MEMORIAL PARK

Dedicating Services were held Last Night

Two hundred citizens of Taneytown gathered at their park situated at the west end of town to witness the dedication exercises which were held on Thursday evening, with the Rev. Glenn L. Stahl as master of ceremonies. The program opened with a number played by the Yellow Spring Band from near Frederick, Md. The color guard from the American Legion Post No. 120 assisted with the raising of the national flag, after which the audience sang our national anthem, which was led by George Motter, with the band playing the accompaniment. Salute to the flag was led by Rev. Stahl. The Rev. Morgan Andreas gave the prayer of invocation.

Mr. Robert Smith, one of the leaders in the origin of the park, then gave a brief summary of the history of the park, since its beginning in the fall of 1948. Mayor Raymond Perry was introduced who formally dedicated the park in the memory of all those who have served in all wars. The speaker for the evening was Mr. Ernest Dunbar who has been a faithful supporter of the park since its infancy. The program was concluded with the singing of "America", followed by the benediction of St. Joseph's church.

Following the program the Yellow Springs Band presented a two hours program of splendid music. During the evening, the playground equipment was well made use of by the youngsters. The Memorial Park is the property of the citizens of Taneytown, and they are invited to use it at any time.

Reservations may be made for reunions or special gatherings for the use of one of the two pavilions, but do not hesitate to use the park if you do not have a reservation for a pavilion, as there is always room for more to enjoy the facilities that are there for that purpose. To date, a total of $852.25 has been received from contributions during the recent drive for funds. The board will still accept any amount that comes in, as they feel that this is far short of the necessary amount needed to carry out their plans for the coming year.

COMMUNITY VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL

Will Be Held in Elementary School June 22-July 3

The Taneytown Community Vacation Church School is scheduled to be held in the Elementary School, June 22 through July 3. The school will convene daily, Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. till 11:30 a. m. All children are welcome who have been in any of the six elementary grades of this or any other school during the past year plus those who are enrolled to enter first grade this September.

A competent staff of teachers and assistants has been secured. A new course on the Life of Jesus will be taught on all grade levels. The atmosphere and aims of the classrooms will prevail.

The director anticipates the same wholehearted cooperation which was demonstrated by parents and the community in general last year. Since public transportation cannot be provided it is suggested that parents and neighbors get together on their own initiative and arrange car pools. It should be remembered also that the doors of the school will be opened at 8:45 and closed promptly at 11:45. No supervision is provided before or after these scheduled hours. With the splendid spirit of the teachers, the cooperation of the churches and community and the extended courtesy of the public administration in making available the Elementary building, this should be our best year yet.

Grand Opening of Office and Warehouse

With the skies overcast enough to provide shade for a crowd of 500 appreciative farmers and friends of the Taneytown Grain & Supply Co., one of the greatest events in the history of the Company was celebrated yesterday, June 18th. The office and mill were thrown open to the inspection of the audience.

While touring the office they were delightfully surprised to see one of the most modern offices of our day decorated with flowers with compliments from Wantz Bros., The Carroll Record Co., Inc., Lehigh Portland Cement Co., Ralston Purina Co., S. F. Scattergood Co.

This Office with its live display room built into the corner, the fireproof vault, the modern furniture and knotty pine finish took the eye of the crowd. The upstairs meeting and display rooms also finished in knotty pine shows that the organization in planning this building was looking forward into the future.

but they also had in mind economy in the placing of an Electric Furnace hot water stoker in the cellar of the building adjacent to heat even to the extent of the field office at the end next to the mixing equipment.

The ready display of doors, windows, seeds, feeds and lumber attracted the capital-minded man to the great cost of carrying on a business of this kind.

The farmers realizing the desirability of having a grinding and mixing service were attracted to the power and thoroughness with which the Hammermill handles the feeding carrying it to the mixer and then to the molasses mixer all in one operation and in such a short time.

Other places of interest were the large feed shed at the end of the lot with all the other lumber, building supplies and plywood sheds scattered over the grounds.

The day's program consisted of distribution of prizes through the means of the registration card drawing, contest and throwing of small articles even to the size of 7 week old chicks.

Lue Wade and his Sunrise serenaders filled the day with music pleasing to the ear and the jokes and good clean fun of the Master of Ceremonies Fred Lodge filled the day with varieties to fit all and hold the crowd to the end of the program at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Norville P. Shoemaker and Mr. Norman R. Baumgardner, President and Manager, respectively of the Company, received the pleasant hand shake, congratulations and best wishes of friends from many phases of businesses of this and surrounding communities and especially from the farmers who know their needs and demands.

ANTIQUE BOXES TO BE EXHIBITED AT H. S.

Interesting Collection to be Shown Next Thursday

In recognition of the box being an important factor from the beginning of time, Taneytown members of the Historical Society of Carroll county will present an exhibit of these fascinating collectibles in the Taneytown High School on Thursday, June 25.

To give a full history of boxes would take up more space than we believe we should use.

Among the most ancient items from China are boxes: lacquer boxes, stone boxes, jade boxes. Among the most ancient of antiquities from Egypt are boxes of wood encrusted with gold and jewels, of ceramic ware, of alabaster. So it is also with the antiquities of Babylon, of Greece, and of Rome. Boxes designed for clothes, for cosmetics, for jewels, for money, for sacred relics and for just things. Boxes for food, for scrolls, for writing materials, and for tools. Boxes were the first furniture, serving as both chest, seat, and table. From boxes—cases—all furniture derives.

There is actually no limit to the variety of boxes that exist, from the very earliest down to the most modern. They cover every conceivable phase of human activity in the near and far past. They range in size from a fraction of an inch in length, breadth, and depth up to considerable footage.

One of the most sought after of antiques is called a bride's box. The name, like many others in antique parlance, is probably wrong. But traditionally these are finery boxes, and the bride-to-be would be the most likely to collect such finery. Hence the name, bride's box. These are usually made of thin bands of wood, painted with flowers and sometimes with scenes. They are mostly from France, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Germany. It is said that immigrants brought them to this country originally. Thousands have been imported. They are lovely, large, oval in shape and decorated have been able to place them interestingly in today's home decorating scheme. But there are many more kinds of boxes equally interesting, enough so that many persons collect just boxes.

A prize winning essay in a recent General Federation of Women's Club contest on collectibles dealt with boxes. The writer of that essay collected glove boxes, handkerchief boxes, Jewel boxes, cigar boxes, patch boxes, pill boxes, fan boxes, letter boxes and a myriad of other kinds. Some collectors stick to a special category though, such as kitchen boxes which include such examples as those for butter, cheese, eggs, spices, salt, sugar and ointment; or snuff boxes, different types of which if ever catalogued might be found to include as many as 100,000 different types.

One collector of record collects commercial boxes, the ones that early manufacturers and dealers used to package goods. He has turned wooden ones, as well as tin, iron, paper, and glass examples plus many of the famous Staffordshire pottery ones. All of these boxes are American packages which were originally made for fresh grapes, shaving soap, rubber collars, paper collars, lard, hair restorer, solid ink and matches.

One of the most cherished boxes for many years in the South was a candle box. A New Englander conceived the idea of making fine, hard candles that wouldn't soften in hot climates. He packed his superior candles in hardwood, slide-lid boxes. When the candles were used, that box became a cherished possession.

There are collectors of "Drageoirs" or dragee boxes. These are containers for carrying around your favorite little bite—the sen-sen was one such item; "Jujubees" were another. Pill boxes have a range from wood and paper—the kind druggists and chemists used to package pills—to gold and silver ones that ladies and gentlemen used to carry pills.

The exhibition will consist of boxes with local historic interest on loan by Taneytown citizens, as well as boxes and containers from afar. The public is cordially invited to attend this showing which begins at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

ATTENDED MEETING OF P. E. CORRESPONDENTS

S. E. Rensburg, Taneytown, was among those attending a two-day meeting of the Potomac Edison News correspondents held in Hagerstown, June 18 and 19th.

At this year's meeting, staff members of the utility companies employ newspaper heard Martin Buxbaum, editor of the Hot Shoppes, Inc. publication, "Hot Sauce" as the featured speaker, and were congratulated for their "fine work" by President R. Paul Smith.

As news correspondent for this area, Mr. Rensburg, collects local news items concerning the utility company and its personnel. These items are then written up and published once a month in the tabloid-type paper.

At this year's meeting the local correspondents were also treated to a dinner at the Fountain Head Country Club, attended a stage show at Brad-dock Heights Mountain Theatre and were present at a luncheon at the Alexander Hotel at which time company officials praised the work of the various news correspondents.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The glorious month of June—with the sweet aroma of the Honeysuckle, Roses of all color, the Sheeps in the meadow opposite the Parsonage and the cows in the field just as last year and the year before! Life is beautiful! Nature is God all around us. Who would doubt the Wisdom in back of it all?

Then, too this is the month in which we have Father's Day—this coming Sunday! No other month would fit more beautifully! Be especially kind to Father—tell him you love him and show him affection not for just one day but for all the years ahead. Don't wait until he has gone to rest and speak kindly of him—start right now. Place your arms around him and press your cheek next to his. There will be a tear that you may feel upon your cheek not from your eyes but from your Dad's eyes. Men have real deep feelings although many times we doubt it because they are not demonstrative and do not show it. Sometimes, I think that it is the reason women live longer than men because they can express their feelings whereas a man will stifle any deep emotion which may overcome him and that will be all in silence.

We see Father aging more rapidly than we realized as we sit and study him and it may be for many reasons. Trying to make that extra money to send his son off to College or buy that special house that Mother desires or buy the clothes that he thinks be fitting for his daughter so as she will make just as nice an appearance as the other girls in high school as he does not want his daughter to be different than the rest!

Fathers are just taken for granted! God bless them!

Fathers work endlessly for the little brood without ever a complaint just to sit down at night remove his shoes, read the newspaper and smoke his favorite pipe! He doesn't ask for anything and seems to be perfectly contented to be right there relaxing for the first time of the day. Mother can relax any time during the day but not so with Father! When a prospective Father awaits the coming of his child and at the very critical time the public has always made a huge joke out of it but it has never been a joke with Father!

A Father of four daughters named them his "Four Lovely Graces" and the youngest one he always called "His Last Rose of Summer!" See what I mean, Folks? Every time that famous old tune is played, the daughter wipes away the tears that come!

A Father whose wife had given birth to their first and only child after many years of marriage—the wife was saved but the little "bundle of love" passed on. Suddenly, the baby was missed from the bed and so was Father—the nurse tip-toed down stairs and there sat the father alone in the living room with the little still life in his arms!

Then you do recall that song that was written in the first War called "They are all out of Step but my Jim!" The true story to that one was a Father with no education at all standing viewing the parade with his son marching and as he gazed upon his son at the end of a line really thought that all the men were out of step but his son!

No home is really complete without a Father! Fathers are truly most essential in every way.

I remember my beloved Dad who taught me so much about life—some of the things—"NEVER HOLD WRATH WHEN THE SUN GOES DOWN" * "NEVER HAVE WORDS WITH ANYONE AND BE SURE TO ALWAYS COME TO SOME UNDERSTANDING"—"ALWAYS BE PUNCTUAL REGARDLESS THE ENGAGEMENT!" The family was a large one and yet when birthdays came around—there was always that birthday kiss upon arising!

The interest in each child! The ride to the country in the Fall to hunt for Chestnuts! The excellent answers to questions asked of him in school days. How proud I was of him! He never was too busy to spend evenings with his loved ones! As a tiny girl, he was always interested in my dolls and the names of the many which he suggested. And the swell part—he could name any General of any War or the story of the slightest skirmish. And then when age came on I used to shave him! Such a little thing to do and yet so full of appreciation from a seventeen year old daughter—his LAST ROSE OF SUMMER!

So long, Folks. Have a great week-end and remember that man around your house who pays the bills and make this day the best day—ever! Until next week. D.V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL?

In the wake of the new tornadoes that killed 140 in Michigan and Ohio and at least 86 in Massachusetts, injured nearly 2,000 more and left many thousands homeless, scientists are trying to explain the 249 twisters reported in the US thus far this year and law-makers in Washington are talking of a Congressional investigation.

According to the US Weather Bureau, the atomic explosions in Nevada have nothing to do with the sudden, devastating storms that appeared to follow the major blasts, and that have caused a total of nearly 450 deaths and property damage of more than $200,000,000. Rather, the weather experts say, that tornadoes have been caused by the unusual path of the planetary air current across the nation this spring. This current, which flyers have encountered above 10,000 feet and reported as blowing as hard as 250 miles-an-hour, is always up there, it seems, but affects the weather by changing the pattern of its trans-continental sweep.

So far so good. But we doubt that any scientists were up there above Yucca Flat to check on what happened when an atomic burst tangled with that high-speed fresh air. In any case, we think the far reaches of the lonely Pacific provide a more suitable locale for these top-drawer fireworks.—National Industries News Service.

FARM COMMODITIES BUY MORE AND BETTER MACHINES TODAY THAN IN 1939

How do farm machinery prices in 1953 compare with those in 1939, the year generally used as the base year on price comparisons?

They are lower in terms of farm commodities according to a survey made by Allis-Chalmers. This is in face of the greater horsepower available in its tractors today plus many other improvements in these and in its implements and harvesting machinery.

Versatile, more efficient tractor, implement, and harvester design permit lighter weight models to do more work than was done 14 years ago by heavier and more expensive equipment.

In 1939 the corn grower paid the equivalent of 2,249 bushels for an Allis-Chalmers tractor and 2-bottom pull-type plow. Today, this combination which includes hydraulic lift plow can be bought for only 1,044 bushels of corn while a larger tractor and 3-bottom plow cost only 1,392 bushels. He can buy the greatly improved 6-foot ALL-CROP harvester, with hydraulic lift, for small grains, beans, and seeds for 754 bushels of corn while in 1939 he paid out cash for 1,289 bushels for a machine with only a 5-foot header and hand lift.

The wheat grower had to have 1,515 bushels of his grain to buy a tractor and 2-bottom plow pre-war while now he only needs 719 bushels. If he wants the 3-bottom plow and tractor he can get them for 959 bushels. The combine sells in this market for 520 bushels compared to 868 in 1939.

The spread in terms of hogs is 39½ 200-lb. head in 1953 for tractor and 2-bottom plow and 53 head for tractor and 3-bottom plow against 68½ head for tractor and 2-bottom plow in 1939. The 6-foot combine today sells for 28 head compared to 39½ head for the 5-foot machine.

Seven 1,000-lb. steers buy a tractor and 2-bottom plow as against 10 steers in 1939, while the 3-bottom combination sells for 9½ steers. The combine can be purchased for 5 steers against 5½ pre-war.

The dairy farmer had to sell 965 cans of milk of 10-gallon capacity to buy his tractor and plow but today he can buy a better combination for only 523 cans. If he wants more power and a 3-bottom plow he can get them for 698 cans.

Ten bales of cotton will buy the 2-bottom plow and tractor and 13-1/5 bales the 3-bottom unit now where the 2-bottom plow and tractor used to cost the buyer 241/3 bales.

The soybean grower has profited too in the low price of the combine today compared to his crop which has come into its own with the ALL-CROP harvester. He can buy the new machine today for only 397 bushels of beans while in 1939 he paid out 735 bushels for the 5-foot harvester.

Commodity prices used are based on average prices during the first week of March, 1939 and 1953, United States Department of Agriculture reported averages, and factory prices of machinery.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

GEORGETOWN, ILL., NEWS:

"Census and private survey figures show—that places under 25,000 population account for 56 per cent of all retail outlets of the country—the smaller localities as a whole—are big consumers of goods produced and distributed on a national scale—producers and distributors, of course, are aware of that fact."

CATSKILL, N.Y., ENTERPRISE: "A witness testifying before a House Agriculture Sub-committee, declared that—Russians have moved in with a planned 'dumping' of Russian controlled potash on our domestic market, and that Russian production is a state monopoly, paying no taxes, nor paying labor a fair wage. The communists know that destroying our economy can be more devastating than dropping a series of atomic bombs upon us. It is part of their cold war."

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. Glenn Beall

United States Senator from Maryland

Revelations of waste, extravagance, and hints of collusion and conspiracy during the previous administration continue to be exposed by the Congress.

In one of the latest shocking developments the people of this country now learn that the Air Force has been paying one company five times as much per plane as is charged by one of our own Maryland aircraft companies, Fairchild, in Hagerstown. The Air Force itself admitted before a Senate subcommittee that they are paying the Kaiser-Frazer Co. of Willow Run, Michigan, $1,339,140.00 for the same plane which Fairchild builds for $265,067.00.

Government officials under the Truman Administration knew all this—yet no action was taken. It is difficult to understand how continuation of the present contract with Kaiser-Frazer can be justified, and I have suggested that it be immediately terminated, and Fairchild permitted to complete construction of the 90 or 100 aircraft which remain on order.

The saving in defense dollars would approximate $100,000,000.

The entire operation of the Willow Run plant suggests even more than has been brought to light so far.

Kaiser-Frazer took over the Willow Run plant, which was declared surplus at the end of World War II, by a very complicated series of maneuvers. The government loaned Kaiser-Frazer $35 million, accepting as collateral the Willow Run plant which was still owned by the United States! Of course the $35 million was loaned by that unorthodox banking agency, the RFC.

The Air Force later put Kaiser-Frazer into the aircraft business by giving them a contract to build 200 planes at an estimated cost of $840,000. The airplane, the C-119, being constructed at Willow Run, would necessarily cost more than at Hagerstown, the Air Force contended, and a General testified, "I know that any fair-minded person will agree it was only natural for the first planes produced from this new second facility to have cost more than those planes which were coming from the previously established facility."

This same General later admitted that while it was originally estimated that Kaiser-Frazer would produce the planes for $840,000 the actual price finally reached $1,200,000 per plane "with a strong possibility that that figure will be further increased." It was! The Air Force's own auditor finally came up with the new figure of $1,339,140.00.

The Air Force auditor further told the committee that he had discovered Kaiser-Frazer was attempting to add to the cost of the C-119 charges which should have been part of the company's automotive industry, charges for political advertisements in newspapers, interest on the RFC loan, travelling and entertainment expenses and expenses for dedicating the first C-119 airplane.

It is not surprising then that the government was paying five times as much per plane as was being charged by Fairchild.

This spring another interesting development occurred in the history of Kaiser-Frazer. Nine days after John W. Snyder was out as Secretary of the United States Treasury he accepted a position as vice-president of Willys-Overland, and in very short time a merger arrangement was worked out between Willys and Kaiser.

Secretary Snyder, of course, had been the key member of the policy Board to the RFC when the big loans were being made and when the RFC approved the merger arrangement.

Senator John J. Williams (R., Del.) summed all this up very nicely when he said: "An examination of this report clearly demonstrates that there are many ways under the newly arranged merger whereby the stockholders of these two companies can gain; however, from every angle there is only one result as far as the Federal Government is concerned that that is, the taxpayers lose."

STEEL SPRINGS ARE HELP WHEN FARMERS DRY CORN

"SPRINGTIME ON THE FARM"—A new sectional corn ventilating tube produced by American Steel & Wire will give farmers an assist in drying corn and preventing the loss caused by too high moisture content. Shown in use here, the new tube, known as Flexi-Vent, is made of spring steel about 3 inches in diameter and 3 1/2 feet long. Sections may be attached, end to end, to form conduits of any length, without use of any additional attachment.

CLEVELAND, O.—A steel spring, used in unorthodox fashion, is helping America's farmers to dry their corn. The spring is neither compressed nor stretched, but simply is placed in corn cribs to permit passage of air.

Known as Flexi-Vent, the sectional corn ventilating tube is being introduced this season by the American Steel & Wire Division of United States Steel Corporation, according to C. W. Meyers, the division's manager of spring sales. A patent application is pending.

The Flexi-Vent is a steel spring about 3 inches in diameter and 3 1/2 feet long. As the crib is being filled, the springs are placed in right along with the corn, thus providing additional air space and natural ventilation.

Sections are self-contained and may be twisted together, end to end, to make conduits of any desired length, without use of any additional attachment.

The product was designed to be used in any type of crib and is just as easily removed as it is installed. The ventilating tube was developed, Mr. Meyers explained, because each year there are tremendous quantities of corn cribbed with too high moisture content to keep in good condition.

Is Your Question Answered Here

Why do parents like Scouting?

BECAUSE it is a tried and proven program, almost fifty years old, that really gets results in helping a boy to develop the right kind of behavior patterns and habits of conduct.

BECAUSE it is economic. A whole year's membership costs less than one music lesson and the Weekly Dues in most Troops is only Five Cents. Camp Trips, Special Activities and even Uniforms are frequently paid for out of occasional money-raising affairs put on by the Troop.

BECAUSE of the neighborhood convenience of a Scout Troop. In Scouting a boy can have his fun right where he is. The Troop is just around the corner and he doesn't have to journey across the city or miles "down the road" in order to reach the meeting place.

BECAUSE it is a definite program as outlined in the Scout's Hand Book and isn't left to the personal "whims" of the leader. When a boy is getting Scout training his parents know what he's getting.

BECAUSE it is the big answer to that ancient household question "What is there for me to do?" "No boy has ever exhausted the Scout Program. He gets to be a man before that happens.

BECAUSE it is a normal boyhood experience. Two of every three boys in America become Scouts.

BECAUSE it is universally accepted as the greatest known supplement to Home, Church and School in the development of character and personality.

BECAUSE it provides an opportunity for the boy's dad, uncle or big brother to share experiences with him; for much of Scouting happens right in the boy's own home and neighborhood.

BECAUSE it isn't just aimless play and idle entertainment. It is a progressive plan of interesting and challenging activities leading from Tenderfoot to Eagle Scout.

BECAUSE it teaches boys to command, as well as to obey. Scouting "stands supreme" as a developer of leaders. No other form of training equals it in this respect.

BECAUSE it gives the "gang" he pals around with a set of decent standards to live by. The Scout Promise and Law, the Motto "Be Prepared" and the Slogan "Do a good turn daily" are known and respected everywhere.

BECAUSE membership in Scouting identifies their son as a boy whose parents are using every possible means for aiding his growth and development.

Why does a boy like Scouting?

BECAUSE it has recaptured all of our Pioneer Past and given it to him.

BECAUSE it gives him a handmade and parentally approved "gang" in which to carry on his activities.—The Patrol and Troop.

BECAUSE it satisfies his natural desire to belong to something; a world-wide fellowship with signs, symbols, insignia and uniform.

BECAUSE it gives him at least one night each week when he can meet formally and ceremoniously with his buddies in a place especially set aside for them.

BECAUSE it is a "do program" and not a "don't program." All Scout requirements for advancement in rank are things that boys enjoy even though many of them are difficult or call for endurance.

BECAUSE the Scout Uniform gives him recognition as a person who stands for something and who is trained to act intelligently in an emergency.

BECAUSE it gives him a chance to get out of the concrete canyons of the city and stretch his limbs and lungs in the beautiful camps which society has set aside and dedicated forever to his exclusive use.

BECAUSE he enjoys the distinction of being called on for civic service. He knows that "The Scouts" are recognized as the easiest mobilized force of Uniformed Persons for non-military duty in the United States; the first group thought of after the Red Cross in times of emergency and disaster.

BECAUSE he wants to belong to an outfit that has earned for itself a fine reputation based on the records of former Scouts. He knows that young men with Scout-training are in demand.

BECAUSE Scouting satisfies all of the instinctive urges of his Pioneer forebears crying for expression within him. He wants to smell wood smoke at twilight, he wants to bivouac among the pines and bed-down at night with the noises of the forest in his ears.

BECAUSE he wants to learn to swim, to row a boat and paddle a canoe; to care for himself in the open and know the survival methods which saved his "dad" and his "big brother" in New Guinea and Bougainville.

BECAUSE Scouting makes honor and goodness winsome and attractive. A Scout is good without being "goody-goody".

FEESERSBURG

School days and rule days are over at last! It is difficult to imagine which group is the happiest—the students, the teachers or the parents. It may be that my opinion only reflects a minority of the parents viewpoint, but nevertheless I think the school term should be cut down to eight months instead of dragging it out to ten. It should begin the 15th of September and end the 15th of May. There are still a few parents that would like to see enough of their children so that they could exert some influence on their own offspring, and not leave the formation of their character entirely up to the schools no matter how well qualified the teachers may be. Dragging the school term into the middle of June isn't accomplishing any mental development as far as the students are concerned. For when the weather turns warm and the fragrance of blossoms drift into the classrooms through the open windows and a bee now and then sails in and out with a buzzzzzz, the students minds are no longer concerned with the three R's but wander dreamily off to some fishing spot or some swimming hole. The teachers too, become frustrated and irritable at being kept in the classroom trying to pour added knowledge into minds that have already reached the saturation point and are close to rebellion. Other states have adopted a shorter school term and Maryland should do likewise. Parents have too long been ignored in the school system, but that is their own fault. A voice now and then raised in protest might help.

America spent less last year on medical research than she did on erecting monuments and tombstones for the dead. Maybe its a sign that we tend to glorify the past instead of inspiring look forward to the future.

The freakish weather has more people alarmed right now than does a possible attack by atomic bombs. Tornadoes have been hitting every section of the country without any warning. It may be that nature is displeased at man's fumbling efforts with the atom and intends to prove that she can generate in one storm more destructive and terrifying power than man can achieve with all his atomic blasts.

The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II is over but the Europeans are still wondering why Americans took so much interest in it. This interest doesn't surprise us as we have always had a keen interest in Queens. We have our own apple, potato, pumpkin, cotton, cherry and a dozen other Queens we select every year. Of course these are just synthetic queens, so to speak, so when a real Queen came along with beauty, graciousness and good common sense we just naturally helped the British celebrate. There is very little English blood in my vein but as I watched the coronation over T.V. I felt myself becoming emotional and deeply moved by the impressive ceremony and by the dignity and humility of the young queen. She seems to impart to the people the feeling that she possesses a sense of duty to them that on personal ambition or any part of her personal life would keep her from performing. It is this dependability and stability that everyone feels that makes her so popular. In a world that has ceased to understand the real meaning of "DUTY", it is a refreshing feeling to have that awareness in a Queen.

The Missionary Society of Mt. Union Church held its annual covered dish supper Monday evening, 8th in the parish house. There were fifty persons present, including the members and their guests. The Ford Motor Company celebrated its 50th years of service to the American people this week by sponsoring two hours of the best entertainment Monday evening over T.V. that the public has ever seen. This reporter doesn't enjoy T.V. programs too often, but this one was worth every minute spent in looking at it. The reason may have been because it was like looking at a recording of our own lives for the past 40 years. To those of us who came of age in the crazy twenties and married in the depression years of the thirties, who lived through two world wars, and survived the pressures of the last ten years, the program left us with the feeling that we have done an awful lot of living in the last twenty years and will have to continue to do a lot more in the next twenty. To those of us who would like life to remain on a status quo basis the fact remains that we may just as well kiss that illusion goodbye. If we think the last 40 have been hectic enough then the next twenty will seem like something out of an Orson Wells nightmare. But at least we will be spared that awful fate of being holed to death.

Lives of great men all remind us We can make our lives sublime And, departing, leave behind us Footprints on the sands of time.

Footprints that perhaps another Sailing o'er life's soiled main A forlorn and shipwrecked brother, Seeing, may take heart again.

Let us, then be up and doing, With a heart for any fate; Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labor and to wait.

—From "A Psalm of Life" by Longfellow.

If you've noticed some dead twigs or branches on your trees, take a close look before blaming oak wilt or another disease. If the branch has broken, and has a series of slits in it, the cause is 17-year locusts. The females cut slits in which to lay eggs.

The Carroll County Welfare Board welcomed Mr. Walter V. Bennett, President of the Board of Carroll County Commissioners to serve another term as representative of the Commissioners on the Board. From a report submitted by the Director, William H. Koelber, there has been a marked rise in the number of requests for foster home placements for the mental and chronic hospitals. The agency is now averaging 65 requests for services other than public assistance each month.

The Board also, at their monthly meeting, reviewed applications of all those who asked for and were granted assistance and the application of all those determined ineligible for help. It was found that out of 12 applications in May, eight persons were found eligible.

It seems two drunks were wandering along the railroad track.

"These are the longest stairs I ever saw."

"Yeah," said the second one, "But it's these low handrails that get me."

Among the features being planned are conferences, a mammoth parade, denominational meetings, state gatherings, the Youth Assembly, and a Junior Convention. Afternoons will be devoted to sight-seeing and recreational programs.

GRASS SILAGE

The excessive amount of rain that has fallen during the past two months in Carroll County has caused many farmers to take a closer look at farm programs.

The rain, while making abundant pasture, has caused many hay fields to become rank in growth because the farmer has not been able to make hay at the proper time. This is mostly true of Alfalfa and Orchard grass mixtures.

In order to utilize this grass, many farmers are making grass silage, this has created a storage problem for most farmers. One of the several methods of storage is the trench silo. This type of storage is simply a slit made in the ground near the barn.

These trenches are 12 to 18 feet wide 8 to 10 feet deep and as long as necessary to store the grass that must be cut. Many calls for assistance in locating these silos are being received by the Carroll Soil Conservation District Supervisors. Recently the Technicians have assisted Mr. J. Wm. Borchers, Silver Run, Vernon Wolfe, Bachman Valley, and Dr. Irvin Frock, Manchester.

During the past few years according to Mr. Raymond Buchman, District Supervisors, some of the many farmers that have been using grass for silage are: Mr. R. H. Richardson, Frank Parish, R. L. Sebastian, Hubert Null, D. L. Reifsnider, J. Wm. Borchers, Robert Rinehart, Francis Hering, Howard Devilbiss and many others in the county. Mr. Buchman states that by using this grass for silage the farmer is not only getting excellent roughage, but that grass is also the best Conservation measure that the farmer can use in holding their soil.

In contour cultivation, every ridge acts as a small dam to hold soil and water in place.

Keep water, minerals, salt and shade available in pastures. Little details like these mean dollars.

SHORT STORY

Good Natured Fool

By R. H. WILKINSON

NO ONE denied that the Max Jordans were a model couple. Before marriage both had been popular, well-liked. Max was admired for his good nature, his kind and chivalrous manner, his ambition and ability to get ahead. Sylvia was admired for her good looks, admired for her sense of humor, her vivaciousness. They were ideally suited.

In the spring of the second year the Village Welfare society held a charity ball. As a feature attraction they advertised a beauty contest. Friends of Sylvia urged her to enter it. But Sylvia was doubtful. She was a married lady now.

"Bosh!" said Max. "Go ahead and enter."

So Sylvia entered the contest—in the interest of charity. No one disputed the decision of the judges when she was awarded first prize. Nor was anyone surprised when, two weeks later, she was asked to join a statewide contest in Mender. The idea excited her, but of course she refused.

"Tut! Tut!" declared the good-natured Max. "Go down there and show them what a really beautiful girl looks like."

And Sylvia, who was really quite thrilled, went down to Mender, and came home with the winning cup and the announcement that, as winner, she was expected to join the Grand Eastern contest. The winner of the Grand Eastern would go to Hollywood.

"But of course I'd never think of entering it," she told her husband, her eyes shining.

The townspeople gave Sylvia a great sendoff.

"Oh, you wouldn't?" Max grinned. "Here we have a chance to bring laurels to the family and you pass it up. O.K." He shrugged with elaborate indifference.

And so Sylvia entered the Great Eastern, and won. The papers played up the victory in great shape, and every one wondered if she'd go to Hollywood.

"I couldn't do that," she told Max breathlessly. "Why, I'd have to be away from you for weeks."

"I'll manage," Max told her good naturedly. "If I get too lonesome I'll take two weeks and come out for a visit. Go ahead if you want."

He continued to think how swell it was for almost a week. Then he found that his socks needed darning and restaurant food wasn't agreeing with him and he was mighty lonesome.

The next day he met Elsie Parker on the street and asked her to have dinner with him. It seemed good to have some one to talk to.

Three nights later Elsie called up. "I've a letter from Sylvia," she said. "Would you care to see it?"

Max went over to Elsie's house and found her alone. He read the letter. Elsie said:

"She's enjoying herself. She's having a grand time. She's met a lot of interesting people."

"I wonder who this guy Ted Thornton is?" Max asked, frowning over the letter.

Elsie look at him. "Max, you're a fool! A lovable, good natured fool. If you had any sense you'd go out there to Hollywood and bring back your wife."

"Bosh!" said Max. "Sylvia and I aren't children."

But he thought about it a good deal. He loved Sylvia.

A month later the blow fell. "—after all, Max, darling," Sylvia wrote, "we could never continue to be happy together when our interests are so far apart . . . I hope when my lawyer gets in touch with you . . ."

The next day Max had a letter from Sylvia's lawyer. He answered it at once, agreeing to everything. He wrote to Sylvia also. He told her that he wanted her to be happy. "Even," he wrote, "Elsie Parker seems to think that you're right."

Max spent the next week wishing he were dead. In fact, he was actually contemplating the best means of suicide when Sylvia rushed in on him.

"Darling! Forgive me. It was all a mistake. I should have known better. I was a little idiot. Please take me back and don't ever let me go again."

"That," said the agreeable Max, "suits me fine." He kissed her, delirious with joy but wondering how it had happened. Sylvia said:

"Is Elsie—have you—I mean—" Max answered her frantic look in her eyes by kissing her again. Bless Elsie Parker, he thought.

Let's Think

Every human achievement grows out of an idea.

Father's Day should not pass without a kind word for father.

The diseased thoughts of the mind impair the proper functioning of the body.

There is a reason for doing what you do and a remedial procedure is to discover the reason.

Tension is said to be the prevailing malady of the American people.

A few find pleasure in dwelling upon the faults of others because they think it boosts the opinion of themselves.

Delete the word 'can't' from your vocabulary and the sun will shine brighter in your horizon.

Hurried meals, late hours, sleepless nights, and nerve depletion are steps in the American way of living.

Ours is sometimes called "The Aspirin Age".

Have a fit of anger and you'll experience a feeling of homesickness in the pit of your stomach.

"If you continue in my word—you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free."—John 8:31, 32 (RSV).

WTTR NEARING COMPLETION

Carroll County's first radio station will soon be ready to start broadcasting on its assigned frequency of 1470 kilocycles. The 200 ft. tower has been erected and the flashing red beacon light at its top is visible at night for many miles.

The radio transmitting equipment is in storage and ready for installation by the engineers as soon as the building is near enough to completion—which should be within the next week or two.

The Federal Communications Commission will send an inspecting engineer to the station when it is ready to go on the air and the WTTR staff will put the complete station thru its paces for several hours during the experimental period between the hours of one and six some morning real soon. The station then requests authority to begin operations, but must wait for ten days to permit the FCC to examine the inspectors report of the final tests.

The inaugural broadcast will be announced a few days prior to the actual sign on date. In it will be presented short versions of the many featured programs planned on WTTR, and short talks by officials including Governor McKeldin.

The station will probably not be "fully dressed" for opening day but the public will be welcome to watch the operation of a brand new radio station. Open house will be held at a later date after the station has had time to become more presentable.

Free-Then What?

Lesson for June 21, 1953

TWO kinds of people pay little attention to law. One kind is made of very bad citizens, so bad that sometimes they lose their citizenship. The other kind is made up of those who are the best citizens. Sometimes they even receive medals or other honors from their communities or from the state. How can this be?

The answer is that the first kind live far below the law; the second kind live far above it. Criminals and crooks are lawless because they are anti-social, they are enemies of society and do not want to be a part of the community. But the other kind of people go far beyond the law, as we saw last week. The best husbands probably do not know what the laws are which govern husbands' treatment of their wives. The best fathers may not know what the statutes are which prescribe the duties of parents. These husbands and fathers are far better than any law could make them.

Dr. Foreman

Law In One Word

All this is true of the law of God, too. His laws are not a precise number of statutes and ordinances. His laws are not a code like a federal code or a municipal code. The entire law of God is summed up, Paul says, in one word, that is: Love. Now Paul would not for a moment deny that we ought to love God supremely. But here he is thinking about loving one's neighbor as oneself. No law, no shelf-full of statute books, no encyclopedia of decisions by the Supreme Court, can cover all cases. But love does cover all cases. You cannot always tell what the law says in a given case. Maybe the law says nothing at all. But love always has something to say. Love always has an answer.

We Know Love

Even if you do not know what the law is, you always know what love is. Because we do know, naturally and always, what it is to love ourselves. Loving yourself means keeping your own interests at heart, giving yourself the benefit of the doubt.

The divine law of love is: Be just as much interested in others as you are in yourself. Be willing to take trouble for them, watch out for them, give them the benefit of the doubt, think ahead for them. When St. Paul talks about Christians being free, he does not mean being free from love, but for love. What is it that ties us down and keeps us from loving our neighbor? Isn't it our love for ourselves? The Christian way of life is to be free from our own demands so as to be free to serve others.

When The Bible Does Not Speak

Some people think of the Bible as a kind of rule-book. Well, there are rules in it, and some of them are applicable to our modern problems. But we have some problems in modern living that the Bible says nothing about. For instance: Shall a Christian use tobacco? Is it a sin for the Christian to bear arms? These and many other questions are not dealt with in the Bible as flatly and sharply as "Thou shalt not steal." For this reason, many Christians think that if the Bible does not mention some problem in so many words, they are free to do as they please about it. By no means. The Christian is free from the law as a curse, as a condition of God's favor, or as a cage; but he is never free from the law of love. And since God is love, and since love is the law of our life as Christians, then the Bible always does have something to say about every situation. It has at least this to say: What does love—God's kind of love—suggest?

Freedom And The Spirit

Some Christians have made the mistake of thinking that if a person is spiritual enough, he will be set free from all human obligations. They have supposed that the law of love, in the sense of love to one's neighbor, is on a lower plane somehow than love of God; and that if a man once gets up in the stratosphere of the divine love, then he can simply forget the world outright. No one who takes his New Testament seriously can make that mistake. Read in Gal. 5:22-25 Paul's list of the fruits of the Spirit. These are not ripened in solitude, but in company with others and in their service.

KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown announced the names of delegates who will represent the club at the 38th annual convention of Kiwanis International, June 21-25, at New York.

They are: J. Norman Graham, Edw. Reid, Elwood Baumgardner, and Wallace Yingling.

Other club members, although not official delegates, will also attend. They are Ed. Nusbaum, John Skiles and Louis Crumacker.

The delegates will elect International officers, act on amendments to the Kiwanis International Constitution and By-laws, and pass on resolutions presented to the convention.

Headlining the convention speaking program are eminent business, political, professional, and religious leaders.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ Church Methodist of New York City, will set the spiritual theme of the convention when he addresses the Sunday evening meeting at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Following the keynote address on Monday morning by Kiwanis International President Walter J. L. Ray, a banker from Detroit, Michigan, M. Grattan O'Leary, Vice-President of the Ottawa Journal, Ottawa, Ontario will speak to the assembled Kiwanians.

The Honorable Frank G. Clement, Governor, State of Tennessee, Nashville, Tennessee will address the huge delegation in New York's Madison Square Garden at the All-Kiwanis night meeting on Monday evening.

He is the youngest state governor and an outstanding orator.

Tuesday morning General S. Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, United States Air Force, Washington, D. C., will address the convention. This will probably be General Vandenberg's last major speech before he retires from active duty. Another feature of the Tuesday morning session will be a symposium on labor and management problems which will be participated in by Herman W. Steinkraus, Past President of the United States Chamber of Commerce and President of Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Matthew Woll, Vice-President, American Federation of Labor, New York. The symposium will be moderated by George V. Denry who was formerly moderator of Town Hall, New York, New York. This discussion will be particularly informative on the many problems which are confronting labor and management today.

Bennett O. Knudson, Past President of Kiwanis International, and President of Radio Station KATE, Albert Lea, Minnesota, and the Honorable Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., United States Ambassador to the United Nations will speak at the concluding session on Thursday morning. Knudson will tell of his recent trip "Behind the Iron Curtain" where along with nine other radio and newspaper men he was permitted to observe the activities of the Union of the Soviet Republic with relative freedom. Ambassador Lodge will speak on the subject "The United States in the United Nations."

More than 15,000 Kiwanians and their families are expected to view a glittering dramatic production staged by Leon Leonidoff of Radio City Music Hall fame, in Madison Square Garden on Wednesday evening in conjunction with the President's reception and Ball. This spectacular entertainment promises to be one of the highlights of the convention.

Kiwanis ladies and junior guests will be entertained by a professional fashion show, teas, luncheons, and tours of the many points of interest in New York City. The ladies will be addressed by Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, Treasurer of the United States.

Kiwanians from the Taneytown club will convene with fellow Kiwanians from every state in the Union, Canadian provinces, and the territories of Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon. The convention is expected to be one of the largest in the history of the international community service organization.

What shall I do?

A. Follow up with Dr. Salsbury's Avi-Tab! Most serious diseases are weakening -- birds get rundown and lose appetite. Avi-Tab puts new life in 'em, stirs the appetite, aids digestion, and builds blood. That's why so many poultrymen depend on Avi-Tab as a follow-up flock treatment after disease. Also, use Avi-Tab as a regular conditioner for the flock.

The jobs that come in cans

The American Can Company hasn't yet worked out a practical container for packing jobs and economic security. We make cans—we do no canning.

But, by making better cans, we have actually created job opportunities in many different fields.

All kinds of things—foods and beverages, paints and varnishes, tobacco and tennis balls—keep better, are more convenient and easier to use when they are packed in the right kind of container.

So, markets for these products expand. Thousands of new, well-paid jobs open up, and incomes climb.

In fact, whole new businesses have been able to get started because a suitable can was developed to hold a product. You probably know of manufacturing plants right in Maryland that owe their existence to the industry.

Creating new jobs is only one example of what America has accomplished in our free, competitive way of doing business. People working together, playing together and living together bring social and economic gains to all.

And such teamwork between our people and our business system promises greater prosperity and more jobs for our future.

The New Packard CLIPPER

This great new medium-priced line is making the kind of news you like to read: "a truly big car that even 'lowest-price' buyers find interesting."

MAYBE you're a confirmed "lowest-price" car buyer, but are beginning to wonder whether you couldn't use a little more automobile on today's crowded, high-speed highways. We'd especially like to have you see and drive the new CLIPPER.

For, if you'll think a minute, you'll realize that with a dolled-up "lowest-priced" car you're really in the medium-price field anyway, or close to it. And you've still got, basically, a smaller, lighter car, with no chance of adding the BIG Important Three of today's driving:

power steering, power braking and power shifting . . . all of which are available to CLIPPER owners.

Every inch your big-car dream!

That 122-inch CLIPPER wheelbase and overall length of 213 inches is Big Car! Yet the CLIPPER is perfectly parkable in metered spots and tight spaces. And on the road it's a dream!

LOCAL BOYS WILL GO TO CALIFORNIA

The Key Club of Taneytown High School will send two members to the tenth annual convention of Key Club International at Los Angeles next week. They are: Wayne Baumgardner, Merritt Copenhaver.

Expected at the three-day convention, July 2-4, are 2,000 high school boys from forty-seven states and five Canadian provinces. They will elect international officers, develop administrative policies for the coming year, and discuss the school and community services conducted by more than 1,000 Key Clubs, according to J. Norman Graham, president of the local club.

For the members who register on Wednesday, July 1, a trip to see the Hollywood Stars play Sacramento at the Hollywood Baseball Park has been planned. Tickets to the various radio shows originating in Hollywood will also be made available for the early registrants.

The convention will open Thursday morning with a "Kickoff Brunch" at the Biltmore Hotel at which time the Key Clubbers will be welcomed to Los Angeles by Roy Hagen, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Rev. Bob Richards, Minister of the First Church of the Brethren, Long Beach, California, and Olympic Pole Vault titleholder, will speak on "Heart of a Champion". This afternoon will be devoted to panel and committee conferences. Thursday night is Key-note Night and the major address of the evening is by Richard L. Gustafson, International Trustee. The evening also includes a symposium on "Problems of Today's Youth".

Friday morning the sessions will be on Key Club educational and organizational subjects. Nominations for election of the international officers and the finals of the oratorical contests are on the agenda for this meeting. As many of the Key Clubbers will be visiting Los Angeles for the first time, Friday afternoon will be devoted to tours of Los Angeles and the vicinity. The tours will include the movie studios, airports, industrial areas, downtown shopping districts, and drives along the Pacific coastline. During the evening there will be a topnotch talent show and the International Contest awards will also be presented.

Radio and television star, Ralph Edwards, creator of the famous radio show "Truth or Consequences" and who recently started a new show "This is your Life", was a prominent Key Clubber while he was attending the Oakland, California High School. Edwards will speak at the Key Clubbers on Saturday.

The convention will close on Saturday with the election of new international officers, and a farewell luncheon for the retiring president, Frederic A. Youngs, Jr. of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. H. Park Arnold, Trustee of Kiwanis International and a prominent lumber dealer of Glendale, California will speak at this luncheon. The afternoon session will include the installation of the new officers and, during the evening, the Key Clubbers will attend the American Legion Independence Day Fireworks Display at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Each Key Club has a sponsoring Kiwanis Club, and the high school boys are organized by Kiwanians to develop leadership ability, concepts of community service, and to direct the energies of youth into constructive channels. More than 25,000 American and Canadian boys now belong to Key Clubs.

THE SALT OF THE EARTH
The "Money-in-the-Bank" Crop

(Special Bi-weekly Series for Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey)

Asparagus is dependable, early-season, early-income crop.

Asparagus grown for processing may be called the "money-in-the-bank" crop with justification.

Demand from processors stays brisk and steady. The early-season nature of the vegetable spreads farm income in Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey, and gives the grower early cash return. It also permits him to settle seasonal labor needs early. Rust, beetles and other threats can be controlled. It is a low-risk crop, with almost never a failure.

This ancient vegetable — Julius Caesar found it growing in Great Britain and imported it to Rome — is also one of the few long-term investments a vegetable grower can make in land and plants. Unlike an orchard, however, asparagus begins to pay off a year after planting. If the beds are well managed and not overworked under pressure of demand, asparagus will return a profitable annual crop for anywhere from 10 to 18 or even 20 years.

Value Has Quadrupled

The Tri-State asparagus crop has grown from a $9,000,000 total value in 1939 to $35,000,000 in 1952. The trend has been to the processing market as the easier and more economical outlet, which counts in the net return to the grower. In 1952, almost two-thirds of the commercial asparagus acreage harvested was for processing.

a $19,963,000 crop. New Jersey ranks second only to California in both production and in size of its canned and frozen asparagus packs.

The Tri-State crop represents one-fifth of the nation's total production for processing and one-fourth its value, primarily because per ton prices paid growers here are higher than the national and California averages. This has been true almost without exception over the past 14 years.

Sustained Care Urged

The two most common field problems are rust and the asparagus beetle — perhaps the chief cause of defects found in the marketed spears. Rust-resistant varieties are valuable in keeping down infection. The beetle is easily controlled by watchful care of your beds and borders (and your neighbor's), with proper timing of insecticide applications. Failure to dust can raise cull rate 25 per cent in two days.

Your county agent and canner's field man are prepared to help on any such problems.

In harvesting, careful cutting is vital, not only for the mature spears but to protect crown buds and young spears. Careless cutting can cut yield in half and lower quality even more, according to information prepared by Rutgers University on New Jersey practices.
