, vice president in charge of foreign operations of the Armstrong Cork company, said recently that the company has on hand in this country stocks of cork of all kinds enough to last for many months to come. Cork has many specialized uses in national defense.

"Ports on the western side of Portugal, such as Lisbon and Aperto, largest centers of the Portuguese cork trade, are open to American ships," Mr. Armstrong pointed out. "Portugal is the largest cork-producing country in the world, yielding a considerably greater quantity than either Spain or Africa. As regards Spain," Mr. Armstrong said, "the Spanish coast north of Portugal, including the Port of Vigo, and the coast along the Bay of Biscay, including Bilbao, are not in the combat area as defined by the United States government."

"The company believes it will be possible to get enough cork from abroad to meet current monthly requirements, thus keeping the large reserve stock virtually intact. It is expected that these shipments will be effected from the Armstrong supply points in the cork-producing areas, largely in vessels of neutral countries other than the United States, although shipment in American vessels will be made when convenient and where American vessels can operate."

'Lost' Painting 'Found'

Ruben's canvas, "Portrait of Mulay Ahmad," is on exhibition in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts—the first time this powerful canvas has been presented in a public gallery. Identity of the picture, which had been "lost" for more than 40 years, was established by Dr. Julius S. Hold, noted art critic.

The portrait, according to Dr. Hold, was a copy made from the lost original by Jan Vermeyen, a Dutch painter, who took part in the expedition to Tunis under Charles V in 1535 and who was commissioned by Charles to make a series of tapestries commemorating the event and affirming his role as protector of Christianity.

Little is known of Mulay Ahmad, represented in the painting. He was the son of Mulay Hasan, about whom more is known. The father was also involved in the expedition to Tunis.

750,000 Meals Yearly

One of the largest of air lines served 750,000 meals a year. A dietician, Miss Mildred Inwood of Chicago is the supervisor of the menus. It is her job to see that passengers get appetizing, wholesome and attractive meals, regardless of where they are flying. Menu suggestions are received from chefs of the company's five commissaries at Portland, Oakland, Salt Lake City, Omaha and Chicago which help her in planning the meals.

In the main office in Chicago, the company maintains an experimental kitchen, in which recipes are standardized, new menus are developed and various kinds of new catering equipment are tried out.

Substitute for Aluminum

There are 30,000,000 tons of aluminum in the southwestern part of Utah, according to Representative Murdock of Utah. There are millions and millions of tons of magnesite around the giant lake, a lake 151 miles long, that will be created in the building of Grand Coulee, in Washington state, according to Representative Leavy of Washington. Leavy says that this magnesite can be reduced to metallic magnesium, which is a metal superior to aluminum and is a third lighter. It has a greater tensile strength and can be produced for 10 cents a pound. He says it is the "magic metal of the future."

CELESTE'S WHINES

(Associated Newspapers.)
WNU Service.

THERE was nothing new about Celeste's whining. All of her twenty years she had merely whined and the whole family hastened to adjust things to suit her fancy. Although her sister was only two years older, Virginia had been made to give up to Celeste from the time she was a baby. Neither the parents nor Virginia realized how completely Celeste had come to dictate their lives.

Just now Celeste was demanding a new dress. It little mattered to her that she had had two new dresses since Virginia had any. Virginia sighed and handed over the money she had been saving for a trip. There was more resentment in her heart than she had ever been conscious of before, but her mother's caressing little pat assured her that she had done the right thing.

"You know, she'll be young only once," the mother consoled, and seemed not to think that Virginia might enjoy being young once, too.

In a few hours Celeste returned from her shopping trip in a jubilant mood.

"Just as I guessed. I have a perfectly gorgeous date and now I have something to wear."

On and on she talked of the man who has "everything."

"Who is he?" Virginia asked half-heartedly.

"You'd never guess in a hundred years. He's just inherited $100,000 and only think what a wonderful chance for me, mumsey," she rejoiced.

Her mother agreed with her and they sat planning how Celeste must be given every help in the family's power that she might be sure to make the proper impression.

"Now, Virginia, since this wonder man is coming this afternoon, won't you do your best with the lunch? Some of your delicious marshmallow cocoa with chicken salad and some of those new sandwiches like you made last night, with a relish and some nuts would be just right." The mother had swallowed hook, line and sinker, as usual, when Celeste had some new plan. And, as usual, the real work of it all fell to Virginia.

Virginia went to the kitchen and started her task with rising rebellion in her heart.

"Yes, Virginia can look on from afar and do the work," she stormed as she shredded the chicken for the salad.

Before she had finished the salad she heard Celeste talking in her best company voice, and she could imagine her sister, crisp and lovely in the new dress, entertaining her handsome friend.

"I'll have to admit that she can look charming," Virginia conceded grudgingly.

Just then she heard the swinging door from the dining room creak and looking up saw her old friend, Bill Thomas.

"How'er you, Virginia?" he beamed and grasped both her hands in a hearty grip. "Up to your old tricks! Honest, I never saw another girl that could stir up as good things to eat as you used to fix for our school picnics."

"Flatterer! Now you'll have to pay for your rashness by tasting each of these things I'm preparing and tell me if you think they are good enough to trap a hundred-thousand-dollar husband for Celeste."

"What's this?" Bill paused midway in his sampling.

"That's what I said. I don't know who he may be, but it certainly has laid us all out to get her gowned and fed properly."

"Lucky I didn't stay in there and queer her chance. Now I'll slip off my coat and help you here, as we used to when we were in high school. What do you say, Virgie?"

Virginia flushed with pleasure at her old nickname and found herself confiding that everything there was Celeste's, without really meaning to do it. With each glance at Virginia Bill seemed to wear a more satisfied expression.

"You haven't told me this new man's name?"

"Sorry, but Celeste wouldn't even tell me," Virginia confided.

Bill gave a low whistle and went on helping.

Finally things were ready and they both prepared to serve the lunch. Virginia served the plates in a most tempting way while Bill filled the cocoa cups.

"I've served enough plates for us all to have some. Of course, we'll eat alone so we won't spoil the family impression," Virginia laughed.

"Well, something tells me that we won't need all those plates," Bill volunteered.

"What, you don't imagine for one minute that this mysterious gentleman has failed to appear?"

"Oh, no, no," Bill consoled immediately.

Sure enough, as Virginia appeared with the luncheon she was met by the astonishing sight of Celeste sitting sedately in a large chair, beautiful in her new dress, but accusingly silent and moody toward her sister. Virginia, entirely innocent of her sister's plot that had failed, laughed happily.

"Bill just happened in to help me, Celeste. But where is the wonderful man?"

Celeste gave one frantic look at her sister and Bill, the look of a trapped animal, then fled upstairs to fling herself on the bed and cry bitter, stormy tears, unmindful of the damage done the lovely new dress.

Virginia gasped in amazement and turned to Bill.

"Well, looks as if I'd failed to play up to my part in Celeste's expectations," he said as they sat down at table together. "But didn't she tell you I was planning to come up this afternoon, and didn't you know that Uncle William had just left me $100,000? You don't have to answer, for I can see you didn't."

"Bill, you don't mean—" Virginia was speechless.

"I do mean that Celeste deliberately took your best at home and then tried to fix things so you'd never see me. I'd like to see the person that could keep me away from you, Virginia, if you really want me near you," he added tenderly.

"Bill, I'm so sorry for silly little Celeste," Virginia whispered happily.

The Homecoming

By ALLISON L. BURKS
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

LOOKING out the train window, Laura could see the two old people who stood on the platform. In the dim glow of the station light they looked unchanged, exactly as they had when she felt them six years ago.

She lifted the child in her arms before she went down the steps of the car. "Laura!" All the way from California there had been a weight in Laura's breast. Now, as her mother's arms closed about her, she felt the weight miraculously dissolving.

Her father took the little girl from her arms. "So this is the baby!" His voice sounded choked.

A dark figure standing behind him moved closer. Ma chuckled. "You didn't see Lew, did you, Laurie? He wanted to come with us to meet you."

"Oh, Lew!" Laura's voice was a little breathless.

The man took the slim hand she held out to him. She knew he was looking down at her intently. "I'm glad you're back, Laura," he said quietly.

"It's just the same! It's just the same!" The words were like a song in Laura's heart as they went into the living room.

Ma went upstairs with her. "I put new drapes at your windows," she told Laura. "How do you think Lew's looking? He's the only lawyer in these parts, and he's doing fine. He's never forgot you, Laurie."

"Of course, I know you must be grieving over your husband dying—I wish we could know him, Laurie—but now that you're back again—"

Laura sat down on the edge of the plump bed. The little girl came close to her side.

"Are we going to live here, Mummy?"

"Yes, darling." She caught the child to her fiercely, staring ahead with eyes that were suddenly hard.

Five years! She would have at least five years. Then she would have to go back. But the child would stay here. Ma and Pa weren't really old. They would be glad to have the baby when she, Laura, was gone. For a moment she felt the pain that parting would bring. Then she set her lips resolutely. She would have her five years in Heaven. Years ago, before she went away, she hadn't known it was Heaven. But Jack had taught her what Hell could be.

Of course, she could have divorced him. But it wouldn't have done any good. Jack would never let her go. Sometimes he loved her; more often he hated her. But he'd never let her go.

She washed the little girl's round face and chubby hands before they went downstairs.

Lew came into the dining-room when he saw her there setting the table. "I hope you were just a little glad to see me, Laura," he said awkwardly.

"Why, of course, Lew." She didn't look at him.

"You don't care if I come out here sometimes?"

"The sugar bowl's empty," she murmured. She went toward the kitchen. She'd better tell him. She mustn't hurt him—not again!

Ma was at the kitchen sink, unwrapping a newspaper from around a bunch of celery. She paused, her eyes caught by an item in the printed columns.

"Here's a funny thing," she said absently. "About a man named John Brown. The same name as your man, Laura. In Los Angeles—Oh, well, I guess there's a lot of John Browns in the world."

She went across the kitchen to the pantry. Laura drew the newspaper toward her. She stood very still, reading the short item.

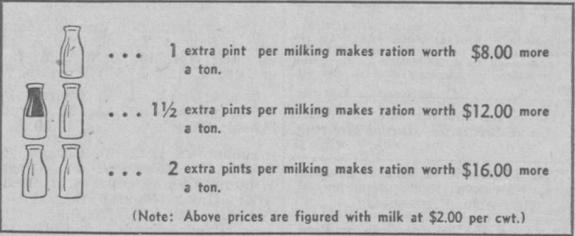

John Brown, sentenced to San Quentin for robbery, was shot and killed while attempting to escape.

Lew had followed Laura into the kitchen. "You didn't answer me, Laura," he reminded her.

She turned to him. Her voice was suddenly alive, vibrant. "Why, Lew," she said. "I want you to come. I'll always want you to come!"

And, her hands against her face, she began to cry.

One Extra Pint of Milk Each Milking Makes Feed Worth $8.00 More Per Ton

Results of experiments at the Purina Experimental Farm show that a cow can consistently produce 15 pounds of milk per milking on one ration and 16 on another. Although that extra pound is only a pint more and hardly shows in the pail, it really does add up to quite a sum.

This is the way it figures. If a cow is fed 10 pounds of a dairy ration each day and milks 30 pounds of milk daily, that means a pretty fair return on the feed she eats, if milk is sold at $2.00 per hundred weight. However, if she is fed the same amount of a better feed and gives one pint more each milking, that feed is worth two cents more per milking or four cents more per day. In other words, the better feed is worth forty cents more for each ten pounds, forty cents more per hundred, or eight dollars more per ton. An extra pint more per milking does make a difference.

While it is hard to tell whether there are 15 or 16 pounds of milk in a milk pail, it's still harder to tell by just looking at a feed whether it will produce 15 or 16 pounds of milk. Two feeds that look alike may produce entirely different results when fed to the cow. It all depends on the ingredients in the feed, their quality, and how they are blended.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our local Purina feed dealer has checkerboard dairy rations to be fed straight with home grown roughage. He also has checkerboard dairy concentrates to be mixed with home grown grains to make up dairy rations that are fed with home grown roughages. He will be happy to advise cow owners how to feed their herds to the best advantage, using as much of their home grown feed as possible.

Quick Coffee Cake Fills Many a Bill

IF IT'S company that drops in for overnight, or a case of wanting to "treat" the family, a quick coffee cake dresses up almost any breakfast.

When inspired to bake extra, but time limits you, then the new self-rising flour is a good friend. Baking powder and salt are ready-mixed into it and evenly, too, so your precious time is saved. Just mix in fat, sugar, egg and liquid, and the coffee cake is ready for the oven.

But here is the exact recipe:
Quick Coffee Cake.
Cut or rub 2 tablespoons fat into 2 cups self-rising flour. Beat 1 egg with 3 tablespoons sugar, and add to ¾ cup milk. Add liquid to flour mixture, and spread batter in greased pan (layer should be ½ inch thick). Cover with top mixture and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes.

Top Mixture for Coffee Cake.
Rub 4 tablespoons butter into 1 tablespoon self-rising flour, ½ cup sugar (confectioner's or granulated), and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Press 2 dozen raisins into batter at regular intervals, and sprinkle sugar mixture over top.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 16

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS AND GRATITUDE

LESSON TEXT—Luke 17:1-4, 11-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:32.

Did you ever hear of "vinegar saints"? They are the Christian folk who are "preserved" (as Paul prayed in I Thess. 5:23), but are apparently pickled instead of sweetened. Every housewife knows that things may be preserved with sugar or with vinegar.

God never intended it to be that way. All through His Word there are admonitions and encouragements to gracious and considerate living. Every Christian is under orders to "grow in grace" as well as in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ (II Pet. 3:18). This lesson stresses two leading Christian graces.

I. Forgiveness—Not Always Easy, but Always Possible (vv. 1-4).

The Bible is ever realistic in its approach to life. God knows that Christians must live in just our kind of world; in fact, your kind of world, and makes provision for it.

Offenses cannot be avoided. There will always be occasions for stumbling. No matter how closely we may guard our children, they will face temptations. Let us prepare them to meet them with the power of Christ, and let us be so prepared ourselves.

The fact that offenses must come does not excuse the one who creates the cause of stumbling. Someone is responsible for every such occasion for offense, and the woe of God is pronounced upon him.

What shall I do about the one who thus tempts me and others? Just grieve over it and look the other way? No indeed. "Rebuke him," says God's Word. Let us do it! If he does not repent, there is no occasion for forgiveness. To do so would only encourage him in his sin.

If he repents, or even says he repents, we are to forgive, not just once, but over and over again (v. 4). That's not easy for any of us, but it is possible if we, like the disciples (see v. 5), ask God to "increase our faith," and use it as Jesus directs in verse 6.

II. Gratitude—the Almost Forgotten Christian Grace (vv. 11-19).

Nine men wonderfully healed of the dreadful disease of leprosy, and only one said, "Thank you," to Jesus, "and he was a Samaritan," an outsider or stranger. One wonders whether in our own day of professed enlightenment and culture the average of those who express their gratitude would even reach one-tenth.

"Gratitude is as scarce as friendship." Many there are who profess to be Christians who never offer praise to God for the provision of their daily food, let alone for all other temporal and spiritual blessings. The kindness of friends is taken for granted. The thoughtfulness of others is accepted without comment.

Have you told your minister that you appreciate his sermons and his ministry in the community? Does your Sunday School teacher know that you have received help and blessing in the class? Does the editor of this paper know that you enjoy and appreciate this column? If you do, why not encourage him by calling him on the telephone or writing him a note to tell him so?

Young people, have you ever said a real heart-felt "thank you" to your father or mother for all they have done for you? Perhaps some older sister or brother or school teacher or neighbor would be greatly heartened by such a word from you.

Someone may say, "I am grateful, but I am not the type that talks about it." One wonders whether Henry Van Dyke was not right when he said, "A dumb love is accepted only from the lower animals." A dog will show his thankfulness by wagging his tail, but a man has a tongue with which to say kind and tender words of appreciation to both God and man.

Most important of all, let us bear in mind that God awaits our words of praise. Christ valued the words of gratitude of this man and missed them from the nine others. When he was in Simon's home (Luke 7:44-46), he gently rebuked His host for failing to show him the ordinary courtesies of the household.

Appreciate Beauty

Never lose an opportunity of seeing anything beautiful—welcome it in every fair face, every fair sky, every fair flower and thank Him for it who is the fountain of all loveliness; and drink it simply and earnestly with all your eyes; it is a charmed draught, a cup of blessing.—Kingsley.

Bible Is Valuable Guide

I have read it (the Bible) through many times; I now make a practice of going through it once a year; it is a book of all others for lawyers as well as divines, and I pity the man who cannot find in it a rich supply of thought and rule for conduct.—Daniel Webster.

Yuma, Arizona, Dryest, Oregon State Wettest

When the weather bureau reports half an inch of rainfall in a day, it may not sound like a great deal, but it takes a heavy rain to make that much.

Half an inch of rain over one acre of ground amounts to about 14,000 gallons! The weight of that many gallons is more than 56 tons. If half an inch of rain falls in an area of a square mile, it means about 36,000 tons of water tumbling down.

Some deserts of the earth may have less than an inch of rain in a whole year. There are not many such deserts, however. Most of them have at least a few inches. When rain does come on a desert, it may pour down with great force.

Yuma, Ariz., is dry most of the time. Its average rainfall is only about a quarter of an inch in a month. Yet there was a time in 1921 when Yuma had more than 3½ inches of rain in the space of 24 hours!

A rainfall map of North America shows a broad belt of land which reaches from the western side of Hudson Bay down into Mexico, and which has less than 20 inches of rain in a year. That belt includes a great deal of the prairie land in Canada and the United States.

Most other parts of this continent have more rain. The eastern half of North America has an average of about 35 inches per year, or nearly three inches per month.

The wettest parts of North America include certain sections of British Columbia and the states of Washington and Oregon. The rainfall in those sections is above 80 inches per year. Tillamook county, Oregon, has about 130 inches each year.

Although the torrid zone has most of the very wet spots, the wettest of all is a little above the northern limit of that zone. It is in the Himalaya mountains, about 150 miles north of Calcutta, India. This "wettest of all spots" has about 400 inches of rain each year.

Salmon Travels Plenty, Always Comes Back Home

While salmon are in the ocean they usually do not go more than 40 or 50 miles away from the mouth of the river by which they entered. This is a general rule, but it does not always hold true.

Salmon have been caught from 200 to 500 miles out to sea!

Sooner or later a salmon goes back to fresh water. Most often it returns to the river in which it was hatched. Reaching fresh water, it starts upstream.

The fish eats little if anything in the river. Its body contains a store of fat, and this serves to supply food during the weeks or months it is on the way.

A waterfall in the river may be in the way of the salmon, but it has fine leaping power. It can jump six or seven feet high to get over a waterfall.

Many rivers have cascades, which rise in a river bed, one after another. Reaching a cascade, the salmon may make jump after jump until it reaches the top. Then it goes on with its upstream journey.

When salmon rivers are dammed, the government takes special steps. "Fish ladders," which are stairways of a sort, may be provided, or the salmon may be taken out of the river in nets and then transported by trucks to a point above the dam.

It is ever so important to help salmon get past the dam. Otherwise the next year's hatch would be spoiled, and the salmon industry would suffer a blow.

Journeys of great length are made by some salmon. Those which go up the Yukon river often travel a distance of more than 2,000 miles.

Librarian's Red Barrel Restocks Shelves Quickly

WEST HARTFORD, CONN.—Library officials felt that many persons neglected to return over-due books because they were embarrassed in having kept them so long. So, they placed a little red barrel on the library steps and announced that delinquents could return the books at night, without being seen, without paying a fine, and no questions asked.

In two weeks $120 worth of books, some of them taken out more than eight years ago, were dropped into the barrel. One book was "borrowed" in 1919.

Billion Meals

A billion appetizing meals are served to guests of America's hotels annually, 220,000,000 more are served to their army of employees, which constitutes a major part of the hotel business which makes it "America's Seventh Son."

Stars Not Five Pointed

The stars do not in reality have five points. The apparent points of stars when seen by the naked eye are due merely to scintillation which arises from inequalities of the earth's atmosphere.

No Flag in 1777

The continental congress introduced the flag resolution in 1777, but the nation didn't have an all-American flag over the Capitol until 1866. English-made cloth was used before that.

X-Ray an Aid In Treating Sinus Trouble

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

ONE day you may read of the great success certain specialists have had in the treatment of chronic sinus ailments by use of X-rays and of how the clearing up of the sinus infection has resulted in greatly improved hearing of the patient. The specialist in this case has treated a number of cases and had cured or helped the majority of them.

Perhaps the next day you read of another specialist using X-ray treatment in the same number of cases without any success whatever.

Now there would appear to be something wrong when one specialist gets good results from a method of treatment and another gets no satisfactory results whatever.

Dr. E. Tribble Gatewood, Richmond, in Archives of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) reports the study of 22 cases of chronic sinus infection (sinusitis) before and after treatment by X-ray. Four patients of the group showed complete relief of symptoms and eight were improved as far as their symptoms were concerned. Ten patients were not helped at all.

Why were some of these cases cured, some improved and others not helped at all?

Ventilation of Sinus Needed.

It depends upon the condition of the lining or mucous membrane of the sinus. When this has become very thick or hardened, the X-ray (in the dosage given anyway) was unable to penetrate or restore it to normal. If this lining can be restored to normal, the sinus can be properly ventilated. A well-ventilated sinus gives no trouble, as the air destroys harmful organisms and, if lining is not swollen and thickened, the sinus can drain properly into the nose and throat.

Another point about the success or nonsuccess of X-ray treatment of sinus infection is that X-ray specialists are not agreed as to the "dose" of X-rays that should be given or how often.

Sufferers with chronic sinus disease who have tried without success all the usual methods of treatment—sprays of adrenalin up the nose, washing out with salt and water, injections of ovary extracts—can finally try X-ray treatment.

How to Relax And Go to Sleep

A PHYSICIAN is often asked by adult patients as to the length of time they should sleep, and his answer in most cases is that eight hours is about right.

Two cases often cited are Thomas Edison, who slept about four hours at night, and Woodrow Wilson, who required nine or ten. Most people forget that Edison was hard of hearing, and so when he slept he was not disturbed by noises low or loud, strange or familiar.

It is being able to keep body and mind relaxed that prevents us from becoming tired too soon. A completely relaxed body and mind is getting 80 per cent as much rest as if it were asleep; that is, from the standpoint of heart rate, breathing, temperature and blood pressure.

When the physician wants the patient to relax completely so that an examination of the abdomen can be made he asks him to hold his mouth open and breathe slowly through the mouth. This relaxes the body and, to a considerable extent, the mind also.

Relaxation is the exact opposite of tenseness. To relax requires no effort. It means to "let loose," to stop doing. In learning to relax a person learns to recognize tenseness wherever it occurs in the body. By letting each part of the body go limp or loose—legs, arms, trunk—one after the other or all together, tenseness of body disappears and with it often tenseness or alertness of mind.

Sometimes when there is no noise, no light, no draft, no heat or cold keeping you awake, try lying on either side with arms and legs bent and your mouth loose and open. You may snore, but you should get off to sleep.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Would prostate gland trouble have any unfavorable congenital effect on a child? Is it possible to cure prostate gland trouble?

A.—If prostate trouble is simply an enlargement of the gland this could not affect a baby born to you. If infection is present treatment by a specialist is usually necessary. Sometimes it is necessary to remove prostate gland. Don't hesitate to speak to your family physician about it.

Juicy Fruit Roll "Makes" the Meal

WHEN the family tires of berries plain and berries fancy, try a new trick. It's the raspberry roll which folds juicy raspberries in a crisp pastry. It's delicious, you'll agree.

An aid to shorter hours indoors is the new self-rising flour which makes hot biscuits, cakes and desserts in two shakes. The baking powder and salt are ready-mixed into it, thus a double saving of (1) price of these two ingredients, and (2) the time of sifting them with the flour.

Try the new, speed flour in the following summer dessert:

Raspberry Roll

Make pastry by cutting ½ cup fat into 2½ cups self-rising flour until the mixture is thoroughly blended; adding cold water a little at a time to make a stiff dough. Roll pastry in a rectangular shape, keeping it about ¼ inch thick. Brush lightly with 1 egg white diluted in 2 tablespoons cold water. Spread with 2 cups red raspberries, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, and 1 tablespoon self-rising flour. Roll as for jelly roll. Wet the edges and press together to keep in the juice. Brush top of roll with remaining egg white, prick with a fork, and place in a greased dripping pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with a hard sauce made by beating ½ cup butter to the consistency of thick cream, sifting in 1½ cups confectioner's sugar slowly, beating until the mass is fluffy, then adding 1 teaspoon flavoring extract.

Artist, a Refugee From Europe, in Guard Unit

EL PASO.—A 24-year-old sculptor who saw Hitler's troops appropriate Czechoslovakia, the land of his forefathers, is training with the 202d Coast Artillery regiment of the Illinois National Guard at Fort Bliss.

He is Corp. Joseph Martinek, Battery D, whose sculptures have been exhibited at the Chicago Art Institute and other galleries.

Member of a well-to-do Cleveland family, young Martinek studied at the Prague School of Applied Arts from 1934 to 1939. He left six weeks after the Nazis moved in.

New Floors

Old shellacked floors that are worn in spots may be renewed by sandpapering the worn areas with fine sandpaper, then cleaning the spot with a cloth, dampened with alcohol. Two thin coats of shellac should finally be brushed over the spot, "fading" the brush strokes towards the edges where they overlap the old shellac. Scratches in a shellacked floor may be taken out by simply wiping them with alcohol.

The Truth Hurts, but It's the Only Way Out

TULSA, OKLA.—An attorney was presented this problem:

"I'm 53 years old," a woman told him, "but I'm married to a man who thinks I'm only 39. I've got a son 36 years old, but to make my story stick, we dropped some years off his age."

"Now, my son has to register for the draft unless he tells his correct age. If he does that I'll have to claim he was born when I was three years old. What shall I do?"

The attorney suggested a family truth session.

Perfect Bridegroom Is Utterly Astonished

MEMPHIS, TENN.—The perfect bridegroom has appeared. His handsomely engraved wedding announcements boldly proclaimed:

AWARDED AT CLOSE OF CONTESTS

IT'S EASY -- NOTHING TO BUY -- NOTHING TO SELL

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES

- Simply write a letter in 50 additional words or less, starting with this statement, "I think an Electric Range is the safest kind of stove because . . ." Write on one side of a sheet of paper. Print plainly your name and address.
 - Mail to Contest Editor, Dept. W, The Potomac Edison System, Hagerstown, Md. You can enter these contests as often as you like. The winner of the grand prize of a 1941 Electric Range (Model West, AC64, complete with clock and timer) will be selected from among the winners of the weekly Roaster Prizes. (In case winners prefer, other electrical appliances equal in value to the range or roaster, may be selected.)
 - There will be eight weekly contests, each with a separate prize, of an Electric Roaster (Model West, RRA84). Opening and closing dates:
- | CONTEST DATES | OPEN | CLOSE |
|---------------|-------------|-------------|
| 1st | NOW | February 22 |
| 2nd | February 23 | March 1 |
| 3rd | March 2 | March 8 |

| 6th | March 23 | March 29 |
| 7th | March 30 | April 5 |
| 8th | April 6 | April 12 |
- Entries will be entered in the contest for which they are received. Final entries must be postmarked before midnight Saturday, April 13, 1941, and must be received by April 15, 1941.
 - Entries will be judged for originality, sincerity and aptness of thought. The judges' decision will be final. Entries, contents and ideas therein, become the property of The Potomac Edison System. Contests subject to all Federal and State regulations.
 - Anyone may complete exempt employees of The Potomac Edison System and their families.
 - The names of the winners of each of the weekly contests and of the grand prize will be announced in this paper as soon after the close of each of the contests as possible, and the winners will also be notified by mail.

JUST write a letter, in fifty additional words or less, starting with this statement, "I THINK AN ELECTRIC RANGE IS THE SAFEST KIND OF STOVE BECAUSE . . ."

This is your chance to win kitchen ease, comfort, beauty and safety for yourself and your family in the form of a beautiful new Electric Range. All the money saving, time saving, health protecting and safety features of modern Electric Cookery can be yours if you win this simplest and easiest of all contests.

Even if your entry doesn't win the grand prize, you have eight opportunities to win one of the beautiful automatic Electric Roasters, which are really miniature electric ranges themselves.

And remember—if you are a winner and prefer to— you have the privilege of selecting other electric appliances equal in value to those announced.

There's nothing to buy and nothing to sell, no coupons to clip or enclose. Just follow the easy rules at the left. It isn't the elaborateness of your entry that counts—it's the sincerity, originality and aptness of thought.

Anyone can enter and you can enter as many contests as you wish as many times as you wish. If you want to find out more about the safety features of the Electric Range, your own Electric Range dealer will be glad to explain them. So don't lose time! Enter today! Enter every contest!

HOMEMAKERS' CLUB MEET.

The February meeting of the Home makers' Club took place on the afternoon of February 13, at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith. After being called to order by the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," the meeting proceeded in the usual order. The demonstration concerned economy meals and nutrition and was given by Mrs. Joseph Elliot, who had prepared a single dish meal which was sampled by the members.

The Home-makers' wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who so generously and willingly helped them in the drive for funds for the Library. In particular, for their generous donations, we thank the Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce as well as those persons who gave individual donations. For the use of the Municipal Building for practicing, we extend our gratitude to the Taneytown Volunteer Firemen. Our appreciation of the cooperation of the High School, the members of the cast of "Bubbling Over," of the choruses, is extreme, and we thank the merchants for their consideration. Upon discussion of the drive at the meeting the members were all in accord as to the splendid cooperation which they received.

The meeting was adjourned to meet again in March.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL VALENTINE PARTY.

The annual Valentine party of the Taneytown Kiwanis Club was held in connection with the weekly meeting of the Club, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 12, at 6 o'clock, at Sauble's Inn. President Harry M. Mohney presided. Club singing was in charge of M.C. Fuss, chairman of the music committee. Mrs. Wallace Yingling accompanied at the piano.

There was present in all fifty-seven members, visitors and guests. The guest of honor was Osborne Beall, Lieutenant-Governor of the Sixth Division of the Capital District. Visitors included Mrs. Mary Mohney, Misses Mary Lou Essig, Mary Evalyn Jenkins, Jean Mohney, Virginia Bower, Mary Gilbert, Messrs Elmer Hahn and John Green.

The program was in charge of the House and Reception Committee, Raymond Wright, chairman. Mrs. John Green gave two readings, "Mrs. Lock gets some Salt" and "Scrumptious Wedding."

A play entitled "Who's Cruise," was presented by a cast consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grossnickle, Mr. Thurston Foutz, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Niswander and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bowman.

The program next week will be in charge of the Citizenship Committee, Prof. Milton Terry, chairman and will be designated as "Patriotic Night."

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

The Taneytown High School basketball team seemed to hit their stride this week when they defeated the Emmitsburg High School five 24-4 on Monday, Feb. 3. Taneytown had previously beaten Emmitsburg by 3 points in Taneytown, but the team seemed to click better when they got away. Taneytown led 16-1 at the half time.

On Feb. 5, Taneytown boys, played Littlestown on the home floor. Littlestown is regarded as a far better team than any which had been met before. The game was close in all periods until the last, when Taneytown opened up. At half-time the score was knotted at 16 all. At the three-quarter mark Littlestown led for the first time 23-22. The last period had no sooner started when the town boys dropped two to take the lead never to be headed again.

This victory the fifth out of six. In the preliminary games the girls won from Emmitsburg 33-24. They were beaten by Littlestown on Feb. 5, by the score of 31-22.

Next week the teams travel to Union Bridge and Hampstead. The box scores are:

A DREAM HIGHWAY.

And so, we are now told in the Maryland Motorist that a "Dream Highway" is being planned by State Road officials.

It would be another highway connecting Baltimore and Washington, the present highway having had the highest accident record in the state—an average of over 40 being killed each year in the state.

The cost of this dream highway would be about $12,000,000. In connection with this outlay, the Maryland motorist says:

"A full three weeks after Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor repudiated the salient feature of a report prepared by the State highway planning survey (to reduce Baltimore's share of the State gasoline tax), a letter giving the report the "wholehearted endorsement" of Thomas H. McDonald, Federal Commissioner of Public Roads, was presented to the Legislature.

Confronted with the need of spending some $3,000,000 on roads to handle the traffic pouring in and out of the Glenn Martin Company airplane plant, the State Roads Commission has opened negotiations to obtain Federal aid."

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Have you invested in a smile? Do you think the thing worthwhile? Wipe out that frown from off the face. It looks not well, fits not your grace. When you arise from bed each day What do you do? Or curse, or pray? If you would lead a happy life, Freed from Malice, Envy, Strife, You should begin each new-born day With thoughts of Love, and how to pray.

If this New Year we'd all resolve To live in peace, bound round by love We'd find the world a bully place Check full of peace and boundless grace. W. J. H. 12-24-40.

RAILROAD CONDUCTOR KILLED

Michael F. Figley, of Hagerstown, a W. M. R. R. conductor was killed on Wednesday by a helper locomotive in the yard at Union Bridge, before his freight train was scheduled to leave for Hagerstown.

Both of Figley's legs were cut off when he stepped in the way of the helper after he apparently failed to hear the whistle of the helper engine.

In Hindustan a copper cent is called a "damri." From this probably came the expression, "It isn't worth a continental."

There is no such thing as idle curiosity—all curiously is busy.

"How old are you my little man?" asked an old gentleman of a little tot. "I'm not old at all" said Teddie "I'm almost new."
