GOVERNOR O'CONOR

Speaks Plainly of our Blessing

Baltimore, Nov. 24: "It just seems to be beyond the comprehension of our minds," Governor Herbert R. O'Conor told an overflow meeting of the Advertising Club of Baltimore here "to realize the unutterable difference there is between life here in America and in many of the other nations of the world today."

"Could we, for instance, picture ourselves and our families working feverishly by day, and possibly losing our sleep a good part of the night, as are the people of England; could we realize the desperation with which they are preparing to ward off any attack that may be launched upon their homeland, then certainly we should be able to offer up our Theyler. should be able to offer up our Thanksgiving with true appreciation.

Or, painting an even more tragic picture, could we visualize this country occupied by despotic inveders; our every possession torn from us; many of our leaders executed or in exile; our families separated from us or among the missing; could we know what it means to be forbidden to speak, to read, to assemble, even to worship as we will—then, indeed, I am sure, every one of us would feel an overpowering sense of gratitude to the Almighty, who has preserved us from such a dire fate.

"It is good, indeed," the Govern-or declared, "that we have, at Thanksgiving and at various times throughout the year, occasion to reflect upon the blessings that are ours. All too much in the past have we failed to do just this, with the result that, en-joying all the privileges that are ours, we have come to take them for granted as possessions that must always be ours. How false is such an assumption has been evidenced many times over in the events that have taken place since Hitler first began his mad on-slaught. Two years ago freedom was not a peculiar possession of the American people, or of the English-speaking people throughout the world-but it was enjoyed by many milloins throughout Europe and Asia."

There is a 'Santa Claus'

The following literary gem, that has been widely circulated, appeared in the New York Sun, quite considerable years ago, and has been widely copied .-Ed. Carroll Record.

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of THE SUN:

"Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no SANTA CLAUS. Papa says 'if you see it in THE SUN it's so.' Please tell me the truth; is there a SANTA CLAUS?"

"Virginia O. Hanlon. "115 West Ninety-fifth Street"

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the scepticism of a sceptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, VIRGINIA, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in' his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, VIRGINIA, there is a SANTA CLAUS. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to our life its highest beauty and joy. Alas; how dreary would be the world if there were no SANTA CLAUS. It would be as dreary as if there were no VIRGINIAS. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in SANTA CLAUS! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch SANTA CLAUS, but even if they did not see SANTA CLAUS coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees SANTA CLAUS, but that is no sign that there is no SANTA CLAUS. but that is no sign that there is no SANTA CLAUS. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseenable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, VIRGINIA, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No SANTA CLAUS! Thank GOD! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, VIR-GINIA, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

(We had not intended to publish this Santa Claus story, feeling that the war in which the U.S. is now engaged was so serious as to interfere with our usual Christmas holidays. But, as most other papers in the U. S., are treating our great holiday, about as usual, we are following their lead .- P. B E.)

All large cities, as well as in towns and villages, show the usual preparedness for Christmas buying and all

GATHERING IN THE CHRISTMAS TREES

An official estimate by Government departments in Washington indicates that five million evergreens are expected to be cut this year from American forests and wood lots to use as Christmas trees.

In the olden days our predecessors on this continent used to cut their own Christmas trees, but today they are a big business and a well-organized million dollar industry.

The balsam fir accounts for about 60% of the holiday trees; spruce accounts were about 25% and Douglas fir about 10%. New England and New York states furnish most of the trees for the eastern market. Check-up on the Health of Children

Calling attention to a marked increase in diphtheria in the State, Dr. Riley, Director of the State Health Department, urges parents who have neglected to have their children protected against this disease, to take them to their own doctor or to the nearest health department clinic and have it done without furth-

He reminded parents that through the use of what is known as "toxoid", children can be protected against diphtheria in the same way that they can be vaccinated against smallpox. The disease is particularly hard on young children and every youngster should be given the toxoid treatment before he or she is a year old, if possible, and certainly before the child enters school. Toxoid clinics are held in all of the County Health Departments, and in the Baltimore City Health Department centers, for the protection of children who can not have it done otherwise. Full information as to places or hours for these clinics can be readily obtained from the health officers and public health nurses. There were fifty more cases of diphtheria reported to the State Department of Health during November of this year, than during November of 1940. The total number of cases reported in November, 1940, was 30; 28 from the counties and 2 from Baltimore City. The total reported in November of this year, was 80; 68 from the counties and 12 from Baltimore City. Flare-ups in different parts of the State have been respon-sible, Dr. Riley said, for a marked in-crease in the total number of cases reported during the current year. During the eleven months which end-ed November 30, the Department was notified of the occurrence of 210 cases, 170 in the counties and 40 in Baltimore City. The total reported for the entire twelve months of 1940 158: 109 cases from the counties and 49 from Baltimore City.

In answer to the many inquiries which have come into the Headquarters Third Corps Area about protection of the cities and defense activities, Major General Henry C. Pratt said today that his Headquarters is continually engaged on this problem in conjunction with the state and local governments. Replying to questions about movement of troops, General Pratt stated that there were troop movements recently within the Corps Area, but that most of these were merely transient troops passing through to their home stations after maneuvers in the South, which movements had been planned many months ago, and had nothing to do with the present situation.

However, realizing the importance of the defense activities and desiring to alleviate the worries of the populace concerning aerial attack, the War Department is taking steps to make anti-aircraft units available

LIVE AND LEARN

Naturally, one takes the most interest in things we have to do. It may be farming, storekeeping, printing or some sort of shop work, on which we depend to making a living, with profit keep as a result.

Just as naturally we expect competitions who are interested, but we must admit that competition, but if they act fairly we can have no just cause for complaint.

By experience and results, we simply must meet with expected-and along with it profit, or loss, good luck on bad, need not lose friends.

HUMAN INFANT REARED IN JUNGLE BY LEOPARD

Strange true story of how a mother leopard avenged the loss of her cubs by stealing a human infant and brought it up as her own in the jungles. CROCODILE TEARS

Whatever Japan knows about aggression she has learned from the white man. And it is plain that if she had not been quick to learn, she would have shared the same fate as other Orientals who, during the past 150 years, have come under the rule of European governments.

The east was for centuries the capacious grab-bag which both nations and private companies were free to rifle. England, France, Holland and Russia were probably the chief offenders, but America and Germany were by no means blameless.

The cry of horror that now arises from London and Washington over the diabolical acts of the little yellow man is not genuine, we fear. Selfinterest, the desire to protect commercial and financial interests that For years cheap imitation and have been built up.—Christian Sci.

Gluttonous Trapper Eats

His Way Into Asylum

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C .- A graybearded trapper, wearing a tattered mackinaw, came out of the British Columbia bush the other night and broke into a camp cook shed at Sinclair Mills. He devoured five pounds of meat, a loaf of bread, four cups of coffee and several glasses of milkand demanded more. When it was refused he grabbed a knife and went on a rampage.

The people of the village barricaded themselves in their homes and sent a call for help. Before provincial police could arrive, however, the trapper had been over-powered. No one was injured.

The trapper was brought to Prince George, strapped to a stretcher, and appeared before the local magistrate, who committed him to a mental hospital.

Nature Isn't Quite Up To Raising Spaghetti Yet

BATTLE CREEK .- Raymond P. Wheelock got along well with his midcity rooftop farm until he tried to raise spaghetti.

Since May, 1940, he has raised onions, radishes, tomatoes, and even produced a few lemons. His fig, date and orange trees grew well in tubs, as he watered and fertilized carefully.

So he optimistically followed the directions on the package for a "spaghetti plant" that whetted his appetite. He cooked the gourdlike vegetable in water for 20 minutes as directed. Not synthetic spaghetti but something that "tasted like a misguided squash" was the result.

660,000,000 Eggs Needed

For Year's Army Food CHICAGO.-Food requirements of the United States army next year were estimated by Lieut. Col. Paul Logan of the Quartermaster corps as including the following:

277,000,000 pounds of fresh meat and sausage. 82,000,000 pounds of cured and smoked meats. 26,000,000,000 pounds of canned

50,000,000 pounds of poultry. 55,000,000 dozen eggs.

Mistletoe Loses Charms

When Berries Are Gone In the language of flowers, Mistletoe means "give me a kiss." This has its basis in a Scandinavian myth. And from this old tale we derive our custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

As it hangs upon the chandelier or in the doorway, each lad may claim a kiss from the maid who chances beneath it with this provision: that the lad remove a berry to give to the maid, until, at last when no berries are left, the bough loses its spell and no more kisses are then available.

The story continues "that the maiden who receives no kisses under the mistletoe will not marry that year.'

We wish to thank our friends and customers for their patronage during the past year and respectfully solicit your business during the coming year.

Five Girls From Drowning OGDEN, UTAH .- Fourteen-yearold Lynn Stoddard of Riverdale,

Utah, probably is in line for a lifesaving medal. Lynn was standing on the shore of Pine View lake near here when he saw five young girls wander into the water. A wave swept them out into water over their heads. Lynn quickly plunged into the cold lake. One by one he pulled four of the girls to safety-knocking one of them out when she became panicstricken and nearly pulled her rescuer down with her.

Then Lynn realized there was one more girl missing. Back into the lake he swam until he arrived over a spot where bubbles were coming to the surface. He dived, grabbed the fifth girl, and brought her to shore, unconscious, and, aided by another passer-by gave her artificial respiration that soon restored consciousness.

How R.A.F. Saved Legless

Ace in 20,000 Foot Jump LONDON. - Calling the episode the "most dramatic five minutes of the war," the Daily Express told how the Spitfire planes of legless R.A.F. Wing Commander Douglas R. Bader's squadron covered that ace's 20,000 foot parachute jump over German territory last month. Bader told his squadron he must leave his plane and his second in command promptly gave the order to "see him safely to the ground, nothing else matters."

"So as he floated down, the Spitfires spiralled around him in a protective coil, their circles ever shifting as he drifted with the wind lower and lower until he had only a few hundred feet to go," the paper said. "They watched him come to earth. They could do no more."

By agreement with the Germans, who captured Bader, the R.A.F. dropped another artificial leg to re place the ore he damaged in the parachut

Friends With Fishermen SANTA CRUZ, CALIF. - Santa Cruz fishermen insist this is not a fish story. It is a sea lion story.

Recently a baby sea lion jumped into the fishing boat of Capt. Anthony Davi of Santa Cruz. Davi gave it a fish and tossed it back into the water.

The sea lion circled the boat and jumped into it again. Again Davi fed it and tossed it back. When the performance was repeated a third time, Davi kept the sea lion aboard and brought it into port. It was placed in a tank on the wharf.

Later the sea lion was released. It wandered around the waterfront while and then headed for the fishing boats.

After some inspection of the crafts, it leaped into Davi's boat. There it rode happily as Davi put out

French Libraries Suffer Heavily by War Damage

VICHY. - The war damage to France's archives and libraries is detailed in a statement published

The greatest loss was at the Tours library, where only 1,000 of 180,000 volumes and 2,100 of 8,000 manuscripts were saved. The manuscripts preserved were, fortunately, the most valuable of the collection. The Beauvais library was destroyed with 40,000 volumes. At Gisors 5,000 books were lost.

A fire that ravaged Evereux was checked just as it reached the library.

Since the armistice serious damage has been done to the Abbeville library, hit by a British bomb June 14, 1940. Damage has also been suffered by the libraries in Brest, Dieppe and Lorient as a result of bombardments by British planes.

Philadelphia.—Sixty-five years ago a railroad made a settlement with a 36-year-old passenger who had been injured in a train wreck at Ashtabula, Ohio, in which 95 persons were killed.

"We'll give you a dollar a day as long as you live," said the railroad adjuster to Harry Ellsworth Bennett, who suffered an injured back and lost an eye.

"That was a pretty good bargain," grinned Bennett upon celebrating his 101st birthday recently. "So far I've collected $23,700.

LITTLESTOWN.

Luther D. Snyder and Emory H. Snyder, owners of the Littlestown Hardware and Foundry Company entertained their employees at their annual banquet Thursday evening. At the same time the 25th. anniversary of the opening of the Foundry in Littlestown was celebrated. It was held at the American Legion Home in Hanover. A turkey dinner was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Post. One hundred and ten persons were present; only seven employees were absent. Harry W. Badders, Jr., was chairman of the committee and acted as master of ceremonies. Statistics were given by Henry Waltman; he said that the Foundry opened in August 1916 with twenty employees and has enjoyed a steady growth in business, and at the present time 113 persons are employed; in twenty-five years it paid over 3 million dollars for goods; the greatest distance to which the products has been shipped in the last year was to Capetown, South Africa, and Manila, Philippine Islands. The first molder in the plant was Herbert Koontz, is still working in the plant The Snyder Brothers came to Littlestown from Wrightsville. In the 25 years they have given steady employment to their workers, and a spirit of cooperation and loyalty has existed. During the banquet Luther D. Snyder made anniversary presentations to the employees; ne presented to every employee in behalf of himself and his brother a silver dollar for each year of service. The money was in a bag, bearing the name of the Company and the anniname of the Company and the anniversary dates 1916-1941. Three of the present employees have worked for the Company for the 25 years having started the day the plant was opened. They are Elmer Wherley, Reid Eppleman and Harry Long maddition to the $25.00 each one was received with a silver cirarette. presented with a silver cigarette case with his initials engraved on it. Many of the employees work from 15 to 23 years. Mr. Snyder called upon Glenn Breighner, who is a 13 year employee to arise. Mr. Breighner, who recently became the father of triplet daughters was presented with three money bags each containing five silver dollars for each of the little girls. The entertainment for the evening was furnished by Lee Sponseller's Theatrical Troupe of these man and three women. There three men and three women.

FEESERSBURG.

Last week ended like real winter, with snow, rain and sleet, which gave us on Sunday our first crystal morning of the season-brilliant and beautiful as ever. All roofs, fences and trees were edged with an icy fringe in style for Christmas; but until evening it had disappeared, and things looked natural again. Saturday was very inclement, but how glad every one was for the rain—and all was saved that could be. On Jan. 8, 1862 our grand-father was hauling water from Log Cabin Branch for his horse and cow, and everywhere a drop spilled it turned to ice and he and mother who was helping, were nearly frozen too. Despite unfavorable weather the sale of Mrs. Clinton Bair, in Middleburg, on Saturday afternoon was fairly attended, and good prices paid for her household goods scattered to purchasers. Mrs. Bair will reside with her youngest son, Kenneth, in the house at Keymar. On Wednesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stuffle attended the butchering of 5 hogs at Brooke Heltibridle's, on Log Cabin Branch, formerly the Jasper Garner property; then the weather became really cold fine to keep fresh pork.

One of our citizens who is in the employ of the Glenn Martin Co., has a picture of the enormous new air ship "Mars" they have built; so huge that an ordinary sized aeroplane rests on each wing, and seems widely seperated. It can carry 410,000 lbs of bombs an 8,000 horse power ship. Martin says the industry is ready for still greater ships. The snow, ice and wind affected the electric lines. So the linemen were at work on Saturday, and soon put them in usuable order-without much inconvenience to the patrons. These are surely accommodating times that when our lights go out some one comes along and brightens things up.

The attendance at Mt. Union Sunday School on Sunday morning was small, mostly because of sickness in the homes—called minor ailments, but hard enough to endure

UNIONTOWN.

The December meeting of St. Paul's Children of the Church was a Christmas party held in the I. O. M. Hall, Saturday afternoon, Dec. 13, under the leadership of Mrs. Larue Shaffer and Miss Dorothy Crumbacker. Notwithstanding the very inclement weather every member was present and five new members were received. With the members, their superintendents guests, there were 33 present. The guests were: Rev. and Mrs. George Bowersox, Mrs. Edward Myers, Mrs. Malcolm Frock, Miss Lola Binkley, Harry Fogle, Eddie Riggs, Charles and Robert Devilbiss and Vernon Shaffer, Jr.

The meeting was opened with car-ol singing. A number of the children read Christmas poems. The scripture for the day was read by Jack Riggs. Mrs. Bowersox and Mrs. Shaffer read a number of Christmas stories. Then followed the reading of the minutes, the offering and closing prayer. Games were next in order with a number of prizes given. A Christmas tree adorned one corner of the room, under which was placed a gift for each member, the gifts were from their superintendents, Mrs. Larue Shaffer and Miss Dorothy Crumbacker. Santa arrived about 3:30 o'clock and distributed the gifts. The climax came when everybody was invited to the Christmas decorated table. The refreshments consisted of ice cream, cakes, pretzels, potato chips, tangerines, clear toys of various designs and mints. At each plate the members and guests found a very unique favor—a Christmas tree with a small basket of mints and a gum drop candlestick holding a small white candle. The children appreciated the kindness of their leaders who planned and gave them so pleasant a Christmas party and went home feeling that for them the Christmas holiday season had begun.

Much credit is due our school teachers for the fine Christmas program which was rendered by the pupils on Tuesday evening. A play, "The Court of Santa Claus" was was given by the lower grades after which the Nativity was beautifully portrayed by tableaus by the higher grades. A very appreciative audi-

Christmas

I hear the bells on Christmas Day The old familiar carols play, And wild and sweet, The words repeat

Then from each black, accursed mouth The cannon thundered in the South; And with that sound The carols drowned

Of peace on earth, good-will to men. It was as if an earthquake rent The hearthstones of a continent,

And made forlorn The household born Of peace on earth, good-will to men.

And in despair I bowed my head, "There is no peace on earth," I said,

'For hate is strong And mocks the song Of peace on earth, good-will to men."

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep; "God is not dead, nor doth He sleep; The Wrong shall fail,

The Right prevail, With peace on earth, good-will to men."

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW

We reprint for this Christmas season a poem that was penned seventy-right years ago. The thought which it expresses is a remarkably timely and inspiring reminder that other people in other days have faced dark and trying times with faith and confidence. May it encourage us in the dark days that have so suddenly come ajon to and brighten our Holiday Season with its message of trath.

COLD 'BUG' MEANS DANGER FOR MANY

"I've got a bug." How often have you heard that said followed usually in a moment or two by a sneeze which, because of your nearness, may cause you to inhale not one "bug," but thousands of poisonous germs.

And as a result before long you have a "bug" and are sneezing. If you are fortunate, it will be as simple as that.

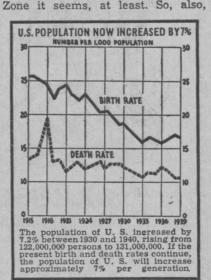

Davis III But beware. Because of the virulence and type of the infection, through poor physical condition, or because you may be over-tired, have an intestinal upset or other minor ailment that lowers your resistance, you may develop complications, such as sinus trouble, earache, bronchitis, or pneumonia.

The "bug" may even be one that means rheumatic fever, heart trouble, a kidney disease, or "blood pois-

The common cold, sore throats, and epidemic influenza are highly contagious. If one member of a family is stricken by one of these upper-respiratory throat infections it usually spreads to all the rest. If a child with one of these "colds" goes to school, hardly one in the classroom will escape.

Some persons will have many colds every year while another will not have more than one or two a year. "Colds" differ from season to season and from year to year. At one time, there will be little fever and the disturbance will be mostly in the nose. Another time, or even at the same time in another year, there will be fever and a sore throat.

"Colds" tend to increase as the sun moves farther south, the days become shorter and the ultra-violet rays fewer in the North Temperate there are not as many "colds" when the days become longer and the ultra-violet rays more numerous.

During the fall, winter and spring months, people are indoors most of the time and for food depend more on varieties that have been processed and preserved. So it would seem that a generally lowered resistance due to a combination of causes rather than to any special weakness accounts for the seasonal variation.

How can we avoid catching cold? A diet containing enough vitamins, minerals and proteins and a proper amount of carbohydrates is of great importance in keeping up resistance. Plenty of rest and exercise are also necessary.

It is most important also that we avoid crowds in street cars, stores and movies, in so far as possible, as it lessens the chance for exposure. Above all do not feel that you must visit every sick friend or relative. If you must visit those sick with a cold or if you have to care for them, wear a gauze mask over your nose and mouth, at least, so that you may inhale fewer of the "bugs" which have been scattered about by the patient sneezing and coughing. Sterilize the dishes and eating objects used by the patient and let him use paper handkerchiefs which may be burned. Put the patient in a room alone so the cold won't be spread to others.

If you have the cold, don't leave the house and, if you can, stay in bed. Keep other members of the family, especially the older ones and the children, out of your room.

Don't go out and spread the "cold" to fellow employees, or to those near you in busses, street cars or trains! Don't go to the movies!

SHORT STORY

Empty Safe

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON (Associated Newspapers-WNU Service.)

ing at the Robinson residence when the police car, bearing
"I'm Tom Darcy," the youth explained. "For heaven's sake, let's hurry. Every moment counts." "Why," asked Detective Baker, when they were in the police car,

"didn't you phone us from your uncle's house?" 'The line was dead. Whoever robbed the safe must have cut the wires. I ran over to Robinson's."

"Exactly what happened?" "Uncle's away for the week-end," Darcy explained. "I was alone upstairs about half an hour ago. I thought I heard a noise and came running down. I had reached the first landing when a man dashed from the library, sprinted for the front door and was out before I could stop him. I paused only long enough to glance into the library, saw that the safe door was swinging wide then gave chase. As I came down the front walk the thief was just making off in a small gray sedan.

"For heaven's sake, let's hurry. Every moment counts."

My roadster was out front and I leaped into it and followed, but I lost sight of the sedan in the heavy traffic.' "I see," said Baker. "Aren't you in the habit of keeping your uncle's house locked at all times? Especially when he's away?"

"Of course. And today was no exception, either. The burglar gained admission by prying open a cellar window."

They had reached the residential district and presently the detective 2,300 Varieties of Rose drew up in front of a brownstone dwelling. "This is your uncle's home, isn't it?"

"Yes." Young Darcy raced up the steps, hurried through the front door and disappeared inside. A moment later Detective Baker found him examining the opened safe.

"You were certainly in an all-fired hurry to get inside, especially when you knew the thief had escaped." "I wanted to make sure just how much was missing. You see, I didn't return here after losing sight of the sedan, but went directly to headquarters."

"I see," Baker nodded toward the safe. "I suppose you discovered the worst."

"Worst is certainly the word. Not only are the bonds gone, but every other scrap of paper besides. The thief must have heard me coming and realizing that haste was necessary, shoved everything into his pocket."

"Likely." Detective Baker stooped over to examine the safe. "Was there anything familiar about the figure you saw rushing from the house?"

"As a matter of fact there was." The officer whirled around. "In heaven's name why didn't you say Did you recognize him?

"I didn't mention it before," Darcy said thoughtfully, "because I didn't want to cast unjust suspicion. But' Suddenly he thrust out his hand, revealing in its palm a small clasp pen knife. "That knife belongs to Jules Colby, uncle's butler. seen him use it a hundred times."

'And how long," asked Baker, his voice hinting of sarcasm, "have you been carrying it around with you?"

"I found it on the floor beneath the safe when I came in a moment ago. It—it substantiated my first suspicion that the man whom I had seen escape was actually Colby. He must have used it in his attempt to open the safe, and dropped it in his haste to get away.'

"Where's Colby now?" "Goodness knows. He's supposed to be at home resting. Uncle dismissed all the servants while he was away. Sort of a holiday."

"I see. And you think we ought to pick up this Jules Colby and question him."

"If picking up is as easy as you make it sound, I most certainly agree. Look there." Darcy pointed at the safe. Near its outer edges were a number of scratches that had obviously been made by some sharp instrument, quite possibly a "I see," said Baker. "But for the moment let's concentrate on Colby. I have an idea he won't be so difficult to find as you appear to think."

"Possibly," said Darcy, his own tone betraying sarcasm, "the police

YOUNG man, looking fright-ened and agitated, was wait-ing at the Belinary raidenes "Possibly," Baker agreed, "you're right. For example, I think if we take a run over to Mr. Colby's boarding house we'll find him at home-resting."

"If you do it will mean that the man's much smarter than I think. But I doubt if it will occur to him that not trying to escape will make him less a suspicious character.'

Detective Baker scratched his chin. "Kid, you seem to have a faculty of giving no one credit for brains but yourself. Let me tell you something: In about a minute you're going to discover that you're not so smart as you're trying to impress me with being."

Young Darcy got to his feet with easy assurance. "Well, well. Are you the gentleman who's going to show me?"

"I am." "Can that be possible! Shall I prepare to cheer?"

'You'd better prepare to spend a long time in an iron-bound cage thinking things over." "Meaning?"

"Meaning that no one would be damn fool enough to try to open a safe such as this one with a pen

"Which gets us nowhere. The marks of the pen knife are on the safe, and proves that somebody must have been a fool." "The man who put the marks there was—damn fool enough to think a smart detective would swallow the yarn. Also fool enough to think the same detective would believe a cock and bull story about chasing a guy in a gray sedan."

"Why, blast your hide, I did" "Not! Either you didn't chase him or your story is cockeyed. Because if you ran out of the house and down the walk and tore off in your car, how did you know the burglar pried open a cellar window to gain admission. There were no cellar windows open when I came up the walk. I must have been on the rear of the house, but if you went directly to headquarters—"

At which point young Mr. Darcy blurted something about showing who was smart, and reached inside his coat pocket. Whereupon Baker substantiated his own statement about the smartness of a certain detective by socking Mr. Darcy over the head with the reverse end of a pistol, which he'd had his hand on for five minutes.

Blooms in Private Garden

Fifty years ago a small boy spent his time hoeing roses and cutting off withered blossoms on his father's southern estate.

Today he has what is reputed to be the largest private collection of roses in the United States, for in the garden of Clyde R. McGinnes, a Reading, Pa., yarn merchant, there Darcy sank wearily into a chair. | grow thousands of roses of 2,300 varieties.

Although foreign rose commerce has been stopped because of the war, the McGinnes garden is still growing rapidly with specimens he propagates himself and secures from other parts of the country. "I add about 100 roses every year," he said. "My present garden was started in the spring of 1926 when I moved my collection from the city backyard across the Schuylkill to the hillside. Since then I have had hundreds of visitors from all sections of the United States-even tourists from California." It takes a lot of time and effort to keep a rose garden, but, like any other enthusiastic hobbyist, McGinnes strives to make every rose a prize. In the library of his home there are 50 volumes devoted to rose gardening. He has made an extensive study of the art and corresponds with many of the country's widely known rose fanciers.

Very often he will receive a letter from some fancier asking whether it is possible to purchase any of his plants, but none of his roses are for sale.

McGinnes derives great pleasure from showing visitors his collection. Included in his garden are 142 varieties of albas, centifolias, damasks, gallicas and moss roses, 1,179 varieties of hybrid tea roses, and 98 varieties of old tea roses.

When finished, the book will measure seven feet in length and 11/2 feet in width. It will be classified by fields of endeavor and by years, the discoveries, inventions and variations in human behavior occurring since historical time began.

The reader, Dr. Wheeler points out, may at a glance determine what was going on in any subject in any year, and he may trace the history of any certain activity through the years.

Some 650,000 items have been entered in the book during the last five years and an estimated 1,250,-000 more items will be added before it is finished within the next five department in this city is smarter | years.

Cop Beats Loss of Leg; Back on Job

Fellow Policemen Help Him Study for Radio Post.

CHICAGO.—A pair of crutches nearby, his left leg amputated just below the knee, Policeman Walter Gray, 40, of River Forest, is back at work.

No longer will the husky, handsome policeman walk beat or drive one of the suburb's police cars. He has started a new job-desk sergeant and radio operator at the River Forest station.

Shortly before midnight April 3, 1940, Gray left his home in the suburb to report for duty. He entered his automobile parked in front of the home and stepped on the starter.

The starter set off a dynamite bomb that almost blew the car apart. The blast, which was heard for three miles, hurled part of the hood 60 feet to the sill of a window on the policeman's home, where it

Gray was rushed to the Oak Park hospital, where his leg was amputated. Both his legs and his face were severely burned.

Police of Chicago and River Forest began an intensive investigation. Gray was not known to have any personal enemies, so a thorough search of his police records was made, every man he had ever arrested and questioned, scores of suspects were grilled.

But no motive for the crime or clues have yet been found.

Gray returned to work with a federal radio operator's license. He studied and qualified for the post, with the aid of fellow policemen and his wife, Helen, while convalescing. The Grays have one child, Shir-

Thrilling Leap; Mother Lands in Baby's Buggy

NEWARK, N. J .- The Morris Velotti family showed the neighbors how to combine thrills and simple dignity in a domestic quarrel.

Sensing the quarrel coming on, the parents sent their 13-year-old Joseph out to wheel his baby brother, Michael, 14 months, in his carriage, because it wasn't nice to make a scene in front of them.

On the sidewalk, Joseph pushed a while, then lifted Michael out and let him walk a few paces. At that point there was a scream, and looking up, Joseph saw his mother, Mrs. Santa Velotti, 32, falling from a window of their third floor apart-

The boy held out his arms and braced himself to catch his mother. He missed her and she landed in the empty carriage. She climbed out, apparently unhurt, and walked away. Unnoticed by the mother, the carriage had lurched when she struck it and knocked Joseph down, bruising his knee.

Neighbors called a doctor and police. The doctor treated Joseph's knee and the police questioned Joseph's father, who said his wife had jumped from the window dur-

The police were just starting to hunt for Mrs. Velotti when she came home. She said she had been to the doctor's to get her bruised knees and forehead treated, and that she had fallen, not jumped, from the window. Police said the case was closed.

Kerosene Burn Worse

Than Mosquito Bite FRESNO, CALIF .- The mosquitoes were pesky, so Clifford R. Weliver got out of bed long enough to get some kerosene and sprinkle it on the bedsheets. A few hours later he went to Fresno hospital for treatment of second and third degree burns caused by the blistering kerosene. "It fixed the mosquitoes," he said.

Killer Cobra Is Called Blessing

Deadly Venom Eases Pain, Doctors Announce.

BALTIMORE. — The slithering "sudden death" of India—the hooded cobra-has curled up on the physician's medicine shelf, its venom turned into a powerful pain-killing drug. But cobra venom is a drug that doesn't "drug," in the sense of stupefying. It is as powerful as morphine. But unlike that opiate, it actually sharpens the human senses while deadening pain. That's just part of the strange medical story told by Dr. David L. Macht of Baltimore, American discoverer of the value of cobra venom. He reports its successful use in a lengthening list of ailments, not known.

But Dr. Macht found persons could solve mathematical problems faster than normally when they had injections of the venom. Doses of morphine slowed their reaction.

He also discovered the venom sharpened vision and enlarged the field of vision—persons could see more clearly and distinguish better among colors. It likewise stimulated hearing and the sense of smell.

These unusual reactions led to experiments with certain mental ailments, but the venom was found ineffective as a cure for them be-yond the temporary mental "boost."

The venom does not cure physical diseases. Like morphine or other pain-killers, it simply gives relief. Cobra venom takes longer to act than morphine, but its effects last longer, Dr. Macht said. And it is not habit-forming like opium. The experiments started six years ago, with venom first given to persons suffering torturing pains from incurable cancers and other malig-

THE COMING OF GOD'S SON

LESSON TEXT-Isaiah 9:6, 7; John 1:1-4, 10-14: I John 4:9-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.—I John 4:14.

Christmas again! How shall we keep it in a world torn by strife and poisoned by man's bitterness against man? Let us keep it with all the joy and gladness at our command. Let us make this the best Christmas we and our families have ever had. How? By giving more and richer gifts? No-although they have their place when rightly given and received. By feasting and merrymaking? No-although they too have their place when carried on in the true spirit of love and friendship. What then? Let us make this an outstanding Christmas by centering our thoughts, our affections, our joys-yes, and our gifts of self and substance-around God's Son, whose "birthday" we celebrate.

May Christmas, 1941, be the best you have ever spent. This is the writer's sincere wish for you. One way to make it just that is to diligently study our lesson for this next Sunday, which tells of the coming of God's Son.

I. His Coming and Character Prophesied (Isa. 9:6, 7).

God who was to send His Son into the world to become the Saviour of sinful man fittingly made known H.s coming through Isaiah (and others) 800 years before it took place. This greatest event in all history was the subject of exact and detailed proph ecy, which was completely fulfilled Although Isaiah calls Him "a child" (as indeed He was), he saw Him as the divine One whose glory and power is revealed in the magnificent array of names found in verse 6.

"Wonderful," a much abused and misused word, found its real meaning in Him-He really is wonderful in every way. "Counsellor!" He does not need or seek the counsel of others-He is the Counsellor. Have you sought His counsel? "The Mighty God"-not a mere man, but God unlimited in power. "The Everlasting Father," which is really the "Father of eternity," the One to whom eternity owes its existence.
"The Prince of Peace," who will one day bring peace to the earth when He comes to reign; something we need not expect before that blessed day.

Little wonder that "the government shall be upon his shoulders" (v. 6), and that He shall reign on the throne of David forever. is prophecy yet to be fulfilled, but it will be, even as the others, for "the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

II. His Incarnation and Redemption Completed (John 1:1-4, 10-14).

The Eternal One-who was in the beginning with the Father, He who was God and who made all things, this One who was the life and the light of men-humbled Himself and took upon Himself the likeness of sinful man. He was "made flesh and dwelt among us," revealing the grace and glory of God. The incarnation of Christ is a truth the greatness and glory of which we cannot fully understand; but we know that it was for us that He came-for our redemption.

The world-His own world-received Him not. "But"-and thank God for that blessed "but!"-"as many as received him, to them gave he the power (or better, 'the right, as in R.V.) to become the children of God." Redemption is by a new birth, a divine birth, "not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man." It is a complete redemption by faith in Him who revealed the grace of God to man. This is the great message of Christmas. Let us not miss it.

But there is another word for this precious and blessed season-it is that of love. III. His Love and Our Love Manifested (I John 4:9-11). The love of God has been expressed in many precious ways, but the full and final manifestation was in the sending of His only begotten Son into the world that we might have life through Him. This is love supreme, that God loved us when we did not love Him, the altogether lovely One giving His best and dearest in loving sacrifice for the altogether unlovely ones.

Such love in making the unspeakable gift to us must of necessity call forth from us not only love toward Him, but also for one another. Christmas is an excellent time to deepen and sweeten the love which exists between Christian brethren. We need to be drawn very close to one another for mutual encouragement, strengthening of our faith, and for the effective outreach of Christ's love to the whole world through us.

The eternal, glorious Christ came. He wrought out redemption full and free. He revealed God's great love to us-and to all the world. What a delightful Christmas message that is. Let us receive it and declare it.

Substitutes for Gas Can

Be Supplied by Science

Among the substitutes that American motorists might use in the event of a drastic gasoline shortage are liquefied coal, charcoal and wood; alcohol made from molasses and other farm products; ethane, butane and propane gases obtained from natural gas; methane gas from sewage and coal mines-and even water itself.

A good many people have had the idea of burning water—extracting the hydrogen by separating the H2 from the O. It has been tried in this country, South America, Europe and perhaps elsewhere in an experimental way, but it is too expensive to be used in anything except a few experimental cars.

By bacterial processes some English cities are extracting methane gas from sewage and using it to generate electric power and as motor

The methane gas is compressed into steel chambers under pressure of 3,000 pounds to the square inch. With some changes in the automobile's cylinders and fittings, two 115pound tubes filled with methane provide a cruising range of about 85

On the basis of a gallon of gasoline, methane produced in Germany costs about 51 cents.

Motor vehicles can be converted into gas consuming types for $150 to $300, including installation of racks to hold the cylinder tanks, regulation of valves to control gas flow, and replacement of the regular carburetor by a special gas-air mixer.

Egg Co. Could Repair

Old 'Humpty Dumpty' The trouble with Humpty Dumpty is that he was born too soon. If he had met with his widely publicized accident within, say, the past 10 years, he'd never have turned to such inexperienced people as the king's horses and the king's men to put him together again. He'd have flashed word to a Springfield, Mo., company, and they'd have fixed him up without batting an eye. For 10 years this company has been breaking eggs, separating them into powdered whites and yolks and then putting them together again-without the shells.

They've spent more than a million dollars in research, since the industry in this country is only about 10 years old, although the Chinese have been powdering eggs for untold centuries. The plant in Springfield, as well as another in Fort Worth, Texas, have stepped up their pace recently, working on orders for the government.

The department of agriculture is shipping 26,100,000 dozen eggs in powdered form to Britain under terms of the Lend-Lease act, and the army is demanding some, too. After the war, when the product becomes available for home use, this industry will probably be one of the fastest-growing in the coun-

Mass Production Old Mass production, an American idea, was worked out during the presidency of Thomas Jefferson (1801-09) by 36-year-old Eli Whitney in manufacture of army muskets, with funds granted by the congress. Jefferson, the young mechanist's patron, with faith in machinery, private enterprise, and American ingenuity, wrote to James Monroe: "He (Whitney) has invented molds and machines for making all the pieces of his locks (for muskets) so exactly equal that, take 100 locks to pieces and mingle their parts and the 100 locks may be put together by taking the pieces which come to hand." Whitney is better known for the invention of the cotton gin.

Ink Dries Instantly

For fast, non-smudge printing, various means have been devised to make ink dry almost instantly when it hits the paper-absorption, evaporation, oxidation, polymerization (molecular clustering). In the "flash-dry" process the newly printed paper passes between jets of flame and the liquid part of the ink ignites with a flash, leaving a dry residue. Technology Review (M.I.T.) describes a new "frozen" ink for porous papers, like newsprint. The ink is solid at room temperature. It is fed like lumps of coal into the press, which heats it to fluidity, at 200 degrees F. On reaching the paper it rapidly cools and solidifies.

ADD ZEST TO MEALS WITH JELLIES AND RELISHES (See Recipes Below)

LINE YOUR PANTRY SHELF!

As full of tang and zest as autumn are these recipes tailored to fit your canning cupboard. Crisp relishes, sparkling jellies, bright tomato catsup, and pickles of cucumber and peachwhat a selection you'll have for making your meals a festive board! Your pantry shelf lined with these sweet, spicy fruits and vegetables will be your line of defense, too, not only for meal planning but in working out a nutrition and food defense program. Generous supplies of fruits and vegetables now will assure you of plenty in fall and winter if you put them up.

Be sure to use a good quality cider vinegar to prevent pickles from becoming soft, tough, or shriveled. Good, full-bodied spices are also vital to successful canning.

*Bread and Butter Pickles. (Makes 10 pints) 25 medium sized cucumbers 10 onions (medium-white)

1/2 cup salt 1 pint vinegar

2 cups sugar 2 tablespoons mustard seed 2 tablespoons ginger

2 tablespoons tumeric Let unpeeled cucumbers stand in water overnight. Then slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan with salt (no water). Let stand 1 hour, then rinse off salt, add vinegar, mustard seed, ginger and tumeric. Boil all ingredients until peel turns yellow (about 40 minutes). Pack pickles in sterilized jars. Seal and allow to stand 10 days before using.

Remember those amber-colored watermelon pickles mother used to put out? I'm sure you do, so here's the recipe which rates high:

*Watermelon Pickles. Thinly cut the green rind from watermelon, removing soft part of pink meat. Cut in pieces and cover with salt water made from 1 cup salt to 4 cups water. Soak 12 hours, drain and cook in boiling water until half tender, about 10 minutes. For every pound of rind, allow a sauce made from: 1 3-inch stick of cinnamon

8 cloves without heads

2 cups sugar 1 cup water

1 cup vinegar Tie spices in a cloth bag. Cook all ingredients 10 minutes. Add rind and slowly bring to a boil. Remove spices. Place rind in sterilized jars, cover with hot syrup and seal.

Spice the fruits from your orchard or carefully chosen material from the market and you will always have something of a surprise to add to mealtime. Served as a meat

LYNN SAYS:

Cookbooks that will make a difference in your life and also a difference in your meals are worth looking into. Fall's a good time to look when you think of the many holidays in the months ahead and the entertaining you're going to do and the new ideas you'll need.

"June Platt's Party Cookbook," published by Houghton Mifflin, is a classic in that the recipes are given in a conversational sort of way as though your very best friend and best cook were giving you some of her favorite recipes. Here you'll find such treasures as corned beef and cabbage, veal kidneys in mustard, hot buttered scones, and strawberry and almond souffle.

Dishes you've never thought of and touches that add real distinction to everyday food are given in 'Mrs. Lang's Complete Menu Book," also published by Houghton Mifflin. Menus for every kind of occasion are given and recipes, too, for every one of them.

cloves, ripened and mellowed in heavy syrup, fills menu demands beautifully.

*Pickled Fruit. (Makes 5 to 6 pints) 2 cups vinegar

5 cups brown sugar

21/2 cups each, brown and white sugar 2 tablespoons whole cloves

2 sticks cinnamon

4 quarts peaches, pears, or crabapples Cook sugar, vinegar, spices 20 minutes. Select firm fruit, remove the thin skins from pears and peaches, if using them, but do not pare crabapples, rather leave them with skins on. Drop in fruits, few at a time, and cook until tender. Pack in hot sterilized jars, adding syrup within a half inch of the top. Seal and store in a cool, dry place.

Concord grapes, deep purple, velvety, and plump with juice are one of autumn's favorite fruits. They lend themselves nicely to jelly, either by themselves or in combination with other fruits. As conserves, too, they will help you make menu magic. Concord Grape Jelly. (Makes 11 medium glasses) 3 pounds ripe Concord grapes

½ cup water 7½ cups sugar 1/2 bottle fruit pectin

Stem the grapes and crush them thoroughly. Add the water, bring to a boil, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag and squeeze out juice (about 4 cups). Place sugar and fruit juice in large saucepan, mix, and bring to a boil over a very hot fire. Add pectin, stirring constantly, bring to a full rolling boil. Boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

*Grape Conserve. (Makes 10 12-ounce glasses) 7 pounds Concord grapes

2 pounds seedless white grapes

4 oranges, sliced thin

pound broken walnut meats 1 teaspoon cinnamon

½ teaspoon nutmeg

Stem the grapes; wash and mash slightly. Cook slowly until juice is free, about 15 minutes. Force through a sieve to remove seeds. Measure pulp. To every 4 cups pulp, add 3 cups sugar. Add white grapes, orange slices, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cook to the jelly stage. Remove from heat; add nutmeats.

Seal in hot, sterilized glasses.

Putting up a batch of tomato catsup offers pleasure in more ways than one. You enjoy the lusty, spicy odor of the cooking, and the fragrance seems to permeate the house for days. You'll enjoy seeing the jars of rich red fruit on the shelves, and then again you'll like tartness of the relish as part of

> *Tomato Catsup. (Makes 5 to 6 pints)

4 quarts of tomatoes, quartered 2 large onions, chopped

2 cups granulated sugar

2 cups vinegar teaspoon salt

2 tablespoons whole allspice

1/2 tablespoon whole cinnamon 2 tablespoons whole cloves teaspoon whole black pepper

2 tablespoons paprika ½ teaspoon dry mustard Simmer tomatoes, onions, sugar, and vinegar 2 hours. Tie the allspice, pepper, cinnamon and cloves in a bag and add with the remaining ingredients, and continue cooking for another hour. Remove the bag of spices and force the vegetables through a sieve. Reheat to bubbling hot and pack in hot, sterile

After the round for October was completed, the herd of H. B. Wenschof was found resting on top with a comfortable margin over the pure bred and grade Guernseys of Andrew J. Hoff. Big Pete's Imported Ayrshire made 778 lbs of milk and 36.3 lbs. of butterfat. "Judge" Hoff's herd made 640 lbs of milk and 32.4 ibs. of fat. Missing second place by .3 of a pound came the mixed herd of Harvey M. Houck nosing out the Holstein at Fairhaven farms by .5 of a pound. Harvey's herd made 851 lbs of fat. The Fairhaven were fifth with 634 lbs. of milk and 29.1

The 5 cow list was topped by Yankton Delmar Ormsby at Fairhaven Farms. She made 1990 fbs. of milk and 71.6 of fat. This cow was consigned to the McDonogh School sale. In the show prior to the sale, she topped her class and was later made Grand Champion of the show. She was fitted and shown by Paul Angell and brought $290.00.

Frozen Food Locker in Operation

We invite the public to inspect our new Frozen Food Locker. We are now ready to serve the public.

Man has always preserved and stored food in times of plenty to protect him in leaner seasons. But methods of preparation and storage were rarely proof against storage losses-and they were never easy! Even today, thrifty housewives spend long hours over hot stoves, canning and preserving vegetables, fruits, berries, and meats.

Our Frozen Food Locker Plant now makes home canning unnecessary and assures freedom from spoilage losses. We have refrigerated rooms for the chilling and fast-freezing of food products-and generous-sized, individual lockers for safe and sanitary food storage at a near zero temperature. Now you can keep meats, fowl, fish, fruits, and vegetables in fresh, tasty condition for long periods of time-all at a cost of only a few pennies
