The Taneytown Chamber of Com-merce, Inc. met in regular session in the Municipal Building, on Monday, with a representative group of business men present. The president, Mr. Merwyn C. Fuss presided.

It was decided to hold the annual outing at home this year, due to the gas and tire situation and plans were made to hold this outing at Big Pipe Creek Park Thursday Angust 20th Creek Park, Thursday, August 20th. Committees were appointed to take care of the dinner and the program, which is to begin at 2 o'clock, was arranged.

After reports were received from an appointed committee, it was decided that free band concerts would be held in Taneytown on Saturday, Aug. 8th and 22nd. These concerts will be held on Middle Street, in the evening with the Taneytown Jr. Band furn-

LETTER FROM DETROIT COMMENTS ON RECORD

John J. Reid Writes in His Usual Interesting Way.

After reading those inspiring articles on the Editorial page of The Record, I feel like adding my little bit toward helping the new editor in his efforts to keep the paper up to its always high standard. I want to say in starting this letter, that I am sure all the readers of the Record, are thinking about the same as I do—that he is doing a good job, in trying to prove a worthy successor to our late mutual friend, and our best wishes are that under his guidance the paper will prosper in all ways. Among the first columns I look at when the paper arrives, are those on the Editorial pags. I want to see what L. B. H. and W. J. H. have to say, and while sometimes I do not fully agree with them, they generally "hit the nail on the head." Their ideas that a government that cannot stand honest criticism, is not a good one, I heartily agree with, and I am sure that many an editor of many times larger and maybe more influential publication, could read their efforts with profit, In my opinion, there is only one paper in Detriot that is worth reading, and that is the Daily Free Press During the past year it has passed under a new management, and the present Editors are certainly among the most fearless that ever occupied editorial chairs. It tackled the rotten city and county government, and its efforts have been rewarded with the uncovering of a vast amount of graft, with the result that quite a number of new faces are seen in the jails and penitentiaries, and also in the different offices they were compelled to vacate. What the change of officers will mean, only the future can tell. But as I said before, it seems that a great many who are put in these offices—either appointed or elected—do not have the courage to resist the temptation to "get while the getting is good." Election day is nearing and we notice that not more than half the usual number feel that the city, county and state cannot get along without their help, and so the primary bal-lot will be only about half the size of a blanket, as it was in former

To a newcomer to this state, the present primary law is hard to understand. For instance, back in Maryland, a voter must name the party he wishes to affiliate with, when he registers, and cannot at the Primary election call for any ballot except that of the party he is affiliated with. Out here, we are handed the ballots of both parties, told to vote the one we wish, and hand back both to the election official. Thus a vast amount of paper is wasted, and the opportunity is given to zealous party workers to Treston K. Frey and Betty J. Frey, Hellam, Pa. Marlin E. Reid, Jr., and Rose E. Beall, Taneytown, Md. have the same or more strikes every day, and this is so true that one day a short time ago, the papers came out with the statement, in bold type headings, that for one day there was no strike. But is did not last; in fact it started the same old way the very next day. I still think that half the workers and a great many others, in Detroit do not know that we are at war, or else do not care a particle if we win or not. This is paricularly true about the young men, from 18 to 20, whose whole business, as I said once before, is to burn up gasoline and wear out tires. But I feel sure that these latter will soon have a rude awakening, as the end of the war seems further away every day, and Uncle Sam may soon need them.

Detroit is still busy turning out supplies of all kind for the Army and Navy. Nearly every factory, large and small, is working at least two shifts, and we note that 10,000 more workers will soon be needed. Now, don't jump at the conclusion that it might be a good thing to come here and get a job. In the first place there are maybe a quarter of a million, men and women, who are still unemployed, mostly those who are untrained, and those who would come from outside, would be in the same "boat."

And then there is the matter of renting a home, as while you can buy at a good stiff price, it is almost impossible to rent, especially if there are children in the family. Even building is almost at a stand still, on account of contractors not being able to get materials. Government housing projects are held up, or in some cases cut down to one-fourth to onehalf, as in the case out at Ford's huge Willow Run bomber factory. People are living in trailers, paying as much rent as would be ordinarily asked for a good-sized house, with all conveniences, which these trailers obviously do not have. So, as I have written many times before, if you have a job at home, think, not only twice, but many times before deciding that you can do better in a large

We are having a real summer. Last week was one of the hottest periods we have experienced since coming to Detroit. Even now, when the temperature has fallen a little it is surely hot enough to suit any one, and both temperature and humidity are hard on a fellow afflicted with asthma

THE COMING ELECTION

Judging from the number filing as candidates for political office in Carroll County, the election in November will be hotter than the weather that put a ceiling on livestock. Apparentwe are now experiencing.

The aspirants are pretty generally and evenly distributed, representing nearly every precinct in the County. The caliber of the would-be candidate is high, a fine type of representative citizens, each with a generous "sprinkle" of "political blood."

A few of the candidates are fortunate as not to have any opponent as yet but the Central Committees will take care of this by using its prerogative that gives this committee a little family providers find their choice time after the final filing date, to place a candidate in the field for the political race.

So, we warn the voting public to be prepared for the many handshakes and smiles that will be coming to it from now until Election Day.

-11-AFTER THE WAR

There are those who believe that talk about preparing for peace, and conditions, after the war, hinders the aggressive conduct of the war. "Win the war," they say, "and talk about peace after victory."

We do not think it is a hindrance to war effort to think of peace necessities. We are of the opinion that no speech will be more carefully studied and considered than the address of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, which was broadcasted to the whole world on Thursday night. It bears the marks of statesmanship for more than dozens of utterances that merats who want to say something, but have not properly considered what they say.

And yet the carrying out of the high ideals embodied in the speech will not be an easy task. Personally, we are for an international court. We were for it after the World War I. But we are not for the destruction of nationalism, and we are not for such a super-government as shall take away the power of determination from America, or any other

Voluntary cooperation must be the watch-word. Until nations have enough sense to act together for the is perhaps a necessary view to take good of all without compulsion, there is little hope of making things right by force. This does not mean that we must never bring pressure to bear sure must be by voluntary cooperation. Let there be no council that can order America or Britain or any other power what to do.,

The tendency of men in power is is their ideal, and it has gone on zens are thoroughly sick of it. Regimentation ought to be reduced to a minimum in time of war, and completely wiped out for times of peace.

"Free and independent states." What a noble ideal! It will continue to be a sorry world until we have freedom for states, and genuine freedom for individuals everywhere. That is God's ideal, and we must make it L. B. H. the ideal of men.

ON WITH THE JOB

Are we at war, or are we just playacting? Sparring matches are for the prize fight ring and not for battlefields. We (the democracies) have been sparring on the defensive, and wasting a lot of time trying to find the weak point in the enemies armor. It is time we quit playing and go to fighting. Few battles are ever won by defensive fighting alone.

We are pitted against brutal monsters, and if we hope to win must get hard. Softies don't get far in war. Germany ruthlessly bombed London for months, and killed a quarter mil- sale at all newsstands.

WHAT? NO BEEFSTEAK?

Beef is scarce at a dozen points in he United States because the Federal Government put a ceiling on prices of meat to the consumer but failed to ly because Washington fears to offend a large block of farmers, the American consumer may eat fewer steaks until Fall, when grass-fed cattle normally come into the market. Unless, that is, the Government subsidizes the packers.

With beef rationed in Philadelphia, coolers empty in Providence and Akron, supplies 80 per cent under normal in Boston, and shortages existing in many spots, especially in the East, narrowed. With beef on the hoof considerably above the market in March, the date of ceilings for meat prices, smaller packers are closing their doors or limiting their purchases to just enough to keep their establishments running. Large packers, who have the advantage of lend-lease contracts with the Government, for which they receive a cent and a half a pound extra, are better situated, but even they have practically ceased buying for the domestic market.

It seems likely that the Government will subsidize the smaller packers by buying a large part of their output for the next six weeks at the price paid for lend-lease beef. If this should be done, it will be a case of the OPA punching a hole in its own ceiling.

Argentine beef cannot now be brought into the United States because American cattle raisers have persuaded Congress to bar this competition. This is still another case where political expedience has hit the American consumer. Isn't this a time to remove the artficial barrier which limits the supply of good beef at lower prices?—Christian Science Monitor.

TRYING SCENES

It is rather frequent that we hear by letters and editorials the call for more action-more aggression-in carrying on the war: This seems to indicate courage and confidence, and of matters, whether it be easy or not.

But there is another side to the situation. The Christian Science Monitor for July 22, carried a letter from on recalcitrants; but again the pres- a mother who told of giving a pair of old galoshes to the scrap rubber campaign. Her son, then 12 years of age, had worked two weeks after school and on Saturdays to buy the rubbers, and had given them with joy toward more power. Regimentation and pride. Imagine her feeling as she looked she mustered courage and gave them up, hoping they might help to bring back her darling lad.

This case could be multiplied a million times. It may be easy for some to say, "go to it" and some may say it when it is not easy. We admire and applaud their courage, but at the same time our sympathy goes out to the thousands of parents and others who are compelled to see their loved ones go off to the most horrible business the world has ever seen.

WATCHING NEW YORK

It may seem strange that a country weekly in Maryland should notice political movements in New York, but there is a reason for it. So many people are in the habit of thinking that when the White House speaks, everybody else should keep silent

With an idea of that kind we have no sympathy whatever. It is a well known fact that while calling for the dropping of politics, the White House is full of it all the time, and the result is extremely harmful to the whole country.

Now there is a full pledged fight on in New York between the "boss" and his former campaign manager, James A. Farley. The New Deal crowd in Washington is against the Farley supported candidate for Governor of the State, John J. Bennett, State Attorney General. This opposition wins it may not be so easy to have a hand-picked list of delegates bound hand and foot in advance.

Farley, it will be remembered, was not a genuine New Dealer, and he has been out of the inner circle since the land Records of Frederick County. deplorable third term episode. Let the fight go on to the finish. If the Washington gang wins, it will be just one more dark day for the country. If Farley and his candidate, Bennett, win, it will at least afford a ray of LB. H.

THE FIGHT IS ON!

The world today has an opportunity seldom equalled in its history. There never was a time when prejudice, discrimination and hatred was more wide-spread. But-there never was time when this hydra-headed monster was more clearly recognized for exactly what it is-a destructive force that feeds upon the weak, not as an animal, for self-preservation, but for the sheer lust of killing.

Forced into the open by the wardrums, it can be fought in the open and crushed into nothingness, if we face the dragon and fight it down instead of hedging on the issues.

Up to now we have all too often compromised with evil. We have taken sides and condoned those cruelties which did not affect our own particular interest. We need now to at that old pair of galoshes. But condemn cruelty as such-whoever perpetuates it be in the concentration camps of Hitler, or on the chain gangs of Georgia, whether it be in the purges of Russia, or in the rape of Nanking, or in the massacre of

> We must, however, be consistent. Too many people seek-not fair play for all-but rule for themselves. We have seen that situation in India. With the enemy at their gates, Indian politicians sought advantages for their particular group, not equality for all. Look back a few years at the Axis record. First the Japanese complained that there was discrimination against them in Manchuria, so they seized it—and discriminated against every one else. Then the Italians claimed they were being oppressed in by serving foods and beverages that require little preparation. Look for this helpful feature in the August 9th enslave the Ethiopians. Finally Hitler claimed the Versailles treaty was unfair to Germany, so he started wars and imposed terms that made | the Versailles treaty look like a Sunday School treat.

We must make it so plain that no one can possibly not understand that whoever condones murder, massacre, of race, nationality, color or religion, own group at the expense of others, or without regard for the rights of game of divide and conquer.

As Jonathan Daniels of the Office of Civilian Defense stated recently: "Intolerance is treason today." Now the fight is out in the open-clearly labeled. Now is the time to wipe it out forever!-Ruth Taylor.

In the old days when a sea captain wanted ta discharge his crew he gave notice of his intention by taking away the mess cloth for three successive meals; hence arose the expression "giving notice."

There's more than one way that advertising brings men to work.

The most important way is when advertising is used to increase sales.

Instead of "men wanted," it says, "customers wanted."

And more customers mean more jobs in the stores and factories that keep busy by using advertising.

Please Don't Call Washington unless you must!

WITH the war effort of 27 United Nations centered upon it, Washington is probably the busiest city in the world. It is fast outgrowing its physical limits—and its telephone facilities.

Since Pearl Harbor, long distance telephone calls in and out of Washington have increased from 68,000 a day to more than 101,000, or 50 per cent. Some of these calls, of vital importance, get caught in the rush.

Now, it is no longer possible to expand telephone facilities as in the past because critical materials are needed for the fighting fronts.

So we must ask you to cut down on every call you can to Washington and other busy cities across the country—so that the Army, Navy and the Government can have the rightof-way to get America's biggest job done.

If you must make a long distance call, won't you place it in the off-peak hours-

The lowly desert shrub guayule (the pronunciation "wy-OO-lay" is about Spanish word) got the green light in March, 1942, when congress authorized the department of agriculture to develop the plant as a source of rubber for the United Nations.

Cultivation of guayule—now almost entirely a wild plant—is the essence of the program, says Dr. E. W. Brandes, in charge of rubber investigations, writing in the depart-'Americas." Aerial Bombing Born During World War I Bombers, the backbone of the army air forces, are heavy artillery on wings, designed to carry destruction to the enemy's industrial areas, transportation, lines of communication, and other vital points.

Aerial bombing as an organized weapon of offensive warfare was born in the World war. In the first year of the war, the few planes in action were used almost exclu-

Then came machine guns. The first bombs were ineffective, and bombsights, when used at all, were crude, so that the results were as close as English can come to the pretty much on a hit-or-miss basis-

In 1921 a Martin bomber, in a test off the Virginia Capes, dropped a ton of bombs on the obsolete battleship Alabama, and sank it. Each succeeding year, army air corps pilots ment publication, "Agriculture in the | were at the controls of bombers that flew faster and with a greater bomb The uncannily accurate American bombsight was an accom-

The use of contour farming with contour buffer strips, 18 feet to 30 feet wide, and grass waterways not only helps to reduce soil erosion losses, but also makes contour farming much more satisfactory by reducing point rows and making possible turns in the contour rows and grass waterways. Furthermore, this practice permits cultivating the more productive parts of the field and leaving out those areas low in productivity, gullied or so steep that they can not profitably be farmed without excessive wear and tear on the machinery.

Fund for Transients Bryan Mullanphy's will, executed in August, 1849, provided that: "I, clare the following to be my last will and testament: One equal undivided third of all my property, real, personal and mixed, I leave to the city of St. Louis, in the State of Missouri, in trust, to be and constitute a fund to furnish relief to all poor immigrants and travelers coming to St. Louis on their way, bona fide, to settle in the West." Mr. Mullanphy died June 15, 1851, and the city of St. Louis accepted the trust fund on November 16, 1857, as the Bryan Mullanphy Emigrant and Travelers' Relief fund. The trust maintains and operates the Mullan-phy Travelers' Aid society and cooperates with the National Travelers' Aid society.

Vampire Bat

The vampire bat has the kind of face and figure that would never endear it to humans. Small beady eyes and a set of needle-like teeth in an ugly mouth seem to go with its unpleasant habit of living exclusively on a diet of blood. The vampire, which is not one of the larger members of the bat familyit has a wingspread of only a little over a foot—does its flying and its feeding at night. And it isn't fussy about the kind of blood it drinks. just so the liquid is fresh and warm. During its nocturnal flights, it may drop with surprising lightness on a cow, a horse, a dog, a bird—or a human being. And its teeth are so small and sharp that it frequently drinks its fill without waking the vic-

BY-PRODUCTS OF WAR

It has been rightfully established as a general principle—although there will probably be many exceptions—that no one shall make excessive profits out of war.

War is organized destruction -of life and property, for both sides. The victor wins be-Kyes cause he succeeds in destroying more life and property than the loser. But in a war of world-wide scope, even the victor's losses may be staggering, as we are already beginning to find

A spring freshet is not always total loss. It may wash out planted crops and ruin buildings, but it refertilizes the land by a deposit of rich silt. The next year's crops on the lowlands are usually better as a result.

In like manner, we are going to get some perfectly legitimate profits from this war, destructive as

Probably the first is improvement of national health. We are putting millions of young men through training as rigid as that of an athlete, and giving them new conceptions of the value of regulated diet and careful sanitation. These young men will take their new notions of bodily welfare home with them when war is over, and they will benefit all the people.

We are learning more about the conservation of property, because hew things are scarcer and hard to get. That will result in our giving better care and protection to farm machines and tools, to automobiles and tires, to household equipment and even to clothing.

New habits of thrift are being instilled into our people, through their purchase of war bonds and stamps. These habits will be permanent with many, even though they begin with enforced savings.

Home gardens will be multiplied-another contribution to better health. It is surprising how many farms in the past have not grown a single pound of the food their owners required. This is being changed.

Shortages of imported agricultural products are stimulating the growing of hundreds of farm crops that are new to our agriculture. Here are immense new sources of future farm profits.

Perhaps we shall grow at home a large part of our future rubber supply—the guayule shrub, or milkweed, or that funny sounding Russian dandelion "kok sagyz," from which our Russian allies are getting much of their rubber.

Without question, we shall begin to grow our hemp, instead of depending upon the Far East for our supplies of burlap and binder twine. We can grow it at much less cost than we can import it.

We have already planted millions of acres of peanuts for oil, and vastly increased our acreage of that miracle crop, the soy bean, for which we already know of more than 300 uses.

Chemurgy-the science of growing on the farms the raw materials of industy and learning to process them—is due for unheard-of developments. It will provide opportunity for large agricultural expansion in the very near future.

You just can't keep American ingenuity under cover. We must go forward, in spite of war's setbacks. And the useful by-products of war are going to be a big help in balancing the books, and mak-ing up for the losses which war always brings.

Dogs Do Sentry Duty At Munitions Plant

A German shepherd, a Norwegian elkhound and a greyhound, the first dogs to do sentry duty at a war plant, now are on duty at a munitions factory in the Hudson river valley.

According to the plant officials. they are acquitting themselves beautifully, adding to the effectiveness and the morale of the plant watchmen. They have not as yet had any occasion to give warning of intruders but, the guards are sure, will give prompt notice of any spy or saboteur who might approach the fences which they are patrolling.

Their assignment is regarded as especially important for several reasons. In the first place they represent the fulfillment of the first commission which the organization received. For another thing the dogs are serving as a memorial to the late Herman E. Mellenthin, noted cocker spaniel breeder, since he was the one who brought in the commission for these dogs-one of the last acts before his fatal illness. Still another point is that these dogs are the first turned out by amateur

Different Treasury Jobs The secretary of the treasury and the treasurer of the United States are different officers of the government. The secretary of the treasury is the head of the treasury department and as such is a member of the President's cabinet charged by law with the management of the national finances. The treasurer of the United States is not a member of the cabinet; he is an important subordinate in the treasury department charged with the receipt and disbursement of public money deposited in the treasury at Washington and in the other depositaries authorized by the secretary of the treasury to receive deposits of government funds for credit in the treasurer's account. The office of treasurer of the United States was created by the act of September 2, 1789, and Samuel Meredith of Pennsylvania was the first man to fill the office.

THE WEEK OF WAR REPORTS.

Departments' and Boards Activities.

The U.S. overall output of planes, tanks, ships, guns and ammunition during June was nearly three times that of last November, the month before Pearl Harbor, War Production Chairman Nelson reported. Mr. Nelson stated, however, "too much boasting about production progress is altogether premature—the biggest part of the job is still ahead." Any letup now, he said, "would mean years more of war and hundreds of thousands more lives.'

Chairman Nelson, as an index of the nation's productive effort, estimated that approximately 36 percent of the U. S.'s record breaking income during the first six months of this year went into military channels. This compares, he said, to the 50 to 75 percent of total income being spent by

Great Britain and Germany.

The War Production Board announced it will concentrate production of civilian goods in certain plants and regions as much as possible. The Board said, as a general rule, small plants will be kept in civilian production and large plants will be required to suspend civilian production. ian production will be restricted or suspended in regions where labor is urgently needed in war plants or where power shortages are likely to

Price Administrator Henderson re-ported gasoline coupon counterfeiters had been peddling bogus ration books in the East and stated these "saboteurs attacking our war program" will be prosecuted promptly and vigorously. All persons found to be in possession of the counterfeit books, he said, are liable to have their regularly issued ration books either revoked or withheld. Because of delays in obtaining gasoline rationing coupon books, the OPA said service stations may sell gasoline on a "coupon credit" basis until midnight July 31.

The OPA increased tire and tube quotas for August and said 90,000 bicycles will be made available for rationing in August as compared with 45,000 in July. The Office said only trucks engaged in services essential to the war effort or public health and safety will be entitled to recapped or new tires after July 28 under a drastic revision of the tire rationing reg-ulations. The OPA published names and addresses of field representatives who may be called upon by tire dealers, recappers, truck operators and other users of tires for aid in solving problems arising under the rationing regulations.

Price Administrator Henderson reported "Government controls of prices and rents, where they are in effect, are doing a good job of holding down prices, but uncontrolled food prices are showing a definite inflationary tendency." He said "the total cost of food to city families advanced by 1.3 percent between May 15 and June 15, continuing the steady upward price trend of the previous 14 months and offsetting the benefits of price control on all foodstuffs covered by the general regulation."

Henderson said housewives and other members of the buying public will acquire the legal right, beginning July 31, to bring civil suits for damages against any storekeeper who charges more than OPA regula-tions permit. The purchaser is en-titled to recover $50 in damages plus attorney's fees or triple the amount of the overcharge plus attorney's fees, whichever is larger. Similar suits may be filed in defense areas against londlords who collect rents above those permitted by OPA or-ders. The Office reported it has designated 370 areas as defense rental areas and by August 1 rent regula-tions will become effective in 94 of these areas.

Agriculture Secretary Wickard announced a price adjustment and subsidy program designed to ease the temporary shortage of meats in Eastern States and some parts of the mid-West. The OPA asked livestock and meat packing industries to maintain a supply of meats in all normal trade channels rather than concentrate shipments to large cities where ceilng prices are relatively high.

The Navy reported U.S. submarines in Far Eastern waters have sunk another Japanese destroyer, a medium-sized tanker, three cargo ships, and possibly a fourth cargo ship. The Navy said all of its large submarines are being fitted with cameras designed to fit over the eye piece of the periscope to record the results of submarine attacks on the enemy. Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, Commander of the Air Forces in the Middle East, said American air forces caused heavy damage to enemy docks and port installations at Tobruk, Benghazi, Suda Bay and

Gen. MacArthur reported from Australia that the new 2,500-man Japanese invasion force landed in the Buna-Ambasi-Gona area in New Guinea on July 22 has been subjected to such damaging raids that few, if any, Japanese ships are left in the vicinity of the invasion. The Navy announced 17 more United Nations merchant vessels have been lost to enemy submarines.

The House passed and sent to the Senate the War Revenue Bill, estimated to yield about $6,300 million, providing a 45 percent normal and surtax income rate on croporations and a 90 percent excess profits tax. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, however, said a tax program of less than $8,700 million of additional revenue would be inadequate. He recommended removal of these "special privil-eges": tax exemption for State and municipal secruities, exemption from taxation of 27½ percent of income from oil wells and mines, and separate income tax returns by married tracts, said "95 percent of the war contractors are dong an honest and effective job and receiving only fair and reasonable profits," the average being 8 percent.

Preesident Roosevelt reported the recent scrap rubber collection drive added 454,000 tons to the Government's stockpile-exclusive of rubber in small piles still at service stations and junk dealers. WPB chairman Nelson asked State and local governments to lend their trucks and workers to local salvage committees to help transport scrap material collections before winter sets in. To keep steel furnaces going at full capacity, more than 750,000 freight cars will be required to carry scrap iron and steel, most of which must be moved by tryets to soil reight cars.

moved by trucks to rail points. The WPB extended the tin can salvage program to 104 cities in addition to 36 metropolitan areas previously announced, because de-tinning plant capacity requirements have been increased from 250,000/to 400,000 tons. The Board said the Government will requisition from junk dealers all useless automobiles—those that cannot be repaired on a practical basis—to maintain the present peak movement of automobile scrap to mills. On the basis of a questionnaire to 350 firms, the Board estimated 100 million pounds of essential chemicals could be realized in the next 18 months if manufacturers of war equipment began now to recover wasted spray

As far as we know only two of the boys connected with families that came out here from Taneytown, are now in the armed forces—our own youngest son, Cyril, who is stationed at Camp Buckley, near Denver, Colorado, and Bradford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cooley, whose whereabouts we do not personally know. But more are registered, and will likely be called on soon. It does not seem very long since we were called upon to give one of our boys, in World War No. 1, but it is 25 years. and we are just that much older, and feel it a little more keenly than we did then, perhaps on account of the increased years.

I feel like saying something about the deaths of so many of my old friends in the past few months. It makes me feel sad when I realize that I will never see them, or have the pleasure of receiving welcome letters from them. But I know this that all have finished their work in the old town, and their friends can rest assured that they have done it well. Increasing age and infirmities tell us that soon we, too, will come to the end of the road, and can wish nothing better to be said of us.

Bell System Develops Camera To Take Picture Of Vocal Cords And Other Rapid Motions

A high-speed motion picture camera which takes 4,000 pictures a second is used in the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York City to study moving parts of telephone equipment.

When developed, the film can be projected slowly to reveal details of motion which take place too swiftly to be detected by the human eye. Stresses, strains and wear can be minimized and operating defects cor-

The camera is also used to study the properties of speech, such as frequency of occurrence of various sounds, pitch and intensity changes. frequency distribution of energy, and the importance of these and other characteristics of intelligibility.

The study extends to the mechanism of speech production, especially action of the vocal cords in generating voiced sounds. The high speed camera photographs the rapidly vibrating cords up to 4,000 exposures a second. When such pictures are projected at normal viewing rates of about 16 frames a second, the motion of the vocal cords is slowed down by a factor of 250 to one. Thus, if the vocal cords are making 250 vibrations a second, they appear to make one vibration a second, so that details of the motion can be clearly seen. This compares with a ratio of only five to one that is used in taking ordinary news reel slow-motion pictures.

To provide illumination for the pictures, a powerful light is thrown on the vocal cords by a small laryngeal mirror held in the throat. The same mirror reflects light back from the vibrating cords to the camera.

The camera is a Laboratories' development. Its film moves continuously rather than intermittently, a small cube of optical glass rotating at high speed between the lens and the film serving to move the image of the object at the same rate as the film, thus rendering the film and the image stationary with respect to each other. Effective exposure time for each picture is 1/10,000 second. The film may be projected with a conventional 16-millimeter project

Reason for Suspicion

VIC YARDMAN (Associated Newspapers-WNU Service.)

66 NOW me the one among your guests or cowpunchers," said Sheriff Newton Cook, "who's left-handed, and I'll show the man who stole your money.' Mac Brickell, owner of the Bar Z Y cattle ranch, looked up quickly. For a moment he studied the lean, bronze face of Pecos county's law officer, then turned to glance meaningly at his foreman, Dusty Pren-

Sheriff Cook said, "Well? Is there a left-handed hombre on the ranch? "Yes," said Brickell slowly, "there is. Dusty here was trying to teach him a rope trick the other day and he had trouble because Landon was left-handed. His name's Warren Landon." He paused. "What makes you think that the thief is a left-handed jigger, Sheriff? Landon is one of my best paying customers." "I'll explain that later," Cook nodded toward Dusty. "Go fetch him, Dusty, and we'll ask him a few questions."

"Wait a minute!" Dusty turned at the sharp command from his boss. "Newt," Brickell went on, "I ain't going to allow you to accuse Landon without knowing first what grounds you've got. Landon's been coming here every summer for three years. Business is too tough in the dude ranch game to risk losing a customer like him. Besides, the man's rich. What would he go stealing a paltry thousand dollars for?"

"Maybe if business is tough in the dude ranch business, it's tough in other businesses. Maybe it's tough with Landon, and maybe that's why Landon needed the thousand dol-Sheriff Cook pushed his sombrero and scratched his head. "I can see your point of view, though, Mac, so suppose we attack the thing from a different angle. Suppose you an' me and Dusty go over to Landon's cabin and tell him about the robbery. We won't say nothing, but I'll look at him mighty suspiciously, and the fact that all three of us are there, wearing guns, too, will, if he's guilty, have an effect on him. I mean, by his manner he'll reveal his guilt."

"You're sure he will? Landon was supposed to be off fishing when the money was stolen."

Cook shrugged. "The man who stole that thousand dollars thinks he's so smart that no one would ever suspect him. When we pop in on Landon first shot out of the box, he'll be so danged surprised he'll give himself away whether he wants to or not."

Sheriff Cook pointed to the floor of the small room in which they were standing. "See those cigarette ashes? There's enough to guess that they came from three or four cigarettes, at least. But do you see any stubs? No. And why? Because the thief was too smart to leave anything around as identifying as cigarette stubs. However, here's this paper of matches. Probably dropped in the dark. But unimportant. Why again? Because, even though there were fingerprints on the package, they wouldn't do us any good. We're miles from anyone who has the intelligence or equipment to read fingerprints. Moreover, out here we don't resort to such new-fangled ideas. And the thief knew that. "Now, listen," the officer went on, "this is the way I figure it. Landon knew that the thousanddollar payroll arrived at the ranch yesterday morning, as did everyone else. He knew, because of his past three years' experience on the Z Y, that you always left it in this office overnight, until the next day, when you pay off. He needed a thousand bucks and he needed it in a hurry. So yesterday afternoon he sets off on a fishing trip alone, taking a lunch with him in case he didn't return by supper time. Toward dark, when everyone is in eating their supper, he comes back, climbs in the office window and waits there. He eats his lunch and smokes a cigarette or two while the evening wears away. "Presently as is customary out here, the guests and most of the punchers gather in the main ranch house for the regular evening of fun. It is then that Landon, or whoever the thief is, climbed out of the of hair.

window with the thousand dollars, went to his cabin, hid the money and then came up to the main ranch

"That," said Mac Brickell, "sounds like a darn good story and darn logical. Only what makes you think Warren Landon was the man? "Because he's left-handed, Listen, Mac, let's you and me and Dusty pop over to Landon's cabin like I said. If he's innocent, there'll be no harm done; if he's guilty, you can see for yourself."

For a moment Mac Brickell hesitated. Then he shrugged, and led the way out into the ranch yard. The three men crossed the brook that separated the main buildings from the two rows of guest cabins, and presently stopped before one

A tall, blond man rose from the cot against the opposite wall, sat up and stared at them curiously. 'Well, Brickell, what's up?"

Brickell shifted nervously. "Why, nothing much, Mr. Landon. You see, the sheriff here-" "Came up to investigate the rob-

I know anything about it? Me? Why the devil would I know anything about your lousy thousand dollars? Why, you insulting-"

"What thousand dollars are you talking about?" Cook barked. His hand was resting lightly on the butt of his six-shooter. "Who said anything about a thousand dollars? How did you know there was that amount in the payroll?"

Landon blinked, swallowed. The blustering bravado and indignation dropped from him like a cloak.

"Why-why-I've been coming here for three years. I ought to know by this time what Brickell's payroll amounts to. Eh, Brickell?" He turned to the ranch owner, desperate appeal in his tones.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Landon, Brickell "I-at first I didn't believe it could be you. But I guess the sheriff was right. You see, the amount of my payroll changes every month what with letting hands go and taking them on during the height of the season. Sorry.'

Landon was like an animal at bay. But almost at once he saw that escape was impossible, because both Sheriff Cook and Dusty had drawn their guns and were ready.

Later on, back in Brickell's office, Sheriff Cook produced once more the paper of matches. "You see these," he said. "Well, notice how the matches that have been used were torn from the left-hand side of the package. A right-handed man always holds the package in his left hand and tears the matches on the right side off first. That's how I knew your thief was lefthanded

Brickell nodded dismally. He had lost a first-class customer and wasn't in an especially pleasant mood. Later, after examining the partly used packages of matches belonging to half a dozen right-handed men, he was forced to admit that Cook was right-and clever.

Seventeenth Century Ideals Still Fresh

The customs, folklore and even the native tongue of France still exists in the little community of Old Mines, Mo, where the inhabitants have persisted in keeping their Seventeenth century ideals fresh.

Despite the flood tide of overenergetic Americans around them, a score or more of families, descendants of early settlers, remain French in religion and in every-day life. They speak a sort of old French patoise, as a priest terms it. Father Van Tourenhout, a Belgian born in St Louis, continues to make journeys to Old Mines to hear French confessions. He encourages celebration of traditional feasts such as the Guignolee. He dons a biretta and soutane for the occasion. The peasant women wear the blue kerchief of early France.

Each week these peasants drive to nearby Potoisi-which they still insist on calling Mine a Breton—for provisions, herding their families into wagons. For entertainment they meet in the evenings at homes of their neighbors for a singing party or a tale-telling. The stories are those passed down through the centuries. The peasant cannot always tell the meaning of the words he uses. They have been dropped from his vocabulary. He repeats them as a ritual—as a child says "fee-fi-fo-fum." Many are altered versions of tales from Bocaccio and La Fontaine. Others are fairy tales with a few details changed to fit the local scene.

Hats, No Hats

The wearing of hats has often been blamed for the loss of men's hair and going without a hat is supposed to promote hair growth. But both theories are false, according to one of the nation's leading trichologists. For over-exposure of the scalp to the hot summer sun is one of the most common causes of conditions leading to baldness. And it has never been proved that the wearing of a hat had the slightest adverse effect on the preservation

Does Jesus Have Such Power?

Let us not merely chuckle that Jesus was able so effectively to meet criticism. That is something. But it is not the main thing. The main thing is this, Jesus has power on earth to forgive sins, to set alien sinners right with God! That is big news, so to speak. But millions have not heard it or do not believe it, and therefore are without God and without hope in the world. How can we escape unless we tell them of this Saviour? And the class we teach-are all the members aware that Jesus can make a-tone-ment for them with God? Do we labor to make clear each theological or doctrinal point and miss this, that Jesus alone can save us from our sins?

ABRAM: A PIONEER IN FAITH

LESSON TEXT-Genesis 12:1-9; Hebrews GOLDEN TEXT-Fear not, Abram: I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward.—Genesis 15:1.

Without faith it is impossible to please God (Heb. 11:6). The opposite is also true, namely, that faith always pleases God. As we read the Bible and consider Christian experience, it is evident that God is constantly longing to show Himself strong in behalf of them who believe Him (II Chron. 16:9).

Abraham was not the first man to walk by faith. Before him came such men as Abel, with his acceptable sacrifice; Enoch, with his walk pleasing to God; Noah, who believed and obeyed; and others.

But Abraham was nonetheless a pioneer of faith. He had many other noble characteristics, and was a man of such distinction that his memory is venerated by Jews and Mohammedans as well as Christians. Yet his real claim to an outstanding place in history is that by faith he responded to God's sovereign act in choosing him to begin a new nation, to be His chosen peo-

We note two important points about faith:

I. Faith Makes Demands. In the very nature of things, faith calls for action consistent with belief. "Faith without works is dead" (James 2:20), that is, not a real faith at all. In Abraham's life (and in our life) faith calls for

1. Separation (Gen. 12:1). "Get thee out" was God's command to Abraham. To accomplish His divine purpose God had to take him out of the heathendom of his fathers, and start anew. It is His command to His followers today, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord" (II Cor. 6:17).

Who will doubt that this is the crying need of the church today, for instead of the church being in the world seeking to win it to Christ, worldliness has come into the church and devitalized its message. 2. Obedience (Gen. 12:4-6; Heb.

11:8, 9). "Abram departed, as the Lord had spoken" (v. 4). He didn't know where he was going, but he did know who had called him, and he went. Faith knows God, and obeys Him without hesitation and without reservation. Obedience is a virtue that needs to be revived, in the home, in school, in society, and especially in our re-lation to God, for there surely should be no disobedient children in the family of God. He merits and expects obedience.

Trust (Gen. 12:7-9; Heb. 11:

An assured reliance on the Word of God is a part of faith. God made a promise to Abraham. He accepted it, and worshiped. Here was no questioning, no bargaining, but simple trust in God's word. In fact, there was anticipation of even greater things to come (Heb. 11:

We need men of vision and that means we need men who by faith can see the unseen, who can see "a city which hath foundations" even in the midst of destruction and disorder. "In God We Trust" must be more than a motto on our coins if America is to survive.

II. Faith Brings Results. The world wants to know if a thing works before accepting and approving it. Well, faith really does work! It brings Blessing (Gen. 12:2, 3): God is always on the giving hand. "I will bless," was His word to Abraham, not only for Abraham himself and for the great nation of which he was to be the father, but to "all the families of the earth" (v. 3). How gloriously that promise was fulfilled in the coming of Christ our Redeemer, who also was a "son of Abraham" (Matt. 1:1).

2. Protection (Gen. 12:3). "I will curse him that curseth That promise to Abraham is still binding and valid. God is not through with Israel. The nations and persons who have vented their hatred upon the children of Abraham need to take notice. We need to be reminded that God's protecting care is just as sure over us who bear His name. We too are "safe in Jehovah's keeping," even in what is perhaps the darkest hour in the history of the world. Faith in God brings to us the protection of

His almighty hand. Fulfillment of Promise (Heb. 11:11, 12).

The entire promise to Abraham hinged on the birth of a son, something which was, humanly speaking, beyond all possibility. But because Sara, joining Abraham in believing God, "judged him faithful who had promised," it came to pass.

"With God all things are possible" (Matt. 19:26). He delights in doing the impossible in response to the faith of His children. Apart from that fact we might be fearful, yes despondent, but "with God" we say again, "All things are possible."

Keep on Your Toes With Enriched Bread! (See Recipes Below)

Bread 'n Butter

Bread is one of our oldest and best-liked foods. But bread, like many of our other foods, has changed considerably during the last two years. You haven't no-ticed? Well, it's been enriched and fortified with the B-vitamins, often called morale builders because of the fine things they do for your system, digestion and disposition.

Iron, the magic helper that peps up your system by making hardworking red blood cells, has also been added to bread along with vitamin B.

But not just bread has these new, essential elements. Flour that you use for your own flour, except in some cases where the color is slightly creamy. But the nutritive value is so much greater that it's to your advantage to

Although Saturday baking and the resultant shelves and pantries filled with crusty, sweet-smelling loaves of bread are becoming things of the past, perhaps you still feel the occasional desire to turn out a silky textured, moist, delicious loaf of good bread.

Rhythmical kneading is the secret of good bread. Rock the dough under the palms of the hands in threequarter time until it gets the satin-

*Twisted Loaf. (Makes 4 1-pound loaves)

2 cups milk 1/4 cup sugar

4 teaspoons salt tablespoons shortening

cups water cake yeast

1/4 cup lukewarm water 12 cups sifted flour (about)

Scald milk. Add sugar, salt, shortening and water. Cool to lukewarm. Add yeast which has been softened in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Add flour gradually, mixing it in thoroughly. When dough is stiff, turn out on a lightly floured board and knead until satiny and smooth. Shape into smooth ball and place in a greased pan. Cover and let rise in a warm place (80-85 degrees F.) until doubled in bulk. When light, divide into four equal portions. Roll each portion into a smooth ball. Cover well and let rise 10 to 15 minutes. Mold into loaves. For a twisted loaf, roll dough under hand to 2 rolls about 2 inches thick and longer than the length of the pan. Twist the 2 rolls around each other and place in greased pans. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderately hot (400-425-degree) oven 40 to 45 minutes.

A nutritious coffee cake that is a tried and true sugar skimper adds zest to breakfasts. Made with either of the two dried fruit fillings given here, it is delightful:

Lynn Says:

Good things come in little packages. This little saying applies perfectly to the concentrated foods like dried fruits-prunes, apricots, figs, apples, pears, raisins and peaches.

Now more than ever before you'll want to use more of them because they can solve your sweet tooth problem, in addition to acting as important blood builders and keeping your body in good working condition because of their important vitamin and mineral values.

You can appreciate why they do all this for you when you real ize that to make one pound of the dried fruit it takes several pounds of fresh fruit. For example, prunes require three pounds of fresh fruit to make one pound dried; raisins, four pounds fresh fruit, apples, six to nine pounds fresh fruit, pears and figs both require three pounds of fresh fruit, while apricots and peaches five and one-half pounds of the fresh to make the dried product.

Do you have a yen for oldfashioned, oven-baked chicken swimming in a thick, creamy sauce? Well, here's a recipe for you that you can fix early in the morning and put in your refrigerator until cooking time. You may use broilers, frying hens, stewing hens or roasters, but the cooking time varies with the age of the chicken. Broilers take about a half an hour to cook while stewing hens take about two hours.

*Oven-Baked Chicken. 1 roasting chicken cut up Milk

Flour Salt and pepper ½ cup butter or fat for frying 1 tablespoon onion, chopped fine

1/2 pound mushrooms cups hot, rich milk

Dip chicken in milk and seasoned crumbs and flour and fry in skillet until a golden brown. Fry mushrooms in butter until brown (about 2 or 3 minutes). Sprinkle chopped onion over top of chicken arranged in casserole. Pour hot milk over top and bake in a moderate (350degree) oven until chicken is tender. Serve garnished with chopped parsley and a dash of paprika.

Dramatize the Salad. Salad greens and fresh fruits occupy an important place in our diets in the spring, and a good salad is a distinctive part of any menu.

Our salad today features citrus fruits and strawberries which are a spring symphony themselves tossed on a bed of greens-watercress, romaine and leaf lettuce are perfect. A light french dressing will bring out the hidden flavors in the greens

MONEY FOR FARM WORKERS

Taking prompt action in order to insure much-needed labor to the farmers of Maryland, Governor Herbert R. O'Conor has guaranteed the sum up to $5,000 for the transporta-tion of workers from the Southern RINSO, 25c

The Governor's proposal was made to Federal and Farm Bureau officials at a conference in the Governor's Office at Annapolis, which he called to formulate a program for aid to the farm groups. The Governor had been advised by farm leaders that 4,000 workers are needed to harvest the vegetable, berry, and fruit crops on the Eastern Shore.

As soon as those attending the conference agreed on the need for the labor and after Federal officials had stated that there is an available labor supply in the South, Governor O'Conor said the State would defray one-half of the expenses of transporting the workers on condition that the counties in question would match the State's contribution. Farm representatives declared that approximately $10,000 would be needed as travel expenses of the workers from North and South Carolina and Virginia to the lower Eastern Shore. Governor O'Conor suggested that the farm groups make known his offer to county officials and then to offer the State's share on condition that the various counties make a contribution of one-half of the costs for each
