Fatal Accident Occurred Last Saturday Afternoon

Tragedy struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Crouse, Littlestown, R. D., last Saturday afternoon during preparations for the wedding and reception of their daughter, Esther M. and son-in-law, John F. Feesser, Jr., which was to take place during the evening.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Crouse, Bernard L. and Clyde W. with the use of a crane, were attempting to move a steel sliding board at the public swimming pool which is operated next to the Crouse family home.

Clyde was operating the lifting device and Bernard was guiding the board as it was being shifted to a temporary location. Suddenly the crane touched a high tension wire conveying 4,500 volts of electricity.

The charge filled the metal board and shot through the body of Bernard, throwing him to the ground.

Dr. Leonard Potter and members of the Littlestown Fire Company worked over Bernard's body for several hours to revive him but were unsuccessful. The lad was sixteen years old.

Five and a half hours after the tragedy, the bride, Esther M. Crouse, and the bridegroom, John F. Feesser, Jr., were united in marriage in a curtailed and saddened ceremony on the lawn at the Crouse home. The event was originally planned to be held in Redeemer's Reformed church, Littlestown.

The tragedy also caused cancellation of the reception that was to follow the ceremony. Food that had been purchased for relatives and friends of the newlyweds was taken to the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown.

Following his investigation of the tragedy, Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, said he believed Bernard, who would have been a member of the Littlestown High school senior class in the fall, died instantly of the electric shock.

Coroner Crist said the crane was approximately forty feet from the pool when it came in contact with the circuit. He said the dead youth was in his swimming suit when he died and possibly had been in the water of the pool a short time before. Time of the accident was given as 3:30 p. m. Death was pronounced several hours later.

Bernard was a popular student of the high school. He was active in sports, being a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams of the school. He was a member, too, of the Redeemer church.

Surviving are his parents, Walter F. and Laura (Worley) Crouse; these brothers and sisters, Mrs. John F. Feesser, Jr., and Clyde W. Crouse, Littlestown R. D. 1; Glenn, Shirley, Nadine, Ronald, David and Bruce, at home; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Worley, Littlestown R. D. 2.

Funeral services were held Monday at 10 a. m. in Redeemer's church. Conducting them were the boy's pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds. Interment was in Rest Haven cemetery, Hanover.

THIS 'N' THAT

(Your Chatty Column)
With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Just like that song "Those Dear Hearts and Gentle People", all country people are just that no matter in which county they reside on their farms. God bless them all.

As I type away this column in this gracious and lovely parsonage which is on three acres, the sheep (about 60) are grazing in the meadow opposite and the cows are in the field. There are huge trees surrounding and the place is called "Dublin" which is just eleven miles north of Belair. Those same large trees are in Belair so you may realize the atmosphere. Take those trees from Harford County and it would not be Belair.

Upon our arrival, as I opened the "Frigidaire" what to my wondering eyes did behold, but it filled with food which the ladies had prepared for our evening meal. It was not like that story about "Old Mother Hubbard" went to the Cupboard." Then, this past Tuesday night, a reception was tendered us which will be a lasting one in my memory. Canned and frozen foods were brought to fill the pantry for the winter.

Caruso is singing, too, in love with all the surroundings as though his little throat will burst.

"Buttons" was perfectly contented and happy out on the large lawn, when suddenly I heard a scream and I ran down quickly to see my precious pet with a broken upper front leg. I drove quickly to Belair to a prominent veterinarian and there I must leave her for a few days. She will be given ether and the bone set and placed in a cast for two weeks.

Have you heard the latest in shoes? Black alligators are on the market in New York City selling for $135.00 a pair. Wow! And they say they will outlive the wearer! Who wants black alligator shoes anyway?

Congratulations and best wishes to the sweet bride next door to "Loves Retreat" and the groom! He is a lucky fellow!

Did you see on TV on the B. F. Goodrich show with Conrad Nagel on "Celebrity Time" the authoress of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn"? The questions were fired away to the panel and (she was one of the guests) as to Brooklyn, N. Y. She knew all the answers, this Miss Betty Smith and then she told the audience that the tree of which her book was the subject was called, "A Tree of Heaven".

They say that dust brushes, those type of "Dust Pan and Brush" fame are very difficult to purchase these days and even the dime store around our town did not have any and it surely was a fact as I then called in about five other stores in all sections.

Now, here's one that the "lady" driver is not guilty and that is holding on to the roof of the car as she drives. Just take notice to the men drivers and you will see what I mean!

Thinking of cars! Was talking to a man the other day who stated that he received seven wrecks to repair in one day which he had to tow in his garage and every one was a stolen car! To top that off he added that those type of men went after the "Fords" more than any other! Ugh!

Don't go out of town in this hot weather, folks, to see a movie when we have all those latest and grand pictures right at our own "Earle". You save the gas, too, for the car and there is "air conditioning".

Many stores are having terrific values now. One store if you purchase a number of pairs of hosiery, they present you with one pair free. In Philadelphia if you order your eye glasses from them for the mere price of $7.00 you are given a free gift of an excellent pair of sun glasses. In New York City the recent sales of just about everything topped it all but as yet Maryland has not followed suit. Perhaps "dollar days" and that is all.

What patience the housewife of the banker must have in remaining right there with all that terrific noise as the building continues.

It was a delicious meal at the Firemen's supper on the school grounds and those wonderful women remaining for the entire week with preparing and cooking and serving. How thankful those Firefighters should be in having such a grand Auxiliary. On those grounds, betcha the one who made the most money was that ferris wheel affair.

A gift arrived as a surprise from WBAL in the form of a lovely wallet (ladies) and I can't recall what prompted it all. The funny part was that I needed one, too.

If you cannot manage the time to arrange to go on a vacation, why not bring the vacation to your home by adding new chairs and outdoor furniture of comfort with other attractive pieces and eat outdoors, in fact, remain just as much of the time outside, relaxing and that way you will enjoy every minute of it.

Did you look in on TV and see the third birthday celebration of the Lincoln and Mercury Hour with Ed Sullivan? That hour is really full of stars. Then on the Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts, the wonderful singer, Talbot Budney singing the famous aria of Caruso's. And who does not like a wedding even if it is on TV, with Mollie Goldberg? At last, cousin Freda was married to the man she loved and there appeared special guests as R. Q. Lewis, Sam Leventhal and Mrs. Marie Selby.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1951
AMERICAN GREATNESS

American greatness is not in her extent of territory but rather in her citizenship. We justly pride ourselves in our citizenship. The British boldly proclaim themselves subjects to His Majesty, the King, while we with equal zest proclaim our citizenship. We are largely descended from our English immigrant ancestors, but, later, large numbers of immigrants came from Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Italy and Scandinavia. These have intermarried and have by the union produced an even stronger race than they would have been if confined to one blood stream alone. We are a splendid hash made up of the best ingredients of the Old World.

The late Wendell Wilkie, a brilliant industrialist, was zealous in proclaiming a one world. I liked Wilkie but I think on that matter he was wrong. While Stalin and his stooges endure there is little hope that the nations of the world can unite.

The United Nations meetings seem to be composed of well-meaning people, but it is scarcely probable that they will ever be able to get all the peoples of the world to unite on a single idea.

The world is too big and it's population too varied to ever become a unit. The four hundred million of Chinese, and the three hundred and fifty million of India, about half the population of the world, do not seem to have developed any great leaders of thought except in religion. The United States' population is only a little over 7 percent of the world population, yet it possesses by far the greatest wealth and inventive genius of all the nations of earth.

Aren't you glad you are a citizen of these good old U. S. A.? — WHJ

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

MANSFIELD, OHIO, NEWS-JOURNAL: "The case for the farmer is well presented in the June issue of Country Gentleman by Herschel D. Newsome, master of the National Grange. He says that the average of farm prices still is almost 15 per cent below 1947, while corporate profits and hourly wages of factory workers both are 18 per cent above the levels of four years ago. An interesting admission is that agriculture has been at fault in allowing 'narrow self-interest to delay correction of flaws' in parts of the government farm programs, pointing particularly to 'absurdity of the potato-support program.'"

PALM BEACH, FLA., POST-TIMES: "The virulent poison in the bloodstream of Human Freedom, is the polyglot pinheads who... spread the gory gospel that man can live without labor, feed upon his neighbor be supported by government rather than supporting government."

REINBECK, IOWA, COURIER: "D. A. Hulcy, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, points out some facts. Federal agencies, all along the line will make a devout effort to get rid of all the cash left in their accounts... They must spend the money appropriated to every agency, in order that come July first their asking for a larger amount to spend next year be granted them.... What would happen if we spent the last dollar we had each year in order that we could start with a clean slate?"

WALDOBORO, MAINE, PRESS: "The old saying 'it is an ill wind that blows no one any good' must be true. Within the last week we were listening to the radio and heard the announcement of the ten per cent increase on the cost of newsprint. We immediately reached for the aspirin, which, of course, helped the aspirin business. It seems as though everything is bound to help some one."

YOUR NEW SOCIAL SECURITY

By L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative, Baltimore (North) Social Security Office

There are times when each of us must ask the question: What is going to happen to me when I get too old to work? Or: what is going to happen to my family when I die? Who will care for them? These are vital matters affecting our lives and the lives of those close to us. That's why we owe it to you to give you information on your new social security. I've been asked why "your new social security". The Social Security Act itself is not new. But the Act was amended in 1950, giving just about everybody a new measure of social security. For many, it means just that—NEW social security—because many people are now included for the first time. How much do you know about your new social security? Do you know how it will affect you. Are you among the new millions who may have social security protection beginning this month for the first time?

Lots of folks have found it worth while to visit our office, or to meet our representatives on their regular scheduled trips in the area serviced by this office, or to write to us about their particular situation. In this connection, I wish to remind you of the pamphlets which we have available. These pamphlets give simplified explanations of various phases of the new law. Here is a list of these:

- No. 1. Earnings While You Receive Payments
- No. 2. Service in World War II
- No. 3. Household Workers
- No. 4. If You Work For Yourself
- No. 5. Farm Workers
- No. 6. Employees of Non-Profit Institutions.

No. 7. Employees of State and Local Governments.

In addition to the above, we have a booklet called, "Do You Have A Maid". All this material is free and will be sent to anyone upon request. Just send a letter or a post card to the Social Security Administration, 5227 York Rd., Baltimore 12, Maryland, giving the number or name of the pamphlet you want.

Social Security coverage was extended to "regularly employed" agricultural labor" January 1, 1951. If you are a regular worker for one farm operator and paid at least $50.00 in cash during each calendar quarter, the second and succeeding quarters may be covered. There must be a qualifying quarter preceding the one or more for which social security wages are reported and taxes paid. The months of October, November, and December 1950, may serve as a qualifying quarter.

The worker must be employed by the same employer for 60 days and earn at least $50.00 in cash in every three-month period to get continuous social security credit. If the worker changes employers or drops below 60 days or $50.00 he must have another qualifying quarter preceding the one on which he again receives credit.

In general, seasonal farm workers will not be covered. Non-cash remuneration for agricultural labor is not included as wages. The new law specifically excludes the ginning of cotton and the production of turpentine. Regularly employed farm workers should apply for account numbers. Employers will need the numbers for their reports. Credits for farm work may be added to other public-employment credits for the purpose of drawing benefits. The tax rate will be 1 1/2% each for employee and employer (total 3%).

Employment in pulpwood cutting and logging will still be covered. In addition, bona fide contractors are covered as of January 1st as self-employed workers.

CLAUDE B. HELLMANN

Delegates attending the 36th annual convention of Kiwanis International at St. Louis elected a prominent public utilities executive to head the organization in the year ahead.

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown were informed last week that Claude B. Hellmann, lighting department manager of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company, of Baltimore, would succeed Don H. Murdoch, Winnipeg, Manitoba, as president of Kiwanis International, which now is comprised of 3,300 Clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon Territory.

Hellmann is also vice-president of the Arlington Federal Savings and Loan Association and president of the Roland Park Apartment Company of Baltimore.

A Kiwanian for 27 years, the new president will assume office August 1. During the past year, he served as vice-president of Kiwanis International. Previously, he had been an international trustee and governor of the Capital Kiwanis District, comprised of the District of Columbia, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. Delegates to the St. Louis Convention, which drew an adult attendance exceeding 10,500 men and women from all sections of this country and Canada, also elected two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees.

Vice-presidents are Donald T. Forsythe, Carthage, Ill., publisher of the Hancock County Journal, and Larue F. Smith, Niagara Falls, N. Y., president of the Canada Spirella Corporation.

Walter J. L. Ray, Detroit, Mich., president of the Standard Savings and Loan Association of Detroit was elected treasurer of the organization. Trustees elected for two years include Reed C. Culp, Salt Lake City, Utah, Earl B. Smith, Fairmont, W. Va., Don E. Engdahl, Spokane, Wash., Raymond W. Robbins, Athens, Tex., Orin F. Crow, Columbia, S. C., and W. Donald Dubail, St. Louis, Mo.

MARYLAND SHIPYARD GETS SINCLAIR TANKER CONTRACT

John R. Sherwood, president, Sherwood Brothers Incorporated, Maryland affiliate of Sinclair Refining Company, has announced completion of plans and specifications, by Sinclair, for two new ocean-going tankers, contract for which has been awarded to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Shipbuilding Division. The vessels will be built at the Sparrows Point Shipyards near Baltimore.

Each new tanker, with a cargo-carrying capacity of 210,000 barrels of gasoline or 175,000 barrels of crude oil, will join Sinclair's huge fleet of super-tankers now used in the company's coastal and foreign trade, and which regularly carry petroleum products from distant ports to the giant Sherwood Point Terminal at Curtis Bay.

"It is appropriate," Mr. Sherwood pointed out, "that the new tankers should be built by Maryland workers, in view of the fact that a primary function will be to supply Maryland homes, cars, farms and industry with Betholene and Sinclair motor fuels, Sherwood Fuel Oil and Industrial fuels and lubricants. The Sherwood Point Terminal, a port of call for the Sinclair ocean-going tanker fleet," he said, "has storage facilities for 29,000,000 gallons of petroleum products. These are supplied, not only by the tanker fleet, but also via pipeline and tank cars."

"The new tankers," he went on, "will be equipped with the latest in navigational aids, such as radio, radar, sonic depth finder, direction finder, ship-to-shore telephone and Sperry Gyro-Compass and Gyro-Pilot. Approximately 2,000 dead-weight tons smaller, with attendant increased flexibility and speed, and with power plants of the same capacity as standard super-tankers, they are expected to carry approximately the same quantity of crude oil annually as carried by the super-tanker, delivering more tonnage per dollar invested."

"The new vessels," Mr. Sherwood further pointed out, "are designed to meet the requirements of the Military as to speed and carrying capacity."

The recent arrival from China was trying desperately to catch a train and his patient oriental nature was being put to a test because the porter couldn't locate his baggage. Wung Sung became very upset and finally, just as the train was about to depart and his bags were still unlocated, he hammered on the counter and exploded in these words:

"Pretty darn seldom where my bag so. She no fly. You no more fit to run station than Pete's sake. That's all, I hope!"

Poor Soul

A mountaineer, on his first visit to a city of any size, was fascinated by the asphalt streets. Scraping his feet on the hard surface, he remarked to his boy: "Well, I can't blame 'em for building a town here. The ground's too darned hard to plow anyhow."

SOME ENDURANCE!

A gentle old Quaker, driving along a lane between Newington and Hornsey, encountered a young man driving from the opposite direction. There was not room enough for them to pass each other unless one of them would back his car.

"I think," called out the Quaker in a fatherly tone, "thou should make way for me, for I am older than thou art."

"I'll not budge an inch," the young man angrily replied. Then he pulled out a newspaper and began to read as he sat in his car.

The Quaker leaned back comfortably in his seat and let his eyes wander contentedly over the peaceful rural scene. "Friend," he called out at length, "when thou has read that paper I should be glad if thou wouldst lend it to me."

The young man gave up the contest.

Aim to Please

Mistress of the House: "Oh, how perfectly dreadful! You've put the bathroom paper in the bedroom."

Paperhanger: "Now, ma'am, don't you worry. We'll have that bathtub hooked up in there before you know it."

Foiled Again

Bob: "I'm getting stronger."
Helen: "How do you know?"
Bob: "Because a few years ago I couldn't carry ten dollars' worth of groceries and now it's easy."

Dutch Jungle Girl Refuses Mother's Appeal to Return

SINGAPORE—The "jungle girl", 13-year-old Bertha Hertogh, has refused to return to Holland with her mother.

Clinging to her foster mother, Che Aminah, a Malayan who reared her after the Japanese fell upon the Hertogh's home in Java, the girl defiantly told her mother: "I don't love you and never would and I'll never go with you."

The girl has married a Malayan school teacher. A court recently gave custody of the child to Che Aminah, her former nurse.

Mrs. Hertogh called at Bertha's home and saw her for the first time in eight years. It was a tearful scene in which her daughter told her: "You left me and gave me to Aminah. Now all you want is to start trouble. Of course you are my mother. But I am a Moslem. I'll never leave my husband or go to Holland with you."

Mrs. Hertogh left weeping.

Housewife in Second Floor Apartment Injured by Auto

BOSTON, Mass.—It would seem that a person sitting in his own second floor apartment is no longer safe from automobiles.

A 57 year old Boston housewife was sitting in her apartment when John Gintalis, 61, was struck by a car as he was crossing a street. He suffered a fractured left leg.

His shoe was wrenched loose by the impact. It was hurled 25 feet and through a window in the apartment of Mrs. Catherine Heenan.

The shoe hit her on the head. She suffered scalp cuts.

D. L. (DON'T, DO LAUGH)

Folks along the C. & O. line up in Eastern Kentucky like to tell a story about a rather dense character who once worked briefly for the line.

This man's job was to do nothing more than check on all cars as they entered the yard and to check those which needed repairs of one kind or another. Those marked for repairs later would be switched over to the shop, the others sent out to pick up freight.

Well, after this character had been on the job one day, the switch crew went out to pick up the cars. However, the crew found every car had "DG" freshly chalked on the side.

"How in the world can I tell the O.K. cars from the bad ones?" the crew chief stormed. "And what in blazes does 'DG' mean?"

"Guess I made a slight mistake," the guy apologized. "'DG' means 'Do Go' and 'Don't Go!'"

FEESERSBURG

One hundred and seventy five years ago this 4th of July our nation was formed and a new type of government was launched. As nations go we are not very old and sometimes we show it. But we are maturing and maturing fast. Even in the way we celebrate the 4th of July we show that we are coming of age. Twenty five years ago the 4th was noisy with fireworks, speeches and brass bands. Now we take our children on picnics or just stay home and go about our work as usual. As a nation we are putting aside our childish bragging and love of display. Like a youth coming into his majority, we as a nation understand our place in the world and we are slowly shedding our provincialism and thinking in terms of world government and not in terms of just our own country. We realize we are no longer a land somewhere between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, but a land that is just a part of the entire world.

We are just a very young nation but in our hands and hearts lie the destiny of all the people everywhere. It is time we grew up as we must certainly be doing. "When I was a child I spoke as a child, and thought as a child. Now that I am a man I must put aside my childish things."

Maryland is eligible to receive over five million dollars in Federal funds for road building this year, almost a million increase over last year. The State must match Federal funds for primary roads, the counties for secondary, and cities with more than 5000 population for urban construction. Among the eligible urban areas are Annapolis, Frederick, Frostburg, Hagerstown, Hyattsville, Takoma Park, College Park, Mount Rainier, Greenbelt, Rockville and Riverdale.

Sunday visitors of the Mehle Wilhides were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knox and daughters of Union Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas and children and Mr. and Mrs. Millard Ruelke and daughter, Nancy.

Americans are spending four times as much on organized gambling as on their schools and education. The country is heading for its third tragedy of educational neglect in a little more than a generation. This can be avoided, only by putting public education on a top priority basis, as an important factor in national defense. Two years after World War I, 18,000 American schools closed for lack of teachers. The result of this was that twenty years later in World War II, 659,000 men were rejected by the Army because of educational deficiencies.

During the second World War teachers again flocked to defense plants, school construction slowed and the number of young children increased. This resulted in a terrific drop in the number of trained teachers. Only 35,000 were graduated in the 1949-50 school year but 77,000 were needed. During the past school year at least a quarter of all teachers earned less than $2400. A satisfactory salary scale would have to range from $3200 to $8000 at present costs of living.

No doubt the readers get tired of me writing about the schools and our school system but I assume that everyone is as vitally interested in the welfare of our country and our children as this reporter. Education is the corner stone to all personal liberty and advancement. The ignorant perish or live unfulfilled lives. It seems to me that the one obligation that we adults owe our children and children everywhere is the right to a liberal education. To give each child his or her chance to use the talents and brains that each one is born with, is not to be considered a privilege but a necessity. Ignorance only leads to stupidity and stupidity to slavery.

No matter where one drives in Carroll County, the beauty of it's countrilands is always refreshing and rewarding. One can only hope that Kent Rockwell will one day discover the valleys of Carroll and put upon his canvas the vivid and contrasting colors of the rich farmlands of our beloved county. For we would like to share with our fellow Americans the beauty and the air of contentment that forever hovers over our rolling landscape.

Mrs. Cleon Wolfe spent the week end in Philadelphia visiting Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wolfe. Mrs. Richard Wolfe has been seriously ill for the past year with a rare disease which has kept her confined to her bed. Like most people confronted with a serious handicap and confined to the limits of four walls Mrs. Wolfe has developed a philosophy which keeps her cheerful and hopeful. It's always a pleasant adventure to hear of a family or person that meets their adversity and tragedy with humor and courage. Anyone can run up a white flag of surrender; it takes an extraordinary soldier to keep fighting in the face of overwhelming obstacles.

Tommy Pfoutz is spending several days in Westminster visiting his cousin, Danny Pfoutz.

In spite of rain and mud peas are being harvested and several farmers report above average yields. With warm, humid days the corn fields are in excellent condition. The only flaw in the farming picture is the arrival of the Japanese beetles.

The Union Bridge Girl Scouts were entertained on Wednesday by Mrs. Truman Myers at her home.

A friend of ours asked his young son to mow the lawn and the boy asked if that wouldn't be a violation of the child labor law. I wonder sometimes why the children of this generation have to be so smart. Maybe Ruskin was right when he said children should have their times of off duty, like soldiers.

It's the little things in life that counts. The art of printing was suggested by a man cutting letters in the bark of a tree. The telescope was the outcome of a boy's amusement with two glasses in his father's shop. Charles Goodyear neglected his skill until it was red hot, and this guided him to the manufacture of vulcanized rubber. The web of a spider suggested to Captain Brown the idea of a suspension bridge. Watching a spider weave its web gave Robert Bruce the courage to try again. Henry Ford's idea about a perfect watch plant gave him a plan for his giant motor industry. J. L. Kraft's idea to put cheese in a sanitary package was the start of his enormous business.

"Weeds in the garden of thought soon make a man look seedy."

DIED

ROBERT J. WALDEN

One of the most distinguished names in Maryland racing circles, and among a wide host of friends, was that of Robert J. Walden, who died at his home, Bowling Brook Farms, at Middleburg, this county, on Tuesday, June 19, 1951. Mr. Walden, who was aged 80 years had been quite ill several days previous to his death. He had been in failing health for several years.

Mr. Walden was born in Westchester county, New York, where he father was recognized as a pioneer in the development of racing.

The elder Mr. Walden has become almost a legendary figure among horse lovers. They like to recall that he owned and trained Refund, the 1888 Preakness winner, and trained six other winners of the Pimlico classic.

A one-time vice-president and director of the Maryland Jockey Club, Mr. Walden's link with the breeding, training and racing of thoroughbreds was not limited to association with a single organization.

The son of R. Wyndham Walden, one of the most famous of the early breeders and trainers in the country, he grew up in racing tradition and worked with his father to establish the nation wide renown of Bowling Brook Stables and colts.

He owned and trained a winner of the Kentucky Derby and early in the century as many as 200 thoroughbreds were stabled at one time at Bowling Brook, which then spread over 1,800 acres of blue grass land.

It has shrunk to 300 acres today, and it remains the site of much that was best in the development of race horses and racing ethics in Maryland.

After the family moved to Carroll County in 1878, young Walden entered even more extensively into the operation of Bowling Brook. Friends said he broke and trained as many as 90 colts within a year when the stables were most productive.

The young man shared with his father the comradeship of sportsmen from over the country. Many came to Bowling Brook both as friends and stable owners.

He was a former vice-president of the Maryland State Fair at Timonium. It is known that Mr. Walden never bet on a horse race, and always insisted on maintaining highest ethical standards of the track.

Fine poultry also interested the master of Bowling Brook Farms. He was an exhibitor and ribbon winner in shows in many states. He spent much time developing his own flock on his estate.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Norris Walden and a niece, Mrs. F. Thelma Shriener who resides at Frederick.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 22, at 2 P. M., from the home, with interment following in the Middleburg Methodist cemetery.

Honorary bearers were: Dr. L. C. Stitley, Dr. Edw. P. Thomas, Lt. C. F. Robeson, Elisha Hanson, (Wm. Anders, Wm. Jennings.

Active bearers were: Dr. Jas. Marsh, Earl Shriener, Truman Pearce, Bassett Shoemaker, Morris Haines.

J. PEARRE WANTZ

J. Pearre Wantz, Sr., 72, prominent banker of Westminster, died at his home, 179 West Main Street, at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 26, 1951.

He had been stricken Monday in the Union National bank and was moved to his home where his death occurred.

Mr. Wantz had been associated with the Union National Bank for 53 years and served as its president for the past several years. He was a member of Boumi Temple, Baltimore, and Past Master of Door-to-Virtue Lodge 46, A. F. & A. M. He served nineteen years as president of the Carroll County Board of Education, was Vice-President of the Board of Trustees of Western Maryland College; Past President of the Westminster Rotary Club, and Past President of the Westminster Chamber of Commerce.

He was a son of the late Charles V. and Caroline Virginia Pearre Wantz. His wife, Carrie R. Wantz, died several years ago. Surviving are his son, J. Pearre Wantz, Jr. and a daughter, Mrs. David H. Taylor, both of Westminster and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Friday, June 29, 1951 at his home. His pastor, Rev. Eugene Woodward, Westminster Methodist church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president of Western Maryland College. Interment in Kriders cemetery.

Test Growing of Asiatic Chestnut Trees in Virginia

Experiments in growing forest-type Asiatic chestnut trees as possible replacements for America's blight-killed trees were evacuated recently by 47 foresters, scientists and information specialists who visited the George Washington national forest in Virginia.

Studies made at the forest indicated that certain Asiatic chestnuts, particularly Chinese chestnut, show great promise of becoming forest trees when grown under forest conditions. The Japanese trees and the Henry chinquin appeared to be more susceptible to blight than the Chinese and certain hybrids. It was found that depth of the top soil had an important effect on tree form and on rate of growth of the Asiatics being tested.

The area visited, one of 21 plots established in eight states in 1936, 1938 and 1939, is a two-acre, 15-year-old planting located on Long Mountain in Virginia's Amherst county. Twenty-five kinds of Asiatic chestnuts and Asiatic hybrids are under test in the plots, which range in size from one to 32 acres. The planting sites were originally covered with the better hardwoods. They were clear-cut, planted and fenced against deer and livestock.

Modern Business Machines

Progress in the development of modern business machines has made possible the tremendous volume of correspondence, bookkeeping, filing and other details of office processing every day. Wm. S. Burroughs with his adding machine made an accountant out of the old-timer with a high stool and quill pen. Sholes with his typewriter turned the longhand girl into a shorthand girl, and made jobs for millions of her kind. Edison created the dictating machine, Joseph S. Duncan invented the Addressograph. These are all American inventions. By speeding computations and recordings those machines have added growth, and still more jobs, to industries that use them.

Get Correct Shoes

Not many of us realize that our footprints would make just as good a means of crime-detection as our fingerprints. There are no two pairs of feet exactly alike. Yet how many of us know enough about the shapes of our feet to be able to buy the kind of shoes that will give us a maximum of comfort without getting into the category of shoes with an "old lady" look? Foot specialists divide feet into five main types: The wide, short-toed foot, low instep foot, high instep foot, long, narrow foot, short plump foot. Get the right shoe for the right foot.

Adrenal Gland Plays Role When One Suffers Injuries

Another step forward in better understanding the important role played by the adrenal gland in helping the body recover from injuries has been achieved, a University of Michigan doctor states.

Dr. Jerome W. Conn, an associate professor of internal medicine, reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science on research he has been conducting at the university.

His study has shown that the adrenal gland calls upon a substance in the blood known as cholesterol to help in producing the huge amounts of adrenal hormones needed in prolonged periods of stress which the body undergoes at the time of an injury.

Cholesterol, produced largely by the liver, is the basic compound of adrenal hormones, including cortisone, the hormone found to be beneficial in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, Dr. Conn says.

In his experiments, Dr. Conn found the cholesterol content of the adrenal gland could be reduced 70 per cent within three hours by artificial stimulation which produced conditions similar to those created within the body during periods of prolonged stress.

This artificial stimulation was achieved through use of ACTH, the pituitary gland hormone which causes the adrenal gland to produce its hormones.

The effect of this prolonged stimulation of the adrenal gland has important implications for future study of several diseases, including those of the heart, liver and kidney as well as hardening of the arteries, according to Dr. Conn. These diseases are all associated with an unusual production or use of cholesterol.

A lady writes that she stopped 'munching' while looking at TV and has lost 14 pounds in a little over a month.

What a beautiful letter arrived from a lady who is in the hospital on Long Island, so ill with three round-the-clock nurses stating that she is being given that drug called "Cortisone" and as she lays there how much she enjoys reading this column. Now, that is real news to Your Observer.

This summer when there are hot days and you want a real substantial meal for the kiddies, just run right to that baker around our town and get a number of loaves of that delicious raisin bread. With plenty of milk that will be most nourishing and the change is delightful and most appetizing. The kids will love it and the adults just as much. If you like serve it with cream cheese. Good!

Thinking of having a service station check over the car and performing its needs, always watch every detail for a lady driver for they are the very best customers as when confidence is established the lady will never go elsewhere. There is a little boy of just fourteen who remains all day at the Chevy company in Littlestown learning every bit of it. Just watch that boy grow into something real fine in life. That company spends much time with cars that come in for a real checkup to keep the car in top-notch condition. Every tiny item is attended to and that is as it should be. Have a safe and sane (Fourth)!

If you do not have to go out for week ends, folks, in the terrific heat, it is best to sit on your old front porch and watch the race of man race by. You will enjoy it more! Eh! So long, folks. Until next week end D. V. ## Nepal, Gurkha Homeland, Guards Doorway to India

The independent Kingdom of Nepal has marshaled its best known "natural resource" — the force Gurkha soldier — to guard isolated mountain ramparts adjoining Tibet, where invading Chinese communist troops are on the march.

Nepal, a small country some 500 miles long and 100 wide, is a rectangular "buffer state" wedged between India and Tibet along the awesome heights of the Himalayas. Pro-Western in its ties, the ancient kingdom is now being subjected to a menacing propaganda barrage from communist China.

As the homeland of the Gurkha warrior caste, Nepal has contributed thousands of the famed tribesmen to the British and Indian armies. All are volunteers, and they have won many decorations for bravery and efficiency in two world wars and innumerable lesser campaigns.

Traditionally this mountain kingdom has been known as a land "where nearly every man is a soldier." Since 1768 the various tribes of Nepal have been ruled by the warlike Gurkhas. Upper class titles are modeled on Western military rank. Although the nation itself has lived in peace for many years, Nepal maintains a standing army estimated at 50,000—relatively large in proportion to a population of less than seven million.

It is a country of remarkable geographical contrasts. In the south bordering India is a malarial belt of lowlands, annually ravaged by monsoon floods from silt-laden rivers which rise in the mountains and empty into India's sacred Ganges. Beyond the lowlands are the Siwalik mountains and farther north are the great Himalayas, including many towering but unnamed peaks. Mt. Everest, highest mountain in the world at 29,002 feet, rises majestically at Nepal's northern border.

Wide Range of Temperature Makes Hot Water Ideal Heat

Hot water is a flexible heating medium.

The temperature of water used for heating can be varied as the outdoor temperature rises or falls.

Thus in mild weather the controls which automatically govern the temperature of the water in the boiler can be set for 90 to 100 degrees.

In more severe weather it can be advanced to 120 to 150 degrees. During extreme weather, a temperature of from 180 to 200 degrees may be utilized when and as required.

Changing the temperature of the heating medium in accordance with outdoor temperature has two advantages. First of all, it prevents the discomfort due to overheating. Second, it saves fuel because it prevents the waste which results from overheating.

It is during the mild weather of early fall and late spring that the flexibility of hot water is most appreciated. By circulating water at a low temperature, the radiators or other heat distributors will be just barely warm to the touch. Thus the discomfort resulting from overheating caused by a sudden rise of outdoor temperatures will be prevented.

Wool Scarce; Give Blankets Extra Care for Longer Life

Treat your wool blankets with the gentle care that precious possessions deserve. Textile scientists of the U.S. department of agriculture have pointed out that U.S. production of wool this year is one of the lowest on record.

Frequent airing of blankets in use not only is good sanitary practice but helps them last longer and hold their fluffiness and comfort. When a blanket is thrown back loosely so fresh air reaches both sides, the wool has a chance to get back its natural springiness which makes for warmth. But care should be taken not to throw a blanket over anything sharp, such as a peaked bedpost, which may pierce or pull it, or on anything that may stain it. Loose bed springs, sharp metal corners or even roughened wood may also catch and tear blankets or other bedding.

For best service and comfort blankets should be large enough to come up well over shoulders and still tuck firmly in the bottom of the bed. Short blankets often wear out early because they take so much pulling and strain.

A blanket stays clean longer if the bed is made so that the sheet turns back over the top of the blanket 8 to 12 inches. If the sheet is too short, a strip of cloth, basted over the top or the full length of the blanket, is good protection against soiling the wool. A covering over the blanket, or even a third sheet used on top, gives added warmth because it holds still air in the fluff wool.

WOMEN'S GUILD MEETING

The Women's Guild of Grace E. & R. church held its regular meeting Thursday night in the Sunday school room with Mrs. Harry Mohney, Stewardship Chairman, and her committee in charge. The meeting opened by singing "Take My Life and Let It Be", after which Miss Helen Bankard led the group in prayer. Mrs. Harry Mohney read the call to worship and then called on the men's quartet to sing. The quartet composed of Mr. Delmont Koons, Mr. Edgar Fink, Mr. Elmer Shildt and Mr. Harry Mohney sang two selections: "Thine for Service" and "We Shall Shine as Stars." Miss Ruth Stambaugh gave a reading "Let Me Live In Thy House By The Side of the Road" and Mrs. Jean Harman played a selection on the piano.

Mrs. Mohney introduced the topic for the evening "Pick and Shovel Peacemakers" by reading the poem, "Are You His Witness" and then told the group of various ways young people could give help in Christian service such as mental institutions. The following gave readings pertaining to the topic: Mrs. Laura Newcomer, Mrs. Jean Harman, and Miss Helen Bankard. The hymn "Our Best" was sung followed by a humorous reading by Mrs. Bernice Study and then Mrs. Mohney turned the meeting over to Mrs. Clyde Hesson.

Routine business matters were taken care of and Mrs. Hesson called for the report of the nominating committee which submitted the following names for office: president, Mrs. Glenn Martin; vice-president, Mrs. Ellsworth Lambert; recording secretary, Mrs. Morgan Andreas; financial secretary, Mrs. Delmont Koons; and treasurer, Miss Mary Fringer. Further nominations may be made at the September meeting when officers will be elected. Mrs. Hesson read a letter or appeal from Homewood Church Home asking for financial assistance to help liquidate the debt incurred in the construction of the new home for the aged.

The August meeting will be in the form of a family picnic, the date to be announced by the committee.

Thrombosis Fatalities

Coronary thrombosis, contrary to popular impression, is not usually fatal immediately or within a short time.

Results of a study by a leading insurance company show that 70 per cent of a group of persons who had had one or more coronary attacks were still alive at the end of five years, 50 per cent at the end of 10 years, and 43 per cent at the end of 12 years. The study traces survivorship among 540 men for whom life insurance disability benefits were approved because of heart conditions.

"Winter Scours"

Milk production in many dairy herds is going to be cut back sharply during the coming months by "winter scours." When a cow suddenly refuses feed, appears dull, secretes less milk and scours badly, the owner may suspect that the animal has eaten spoiled or frozen feed. But if other cows in the herd rapidly develop the same symptoms, the trouble may be winter scours, a quick-spreading infectious disease. Veterinarians have isolated the germ which causes the malady; it is a 'vibrio' organism, related to a germ which sometimes causes abortion in cattle.

To Measure Humidity

Measuring humidity is commonly done with two similar thermometers, one of which has a cotton wick, dipping into water, wrapped around the bulb to keep it wet. With published tables (known as "psychrometric tables") the humidity may be determined from the reading of the thermometer with dry bulb, and the number of degrees below this which the wet-bulb thermometer shows. For a dry-bulb temperature of 70 degrees, and 50 per cent humidity, the wet-bulb instrument would read about 58 degrees, i. e., a depression of 12 degrees.

For Pig Protection

A pair of clean rubber boots is worth more than any medicine in protecting pigs from a fatal intestinal disease called transmissible gastroenteritis. Best means of controlling it is to move healthy pigs as far away as possible from the sick ones. Many farmers do this, a veterinary medical bulletin points out, but they overlook the fact that their shoes can spread the infection. Attendants who have walked through infected hog quarters should put on a pair of clean boots before entering healthy quarters, the bulletin cautions. The disease, believed to be caused by a virus, is marked by severe diarrhea, vomiting, and rapid loss of weight. Young pigs are hit hardest, with death losses sometimes running as high as 90 per cent.

Finishes Pre-Tested

The term "industrial-finishes" is applied to the finishes used by manufacturers to enhance their products. Before being applied, they are subjected to many special tests based upon the kind of usage to which the article may be subjected. For example, in addition to tests for adhesion, and hardness, finishes for refrigerators, stoves and kitchen cabinets are tested for their resistance to various foods, such as lemon juice, butter, lard and vinegar—as well as to various cleaning materials.

First Walkout Traced To Ancient Egyptians

Strikes and "walkouts" may be news today, but they were an old story to a man named Zenon who lived in Egypt more than 2,000 years ago.

As manager of a great estate for Apollonius, right-hand of King Ptolemy Philadelphus, Zenon was constantly besieged by the discontented peasants who tilled the land. Conflicts, strikes, and complaints were his daily lot. Whenever he would not yield to their terms for better working conditions, the peasants would walk out on him in a body.

Headquarters for these first recorded strikes of labor, was usually a temple where the workmen would seek refuge until their demands were met. Between strikes and walkouts, they would compose letters to Apollonius, complaining of Zenon's "inefficiency and lack of intelligence in managing the agricultural work" on the 6,800 acre estate. Some of them even asked for an audience with Apollonius so that they might air their grievances at greater length and in more considerable detail.

On one side of Zenon were Apollonius, to whom the peasants were forced to pay rent, and the officials, who came to weigh the grain as soon as it was ripe, so that they could confiscate the state's share. On the other side, were the unhappy peasants who felt they were being dealt with unjustly.

If ever a man needed a labor relations expert, it was Zenon. Unfortunately, at the time, there was no one qualified to fill that need. And although he eventually graduated to the role of vineyard owner, cattle-breeder, and sheep-raiser, Zenon died without ever learning the art of getting along with his workers.

Egg May Aid in Correcting Childhood Abnormalities

The electroencephalograph, the device that records brain waves, may become a valuable aid in the correction of certain abnormal behavior that occurs in late childhood.

So says Dr. Donald Lindsley, visiting professor of psychology on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

Many behavior disturbances of each childhood are due to brain injuries at birth, he says. Some of these result in paralysis, cerebral palsy or other readily observable manifestations. Others, however, may not manifest themselves at first but may result in abnormal behavior later in life.

With the use of the electroencephalograph it may be possible to spot brain damage immediately after birth, Dr. Lindsley points out. Although damaged brain tissue may not be repaired, corrective training to compensate for abnormalities may be initiated.

The main problem in adapting the device to such use is in establishing satisfactory norms in brain wave patterns of babies. Once the norms are established, he believes the EEG (abbreviated term for the device) may become a valuable tool.

In the future, it is possible that doctors can chart your baby's brain development like they do his physical growth today, Dr. Lindsley declares.

To Thaw Frozen Birds

Poultry may be thawed in the package just before cooking, or the outside wrapper may be removed and the bird thawed more rapidly in front of an electric fan. A 3-pound bird requires about six to eight hours per pound to thaw in a refrigerator. However, an electric fan will thaw a 5-pound bird in three to six hours. Turkeys require more time. If wrapper has been removed before thawing, the bird should be cooked immediately or there will be danger of spoilage. Also, remember that when poultry is not completely thawed before cooking, it is necessary to increase the cooking time so the meat will be done all the way through when time is up.

"Lost Wax" Process

The "lost wax" process is credited to the Italian sculptor Benvenuto Cellini. It is used for making castings of complicated objects. The design is made in a wax pattern, then a plaster mold is made around it. To remove the pattern, the wax is melted, and thus "lost." Then molten metal is poured into the mold, to take the place of the wax, and after it hardens the plaster is chipped away. This process was developed to a high degree of precision during World War II for making parts for machinery.

Raising Goldfish Outside

Goldfish can be raised in an outside aquarium. Several large goldfish should have a space several feet square and at least a foot deep. Common types of out-door aquaria are rock or cement pools or large tubs sunk into the ground. Many of our native aquatic plants do well in such an aquarium, and as the fish like some shade, a supply of duckweed or a similar plant is helpful. The goldfish will not survive the winter in an outdoor aquarium that freezes over, but they will do well in ponds, under the ice.

Learning to Say 'We'

Lesson for July 8, 1951

The "We-Feeling"

GOD INVENTED the family; that is what is meant by calling it a "divine institution." It is part of God's plan for each of his children that he shall learn how to live, not in a lonely cell by himself, not as a lonely wolf fighting against all comers, but as a member of a family.

The family is enormously important in many ways. There is room to speak of only one of them. Students of personality have found a new but simple name for something that every one ought to have, but not every one does have: it is called the "we-feeling."

The lone-wolf type of person never really thinks "we." His mind divides the world into two armed camps: on the one side is "I" and on the other side is every one else.

He goes through life assuming that nobody is for him, nobody is with him, and he in turn is for nobody and with nobody. His "hand is against every man," as the Bible says. Even if he teams up with others for a while, he will double-cross them if he thinks he will make something out of it. He is your typical criminal, "anti-social," as teachers and sociologists call him.

What It Means to Grow Up

CHILDREN usually begin life without much we-feeling, if any. They don't naturally share their toys or their dinners or anything else. They grab all they can and they don't like to be grabbed from. The process of growing up—really growing up, not merely getting older and bigger—is a process of developing a healthy we-feeling. Nearly every one develops this to some extent, of course; but when some people say "we" they don't mean very many.

We have all heard of the man who prayed: "Lord, bless me and my wife, my son John and his wife. Us four, no more. Amen!" He doesn't make a very good citizen.

But as the "we"-circle grows wider and wider we get a more and more public-spirited and service-minded citizen, till at the high point of the we-feeling we see a man like St. Paul who calls himself a debtor to all men, or like John Wesley who said, "The world is my parish," or a modern international citizen and statesman such as John R. Mott.

How the Family Helps

THE very best place to learn the "we-feeling" is in a good family. This does not necessarily mean an aristocratic family or a wealthy one. Many good families, perhaps most good ones, are quite poor and obscure, as the family of Jesus was.

But whether it is in the city or the country, or however large or small it may be, the good family is one that helps every member of it to grow up into a healthy adult we-feeling. Living in a family teaches the meaning of "all for one."

In a good family, all are proud of what any one accomplishes; the big brothers and sisters are just as pleased with little brother's first steps as little brother is himself. When father wins a prize at the state fair, or when mother is elected an officer in her church society, or when Molly makes the honor roll in school or Jim makes the basketball team, everybody in the family is just as pleased as if they themselves had received the honor.

When any one of the family gets into trouble, they all stand by to help.

The Best Families Are Christian

THE best families are those where religion is real; and if we believe that the Christian religion is the best, then we shall agree that Christians ought to have the best families.

Remember that in a Christian home Christ is the real head of the house. If ever any one had the "we-feeling" in its purest form, it was Jesus. No one can ever live long in his company and stay selfish.

So in the home where he is not only the best-loved guest but the true head of the house, every one from oldest to youngest learns to say "we" and loves to say it, and means it and lives it. From such homes come the best citizens and neighbors.

Bald?

Try Burnt Bees

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Researchers studying colonial apothecary shops discovered the formula for an 18th century hair restorer.

Contained in "The Complete Housewife" printed in 1742 by William Parks, the formula calls for two ounces of bear's grease, one drachm of the ashes of burnt bees, one drachm of the ashes of southernwood, one drachm of the juice of a white lily root, one drachm of oil sweet almonds and six drachms of pure musk.

The concoction should be made into an ointment and, according to the directions, "the day before the full moon shave the place and anoint it every day with this ointment." The guarantee was made that "it will cause hair to grow where you'll have it."

Remains of Ancient Ocean Creatures Found in Alaska

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Brooks mountains of northern Alaska remain probably the least explored region under the American flag.

They are North America's northern rampart.

An exploration of parts of these mountains was carried out last summer. And in the rocks of the mountains the explorers found forms of strange sea creatures living 300 million years ago.

Throughout the long, temperate, quiet period of the planet's history, known as the Mississippian, the rocks of these mountains were at the bottom of a shallow sea. Then the dominant or at least the most abundant — creatures were crinoids, closely related to the sea lilies of the present time.

This was the heyday of these curious animals who were, for the most part, attached by stems to the sea bottom's ooze. A thick strata of the mountains are today made up of broken fragments or skeletons of the animals.

The explorers found themselves in a region of unexcelled natural beauty. In the mountains are great glacial valleys, their floors covered with mosses and stunted willows. They may be carpeted with flowers during the brief summer when the temperatures range from 30 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit. All around tower barren 5,000 foot mountains. Farther south they rise to 7,000 feet.

The only human inhabitants are two small groups of inland Eskimo, the only remnants of these hunting people. Bear and caribou are plentiful.

The Brooks range extends westward from the Bering sea into Canada. It has many similarities, paleontologically, with the eastern slopes of the Rockies. It is one of the earth's great Mississippian areas.

Snow on Mt. Etna Belongs To Archbishop of Catania

ROME, Italy—All the snow that falls on Europe's tallest volcanic peak, Mount Etna, which became active recently, belongs to the Roman Catholic archbishop of Catania. This almost unbelievable fact dates back to a grant from medieval times. And ever since then it's been a considerable revenue producer for the Catania archdiocese because plenty of snow falls on 10,758-foot Mount Etna.

For several thousand feet down from its central crater, the volcano is snow-capped most of the year.

Trenches are dug and shoveled full of snow. Before summer sets in, the white-packed trenches are covered with fir tree branches to keep off the sun. The snow packs into natural ice.

That ice is a valuable commodity all the sweltering summer in Catania and a score of little summer-resort villages along the East Sicilian coast at the bottom of the mountain.

In the earliest days of the grant, there was no other refrigeration. Even now, the Etna snow sells at prices just as good or better than those for the artificial ice available in Catania.

There are no figures on how much the snow is worth, but it is presumed to net the church several thousand dollars a year.

When Etna erupted violently recently, it melted away some of the snow. But there are several square miles of it left.

Woman Who Befriended Jew Is Rewarded by Refugee

NEW YORK—A woman who sheltered a Jew when the Nazis overran his native Latvia has been rewarded by the grateful refugee.

The story began in Latvia in 1941. Simon Mirkin, his younger sister and their parents were clapped into a German slave labor camp for Jews near Riga. During a trip to Riga on a labor project, Mirkin met Mrs. Olga Danos, 44, of the Russian Orthodox faith, who made her living as a dressmaker for the wives of Nazi officials. Mrs. Danos arranged for him and his family to live with her.

After the war Mirkin married and came to the United States. But he never forgot his benefactress. Recently Mrs. Danos arrived by ship as a displaced person—sponsored by the Mirkins with whom she will live.

Let's Think

by G. H. ENFIELD

OUR NATION'S BIRTHDAY

We are approaching another birthday of our nation. Our nation has had a remarkable history since its beginning in 1776. It is the age of about five generations.

A free people feel a grave responsibility for and toward the enslaved peoples of the earth. We are at war in Korea at present for this reason. With us the individual is everything; with Russia and her satellites the state is everything. In a democracy the state exists for the individual, in a totalitarian country the individual exists for the state. With a democratic people the state is servant of the people; with a totalitarian state the people are its servants. Hence there are two conflicting philosophies of government. In their raw stages, one is irreconcilable to the other.

To live at peace one with another, and one people with the other, there must be an era of education and training. Confidence must be established, suspicion must be eradicated, and goodwill must manifest itself in the international relationship. How these things are to be accomplished is the problem which requires patience, tact, and integrity of purpose by leaders of wisdom, understanding, and with a sense of justice for all. A consideration of this and related problems should furnish thought for a Fourth of July program.

Benson Ford, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company, has said recently: "Our society in America is founded not upon the cold and bloodless 'economic man' of the Marxist but upon faith in man as an end in himself. We believe that the purpose of our society is not primarily to assure the safety of the state, but to safeguard human dignity and the freedom of the individual. Our unparalleled productivity and standard of living are not the consequence of an economic system, says this well known leader of industry. 'It is the other way around. Our economic success is the consequence of our ethical and moral standards, of our democratic faith in man... But even as we recognize the true source of our strength, we must admit that there is still a large gap between the ideal and the reality. About the principles of American democracy, we are very clear. But in their application, we are sometimes uncertain and hesitant. Let's admit very frankly that we haven't lived up to our own ideals. Here, in a nation which is the acknowledged champion of democracy, we are still beset by intolerance, prejudice, bigotry, and racism. We are in the paradoxical of believing wholeheartedly in man and yet denying to other men, even here in our own country, the respect and tolerance which man deserves.'"

Let us not fail the peoples of the various nations of the earth in moral, spiritual, and democratic leadership.

INK SPOTS

There will never be true brotherhood until there are more ideal neighborhoods.

Some will inherit a mansion in the sky who never owned a home on earth. Sitting on a tree branch, singing its heart away, 'Was a robin redbreast, Calling for the break of day. The fellow who starts out to set the world on fire is usually the first to get burned.

The milk of human kindness too often proves to be only whey.

Just as spinsters tell mothers how to raise children so gentlemen farmers tell dirt farmers how to raise crops.

A dangerous kind of inflation is the inflation of ignorance.

When you presume and the other fellow also presumes, that means too much presumption.

Listen to the mocking birds singing in the Nation's capital.

Rip Van Winkle slept for twenty years, yet no one reads of his having been a sleeping beauty.

MARYLAND MUSINGS

Summer flowering plants should be pruned after they finish blooming. Cows must get more than exercise in pasture if they are to produce well.

The lawnmower should be adjusted to cut the grass higher in the summer.

Eggs must be given better care during the summer if maximum quality and prices are expected.

Ladino clover poultry ranges produce higher yields over a longer period of years than other types.

Mulches, water and fertilizer will do much to improve ornamental plantings around the home.

At present milk prices, 2 years production is necessary before a dairy cow pays back her feed costs and the cost of raising her.

Ladino clover is preferred by chickens, and is higher in protein, minerals and vitamins than any other types of poultry ranges.

FAIR DIVISION

His health wasn't any too good, so the Eastern city-dweller went looking for a place to live in the Southwest. In one small town in Arizona he approached an old timer sitting on the steps of the general store. "Say," he asked, "What's the death rate around here?"

"Same as it is back East, bub," answered the old fellow, "one to a person."

No Guide Needed

The two women were telling each other about weddings. "I went to Jean's wedding the other day and, as she and the groom were going down the aisle, the lights went out!"

"Goo'ness!" exclaimed the other femme. "What did they do?"

"They just kept on walking. This is Jean's seventh marriage, you know, and she's familiar with every step of the way."

YOUNG AMERICA

The beginners at Sunday school were told to draw a picture of the flight into Egypt. One little girl turned in a picture of an airplane, with three people in the back, wearing halos, and a fourth up front, without a halo. Perplexed, the teacher asked the little girl who the fourth person was.

"Oh," replied the youngster, "that's Pontius, the pilot."

American Laugh Hurt Bowler More Than Sticks or Stones

One hundred years ago a revolution occurred—and the world of hats has never been quite the same since.

The top hat—whose admirers claimed it was "like Shakespeare, to be not for an age, but for all time"—was knocked off its reigning perch by an innocuous but saucy little item called "the bowler." In the autumn of 1950 the bowler was honored in Great Britain by one of the first centenary celebrations ever held for a hat.

Unlike its high-hat predecessor, the bowler—or derby, as it is known in America—was both democratic and efficient. It was adopted by men in all walks of life and prized for its neat resistance to high winds, falling plaster and snowballs hurled by small boys.

Despite its utilitarian features, however, the low-crowned, hard-shelled bowler had its day in the courts of high style. Britain's Prince Albert adopted it within a year after William Coke—stalwart advocate of common sense headgear for the steeplechase—designed it as a kind of crash helmet protection in equestrian accidents.

By the '80's men of fashion on two continents were not fully dressed without a bowler. It was the choice of every blade of the "Gay Nineties." In the 1920's it was the trademark of New York's fun-loving mayor Jimmy Walker. The brown derby affected by Governor Al Smith became something of a political symbol. A Hollywood restaurant was built in its image and named for it.

Today the bowler is still a popular part of the Britisher's wardrobe. In London it stamps the bank clerks, young men-about-town and, especially, gas-meter readers. In the United States, however, the derby is seen less and less frequently. It seems to have been relegated largely to the world of the theater—as part of variety acts, a thing of humor.
