PUBLICITY OF WAR BOARD HEARINGS

Must Hearings and Interviews Be Open to Public?

The question of the right of the public and the press to be present at "administrative hearings" and "informal investigations" held by local War Price and Rationing Boards and the State OPA Office in Maryland is discussed in an opinion written by Mr. Reuben Oppenheimer, State Attorney, Maryland OPA, in reply to an inquiry from the Chairman of the Frederick, Maryland, War Price and Rationing Board.

The opinion is too lengthy for us to give it in full. It considers two matters: 1. The posting of price lists by merchants giving maximum prices of cost-of-living commodities; and 2. The failure of motorists to keep within the thirty-five mile speed limit.

The State's Attorney for the OPA says, among other things:

"The legal questions involved in these two matters are, in my opinion, clear. There is not, to my knowledge any requirements of constitutional law that administrative proceedings, at least of this type, must be open to the public. The right of any person to be represented by counsel is not in question. That essential right, I understand, is properly accorded by your Board to any person who requests it, as it is in any matter before the State Office. Nor, it seems to me, is there involved any constitutional right of freedom of the press. The question relates to the right to be present at a proceeding, not to any right of printing or publication. Further, I do not understand that a public hearing has been requested by any person coming before you.

However, the cases under the due process of law clause of the Constitution which only mark the periphery beyond which neither Congress nor an administrative agency can go. Considerations of fair play, of scrupulous regard for the democratic principles which we are fighting to preserve, may well lead, in administrative proceedings, to the creation of public and individual safeguards in addition to those established by the Constitution and the decisions under it.

We are all only representatives of the people in this war price and rationing program. It is part of that concept, as I see it, that the public should be fully informed of what goes on, both for its own information and as a check upon the governmental processes. This program of price control and rationing so vitally affects the daily lives of all of us that every reasonable assurance should be given to show it is being administered fairly, vigorously and with absolute impartiality. I have no doubt that we in the State Office have made mistakes and will continue to make mistakes no matter how hard we try. Public knowledge of what all of us are doing at least tends to enable us to rectify any mistakes as promptly as possible. I know you are fully in accord with this policy.

The enforcement proceedings taken by the Legal Division in the State Office at either court actions or formal administrative proceedings. Of course, attendance at criminal and civil trials in the Federal District Court and State Courts is open to all. We have had several administrative proceedings in Maryland for the revocation or suspension of rations. These proceedings also have been fully open to the press and to any members of the public who wish to attend, and will continue to be.

In view of all these circumstances, I am of the opinion that your Board has the right to exclude the public from the interviews and that is, from the interviews in connection with failure to file cost-of-living commodities price lists and in connection with the investigations now being conducted on charges of exceeding the speed limit of thirty-five miles an hour. As I have said, if you refer any of these matters to us with a recommendation that the State Office take action, any formal action which we may take will be public in nature. I am also heartily in accord with your policy of issuing summaries of these proceedings to identifying details, but showing their general nature."

SERVICE MEN LETTERS

Containing Thanks for The Record and Kit.

The Carroll Record Co. Oct. 31, 1942.

Dear Mr. Stonesifer: I look forward expectantly each week for my copy of the Carroll Record so generously sent out to the boys by your company. It's worthwhile, I assure you.

After having spent two months at Fort Meade doing special duty work in the Classification Section, I have been transferred here to Camp Lee to complete my basic training in the Quartermaster Corps. Then will come some specialized training.

I send to you, Mr. Stonesifer, my best wishes for your continued success in your capacity with the Carroll Record. I also again thank you and your company for the thoughtfulness you have displayed. Sincerely,

Pvt. FRANCIS T. ELLIOT, JR. Co. K, 10th. QMTR, B-619 Camp Lee, Va.

Friends of Taneytown: Just a few lines to say that I received your kit, and am very well pleased with it. I want to extend my sincere thanks to the people of Taneytown who aided in the making of this kit. I'm sure it will come in useful in anything I may attempt to do during my career in this great United States Navy.

A. RALPH SENTZ.

My Dear Miss Annan: I've been in the army seventeen days and am now just getting around to writing to you.

None of the committee will ever know what that kit has meant to me. I told you I probably would appreciate it more after I got in the service; but it has meant more than I ever anticipated. It proved to be very compact and useful. Everything was in it that I needed in that line, although I haven't used the needle or thread yet. But I have used the scissors plenty of times.

I would like to make one suggestion, if you don't mind, you could put the soap in a soap box, that was one thing I had to buy as soon as I got in the army. But I didn't mind, I just made the suggestion.

I'm getting along fine, I've been in Texas ten days. We expect to finish up here in two weeks and then be shipped again. We expect to go North next time.

Has been very warm down here, but we seem to be having a great deal of rain. We sleep in tents, but don't mind that, as long as its warm.

We're 22 miles from San Antonio, which makes us about in the heart of Texas. Thanks again to the committee for the kit. I shall use it as long as I can, while in the armed service of the country I love. Yours very truly,

EDWARD REID, 9th. Infantry 2nd Division.

(Note—In regard to soap boxes for the kits the committee felt the desirability and planned to include them, but were unable to get them when the first kits were made.)

The Carroll Record Co. Thought I would drop you a few lines advising you my new address so I will be getting the Record again on time. I just received the issue of October 16th. yesterday from Salt Lake City.

No doubt I will be located here for some time as I have been assigned to the statistical unit at base headquarters here at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas and the work deals mostly with the personnel on the base. Was very sorry to learn of Mrs. Nettie Fair's death as she was an old friend of the family. No doubt fellows are still leaving town for the service. This base was just started. I understand in April and at present is almost completed just a few miles out of Salina. I want to try and get home about the middle of November if at all possible have a furlough promised but as you know anything can happen and these days you cannot depend so much on the future.

Thanks again for sending the Record as I sure enjoy reading the news from home. Sincerely yours,

Pvt. W. M. GILDS, 376th. Base Hdqrs and AB Sq. Base Headquarters Office Salina, Kansas.

UNITED SERVICE GROUPS CAMPAIGN

Country-wide Call for Funds for Service Welfare Work

At the beginning of this war all the various groups engaged in welfare work among the soldiers, sailors and air forces of this country were grouped under the head, United Service Organizations, USO, to prevent a multiplication of appeals. The one drive for funds will begin on Armistice Day, November 11.

Last year when this nation was still at peace, Americans gave the USO $14,365,161 for spiritual, recreational and welfare services to our defense forces; but now, with the nation plunged into war, the program of the USO has been so that $32,000,000 will be required to carry on this project. All states have been engaged in this campaign with the various counties carrying on theirs at a convenient time. Carroll County begins her drive for her quota of $7,500 on Armistice Day, November 11. The campaign will be short, but intensive, and will close on November 25th.

This is little enough for our men in the service who face a terrible responsibility, sacrificing their lives, if need be, for this, our country.

For the coming year, the USO plans 940 clubs and other service units, adjacent to military camps, naval stations and defense centers in the United States at a cost of over $15,000,000. There are 585 units in continental United States, 23 club houses in eight trans-oceanic bases and the USO plans for 17 more without anticipation of future American troop movements.

The county is entirely organized with chairmen accepting their responsibilities in the respective districts; and they in turn have appointed capable and efficient workers to carry through this drive successfully.

The following District Chairmen have been appointed by the county campaign chairman, G. Russell Benson:

Taneytown Dist. No. 1—Mrs. E. Elwood Baumgardner.

Uniontown Dist. No. 2—Mr. Harold Smelser.

Myers Dist. No. 3—Mr. Roy D. Knouse.

Wooley's Dist. No. 4—Mrs. Mabel A. C. Necker.

Freedom Dist. No. 5—Mr. DeVries Herring.

Manchester Dist. No. 6—Mr. Chas. Wm. Fridinger.

Westminster Dist. No. 7—East End No. 1—Mrs. Jos. L. Mathias, Jr.; East End No. 2—Mrs. Chas. E. Shipley; West End No. 1—Mrs. David H. Taylor; West End No. 2—Mrs. Leeds K. Billingslea.

Hampstead Dist. No. 8—Mrs. Wm. Rigler, Sr.

Franklin Dist. No. 9—Mr. Lionel Yohn.

Middleburg Dist. No. 10—Mr. Frank Alexander.

New Windsor Dist. No. 11—Mrs. E. Miller Richardson.

Union Bridge Dist. No. 12—Mrs. Doris Crumacker.

Mt. Airy Dist. No. 13—Mr. Carl W. Smith.

Berrett Dist. No. 14—Mrs. John M. DeLashmuth.

Mr. George Crawford is the Chairman for all the colored population of the county.

The Rev. William E. Kelly, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church, is again heading the church group. He will have literature placed in the churches and has asked the respective ministers to announce the importance of this campaign from the pulpits of the churches in the county on Sunday, Nov. 8th.

Mrs. John Wood is again directing the activities of the women's clubs, and she will contact all women's organizations this week asking for their continued support in this war time and much needed campaign.

The Commerce Industry Committee will have as its head again this year, Mr. Arthur P. Scott, Westminster, who did an excellent job last year with this group.

The Retail Stores Committee will be handled by Dr. Fred J. Schmitt, of Westminster.

The Ex-Service Clubs will have a part in World War No. 2, their members having personally participated in World War No. 1. The chairman will be Mr. Lawrence B. Fink now serving as Commander of Carroll Post No. 31 American Legion, and who is also Captain of Company 650 of the Maryland Minute Men.

The contribution from the Service Clubs over the county will be in charge of Mr. Paul Bonsack, President of the Westminster Kiwanis Club. Mr. Bonsack has appointed Mr. Sidney Hausman, President of the Westminster Rotary Club to contact all rotarians in the county; and Mr. Thomas C. Waldron, President of the Lions Club to present this cause to all the Lions Clubs throughout the county.

Professor Raymond S. Hyson, Chairman of the Quota Committee with his committee members, has allocated to each district their proportion of the $7,500 to be raised, based on the population of the districts.

The members of the County Bar Association will again be solicited by Attorney Ralph G. Hoffman.

The Campaign Chairman, Mr. G. Russell Benson, is being assisted by Mr. Scott S. Bair, also of Westminster, who is serving as campaign director.

FREEZING FARM LABOR

War Manpower Commission has Program Ready

The War Manpower Commission announced today a program designed to hold dairy, livestock and poultry farmers in their work through draft deferment, wage stabilization and an effort to ban their employment in other work.

The program, adding still other control factors in setting up the broadest plan yet adopted to ease the manpower shortage affecting production deemed vital to the war effort, called for:

1. Local draft boards to grant occupational deferment to necessary men on essential farms of these three types and to withdraw it if they cease to perform the work for which it was granted.

2. The Army and Navy to refrain from recruiting such workers or accepting them for voluntary enlistment.

3. All other employers to refrain from hiring skilled workers who have been engaged in these three types if farm production.

4. The Agriculture Department to "act toward stabilizing wages on dairy, livestock and poultry farms with a view to assisting those farmers in securing and maintaining an adequate supply of labor."

5. The Department to "take necessary steps to control sale of dairy cows for slaughter so as to check a trend which is threatening to reduce dairy production."

The WMC explained that vital wartime requirements for dairy, livestock and poultry production were continuing to increase while in some areas production is below the level of last year.

It said that should production of any other essential farm products reach an equally critical situation, it would consider appropriate action.

The program covers "all men who work on a year-round basis as essential farm-owner-operators, tenants, hired workers, or unpaid family workers who devote substantially all of their time to dairy, livestock or poultry production."

Draft boards are not to defer automatically all workers, even those on essential farms, but to "consider whether their leaving would materially impair production on the farm."

This will not affect changes by individuals from one dairy, livestock or poultry farm to another.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

FIRST THINGS—FIRST

There appears to be too many Societies, Agencies, Clubs, Associations, Unions, Co-operatives, Brotherhoods, Leagues and other organizations all competing at once for specific objects, urging subscriptions, appropriations, special legislation, or drives of one kind or another, and all trying at once to force themselves through narrow doors.

"In union there is strength" seems an over-worked motto, and "make haste slowly" as a motto is a much unused one. Order and calmness are held to be antiquities—relics of "horse and buggy days" and "getting theirs" is considered a main feature of modernism.

After all, it seems to those who want to be fair and just, that all modern aims do not represent actual emergencies, and that more care should be exercised in the selection of things that are entitled to be considered "first things" to be accomplished.

All of our energies should not be patterned after foot ball games, in which physical heat and daring rushes, win goals. Physical effort does not always rightfully win over mental equilibrium, and a

YOU'RE ELECTED

This editorial is written before the election. When it appears in The Record the election will be over. Men will be disappointed—others pleased. Many dollars will have been spent. The political plums will have been shaken and lying in the laps of the lucky ones.

The unjust accusations before the election should be forgotten. We must all accept the result, bearing in mind that we should feel lucky that we have had the privilege of selecting our leaders and representative. In some countries this privilege is denied its people. The "self-appointed" leader selects his henchmen and force themselves upon the people which is not the American way of life.

Now that the election is over let us look at it this way. Everyone should feel that he or she is elected to win the war, to make a better country and to improve things in general. Let us bend every effort in winning this war speedily, so that the killing and waste be stopped, never to be seen again in this or future generations.

We do not have to be on the battle front to do our part. We can make it an all-out effort on the farm, in the office, or wherever we may be.

Let each one feel that he or she is elected to help bring the war to a close so that we may again enjoy peace and plenty. Yes, we are elected!

THE FARM SITUATION

Senator Tydings has been doing some fine work in the direction of keeping a necessary supply of farm labor on the farms. There is great danger that by robbing the farmer of the help, without which he can not produce food, we may do more to hinder the war than to help it.

We have some pertinent facts from George Sachse, general manager of the Maryland Tobacco Growers' Association, not pertaining specially to his own line of business, but to the agricultural situation as a whole. He gets his data from the publications of the United States Department of Agriculture. According to these farm population has decreased from 31.4% in 1917 to 22.5% in 1941. A recent survey taken by the United States Department of Agriculture which reveals that between September 1st, 1941 and September 1st, 1942, 1,329,000 people left the farms for the following reasons:

- 614,000 took non-war jobs and moved from the farms.
- 179,000 took non-war jobs but still live on the farms.
- 143,000 enlisted.
- 393,000 were drafted.
- 270,000 of the above were farm operators or managers.

The above picture is even worse today than it was on September 1st, 1942. When the decrease in farm population from 1917 to 1942 is considered along with the decrease from September, 1941, this situation becomes serious, particularly when we take into consideration Secretary Wickard's recent statement in Washington papers that agriculture must prepare itself for 2,000,000 additional men to be removed from the farms in 1943. With the above unfavorable balance of agricultural population and a further contemplated decrease, farmers will be afraid to produce for fear they will not be able to harvest.

While there is admittedly an ample supply of a few of the staple foods in this country, the supply of the majority of food productions will be even shorter in 1943 than they were in 1942, unless some remedy is set up to discontinue the removal of farm population to defense jobs as well as to army service.

PROPHESIES

Wing Anderson's "seven years that changed the World" is in some ways a remarkable book. Most interpreters of prophesy tell all about it and why after the thing has happened, Anderson on the contrary tells what is to happen, and his guess usually hits it off pretty good. Maybe he just omits all prophesies that have not been fulfilled.

Dr. H. Spencer Lewis of the Rosicrucian Order, San Jose, California has also written an interesting book titled the Symbolic Prophecy of the Great Pyramid. In this he has found a meaning in each line, curve, passage in the interior of the great pyramid that connotes some event that has happened or will happen in the future. All this is very interesting and at times so exact that one the skeptic, accepts it at face value.

All of these prophesying chaps (and their number is legion) seem to think the end of the world is near. Maybe it is as far as our brand of civilization is concerned, which, as matter of fact, has not improved much in the past 5000 years of education and religion, except in making and using implements of destruction.

My own studies and conclusions agree substantially with Anderson about the earth cycles and changes incident and the destruction of the existing civilization about once in 30,000 years or less. We are about in the middle of such cycle now so no danger confronts us. Geological formations on earth confirm these things.

Anderson has proved himself to be a great student of prophesy, and his book is valuable more for what he has dug out of the doings of others than of the things he himself has done. His interpretation of Mother Shipman's prophesy also that of Michael Nostradamus merit consideration. Nostradamus who was born in 1503 and died in 1566 was perhaps one of the greatest prophets who has ever lived. These are some of his prophesies:

1. The French Revolution.
2. Napoleon's career.
3. The outbreak of the First World War.
4. The Abdication of King Edward
5. The Spanish Civil War.
6. The present European War (World War.)
7. The Fate of Hitler.

Concerning Hitler he predicted that in 1944 Hitler would be put in an iron cage and his Empire dissolved.

Saint Adita (?) also prophesied that Hitler would be destroyed in 1944 Hitler is without doubt the Anti-Christ of the Scriptures and so saturated with the hate of the Devil and Hell now that he uses his power to bring on destruction and misery to mankind, and gloats fiendishly over this suffering of humanity. He is simply an extrovert, magalomania who should be confined to an insane asylum instead of being permitted to roam at large and rule a pliant people

THE MOVING PICTURES

The movie makers faced with the biggest public demand in their whole career are also faced with a whole regiment of hostile problems.

More people are going to the movies because they have more spending money than ever, have fewer competing amusements than before the war, and need, perhaps, more diversion because of the war. But besides the threat of having those six-figure movie salaries reduced to a maximum of $25,000 the producers have seen many of their greatest stars (Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, James Stewart, Henry Fonda, etc.) go into the service, and they are threatened with shortages in various vital lines.

Some time ago the Government put a ban on spending more than $5,000 on a set for any one picture. And now scarcities are threatened in electric power, air conditioning, copper and fuel oil. Most serious is the freezing by the WPB of the film stock of 35 millimeter size—the regular movie size—and the prospect of its rationing. It is made largely of nitrocellulose, which is needed for gunpowder. Gone already are the days when the directors would shout, "Cut," and make a retake of a scene—sometimes half a dozen retakes. Now performers are well rehearsed and must know their parts, and whole pictures are made without a single retake on that perilous film.

Several developments are expected, or feared, in this great industry. There will probably be shorter exhibition periods, as in England, and possibly a closing of one day a week as in the last war. There will be more "A," or first-class pictures, and fewer "B" pictures, with a gradual abandonment of double features. Because of the $5,000 limitation the sets will be more out of doors, depending less on fancy backgrounds. It has been pointed out that a great deal of film, as well as much time, can be saved by omitting the customary "blurbs" which regularly introduce a feature film. The only thing the movies do not lack is customers.—The Pathfinder.

HAVOC ON THE FARM

Nowhere has war caused more havoc than in agriculture.

Almost no new farm machinery is available. Repair parts for existing machinery are always difficult and sometimes impossible to obtain. The cost of everything the farmer must buy is at record levels. Worst problem of all is the farm labor situation. The draft has taken many farm workers. And the farmer simply can't afford to pay shipyard wages for help—with the result that tens of thousands of workers have left the rural areas to find high-priced jobs in war industry.

This, in part, is the farmer's answer to those who think that the increase in farm prices means that all is well down on the farm. The plain truth is that most farmers are wondering how they will be able to keep in business—and to effect the increases in production the government wants.

The situation is particularly serious in the dairy field, where skilled and permanent help is absolutely necessary. In many states, milk is a public utility, and its price is fixed by regulatory bodies. Vast quantities of dairy cattle are being sold for beef, because farmers can't obtain the necessary labor. It is time city dwellers understood some of the grave problems farmers face.—Industrial News Review.

CURSED GEM BRINGS TRAGEDY TO MANY

Where it came from nobody knows, but the "Moon of the Mountains" gem cost a shah his honor, a king his throne, a czar his life and has brought bloodshed and disaster to its owners for centuries. Read about this mystery gem in the November 15th issue of The American Weekly the big Magazine distributed with the Baltimore Sunday American. On sale at all newsstands.

British Find Out About Americans

Air Ministry Gives Advice To Cadets in Training.

NEW YORK.—Tap an American and he may turn on you with a war whoop, a Rotarian grip or a fraternity yell.

But don't be surprised at anything he does, says the British air ministry, because the melting pot has been cooking for a long time and many new things have been added.

He likes to gamble and fight. He is curious, generous, violent, talkative and unreserved.

He stalks the dollar with the ferocity his ancestors used in gathering redskin scalps.

He leaves culture along with child-bearing to his women.

That's an American, the British ministry informs Royal Air force cadets headed here for training.

The American is so many things it is sometimes hard to understand him, the ministry indicates in its pamphlet-portfolio for the guidance of the British fliers about to rub elbows with a strange species.

"The average American has inherited something of the tradition of the American Indian. There is the same preliminary war dance and concurrent excitement, the same love of violent action and no less violent speech, the same war cries, the same concentration on the scalp as the object of expedition."

The American is unpredictable, the ministry continues, because "out of the mixture of races from which he derives his personality, he is more European than any European."

Not only that, he lives in "a vast and fabulous country where the northeast is rather like the British Isles, the deep southeast like the tropics, the Middle West an empire richer than Germany and the Ukraine put together, Texas very similar to southern Brazil and Uruguay, California and southern Oregon like parts of Australia."

Father's Kind Act Nets His Daughter $175,000

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.—An act of kindness performed by Mrs. Bertha Becker Fish's father 36 years ago paid dividends amounting to $175,000.

When David Stockscald, his wife and seven children, ran out of money while attempting to drive from New York to California in a wagon drawn by a team of horses, they stopped at J. A. Becker's home near Springfield. That was in 1906.

Becker and his family sized up the situation and took the Stockscalds into their home, fed and sheltered them for nearly three months. When his confidence was restored and his family well and happy once more, Stockscald decided to continue westward.

"Friends are few, I find in my travels," Stockscald vowed as he left the Becker home. "Some day, if the Lord wills, I will repay you three-fold."

Mrs. Fish is the only surviving member of the Becker family. A telegram from Stockscald's attorney informed her she had been named the sole heir of the Californian's $175,000 estate.

Tire Companies Destroy So That They Can Save

Rubber is scarce and rubber tires, as far as the civilian is concerned, are scarcer.

But the great rubber factories of the United States are still intentionally destroying a small quantity of rubber in tires each month so much greater amounts for the war effort can be saved.

The story is this, according to tire engineers: To find the correct technical information to make possible future improvements in tire design and construction, current model tires must be tested.

That means they must be virtually destroyed to add to the sum of technical knowledge.

It isn't wasting rubber, however. It is conserving it.

For, the 100 pounds of crude rubber that go into the tires tested monthly may result in saving 1,000 tons monthly through a change in design, in the type of compound used, or other factors.

The work is being carried on intensively these days with the principal motive the saving of every pound of rubber possible, Gray says.

On the surface, it might appear that tire engineers waste rubber when they go about destroying tires for test purposes, Gray declares, however, when one considers that the expenditure of a trivial amount for testing may save tons for the national stockpile, the effort is an important part of the war effort.

First Quartermaster Corps Consisted of Only Two Men

It was June 16, 1775—more than a year before the signing of the Declaration of Independence—when the Continental congress authorized the establishment of a quartermaster department, headed by Maj. Gen. Thomas Mifflin. At that time the corps consisted of two men, General Mifflin and one deputy.

From that humble beginning, the quartermaster corps, now headed by Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, has increased to several hundred thousand officers and men and is charged with one of the most complicated tasks of the armed forces.

Primarily the function of the quartermaster corps is to feed, clothe, and equip the army. Among the duties assigned the quartermaster corps are supplying the army with all motor vehicles except combat vehicles; operation of laundries; supply of gasoline and lubricating oils; procurement of horses and mules; operation of schools where more than 70 different trades are taught; design of uniforms, medals and insignia; storage and distribution of supplies; procurement and distribution of all the soldier's personal and individual equipment except arms; salvage or repair of materials; supervision of army and national cemeteries.

The quartermaster corps has handled considerable of the Lend-Lease work in the present war.

House's Summer Dress

Putting the house into its summer dress has always been one of the most joyous activities for the woman who takes pride in her home. The bright cretonnes and chintzes of the summer draperies and slip covers, the cool freshness of grass mats and rugs, the fresh crispness of cotton bedspreads and curtains seem atune to the season's rebirth. This year we need cheerful household decorations even more than we do in peaceful years, for they will help lift our spirits while our men folk are fighting and working for victory. We must continue to make good homes, clean homes, attractive homes, whether all the men of the family are on fighting fronts or whether they are making their contribution to victory in their own home towns.

Old Farm Buildings

Under farm conditions today, a structure serving no useful purpose and in poor condition might better be torn down and the material salvaged for use in repairing or constructing other buildings.

Razing of a useless farm building eliminates a fire hazard, reduces taxable property and helps clean up the farmstead. Necessary repairs to useful buildings can and should be made now while there is still construction and repair material available, as ordinary maintenance and repair work needed to return a structure to a sound working condition without a change of design is not affected by Conservation Order L-41 under which expenditures for building construction are now regulated.

Chance for Bragging

"State Nights" at Fort Still, Okla., are giving soldiers a chance to brag about their home towns, and give the home town people a chance to live up to the bragging. At the local USO club in nearby Lawton, soldiers from a selected state handle the entertainment, USO provides the facilities, and the folks back home send gifts for free distribution.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

An Army motor trailer looks much like any other automobile trailer which may be seen on the highways or in the tourist's camps. The Army's trailers are used as traveling hospitals, dental clinics and testing laboratories.

These mobile surgical or dental units are hauled to their destination and the trucks released for other purposes. They cost from $1,200 to $3,000 and weigh from 1 1/2 to 8 1/2 tons. You can help pay for them . . . help keep our Army fit. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. You can join the Ten Percent Club through the Payroll Savings Plan, or buy Bonds regularly through the nearest bank or postoffice.

Win Band Title Without Having to Blow a Note

LA GRANGE, GA.—After winning the state American Legion drum and bugle corps competition for seven consecutive times, the LaGrange corps received the title again this year without having to blow a note. The corps appeared at the legion convention at Savannah to defend their title, but due to tire and gas shortages, there were not enough musical organizations present to furnish competition. So the LaGrange corps pocketed the $500 prize money, took the first place title, and went home.

Girl Sun Bather Blocks Traffic, Brings Police

SAN DIEGO.—Police Sgt. Frank Logan was obliged to warn a young woman that taking a sun bath on a fifth-story window ledge was dangerous. He told her she was always in danger of rolling off, and furthermore, the crowd of men that had gathered in the street below was blocking traffic.

6-Month Burial Of Yogi Called World's Record

India Reports Novice Lived
Without Food or Drink,
Beard Ceased Growing.

CALCUTTA, INDIA. — Word has come from Benares in northeastern India, that a Yogi, a mere novice at that, has hung up a world record by living in a state of suspended animation for six months, in a grave without food or drink.

When he emerged his clothes were said to have been worn away and his body covered with white ants. However, by rigid body discipline he was said to have forced his beard to stop growing, and his whiskers were no longer than when he was interred.

The claims were advanced by Dr. B. L. Atreya, professor of philosophy in the Benares Hindu university and general secretary of the Indian Society of Psychic Research.

The Samyasi—a novice of the art of Yoga, which consists of suppression of all mental activities, discipline of the body, control of involuntary muscles, withdrawal of senses from natural outward functioning and a few other things—lay in the pit from September 5, 1941, to March 21, 1942, according to Dr. Atreya. The Yogi passed his time in a pit cell reinforced with brick and cement.

Inspected Inside of Pit.

"I inspected the pit, the cell and the enclosure around the cell just two hours before the Yogi entered the grave," the doctor's report said. "He entered the pit in my presence; the door of the cell was closed with bricks in my presence. The whole structure was open to police and public inspection at all times before two hours of his entry into the grave."

The doctor said there was a large crowd around the grave when the Yogi prepared to descend into it. He said he watched the proceedings "critically," both on the day of entry and emergence. On the day the Yogi emerged from the tomb a crowd of more than one hundred thousand was on hand, the doctor said.

"Certain selected people were allowed to enter the enclosure," the report said. "Dandiswami Shri Madhusudana Shramaji, the high-souled teacher of the Yogi, passed a very anxious time and was prepared for all sorts of emergencies before the Yogi came out."

"At 2:30 p. m. he ordered an opening to be made in the outer enclosure. Then an opening was made in the all-around closed cell. The first slab of stone was removed with great difficulty on account of its heaviness by four or five selected persons, some of whom were professors of the Hindu university.

Clothes Eaten Away.

"The Yogi was already awake, and he raised his hand to indicate that state. Then he was dressed with new clothes. His old clothes were partly worn away under the influence of the atmosphere inside the pit and partly eaten up by white ants, some of which were found collected over portions of his body. He was then brought out covered with blankets and placed on an easy chair, on a high platform, so that he could be visible to everyone.

"The Yogi looked just the same as when he entered the pit. Even the beard on his face had not grown. He looked hale and hearty, and saluted the crowd assembled to welcome him. He insisted on walking about 25 yards from the place, but we did not allow him to do so for fear of his being crushed by the crowd, which wanted to touch his feet."

'Broken Backs' Follow

Experiment by Co-eds

CINCINNATI.—In their University of Cincinnati record it went down as "valuable sociological research," but to the five co-eds who tried strawberry picking as part of their course at the university, the experience was a real back-ache.

The U. C. placement bureau made arrangements through the Ohio state employment service for the girls to obtain this "sociological research" on the farm of Albert Diefenbacher, Colorain pike, near Dunlap, Ohio. Those whose school records were enriched, and whose "backs were broken," as one expressed it, were Beverly Graham, of Evanston; Eleanor Flessa, of Westwood; Betty Hope of Walnut Hills; Norma Owen of Evanston, and Margaret Von Schlichten of Cincinnati.

Remove Shell Cap From

Brain of U. S. Airman

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA.—Two United States army surgeons, Maj. Joseph R. Dolce of Buffalo, N. Y., and Lieut. Mark Timkin of Beaver Dam, Wis., were credited with a delicate brain operation which saved the life of Sergt. Clarence Hoehn of Munster, Texas.

Working in a field hospital the doctors removed the nose cap of a shell fired by a Japanese Zero (naval) fighter and also took out a piece of bone which was pressing upon the brain center.

Hoehn, tail gunner of a bomber which was attacked by 20 Zeros for 40 minutes during allied raids on Lae, New Guinea, also was wounded severely in the thigh.

STRAIGHT-LINE EFFORT: SHORTEST DISTANCE TO VICTORY.

HE TALKS THROUGH HIS THROAT

It looks like Mary Boland's choker. It's really a new type of microphone for the men of the Armored Force. Easier to slip on than his necktie, the new mike snaps about the tank man's throat, leaving his hands free for action on the controls or machine gun button. Two small "mike buttons" press gently against the column of the throat, pick up the tank commander's words directly from vocal cord vibrations, cutting out all extraneous noises, the roar of motors, the chatter of machine guns, and thus eliminating one of the handicaps to intelligibility in combat communications. Microphones like this, as well as rugged tank radios, are coming off Western Electric assembly lines. On the fighting front they will provide the clear communication between armored units so vital to successful mechanized attack.

FEESERSBURG.

Come in November—we've been expecting you, with a chilling breath, faded colors, many trees bare of leaves, time to gather nuts, and store the last perishable vegetables and flowers; then there's musicales, oyster suppers, spelling bees and socials, Armistice Day—on which to recall the comfort and joy of a cessation of war; and best of all the joy of Thanks giving for all good things of another year.

At the Hallowe'en social at the Social Hall, at Middleburg last Tuesday evening our young neighbor—June Bostain, won a prize for the best dressed Aunt Jemima. There a number of interesting costumes, and many games and lots of fun besides good things to eat—admission was 10c, unless in special outfit. There was a fair attendance.

Mrs. Ruth Zollicoffer, her mother, Mrs. Emma W. Koons and Mrs. Florence E. Cookson, all of Uniontown, called at Grove Dale, last Tuesday when returning from the Ladies' Literary Society which met at the home of Mrs. Robert J. Walden; where a memorial service was held for the lately departed, Mrs. Thomas W. Yates, of Union Bridge, mother of Mrs. Earl Buckley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Files, Lancaster, Pa., spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Miller.

At the Elmer A. Wolf school the Sophomores entertained the Freshmen on last Friday evening, with games, food and fun.

Mrs. C. S. Wolfe has been quite ill the past week with an extra seizure of neuritis in head and neck and confined to the house. Pain is a trying companion, and we hope for her speedy recovery, for she is missed in the home, in the church and in the community.

L. K. Birely is on the sick list also—with a bronchial cold and shortness of breath. The latter slows up progress considerably and gives the Doctor more employment.

On Wednesday of last week Miss Ida Crouse, of Littlestown, with her niece, Mrs. Bertha Crouse Zimmerman, and Mrs. Margaret Crouse Souders, of York, visited their cousin, Mrs. J. H. Stuffle and family.

The young people of Mt. Union have decided to have a chicken and oyster supper in the Parish House, on Saturday evening, November 21st. The usual variety of dishes will be served, and all will be welcome.

Hallowe'en passed more quietly than usual—not a sound of masqueraders nor a grain of corn thrown, etc. but wait—just when we are ready to extol our orderly town a neighbor comes in and tells of nearby gates that were hauled away by auto—and not yet found, but where is the fun?

J. H. Stuffle is building an addition to his kitchen on the north side of the house; which extra space will be an accommodation.

George Delphy has been indisposed for sometime and is feeling ill and very weak at this writing—with general debility. His good wife and children are kindly attentive.

Recently we've learned of the discovery of several old wells which are interesting. One is near home on the Booker farm (once owned by Gideon Smith) and after living there a number of years, by a board breaking through under the shed at the barn, a deep well was located which last week they filled with earth and stones. Now we wonder who dug it, and when and whether previous owners knew it was there.

Samuel Bowman is selling his store goods in Middleburg subject to a call to service in the near future, Otis B. Devilliss, of Union Bridge has purchased his surplus cases of goods.

On the 3rd. of Nov. 1783, the Revolutionary Army was disbanded. At the end of the long struggle the American colonies were left very poor and their money had so declined in value, that it took a hundred paper dollars to buy a pair of shoes. "How much will they cost when this struggle ends."

Tuesday election Day—which means victory or defeat for 34 men in Carroll County, all good and true. 'Tis a time of stress and strain, or rejoicing with those who win, and weeping with those who lose—but may justice triumph ever. It was a busy morning at the polls, and for the ladies serving lunches it seemed a successful venture.

Now what variety of weather are we having? It rained steadily 'all night then the Sun came out this morning and has shone brightly all day, the wind has shifted to the North west and has grown colder—so its like late autumn.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

During the week of November 8-14, inclusive, American Education Week will be observed throughout the United States. The theme is "Education for Free Men," and the following topics have been set aside for each day in the week:

Sunday, Nov. 8—Renewing our Faith
Monday, Nov. 9—Serving Wartime Needs

Tuesday, Nov. 10—Building Strong Bodies
Wednesday, Nov. 11—Developing Loyalty and Skills

Thursday, Nov. 12—Cultivating Knowledge and Skills
Friday, Nov. 13—Establishing Sturdy Character

Saturday, Nov. 14—Strengthening Morale for Victory

American Education Week originated twenty-two years ago and is sponsored by the following organizations: The American Legion, National Education Association, United States Office of Education, and The National Congress of Parents and Teachers. President Roosevelt, in his American Education Week proclamation, expresses the purpose and the need extremely well. As found in the N. E. Journal it is: "To the Patrons, Students and Teachers of American Schools:

The Nation comes to the twenty-second observance of American Education Week at the most critical time in its history. Our generation is engaged in a desperate conflict. Its outcome will determine whether future generations shall enjoy those basic freedoms we possess. Unless our enemies are beaten upon the field of battle there can be no education of free men in the future because free men will have ceased to exist.

"The schools of the Nations are a tremendous resource in this time of crisis. Schools and colleges have already contributed much to the war effort in terms of specialized training for essential work on the home front. Moreover the idealism, courage and devotion to duty of millions of American youth serving on every front today attest the quality of training they have received in homes, churches and schools.

"I urge that all school patrons and citizens visit their schools during American Education Week. I am confident that if they will do so they will be reassured as to the vitality and integrity of this uniquely American institution for the education of free men and women.

Franklin D. Roosevelt."

American Education Week will be observed in all schools in Carroll Co. and it is sincerely hoped that all parents, and friends of education in Carroll County will find opportunity to visit the schools during this week. You are cordially welcome.

(Signed) R. S. HYSOON,
Superintendent of Schools.

THE FURNACE MAN

Bright summer days are ending,
Vacation time is o'er,
Now to our toil, back-breaking—
Abundant work in store.

Summer days will soon be gone,
Winter days are coming on;
Are we ready for the change,
By attending to the range?

If the range shows, fired up,
Water leaks from pipes do drop,
Are you sure that you can fix it?
Before cold weather again tricks it?
BEAT THE WEATHER AND GO
FIX IT! W. J. H. 1942.

Wounded in Sea, Nude U. S. Flyer Walks 80 Miles

Anxious to Get Back Into Fight to Seek Revenge For Slain Buddies.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Shot down at sea and wounded by Japanese fliers as he floated in a life belt, Corp. Louis Murphy, 25-year-old United States airman from Bridgeport, Conn., has reached an Allied base after a two-day swim and 18 days of walking naked and hungry over 80 miles of wild country.

The other crew members of his bomber all apparently were killed in the water by low-diving Japanese planes.

Here is Murphy's own story: "Our bomber had been attacking Lae, New Guinea, when an overwhelming force of Jap Zeros attacked and shot us down. The crew swam about in Mae Wests (brilliant orange colored life belts). The Zeros began machine gunning us, so we separated.

Got Rid of Clothing.
"Seeing that we were likely to be in the water for some time, I got rid of my clothing. Every time the Zeros made a pass at us I dived as deep as possible and remained under until my lungs were nearly bursting. I had to deflate my life belt three times.

"One Zero came down within 100 feet before letting go a burst of bullets. One bullet nipped off the tip of one of my fingers.

"By the time the Zeros left, I struck out for shore, but couldn't make any headway against the current. My buddies were disappearing out to sea.

"By nightfall I was five miles offshore and did not know in what direction to swim. During the afternoon a boat had put out from shore, but I dived, feeling certain it was a Japanese vessel.

"I spent a terrible night, alternately swimming and dozing. Once I dreamed I was back aboard the bomber, bouncing about in a terrible storm.

Tries to Catch Raindrops.
"Next morning I was closer to shore, being carried by a current parallel to the beach. During the day I tried to ease my thirst by opening my mouth to catch raindrops.

"Forty-two hours after the bomber came down I drifted into shallow water and staggered ashore. I spent a few hours recovering some strength and drinking milk from coconuts.

"Naked, without shoes, and with my body already badly sunburned, I set off in the general direction of our base. After seven days I met the survivors of another plane crash, carrying their wounded pilot on a litter.

"I'm dying to get into the fight again. I'll have no mercy on those Japanese for what they did to us in the water."

How U. S. Sailors Braved
Sharks to Aid Wounded

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Uninjured sailors, led by a heroic officer, jumped into the shark-infested Coral sea to make room in rescue whaleboats for wounded and burned members of their crew, two survivors of the United States naval tanker Neosho revealed today.

E. A. Flaherty, 22 years old, electrician's mate, third class, from St. Louis, Mo., and D. J. Nelson, 22, signalman, third class, from Laurel, Mont., said when the Neosho started to sink in the Coral sea engagement, Lieut. (j. g.) Henry K. Bradford ordered all the men out of the boats to make room for those who were wounded.

"He (Lieutenant Bradford) led the way himself, plunging into the water and grabbing a towline on the boat," Flaherty said. "About 14 or 15 jumped overboard from the whaleboat I was in. The lieutenant and two enlisted men were the only ones ultimately saved that I know of. They were picked up 10 days later from life rafts."

200 Miles Away, Sends
Fire Alarm by Telegraph

MASSILLON, OHIO.—A telegram sent from Fort Wayne, Ind., more than 200 miles from Massillon, notified local firemen of a fire in a house in Walnut Hills, government housing project. The telegram was sent by P. W. Homrighous, who lives in the house and told firemen that when he and Mrs. Homrighous left their home they forgot to detach an electric iron. They did not think about it until they reached Fort Wayne. Firemen rushed to the house, entering with a pass key. Sure enough, they found the electric iron attached and smoke coming from the ironing board.

$20,000 Fortune Found
On Body of Iowa Woman

OSKALOOSA, IOWA.—Although she was not known as a wealthy woman, when Mrs. Lillian Crispin, 81, died, officers found six money bags tied to her waist.

It was estimated that she had been wearing $20,000 when she died. One of the envelopes concealed on her person contained a stack of $20 and $100 bills four inches high.

Doctor's Patient

By
BARBARA BENEDICT
Associated Newspapers—WNU Features.

PEOPLE who think a lot, nurse a grievance and never get it out of their systems are apt to suffer for it. Statistics show that nine out of every ten brooders have nervous breakdowns; five out of every ten eventually go balmy; three out of every ten die young.

Consider the case of Norma Field. Norma was in love with young Dr. Ronald Reid. She had been in love with him for three years. But she hadn't told anyone about it; no one guessed it. Why? Well, because Norma didn't want to appear ridiculous. She knew she didn't have a chance with Ronald, and she didn't want to be laughed at.

Norma was plain and quiet and retiring. Sensible, too. If she hadn't been sensible she could have let Ronald know that she adored him, as the other girls did. Beverly Stark especially. It grieved Norma the way Beverly acted so silly over Ronald. But no one guessed it. Norma only smiled sweetly at Beverly when the other girl came up to her one day and said:

"Listen, Norma, you're the only one in this crazy crowd of ours who's got a head that doesn't rattle for lack of brains. I want some advice."

"Why, of course, Beverly," said Norma. "I'd love to help you if I could."

Beverly scrutinized her a moment, curiously. "You know, Norma, I've often wondered about you. You're such a sweet, thoughtful kid. It's a wonder to me some man hasn't grabbed you off before now. There are plenty of goops who want a wife and not a woman to live with. Actually, why don't you look around?"

"What was it you wanted advice about, Beverly?" Norma said, holding in.

Beverly laughed. "O. K. Consider that I never spoke. Well, it's about Ronald Reid. I'm nuts about that guy. Don't you think he's wonderful?"

"Why, I'd never thought of him that way before, Beverly," Norma said quietly.

"Well, anyway," said Beverly, "somehow I've got the idea he doesn't go for me as big as he used to. Oh, he takes me out a lot and calls me his sweetheart and that sort of thing, but I can't get over the idea his affections are on the skids. What'll I do about it, Norma? What would you do?"

"I? Oh, Beverly, I don't know. I guess I'd just try to make him think I didn't go for him so much either. That would make him want me more. Then somehow, without letting him realize what I was doing, I'd let him know that I really did care."

Beverly grinned. "It's an old chestnut, but it may work. Now just tell me how you'd let him know, finally, that you did care, without him realizing it."

Norma frowned. "That, of course, is the hard part. But there must be a way. I'd have to think about it awhile, I guess, Beverly."

And so Beverly went away and Norma sat alone. She sat for a long time brooding and thinking and wanting to scream, but knowing enough not to. After awhile she got up and went over to her bed and lay down and began to sob. Presently the sobs grew louder, merging into something that was not quite a scream, but could be called a fairly lusty yell.

Mrs. Flanagan, ironing in the kitchen of her court bungalow next door, heard and came over in haste, looking alarmed and frightened. After a glance at Norma lying on the bed Mrs. Flanagan went in search of cold cloths and hot water bottles. Heat and cold, however, had no effect on the volume of Norma's yells, unless it was to increase them.

Mrs. Flanagan didn't know what to do. Presently she thought of calling a doctor. She rushed to the telephone. While waiting for the operator's voice her eye chanced to fall on a writing pad on the telephone stand, on which was written: "Dr. Ronald Reid, Highland, 220-R. At that moment the operator said:

"Number, please?" And Mrs. Flanagan said: "Highland 220-R."

When Dr. Reid arrived, five minutes later, the yelling of Norma reached him in the street. A moment later he looked down at the stricken girl and shook his head. "Hysterics," he said, addressing round-eyed Mrs. Flanagan. "Please put some water on to boil, Mrs. Flanagan."

Mrs. Flanagan nodded and lumbered hastily to the kitchen. Dr. Reid sat down on the bed's edge, picked up Norma's wrist with one hand and began stroking her forehead with the other. Instantly Norma's screams began to subside.

Presently the noise was reduced to a mere moaning, from which moaning Dr. Reid could occasionally distinguish articulate words. As he listened a curious expression came into his face. Once he blushed. He was grateful that Norma had ceased talking when Mrs. Flanagan returned with the boiling water.

"She's delirious," he said, taking the water. "I'll give her something to make her sleep, and if possible I'd like to have you remain with her for the rest of the day."

The next day Dr. Reid returned to see how his patient was getting along. Norma was conscious, but weak. The doctor remained quite a bit longer than the time he usually allotted to professional calls, prescribing a long rest, nourishing food and quiet.

The day after when he called he said that he'd found just the place for Norma to get her rest—a quiet little inn in the mountains. There'd be nothing for her to do except read and rest and remain quiet. He would, he added casually, run up once a day to see how she was getting along.

So Norma was taken to the inn and young Dr. Reid began coming up every day, early in the afternoon and staying sometimes right through dinner and into the evening. He liked the place, he admitted, and enjoyed having Norma show him all the interesting things she had found during her walks.

It was on one of those days that Dr. Reid had arrived early and stayed late—in fact it was exactly eleven o'clock in the evening with a full moon overhead—when he suddenly spoke of the matter that was in his mind.

"There's no use," he said apologetically, "I'm not the sort of man who can hold in. I had planned to wait until you were fully recovered from your illness before—"

"Oh," said Norma breathlessly, "I'm quite recovered. Really. What is it?"

Dr. Reid cleared his throat and a worshipping look came into his eyes. "The fact is, Norma," he said, "I've fallen quite madly in love with you. Indeed, I've been in love with you for over a year. You're so different from those other girls—so quiet and comforting and sensible. I—that is—"

He paused, embarrassed, and Norma said wildly: "Yes?"

"Well, you see—blast it, Norma, I shouldn't let you influence me because it isn't professional ethics. But when you were sick—delirious—you talked, well, you admitted you thought a lot of me, too."

Norma blushed and dropped her eyes. Dr. Reid looked at her—and presently took her into his arms and kissed her. Norma almost swooned with joy.

After awhile he released her. "Darling, you will forgive me for not controlling myself, won't you?"

Norma nodded. "I think," she said, "I could forgive you for most anything, darling. For you see, sometimes I hold in." And she smiled, thinking that there was something she'd always have to hold in: An idea she'd thought of for Beverly Stark but used herself—the reason a certain slip of paper bearing a telephone number was handy for Mrs. Flanagan to see, and certain things she'd said when Ronald had thought her delirious.

Nazi Arctic Islands Used
For Weather Forecasting

Occupation of the Arctic islands of Jan Mayen and Bear by the Germans, as reported, would aid the Nazis in long-range weather forecasting and give them two clear-visioned eyes focused on Russian-bound convoys heading for Murmansk and Archangel, says the National Geographic Society.

Jan Mayen lies within easy bombing range of American bases in both Iceland and Greenland. It is about 350 miles northeast of Iceland, 50 miles nearer Greenland's east coast, and only 600 miles from Norway's port of Narvik.

Barren, volcanic in origin, cold, but seldom ice-bound, Jan Mayen is about 34 miles long and 9 miles across its widest part. The volcanic cone of Beereger rises 7,400 feet—an elevation not equalled by any peak in Europe north of the Alps. Air fields of any great size would be practically impossible because of the uneven terrain of small volcanic cones. Many gaping cracks on the island constantly emit steam.

Flexible Oil Can Spout
In oiling farm machinery it is difficult to reach many places with an ordinary oil can. This may be overcome by cutting about two inches from the small end of the spout and inserting a six-inch piece of flexible tubing between the two pieces of the spout. This makes out-of-the-way places easy to reach when oiling.

TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR SERVICE MEN

"It may have been 'Dear Mabel' and the love letters of a rookie in the last war," but this time it's "Operator, let me talk to the folks."

More soldiers, more sailors, more marines are making more telephone calls to their mothers, wives, friends and sweethearts. These calls are important to the men and their families. They create happiness and happiness builds morale.

In a country at war telephone men

Or there is the story of the lone-some lad from North Carolina at the Norfolk Naval Base. "I haven't had one word from my folks in two weeks. Can't you help me get them," he asked the telephone manager. Of course, he could and, of course, he did. And when the boy came out of the booth after talking with the folks, he seemed to be walking on air. Said he, "everything is fine in North Carolina."

Then, there is the boy at Fort and women will always have important jobs to do. Not the least of these is the job of furnishing the best possible telephone service to men in the armed forces.

After Pearl Harbor more and more men poured into camps already established throughout the country and a program was immediately undertaken to expand and improve telephone service for these men. Public telephones were the first need. Scores of them were installed even before the boys arrived at camp. For example, in Virginia there are over 300 public telephones in service on army and navy reservations. But "Johnny Doughboy" also "goes to town" and he makes telephone calls while he's there. So countless booths and telephones have been placed in the cities throughout the country where service men go.

Back in the camps special telephone managers have been appointed to look after the telephone service for the boys. All of these managers can tell countless stories of their experiences. For example, every night for two weeks, a Baltimore soldier called from a telephone trailer stationed at Camp Lee to his old home town. Then, one night he emerged, beaming from ear to ear, to confide, "She just said yes."

Ah, love! Ah, telephone!

George G. Meade in Maryland who proposed in booth No. 11 one night and was accepted in booth No. 12 the following night and was married over the week end on a twenty-four hour pass.

These are just everyday occurrences that help to emphasize the importance of the telephone in the service man's life. Everything possible is being done to make it convenient for the boys to keep in touch with their families and friends. Operators are stationed at the camps with special switchboards to help the boys place their calls and comfortable waiting room facilities are provided for those who are waiting their turn.

That the men appreciate what is being done for them is evident from the words of a Camp Lee soldier to a camp telephone manager: "When I see the patience, tact and effort exerted by your staff on behalf of an anxious son to speak with his family, I am moved with the deepest admiration."

Throughout the country full-time telephone managers have been appointed in more than 80 camps and bases and about 50 more will start to work very soon. Added telephone service has been installed at 24 military and naval stations and 145 similar installations are planned.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRISTIAN NURTURE IN THE FAMILY

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 6:4-9, 20-25; II Timothy 3:14, 15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.

The religious life of the home is a determining factor in the life of the child, for it is in the home that the child's whole existence centers and from which he receives the repeated impressions, day by day, which determine character and destiny. Then too, it is in the home that the parent has the opportunity to demonstrate the reality of the faith professed in the church and to show the child that Christianity really counts in the ordinary experiences of life.

I. By Recognizing God's Word (Deut. 6:4-9).

Twice a day the orthodox Jew repeated the words of verses 4 and 5, "the Shema," in his time of prayer, morning and night. It was the foundation of his faith, declaring the oneness of God in a world of many heathen gods, and calling for complete and absolute devotion to Him.

But it was not enough that these words should be repeated in the service, they were to be taught with all diligence to the children and to be a normal and natural part of their daily conversation.

Here is a matter of great significance to us. The faith which we profess in the church must be effectively brought into the home. It is not enough to carry a Bible on Sunday, it should be in use in the home throughout the week; not only in family worship, but in the incidents of daily life.

The family altar has gradually disappeared, and it is regrettable that it has, for the testimony of generations indicates that in family worship some of the most useful men and women of all ages have received the direction of life which made them great for God.

Let us not readily assume that it is not possible for us to have a family altar simply because of the difficulties of time, place, etc. But if we cannot have such worship regularly, let us show our children that we have a real interest in reading our Bibles, by sharing some blessing found therein with them, and by making prayer the natural thing in the home at all times, not just in hours of trial or adversity. Let us recognize God's Word in our family life.

II. By Remembering God's Blessing (Deut. 6:20-25).

The nation that forgets its past will have no future worth remembering. The Israelites were to recall that the glorious history of God's loving kindness toward them bore testimony to the truth of His Word and to the faithfulness with which He had kept them. Their young people would thus be encouraged to trust God for the future. "Hitherto the Lord hath helped," means that henceforth we may count on Him.

In every nation there are those occasions of history where only God could deliver—and He did. The recollection of such events in a way which will give the glory to God rather than to man will strengthen faith and cause men to look to God in the hour of need, and to thank Him in the day of victory.

In the family too, we should cultivate the sacred memories of God's deliverance, of His blessing, of the joy of His fellowship in bright as well as threatening moments. Children who hear such matters gratefully rehearsed in the home have an effective anchor in a time of storm.

III. By Continuing in God's Grace (II Tim. 3:14, 15).

That which we learn of Christ and of God's Word is to be translated into living for Christ. The experiences of grace and the remembrance of God's blessing of childhood are not for that period of life alone but for a continuing in God's grace. This carries our thought a bit beyond the responsibility of the parent to provide the proper surroundings and training, and stresses the duty of the child to apply, perfect, and continue that experience of Christian truth and testimony.

Too many careless individuals, who because of the desires of their own wicked hearts have abandoned the church and the Book, blame it on the parents. "They were too strict. We had to go to church too much. They made me go to Sunday school"—such are their excuses. Of course, we know that they are only excuses, not reasons. They are the refuge of the hypocrite who is not willing to face his own terrible responsibility.

The obligation is on each one of us to continue in the things we have learned, and if we do not, the judgment must come upon us. If we do, salvation and blessing will come to us, and we in turn will pass it on to others.

May this lesson turn many an American home back to God's way.

Fire Hazards Revealed

In Annual Inspection

A city-wide inspection of homes, just completed by the Milwaukee fire department, has revealed many fire hazards which should be eliminated to insure safe protection of occupants.

Since private homes under state law are exempt from fire inspection, all investigations were made only with consent of dwelling occupants. Basements only were entered and fire hazards found were reported to tenants along with information on the proper way to correct them.

While attic investigations were not made, inspectors informed tenants of hazards created by goods stored in attics and said this material was potential fuel for incendiary bombs dropped by enemy planes during an air raid.

It was pointed out that such material—old furniture, bedding, newspapers and cartons—seldom if ever is used and could be disposed of easily.

All inspection was done by fire department members on their days off duty. They worked in pairs so nothing would be overlooked and to double check advice given to avoid misunderstandings.

Among hazards found were rubbish, 5,386; storage of ashes, 4,842; old newspapers, 1,555; defective smoke pipes, 1,705; defective chimneys, 560; gas plates, 1,699; electric wires, 4,517; volatile liquids, 334.

Anatomist Has New

Ideas on Hanging

People should be hanged with the knot of the hangman's noose just under their chins instead of at the back of the neck or just under the ear, Prof. Frederick Wood Jones, famous Australian anatomist, has reported.

The reason is that this position of the knot makes even a short drop instantly fatal by breaking the bony joint called the "atlas," where the skull rests on top of the backbone. The victim loses consciousness at once and dies as soon as the circulation of the blood can stop.

Any other place for the hangman's knot may be just as fatal in the long run, but often fails to break the spinal cord and thus cause instant unconsciousness. Death then follows more slowly, as a result of injury to the base of the brain or from strangulation. Consciousness may last for several minutes and death of the brain may not be complete for 10 or 15 minutes.

Placing the knot just under the ear sometimes wrecks the atlas joint just as does hanging with the knot under the chin, but is not so certain to do so. A knot at the back of the neck is the worst place of all, having no advantage except the doubtful psychological one that the victim may be less able to see or feel the noose being adjusted.

Some Pioneer Farms Remain

There are some families left, the department of agriculture reports, who shear, card, and spin wool from their own sheep in pioneer fashion. The Kollmans are an example.

George F. Kollman runs the Mission ranch in an isolated section of Montana. The nearest trading point is Hays, in the Fort Belknap Indian reservation. Thrown largely on their own resources, the Kollmans have revived many practices of covered wagon days.

With homespun yarn, Mrs. Kollman knits all the socks, mittens, sweaters, mufflers, and caps her family needs for cold Montana winters. Rancher Kollman wears a suit made from wool grown on the backs of Kollman sheep, and sent to a manufacturer to weave.

Kollman, now an FSA borrower, once operated a store. He says that now he does not mind getting to a store only two or three times a year. Mrs. Kollman cans and preserves home-grown meats and vegetables, makes butter, and is in charge of the family poultry and egg supply.

Army Emergency Relief

In reply to many inquiries regarding eligibility for aid from Army Emergency Relief, the war department points out that Army Emergency Relief has been organized by the army to give speedy financial help and other assistance to all soldiers and their dependents who deserve help, whenever and wherever such help is needed. In proper cases money will be advanced; in other cases medical care, or food, fuel and clothing will be furnished. Soldiers or their dependents can ask for help at any army post, camp or air field, or local Red Cross chapter, where full information will be available. When applying, dependents must give name, grade, serial number, organization, station or last mailing address of the soldier.

Become Less Civilized

Bolivian Indians have actually become less civilized, in many ways, since their conquest by the Spaniards, and their Christian feast days are much like the ceremonies in honor of the Sun God whom their forefathers worshiped. Such celebrations usually become riotous by night for they like to drown their troubles in drink. Their dress for these occasions are stiff-skin back and breastplates, which fit over the head and shoulders, and are brilliantly colored. Strange hooped hats are special fiesta finery and the trousers are slit up the back of the leg to the knee showing white underdrawers and brown legs.

Brazilian Girl Explorer Sculps Jungle Killers

Intrepid Young Woman Goes Into Wilds to Secure Subjects for Art.

NEW YORK.—A woman with dark red hair walked softly in the jungle of Paraguay to kill a jaguar.

She saw a black spotted body touched by a flare of sunlight, lifted her rifle, fired—and missed. The lean cat sprang away, and a hunter beside her killed it with a single arrow. Vividly Miss Irene Hamar, 29 years old, native of Sao Paulo, Brazil, daughter of a Brazilian coffee planter, remembers now the powerful throb of the native hunter's bow, the arc of that arrow.

She remembers the moment when a hooked tarpon pulled her into the sea off Cuba, and the instant of teetering balance while she sped down a ski run on a Chilean mountain.

But—those aren't the most exciting moments of her life, she told Frank K. Kelly, Wide World writer.

The minutes which have set the deepest excitement in her throat have come, she declares, in the sudden emergence of living figures from hard cut stone, after days of struggle with a sculptor's hammer.

Exhibits Her Art.

Miss Hamar presented recently the first one-woman exhibition of Brazilian sculpture ever held in New York. She has 160 major works to her credit, many of them created in her studio overlooking the great harbor of Rio de Janeiro.

"I work 10, 12, or 14 hours a day there, for weeks and months," she murmurs. "How many hours, how long it takes, doesn't matter if I see something in the stone."

She has been engaged in sculpture for 17 years, beginning as a child by making plastic masques of the faces of the people she saw around her.

"It's a little like wrestling, a little like boxing with some one hidden from you," she believes. "I do not often make plastic models now. I attack the stone directly. I feel the dust in my face, I see something taking a form, coming alive for me. That is the best moment of all."

Miss Hamar studied in Paris and traveled through Europe several years in the middle 1930s, learned to speak French, English, Spanish, Italian and German in addition to her native Portuguese.

Likes Those Faces!

"The people everywhere have such fascinating faces," she says. "When I was a child, I couldn't help making masques of such wonderful expressions, such strange heads." Although her exhibition included many portraits taken from people she has known, many of the figures were cut and hammered to fulfill the urges of her imagination, to give shape to what she felt was hidden in masses of white and rose marble, Brazilian alabaster, and bronze.

One of her favorites is a bronze figure of a woman with bowed head, called "vestal."

An Article of Distinction.

From the inevitable loneliness of an artist's studio, Miss Hamar turns often to the sea and to the swift thrill of skiing in Chile or Argentina. She holds medals for her skill as a ski runner and ski jumper, and she has caught huge tarpon in the Atlantic.

"Once I went out with some friends from Havana, and a tarpon pulled me right from the boat," she recalls. "As you say it—believe me, I let him go. It was not exactly what you would call an easy game of pingpong."

She has made trips up the Amazon river, visited the villages of the Bolivian Indians, and explored the vast jungle of the Matto Grosso plateau in Paraguay. It was in the jungle near this plateau that she went on foot with native hunters in search of jaguars.

Fugitive for 25 Years,

Man Confesses Murder

ROANOKE, VA. — Jack Furrow, who said his conscience hurt him so much that he feared he would go insane, has given himself up here for the slaying of a Franklin county man some 25 years ago.

County Sheriff Grady Gregory said a murder charge would be placed against Furrow, reopening a case that county authorities thought never would be solved.

Details of the murder were as vivid in the mind of Furrow as the day he says he committed the crime. He said he killed the man with a heavy rock.

After the murder, Furrow said he escaped by walking through the mountains at night and sleeping during the day. He went to Detroit, later to Louisville and finally to give up.

Tank Carries Gifts of

Thousands of Cigarettes

LONDON. — Thousands of cigarettes found in an American-built tank just received in Britain turned out to be a gift from the workers in the United States factory who made the tank for the British army ordnance corps men who were to service and equip it here. The cigarettes were handed around among the armorers and fitters at the central ordnance depot. The chief ordnance officer thanked the U. S. men.

Had to Mind Baby So He Killed Wife

Says She Was Going Out to Meet Other Men.

CHEYENNE, WYO.—Sergt. Carlton R. Rufenacht, 21, of Lodgepole, Neb., killed his wife because she asked him to take care of the baby while she went out with another man, he told a coroner's jury.

Rufenacht, who is stationed at Fort Warren, testified before the jury investigating the death of his wife, Evelyn, 22, a divorcee, whom he married four months ago.

He said his wife had been "going out with soldiers from Fort Warren, civilians and an officer." They spent the afternoon in taverns and when they returned to their flat, Mrs. Rufenacht asked him to care for her one-year-old baby, born of her previous marriage, while she went out.

"I knew she wanted to meet a man and I told her so," Rufenacht said. "Then she hit me on the forehead with a whisky bottle and I don't know what happened to me. I just saw red and didn't know what I was doing until after I stabbed her."

Neighbors testified that the Rufenachts had engaged in a violent argument and that Mrs. Rufenacht had jumped from a first-floor window with her baby. She handed the child to a neighbor and said: "Take care of her. Call the police quick."

Witnesses testified that she turned to flee but Rufenacht caught her, pulled her into a room and stabbed her.

Officers Les Sieber and Allen Rose, who arrested Rufenacht, said he told them: "Well, I fixed her. She'll never chisel on me anymore."

Wild Winds Blow Bride

Into Bridegroom's Arms

MOLINE, ILL.—During one of the worst tornadoes to strike this area in years, Orpha Johnson of Moline and Samuel Munson of Washington, Iowa, found themselves stalled in a car on a Moline street corner. The auto wouldn't budge, so, while the storm was at its height, Munson proposed marriage to his companion.

Just then Wilfred Culley of Silvis, Ill., happened along, and gave their car a push with his. A little later, Munson drove back to the corner to place the engagement ring on his fiancee's finger.

They were back at the same corner the other day. This time they stood on the sidewalk in the bright sunlight while the Rev. Frederick W. Eastwood of Washington stood on the curbing, reading the marriage ceremony. Mr. Culley was best man.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The sixteen-inch coast gun is the most powerful of all American guns and costs about $2,000,000 each. It will throw a shell weighing up to a ton many miles. The Coast Guard also has an eight-inch mobile railway gun which will hurl a heavy projectile about 18 miles.

For defense of our homes, the Coast Guard needs many of these powerful weapons. You can do your part to help pay for them by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds and Stamps every payday. U. S. Treasury Department

Lonely spotlike Johnston island lifts its half-mile knob from a long, submerged coral reef in the mid-Pacific some 700 miles southwest of the Hawaiian islands. It was discovered in 1807 by the British sea captain whose name it bears. In 1858 an American schooner claimed possession for the United States but shortly thereafter the Hawaiian government declared its ownership of the island. Hawaii formally annexed it but in 1909 leased it to a private individual after which it passed under the control of the United States. In 1926 our government declared it a bird refuge and later it became a seaplane base. In 1934 it was made a naval defense area and all foreign vessels and aircraft were barred. Last August it was commissioned as a naval air station.

Oklahoma Family

The department of agriculture's "Food for Freedom" drive and the treasury's war bond campaign both have received a boost from the Carl Johnson family of Jackson county, Okla.

Johnson, a rehabilitation borrower of the Farm Security administration, and his two high school boys and three daughters got the "Food for Freedom" spirit last year when they decided to buy a bunch of calves and feed them out for the market. He borrowed $750 from FSA and each child borrowed $60, and, pooling their money, they bought 35 calves.

Recently the Johnsons sold 34 of the 35 calves, paid off their loan plus the interest, then marched into the Altus, Okla., post office and plunked down the remainder, $300.25, for war stamps and bonds.

Saved After Torpedoing;

Lost Visiting Rescuers

BARNEGAT, N. J.—Two months ago Conrad H. Carlsson, 58-year-old junior engineer on a merchant vessel, was rescued off this resort after his ship had been torpedoed.

Recently he returned to visit the coastguardsmen who had saved his life and entered the surf for a brief swim. Caught in the breakers he was drowned.

Lost Watch Real Loss; Lost Wife Not the Same

LONDON, ONT.—Private James C. Martin maintained that there was a difference between losing a gold watch and losing a wife as Justice K. Mackay granted his suit for divorce from Mrs. Gladys Martin at the local courthouse.

After the plaintiff had testified that his wife left his home with another man and never returned, his lordship asked him if he had spoken to the "other man" about it. The plaintiff replied that he had not.

"I should think it would be a reasonable thing to ask a man what he was doing running around with your wife," his lordship said. "If a man was running away with your bank account or your gold watch wouldn't you ask him what he was doing?"

"That's not the same thing," Martin replied.

Bottled Note Travels

200 Yards in Two Weeks

ALAMOSA, COLO.—Three policemen put a note into a bottle—pleading with the finder to write them—and tossed the bottle into the raging Rio Grande.

The note asked the finder to write the patrolmen telling them where and when the bottle was discovered. For days the officers waited. They visioned the bottle floating down the river into the Gulf Stream and drifting to some lonely tropical isle.

In two weeks the answer came. The bottle was found by an Alamosa man, 200 yards downstream.

Old Egypt Reports

Ultramodern Theft

CAIRO, EGYPT.—The janitor of a Cairo apartment house reported that thieves had stolen the elevator—motor, cables and all.

"They said they had come to repair it," he wailed. "They disconnected the electricity, took down the cables and carted it all away in pieces. They said they'd bring it back at seven o'clock."

THE WEEK OF WAR REPORTS.

Departments' and Boards' Activities.

War production Chairman Nelson reported overall munitions production in September was 7 percent above August, with airplanes up 10 percent, ordnance up 7 percent, Navy and Army vessels up 22 percent, and merchant ships up 10 percent.

The report stated that the WPB index of munitions production increased 24 points in September to 381—four times the production rate at the time of Pearl Harbor. The Treasury paid out $5,500 million for war purposes, an increase of $300 million over August. This amounted to 40 percent of all payments made in the United States for goods and service during the month.

Mr. Nelson's report said four-engined bombers rolled off assembly lines very nearly on schedule. The output of heavy aircraft showed a marked increase over August, with the output of light, trainer-type planes held below August. Some new plants which came into production recently made a much better than anticipated showing. Propeller production continued a major problem, although enough propellers have been made thus far to fly all planes.

While merchant ship production was 10 percent above August, actual tonnage delivered was 34 percent above August—1,009,000 deadweight tons compared with 753,000 in August. This was 12 percent above first of the month forecasts and approached closely the total production of merchant shippards last year. During the month, 12 major combat vessels were launched, the report stated. Deliveries of major vessels were greater than forecast, but deliveries of other types were behind expectations.

The Agriculture Department estimated net farm income for 1942, including Government payments, at nearly $9,800 million, about $1,000 million above the previous record in 1919, and set 1943 income at approximately $10,500 million. Total agricultural production is nearly 12 percent greater than the record set in 1941, and 40 percent greater than in 1918. Military and Lend-Lease buying of food next year is expected to take one-fifth of current production.

WMC Chairman McNutt said all "necessary" workers on the nation's dairy, livestock and poultry farms will be frozen in their present occupations. Local draft boards will be asked to defer such workers, all other employers will be instructed to refrain from hiring them, and the Agriculture Department will act toward stabilizing their wages, he said.

DAYTIME ALERTS AND NIGHT BLACKOUTS

Baltimore, Md.—Unannounced daylight alerts and night blackouts are to be held in the Maryland area this month, according to Col. Henry S. Barrett, State director of Air Raid Precautions.

The number of drills and the length of each test to be held was not revealed by Colonel Barrett. "No exemptions will be allowed," he said, "except those specifically ordered by the Third Service Command."

"It is the desire of the Maryland Council of Defense to simulate actual air raid conditions as nearly as possible," Colonel Barrett stated "so that people will become accustomed to taking the proper action when the warning sounds."

During the test drills "passengers on buses and street cars must leave the vehicles and seek shelter in nearby buildings," Colonel Barrett added. This also applies to passengers in private automobiles.

DEVCOE

PAINT

When cooking fumes turn kitchen walls yellow . . .

Don't worry. That happens in nearly every kitchen. And, if you've used a good paint, it's probably not the paint that's turned yellow but it's the accumulation of cooking greases.

What to do? Well, if it happens to be a cheap paint that can't be washed satisfactorily—then all you can do is to repaint the kitchen.

If that's necessary, this time use a good WASHABLE wall paint like Devcoeur Velour Gloss or Semi-Gloss. Grease, fingerprints, pencil marks, etc., are removed easily quickly with mild soap and water. And washing will save repainting.
