RIDAM, JUNE 3, 1949

THERE'S OPPORTUNITY HERE

June graduates, like June brides, look forward to living "happily ever after." But living involves earning a living, and this year's crop of graduates is told that job prospects in many fields will be less favorable than in any year since the war began. Over the next few years there is expected to be an oversupply in the fields of engineering, law, accounting, business administration, personnel work, and journalism.

But there is a continuing and acute undersupply of teachers.

The campaign to waken the public to the needs of teachers and of education in general has had one unfortunate result. It has scared off new recruits from an already depleted profession. It has publicized the underpayment of teachers, and has obscured the rich rewards many teachers have found through working with tomorrow's citizens. It has stressed the long hours they must put into their work, and has ignored the long summers of travel, study, or at least a change of pace through summer jobs.

There is need for a two-edged campaign (1) to show the attractions of teaching, and (2) to increase the attractions of teaching.—Christian Science Monitor.

Next Year We May Be Honoring A 50-Star Banner on Flag Day

While it is held unlikely Hawaii and Alaska will be granted statehood before June 14, there is a possibility Americans will be honoring a 50-star flag by Flag Day, 1950. In fact, E. L. Bartlett, congressional delegate from Alaska, already has presented President Truman with a 50-star American flag proposed in the event that the territories are granted statehood. The new banner has six rows of seven stars and one row with eight. Traditionally, the red stripes represent red-blooded American courage, the white stripes signify purity and honor and the blue background of the stars denotes true-blue loyalty.

Historians doubt the legend that attributes the making of the first Stars and Stripes flag to Betsy Ross. It is probable, they agree, that Francis Hopkinson, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, designed the Stars and Stripes, which was authorized by congress in 1777.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

GOOD CIRCUMSTANCES —

EACH GENERATION IN AMERICA HAS HAD ITS OWN MEASURE OF WHAT CONSTITUTES "GOOD CIRCUMSTANCES."

IN THE PIONEER DAYS OF OUR COUNTRY, A MAN WAS IN GOOD CIRCUMSTANCES IF HE HAD, FOR HIS FAMILY, A HOME IN A LOCATION SECURE FROM ATTACK — A PIECE OF LAND AND A HORSE WITH WHICH TO WORK IT.

LATER ON, AS AMERICA DEVELOPED, AND THE SECURITY OF ITS HOMES BECAME ESTABLISHED, "GOOD CIRCUMSTANCES" CAME TO EMBRACE MORE HOME COMFORTS AND CONVENIENCES — GLASS WINDOW PANES, FRANKLIN STOVES, CHINA DISHES — MORE SUBSTANTIAL TOOLS TO WORK WITH.

BUT THROUGHOUT OUR HISTORY THE CONCEPT OF "GOOD CIRCUMSTANCES" HAS CENTERED AROUND THE HOME AND FAMILY. IT HAS EMBRACED THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE THE SUBSTANCE OF LIVING, TO NURTURE THE BONDS OF LOVE AND AFFECTION AND TO PLAN CONFIDENTLY TOWARD THE FAMILY'S FUTURE WELL-BEING.

YOUR OWN TAXES

CAN BE KEPT DOWN

ONLY IF EVERYBODY

PAYS THEIR FAIR SHARE!

TAX THE UNTAXED

First!

Congress is now considering INCREASING the rates of federal income taxes on both business and individuals. More revenue is needed to finance new government programs and extensions — pay for national defense — fulfill foreign commitments.

Yet, big business CO-OPS and other TAX-EXEMPTS continue to escape or avoid federal income taxation.

Every income tax payer should inform his Congressman to "TAX THE UNTAXED, FIRST" before increasing or adding taxes on those of us who are already paying heavily.

Federal income taxes are usually the largest taxes we pay. When anyone is excused from paying federal income taxes, all the rest of us have their portion added onto our bill. WE pay more than our fair share.

There are a number of these favored tax evaders. Probably the most flagrant are co-operative corporations doing 17 billions in profits each year. Others are so-called "trusts" and government businesses. Even colleges and universities in recent years have bought and are operating factories and other commercial ventures for profit — tax free, of course.

If your income taxes and payroll deductions are high — this tax exemption is one of the major reasons.

ALL BUSINESS SHOULD PAY INCOME TAXES ON THE SAME BASIS

How's Britain Now?

Current news reports suggest that the British are still having a tough time, though things seem a little better with them lately. Actually, it is high time for signs of recovery. How much better off England would be right now—how much sooner she would have come out of the kinks if she had kept safe her traditional freedoms—that no one knows. But if the English mind and spirit come out of these dangerous experiences unscathed, it will surely be a miracle.

(There are those who will give more credit for improvements to the Marshall Plan and to the generosity of the American taxpayer than they will to Britain's labor government.) The sad thing about it is that the Englishman is still the worse off, having given up much of his heritage of freedom and liberty.

Mess of Postage

The swap has netted a poor mess of postage indeed. England's experience is the lesson of the century for America. There was the dentist, for example, who took his own life because he found it impossible to operate his office as the government ordered. His suicide note cited too many forms to be filled out for the government and declared he could not do his work and the red-tape too.

What about small business? Take filling stations (petrol there). From a London newspaper: "After two years of deliberations, a committee of 13 men has reported to the government on the technical considerations which should govern the number, capacity, and distribution of petrol stations." Imagine! That is the result, when people hand over their individual initiative to government.

How to Make Tea

Under the heading "First Warm the Teapot," an item in a British newspaper advises that the food ministry is sending out an expert who will visit restaurants in Tottenham and educate the restaurant staffs on the subject of how to make tea! As if by now, the English people have not learned to make tea.

Some of these seem a bit ridiculous. They are. Like the report of demands for "free" wigs having risen under socialized medicine to more than 200 a week—at a cost of more than $4,000,000 yearly. It is reported also that "Application Order No. 2" will entitle hairless men and women to the nationalized wig cleaning and dressing service, once every two months. From cradle to grave, indeed!

Liberty in Flight

In Froxfield, England, K. J. Kilford was building a house. He wanted a round hall window in his new home. But the "area planning committee" said no; the window must be rectangular. "A round window would be out of place in a rural area," the panel declared. Commented Kilford: "There is no individual liberty today." That happened in England.

The whole British story of snarling bureaucracy may remind readers of wartime experiences in America. It indicates, too, that government control clashes with individual freedom. Shall we in America be able to keep our freedom?

Have you heard Dr. Benson and the radio drama "Land of the Free"? Check your local station for time.

FLAG ETIQUETTE

The flag customarily is displayed from sunrise until sundown when on stationary flagstaffs or on buildings.

—When weather permits, the flag should be displayed daily on or near the principal administration building of any public institution, and in or near all schools on the days when school is in session. —When displayed in a parade, the flag always should be flown from a staff and never draped over any object.

It is not permissible to place another flag above the American Flag except, of course, a church pennant.

Sylvester Says:

"Here's one key to low-cost housing—but who wants to use it?"

Even the house in front of the back-house can be easily prefabricated, if you care for outdoor plumbing. But you can't produce a lot, a foundation 6' deep, underground plumbing and water connections to the street; a paved street or a sidewalk, in a factory. In fact, you can't even factory-build the hole under the backhouse.

The modern, ordinary comforts, conveniences and land—the essential nature of any American home—account for about 1/2 of the cost of the house even though more and larger parts of the house are being factory fabricated and shipped.

Americans are no longer satisfied with 4 rooms and a bath. That's why we have the highest standard of living in the world for the average citizen. In fact, 9 out of 10 of the world's bathtubs are in American homes, according to latest compiled international figures.

Hairy Indigo Popular as Cover Crop

Hairy indigo, a relatively new legume in Florida, is proving one of the most popular summer cover crops in the state. It is suitable for both forage and soil improving purposes. Native of the tropics, hairy indigo was first introduced into the United States by the department of agriculture in 1908. The plants grow from four to seven feet tall, and where not crowded, have a spread of from five to seven feet in diameter. Hairy indigo makes excellent grazing in fall or it may be harvested for hay.

The Marvelous Egg

The egg is, without doubt, one of the most ingenious and efficient mechanisms devised by nature. It has 12 parts. Perhaps the most interesting is the yolk because of its ability to remain poised in the center of the egg. Actually, it is held in place by a pair of ropelike bands of thickened albuminous substance, attached to the lining membrane of the egg at either end of the shell; they keep the yolk suspended like a hammock.

Coldframes

Coldframes are used to "harden off" plants from the hotbed. They can also be used to advantage to start seeds where more space is needed than can be provided by flats indoors. A coldframe differs from a hotbed in that it obtains heat from the sun only, having no fermenting manure under the soil. It is located where it will get full rays of the sun and be protected from the wind.

Facts About Body Worms

Body worms are parasites. Some inhabit the intestines, others creep under the skin, another type is in the blood stream and lymph channels and some get into the eyes and cause blindness. They range in size from microscopic filariae to tapeworms as long as 20 to 30 feet. Some enter the body through food or drinking water, others through the skin.

Mark Twain's Mistake

When Mark Twain was at the height of his fame, he was approached one day by an inventor who offered Twain an interest in his product for a mere $500. Because he had had bad luck in that type of transaction before, Twain turned the offer down. That man's name turned out to be Alexander Graham Bell.

The Ancient Soybean

Richest of all vegetables in protein, soybeans have been an essential food of Oriental peoples since early antiquity. Ancient Chinese books recount more than 400 ways of preparing soybeans, and their industrial uses were explored by the Orient centuries before they became the "miracle bean" of the Occident.

Haddock Decreasing

Decline of the haddock population of the North Atlantic fishing banks is causing concern. In order to restore the stocks, the fish and wildlife service has recommended that the mesh of fishing nets be increased so that young immature fish can slip through.

Catalpas for Posts

Growing catalpa trees for fence posts is of widespread interest in Florida. The catalpa, often locally called "catawba," is a native forest tree that grows well in moist bottom lands of central and northern Florida. The tree is easy to grow from seed.

Save That Evergreen!

Many evergreens that have turned brown this spring as result of drying out the past winter are likely to recover. They should not be destroyed until it is absolutely certain they are dead.

In the "Good Old Days"

In 1870 there were four persons for every cow in the United States. Today we have nearly six persons per cow, but our people are getting about as much milk as they ever did.

The Fly's Light

Ordinary light is associated with the production of heat and is efficient in proportion to the amount of heat produced. In contrast, the fire fly's light is a "cold light."

SHORT STORY

One Dozen Roses
 By CHARLOTTE MCCARTHY

MRS. MOYER walked slowly, feeling as dismal as the drizzly day. This was her wedding anniversary and she knew, with no possible doubt, that her husband had forgotten about it. Even the head of her fox fur had an almost human expression of weary disillusion as the cold rain dribbled over its nose.

All very well to remind herself that she should be thankful to have such a good husband. Never had he opened his own considerable pay envelope these last ten years. Nor had he stayed away a single evening, nor complained about the way she managed her household. But tomorrow the girls would call up to find out about her present, and what could she tell them?

Afterwards, Mrs. Moyer could never remember just how she got the idea, but she found herself in the florist's.

"One dozen of your best roses, please." Her own voice surprised her, but she gave her own address calmly, and told the girl that she did not wish to enclose a card.

Years ago, when money had been very scarce and flowers an almost unthought-of luxury, her husband had sent her, on their anniversary, a dozen perfect roses. There had been no card enclosed—no need of one.

OVER the dinner table that night, she chatted about the trivial happenings of the day.

"Oh, dear! That bill at Taylors, and I forgot all about it. This is the fourth, isn't it?"

"It's the fourth, all right." His voice was cheerful. "Old Murdock came around for the rent today, and he never misses the exact date."

"I thought you had forgotten the date, but now I can only believe it just doesn't mean anything to you." She tried to keep the tears out of her voice, saying the very thing she had made up her mind that wild horses couldn't drag out of her, but having started she had no intention of backing down now. I've heard other women saying that their husbands sometimes forgot, but I never dreamed that . . .

The doorbell pealed an interruption. "A box for you . . . looks like flowers." She didn't look at him as she fumbled with the ribbon.

She lifted the fragrant blooms to hide her face. "They're gorgeous!" Her fingers trembled, as she pretended to search among the rustling paper for a card. "But who could have sent them?"

"Don't you remember a certain fellow who sent you roses 30 years ago? You didn't need a card then."

She almost dropped the flowers. Of all the brazen . . . but surely he wouldn't dare pretend . . .

But he evidently would. "You thought I'd forgotten, didn't you? I haven't asked in years just how you feel about it, but to me it's still the most important date in my life."

FOR the first time in her life, Mrs. Moyer knew that she was going to make a scene. What she was going to use for an excuse, she couldn't for her life imagine, since she just could produce the florist's bill to prove that she knew he was trying to take credit for something he hadn't done . . . and dressing it up with sloppy sentiment to make matters worse.

Suddenly she became aware that the phone was ringing shrilly. "Hello." Her voice was surprisingly calm.

Behold The Man!

Lesson for June 5, 1949

LAST JANUARY a man in Holland wrote to the high court of the new nation of Israel, petitioning for a review, now nearly 2,000 years afterwards, of the trial of Jesus by the court at Jerusalem in the year 30 A. D. That court may never review the case, and perhaps has no legal right to do so. But history has reviewed it, and reversed it. Jesus was tried by at least four tribunals on the early morning of the first Good Friday. But the verdict of history is that the courts were guilty, one and all, while the prisoner was innocent.

Dr. Foreman

Sentence first, Verdict afterwards

BESIDES the informal hearing before the ex-high priest Annias, there was the formal trial before the High Priest Caiaphas. He presided over the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the Jews at that time. It was a learned tribunal, venerated all over the Jewish world. As the lawyers might say, its writ ran everywhere; its decisions were quoted as precedent in Alexandria, Babylon, Spain. You might have expected it to be dignified, honorable. But not on that night, with that victim.

You might as well expect a pack of wolves, starved in mid-winter, to be dignified and honorable with a sheep in their circle. These men, and their intimate friends, had been described by the Prisoner, not long before, in words that stuck in their brains like arrowheads. "Whited sepulchres . . . full of all uncleanness . . . ye say, and do not . . . yet devour widows' houses . . . blind guides . . . offspring of vipers . . ."

If there had been any hope that they might change, Jesus would not have used such words. So they had made up their minds: He must die. Now was their hour, while the city slept. Leader of the pack was this Caiaphas. As the farce of a trial went on and the high priest by grace of Rome faced Jesus, High Priest by the grace of God, what did he see in Jesus' eyes?

That Fox

IF CAIPHAS was a wolf, Herod was a fox. It was Jesus' nickname for him. On that April morning this fox had the surprise of his lifetime. Before he could collect his wits, he was facing the very man whom his private police force had been vainly trying to arrest—Jesus of Nazareth. Two kings faced each other in Herod's hall that morning. The one wearing a robe and crown, seated on some kind of throne, was one of the most un-kingly men who ever bore the royal title. The other, in plainest citizens' clothes, and no crown, no throne to be seen, was the one real king who has lived among men.

"Suffered Under Pontius Pilate"

PONTIUS PILATE, procurator of Judea, deputy plenipotentiary of his Imperial Majesty, sat on his judgment seat and looked at Jesus. Six times he had looked at him; six times he had made certain that this young prisoner was an innocent man, and six times he had said so, even in the face of the mob.

The noises in the street confused him. He could not hear, down through the centuries, the voices of millions of men, women and children, rising up week after week and repeating the words, almost like a curse: "—and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord, who . . . suffered under Pontius Pilate." The voices in the street drowned the voices of the centuries.

But if, as Pontius Pilate turned Jesus over to the will of those who hated him, he had dared to look into Jesus' eyes, and what would he have seen?

To this very day, and to the end of time, in all places and among all men, this Christ whom the world holds in chains is yet the Judge of every man. Men may say of Jesus what they wish, and he will be silent still. But in his eyes in the verdict. A man is judged by his own judgement of Jesus Christ. And you, too. Facing you, he looks straight through you. What do you see in Jesus' eyes?

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing."

The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 29 million American families with incomes no higher than that.

On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit.

But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.
