TANEYTOWN, MD., FRIDAY OCTOBER 31, 1941.

$1.00 A YEAR

COMMUNITY LOCALS

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personal, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc. are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events.

Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Large events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

Mrs. Charles Roop, of Santiago, California, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roop, of near town.

Mrs. Milton Cutsail returned to her home Sunday from the Frederick City Hospital, and is getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leister and Miss Mabel Leister were Sunday dinner guests of Miss Sallie Fowler, of Baltimore.

We should like to know how many are interested in the cross-word puzzles we have been using. If only a few, then we will drop the expense of it.

Taney Rebekah Lodge No. 83, will hold their Groupe and Rally on Monday evening, Nov. 3. The members are all asked to be present.—Bessie Six, Sec'y.

Charles G. Boyd and son-in-law, of Baltimore County, paid our office an appreciated visit, on Wednesday. Charlie used to pitch the "Knuckle ball" in many of our local baseball games.

We have renewed a subscription for The Record for two years, this week, from Glen C. Bosley, Geneseo, Ill. Thanks Glennie, glad to hear from you. Come back on a visit to Carroll County.

Mrs. Mary Mohney, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Margaret Walk, at Butler, Pa., returned home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mohney and daughter, Jean, met her at Bedford, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard, of Delmar, Del., and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Bankard, of town and daughter, Miss Helen, of Salisbury, Md., spent last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weisser, of Columbia, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart F. King, of near town; Miss Carrie M. King, of Littleton, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Trone, of Hanover, Pa., spent Sunday with Mrs. Lenore Hohring and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smyth, of Frostburg, Md.

The executors of the estate of Mary Ann Henrietta Nusbaum sold at public sale, last Saturday, a house and lot on East End to Mrs. Margaret Erb, Frizellburg for $3,975, and two farms near Taneytown to Sterling Nusbaum for $5,025.

Mrs. Tressa Grossnickle, of Baltimore, and her friend, Mrs. Starnor called on Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hess, on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Grossnickle was Tressa Black a pupil of Mr. Hess at Hilland View School some forty years ago. Needless to say he was delighted to see her after so many years.

E. L. Crawford, formerly of Taneytown, but now of Detour, reports selling his fast trotting mare Anna Worth 2.084 to Mr. George Gingel, of Emmitsburg. Mr. Gingel will use the old mare for a fun horse. Come on boys with your speed hook onto the old sorrel mare, as usual she will be looking you in the eye.

The following called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Stonesifer, last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Reifsnider and Mrs. Guy Reifsnider, son Paul, of Fountain Valley; Mrs. Jesse F. Stonesifer, of near Frizellburg; Miss Helen Bankard, of Salisbury; Frankling Gilds, of Westminster; and Rhoda and Dorothy Rohrbach of town.

Saturday evening's Baltimore papers contained a lengthy account of the fire of the apartment house at 801 Hamilton Ave., Baltimore, and had pictures of those rescued from the building. One picture was of Mrs. Claude Danton and her four-month-old daughter, Patricia. Mrs. Danton was Miss Ruth Bankard, formerly of Taneytown, and is a sister of Mrs. Walter Wilt, Mrs. Norman Reindollar, Miss Mabel Leister and John Leister.

The Berean Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church had a Halloween party at the Manse on Tuesday evening. All came masked. A program of music on Hawaiian guitars by Charlotte Baker, Gloria Bartgis, and Leonard Zinn, of Hanover, and selections on the accordion by Miss Mary Shriver, was given. Games were played. Refreshments of ginger bread, cider, apples, and candy were served. Everyone reports a good time. Forty-one were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fox entertained at a birthday dinner, on Sunday, in honor of Mr. Harry Fleagle and granddaughter, Charlotte Austin. The table was decorated with two beautiful birthday cakes and a lovely dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleagle, Mr. and Mrs. Upton Austin, daughters, Carman, Charlotte, sons Karl Melvin and William; Mrs. Virgie Ohler sons, Richard and Joseph and daughter, Barbara Lee.

THE PRESIDENT

Appeals to Labor to help the U. S.

Notwithstanding his address Monday night labor leaders continue to hold sway to the point of obstruction to the needs of the U. S. Army and Navy.

This looks very much like aid to Hitlerism; or, at least it is placing the President in the position of begging for help and not enforcing a demand.

The people do not elect labor leaders, but come near being led by them and it is time for the President to let this be known, emphatically.

Any other course would leave us in bad standing with England, France and Russia, and encourage Japan to hold off from a friendly status with the U. S.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE IN HOME-MAKERS' CLUBS

Membership drives in all the Homemakers' Clubs of Maryland will be conducted during the month of November under the direction of the State Membership Committee, County Membership Committee, and a chairman from each of the 22 local Clubs in Carroll County. Homemakers Clubs are conducted under the authority of the Extension Service of the University of Maryland and under the local direction of the Home Demonstration Agent, Adeline M. Hoffman. The general objectives of Homemakers' Clubs are to raise the standards of home and community life and to demonstrate better methods of homemaking, to promote sociability and neighborliness among the women of the county, to encourage and cooperate with each other in bringing together the community people for all public spirited enterprises and to develop leadership and initiative among rural women in the promotion of those movements which are for the building of rural life.

Any woman living in the county is eligible to become a member of one of the 22 Homemakers Clubs which are organized in this county. The only requirement for membership is that she accept the objectives of the organization. Any woman may enroll in a Homemakers Club thru the Home Demonstration Agent at her office in the Postoffice Building, or thru the President, Membership Chairman, or any member of any of the Homemakers' Clubs in the county. All Clubs hold monthly meetings and participate in community-wide and county-wide activities which are sponsored by local Clubs and County Council of Homemakers' Clubs. Beside the monthly demonstrations, there are special project meetings held in various parts of the county on specific phases of homemaking.

There is no charge for attending any of these meetings nor is there any charge for the services of the Home Demonstration Agent. There are over 600 Club members in Carroll County and about 12,000 in the whole State. This makes the Maryland State Council of Homemakers' Clubs the strongest women organization in the State and when the present membership campaign closes the membership will probably be very materially increased. Any women in the county who would like to know which is the nearest Homemakers' Club she might join may get this information from the Home Demonstration Agent, or anyone of the 600 or more Club members in the county.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

The Taneytown School is sponsoring in its auditorium on Wednesday, November 5, 1941, a Card Party. Approximately one hundred prizes will be given to the patrons making the best scores, and refreshments will be served. There will be given a beautiful door prize. Your cooperation and help would be greatly appreciated.

A play will be given in the Taneytown School Auditorium, Wednesday night, December 10th. The proceeds will be used to purchase new books for the library.

A Christmas dance, sponsored by the Senior Class, will be held in the High School auditorium, during the week of December 15-19. The exact date and orchestra will be announced later. Plan to bring your friends.

Within the next few weeks the first edition of "The Taneyette" will be published. If you haven't given your subscription, see any high school student who will be glad to take your order.

Masons Vote $1,000,000 to Vets.

Scottish Rite Masons vote this large sum to their own victims of the European War, and will grant further aid if necessary, which shows the strength of this fraternal order with world-wide membership.

Other Masonic organizations are sure to follow the lead of this largest one.

CARROLL CO. MINISTERIAL MEETING

Will be held in Westminster Seminary on Monday, Rev. Richard M. Lundberg, pastor, Ascension Episcopal Church. Subject: "Religion in the Far East, where he traveled."

Business, planning trips the ministers will take to other cities to hear prominent speakers.

THE PRESIDENT'S NAVY DAY SPEECH

Will Arouse Country-wide Varying Opinions.

The President's Navy address delivered in Washington, Monday night; taken as a whole, was a forceful one and will be so accepted regardless of politics that has played such a leading part in his career, and may not yet be satisfied.

His condemnation of Hitlerism was such as will be generally approved in this country, as will also be his partiality for Russia.

That he spoke out so strongly against unionized labor as it is interfering with governmental production of war supplies, was both merited and timely, in which he has been open to much merited criticism for what appears to have been part of his political policy.

He spoke of valuable maps having fallen into the possession of our government showing the German plan for dividing up the world.

There is the appearance of his taking credit for legislation by Congress already passed, and not specially because of his dictation, but sometimes more like his opposition.

Pretty generally, we think, the Naval Day message will be approved. The President put up a hard decision when he said that Union labor must stop interfering with government contracts. The Lews's and others do not own our Navy nor any other activity of the U. S. Government, and unionists will be required hereafter to keep "hands off."

TRINITY LUTHER LEAGUERS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Twenty-eight Luther Leaguers of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown attended the Carroll District Luther League Worker's Conference in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Hampstead Sunday afternoon, and in so doing, won first prize for the best represented League of the entire District.

Over one hundred and thirty Lutherans from Carroll County conducted an afternoon and evening program of discussion groups and fellowship that will long be remembered. Such topics as: "Our Relations with those who Differ"; "The Church in a world of Conflict"; "Personal Religious Living"; and "Recreation in your Church" were presented by some of the leading pastors of the State.

Taneytown Leaguers who were installed as new officers of the District at an impressive installation service were: Mary Louise Alexander, executive Committee member, and Joseph Shockey as Sustaining Membership Secretary.

The Fire Danger Still Present

Fire Prevention Week is over. During that period, almost every American was given an opportunity to learn of the hazards that cause fire, and the simple preventative steps that will eliminate the bulk of them. We saw fire prevention placards and circulars. We read about fire prevention in our newspapers and heard about it over the air. Now is the time to put the information gained, to use.

If you failed to take advantage of Fire Prevention Week, it isn't too late to correct matters. Insurance agents, fire marshals and others are glad to give anyone the desired information. Fire can be conquered when, and only when, all of us fight this enemy of life and property, and of national defense.

Fire is the great waster, the great killer, the great destroyer. Fire takes the fruit of men's labors and reduces it to smoking piles of useless ash and rubble. Fire breeds delay in industrial production. Fire consumes resources and materials which are vitally needed for defense work and normal life as well. Fire is the ever-present ally of this nation's enemies.

Such organizations as the National Board of Fire Underwriters are doing a superb job in improving the fire protection of army camps, naval bases and industrial areas. They are fighting arson and sabotage on a 24-hours-a-day, 365 days-a-year basis. But they can't do it all. They can't send an inspector into every home and place of business. They must have the help of everyone if the war against fire is to result in victory.

It's up to you. At least eighty per cent of the fires that destroy hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property and some 10,000 lives each year, are preventable. Here's a job for the nation.

Here is a typical day's menu in the U. S. Navy:
Breakfast: Fresh fruit, Vienna sausage with tomato sauce, assorted cereals, griddle cakes with syrup, bread, butter and coffee.

Dinner: Vegetable soup, pot roast of beef, succotash, mashed potatoes, salad, bread, butter, coffee, chocolate cake and ice cream.

Supper: Liver and bacon, string beans, steamed rice, salad, stewed prunes, bread, jam and tea.

Every large ship in the U. S. Navy and many of the smaller ones publish a daily press sheet in mimeographed form; the items are picked up by radio.

BEST IN THE WORLD

As a good Country to Live in

In a message to Congress in May of this year, the President of the United States said:

"One of the greatest resources in the arsenal of Democracy is our national ability and interest in Industrial Research. For the vigorous prosecution of our defense program and for the assurance of national defense after the emergency, we rely heavily on the continued vitality of research by industry in both pure and applied science."

From the industrial laboratories of big industries have come many of the comforts and conveniences that have helped to make this the best country in the world to live in, and to make it the most resourceful country in peace-time. The wonders that flow from the American ingenuity of our laboratories in peace-time give us confidence in their capacity for defense.

TANEYTOWN KIWANIS CLUB

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting in the form of a "Hallowe'en Party" Wednesday evening at six o'clock at Sauble's Inn. President Harry M. Mohney presided. The music period was in charge of Raymond Wright with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano. There were present 25 members and 20 guests.

The program was in charge of the ladies, Mrs. Robert Smith, Chairman. Mrs. Smith presented Rev. Nevin Smith, pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Church, of Hanover, Pa., as the speaker of the evening.

Rev. Smith in his eloquent and humorous address made an appeal for the appreciation and enjoyment of the funny things in life, especially as such appreciation and enjoyment help people to endure the hard side of our existence, and defined laughter and the ability to laugh as a sort of safety valve of the emotions to prevent and to relieve the strain incident to our hurried and worried lives. One of the best qualities in human nature is the ability even in catastrophe to see something funny. When a person has lost the ability to laugh, something is wrong with his soul.

Rev. Smith recalled hearing two persons who had traveled lately in Europe say that the people of Europe just before the beginning of the present World War seemed to have lost the power to be gay or even to smile, and on account of that attitude and state of mind, it was predicted that some terrible experience was about to descend upon those people. If people are not able to get satisfaction out of things to laugh at, they are bound to get it out of things which are evil. Life is not all drab. We are better able to meet conditions as they come if we are able to laugh at things which are small and silly. We are more able to meet serious things by being able to laugh at silly things.

After the address, the program continued with the singing of two solos, "Song of Songs" and "Hear Dat Wind a-Blowin'" by Mrs. Thea. Fair, and the relation of a ghost story by Robert Smith. Mrs. Geo. Harner was the accompanist for Mrs. Fair.

The last feature of the program was a quiz contest, conducted by Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe. In the contest no prizes were awarded for correct answers, but the person not able to give the correct answers were compelled to pay a penalty of a contribution toward the Underprivileged Child Fund. Needless to say, many such contributions were received.

The meeting next week will be in charge of the Board of Directors and will be the occasion of the annual election of officers and Directors.

25th. ANNIVERSARY OF MISSIONARY SOCIETY CELEBRATED

Twenty-five years ago, Mrs. W. E. Saltzger organized a Woman's Missionary Society at Baust Lutheran Church.

Friday evening, Oct. 25, Rev. and Mrs. George E. Bowersox, Jr., entertained this society in celebration of this anniversary.

The meeting was held in St. Paul Church in Uniontown. Mrs. Bowersox had charge of the services and used the regular program for the October meeting.

With the exception of one member all living charter members were present: Mrs. Saltzger, Mrs. Fannie Flohr Waybright, Mrs. Mary Hahn Koons, Mrs. Edna Hahn Warehime, Mrs. David Hahn, Mrs. Clara Welk, Mrs. Arthur Masters, Mrs. Margaret Arthur Myers, and Mrs. Harry Rinehart. Mrs. Saltzger and Mrs. Kroh, wives of former pastors brought greetings and congratulations to the society. Greetings from Mrs. G. W. Baughman were given by Harry B. Fogle. The minutes of the first and second meetings were read by the secretary.

At the close of the service, the members and guests were invited, by the pastor and his wife, to the parsonage for a social hour. Mrs. Bowersox presented the society with a large birthday cake and served refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee, nuts and mints. Mrs. Kroh and Mrs. Saltzger poured.

As Saturday was Mrs. Bowersox's birthday, the society presented her with a birthday cake, some of which she generously shared with some shut-in friends.

VACATIONS WITH PAY FOR R. R. EMPLOYEES

Means the Same as an Increase in Wages

The railroads of the U. S. taken as a whole, are in desperate straits to make profit enough with which to pay increased wages. Male help, especially in demand, for farms and manufacturing concerns.

It is true to a considerable extent that bus lines are now operated by the railroads, and that grade-crossing accidents have been considerably reduced by better highways.

But the Labor Unions that the President gave a hard poke during his address this week, may be expected to keep up worrying the railroads for some time to come.

The automobile and freight trucks used by hundreds of thousand, and automobiles by hundreds of thousand crowd our improved highways, both day and night.

Railroad accidents that get into court usually get heavy damages, and the old-time "excursion" income is largely an experience of long ago.

Just what the "Vacation" for employees mean, we do not know, but we are reasonably sure that they are not too numerous.

Since his address on Monday night the President has again spoken against tie-ups in all plane plants that show signs of Nazi influences.

DON'T SNEEZE IN YOUR NEIGHBOR'S FACE

Speaking of colds and of precautions that can and should be taken to prevent their spread to others, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Health Department, said it would be a very practical help if those who have colds would establish a good neighbor policy and would refrain from sneezing or coughing in their neighbor's faces.

It would be very worthwhile, Dr. Riley continued, if the suggestion in the familiar jingle—"If you have to cough or sneeze, do it in your handkerchief, please"—became a fixed habit and were carried out consistently in households, schools, offices, stores, factories, churches, on the street, in the movies, at public meetings, in the street car, in buses and other public conveyances, and at all other places where people congregate.

His attention was directed to the English version of the rhyme, Dr. Riley said, at the recent meeting of the American Public Health Association at Atlantic City, in a graphic showing of disease prevention notices, health hints and other precautionary advice that are posted in the British air raid shelters by the authority of the Ministry of Health. Here it is:

"If you have to cough or sneeze, Hand to mouth, remember please. You would soon be catching 'flu' If everybody coughed on you."

There were other equally practical health hints in the series which was rounded out by the following one on hand-washing, which Dr. Riley felt needed just as great emphasis right here in Maryland—"Germs of many diseases enter through the mouth—try always to wash your hands before you handle food."

"There is nothing new, nothing very difficult and nothing spectacular in these precautions," Dr. Riley said, "but it is more than likely that careful, conscientious observance of these disease prevention hints has been largely responsible for the remarkable absence, so far, of outbreaks of communicable diseases among the thousands who have been herded together in these emergency shelters."

REPAIRS FOR HEALTH

Repairs of an old home can restore the charm of the past. Not only is it usually cheaper to repair an old house than it will be to buy or build a new one, but building authorities now view the repair of older homes as a means of improving safety and health of the occupants.

Through improper location on wet and imperfectly drained land, some homes are damp, especially in the lower stories. On the other hand, where buildings are placed in a highly exposed position proper heating in winter may be difficult to obtain. Through defective structure or lack of repair there may be an ever-present danger from accident. Winding stairs take their annual toll of broken limbs, while rotten floors and insecure railings are high in the list of accident causes.

Improper orientation may mean that occupants of buildings are being deprived of sunshine and even of adequate light. Inadequate plumbing or defective fixtures may mean reduced cleanliness and increased opportunity for transmission of diseases. Windowless rooms or rooms with only one window may mean discomfort in hot weather and possibly reduced resistance to disease.

Practically all of these ills in almost any old home may be corrected through repair. Moreover, careful planning of the repairs will not only make the house more efficient, but it will decidedly improve its re-sale value.—The Pathfinder.

"Splinter protection," and a new advance in the form of topside armor is being installed on many of the ships of the U. S. Navy to protect gun crews, observers and signalmen.

Trying to Put a Lid on Prices

Washington, D. C., October 29—Look in the dictionary and you will find that inflation is "disproportionate and relatively sharp and sudden increase in the quantity of money or credit, or both relative to the amount of exchange business. Inflation always produces a rise in the price level."

There have been sharp increases in prices of the necessities and luxuries throughout the country. Industrial banking loans have declined 13.3 per cent in the past few weeks.

Constant efforts are being made to put ceilings on prices but the methods employed by Administrators Ickes, Henderson and others have not been convincing—and therefore not successful. Besides, Congress has temporarily shelved the legislation to provide ceilings for different articles commonly used in our everyday life.

The average citizen is not acquainted with the scientific reasons for inflation. But all of us boast of our "horse-sense," and that qualifies us to detect the fact that a dollar doesn't buy as much in the stores and open markets as it did a year ago and two years ago. That means that there is some inflation throughout the entire country at this time. When it gets bad enough there is danger that a depression like that of 1932 will knock things into a cocked hat.

When the question of inflation is broken down to common understanding one finds that the Federal Government is trying to cure the inflation threat in its early stages. That would stave off a major surgical operation on all the banks—of bitter memory, in 1933.

In "The good old days" when the nineteenth century was drawing to a close the National Government kept its hands off the inflation patient and left it up to the public to work things through. But things have changed—you know it!—N. I. News Service.

U. S. Likely to go into War

The President has ordered Secretary of War to continue operations as long as necessary.

Senators Bridge (Republican) also urges the repeal of all neutrality.

The latest news seems to be that Russia will defeat Nazi forces during the winter now at hand.

The day on which a young candidate for the U. S. Navy is officially accepted and sworn into service is known as "Shipping Day." It is the day he is sent off to one of four Navy Training Stations for his course in instruction and discipline. His parting gift is a booklet filled with useful information called "Helpful Hints to the Navy Recruit."

Random Thoughts

"ABOUT NOTHING"

Sometimes there comes from our louty operator the word that he has no "random thoughts" for the customary weekly installment, and we are expected to get them promptly.

But the inspiration for doing so does not appear.

There is such a thing as "not thinking." We are reminded of a man living near Taneytown, who, when asked, "Mike" what he "thinks" about, replied that sometimes for a whole week he did not "think about nothing."

We have never reached such a condition but had often not been inspired to think at "random" of something worth publishing, and just now is one of the times. Perhaps some reader of The Record will occasionally offer us a suggestion? P. B. E.

FOR DIVINE INTERVENTION

Hardly anybody in the U. S., who has thought deeply about it, doubts that we could not overcome Hitlerism; and just as surely wants to send our army—mostly of young men—go across and see and help the crushing to be done.

Is it a duty, or is it not. It is a hard question to answer. It is Biblical to say, "God's will be done on earth as it is in Heaven". But is the doing of such a horrible test, God's will?

God is supreme, over Hitler, our President, and Congress. Prayer is a near approach to the question. It seems to be the only course to pursue—honest, earnest prayer for some effective, divine invention of the whole matter.

HELP THE RECORD TO HELP ITSELF

The Record is interested in what readers like to see in it. County news is of course the most important; but there must also be an assortment of more general news.

So, let us have constructive suggestions.

We receive a vast amount of requests for space, usually for promotion purposes, but these are mostly lengthy, and not what we call good live news.

If we must be promotional, we prefer it to be so near home.

PRICES GOING UP

It is a country-wide fact that most prices are already "going up" and others are on the waiting list.

We want a "car" if we have none. We want to take a trip "South" add to our list of "antiques"—and, so on.

Now, all of this is very fine, and we do not want to waste.

But, we want to follow too literally the Scriptural text, The Lord Loveth a "cheerful giver" and forget the example of the "Good Samaritan".

So, we keep on, and forget our responsibility for just what we complain about.

The beauty parlors belonging in the going up of prices too. The beer parlors belong in the list too.

In fact, there is no secrecy as to why things happen—we know, but don't care.

THE COUNTRY WEEKLY

If the government suffers a loss on second-class postage, who benefits from that loss?

It is not the newspapers for, like all other commodities, they must sell for a price that will cover production costs or quit.

The beneficiary is the subscriber, and the subscribers are the people of America—the people who vote for representatives and senators.

Should representatives and senators see fit to repeal the second-class postage rates, they will merely cause their constituents to pay more for the newspapers and periodicals they buy and read, or to get along without them.

Suppose the newspaper were mailed at third, instead of second-class rates. The difference on the weekly papers would average about one cent each week to each subscriber and the price of the newspaper would automatically go up about 50 cents per year. Subscribers would pay that difference, and these subscribers say who will represent them at Washington.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

The above does not get at the real facts concerning the difficulties attached to the publishing of country weekly newspapers. It is the unfair competition of low priced daily newspapers, with great wealth back of them, in some cases.

We have had 47 years of experience in trying to publish a weekly with profit. Our subscribers—not plentiful enough—say The Record is a good home paper but $1.00 a year is too small a price. Have tried to get more, but it is a losing effort. We could give the reason, why? in detail, but will not do so.

TOO MANY POCKETS

It is very convenient sometimes to have pockets galore in your clothes, but did you ever lose something and start the rounds of the pockets? Well a man's suit of clothes has so many pockets in it that it will take 10 minutes to explore it thoroughly. And, when you add an overcoat, you just add so many more pockets that it is really confusing. We spent 10 minutes or more trying to find a note someone handed us on the street, and after exploring our clothes, it was finally found safely tucked away in a pocket within a pocket.

There were 13 pockets in our suit, not counting the little pocket inside of the right-hand coat pocket. There are five in the pants—two rear, two front and a watch pocket; five in the coat—two inside, one upper, one inside and a small pocket at the lower left-hand front (that one we did not discover for some time), and that hard-to-find little pocket inside the right-hand side pocket. Then, in the vest, there are five—four outside and one inside. Then, with the overcoat on, you add four more pockets—two inside, with a little pocket inside the right pocket, and then a tricky concealed pocket on the left inside. That makes 16 pockets in a suit of clothes and four in an overcoat. A grand total of 20 pockets.

Well, you cannot count on the use of all of these at any one time because there are always one or two that have a hole in them, through which the contents will slip into the lining of your garment, or down your pants leg and be lost.

We hope that this editorial will not bring down on our heads the ire of our men readers, who have been secreting from their wives a spare half a dollar in one of the hitherto-unfound pockets.

So many pockets are convenient at times, but there are just too many when you have to find something you know very well you put in one of them.—The Farmville Herald.

SWITZERLAND

Schwyz, Switzerland, July 31—Fires will be lighted and cannon will roar throughout this war-ringed little nation for the next two days to mark 650 years of Swiss freedom.

Following age-old custom magistrates of Uri, Schwyz and Unterwalden, the original three cantons of the Swiss confederation, inaugurate the independence celebration at midnight tonight by setting torches to a pyre in Ruetli Glade, on the very spot where men of the little states raised their hands August 1, 1291, in a pledge of mutual assistance.

That pledge marked the beginning of a successful fight against the powerful House of Hapsburg and eventually resulted in the birth of Switzerland, a nation of twenty-two cantons cut from the imperial lands of Germany, Italy and Burgundy.

The fiercely patriotic people of Switzerland, who have three national languages, German, French and Italian, and whose small states differ from each other in nearly every point—religious, political, social, industrial and physical—plan a colorful celebration.

Runners are to carry torches from the Ruetli bonfire to all parts of the country, where they will light other fires for a simultaneous observance of the anniversary.

Radios are to link cities and smaller communities to this town near Ruetli forest, where the main ceremony is scheduled. A cannon salute of twenty-one shots is planned for dawn.

Ever aware that the flames of war might one day spread to this country the Swiss say: "We are a united people, united in a desire to live as we are and to remain independent."

Officially, Switzerland treads softly and carries a sharp bayonet. Every citizen is a soldier sprung from a warrior people and steeped in fighting tradition. Of possible involvement in the European conflict, one Swiss said:

"Listen, back in those mountains we have a complete city underground. Everything. Telephone exchanges. Power plants. Sleeping quarters. Government offices. You can walk for days without seeing the sun. There's even a bakery with enough flour to make bread for the entire Swiss population for a whole year.

"We will never surrender. Never. We can fight in those mountains for years. And any army that invades Switzerland will lose 200,000, maybe 400,000 men. For a country of 4,000,000 people, it's not worth it."—(By the Associated Press.)

THOSE "GOOD OLD DAYS"

Great Aunt Matilda loves to "hark back" to the days when she was young and she and Uncle Ezra had "gone west" to new land. "Those were the days," she said the other evening, sighing deeply and letting her knitting rest in her lap for a moment while she looked with dim blue eyes back into the long ago past.

And then, taking up her knitting again, she explained, "We didn't have all those gimcracks you girls now-a-days think you couldn't get along without. Those fancy vacuum sweepers—and automobiles to go gallivanting around the country in—and electric refrigerators big enough for a boarding house. We did very well putting our butter down in a well.

"We didn't have any of these new fangled things. But there's one thing we did have that's more important than all of them put together. We had hope and we had freedom. Those were the good old days when America was great and we knew that if we worked hard enough and put our money in the bank, we'd be all right when the rainy days came."

"But, Aunt Matilda," I answered, "America is still great. Greater than she has ever been. And today we have hope, too, as well as vacuum cleaners—and you must admit they do get all the dirt up even from the corner and from under the bed."

"Hope for what?" Aunt Matilda wanted to know. "What kind of hope do you have?"

"Hope for a better time and a better world with opportunity for more people. You talk about the good old days. Well, for us, the good old days aren't good enough any more. We're looking ahead to the good new days that are possible in a country like this with its fertile farms and wealth of other resources, and the greatest industrial system the world has ever known. Here free men have speeded up defense production as much in a single year as Hitler did in six with his regimented economy!"

"Perhaps a few years ago during the depression when production was at a low ebb, people had some reason to sigh for the good old days. But the America which the reformers said then was washed up and through has found herself once more. And, Aunt Matilda, that America today is astonishing the world.

"When this depression is over, let this same capacity to make things be devoted to the production of peace-time commodities and let those commodities be sold in the traditional American way to the people who need them, and no one will even think of the good old days again. Even you, Aunt Matilda, will be too busy enjoying the good new ones!"—By Susan Thayer.

AFTER WAR, PEACE.

We are wasting a lot of energy and a lot of money, on war preparation. We should be prepared to defend ourselves. If one-half the money wasted during the past eight years on boon-doggling, leaf raking, and political fence building had been spent on preparedness, we would not now need be so feverishly active.

Where will it end? We think it will end in war. England started this war, along with France, by guaranteeing the integrity of Poland, when neither one was able to make good. Now, England expects every American to do his duty by helping stop the Hitler hordes that storm at the gates of London.

Of course we shall have to do so to protect ourselves, for if England fails and falls, we are the next on the agenda.

So, as we did a fifth of a century ago, we must do now; win this war, to create another armistice for another preparation, and for another war. Europe has had her wars for a thousand years, and is likely to have them for a thousand years to come.

Is it necessary that we must now get into each, as it comes along?

If we had the good sense and ordinary judgment to adopt the Swiss system of universal military training, we could get prepared and keep prepared and at a cost in time for each one of only three or four weeks a year, and none, if we so acted, would dare to molest us.

Our present pressing need is for leaders who will think and act U. S. A. and do less talking and more common sense acting.

We need leaders of the silent Hoover, or Coolidge type, and maybe of the Lincoln type, but where can they be found and how.

If after war we get a sensible peace, wherein all doors are open to all for trade on equal bases, maybe we can have a lasting peace.

Light From Animals and Many Other Odd Sources

Light is usually associated with heat. All solids begin to glow at 525 degrees Centigrade. But many other agencies besides heat can produce light—rubbing, fracture, pounding, excitation by electricity or short-wave radiation, etc. Surgeon's tape emits a greenish glow when stripped from a roll. Lumps of sugar luminesce when rubbed together. Quartz pebbles shine when struck by a hammer. When ozone is bubbled through a dilute pyrogallol solution, the liquid glows brightly though no heat is evolved. Not true is the common saying that scientists are still searching for "cold light." Fluorescent and vapor-discharge lamps (e.g., neon, sodium) are true cold light. They include sponges, which makes them shine.

Thousands of animal species scattered through 40 orders also emit cold light. They include sponges, jellyfish, earthworms, brittle stars, crustaceans, insects, spiders, molluscs, siphonophores, sea pens, ctenophores, corallines, myriapods, balanoglossids, ascidians, fish. There are also two kinds of luminous plants—certain bacteria and fungi. These are responsible for the dim shining of damp wood and stale meat, the ghostly glow occasionally seen on human corpses.

Use Choke Less

Beginners are apt to over-choke the engine when starting, according to the emergency service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is often unnecessary to use the choke at all, especially in warm weather or shortly after running the car. First try to start without choking. If this fails, use the choke just a little.

Executor's Sale

—OF VALUABLE—
Real and Personal Property.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in the last will and testament of Laura V. Reindollar, deceased, and pursuant to an order of the Orphans' Court of Carroll County, Maryland, passed on October 14, 1941, the undersigned Executor will sell at public sale on the premises of the first hereinafter described lot or parcel of land, on Fairview Avenue, in Taneytown, Maryland, on SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1941, at 12:30 o'clock, P. M., all that lot or parcel of land of which Laura V. Reindollar, died, seized and possessed having a frontage of 56 feet and a depth of 224 feet, containing 12,544 square feet of land, more or less, which was devised unto the said Laura V. Reindollar by the last will and testament of Newton A. Reindollar, dated February 25, 1916, and recorded among the Will Records in the Office of the Register of Wills for Carroll County in Liber W. F. B. No. 13, Folio 17, &c. The improvements thereon consist of a

TWO-STORY BRICK DWELLING, containing seven rooms, with pantry on each floor, slate roof, electricity and running water. One-half of the cellar is cemented and one-half not cemented. Good barn, hen house and brick smoke house on the premises.

At the same time as the above mentioned place the undersigned will in pursuance of the above mentioned authority, sell all that TRACT OF WOODLAND containing three acres and 20 square perches, more or less, located on the road from what was formerly known as Kump's Station to Paul Halter's Mill, in Taneytown District, adjoining the properties of Milton Ruby and Joseph H. Study, which woodland was devised unto the said Laura V. Reindollar by the above mentioned will of Newton A. Reindollar, deceased.

At the same time and place the undersigned will sell the following personal property of the said Laura V. Reindollar, deceased:

A LETTER from HOME

IN THIS NEWSPAPER

Blackfellows Perform Ancient Kangaroo Dance

The blackfellows of Australia are some of the oddest people ever found on earth. They have dark brown, almost black, skins.

An old custom among them was to try to cure disease by driving out "bad spirits." It was supposed that the illness had been caused by some enemy in another tribe.

In certain villages the medicine men spoke of "poison bones" which entered the bodies of the sick. They went to the side of a sick person and made believe that they took a poison bone from his arm or chest or leg.

Some of the cruel and silly customs of the blackfellows have come to an end. The white settlers have taught the natives better ways to care for themselves. Yet there still are some blackfellows who live so far away that whites seldom visit them. For this reason they have kept to their old ways to a greater extent.

In the kangaroo dance, a number of men—as many as 80 or 90—form a line and crouch like kangaroos. Striking their hands on the ground and singing loudly, they follow the leader in short bounds. Now and then they make an extra effort to leap into the air. In their leaps they go up as much as five feet, but even so, they do not equal the bounds of a giant kangaroo. The dancing line goes past a fire, and the jumpers barely miss landing in the flames.

Grapefruit Not a Hybrid

The grapefruit or pomelo is not a hybrid. It is believed to have originated in southeastern Asia and been introduced into the West Indies by the early Spanish colonists. Apparently it was developed from the thick-skinned and worthless pummelo or pompelmous, which has an objectionable sort of quinine taste. A Captain Shaddock introduced the fruit into England as a curiosity and for a number of years it bore his name. It was renamed, "grapefruit" because it grows in clusters similar to grapes.

Don't Make Beds Immediately

During sleep there is an increased rate of breakdown of the fats in the surface of the body, and also considerable insensible perspiration which clings to the bedclothes, and which may penetrate the mattress. The bed needs a good airing for an hour or so each morning after it has been occupied, in order to keep it sweet. The first thing to do after getting out of bed is to throw the clothes completely off the mattress, and open the bedroom windows for a couple of hours. More fresh air is needed by the bed in the morning than by the sleeper in the night before. The mattress needs a weekly bath in the direct sunlight.

Early History of Sacred Music in China Traced

Interesting facts on religious singing during the early days of Christianity in China are revealed in an article in Renseignements of the Sinological Office of Zi-ka-wei.

The article points out that although there are no authentic documents on the origin of Christian sacred singing in China it is believed the early missionaries in that area used an adaptation of the Gregorian chant. It is understood the chant was introduced without fixed rules and used with many variations, according to the tastes of those in the different localities.

The writer recalled the famous Christian pillar of Singan-fu in Shensi, which dates from the year 781 and bears this inscription:

"The wooden things which they perceive give forth a sound of mercy and of charity."

It is believed that this might refer to a wooden bell used to call the faithful to prayer, or to a wooden musical instrument for accompanying the chanting.

It is known that the Franciscans in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries, sang the liturgical chants of the Credo, the Ave Regina Coelorum, A Solis Ortus, Veni Sancte Spiritus and Vexilla Regis either to their companions or the court of the Grand Khan, or at Peking, capital of the Dynasty of Yuan.

Swift's His Name; Second Fastest Bird That Flies

Where do the chimney swifts go during winter? One day in November you may see them gathered in Florida, southern Georgia and along the Gulf coast in enormous flocks. The next morning they depart. To where? Ask some native and he will as likely as not tell you in all seriousness that his grandpa has seen them plunge into the mud, where they hibernate for the winter.

They don't, of course; but can any bird student tell you better? The southward journey of the chimney swifts from this country is one of the unsolved mysteries of migration. Thousands of them have been captured by members of the Biological Survey for the purpose of banding. Not one band has been returned to the Biological Survey to solve the mystery.

When you remember that all parts of the globe are subject to almost continuous exploration by men trained in observation, men who would like to solve the riddle of the swifts, it seems strange that not a single authentic report has been made of their winter home.

The bird is easily identified. Small, swift, erratic, batlike in flight, sooty-olive, he appears to have no tail at all and has been described as a "flying cigar."

He is gentle and inoffensive with other birds, so swift that even the hawk in his swoop cannot capture him.

Sportive, frolicsome, living entirely on insects, he is highly beneficial to man.

First U. S. Census

The first official census in the United States was taken in 1790, and it covered the area now occupied by the District of Columbia and the following states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Red Cross, OCD Look to Volunteers For Civil Defense

Washington, D. C.—To the question, "What can I do for America?" the Red Cross is providing an answer for hundreds of thousands of men and women who want to do their part on the civilian defense front.

For women, the Red Cross is providing an 80-hour training course to recruit a corps of 100,000 Nurse's Aides. It is the Red Cross' newest project, undertaken at the request of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense to relieve the current pressure on nursing facilities.

With thousands of nurses being taken into military service with our armed forces, civilian nursing has suffered a direct blow, the Red Cross points out. Moreover, the defense program has created additional health problems which has heightened the need for civilian nursing.

Red Cross Nurse's Aides will serve as assistants to registered nurses, performing scores of important duties which will enable nurses to care for more cases. The Red Cross stresses that Nurse's Aides will not take the place of the registered nurse, but will serve in an auxiliary capacity.

On the more dramatic side of civilian defense, the Red Cross is gearing its far-flung disaster fighting machine to handle mass feeding, housing and clothing of exacuees under wartime conditions. In cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense, chapters are strengthening disaster relief committees to cope with man-made disaster much on the same scale as relief operations following natural catastrophe.

Organization along these lines include preparedness measures for fires, explosions and epidemics which may be expected to result from accelerated industrial activity incident to national defense or sabotage.

Strictly as a precautionary measure, the Red Cross is devising means of confronting emergency relief in the event of sporadic air or sea attacks, considered conceivable hazards in some coastal and boundary areas.

The need for First Aid in civilian defense has not been neglected by the Red Cross. Last year nearly 600,000 were trained in emergency treatment of the injured. This year the figure is expected to go much higher with special emphasis being placed on the formation of detachments which would serve as units in other places where persons are concentrated.

Red Cross courses in Home Nursing and in Nutrition also are being expanded as a feature of the civilian defense program. It was pointed out. Mounting health hazards and the shortage of civilian nurses may at any time obligate the housewife—or even the man of the house—to assist in caring for the sick. Likewise, the Red Cross is placing greater emphasis on Nutrition courses designed to teach householders the art of purchasing and preparing well-balanced meals within the range of the family pocketbook.

Tear Gas Benefits Soil; Destroys Plant Disease

Cornell University plant doctors—the plant pathologists—are using tear gas in a new way. They inject it into the soil of flower gardens, where it destroys many of the organisms that cause plant diseases. The experiments, after three years, have reached a semi-commercial stage. They are conducted in the department of plant pathology by F. L. Stark Jr. and Dr. A. G. Newhall.

The tear gas is injected in shots of about a good-sized thimbleful each, in holes three inches deep and staggered about 10 inches apart.

This is done before anything is planted, for the tear gas will destroy all growth. It is very effective in killing all weeds. There are no bad after effects on the fertility or the soil itself, and after three or four weeks the ground is ready for planting.

The gas kills wilt and rot fungi, organisms which normally have the staying power to lie in the soil for five or six years and still be able to attack plants. The gas is particularly effective against nematodes which are barely visible, hair-like organisms that cause knots on roots and lower the vitality of plants.

FEESERSBURG.

A rainy Monday, and it means literal "showers of blessing" and it is hard to continue writing when one would rather watch the rain-drops falling down on the parched earth and dry leaves. Water was never more carefully treasured or needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Wolfe, of Philadelphia, visited his home folks at the end of the week, and took supper with his brother, Cleon Wolfe and wife, on Saturday evening. He is recovering from a bad affection of the throat with which he has suffered this Autumn. Their nephew Laverne Bohn, of Union Bridge was also with the C. Wolfe's for the week-end. He now practices on his new violin.

Mr. and Mrs. William (Billy) Hahn living beyond Uniontown called to see Grant Crouse on Sunday. The families were next door neighbors near Mt. Union for many years.

The first masqueraders for Halloween gave us a call on Wednesday evening of last week; a bride and groom in full dress, a lady's maid, a Drum Majorette, Donald Duck and Buffalo Bill. Our young neighbors took well their parts.

Some of our citizens attended the Halloween social in the Church hall, at Middleburg, where there was a full gathering on last Thursday evening, and enjoyed the many costumes beside those above mentioned, and various prizes were given for their comical appearance. There was a ghostly play, and refreshments suitable for the season were on sale—including pumpkin pie, ginger bread, cider, etc.

At Mt. Union on Sunday Rev. Bowers conducted the preaching service at 9:30 A. M.; assisted by the organist and choir. He spoke on the text "What think ye of Christ"—in public, in the church, in your own life? The pastor wore his fine new silk gown, thus adding to his ministerial appearance, and the dignity of worship. Flowers are scarce this dry season—but Mrs. David Miller placed silver spray and red berries before the altar. The Church Bulletin presented full schedule of service and events for the next month including for Mt. Union the annual oyster supper on Nov. 8th, in the Parish House; and the Thankoffering service for Nov. 23rd, at 7:30 P. M. S. S., followed at 10:45 o'clock—not as fully attended as should be, but a good lesson.

The ingathering service on Sunday evening at Mt. Union was inspiring and inspiring, every one was pleased to have Frank P. Bohn in their midst who presided—with a Devotional Service. There were two violins with the piano, and duets, quartets and solos rendered. Rev. Bowers gave a splendid talk on the Deaconess work—from its beginning to the present time. The chancel was well filled with jars of fruits and vegetables, potatoes and walnuts—a tempting array. The offering for missions was $10.25.

Through the courtesy of a neighbor Mrs. Addie Crambacker accompanied her father, W. G. Crouse, to Baltimore on Tuesday and Thursday of last week for examination of his teeth and eyes.

Mrs. Mary W. Starmer and her friend, Mrs. Teresa Black Gross-nickle, of Randallstown, who has been her guest the past week, were callers at Grove Dale on Tuesday morning, with other friends they enjoyed the Dream Drive thro' Pa, on Saturday, and worshipped at Trinity Lutheran Church in Bedford on Sabbath morning and heard Rev. Melhorn preach a fine sermon.

From a friend in Hollywood, Cal., we learn that Miss Lillie Ann Morningstar was visiting a friend at Laguna Beach, and as her custom was she went out to view the sunset on Saturday, Oct. 18, and in turning to cross the highway she was struck by an automobile and killed instantly—and never knew what hit her, which was merciful. The driver was not held responsible, and was released at the inquest. There was a brief service on Wednesday when amid sweet flowers, a short but lovely talk was given by a friend of hers; then a song—"Ave Maria," and cremation followed, as she requested, and the ashes placed by her sister Ida's in the Columbarium in beautiful Hollywood cemetery. She was a devoted daughter, a helpful sister, and a loyal friend. While gazing at the sinking sun Lillie went into the sunset to the Haven of Rest.

Jarring quinces and pears was the last of the season's fruit here, and two kind neighbors lent assistance last week. It surprised us that the quinces were better in quality this dry season than for a number of years past.

Now comes the sacred days of the church: October 31st., All Hallows'-e'en—for meditation and preparation for All Saints Day—November 1st. in honor of all Saints and Martyrs; and all Souls Day November 2nd—when Prayer is made for the souls of the faithful dead. Once in Baltimore we attended all these services in a Catholic Church and found them very reverent and now the world has made them foolish with witches, black cats, ghosts, masquerades, etc. How did this change occur?

CAKE IN THE MASCULINE MANNER

A round-table discussion on men's likes and dislikes in the matter of cake always brings out the fact that it is a cake's flavor and moistness that score with the masculine appetite. The fine pinpoint texture, exceptional volume or highly decorative frosting which we women prize so highly are all nothing but frills in the eyes of a man. "How does it taste?" is his measuring stick for cake quality.

Here is a recipe for a moist and spicy Spanish Meringue Cake with a "baked-on" frosting—a cake that is sure to suit the masculine fancy. Sour milk in the recipe helps to make it extra moist. But, of course, as with all cakes, the moistness of the finished product is governed somewhat by the baking conditions. Modern electric ranges, with their thermostatically controlled ovens provide a moist, even heat which bakes cakes a delicate, beautiful brown in any part of the oven. The recipe for the Spanish Meringue Cake is given below:

SPANISH MERINGUE CAKE

- 1 cup cake flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
2 egg yolks plus 1 whole egg
1/2 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped
2 eggs whites
9 walnut halves
Sift cake flour once, measure and sift 3 times with the baking powder, soda, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg. Cream butter until soft, then add 1 cup brown sugar gradually and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Beat the egg yolks and whole egg until light, then add to the creamed mixture, stirring well. Add the sifted dry ingredients in three portions, alternately with the sour milk or buttermilk, beating well after each addition. Pour into a greased 8-inch square pan, and sprinkle the nuts on top. Then place the two egg whites in a bowl, and beat until they will hold a peak but are not dry. Combine the remainder of the cinnamon, nutmeg and brown sugar and add gradually, beating until well-mixed. Spread this topping over the nut-covered batter, being careful not to spread too close to the edge. Arrange walnut halves on top and bake in a preheated electric oven at 350° F. for 40 minutes. Cool before serving. This cake should be cut in the pan.

Uncle Sam lays great stress on the training of his sailor men. The American Navy seamen and seamen in the Naval Reserve probably get more and better training than is given in any other Navy in the world. These men are trained at Navy Trade Schools to which qualified enlisted men are assigned for instruction in Navy Training Courses.

All new recruits in the U. S. Navy and the Naval Reserve receive an elementary training in the use of all types of regulation Navy small arms—rifles, machine guns, automatic pistols. Assembling arms by sense of touch is included in this training.

Any capable recruit in the U. S. Navy can learn how to make the standard 16 knots and splices in an hour or two, but it takes him two weeks to learn how and when to use them, and to know them by name.

Miss Sharp—The great men are all dead. Isn't it a pity? Smart—But the beautiful women are not.

Miss Sharp—Of course not. I always except present company. Smart—So do I.

1st. Actor—I played Hamlet once, in the West. 2nd. Actor—Did you have a long run?

1st. Actor—To tell the truth, it was seven miles.

There are twenty-five different types of ships on which a U. S. Navy man may sail.

"Old Taneytown's" Busy East End.

The "Antrim" estate we believe, was first owned by Major Egge—pronounced "A" with a hard "G." Some years ago the writer met a minister from Pennsylvania, who spells his name Egge and pronounces it in two syllables Eg, and Gee, who thought that perhaps his forefathers and those of the first named, might once have been closely related.

"Antrim" is best known in Taneytown as having been in the Clabaugh name—George W. and Judge Harry M., and now for a number of years the Lamberton family. It is still a fine residence in an ample grove of trees, and all well cared for.

While we are calling this write-up, one of "East Baltimore Street," we are not forgetting a Broad Street that somehow occupies the map of the town. It is not a broad Street, if we properly designate "Avenue" as a broad street.

However the operator of a large Clothing Factory—H. Bornstein Sons—located in Taneytown through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce—is conducting a "broad" business, giving work to hundreds of operators.

Farther to the West, or North and South side of Baltimore Street, is an aggregation of fine homes, until the Carroll County Fair Ground, the use of which is designated by its name; and beyond that, is Big Pipe Creek Park, operated by the family of Charles E. H. Shiner & Sons, practically the whole year round, and just beyond, on the other side of the creek, is Pine Mar Camp, mostly used for religious gathering in charge of The Church of God.

(Next week's instalment will return to recollections and facts concerning Taneytown's south side).

Old Taneytown 25 Years Ago

On account of the scarcity of food in Germany, the women there were getting thinner, "look more elegant" so a German Opera singer said.

The business men of Sykesville were unanimous in advocating the continuance of a "dry" county. They said their business had increased, and the abolishment of the liquor saloon had not hurt their business—and Sykesville was a very wet town.

The registration by affiliation in Carroll County was as follows: Democrats 4497, Republicans 4073, Prohibition 89, Progressive and Independents 156.

The new course in Commercial work in Taneytown High School consisting chiefly of bookkeeping, shorthand typewriting and banking opened on Wednesday morning, Nov. 1st., 1916. The work was under the direction of Miss Greiman, from York, Pa. Mr. W. L. Koontz was the principal.

This was presidential election year quite a stir in politics was on—the issue, mainly was Prohibition. Parades were held county-wide and great dry meetings were announced.

The deaths were: Gertrude Creager Currens, daughter of Edgar R. and Daisy Currens, of Sykesville, aged 3 years; Myrtle, daughter of Albert Rinehart, of Middleburg, aged 26 years; Mrs. Laura Emma Kump, wife of Mr. G. R. Kump, of Baltimore; Miss Dora Idella Hess, daughter of George W. and Laura Emma Hess, of Buckeystown, aged 36 years.

The Michael Fringer property on the east side of George Street was sold to Levi Frouck, on private terms.

John W. Stouffer and wife spent from Saturday until Monday with relatives in Smithsburg, Md.

The shirt factory was closed down, it was said for two weeks, to open up again with a large force of workers.

Wheat was quoted at the Taneytown market at $1.75 per bushel; corn 70c per bushel, and hay $8.00 to $10.00 per ton.

Rev. L. B. Hafer delivered a temperance lecture at the Uniontown Church of God on Sunday.

Modern Orator—My friends, I am full of uncertainty. Then a number of people in the audience looked at one another and hoarsely whispered: "He must have had hash for dinner."

Yerxa—What's the matter with Sewzuk now, is he worrying about his debts? Yesman—No. He's worrying now because the new defense installment curbs prevent him from contracting more.

Little Nellie—Mother, where do people go when they dies? Mother—I can't tell. Nellie—Why, mother, didn't you ever study geography?

Pretty camp visitor—Major, did you get that scar during an engagement? Major—No; the first week of our honeymoon.

U. S. Farm Cash Milk Income Reaches New 10-Year High

DAIRY farmers' cash income from milk for the first six months of 1941 reached the highest total in more than a decade and almost double the low of 1933, according to the Milk Industry Foundation. January-June 1941 total of $888,000,000 is an increase of 18.09 per cent over the $752,000,000 '40 period. June 1941 milk income was $182,000,000, or 31.88 per cent above last June. Prospects indicate milk income will continue higher.

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors: "When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

The Red Cross provides recreational service for patients in all Army and Navy hospitals. Sixty-five new hospitals are under construction by the Army, and their recreation buildings are being equipped and staffed by the Red Cross as each one opens.

As part of the Army and Navy safety programs, members of the national Red Cross staff are qualifying instructors in First Aid and Water Safety among the ranks of the enlisted man. Instructors taught by the Red Cross in turn conduct classes on the reservations.

The number of Army and Navy cases assisted by Red Cross field directors has increased in volume 140 per cent since Selective Service has been in operation. During the past year 126,515 cases involving active service men have been handled in the camps.

The Red Cross recently made available $1,000,000 to meet an emergency need for athletic equipment for the Army and Navy. This need arose when Government appropriations for the purpose became exhausted.

In addition to providing the Army and Navy with an official reservoir of nurses, the Red Cross is cataloging the nation's medical technologists. Through this program, in which approximately 3,000 technicians have registered, the Army and Navy will select such professional personnel as laboratory workers, dietitians, dental technicians, pharmacists and other categories of trained technologists.

Hobby Killing Bears

Ewart and Cam Wilson of Pensacola, N. C., are probably the only two men in the world who have made bear hunting a life work. In their day they have killed more than 125 bruins and every winter since they were old enough to "tote" guns they have plodded the mountain slopes adding to their score.

The Wilson brothers own more than 3,000 acres of land on the side of Mount Mitchell, highest peak in eastern America. It is on this mountain that they have brought down all of their bears, usually with shotguns.

The bear hunting Wilson brothers have a knowledge of bear hunting and bear habits that no other persons had before them, except their ancestors. Even without their hounds they could track down a scurrying bear and kill it before the day was over.

'Thiokol' for Sealing

In the early 1920s Chemist J. C. Patrick of Kansas City, who was looking for a good anti-freeze mixture, mixed ethylene dichloride and sodium polysulfide, surprisingly obtained a gummy mass resembling rubber. Production of this stuff, now called "Thiokol," got under way in 1931. The dichloride and polysulfide are mixed to form a white emulsion, in which rubbery lumps are coagulated by treatment with hydrochloric acid. "Thiokol" is opaque, pale yellow, has an odor and low tensile strength, but resists chemical deterioration and is insoluble in usual solvents. It is used to seal airplane fuel tanks, for gasoline hoses and nozzles.

CURRENT FICTION

The Same Desires

By STANLEY CORDELL
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

KEITH HALL, sitting alone before the open fire in the Chestnut Hill mansion's drawing room, wondered why he and Martha, now that they had attained the affluence which they had both desired, didn't have the sense of comradeship which they shared when living in their little two-room apartment. He sought for answers to the problem that had made him unhappy, and slowly, painfully the answer came.

To begin with, Martha had become almost a stranger. He never saw her at breakfast, seldom at luncheon and not too often at dinner. This, of course, was only natural. Now that they could afford it, Martha was indulging the hundred and one extravagances that are the cherished dreams of every deprived woman, and those indulgences were keeping her pretty busy. Keith didn't begrudge them, even remotely. He was glad that his finances permitted them. And he understood how they occupied a great deal of her time. Only if she could have found a few more hours to devote to him . . .

Martha had changed in other ways, too. She seemed colder and more distant, scarcely, if at all, interested in his business. She rarely questioned him about what he'd been doing or how he felt or where he'd eaten his lunch. And he missed those questions tremendously. Without knowing why he longed for the little intimate chats they used to have together, the exchanges of confidences, the dreaming together of a future day when Keith's income would permit a certain freedom to their activities the sharing of joys and sorrows and all the little occurrences that go to make up the life of the small apartment dweller.

And suddenly Keith knew he had a decision to make. An important decision. He had been fighting against it, ignoring it for weeks. But the day and the hour had come in which he must choose, if he were ever again to have a peaceful state of mind.

Two avenues lay open to him. On the one hand was a continuance of things as they were. This would entail a firm resolution on his part to make the most of his unhappiness, without complaint. To forget the past and live only in the future. To accept Martha as she was. To shut from his mind those joyful, carefree, companionable days that had meant so much back there in the two-room apartment. To consider them a closed chapter in his life and never think of them again.

To face the future with only one purpose in mind: That of maintaining his present financial standing and endeavoring to make Martha happy and keep himself contented.

The other avenue was tempting. It led directly back to the two-room apartment and those happy, joyous days. It could be accomplished with the least possible effort—simply by announcing to Martha that their fortune had vanished as quickly as it had come. She wouldn't doubt him. She would accept the situation. They would go back to the old life and pick up the thread of existence where they had dropped it, slipping once more into the old routine, living again as they had lived before.

Keith sat for an hour without stirring, living in the joys of a future created by his selection of the second avenue. Yet remotely, annoyingly, there always lurked in his mind the specter of his own selfishness. For, to deprive Martha of the luxuries she now enjoyed, the very luxuries about which she had always dreamed and repeated to him during their most intimate chats, would be an act of greed that, he feared, would lessen the joys of its results a hundred fold.

Uncomplaining, helpful, kind and loving though he knew Martha would be, Keith wondered if his conscience would permit a continuance of his deception once it were started.

Keith stood up and paced the floor, his thoughts a riot of conflict. It occurred to him that the very thing that mocked him was the wealth for which he and Martha had so cheerfully worked. Of what little worth it seemed now that he knew it had deprived him of the one thing he had always cherished. And yet there was more to consider than his own feelings in the matter, so much more. There was Martha; the thrill and joys she was enjoying because the self-same wealth was transforming dreams for her into reality.

Keith paused before the mantel piece and bowed his head. Behind him his clenched fists dug the nails into his palms until they smarted. He stood there for many minutes, a graven figure, the lines of his face deeply furrowed. No one knew or would ever know the fury of the conflict that raged within him. No one but Keith himself, and because his mind was strong and because his sense of honor and unselfishness was firmly embedded, he fought his battle and triumphed. He would go on, keeping things as they were. He would forget the past, accept the present, suppress his longing, glean happiness from the situation as it existed, and permit Martha the pleasure of never having again to live in dreams when reality could be had for the asking.

Keith raised his head at last, and there was a peaceful, contented look in his eyes; the look of a man who was thankful for the strength that gave him the courage to triumph over his own longings.

He sat down again, feeling a little weary, glad that it was over, glad that the conflict was forever stilled in his mind.

Behind him a door opened, and he turned his head. Martha stood there, looking at him. She was dressed for a party, and Keith suddenly remembered that he had promised to accompany her.

She came across the room smiling, regarding him reproachfully, a trifle mischievously when he apologized.

"Always forgetting, aren't you darling. Always making excuses so you won't have to go out with me." She smiled at him, a little wistfully, he thought, sitting down on the arm of the chair and drawing him into the seat.

"I'm sorry, Martha, I didn't mean to forget. I do want to go with you. I'll be ready in fifteen minutes."

But her hand remained on his shoulder, and there was a sort of sadness in her eyes.

"Let's not," she said suddenly. "Let's stay here tonight. Just you and me, alone." She turned and looked into the fire. "It seems as though we're never together any more—like we used to be. Those little intimate chats and exchanges of confidences. Sometimes I—I almost wish we'd never made all this money. Things are so different."

Keith's eyes grew wide. "You—you mean you'd like to have the old days back again?"

"Almost. We were happy then, darling, and closer to each other. Sometimes I almost wish we could give this up and go back to our little two-room apartment." She smiled at him, patted his shoulder, stood up. "But, there! I've said too much and I'm sorry. I know this is what you've always wanted and that you're tremendously happy. I shouldn't even suggest such a thing as giving it up. In fact, I've decided never to mention it again, and I shan't. So stop worrying, darling, let's hurry along."

She started away, smiling brightly, but Keith suddenly reached out, grasped hold of her wrist and drew her into his lap, a strange, happy gleam in his eyes.

Road Follows Old Trail

Jacob's Ladder trail, the climbing highway which crosses the beautiful lower Berkshire hills, is U. S. Route 20, between Pittsfield and Springfield, in Massachusetts. As the trail ascends, mountain vistas are opened to the tourist and near the top a white pine forest which was destroyed during the ice storm of 1920, is restoring itself. At the summit, a wooden tower has been erected, from which the mountainside may be viewed for miles around. Jacob's well, along the trail, is a well-known wayside spring which dates from oxcart days.

Fowl Flavor

The strong flavor of fowl may be abolished if celery is diced and put into the dressing.

Dreamer

A dreamer is one who casts the anchor of his hopes in the harbor of a dream.

Isaac Newton Absentminded

From time to time, we observe someone who is "absent-minded," or hear about something done by such a person. A few months ago newspapers carried the report that an American college professor went to the attic to repair a trapdoor. After working for some time, he thought the job was done, but could not get out of the attic. He had nailed down the trapdoor and couldn't open it. The professor called for help, and his daughter's boy friend came to the rescue, knocking at the trapdoor until it was opened.

The famous Isaac Newton seems to have been absent-minded in a big way. Among the stories about this famous scientist is one which tells of a time when he went into the kitchen to boil an egg. He meant to time it with his watch, but the cook came in and noticed he had the egg in his hand and his watch in the water.

Frances Fedden, attractive Bronxville, N. Y., artist's model, is the 1941 Red Cross poster girl. Thousands of posters like the one pictured above have been distributed throughout the country calling attention to this year's Roll Call membership appeal. Painted by Bradshaw Crandell, prominent New York illustrator, the poster carries a national defense theme, portraying the active part being taken by the Red Cross in serving the armed forces.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 6:7, 8; 1 John 1:5-2:6.

GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—1 John 1:9.

Sin is an appalling reality, hideous and horrible in itself, and bearing with it the gravest consequences both in this life and in the life to come. Man does not find it pleasant to face that fact, and so he makes light of sin and even may go so far as to deny its existence. Obviously such an expedient does nothing to solve the difficulty or to meet the gnawing distress of a heart facing and fearing the judgment of God.

Far better to meet the reality of it, admit its awfulness, and seek God's way of full deliverance. Sin, which came into the world when man listened to Satan and disobeyed God in the Garden of Eden, has gone on to mar and to mark all mankind. We note that

I. Sin Brings Corruption (Gal. 6:7, 8).

Seedtime is followed by harvest. This is the law of nature, the law of God. The farmer who sowed wheat in the spring looked for wheat when the harvest time came. The same principle holds in the spiritual realm. Just as the one who sows to the Spirit reaps eternal life, the one who sows to the flesh reaps corruption, and death.

A life of self-indulgence (which is sowing to the flesh) brings moral decay. The weakened will yields to desire, and it "bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death" (James 1:14, 15). This death is spiritual, bringing separation from God, a loss of fellowship and communion with Him. Spiritual death as well as physical death came upon mankind through Adam's sin.

II. Sin Loves Darkness (1 John 1:5-7).

There is not a bit of darkness in God. He is light. When Jesus came into the world, He came as the Light of the World. But "men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved" (John 3:17-21).

The corollary of that truth is that a man who says he has fellowship with God, but continues to walk in darkness, brands himself a liar (v. 6). Compare Revelation 21:27-28 for what God thinks of liars.

The light still shines, and the one who is walking in darkness has only to step over into the light (v. 7) where he will find fellowship with all God's people and know the cleansing of the blood of the Son of God.

III. Sin is an Undeniable Fact (1 John 1:8-10).

It seems impossible that a man who knows himself and knows the life he lives would ever deny sin, for it is one of the most evident of all facts. Yet men have denied it, or sought to explain it away, calling it error, or a "fall upward," or a step in man's development, or the evidence of man's self-consciousness and desire to learn.

There is no hope for a man as long as he assumes such an attitude, for he not only lies himself, but he makes God a liar. He denies the truth of God's Word about sin, makes meaningless or wicked God's dealings with sin, and reveals that God's Word is not in him. Those who make such statements declare that they do not belong to God and do not accept His Word. It is evident that they ought never to be permitted to teach such things in the church, or in the name of Christianity.

IV. Sin Calls for a Saviour (1 John 2:1-6).

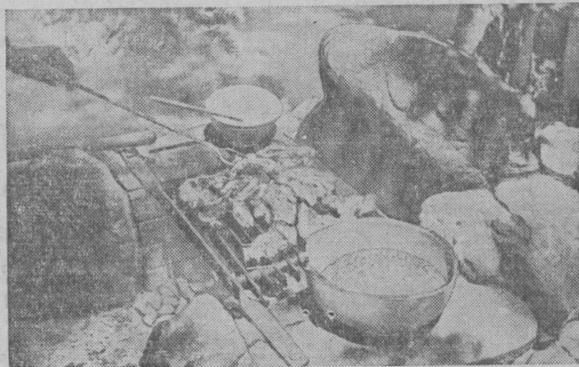

Christ the propitiation, the mercy-seat covering for our sins, is the only Saviour. He paid the price, and made it possible for God to be just and at the same time a justifier of the ungodly. The sinner needs such a Saviour.

Sin in the life of the believer also calls for a Saviour, one who will cleanse us (1:9) and who will in His own blessed name plead our cause "if we sin." He is our Advocate (2:1) pleading His righteousness in our behalf when we do fall.

This does not mean that we may then become indifferent or careless about sin. If we say we know Him and do not keep His commandments, we lie about our professed relationship to Him. The mark of a true child is a spirit of obedience.

God's children prove their love to Him by keeping His commandments. Talking about our devotion to Him, giving our service for Him, or sacrificing for His cause mean nothing if we do not obey Him. We only pile evidence upon evidence of our untruthfulness by making claims and doing things which are negated by our disobedience.

FOR A REAL TASTE THRILL... COOK IT OUTSIDE
(See Recipes Below)

OUTDOOR SUPPERS

If you've a longing to do something different, an outdoor supper's the answer. Get the smell of woody smoke into your food, the crackle of burning embers for atmosphere, the sound of sizzling meat held over glowing flames during the supper hour and you'll experience a taste-thrill you'll long remember. Everything tastes better cooked outdoors!

Toss some cans of beans into a gay kerchief, wrap fruit, cookies, cake into waxed paper, whip up some barbecue sauce to use with the meat, and the meal is under way.

Outdoor cooking equipment may be as humble as a few large bricks, an iron grate, or an extra rack from the oven, a long handled fork for each member of the family. A light camping stove or a more elaborate grill such as a vertical or horizontal stove of sheet steel including drip and ashpans, a roasting spit, and warming shelves may also be used. Whatever you use, remember, it's the cooking outdoors which makes the meal.

You will want meat and plenty of it for fresh air whips up the appetite. The family will come back again and again for this delicious meat with a sauce all its own:

Tomato Horseradish Mustard Marinade.

For 3 pounds of spareribs or beef short ribs use:
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish mustard sauce
¼ cup vinegar
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 cup tomato juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 onions, chopped fine

Combine dry and liquid materials well and beat thoroughly. Place meat in a shallow bowl or glass dish and cover with the marinade. Turn every 3 or 4 hours and marinate in refrigerator for 48 hours. Drain meat well before barbecuing and baste frequently while cooking over coals. The marinade may be thickened and served as a sauce over the meat. Your barbecuing will be more successful if you marinate the meat. It's especially good on the less expensive cuts.

If you'd like a meal-in-one with a minimum of fuss but nourishment plus, try this potato salad made with frankfurters. If you're accustomed to your old and cherished potato salad recipe, I'm still sure that you'll like this one:

Frankfurter Potato Salad.
(Serves 6)

3 medium sized potatoes, cooked, diced
1 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound frankfurters, skinned and sliced
¾ cup salad dressing
French dressing
Marinate the potatoes in the french dressing. Combine all ingredi-

LYNN SAYS:

While cooking under the sky over hot coals you'll want to remember:

Charcoal burns to fine, lasting coals and gives a nice steady fire for barbecue cookery. For best results when using either charcoal or wood should be burned until the flames disappear. Then the meat should be placed 8 to 10 inches above the coals and turned every few minutes to insure even cooking.

Hard woods like oak, hickory, madrone manzanita and maple give a lasting glowing bed of coals. Soft pine is suitable for quick grilling like hamburger and hot dogs.

Whatever type of grill you use, pick a spot that's shady, not too far from the kitchen if you're doing it in the back yard and not too near heavy shrubbery.

dients and mix with potatoes. Chill 1 hour and serve with lettuce.

If you decide on hamburgers some night for your open grill stove try them this way: Add 15 per cent suet to your regular meat in thin flat cakes between waxed paper. Put two cakes together with a filling made from finely chopped raw onion mixed with steak sauce and rich prepared mustard, pressing the edges of the cakes firmly together. Broil quickly on both sides. Serve on large, toasted buns which have been buttered.

Here are two variations you may wish to follow if you serve baked beans often:

Maple Beans—Substitute ½ cup maple syrup or ¼ cup brown sugar and molasses.

Baked Beans with Sausage—Arrange parboiled beans and uncooked sausage in alternate layers; substitute 1 can tomato soup for molasses and part of water.

Boiled Campfire Coffee.
(1 quart)

4 heaping tablespoons coffee
4 cups boiling water
1 egg
Combine the coffee and egg in the pot and mix thoroughly. Pour in water and bring slowly to a full boil, stirring coffee down in a warm place for 3 to 5 minutes. Use ¼ cup cold water to settle grounds.

Easy to make but easier to take is this cocoa cake made with sour cream. Even if you want to serve it with the richer ice creams you won't feel too stuffed with it because it is light textured and feathery. If there is no sour cream to be had sweet milk can be substituted, but use it with 2 teaspoons of baking powder instead of the soda.

Sour Cream Cocoa Cake.
(Makes 2 9-inch layers)

½ cup cocoa
¾ cup boiling water
½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2 cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites

Mix cocoa in boiling water and stir until smooth. Cool. Cream shortening and sugar together until light, then add cocoa. Sift the dry ingredients and add alternately with cream to the first mixture. Beat until smooth after each addition. Add vanilla then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter into pans lined with wax paper, and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes. Put together with

Chocolate Icing.

2 cups confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons butter
2 ounces melted chocolate
Milk to moisten
Vanilla
Cream butter and sugar, add melted chocolate, milk, and vanilla and beat until smooth. Spread between layers and over cake.

Refrigerator Cookies.
(Makes 7½ dozen)

1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 egg
1 cup oven popped rice cereal
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Cream butter; add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in cereal. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture, a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about 1½ inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (425 degrees) about 10 minutes.

Million Red Cross Volunteers Aid Defense Program

Washington, D. C.—Behind the front lines of U. S. defenses more than 1,200,000 Red Cross volunteers are on the job—making surgical dressings, knitting sweaters and giving comfort articles, learning the rudiments of emergency mass feeding and scores of other duties in an all-out effort for national defense.

The largest defense task now being undertaken by Red Cross volunteers is the production of 40,000,000 surgical dressings for the Army and Navy, according to Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, national director of Volunteer Special Services.

Home Service volunteers and Gray Ladies, whose duties are directly concerned with the man in uniform also are expanding their programs, Mrs. Davis said.

As a preparedness measure, thousands of women throughout the country are learning mass feeding and nutrition as members of the Red Cross Canteen Corps. Added thousands are being trained in the Motor Corps to serve as emergency drivers.

ONE IN A MILLION TO BE PRESENTED IN TANEYTOWN

The Taneytown Dramatic Club sends us this brief synopsis of the play which they have chosen for their first of the season: Sam Perry, play-boy friend of Archie Carter, is noted for being a reckless spendthrift. Needing money to pay costs of an accident he writes his aunt, Lemira Perry, telling her that he is married. She, in turn sends him a check for a thousand dollars as a wedding gift. With this check he pays off his debts, only to learn of more trouble—his Aunt is coming to visit him and his 'wife.' In order to keep his Aunt from learning of his falsehood, he appeals to Archie to get him a temporary wife for the duration of his Aunt's visit. Archie rebels, saying he wants no part of Sam's troubles.

Upon Archie's refusal to help him, Sam calls Wilma Maitland, one of Archie's girl friends, and tells her that Archie had been in an accident and had sustained a broken leg. She immediately comes to Archie's apartment, whereupon Sam explains his predicament to her. Amid reprisals from Archie, she consents to help Sam out by playing his "wife" during his Aunt's visit. They decide to use Archie's apartment as their own and send him to his club to stay.

Aunt Lemira visits them and immediately falls in love with her nephew's "wife", Wilma, finding what a sweet old lady Aunt Lemira really is, wants to call the whole thing off and tell her the whole story. Sam, however, talks her out of it and she consents to "string along". In the meantime, Temple Carter, Archie's Uncle, has gotten into trouble with a cheap chorus girl gold-digger—Goldie Jenkins; Archie is having trouble with the latest play he is writing, and Mrs. Jenkins threatens to sue Sam thinking he is Archie. It takes Aunt Lemira to straighten things out, and that old lady surprises everyone by—

But we'd better stop here and tell you the play is being put on as a benefit performance for the Ambulance Fund and the Children's Aid Society, and will be put on in the Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 25 and 26, 1941. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Dramatic Club; Fire Department or Children's Aid Society. Be sure to see next week's paper for the cast of characters.

Australians Are Among World's Bashful People

The name Australia means "South Land" or "Land of the South." Among the six continents it was last to be reached by white men. Three hundred and thirty-six years ago, a Spaniard named De Torres passed near the northern coast of Australia, but it seemed that no landing was made.

A few months later a number of Dutch sailors went ashore in Australia, but they were met by natives who rushed to attack them. The sailors went back to their ship, then sailed on.

Other Dutch vessels visited the continent in later years and for a time it was known as "New Holland." The Dutch, however, did not care much for either the climate or the people. They were more interested in the islands of the East Indies.

An English sea captain, William Dampier, visited Australia in 1688. Exactly 100 years later a party of British colonists came and settled there. They were followed by many others, and at the present time the population is just about 7,000,000.

Australia has been called "a white man's continent" and it is almost entirely that. Yet Australia does have people with dark skins. They were there when the first explorers and settlers came, and they are there today.

The natives are called "blackfellows," and have proved interesting. They are among the most backward people ever found anywhere.

Rules for Safeguarding Cars in Storage Outlined

With many thousands of men being called into service and other thousands engaged in defense work where their automobiles are not needed, simple rules for safeguarding cars placed in storage are outlined by the AAA.

Pointing out that in bygone years "putting up the car" for long periods was the rule rather than the exception, the AAA said that no damage will result if the car is prepared for a period of non-use. The following precautions are listed before leaving the automobile in storage:

1. Take steps to prevent rust and corrosion in the engine, perhaps with a corrosion inhibitor, while the car is in use just prior to putting it in storage. Then leave in clean oil and drain the gasoline tank.
2. Place the car on blocks and relieve tension on any parts. The hand brake should not be set.
3. Place the battery in storage at a battery service. If it is to be left for a long period, acid should be removed.
4. Engineers advise leaving water in the radiator using a rust inhibitor.
5. Have the car thoroughly greased and washed. Waxing and covering with a cloth while in storage will safeguard the finish.
6. See that the automobile is safe from any fire hazard and it is desirable to have insurance protection.

In connection with radios in stored cars, probably the only damage will be the deterioration of tubes.
