Teacher Turnover and Expected Shortage

Many children in the county have suf-Many children in the county have suffered from the effects of a large teacher turnover. This has been a persistent problem for a number of years. In the summer of 1947 it was necessary for the Board of Education to fill 35 vacancies. At that time, the Board stated in its annual report that "this was a difficult task due to the scarcity of teachers and the differential existing between the salaries paid in Carroll County and those offered in tial existing between the salaries paid in Carroll County and those offered in other counties of the state." It went on to say "in many cases the appointments were made on a temporary basis due to the lack of fully qualified teachers". In 1948, 45 replacements were made. 45 teachers new to the county were again appointed in 1949 county were again appointed in 1949. In 1950 the turnover was indicated to be 23%. Last year 87 new people were added to the teaching staff. For the coming year 44 replacements have been made to date.

For the past five years the turnover has ranged from 15% to 27% of the entire teaching force. Consider this situation in terms of a business. It would present serious hardship for a mita, on Saturday, attended the weding of his niece in Wilmington, Delaare.

Master Johnny and Jimmy Little, Hanover, are spending a week with Hanover, are spending a week with pensive, time consuming, and would result in inefficiency. Yet this is what is happening in the schools of the county. Constant changes in staff county. Constant changes in staff present difficulties to the supervisors, to the principals, and to the chil-

> The Association is convinced that a salary adjustment would help remedy

Many parents have, at one time or another, felt alarmed that their children had suffered ill effects from poor teaching. Unless some action is taken in the near future, this promises to become the rule rather than the exception. The shortage indicated by the county in 1947 has become even the county in 1947 has become even more serious in the state of Maryland. The State Department of Education in the July issue of "Maryland Public Schools" estimated that 2,627 new Schools" estimated that 2,627 new teachers were needed for the coming year. The teacher training institutions of the state could furnish 915 instructors if their graduates would stay in the state. This left 1,713 teachers to be secured elsewhere. Thus, Maryland must continue to attract out of state teachers. This is becoming increasingly difficult to do because most of the surrounding states have increased their salary schedule in have increased their salary schedule in the past year.

The shortage of teachers will become a major problem in the future There are more children in the state under six years of age than there are in the first ten grades of school at the present time. The CCTA is concerned about this situation for not there a shortage in Maryland but there is also a shortage in the United States. Every year fewer people are preparing to enter the teaching profession. One of the major reasons given to explain this fact is the relatively low income teachers receive in contrast with income received in other fields. In 1952, there were 3.96% fewer college graduates in the elemenfewer college graduates in the elementary field and 14.14% fewer graduates in the high school field than in the preceding year. The fact that not all education students go into teaching adds to the graveness of the problem.

All this is happening at a time when more transfers are proceded than more teachers are needed than ever before in the history of public schools. Beginning next year 100,000 new elementary teachers will be needed every year in the forseeable future. 50,000 new high school teachers will needed each year until 1955 at which time the need will grow sharply. Some action must be taken to stop this trend away from teaching. If it continues parents must face the possi-bility that their children will be taught by untrained teachers or in abnormally large classes.

The teachers of Carroll County are The teachers of Carroll County are interested in a salary increase from a personal viewpoint. They are also interested in the salary problem because they are concerned about the future of the teaching profession and about the future of the children of Carroll County. Carroll County.

RATE INCREASE ASKED BY C. & P.

Labor Costs Given as Reason For Application

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City today applied to the Public Service Comday applied to the Public Service Commission for temporary rate increases under bond to offset higher labor costs resulting from recent wage agreements negotiated with unions representing C. and P. employees.

W. Griffin Morrel, vice-president of the company, stressed that the filing for temporary rates is separate action for temporary rates is separate action 'in no way related to nor dependent upon" the outcome of the company's appeal from a March 11, 1952 P. S. C. order now before the Circuit Court of Polymers City

Baltimore City. C. and P.'s rate application noted that its present level of earnings is "substantially below" that which the Commission found to be fair and equitable in its last case. The petition said this earnings level is primarily due to a large increase in the company's labor costs, "the extent of which could not have been foreseen or anticipated by either the Commission or the pany" at the time of issuance of the P. S. C.'s March 11 order.

The company said recent changes in wage rates have increased its total annual labor costs by more than $2,400,000 since March 11, 1952. As the result of this increase and "in view of the depressing effect of the company's high-cost construction program", the application stated, C. and P.'s annual net operating income, on a going level basis, is substantially below the rate of return allowed by the Commission in the last rate case. Pointing out that a hearing on final determination of the company's rates and charges would require more than 90 days of elapsed time, C. and P. said it was forced, "in order to avoid ir-reparable loss", to seek relief through P. S. C. approval of temporary rates calculated to produce approximately $1,800,000 in additional annual gross revenue before taxes, or about $830,-000 in additional annual net income. The company said this amount would restore its earnings to the level authorized by the Commission on March

The company asked the P. S. C. to authorize it to put the temporary rates in effect under bond pending "a full investigation of any and all such matters as may be relevant to a determination by the Commission, in actermination by the Commission, in action of

BALLOT BATTALION TO BE OR-GANIZED IN TANEYTOWN

A new army will soon be tramping the streets of Taneytown. It is called the "Ballot Battalion" and it is dedicated to war—all-out-war against the apathy and indifference of the voting public. It will be comprised of representatives of all non-partisan, patriotic community organizations that will join in the campaign to urge every eligible citizen to register and vote in forthcoming elections.

termination by the Commission, in accordance with the laws of the State of Maryland, of the permanent rates to be charged by the company for the rendition of interstate telephone service within the State of Maryland."

"In general", Morrell said, "we are asking that our rates be increased by 25c a month for all main services except individual unlimited services which would be increased 50c a month. However, these increases will be slightly higher in certain exchanges where, due to growth, the number of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown is spearheading the initial organization meeting which will be held at 7 P. M. on Monday, August 25 at the Taneytown Recreation Park. During the organization meeting, a general chairman, and an Executive Committee will be elected by the representatives of participating groups. A large number of Ballot Battalion Action Committees will then be appointed by the General Chairman with the approval of the Executive Committee.

In discussing the Ballot Battalion plan, Kiwanis er said: "The Ballot Battalion is much, much more important than any one individual or one organization. To be successful, it must be comprised of every patriotic, civic-minded group within the entire community. Although the Kiwanis Club of Taney-Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell are though the Kiwanis Club of Taney-town is providing the leadership for their home at 1911 N. Russell.... Ballot Battalion must not be used to

At the kick-off meeting, Ballot Battalion members will consider ways and means to successfully sponsor a three-point program. The three major objectives, which will be continuous in their application, are: To conduct community-wide campaign to register every eligible voter; to assist a wood hobbyist, who recently sent her a stately dropleaf table he made to the general public in obtaining the views of all candidates, and the principles for which they stand; and finally, to sponsor non-partisan Get-out-the-Vote campaigns on a community-wide basis, utilizing all available me-dia and community leadership in promoting such campaigns.

Although the plan is comprehensive, it is a simple one. An organization plan, entitled "Ballot Battalion—A Handbook for Americans," has been prepared for the guidance of the local Ballot Battalion. The Taneytown Ballot Battalion is expected to utilize press, poster, buttons, automobile banners and all other available media to focus attention on its program. Concluding his remarks about the Ballot Battalion, President Royer stated: During the general elections in 1940, only 53% of the eligible voters in America went to the polls. In 1950, only 44% voted. Americans are kidding themselves if the think they are living under a representiive govern-ment, when less than half of the people exercise their right of franchise. Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote, and the breakdown of morals in government is largely due to our own neglect. We can and will do something about it!"

NOT SO SIMPLE

There's nothing very complicated about buying a steak. It's obtainable in various shapes and weights and types, and if you want one all you have to do is go to the butcher, select the cut you want, pay for it, and carry it away.

But to produce that steak, or any other kind of meat, is a complex business that calls for a great many diverse skills and resources.

First of all, most of our meat is raised West of the Mississippi while most of it is consumed East of that river. A very wide chasm must be bridged before livestock running on Western farms and ranges becomes meat-on-the-table in Eastern homes.

A great many people have their hands in the job of turning beef and other meat animals into cuts ready for oven and frying pan. These include the men who look after the cattle, the steelmakers who provide fencing and many other items, the lumbermen who cut the wood used in barns and corrals, the railroaders and truck drivers who carry the animals to market, the bankers who finance production, the packers who process and distribute the meat, the retailers who sell it to you, and many, many more.

Incidentally, some fraction of the price you pay when you buy meat may represent money that came to you as a result of the operations of the meat industry because the task of supplying this vast nation with meat, if all its far-flung ramifications are taken into account, involves millions of people who benefit economically in direct or indirect fashion.

ere's nothing complicated about buying a piece of meat, it's a complicated job to get it ready for you to buy when and where you want it.-Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

MANSFIELD, OHIO, NEWS-JOURNAL: "When discussion turns to high prices,' as it so frequently does, it is well to keep in mind the extent to which the tremendous total of Federal spending-and resultant excessive taxes-enters into the price situation. On a loaf of bread the variety of taxes is estimated to be 36 per cent of the price to the consumer, and for gasoline the tax runs to more than half of the retail price paid. It is the same story with telephone service, electric and gas utilities, and whatever you need for convenient and comfortable living, as it is only by such extortionate taxation that the billions of dollars can be provided for Federal government spending all over the world-and it appears that the and cannot be sighted.'

MANNING, S. C., TIMES: "In our great country, vacation time reminds even stay-at-homes that they are free to roam at will over a vast area 1,600 by 2,800 miles in size. Here are no 'secret police' to demand registration eards-no spies to eavesdrop on our private conversations and file reports. Except for a few quarantine regulations to prevent the spread of plant disease, there are no formalities at state borders. The New Yorker is welcome in Washington state-the tourist from Maine meets a friendly reception in Florida. That, among other things to do with liberty and freedom, is what it means to be an American."

WADENA, MINN., PIONEER JOURNAL: "American visitors to Canada are finding that their dollar s worth 97 or 98 cents in Canadian money, whereas the Canadian dollar is now quoted at 102 cents, thus we see reflected in cold figures what happens to the currency of a country that goes n for socialism and paternalism such as we have been witnessing since the early days of the New Deal. The same thing happened over in England."

ALMA, MICH, RECORD: "In 1920 Americans began working for themselves on Feb. 26. Up to that time they had been working for the government in order to be able to pay their taxes. By 1940 the date had been advanced to March 27. In 1951 it was even later, April 28. This year it has been pushed up to May 19. Never before have Americans had to work so long to pay their taxes. Out of each hour worked, 23 minutes pay is taken by the government in direct and hidden imposts."

PETALUMA, CALIF., ARGUS-COURIER: "The break in the attempt to hold back inflation has been made, under government auspices. The government, which is supposed to represent the public, has been favoring one section of that public. And in the end the whole public pays."

LIBERAL, KANSAS, SOUTHWEST DAILY TIMES: "Prevention of floods in Western Kansas can best be obtained by the watershed control plan through the construction of small dikes, levels and soil conservation measures....Governor Arn hit the nail on the head when he said, "You don't have to be an engineer to know it wouldn't be practical to build huge all-purpose dams on the flat plains of Kansas.'"

Iron Crown

The famous "Iron Crown" contained a circlet that was said to be a nail of the "True Cross." Research experts describe the crown as "worn by the yellow-haired Lombard kings, descendants of a fierce Germanic tribe, who ruled over most of Italy during the declining days of the Byzantine Empire."

Some Heap!

In Chicago, Orville Andrews told police how they would be able to identify his missing car: 'a 1949 Chevrolet convertible body, mounted on a 1939 Studebaker chassis, with a 1949 Kaiser front bumper, a 1949 Oldsmobile rear bumper, a 1949 Chevrolet grille and a 1950 Studebaker engine.

Bolero Jacket

A clever way to add freshness to a bolero jacket for a suit from a precious season is to add a tiny color of black velvet to it. If you have button trimming on the suit, use covered velvet buttons to match the collar.

Lamp Shades

Fabric lamp shades will last a lot longer if you wash them from time to time. Wipe parchment, heavy paper, or similar shades with a soapy cloth, sponge rapidly, and allow to dry quickly. Keep cloth as dry as possible.

Lost City

The American museum of natural history reported the discovery of a lost city in the Seistan Basin on the Iran-Afghanistan border, a 30square-mile settlement seemingly unoccupied for 5,000 years.

Better Late Than Never

"A nice sort of welcome!" said the father visiting his son at a boarding school. "I am hardly out of the train when you ask me for money." "Well, dad, you must admit the train was twenty minutes late."

Neat Woman

A tailored cape dress is just the thing for the woman who likes the neatness a suit gives but still prefers a dress. Boldly buttoned and worn with a tie, these are ideal fashion for business or club days.

U.N. Wages War on Tuberculosis in Mexico

Thirty-seven million boys and girls have been tested for tuberculosis in 22 countries, and 17 million of them vaccinated with BCG (Bacillus Calmette Guerin), since the end of the war in the International Tuberculosis Campaign sponsored by United Nations agencies and Scandinavian voluntary societies. The campaign was begun six years ago by the Danish Red Cross Society and was carried on by the U.N. International Children's Emergency Fund, the U. N. World Health Organization and Scandinavian volunteers. Above, one of the teams is shown at work in the village square in San Andres Tuxtla, in Veracruz, Mexico. Performing the tuberculin test is Danish Nurse Marit Schultz (right), assisted by Nurse Antonieta Montana of Mexico, standing behind her. Supervising the test is Dr. Gomez Nieto of Mexico, shown sitting at a table, right.

FEESERSBURG

During the recent political conventions both parties used paid demonstrators which annoyed many an American, but this sort of thing is not entirely new. About 1820, Paris theatened to apply the sort of the so ters began to pay persons to applaud the actors, to insure success of plays. Some of the hired applauders even laughed at the proper time, some wept, while others merely applauded. Women were even hired to hold their handkerchiefs to their eyes during the sad scenes. Mayber some of the

this technique.

Because the public is urged almost daily to donate a pint of their blood to the Red Cross it may interest the future donor to learn that the average normal adult body contains eight to ten pints of blood. Of course the quantity varies with the size and phylean ones. Blood is composed of about 78 per cent water and about 22 per cent solids. Weighed measure or measure blood is slightly heavier than water. A pint of blood weighs about one pound and the number of pinnts of blood in a body can be computed roughly by dividing the weight in pounds by 12. Thus a person weighing 144 pounds has about 12 pints (or pounds) of blood. Normal, healthy ersons may lose as much as a third of their blood without fatal results.

Last Thursday evening the Union Bridge Girl Scouts were entertained the merchants of Two Tavern Store by Mrs. David Bowers and Mrs. Monroe Hahn, of Middleburg. The high-light of the evening was a visit to Bowling Brook, where Mrs. Robert the Gettysburg High and graduated there June '52. "Best of luck Betty." Last week Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reynolds and Mrs. Raymond Reynolds is 5-year-old boy, who had been fishing with his father came home to ask his mother: "Do fish sleep?" At first his mother lightly tossed the question aside, but after thinking it over devided it wasn't such a siller question. cided it wasn't such a silly question after all. So between us, we came up with the answer and her it is: Fish day with are unable to close their eyes and do Samuel. not sleep in the ordiary sense of that term as applied to mammals. Experiments with special apparatus, however, indicate that fish are more active at certain times and that these periods of activity are followed by periods of repose. Such periods of inactivity, which are variable in degree may be comparable to sleep in the sense of physiological rest. The extent to which the sense organs become insensitive to external stimuli during these periods of repose is unknown. Sometimes a ash in an aquarium will lie on its side and appear to be completely oblivious to everything around it. The condensed answer to the 5-year-old was: 'Yes, fish sleep, but, with their eyes Surprisingly, he was satisopen.'

The potato crop this year is a failure in more ways than one. Not only were there fewer potatoes, but one can't even cook them tender. The outside falls apart and the inside remains as hard as a baseball.

There is one thing about the political campaign this year, even though it is just in it's earliest stage, that is offending the sensitive religious person. Both democrats and republicans, politicians and laymen are quoting the Bible at each other. My grandfather used to say "Beware of the politician, who uses the words of the Holy Book to further his cause, because even the devil can quote the Scriptures for his own purpose."

MARRIED

FRANKLIN-EATON

Julia Lucinda Eaton, daughter of Martha and the late John Eaton, Gar- a 'Let Down" for her! rison, Md., and Wade Joseph Franklin, Reisterstown, were married August 16th, 7:30 p. m., 1952, at Roop's Mills, Meadow Branch. The Rev. William E. Roop, Brookside Place, near Westminster, performed the ceremony. Those present during the marriage service were the two attendants and Mrs. Harry I. Rinehart. The bride was beautifully attired in street length, Avenue, Reisterstown, was matron of onor, who was gowned in street length attire, of a very beautiful shade of dark blue. Both the bride and the bridesmaid wore corsages.. John F. Folkert was best man. He and the bride-groom wore an attractive shade of dark brown.

After a short trip south, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin will reside in the community of Reisterstown.

KNOTT-ECKERT

On Saturday, the 16th of August, at a nuptial mass in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Taneytown, Miss Joan Margaret Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber L. Eckert of Taneytown became the bride of Mr. Franklin Raphael Knott, son of Mrs. Roger B. Knott and the late Roger B. Knott of Frederick. The double ring eremony was performed by the pride's pastor, the Rev. Charles J. Walker. Given in marriage by her brother, the bride was attired in a gown of white taffeta with a full skirt and tight bodice, having a lace yoke. The three-quarter sleeves were trimmed with lace cuffs. Her veil fell from a tiara of white stephanotis. The bride chose as her maid of honor Miss Regina Orndorff of Emmitsburg, who wore a blue taffeta gown similiar to that of the bride's. The flower girl, Miss Dolores Eckert, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink taffeta, also matching Slickers?"

Uncle Sam Says

We're seeing the old year out this week. For those of us who've held on to our Defense Bonds, it was a prosperous year indeed. Help make 1952 a prosperous year by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. This time month Plan where you bank. This time next year you can say to yourself, "I now own U. S. Defense Bonds. I've saved all that money, and I've helped Uncle Sam with it, too. Am I lucky!" But it won't be luck at all, just the application of common sense.

Cooler Ride Enlarges Corn-on-Cob Market Farmers Ship Sweet Corn in Bag with Ice

Bigger markets for the sweet corn producer and better eating are the goals of a science-industry program in which farmers will bag their sweet corn with ice for distribution to retail outlets in many major consumer areas.

The program is based on agricultural extension research findings that corn iced after harvest retains more of the natural sugar and chlorophyll essential to its flavor and fresh appearance. Experiments in the project were carried out last year through cooperation of growers and retailers with extension service experts in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, New York, and Massachu-

This type of ice-bag will be used to ship sweet corn on a commercial scale for the first time this year. If successful the program will be enlarged next

The 1952 season will mark the first time the ice-bag program is undertaken on a broad commercial

Object of the icing is to reduce the interior temperature of the corn to within a range of 35 to 50 degrees. It was found that this range slows down conversion of the corn sugar to starch and lessens undesirable changes in husk and kernel color due to heat.

Bags used in the program are made of the co-ply wet-strength paper and are performed to permit drainage of melted ice. Each has a capacity of five dozen ears of corn and 20 pounds of ice.

Limited commercial application of the program has already established that iced corn can be shipped long distances without appreciable quality loss and commands greater

The program will greatly increase the producers marketing area.

Washington Farm Lobbies Don't Compare with Others

There has been considerable talk recently about farm lobbies in Washington, but in terms of dollars and cents they don't compare with the activities of other groups who are trying to influence congress and other governmental organizations.

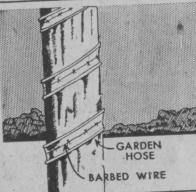

Figures are not available for 1951, but 1950 reports show that the two major farm groups spent about $300,000 for lobby activities during that year. The Farm Bureau and the Farmer's Union were the most important lobby groups, among some 81 persons or organizations registered as farm lobbyists.

By comparison, the Association of American Railroads spent $237,-000 in 1951 for lobbying purposes. The Atlantic Union Committee, a political organization, spent $158,000. These two groups alone spent more than the two major farm groups.

One of the reasons why farmers may have an undue reputation for influencing the lawmakers is this. There is considerable lobbying activity in fields related to agriculture, the results of which may or may not be of benefit to the farmer.

They are the meat packers, coops, cotton interests, milk producers, and other similar organizations. These lobby groups are sometimes interpreted as representing the

Home Fire Drills Will Save Farm Families

Emergency Measures Can Be Worked Out in Detail

If every farm family in the nation would conduct regular fire drills in the home the loss of life and property would be reduced by more than half, a number of fire insurance executives believe.

Too many persons are killed or injured in the panic that follows discovery of a fire, especially at night, they point out.

This panic could be averted, however, if each member of the family knew in advance exactly what he was to do in case of fire. It is a simple precaution, but few families, or city families, for that matter, take it.

The family that knows what to do in the event of fire can save property damage and possible loss of life.

Various fire possibilities should be considered and the details worked out at a family conference with special emphasis on:

(1) How will the children be saved? (2) How will the aged and bedridden escape? (3) Who will call the fire department?

(4) If the blaze is still small, who will fight it and how? (5) Which valuables will be saved and by whom?

(6) What will be done in case the main escape route is blocked? What alternate routes can be used to get

Once the plan has been made, it should be rehearsed. The farm family doesn't always have a fire department at its immediate disposal and must learn to save itself.

Air Conditioning Study Started on Southern Farms

Use of air conditioning in poultry and livestock barns in spreading to the south as agricultural engineers strive to boost production during the hot summer months.

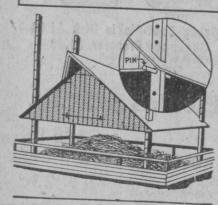

Until recently air conditioning of farm buildings has been concentrated largely in the northern part of the country where forced air ventilation is used to help solve the moisture problem and provide more constant temperatures.

Recently laboratory experiments conducted at Columbia, Missouri, by U.S. Department of Agriculture and University of Missouri agricultural experts, show that milk production is reduced more by temperatures over 75 degrees than by extremely cold weather.

Preliminary tests have led re-searchers to believe it may be practical to build well insulated buildings and use air conditioning to help boost production of milk and eggs.

In addition to the tests being conducted at the University of Missouri, the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment station began a program last year to obtain data on the performance of temperature controlled and uncontrolled shelters for dairy herds. A similar study for poultry is under way at Louisiana State Uni-

Hay Barrack

This unusual hay barrack with a roof that can be raised or lowered to various heights was built by one farmer in his cattle-feeding yard. The hay is pitched from the top of the stack to a manger fenced off around the bottom. As the height of the haystack decreases, the roof is lowered to provide the greatest possible amount of protection for the hay. The four long poles at the corners of the barrack are drilled at convenient intervals to take pins which support the roof at the desired height. A door and a short hay track are built into the gable. A block and tackle is used at each corner to raise the roof.

Making of a King

Lesson for August 24, 1952

ONE of the most romantic and heroic figures known to song and story is that of David, King of Israel. Even when Christ came to earth, his fellow-countrymen could think of no grander title for him than "Son of David." Now David has been idealized almost beyond recognition. The whole story of his life (as seen in the Bible) reveals a man in whom strength and weakness, good and evil, were strangely mingled. But that is not the main point here. The fact is, David made a strong and successful king; and if there was evil in him, it was more in the older man than in the young one. The story of how he became king is too long even to review here. Let- us concentrate on that eloquent little one-sentence portrait of him drawn for a description of him by one of his friends when they both were young. It is found in I Sam. 16:18,

His Family and His Fun

THE FIRST thing that is said of David by his friend who was recommending him to the king, is that he was son of Jesse of Bethle-

A man's family is not an important fact. Men do not often reach high places merely on the reputation of their ancestors; but having the right parents will make a good start.

This is seriously true; for a man's heredity is what goes into the making of his bone and muscle, brain and nerves. The kind of place where a man lived as a boy, the kind of father he had, spells volumes about the man, even years later.

Can we forget that David was the son of a sheep-rancher, a boy who grew up working out of doors? That his parents were God-fearing people?

David's friend also mentioned his playing the harp. No doubt David did this as a recreation; he was no professional musician. But his avocation, his spare-time enjoyment, turned out to be the first rung on his climb to fame. It is important to know about any man: How does he spend his spare time?

His Brawn and His Brains

DAVID'S FRIEND, recommending him for a position in the royal court, spoke of him as a "mighty man of valor, and a man of war." This was an exaggeration, for David at that time had never seen military service, as the story in Samuel

However, it was a good prophecy; and so far as the valor went, it had well been proved. A man who can take a bear by the beard and kill him, may be a bit rash but he is certainly no coward. And what muscles that young man must have had! Never think of David as a little boy when he killed Goliath the giant; he was an athlete better than

But David, unlike some athletes, did not need a manager. He was a "man of war," or at least the young friend who was describing him thought he was: and time proved him right.

Now it takes more than muscle to be a successful general. Almost anybody can be a private; and a man can rise somewhat in the ranks on sheer brute power. But when it comes to staff work, planning campaigns, handling large numbers of men and supplies, fitting everything together like a gigantic chess game with nations at stake,—that calls organizing ability, farsightedness, mental powers of a high order.

His Face, His Fluency, His Faith THE UNKNOWN young man whose word-picture of David we are following, was like many young people in mixing together items that an older person would take up separately. Almost in one breath he reported that David was a good speaker, good-looking and godly

But the best thing about him, his friend saved to the last: the Lord is with him. We make a mistake if we think that highly gifted, fortunate people can afford to get on without God. It is just these who need God most, if we can say that any one person needs God more than others.

Let us rather say that it is more important for the rest of us that the superior men and women among us be God-fearing, God-loving, Godobeying men and women, than that less important persons should be

"Clock," said he, "Shay 'tick-tock.' Cow shay 'moo-moo.' Pushy cat shay 'meow-meow.' bad bear go 'wuff-wuff-wuff.' And I'm a big bad bear."

'After All . . .'

As the doctor was administering an anesthetic to the young lady, she asked, "How soon will I know anything after coming out of this?' "Well," replied the doctor, "that's expecting a good deal from an anesthetic."

BOBBY'S ERROR

Little Bobby ran to his mother, sobbing as though his heart would

"Why, what's the matter, Bobby?" asked his mother.

"Oh, Daddy was hanging a picture and he dropped it on his toes,' answered Bobby between sobs.

'Why, that's nothing to cry about, you should laugh at that," said his mother.

"I did," Bobby replied.

SIGHTL

Willie was invited to a party, where, of course, refreshments were bountifully served.

"Won't you have something more, Willie?" the hostess said.
"No, thank you," replied Willie, with an expression of great satisfaction. "I'm full."
"Well, then," smiled the hostess,

"put some fruit and cakes in your pockets to eat on the way home." "No, thank you," came the rather startling response of Willie, "they're full, too."

INSURANCE

A moving-picture actress has had her legs insured for a million dollars. To the film star, of course, this is mere pin money.

Banquet

A boring affair where one, dressed up in his most uncomfortable clothes, eats a lot of indigestible junk he doesn't like, and then has to listen to a speaker talking about something he doesn't know about to a bunch of guys who don't give a hoot about the subject anyway.

HOURS BY APPOINTMENT

It's a grand thing to be devoted to your country. But it's quite the opposite to be De-Voted when election time comes 'round. You will be if you aren't registered, because you won't be allowed to vote. And you'd be plenty mad to miss the chance to have your say in this important and exciting election.

The answer, of course, is simple. Register. Make sure of your right to vote. That makes it plain to the whole world that you are genuinely devoted to your country.

If you are at all in doubt about the WHEN, WHERE and HOW of registering in your community, phone your office in charge of elections, your City Hall, or County Court House Court House.

And once you've got the details, pass them along to all your friends. They'll appreciate your reminder. For this is the year of big issues—the year that really tests our devotion to this U.S.A.

NO. 7 | REMOVING SCRATCHES

To remove shallow scratches or hair line cracks, soften finish so it runs together-with alcohol for shellac, turpentine for paint or varnish, lacquer thinner for lacquer. Let dry 48 hours and rub smooth with rottenstone, clean and wax. Sometimes painting little scratches with iodine or rubbing with walnut meat will do the job. Wax of the right shade may suffice.
