MEMORIAL DAY

Plans Announced for Exercises and Dedication

The plans, partly announced in last weeks issue, for the Memorial Day observance in Taneytown have been completed and give promise of an event fully in keeping with the high order of exercises in the past. At 1:00 P. M. the citizens and participating organizations will gather at the Soldiers Monument, where the honor roll of the present World War II will be dedicated with appropriate exercises.

At 1:30 the parade will form on the Uniontown road and move directly to the Reformed cemetery. Decora-tion of the graves with flags and flowers will be attended to in advance by a delegation from the American Legion and others.

Groups in line will be the National Guard, the American Legion, two companies of Minute Men, Service organizations, Lodges and school children. Two bands, the Jr. I. O. O. F. Band and the W. F. Myers Band, of Westminster, will furnish the

At the Reformed cemetery the program for the day will be rendered, in charge of Merwyn C. Fuss, when the address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Allen S. Meck, pastor of First Trinity Reformed Church, of York, Pa.

EXERCISES AT HARNEY

The annual memorial service of Harney, Md., will be held on Saturday evening, May 27, beginning with parade which will move to the St. Paul's Lutheran cemetery, then to the Sunrise United Brethren cemetery then back to the United Brethren Church, where the main service will be held. The parade will assemble on the playgrounds of the Harney school, at 6:30 p. m.

The Taneytown Junior I. O. O. F. Band will furnish music for the parade and after the Memorial Service in the U. B. Church the band will render a concert on the lawn of the U. B. Church. If the weather will not permit an open-air program for the band then the Lutheran Social Hall will be used for the festival folowing the memorial service.

There will be special musical numbers on the program and the speaker will be Mr. Harold Lutz, telegraph editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun. He is one of the outstanding editors of the Baltimore Sun and comes as an outstanding Christian leader in the United Brethren Church. He is the president of the Brotherhood of the Pennsylvania U. B. Conference. The public is cordially invited to

C. E. MEETING AT KEYSVILLE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Miss Mildred Stull is the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Keysville Lutheran Church, at 8 P. M., on this Sunday evening, May 28th. The topic for the evening is "The Holy Spirit—Yesterday and Today." As this is Pentecost—the birthday of the church, there will be a birthday cake. Each person present will receive a piece of cake with a verse of Scripture.

The meeting will be started with the choir in a candlelight procession singing, "Follow the Gleam". This is to be followed by an anthem by the choir. Misses Thelma and Louise Roop, Miss Anna Mae Kiser and Miss Doris Wilhide will sing, "Beyond The while the other candles are being lighted. The congregation will join in on the last two verses of "Beyond the Sunset." Mrs. Roy Kiser will read the scripture. Mrs. Mervin Conover will offer prayer. Two solos will be offered by Miss Arlene Naylor accompanied on the piano by her sister, Janice. Miss Mary Shriver, of Taneytown will be present and will render selections on the accordion. Mrs. Carroll Valentine will play a piano solo during the lifting of the offering. A musical selection from one of the Earl Roop family will be offered. It is a great pleasure to announce that Mr. Harry B. Fogle will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited to attend this Christian Endeavor meeting.

The date for the Keysville Luther-an Children's Day Service is June 11, in the evening.

HEALTH FOR VICTORY CLUB MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Health for Victory Club was held on Thursday, May 25, in the Home Service Hall of the Potomac Edison Co.

Miss Mary M. Meehan, Home Service Advisor and "Home Fred P. vice Advisor, used "Home Food Preservation" as her subject. She urged everyone to grow vegetables for their own use during the summer and to preserve a supply for the family's use next winter. Much food will continue to be needed to supply our nation's needs. Food was canned during the meeting by three different methods. Quick freeze method was explained and food prepared for the frozen locker. Booklets explaining every detail of canning, drying, brining, dehydration, and freezing were distributed at the close of the meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL END YEAR'S WORK

Class Day and Commencement Will be Chief Activities

The Taneytown High School has completed the programs for class day and for commencement which will follow next week. Class day will be observed tonight (Friday), at 8 P. M., with the rendering of a program in two parts, with musical interlude in the school auditorium. The first part will be a wedding, a comedy in one act, in which James Teeter will act as the bridegroom, Paul Sut-cliffe will be bestman, Martha Mess-ler will be the bride, Francis Staley will be groomsman, Hazel Weant the bride's mother and Jean Mohney the bride's aunt.

The musical interlude will consist of a quartet by Herbert Bowers, George Null, Francis Staley and Jas. Teeter; a trumpet solo by Francis Staley, and a second number by the quartet

Part two of the program will comprise the class song, class poem by Agnes Zentz, class history by George Null; class prophecy by Iona Hiner, Mary Smith and Herbert Bowers; class will by June Brown; presenta-tion of key by Herbert Bowers and acceptance by William Rittase; pre-sentation of class picture by the president, Herbert Bowers, and acceptance by Principal Showers; and the closing feature will be the farewell song.

The graduating exercises will be held next Wednesday evening at 8 P. M., when a class of 36 consisting of 21 girls and 15 boys will receive their diplomas from Superintendent Raymord S. Hyson. The address to the class will be delivered by Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore. James Teeter and Mary Francis Six will give resumes of school activities and Mrs. Olive E. Martin, president of the Parent-teachers Association will present the activities medal; Principal George N. Shower will present awards.

There will be singing by the school by a girls' chorus and a trio by Misses Hitchcock, Kiser and Alexander.
Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe will give the invocation, and Rev. Thurlow Null will pronounce the benediction.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CARROLL COUNTY

While it is true the County Commissioners have employed us to pick up dogs now, we are spending every cent of their money and more trying to do a good job quickly to protect you. The Humane Society wants to go on and were it not for the gas shortage we would try to get to each and every one of you and explain our work more clearly. Any animal you feel is being mistreated, if reported to us we will investigate

No officers of the Society are paid but running expenses must be met so we need your help badly. Let us try to build a Society equal to that of Baltimore County. This can not be done in a day but at least we can make a good start. Some people are under the impression we receive money collected for dog tags. This is not so. We are not connected with the county; we are an organization to ourselves. I make this statement because I have so many ocmplaints we are not doing our duty. I am told, "we have bought our licenses, we pay our taxes, we should have protection Everyone must understand in these war times many dogs can not be fed, so people dump them in the county or they roam around hunting food. every family will become a member and let the children join us too we will be able to give you the protection you want.

Mail contributions to the treasurer, Mr. L. Awalt Weller, Willis Street, Westminster, Md. He will send you a membership certificate.

To Mrs. Bolling Barton, President of the Humane Society of Baltimore County, we owe a debt of gratitude for her personal generous support. DETROIT LETTER Conditions Existing in That City

This is one of the times that I find it hard to think of anything to write about, unless I use the old subjects as bases for my observations about the events that are daily occurring in this city. So, we will start by telling you that the greatest strike (and strikes are surely among the things that we have been writing about) is on a fair way to be settled, for the time being, at least. We refer to the strike of the Foremen in a number of the large factories, which threw nearly 75,000 men out of work, and, which coming at a time when The primary business to follow is the selection of five clerical and five lay delegates with as many alternates to represent the Synod at the General Synod of the denomination which opens in York, Pa., June 21 and continues for a week.

The officers of the Synod will present we cannot see that anything was and threw hearly 75,000 men out of work, and, which coming at a time when every one is waiting for the arrival of the day on which the great invasion of Hitler's present occupied countries, is to strike, drew a very much deserved rebuke from the commander of the Air Corps. At present we cannot see that anything was ent, we cannot see that anything was gained, and it seems as if, like a great many other strikes, it was called to merely show the strength and power of the newly organized branch of the CIO, which, in our opinion, is, through its racketeer leaders, a mighty close ally of our enemies.

Some of the factories have already reopened, while others are intending to do the same the beginning of this week, and still others are still hold-ing out. You can estimate yourselves approximately how many man hours have been lost, while almost every radio announcer is begging men and women to leave their present non-essential jobs and engage in war work, during the past week of strike waves. We have said many times before that the thing to be done, while the war lasts, is to induct all strikers into the army, and this latest outbreak has not changed our minds the least bit. Outside of the matter of strikes, we suppose that the next important thing that is disturbing the minds of the politicans at least, is the nearing of the Primary dates, on the ballots which are then to be used, is the largest number of names that we can remember, of those who feel that this state is going to the dogs unless they its pastor and a lay delegate. Duly ordained ministers in the area who are retired or in other work are also fice to which they think they are most fitted to fill. And we note that some who are now under indictment in the current bribery investigation have the gall to again come before the people for what they call vindication. A surprising thing about it all is the number of names formerly listed among New Deal nominees that now appear on the Republicanhists. It goes to show that political ties are much looser than in most places, and that, maybe, they think the best thing to do is to change, either to escape being "picked on," or that they want to be on the winning side next Fall. We noticed mention of about a dozen such names in last Sunday's Free Press.

And now a little about another familiar subject—the weather. We ey, received order to pay funeral ex- have had a very nice Spring, and farmers, War Gardeners and truckers are way ahead with their work, con-trasted with this time of the season year ago. We certainly can be thankful that we were not visited with such floods as people to the East, South and West of us, were. In one of these Eastern papers we saw that in some sections of the east, the wa-ters rose to such a height that they were second only to the floods that destroyed Johnstown, in 1889, something that we remember very well.

Of course we have no such large rivers in Michigan as you folks in Maryland and Pennsylvania have, and the Monocacy at its lowest point is as large as what they call rivers out

Here is something that surely sur-prises us. One of the companies that s engaged in war work has been penalized for paying higher wages than is thought proper by the War Labor (Continued on Fourth Page)

MEMORIAL DAY

On Tuesday the nation will again observe Memorial Day, which has grown to be one of the outstanding days of the year. Not simply a holiday, but to many almist a holy day. Instituted to be a time for tribute to those who preserved the union in the sixties of the last century, it has so appealed to the public that now we pay our tributes of love to the veterans of all our wars, and besides, we strew flowers on the graves of our departed friends and loved ones, whether they were engaged in war

The fact is that we have come to appreciate the upward struggles and the uplifts of peace time as much as the noble deeds of warriors. And we have learned to appreciate more the average man. The common people, as they are often spoken of, are the people who have built up this nation, and brought about the advancement of the modern world. Leaders have had their place, and our heroes have set the pace, but the average man has stood in the thick of the fight, whether military, or merely civic, social and industrial.

So let the day be observed at Gettysburg, and Arlington, but in thousands of cities, towns, villages and even country communities as well. Let there be appropriate exercises, and let some one with a clear conception of the meaning of the day, speak by way of remembrance, and for the purpose of stimulation, and to guide others to clear thinking and largery because the mustry is bitterly opposed to the undertaking of parlargery because the mustry is bittercombination—golden flakes of wheat and bran plus seedless raisins put you not only the dead, but we thus honor ourselves. To forget is to bring lasting shame upon ourselves, and to set an unworthy example for those who follow us.

And let Tuesday be a day of dedication. Lincoln said at Gettysburg, "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us." They were honoring men who died to preserve the Union, to continue government of the people and by the people, to preserve and defend the Constitution. And the need for such defense was never clearer than today. The attack on liberty has assumed different form, and is more insidious, but it is tiercer than over. The need for the hour is clear vision, whole-hearted dedication, and inflexible fidelity. As we garland the graves of heroes of the past, hear the challenge, "Who follows in their train?"

FRONTIER OF DREAMERS

Some time ago in an article in this column we discussed the return of service men to civilian life after this war, and pointed out that following other great wars in which this country has been involved there were territorial frontiers which could be, and were opened up, and in some measure satisfied the restlessness which filled the souls of men who were returning to question. the quiet, even tenor of life after having spent many months under the tension of ways of living which were Appeals at Philadelphia, is now bedifferent from any they had ever known. The tian Science Monitor. ability of our geological frontiersmen to push deeper and deeper into this subterranean frontier means that tofay we can tap oil which even ten years ago would have been not only naccessible, but actually unknown.

"As we delve deeper we discover new riches. Already such penetration of the subterranean frontier has given mankind not only millions of horsepower locked in petroleum, but also great quantities of natural gas and other valuable products, such as nelium and sulphur. We may even obtain useful amounts of hot water! It is not unreasonable to imagine, in some future time, our large cities heated by hot water from the bowels of the earth as public buildings in

For many years scientists have dreamed of and experimented with methods of obtaining heat from the sun and other sources, but so far as is known not much attention has been given to heat from the bowels of the earth. The idea does not seem so impractical as might at first thought appear. Anyway, few real advancements are made without the dream of someone as the starter. Moreover, what wind of country would this be without the dreamers? The only reason we are able to enjoy most of the things which we have today which make life more agreeable is because the dreams of dreamers have come true.—County Record, Towson.

NEW CAR PRODUCTION

For the first time since we entered the war, the government and passenger car manufacturers have gotten together to discuss resumption of new car production. The first of a zens. Such an unfortunate situaplanned series of meetings on this all mportant subject was held in mid- plete breakdown of the price control well that we are now scraping the bottom of the barrel as far as the stock pile of cars frozen after Pearl Harbor is concerned. The eliminaion of this stock pile will bring us face to face with the difficult problems of used car rationing and ceilings on used car prices.

There has been some talk of getting the automobile industry to produce a limited number of cars for rationing to the most essential users, but this idea has been abandoned largely because the industry is bitterto resolute action. Do it, "lest we tial production. What the industry in tune. Ask for Post's Raisin Bran. forget!" To remember is to honor asks of the government is to help clear the deck for reconversion and speedy production as soon as the progress of the war will permit them to get the green light. It asks the government to do several things:

(a) To make provision for quick removal of government inventories and machinery from automobile

(b) To permit the industry to start purchasing vitally needed machine tools:

(c) To start purchasing samples of materials for experimentation purposes because some of the materials they used before the war will not be available and

(d) To effect the speedy liquidation of contracts.

Although nothing definite was done at this first meeting, we can feel encouraged in the knowledge that the subject of new car production is receiving consideration. - Maryland Motorist.

CORRECT ABUSES NOW

The Price Control Act expires June 30. Before it is renewed, it should be amended to correct faults that weaken price and rationing control, by creating public opposition. Under the act as it now stands, OPA lawyers have managed to deny private citizens the right of appeal to the courts of the nation for relief from OPA officials, in effect, claim that inflation control is more important than personal liberty, apparently assuming that both cannot exist together.

Congress should immediately correct this dangerous drift toward oppression. As the Smith Committee charged with investigating executive agencies, warns: "The Office of Price Administration has assumed unauthorized powers to legislate by regulation and has, by misinterpretation of acts of Congress, set up a nationwide system of judicial tribunals through which this executive agency judges the actions of American citi-

AMERICAN HEROES

Wounded in the back by a shell fragment from heavy enemy submarine fire, Charles Richardson, Able Seaman, Merchant Marine, went to the rescue of two severely wounded Navy members when the abandon ship order was given. During the rescue he defended himself and his helpless companions from sharks. He was able to save one of the crew and himself. Decrease the dangers of these men; buy War Bonds and hold 'em.

Boost The Carroll Record

At the top of every War Bond you buy are these words: "The United States promises to pay . . ."

These may not sound like such brave words. But actually they are the hope of the world!

HEY ARE a promise by the country to its citi-L zens, but also a promise by the citizens to the country and to the people of the world; a promise that obligations recognized and accepted will be paid in full.

The millions of us who buy these Bonds, do proudly and solemnly promise:

... that partial victory shall not breed the kind of weakening over-confidence which can rob us of complete victory;

... that unity shall rise above all squabbles, and differences;

... that this war shall be fought through to a finish with all that we have and all that we are;

... that the sacrifices of today, and the larger sacrifices of tomorrow, shall be accepted willingly, in the humble knowledge that they are small when set beside the sacrifices of our men who are fighting;

... that we will not turn our backs on the rest of the world after victory is won; but will reach out the hand of friendship, and assume our proper share of responsibility in seeing that freedom, equality, and orderly justice become possible for all people, everywhere;

* . . . that neither our own fighting men nor any of our allies shall be let down in any way whatsoever now, or in the hard-fighting days to come, or in the peace that will follow victory;

... that we, the people, will dig into our pockets, purses, and savings to make the success of the War Bond program a symbol of our determination.

These things we subscribe to. These things we believe in. These things we promise.

For a change lets not talk about the weather. Mumps are visiting around, not however as severe as sometimes. Walter Eckard, Jr, was a victim at the end of the week. Our youngest citizen, Jimmy Crumbacker has been on the sick list the past few days; a high fever and now a bron-chial cold—but the little tots don't understand what is wrong.

Last week seemed to be one distress—for every day we heard of severe illness or a death. On Sunday afternoon a long procession of cars followed the body of Mrs. John Grimes from the Wright Funeral Parlor in Union Bridge, where services were held, to the cemetery at Haugh's Church for burial. The Church Bulletin gives some interesting statistics as follows: 1 in 100 (illustrated with Many heads of persons) would know that Martin Luther was born in 1483 died in 1546; that from 1619 there were Lutheran services in America by the first Protestant minister in this country; that Gettysburg Seminary was organized in 1826—the oldest Lutheran Seminary in the U.S.; that in 1864 Winters and Baust Churches belonged to the Westminster charge. Winters gave their pastor $100.00, and 11/4 bbls of corn per year. Baust gave $150.00 and 21/2 bbls of corn per year. Rev. Holloway's yearly salary was $600 and 100 bbls of corn. Brief messages are given from some of the boys in service from Union-town parish, donations for the Bulletin and deaths are recorded; and a fine tribute paid to Mrs. Baughman -wife of a former pastor and her daughter and son, George Edward Bowersox, 111 were baptized by his grandfather, in St. Paul's on May 9. On Sunday Mrs. Wilbur Grover, of Perry Hall, Baltimore Co., her sister Mrs. Sadie Clayton with a boarder, Mr. Smth, of Hyde's, Md., were visiting friends in this section, all well and have plenty of work. The description of the unique birthday party of Trinity Church sounds very interesting and amusing. Ehlman's subject was "Knowing our Oriental Allies". The speaker was a student at the University of Nanking and the school of languages at Tokio. He has traveled extensively in Korea, Manchuria, China and Japan. In speaking of the Chinese people he referred to a statement that the four pillars of the Chinese government are courtesy, modesty, integrity and loyalty. He said that from his association with these people he could truthfully state that they fully lived and demonstrated in their lives, the four pillars referred to. He stated that the Chinese have more respect for the American people then the people of any other Nation. They regard Americans as their friend. He contrasted the religion of the Chinese vho are followers of confuscious and of the Japanese whose religion is Buddism, a Militaristic religion, which has been their teachings for many generations. He described the large haval base at Port Arthur, the people and their customs in Korea, Man-churia and Japan. Edward Plunker of Silver Run, played two cornet solos. This was a most interesting meeting and paid anyone well to

The Oil Choke

America's shortage of gasoline for civilian use is becoming actually acute, especially in the East where light fuel for oil-heated homes was them is by deeper cuts into uses at home. In 1943, oil fields of the United States yielded 1.5 billion barrels of crude oil, and new fields discovered will furnish only about one-sixth that much. No relief is in sight; 350,000 barrels daily came out of storage tanks in January, 1944. Oil producers started more than two years ago to warn government authorities of just what is happening now. Then, and for several months later the calamity could have been avoided with a fair increase in the crude oil price, but it was not allowed. Here is the rub: When oil prices were frozen in 1941, the national average was $1.17 a barrel, and now it is $1.20.

Books Show Red Exploratory wells should have been drilled-new fields found. But men can't spend more than they receive. Owners of small wells could have boosted the yield from many of these with sound engineering methods but the money was lacking.

Many wells have been shut down. The argument offered against a higher oil price ceiling is that it would make car owners pay more gasoline. Meanwhile old oil fields are dying by inches. More than 13,000 little oil wells were junked last year because they couldn't be made to pay; 10,000 perished the year before. This should never happen when our flyers need motor fuel.

We Fight Success. It probably delights our enemies to see small, successful, private enterprisers squeezed out of the oil business while the government buys into it with taxpayers' money. It is a trend fundamentally wrong and, right now, dangerous. Up near the Arctic Circle, on Canadian soil, our government has put 135 million dollars in a pipeline and refinery within the last two years. Its practicability is now gravely questioned. even as a peacetime venture. Some say work on it was abandoned, for the long Arctic winter.

The latest government mirage of far-flung oil wealth is on the sands of Arabia. People in a position to know estimate its cost at 150 million dollars. Two years may see it finished. Two years will see the European war over, experts believe, so the Arabian pipeline is no part of the war effort

It's No Secret Congressman H. L. Gavin of Pennsylvania, ably and eloquently told this story in a radio talk on February 14. He had his facts and figures straight. He is probably right that there is plenty of petroleum still under ground in America. I'd like to see oil fields developed at home, near to our aching need for gasoline and heating oil. Legislation to this effect should be enacted by Congress if action is not obtained other-

American planes in all branches of service, trucks and tanks and ocean craft are looking to America for fuel; not to the frozen North nor the arid East. Surely most of the .big money spent by our government now should be hastening victory and peace, not fortifying government in business to cramp and winter. impoverish future generations.

KIWANIS MEETS

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting at clear Ridge Inn, near Uniontown, on Wednesday evening, at 6:30 o'clock, President Clyde L. Hesson presiding. Wallace W. of the evening. Mr. Reigner chose as his subject, "The Shape of Things to Come." He prefaced his address with an historical background, based upon the attitude of the Government and the people of the United States toward the League of Nations immediately following the First World War. quoted part of a letter written by the late Woodrow Wilson just before his death in 1924, to this effect, "America's failure to accept world responsibility means that the job will have to be done over again within the next twenty years and at ten times the

Mr. Reigner assigned three reasons for failure of the United States to become an active member of the League of Nations:

1. Many honest men and women in the United States believed that Article 10 (which guaranteed that the United States together with the other nations who would be members of the League of Nations would be under obligation to use its military power and the resources to enforce and preserve peace in the world) as a one-sided argument.

who were isolationists and therefore opposed to anything savoring of an entangling alliance

The temperament of Woodrow Wilson himself. He knew books better than he knew men. He either a serious problem all winter. War's did not know or would not believe motor fuel demands are increasing, that men generally are influenced and the only apparent way to meet more by feeling than by thinking. America learned from the experience following World War I these three things.

1. We have learned that a re-arrangement of national boundaries does not bring peace.

2. We have learned that peace treaties do not bring peace. The will to have peace does not bring peace. We have grown up in an America which has been materialistic in aspect, concerned with the material viewpoint of things. We have not been interested in those principles or in those organizations which promote the things which really count. We are not willing to admit that we as Americans have nothing to do with the shaping of things to come. We are at the cross-roads of our destiny. The problems of peace will be greater than the problems of war. Counting all puny, scattered price advances in two years, the gain has amounted to 3 cents a barrel while shall return to "normalcy", whatever amounted to 3 cents a barrel while shall return to "normalcy", whatever ployees is indeed a surprise.

We want to thank our friend, W. J. H., for the compliment paid to what the toward our "faithfulness" in keepcosts to get oil are up 60 cents a normalcy may mean. The world barrel. The country needed oil even goes on. We must no fool ourselves will be the world of 1925. Only in America is there today political, economic, religious, or social freedom. In Europe there are no such freedoms. Our problem in the generation to come is to work out a "modus operandi" for friendly smooth relations with others. No Gas—Less Oats

A Democratic congressman from Oklahoma, member of a House sub-committee investigating gasoline ra-tioning practices, cites the experi-ence of a farmer in his state who couldn't sow his oats because two ration boards each contended the other should issue his gas ration.

The farmer has his farmhouse in Pottawatomie county, while most of Pottawatomie county, while most of his land is in Seminole county. So he applied to the Pottawatomie board for gasoline for his tractor, but was told he should go to the Seminole board. The latter board refused the request, telling him he really belonged to Pottawatomie in the first place. the first place.

The buck-passing continued for several days while the farmer, forced to leave his work, used up gasoline shuttling back and forth between the two counties seeking relief. By the time he finally got the gas, he had to give up planting 160 acres of oats in a region where there is an acute feed shortege.

is an acute feed shortage. The congressman told the chief of OPA gasoline rationing enforcement that OPA maladministration is forcing honest citizens into technical violations of OPA rules "so they can get on with the war. Preserve The Bill of Rights!

Seizure by troops at the direction of President Roosevelt of the Montgomery Ward plant in Chicago constituted probably the gravest threat to the Bill of Rights in 150 years.

Discussion of the incident, important as it is to the future of America, cannot be a matter of politics. Senator Harry F. Byrd, a Democrat, in a speech delivered in the United States Senate, voiced the nationwide reaction to an episode characterized as a "dictatorial act of arrogance" and "a colossal blunder."

Vigorously condemning the drastic steps taken by the Roosevelt Administration in the Montgomery Ward case, Senator Byrd declared: "For the first time in the history of our country we witnessed the spectacle of the Attorney General of the United States acting as a generalissimo in personal charge of military forces to seize a non-war husiness coeration."

If Attorney General Biddle can use the armed forces to seize the non-war business of Montgomery Ward without the approval of either congress or the courts, he can seize any plant or business operation, using the same military power whenever such person or a business does something to displease him, or does not immediately obey a directive of one of the numerous bureaus of the federal government.

"... Have we reached a state in this country that the directives of a Federal bureau can be enforced at the point of the bayonet? If the directives of the War Labor Board can be so enforced on a nonwar business operation, then so can the directives issued by the Office of Price Administration, the War Production Board, and the dozens of other Government agencies, with the result that the constitutional right of the citizens of America to adjudication of their rights in the proper court of law will be denied to them. law will be denied to them.

In this instance, Mr. Biddle assumed the position of both the judge and the prosecutor. Are we coming to a Gestapo in this country? Does Francis Biddle cherish the ambition to be an American Himmler?

"... Today the American people are in the hands of a centralized and entrenched bureaucracy such as America has never before known. It is imperative, so as to preserve our freedoms, that we safeguard the rights of the individual citizens to appeal to the courts, and require that differences that may occur between the citizens and any bureau of the Government shall not be settled by military force, but shall be determined by the Congress and the courts."

Marry No Fisherman

By LEALON MARTIN JR.

"CLOSER we get, 'fraider I am of how she'll take it," said

Delphine looked up at his blond tallness. "Me, too," she confessed, and squeezed his hand. For the thought of her mother was still between them. Delphine remembered what she had said and her worry grew. "We'd better be ready for the worst," she told Hans. "You know Mama always said: 'My Delphine, she's never going marry no fisher-man."

Hans looked uncomfortable. "Yeah, I know," he said. "Look, maybe I'd better not go to the house with you. Maybe you better break it alone."

"No." Delphine was firm. "It's best you come now. I want she should know we're not ashamed of what we've done. And I'm proud of my husband, no matter what he has

"Well, I'm not exactly a fisherman now, even if I still own my shrimp boat and jus' leased her."

"Of course not." Delphine tossed the shiny black curls. "And it's time for Mama to know." The shrimp trawlers at the docks faded behind them as they went down the leafy street toward her home. "Mama'll be by herself," Delphine said. 'That's good, though I wish Raoul could be there. He'd side with us."

"Your brother would help," Hans sighed, "but the army's got him too far away."

Delphine's mind was busy. She remembered just how she and Hans had met, that very first time, nearly three years before. She had been in her father's store, helping during school vacation of her senior high school year. The young man had walked in to ask for information. Blond hair, yellow in the slanting sun as he doffed his cap, and tall and fair, with the widest shoulders, Delphine had thought, she'd ever

"My name's Hans Olsen," he said, "and I've come from Florida in my trawler. Heard the shrimping's good over this way. Can you tell me where I can find a boarding place?"

"But yes," she answered him. "Madame Broussard will be glad to have you." And she directed him, walking to the corner to point the way. He'd been back several times. In fact, he'd made it a point to come -and always they found something to talk about. Delphine was sure almost from the start that he liked

And soon the whole town was talking about the young Swede fisherman. One of those East coast shrimpers from Florida, they said, who sure knew how to get the fish way out. A hard worker, too, you bet. More than one Timbalier mama would have been glad to have him come calling. But Hans Ols LeBlew store, where there was Delphine. And Delphine had been glad, oh, so glad! She shuddered, remembering her mother's tirade. Any of her friends' parents would have been happy if this sober, industrious young man appeared to have serious intentions toward their daughters, but not her mama. "Ever since you been big enough to go with boys for the dates," she ranted, "I been afraid this happen. You know why I nevair let you go out with boys from the shrimp boats. Always I don' wan' you marry no fisherman. Look what you get! Nothin' but to be sorry!"

"Yes, Mama." "You know a shrimper, he's nevair make nothin' hardly. When he catch good, he throw away the money gamblin' or somethin'. That had been so unfair to Hans that she'd spoken up: "But, Mama, Hans is not like that. He's different,"

"Different, eh? Non, all shrimpers, they're alike!"

And that had settled that. She couldn't see Hans at home. Their surreptitious meetings had been few and far between, but for her it would always be this tall, fair young man. The months became years. He went back to the Atlantic and she thought him lost forever. But he returned, explaining that he'd taken his trawler over because of the extra good fishing.

Then war had come and, after a time, she'd gone to Houma to work in a defense plant. And Hans was on the East coast. She hadn't seen him for nearly six months when he'd walked into her cousin's home in Houma one Sunday. They'd been married the next week and this, after their all too short honeymoon in

New Orleans, was her homecoming. Delphine gripped Hans' fingers tighter as they turned into her yard. "This is it!" she murmured and they smiled at each other.

"Mama, this is my husband, Hans Olsen," she said, and waited for the storm. "We were married last Friday. He's on leave from Camp Shelley."

"Husband...husband," her mother said, and her brow clouded. Then she gazed hard at Hans. Delphine saw that he braced his khakiclad shoulders. "Ah, Delphine," she said. "Me, I'm glad you didn' marry no fisherman . . . but a good soldier of the United States like Raoul. Come, my son and daughter." She held out her arms.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast." Where there is life there is hope," The human mind has conjur-ed many fine utterances about that word hope. Never in the history of our country was it more popular than it is today. Boys and girls, sons and daughters marching off to war brings us face to face with its deep signifi-cance. H-O-P-E spelled with capital letters, burns in every Mother's and Father's heart. Hope, that their son or their daughter will come home again when this terrible carnage is

Listen to what such a Mother wrote to me the other day-"-has beer wounded and is now in a hospital somewhere in Italy. He had the Red Cross write for him. He was wounded in both legs and has his arm in a cast. He says not to worry that he has a good nurse, a good doctor and a soft bed. But I am so afraid that he is wounded worse than what they told me. I hope they will send him home to me soon." home to me soon.

No need to analyze that letter. No need to read between the lines. Its message is clear and plain to see. That Mother wants her son back. Back again in her arms, to tuck him in bed before he goes to sleep, to wake him in the morning, to look after his comfort each moment of the day and night. It doesn't matter if he does have a good nurse and a good doctor she knows she could do better. And she hopes that he will soon be

That's a Mother for you. She hopes for the best. A lot of people get hope mixed with wishful thinking. The writer of the Book of Hebrews says that Faith is the substance of things hoped for. That is what a Mother does; she bases her hope upon faith. This is what a Father wrote about his son some time ago,—"I hope my boy will be home soon. But before he does come home I want him to do his duty to God, to his country, and to the ones he left behind, especially his children. Some day he will come home. And he will be able to look everyone in the eye without a flinch. I hope that when that day comes I will be able to look him the eye just as boldly. Or will he say to me, "Dad you let me down.

While I was gone you permitted this country to go to the dogs. And now what will become of my children What a mess you left things in." hope that some day the sun will rise on a world at peace. I hope that when it does my son and his family, I and mine, and all the countless other families of the world will be able to enjoy it."

PAUL ENCOURAGES THE CORINTHIANS

LESSON TEXT—II Corinthians 4:5, 16-18; 5:1, 5-8, 14-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich.—II Corinthians 8:9.

"Nothing is certain but uncertainty," so says the modern philosopher But man cannot be satisfied with constant change and confusion. That is why, in our day of unheard-of disruption of ordinary life patterns, men and women especially need the message of the gospel, for in Christ we find the answer to our quest for certainty and stability.

Paul writing to encourage the church at Corinth assured them that life may be steady, useful and true because they are Christians. He pre-

I. A Vision Which Lightens Affliction (II Cor. 4:16-18).

Any honest person knows that in the temporal world round about him everything speaks of death. All things tend to run down, to wear out, to decay, including the body of man. He sees his mental as well as his physical powers coming to a certain maturity only to go into de-

At the same time he is conscious of the deep burden of affliction and sorrow which seems to press down on all the world like an almost unbearable and crushing weight. What can he do about it? Shall he try to dissipate the clouds by artificial cheerfulness? It will not work.

Our text gives us the answer. "For this cause we faint not," says Paul. The things which press us down are only temporal—they are of this world. God's world is eternal. The weakness of the physical body only makes the strength of the spiritual life more evident. The affliction which seems so heavy is only a "light affliction" when one remembers the "eternal weight of glory." Is this just a bit of "escapism"? Is it only some wishful thinking? No, indeed. Have not men learned anew in the war that the only possessions you can keep are those which cannot be bombed to pieces or stolen?

Obviously, that is true in the highest degree of the one who knows Christ, and whose riches are those of eternity. How triumphantly he can meet decay and sorrow! He is of the other world, and nothing here can be more than a light affliction, which seems negligible in the light of the great to be a Christian in such days

II. An Assurance Which Removes Fear (II Cor. 5:1, 5-8).

Of all the fears which afflict mortal man the greatest and the ultimate one is the fear of death. He knows that it is so absolute and final that it terminates everything and separates him from all that he has known and held dear in this world.

That is just the point, death does end everything (except the awful fear of judgment for a wasted wicked life!) for those who live only for this world. Man, however, was never intended for just this present life. He is a being who has eternity written in his very personality. What if this "earthly tabernacle"

-my body-does give up, says Paul. I have a "building of God," something which man did not make with his hands, an eternal home in glory. That gives a man confidence. While he is here in the body, he lives and walks by faith, but when absent from this body, he is "pres-ent with the Lord." How altogether delightful and marvelous is the future, even beyond the grave, for the believer. Hence, we "sorrow not as others which have no hope" (read I Thess. 4:13-18).

III. A Hope Which Makes Him a Living Testimony (II Cor. 5:14-19).

Worldly people sometimes wonder what tremendous and tireless motive power keeps Christians working for the Lord in the face of impossible difficulties. We have that motive named in verse 14—"the love of

There is no compulsion about real Christian testimony and service. There is no feeling that one must do this or that in order to please God. No, the compelling force here is the love of a dying Saviour. It is the supremely powerful and all persuasive influence of love.

Christ died for all, and those who realize that, know that they cannot "henceforth live unto themselves" (v. 15). The social standing, or family connections of our fellow men, no longer control. Christ died for them and we must bring them the word of life. Notice in verse 17 that it is the born-again-one who has this hope. Many church members whose lives are powerless and sinful are so because they have never been born again. "Except a man be born again" (John 3:3) he is not a Christian. That is the place to begin. Take Christ by faith.

Patchwork Increases Life Of Heavy Duty Clothes

Underwear and heavy duty clothes are the articles that need mending most frequently. They get it, too, because every stitch of clothing must be made to last as long as it will hold together with thread. So the garment will give "just another wearing" is not sufficient. Real patching and darning is required.

Except for very soiled garments, mending before laundering usually preferable. The patch becomes less noticeable that way, and it often saves a re-washing and repressing to blend the new fabric with the old. Whenever possible, the patches should really match the original fabric, and many women have discovered that it pays to save good areas of discarded clothing because they can be used to patch clothes made of the same material. These patching pieces should be washed and pressed before being put away for future use.

Careful laundering will help pro-long the usefulness of garments as well as careful wear. Washing a garment before it is badly soiled not only reduces the amount of soap needed to cleanse it, but also les-sens the amount of friction, by hand or machine needed to do a good job or machine, needed to do a good job, and thus in turn cuts down the amount of mending due to rough

Quick Freezing Essential

To Preserve Poultry

Poultry is usually starved long enough, before killing, to empty the crop, then dressed carefully, chilled, wrapped and frozen. Cold well water (preferably ice water) can be used to chill the birds if no other method is available.

Often chilled poultry are drawn before freezing and these "overready" birds are much appreciated when cooking time arrives. Prompt freezing after drawing is essential as bacteria and molds develop rapidly in the moist body cavity.

Frying and stewing chickens are often chilled, cut-up, and the cold parts packed in cans, cartons or packages for freezing. Sometimes the cut-up chicken is packed in a shallow pan, covered with water and frozen as a block of ice. This is a variation of glazing in which the ice coating serves as further protection against drying and oxidation. To glaze a bird it is first frozen and then dipped into water chilled to about 34 degrees F. or just above freezing. The zero temperature of the frozen bird freezes a thin layer of ice on it. Repeated dippings will build up any desired ice coating. Wrapping the bird to delay the evaporation of the glaze is customary.

The Solomons

Apparently nobody knows exactly how many islands there are in the Solomons. Many of their names have become war-familiar-Guadalcanal, Tulagi, Bougainville, Florida, Santa Isabel, San Cristobal, Malaita, Savo, Shortland and others—but scattered among 10 large islands are uncounted islets, together forming an area roughly twice that of Massachusetts. They stretch in a heavily forested double chain, trolley-track fashion, about 600 miles in a northwestsoutheast direction between New Hebrides and the Bismarck Archi-

Normally their 150,000 population is composed of fuzzy-haired Melanesians of such intensely ebony skin that the Solomons have been called the "black spot of the Pacific." Discovered by the Spanish in 1567, whose representative, a Peruvian conquistadore, hopefully believed he had reached the treasure of King Solomon and so-named the islands, they passed through French, British and German hands. After World War I the islands belonging to Germany were mandated to Australia. Their proximity to Allied supply lines give them great wartime inportance.

Preserve Muffler

The life of an auto muffler always can be extended through following a few simple rules. One of these is cutting down unnecessary splash by avoiding puddles and running slowly in flooded areas. In localities where calcium chloride is used on the roads in winter it is important to wash the muffler and under side of the chassis occasionally. Painting the muffler is another way to help extend its life or usefulness, and wrapping the muffler in asbestos, if obtainable, is good practice. Protecting the inside of the muffler isn't so easy, but a well-tuned engine runs cooler and doesn't exude unburned gas vapor that may explode in the muffler and tail, pipe.

Two Vehicle Collision

Even more outstanding than in previous years is the reduction in the two-vehicle collisions in 1943. While other types of accidents, with the exception of animal and animal drawn vehicles, ranged from no change to a reduction of 18 per cent, collision between two motor vehicles dropped 33 per cent. This constitutes additional evidence of the fact that exposure to this type of accident decreases much more rapidly than the decrease in mileage, approaching the square of the mileage. The small decreases in pedestrian and railroad-motor vehicle accidents may be attributed to increased pedestrian traffic in cities, and substantial increases in railroad mile-

FIRST-AID+ AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Roger B. Whitman-WNU Features. POLISHING OLD COINS

Question: I have some old silver and copper coins that have become discolored and tarnished. How can I brighten them up again?

Answer: Good silver polish always is a stand-by for shining silver. Another method that sometimes is used is to put the silver in an aluminum pan, cover with hot water and add baking or washing soda; the amount will depend on the other quantities for an ordinary dishpan, about a tablespoonful may be right. You may have to follow up by some rubbing with silver polish. Tarnished copper can be cleaned by washing with ordinary vinegar (hot is better than cold) in which salt has been dissolved; use as much salt as will be absorbed. Follow by rinsing thoroughly with clear water; do not leave any traces of the solution on the metal. Wipe the copper dry. If necessary, follow by rubbing with metal polish.

Paper Over Insulation

Question: We wish to paper the walls of our seven-room house. The walls are finished with insulating board. Should we first apply glus sizing? Answer: Not only will the wall-board have to be sized, but the joints will have to be filled and a layer of lightweight dry felt applied over the surface before wallpapering. Because of space limitations, I cannot give you a complete description of this process. Most manufacturers of insulating boards, however, publish leaflets giving complete instructions on the right method; which they will send to you or your local dealer may be able to supply you with such a pamphlet.

WEATHERPROOFING OLD CHIMNEY

Question: What mixture should I use to fill in the loose bricks on the part of my chimney that is exposed to weather above the roof? I should like to make the chimney weatherproof.

Answer: Begin by raking out the crumbling mortar between the bricks to a depth of a half inch or more. Brush out all loose cement.

Soak the brickwork with water and then pack with a mixture of one part cement, one part hydrated lime and five parts clean, coarse building sand, adding only enough water to make a workable mixture. You can get a colorless waterproof coating or cement base paint to apply to the chimney.

Roof Gutters

Question: Is it advisable to use asphalt paint on the inside of roof gutters, and does this paint dry hard? Can the outside of the gutters be coated with the same material?

Answer: Yes, it is advisable to coat the inside of the gutters with an asphalt paint. They will remain more flexible and will not be affected by water over long periods of time. Use a good quality outside house paint on the outside of the gutter. But if it is made of galvanized metal, first coat the metal with red-lead paint. New galvanized metal should be allowed to weather for six months or more before painting.

Holes in Roof Gutter Question: Is there any way of repairing small holes in a metal roof gutter without taking it down? Answer: Clean the area around the holes. Then spread on some asphalt roofing cement and place a piece of heavy asphalt felt over the holes. Then spread more of the roofing cement over the felt. Another method is to clean the metal and solder a metal patch over the

Split-Rail Fence

Question: We have a split-rail fence in our yard. Would the life of the fence be prolonged if given a coat or two of stain? What kind would you advise?

Answer: Yes, two coats of a good quality creosote shingle stain will preserve the wood. If you do not object to a brown color, you can apply a soaking coat of coal-tar

Cleaning Marble

Question: The superintendent of my house is using lye in water to clean the marble stairway. Will this affect the marble in any way? Will it eat the surface of the stone?

Answer: Lye is too harsh a chemical for cleaning marble. Neutral soaps can be used; *and in cleaning stair treads, scouring powder that is not too coarse. For information on the general care and maintenance of marble, write to the Marble and Stone Institute, 15 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

THE giraffe and the turtle tell their own story. They help to remind you that electricity, almost alone among household necessities, is still sold at low pre-war prices.

You realize how low these prices are when you know that the average American family now gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago.

If your bill isn't smaller, it is because you have more electric servants and use more electricity now than then.

It's a real achievement to keep electric service cheap in spite of rising costs and taxes - and to keep it plentiful in the face of war's tremendous demands for power.

The credit goes largely to the hard-working men and women of your electric company. Their skill and experience - plus the planning and foresight of sound business management - have made this record possible.

Choosing Right Breed Of Rabbits Important

Market Demand Should Govern Selection

Every farmer who wishes to raise rabbits should become familiar with market demands in order to select a breed that will find a ready sale, says a U. of California publication, "Rabbit Raising," by H. M. Butter-field and W. E. Lloyd. Some rabbits will satisfy the market demands better than others. For example, a market that prefers a small fryer rabbit weighing from 1½ to 2 pounds dressed or 3 to 4½ pounds live weight will justify the producer in considering a breed that develops early and soon reaches a marketable condition with a low feed cost. Breeds that are slow to develop or that do not fill out well when young are better suited for markets using large meat rabbits weighing five pounds or more.

Only a few breeders cater to a fur market and sell the meat from rabbits producing the fur for whatever it will bring. The meat from a sixmonth-old fur rabbit will usually weigh four or five pounds or more; it is important to find a market that is willing to take dressed rabbits of this size. Such meat is usually low in price, five to nine cents a pound live weight being a fair range in list price.

The production of breeding stock calls for a wise choice from the many breeds now available. The newer breeds usually sell for more than the old established breeds, and the beginner should anticipate a drop in prices for some of the present high-priced new breeds. Nearly always the final choice will rest on the value of the animals for meat and fur. A new breed may possess excellent fur qualities and yet have no value on the fur market because the pelts are not available in sufficient numbers for matching.

Breeds for the Beginner. Most rabbit raisers find it best to start with but one breed. The characteristics and requirements of one breed are far easier to learn than those of several. As skill is acquired and markets are developed, the producer may then find it profitable to cater to several kinds of demand.

Certain breeds have become popular because they have returned a profit and have had the approval of buyers. For example, the New Zealand Red or New Zealand White and the Flemish Giants are very popular for supplying the market demand for high-quality meat. Among the fur rabbits the Chinchilla, the American White, the New Zealand White, the White Flemish Giant, the Havana, the Lilac, the Castor Rex and its crosses, and certain blue and silver breeds have been very popular for fur and have considerable meat value. All these breeds are produced in quantity so that stock is easily purchased and the market demand is kept-up by a regular supply. Some of the newer breeds might be more popular if they could be secured in larger quantities and at smaller expense. The introduction of a little-known breed is not always a paying undertaking. Selection of Individuals.

Some general characteristics which should affect the choice of breeding rabbits, regardless of the breed or variety are:

1. Ability to maintain health and vigor under commercial conditions; not unduly susceptible to disease. 2. Meat white, fine-grained, firm, and delicately flavored, in the case of meat rabbits. 3. Dressing percentage high, with a large percentage of the best meat cuts (saddle); body compact, meaty, with fine bone for the meat trade. 4. Ability to thrive on inexpensive feed. 5. Market weights and desirable plumpness reached at an early age. 6. Value sufficient to leave a profit for the producer under existing conditions. 7. Ability to reproduce true to color and type.

8. A good breeder the year around.
9. Females good mothers, able to bear and rear large litters.

Utility vs. Fancy Stock. The first concern of the breeder should, be with utility rather than with fancy stock. Rabbit breeders have too frequently wasted much time on unimportant characteristics. Leg bars, black toenails, and nose or ear markings have little effect on the utility value of any rabbit, though such markings may sometimes be correlated with certain desirable colors in the pelt. Ultimately the popularity of a breed will largely depend on its utility value.

SURPRISE

A farmer took a pig to town and sold it. With the proceeds he bought a suit, a hat, a pair of shoes, and then he tucked the bundle under the seat and said:

"Giddap, Oriole, let's go home and surprise my wife." On his way home he stopped at the river, took off all his old clothes and threw them in the water and they sank.

Then he looked under the seat for his new outfit. It was gone. So he got in the buggy, took the lines and said: "Giddap, Oriole, we'll surprise her anyway."

No life given for country can ever be considered lost. The way a man dies is often the measure of his immortality. A hero's beneficiaries may be numbered in millions, present and future.

This is the most solemn Memorial Day in America's history. The best of our young men are now offering themselves as new hostages for our security.
