HANDLE RABBITS WITH GREAT CARE.

Warning to People in Preparing this Game for Eating.

Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, warns those who hunt and trap the animals or prepare them for the table, to "Handle the wild rabbit with care," 'The cottontails are not always as harmless as they look, for some of them are infected with tularemia. This serious disease, which is also known as rabbit fever, usually is acquired by human beings through contact with infected rabbits or with the infected insects that spread it from animal to animal.

"Last year the record for this disease was good. Only 16 residents of Maryland are known to have contracted the disease, 15 residents of the counties and one Baltimorean. No residents of the State are known to have died of tularemia in 1941.

"If you go hunting, shoot only the frisky rabbits that run away from you. This is not only the more sporting practice, but the safer one; because a hare without the energy to scamper away is likely to be a one that can give tularemia to those who handle him.

"After the wild rabbit has been shot or trapped, it is necessary to handle the animal and the uncooked meat cautiously, using rubber gloves rather than your bare hands. This is especially important if there is any cut or scratch, even a small one, on your hand. Keep your hands away from your face, mouth and eyes and wash your hands thoroughly as soon as you finish preparing the game. All refuse and fur, as well as any paper that has come in contact with the rabbit, should be burned.

"As a last safeguard, cook the meat thoroughly to destroy any disease-producing germs that may present. This means that you should cook at boiling temperature for at least twenty minutes before cooking to your individual taste."

ROYALIST SPENDING A good many new words and Possibly we are wrong in giv-ing such a definition, as words seem now to have new meanings and modern applications that puzzle the average old-timer.who

Somehow, we think that "economic loyalist" is the better sounding term. these days, as mere word-making is not going to keep the ship of state, or any other kind of ship, continuously on smooth waters

This "Second Front" does not mean that the war is over. It is still a long way to Berlin. But it does prove that the British and the United States Hitler and Mussolini.

When Tunisia is taken by the Allied forces the real battle will commence. The Allied forces will then be situated to strike at the "belly" of Europe. the field of battle.

The elements, winter, and the "Second Front" in Africa may not be German leader's plans. Past history has taught us that forced changes in delay. war plans are often the beginning of the end of a war. Let's hope that this proves true in this case. Let's hope, but not too optimistically, to the extent of easing up in our effort to win this war, that the "Second Front' is the first step toward the end of the war. Let's work and hope to the end that the balance of the steps will be few and not too costly in lives and material, in the soon-tocome and final stage of this uncalled for, unnecessary, inhuman and crazy war of man.

JUST ONE MORE GALLON

Eastern motorists who are complaining about losing that fourth galion of gasoline on each ration coupon might feel better after considering the feeling of men on the fighting fronts as they hear the sputter of a gasless motor. There is the case of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and his compactions who undoubtedly wished for just one more gallon. What civilian motorist wouldn't gladly have given up his whole ration book if it would have helped these men to reach their destination?

Maj. Ben S. Irvin, home on furlough at Washington, Ga., tells of flying with other officers over the wastes of Borneo with the gas gauge sinking fast. "For a while we were goners," he relates, "but finally we identified a river in the jungle and found our way to an airport with only about ten minutes fuel supply left." So far, demands at home have not forced any plane to go out tanks over Africa may require empty tainly the Atlantic should be cleared largely diverted to the Army on tanks in America.

If Eastern motorists, by temporarily giving up one gallon on each gas coupon, can release enough tanker space (which is the real shortage) so that the boys who really need it can have the one more gallon required to well feel a glow of satisfaction that cine, right now. WATCHING THE BUDGET

At the hearing held by Governor budget, one of those who took an active part was Harry S. Middendorf, leaders of the Taxpayers' Economy

Besides making an address before the Governor Department heads, Mr. Middendorf issued a statement in which he said that department after department is asking for more money, more employees, higher salaries for them and in many cases they desire to go into new enterprise or further develop old activities. THEY REALLY FEED THE BOYS IN THE ARMY

The American Army is the best fed in the world. No matter what Johnny is doing, the United States Quartermaster Corps sees that he gets his meas on time and plenty to eat. -OH, SANTA!-Christmas Stockings Once Feminine Trick

Christmas just wouldn't be Christmas to American boys and girls without a visit from St. Nick.

According to history, St. Nicholas in real life was the Archbishop of Myra and lived during the Fourth century. In the Middle Ages, he makes his first traditional appearance in the legends of the North-

One legend concerns St. Nicholas eve, which originally was celebrated on the sixth of December. Young ladies, it seems; would hang up their stockings in hopes that St. Nicholas would fill them with dowries. After a time, St. Nick and the stockinghanging custom was incorporated into the celebration of Christmas.

Another legend says that on Christmas eve the spirit of St. Nicholas rode across the land on a great white horse followed by the hosts of innocents slain in Bethlehem by the order of Herod. Children of the Northland filled their wooden shoes with oats for the Saint's horse and set them outside of the door; in the morning, providing the children had been good, the oats were gone and the shoes were filled with nuts and Eventually, the boys and younger children, the wives and husbands, and even the grandparents, decided the girls were getting too much the best of things; so, they all joined the International Society of Stocking-hangers.

Our ancestors brought St. Nick to America, where he has grown round and fat and jovial, traded his great white horse for eight magic reindeer, and his pack bulged bigger and bigger.

This year Santa's pack may be minus a few luxury products and mechanical gadgets, but that doesn't matter as long as there are mamma dolls, sleds and drums and picture books; toys for the children.

When cooking fumes turn kitchen walls yellow . . .

Don't worry. That happens in nearly every kitchen And, if you've used a good paint, it's probably not the paint that's turned yellow but it's the accumulation of cooking greases.

What to so? Well, if it happens to be a cheap point that can't be washed satisfactorily—then all you can do is to repaint the kitchen.

It that's necessary, this time use a good WASHABLE wall paint like Devoe Velous Gloss or Somi Gloss. Grease, fingerprints, pencil marks, etc., are removed easily quickly with mild soap and water. And washing will save repainting.

When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days.

She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young When Irene got home from the air-

She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau", but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A.E.F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring."

Slowly she began to sign her name. "Irene —"

November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary - every pay day - in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every

This appeal is directed to two groups of

First - the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent

Second - the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

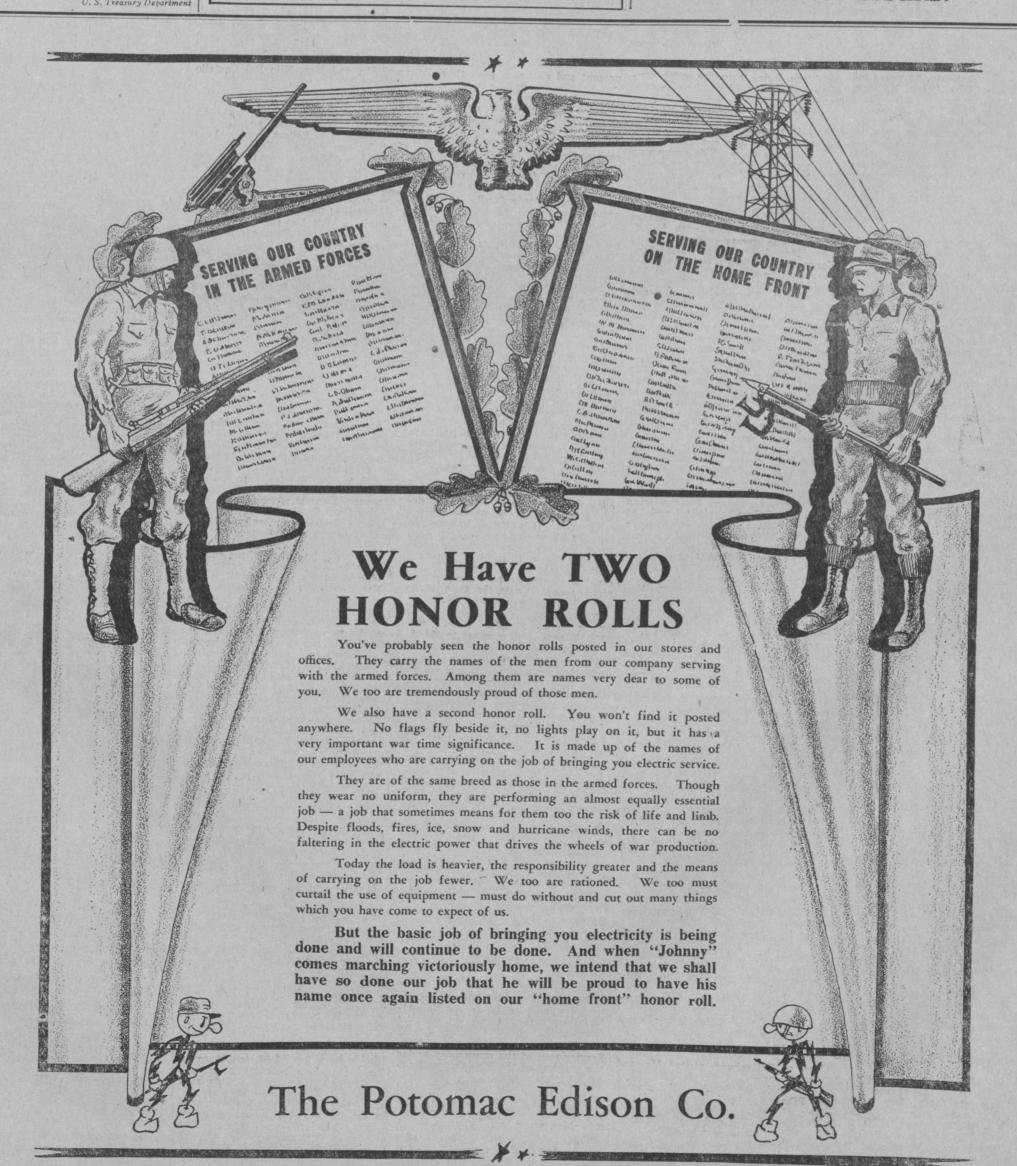

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

We were sorry to miss the union service at the Brethren Church in Union Paid and the Brethren Church in Union Bridge, where Rev. Colwell of the Methodist church preached the sermon. There seemed to be less travel (gas-rationing) and fewer vis-

Bohn conducted the Devotionals, the choir sang, "It is good to give Thanks"; then Rev. Paul F. Warner was introduced and gave a very interesting talk from his 17 years of Missionary work in Japan; showing pictures of natives, including his first convert-whom later he united in marriage; also a book of Psalms and Hymn Book in Japaneses language was passed around—but no one read aloud from them. The thankofferings were received and countedto the accompaniment of congregational singing—equaled $57.00. Most kindly thanks are due Rev. Warner who has lent assistance to many churches in the county since located

Our neighbors, Wilhide and Wolfe, butchered fat hogs last week; that are now fried down or cured, everything put away and all cleaned up, and happy over results, and work well

This Sunday morning there will be communion service at Mt. Union, delayed because of the pastors illness in the Fall. It is so good to have him take up his work again, and we hope for a full attendance. The program for the Thankoffering was arranged while he was in the Hospital so he could not be present on Sunday eve-ning because it was the time of his preaching service at Baust Church.

The proceeds from the chicken and oyster supper at Mt. Union was $163.17; expenses amounted to $54.48; leaving a balance of $108.69-for which we give thanks.

The highest loads of baled hay are being hauled through our town; so somebody is at work—some where.

On Dec. 1, 1816, Gas was first used for lighting and "Baltimore has the honor of being the first city on this continent to illuminate its thoroughfares with gas. Municipal light was turned on in Baltimore one hour after sunset; the lamp lighters hurrying with their little ladders from lamp-post to lamp post, and touching lamp-post to lamp post, and touching off each jet by hand. But it was not until after 1840 that gas was used to any extent in the lighting of private homes. Even then it was available in but four cities: Baltimore Boston, New York and Philadelphia, Home made candles, remained the Home-made candles remained stand-by of the country at large."

REMEMBER THE LAW

An increase in illegal cutting of Christmas greens such as holly, laurel, mistletoe, etc., has prompted the Department of State Forests and Parks to bring to the attention of the public the Sate law concerning the cutting of trees and shrubs.

This law makes it illegal to cut, trim, or mutilate any tree, shrub, or vine on the property of another without written permission from the prop-The violation of this law is pun-

War or No War, Youngsters Keep Faith in St. Nich

Throughout this nation, letters from kiddies are beginning to pour into the post offices. They eventually turn up at the postmasters' desks, for they are addressed:

Santa Claus North Pole

In New York city, San Francisco, New Orleans, Chicago and hundreds of other cities such addressed letters turn up-all testifying that, war or no war, the simple and faithful children have put their trust in Santa Claus.

Such letters as the one following are the kind that postmasters, calling upon local charities, and individuals, try to have answered on Christmas morning:

"Dear Santa Claus—I am writing to you because I am scared that you will miss me like you did last year. I have five sisters and four brothers, and they would like something for Christmas too. Mama hasn't got enough money to buy us anything and daddy has light, grocery and other bills to pay.

"Santa, we all hope and pray that you can get to our house. We live on the second floor.

"Mary G-

Betsy

The little girl tugged gently at her mother's sleeve "Now, Mother?" she asked. "Now can't we write my letter?"

"Why, of course, Betsy," Mrs. Carson grinned. "Are you going to write it or am I?"

"Well," Betsy said. "Maybe vou'd better kind of say it to me. Only I'd love to write it."
"All right, then, Miss Cayson, take a letter," her mother said, waiking slowly up and down the room "Ready? 'Dear Mr. Morgenthau' The way I save money for War Stamp buying is to steer all the small buying is to steer all the small household jobs toward my daughter, who is eight years old.

tory when paid to her.

"Now make a list, Betsy. 'Windows washed, 60 cents. Apples picked from under the tree, 25 cents. Emptied trash cans, 4 cents. Sold string beans from the garden.
15 cents. Sold strips of spoiled film to children for sungazing, at one cent a yard, 20 cents. Total, $1.24. Yours helpfully, I hope,'—and then I'll sign it at the bottom."

Betsy was puffing like a grampus from her labors. The tall, painstak-ing letters tottered bravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely across the sheet of paper. Gravely Mrs. Carson took the pen to sign.

"Mother, would it be the proper etiquette if I signed it too?"

"Perfectly proper, I think," Mrs. Carson said without a smile, and handed the pen back to Betsy.

The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!

This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars from secumulated savings and idle funds in the next several weeks as an essenstal part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.

During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are concributing their time and effort - without compensation of any kind-to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obrain from the new Victory 2x's-available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.

Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.

But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world-at a good rate of interest.

When the Victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him-and to invest.

MA SAWYER sewed the final stitch in the Christmas turkey while she kept her ear "peeled" for the postman's step. Still, she actually dreaded his coming lest he bring another card of loving regrets like the one received yesterday from their son Fred. Even four grown boys did not dispel the possibility of a lonely Christmas for Ma and

She answered the double ring, and forced a smile as she waved Ben's card at Pa. "He can't make it, neither. None of them ever yet mailed a card unless they wasn't coming.

When she came out, Pa asked mildly, "You ain't gittin' a cold, are

When Ma left her tree decorations to throw a log in the stove, the crimson glow might have shown Pa the lines of fearful doubt on her round face. But he had just wasted another match on his pipe. "Suppose neither Jim nor Billy can come?" ran through Ma's tortured mind

At quarter to four, she wished the letter carrier a merry Christmas and hurried back, her hands filled with cards. This was the last mail. If neither son had written, it would mean both boys would arrive about six, laden with mysterious bundles. Then Ma spied Jim's bold writing in its usual purple ink. There was a special message for his parents and a five-dollar bill.

"The spruce trimmings look fine, Pa," she said. "I won't think of the mess when it dries, for Billy does set such store by Christmas. And coming on Sunday this year, it will give them an extra day to stay." A peal of the bell interrupt-"It's Billy, got off a little early," she called as she hurried to the door.

The postman beamed, because he didn't know that Ma's expectant smile was not for him. "Overlooked this before, Mrs. Sawyer."

Silently Ma passed the card to Pa after her own swift perusal. The simplest greeting in Billy's careless scrawl, "Sorry we can't make it." "Well, I s'pose everything is for the best, Pa. What with all I've cooked, it wouldn't do any harm to invite poor Miss Coombs over.

Pa packed his pipe slowly. "You sure hanker after work, Ma," he sighed.

"We might as well cut into the ham and cake. That'll be enough."

"You ain't eating before six? "Might's well. I'm starved," she lied. Four boys and all alone for Christmas! Not one of them able to come home. A short, clipped ring of the bell. Fred's present, perhaps Billy's, too. "Express package," sang a man's voice. But the thought of a square brown box held no thrills for Ma. It was her brown square-shouldered son she wanted as she opened the

Three children stamped the snow from their feet, and before Ma reached the kitchen Billy's wife had deposited the woolly clad baby on Pa's lap. And then Ma found herself folded within Billy's spacious overcoat with its smell of tobacco and crisp fresh air. "Ha-ha! Expressman, huh?" roared Billy, relinquishing Ma with a kiss. "Didn't expect us so early, did you? Didn't hope for such good luck when we wrote. You got our thing about having shopping to do. But you read it, Ma." "Yes, yes, of course I read it, Billy. I—"

"Ma!" He caught her hand. "Say, you're not catching cold, are you? Good grief, Ma, you're not crying?" His arms were about her

"Crying? Nonsense, you silly boy. But onions is onions even at Christmas," said Ma.

CORPORAL McNew laid his whiskers on the window sill. It wasn't, he thought, military duty to play the role of Santa Claus at the garrison Christmas party. He couldn't, however, disobey his commanding officer. Nor did he want to after hearing about that vacancy for a corporal at the recruiting office in Kansas City. McNew had been born there, Marianne lived there now and only yesterday he'd heard that Marianne had been seen with a fireman.

The colonel, though, had made his role more difficult. "Er—" he'd drummed on the table with his fingers, "-I want you especially to convince my son. Make him be-lieve that Santa Claus is really magic. My son is—er—fascinated by anything in the electrical line. He's been-er-quite disturbing. I've told him that Santa only gives presents to good boys. If you can encourage his belief, it'd help the regiment and-me."

He'd have to be a perfect Santa Claus, McNew thought. Sonny was very skeptical.

"Hello." Peeping in the window he saw the object of his worries, accompanied by the regimental mascot—Henry, the goat. McNew slipped into a closet. Too late, he remembered his whiskers. The goat, as the regiment had learned, had an appetite. McNew's fears were confirmed when he emerged from the closet. The whiskers were gone, and he heard Sonny giggling, "I bet Santa Claus ain't magic enough to grow more whiskers. I bet he ain't magic at all. Dad doesn't know everything. Say, Henry, I wonder if Santa Claus can see in the dark. I know how to turn off the switch-'

Tiny lights gleamed about his whiskers.

McNew sighed. Soldiers were supposed to be ingenious. McNew remembered some cotton fields nearby.

The band played a traditional Christmas carol. Corporal McNew stood beside a gaily decorated tree and began to distribute gifts to the children of the regiment. He called out Sonny's name. Then the lights went out.

He took a step backwards as tiny lights gleamed about his whiskers. Fireflies must have made their homes on the abandoned cotton he had plucked. McNew stepped on a package, stumbled and grabbed the tree for support. He caught a branch. Out of the darkness, he heard Sonny's voice: "Yes, Santa, here I am. "Here-" McNew tried to hand the boy the package containing the electric train. A firefly rested on his whiskers. "Here, Santa Claus carries his own lights, you know.' "Is it magic?" asked Sonny. "And you grew more whiskers-' McNew stumbled again, reached for support. The branch cracked and broke. Falling, he caught Sonny's hand. "Here!" The lights went on. Sonny fled down the steps and McNew saw that the colonel was comforting a weeping boy. A corporal who'd given the colonel's son a switch for a Christmas gift would never be recommended for a recruiting job in his home town. The annual event at last over, McNew painfully removed the cotton from his chin. His suffering was in vain.

The colonel wanted to see him. McNew hurried. His chin was sore and red, but he managed a salute. "Yes, sir."

"Did you ever act the part of Santa Claus before?" "No, sir." McNew suppressed a

"Um-maybe that explains the fireflies and the switch." There was a curious note in the colonel's voice. McNew struggled to explain, but the colonel interrupted: "I hear you want that recruiting job in Kansas City. Under the circumstances, I've decided to recommend you. Sonny wants to visit his grandmother there and you can take care of him on the journey. His grandmother thinks that Sonny is a good boy. I expect you to-er-continue to be resource-

"Yes, sir." But McNew sighed. He wondered if snow could be used to advantage by a resourceful soldier in charge of an equally ingenious boy.

THE MEANING OF CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Colossians 3:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.—I Corinthians 12:27.

Church membership means a great deal; a fact which has been obscured by the prevalent idea that joining the church is just like joining any other organization. We need to be reminded again and again that the local or denominational organization has real meaning only as it represents in the world a fellowship of true believers who, by the new birth, have become part of the living and true church, which is the body of which Christ is the Head.

It is likewise essential that believers know what their membership in the church means, so that they may fully appreciate it and properly present it to the world.

I. A New Life (vv. 1-3).

The church member is (or should be) a Christian, that is, one who has passed from death to life through the regenerating work of God in Christ (John 3:6, 7). Thus he has become "a new creature; old things have passed away; behold all things are become new" (II Cor. 5:17).

This new spiritual being has entirely changed interests and desires. The things of the world which he used to love have now become distasteful to him. The things of the Spirit which used to seem strange and not understandable to him (I Cor. 2:14) now become the center of his life. Being risen with Christ in newness of life he seeks those things which are above.

II. A Changed Life (vv. 4-13). Setting one's heart upon things above means that the life will be changed. There will be a putting off of the things of earth and a putting on of the new man, in practice as well as in creed.

Although the Christian is a new creature in Christ, he bears with him until he dies (or Jesus comes) the old nature, which tries to hold him down, to draw him back to the worldly and fleshly things from which he was saved.

But the Christian is to "make no provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts thereof" (Rom. 13:14). He is rather to "reckon" himself "to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive into God through Jesus Christ our Lord."

This calls for an act of his will (and a repeated or continuous act) by which he puts away the sinful things mentioned in verses 5-9. One might sum them up in two groups: (1) sexual indecency and immorality (v. 5), and (2) wicked words and attitudes (vv. 8, 9). The early church had no corner on such sins. They mar Christian fellowship now. They ought not do so, for the church member should show the new life of the soul by a changed life before his fellowman.

III. A Gracious Life (vv. 14-17). Too often, following Christ-and church membership—has not seemed attractive to the unbeliever, nor has it recommended the grace of God, because it has been a sad, unpleasant, negative thing which God never intended it to be.

To the average non-Christian (rightly or wrongly), the matter of being a Christian seems to be a rather drab affair of denying one's self the interesting and pleasant things of life. Those who feel that way have never seen the real thing, for if they had, they would sense (even though they could not understand it) that here was the fulfillment of all that is best in life.

The purpose and plan of God for man is that he should be in fellowship with Him, and thus to be set free from the limitations and the disappointments of human life apart from God. The normal life of the Christian is one of love, peace, joy, fellowship, praise and thankfulness. Let us make it just that in this world of hatred, war, sorrow, division, weeping and ingratitude.

This portion of Scripture merits a closer examination. Note first that love (use "love" for charity in v. 14) is the bond which unites these Christian graces into a whole which is harmonious and well-balanced.

Naturally, the peace of Christ will be the ruling factor in such a life, controlling the heart, the seat of man's emotions and affections.

Such a life is cultivated and developed by the indwelling of God's Word and (note it) "richly." The weakness of many a church is found right here—there is so little teaching and receiving of the Word into the heart.

Christian faith expresses itself in song. "Thou hast put gladness in my heart" (Ps. 4:7), and that means a song. How true it is that hymns and songs teach and admonish us.

The life of the Christian church member is always conditioned by one perfect controlling influencethe will of God. He does all things, even the supposedly little or secular things, in the name of the Lord Jesus, with a constant thankfulness which goes up like a sweet incense to the Father through Christ.

Tire Engineers Give Tips on Care of Tires

If your tire goes flat on you this summer, either through a blowout, puncture, or other cause, stop just as swiftly as you can, and stay stopped until the tire is changed!

That is the advice of tire engineers, a friendly tip to motorists during the critical tire shortage caused by the war.
Why is this?

It is because the almost priceless casing, in these days of no new tires, may be damaged beyond re-pair if driven flat, even though the distance traveled is only a few hundred feet.

Stop, and you have a good chance to save the tire, have it repaired, and keep the automobile operating. Run on it while it is flat, the cords and fabric will rupture, no repair be possible, and the car may have to be laid up. So, either change the tire yourself, then and there, or call a service station or garage to do it for you. Even the extra expense will pay if you can save the tire and have it repaired for further mileage, engineers point out.

Don't take off the tire and drive on the rim!

These engineers say that such a practice may bend or scar the rim badly, it may even crack or dent the brake drum. Repairing or replacing these parts in war-time is difficult, might be impossible, and this too, might result in putting the car out of service.

Weeds Outlawed in Two Great Metropolitan Cities

Weeds which spread hay fever and otherwise menace health are outlawed as public nuisances in New York and Chicago by two stringent ordinances passed for these cities recently, the American Municipal association reported.

The New York measure empowers the city board of health to name period during which owners, lessees or occupants of property must destroy all ragweed on their premises; if they do not comply, the sanitation department is to remove the weeds and assess the property owner for the costs.

An educational campaign will accompany first enforcement of the law this summer with the objective of securing co-operation of nearby towns in an anti-ragweed program.

The Chicago ordinance is directed toward eradication of all noxious weeds and orders them to be pulled out and destroyed-not merely cut down. Owners, lessees, tenants, occupants or persons in control of the ground where the weeds grow are responsible for destroying them.

The weeds must be eradicated at least twice a year, once between July 1 and 15 and once between August 1 and 15.

Persons failing to comply with the ordinance will be fined from $5 to $200 for each day the weeds are allowed to stand. These fines will be put aside for a special weed eradication program.

Strategic Jap Base The Louisiade islands, were a Japanese fleet was reported, are so situated that forces based there can strike at various important objectives in the southwest Pacific.

A scattering of more than 80 big and little islands off the southeast tip of New Guinea, the Louisiades are about 400 air miles from Port Moresby; some 600 miles from the nearest point on Australia's northeast coast, and a little over 900 miles from the American-occupied, "Free French" island of New Caledonia. With Port Moresby to the northwest, the Australian coast to the southwest, and New Caledonia to the southeast, this group thus overlooks United Nations' supply and communication lines, not only from across the Pacific, but also between the Allied positions in the immediate vicinity.

Household Cement Repairing

Now that household economy is universally essential, broken china or glass calls for expert mending that will put it back into service. A type of household cement that is transparent, flexible and waterproof, is said to hold firmly through countless immersions in hot water. It is easy to apply, quick-drying, and permits repairs that show scarcely a sign of the break.

The cement, which comes in a handy tube, is useful also for fixing loose chair rungs, torn luggage, scuffed shoes, metal connections, broken spectacles, toys, and many other repair jobs. Hobbyists, too, have found it helpful for such handicraft as making airplane models, or preparing scrapbooks.

For 1943 Auto Licenses

Windshield stickers will be used to renew Oregon's 192 automobile license plates for 1943, the Federation of Tax Administrators reported. Only purchasers of new vehicles and new state residents will receive plates which, the secretary of state estimates, will require about 10 per cent of the steel used for 1942

Nine other states—Arizona, California, Idaho, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma, Utah and Wisconsin-are reported as also considering the use of decalcomania stickers for 1943 license renewals.

States choosing to renew plates for next year are limited to four square inches of metal for date tags Prioritanake the Hen

Go Back to Work Again AKRON.-Add notes on "business resulting from the war": The little red hen is back at work brooding her flock again.

Officials of the B. F. Goodrich company, which for several years has been supplying a large part of the rubber for artificial "mother hens" used in rearing young chicks, revealed here that the government regards the use of rubber for these modern brooders as "nonessential" and has banned its further use.

That tosses the mothering business right back into the hen's lap -or under it.

A lobster was flirting with an oyster. Another lady oyster asked her what happened.

"Well," replied the first oyster, "first he put his claws around me. Then he kissed me-and then, Heavens, my pearls!"

Operations on all fronts against the Axis are progressing favorably, Secretary of War Stimson said. He summarized the situation as follows:

(1) The Germans have failed in all of their main objectives for the year in Russia and will have to withdraw from wide areas unless they can stop the Russian counter-offensive. (2) The Allies are building up strong assault forces in Tunisia to oust the Axis, but the enemy there will "offer strong resistance." (3) American and Australian troops have cornered substantial numbers of Japanese troops between Gona and Buna in New Guinea. (4) Although weather conditions make extensive activity difficult in the Aleutians, American fliers are doing everything possible fliers are doing everything possible to harass the enemy.

Navy Secretary Knox said it is unlikely the Japanese can get reinforcements into Guadalcanal. Australian troops, advancing on Buna, have smashed Japanese counterattacks, while Allied bombers blasted enemy gun nests and mortar emplacements. while Allied bombers blasted enemy gun nests and mortar emplacements, Gen. MacArthur's New Guinea head-quarters reported November 28. Japanese naval forces, however, despite heavy losses, have landed "strong, fresh reinforcements" on the Buna-Gona beachhead. Earlier Allied airmen sank two and probably three troop-laden destroyers and definitely sank one other destroyer and two smaller vessels. smaller vessels.

Communiques during the week reported Allied forces in North Africa destroyed 100 Axis planes and 21 medium tanks at the cost of nine Allied planes destroyed and four damaged. In 1943 there will only be 30 million tires, including recaps, available for automobiles, compared with a normal demand of 48 million tires. "If all goes well," Mr. Jeffers said, "we should be able to allocate important quantities of rubber for the manufacture of civilian tires in the early months of civilian tires in the early months of 1944. Thus, if there is no hitch in the program, we should be able in the program, we should be able in 1944 to replace in a large measure the automobile tires now in use on the 27 million passenger cars and the 5 million trucks operating in the United States."

War Secreary Stimson announced Army furloughs will be granted be-tween December 12 and January 12 to no more than 10 percent of the en-listed strength of any camp or station at any one time. Mr. Stimson said many young officers have been transferred from Washington jobs to combat duty, and they will continue to be transferred until at least two-thirds of the officers on duty in Washington will be men more than 35. Selective Service Director Hershey instructed all local draft boards to refuse release for enlistment of essential aircraft or shipbuilding workers—registrants employed in these industries who are or should be classified in class 2-B or 3-B. War Manpower Chairman McNutt announced that a comprehensive list of "essenthat a comprehensive list of "essential" occupations has been prepared to guide Selective Service boards in determining occupational deferment and to aid the U.S. Employment Service in deciding activities having a prior claim on a worker available for placement.

The Office of War Information reported that approximately 15 million U.S. women—less than 23 percent of the total female population—are now gainfully employed. 4 million of them in the war iobs. Get mad and fight. It is not right That we should be attacked on sight By those whose arrogance and greed Helped them by treachery to succeed. We shall not forget for a while Pearl Harbor attack—Japanese guile With outstretched hand, with smile they came With sealed orders received at home They came, not as a friend, but foe. But from now on they'll feel our blow We can be friends, when friends we meet

We can be foes quite hard to beat;
So say we all in this our plight,
Go to it men; Get Mad and Fight.
