Mrs. William Mehring and Mr. Delmont Koons sang two duets, namely, "He Loves Us" and "Back of the Clouds" and were accompanied by Mrs. Romaine Motter.

ECONOMIC FARM FACTS Brought To Farmers Door Step

The Annual Mid-Winter Farm Meetings for Carroll County are scheduled for Jan. 19 and 20, according to County Agent L. C. Burns.

These meetings will begin at 10 a. m. sharp on Tuesday the 19th and Wednesday the 20th respectively, and will close promptly at 3 p. m.

These annual Mid-Winter Meetings have been designed through the years to bring the very latest scientific information to farmers; the meetings this year will be no exception. Outstanding department heads of the University of Maryland will be here each day to discuss with the farmers pertinent information on many subjects.

Dr. Glenn H. Beck, new Dairy Department Head, Dr. Joseph Shaw, Dr. Albin Kuhn, Dr. Frank L. Bentz, and Mr. Ray Carpenter, all will be here discussing various phases of the farm business with you. In addition, there will be numerous panel discussions where all the folks will be given an opportunity to ask questions and make any general contributions to the meeting. These meetings in past years have proven to be most helpful to all those farmers who come and participate.

The farm economy of the county, according to recent statistics is declining considerably and now is the opportune time to check on ones procedure and make use of any information that may have a tendency to lower ones unit cost of production, states Mr. Burns.

Call up your neighbor and bring him with you to the meetings. It is time now we should all begin to think about our procedure for tomorrow.

Tuesday, January 19 and Wednesday, January 20th are the 2 days to mark on your calendar—they can make you money properly spent.

SENATE CLOAKROOM BY J. GLENN BEALL

United States Senator from Maryland Writes

Washington at times seems far removed from the daily difficulties and joys of the individual and his family.

The President of the United States has delivered his State of the Union address before the Second Session of the 83rd Congress which has now convened. The lofty ideals expressed, and his recommendations for legislation, probably do not appear to relate to any particular problem which you experience.

Washington can seem to be quite separate from the rest of the United States—and I know from personal experience that life in our Nation's Capital can appear quite detached from Maryland and my own home town of Frostburg.

President Eisenhower spoke of three goals—to protect the freedom of our people; to maintain a strong, growing economy; and, to concern ourselves with the human problems of the individual citizen.

"Only by active concern for each of these purposes," he told the Congress, "can we be sure that we are on the forward road to a better and stronger America. All my recommendations today are in furtherance of these three purposes."

He then proceeded to talk of foreign affairs, foreign assistance and trade, defense, internal security, strong economy, the budget, taxes, agriculture, conservation of resources, labor and welfare, health, education and housing.

The President's recommendations in these fields, and comment by Members of Congress, were in general terms, national in scope—the language of government too often seems peculiar to Washington, intelligible only to the initiated.

President Eisenhower's stated purposes will probably have general acceptance. It would be difficult to disagree with their intent, but you may question as to how such purposes are put into effect by your Federal government.

How, you may ask, is it determined that these purposes are desirable for us as individuals and citizens of the United States? How does government decide what action will be beneficial to me?

Concluding his address President Eisenhower gave as good an answer as can be stated. He said, "a government can try, as ours tries, to sense the deepest aspirations of the people, and to express them in political action at home and abroad. So long as action and aspiration humbly and earnestly seek favor in the sight of the Almighty, I can see no end to the road ahead for America and no human limit to the service we can perform."

Government action is the result of problems which arise in your daily life—at home, at your job, in your local communities. We, your elected representatives, try to gain an understanding of these problems and also to anticipate such problems. Action by government—in the form of new laws; of administrative acts by the President—then has a direct effect on you, your home and your community.

When you see the President on television delivering his address to Congress, or read in your newspaper of the discussions in Congress, the men and their ideas may seem far removed from your living room or breakfast table. They are not—they are your personal problems and aspirations, expressed in terms applicable to a nation.

Foreign affairs to your family can be reduced down to war or peace.

Defense can mean whether the factory where you work produce military or consumer goods—and to your sons it means how aware they are of the existence of the local draft board.

The budget and taxes are just as real as your weekly pay envelope; and the policies established by the Treasury Department affects the value of the dollar in your pocket, your savings in the bank, the insurance you have for your security and the mortgage on your home.

Agriculture can determine how many acres the farmer will cultivate next year.

Foreign trade means how much competition the business man can expect from businessmen in other countries.

Your Government in Washington may seem formidable and distant, but it is as personal as your own, and your family's health, happiness and security.

TERRA RUBRA 4-H MEETS

There will be a skating party held Feb. 5, a private night to make some money. Anyone may come and all are wanted. There was some discussion on ringworm led by Richard Wilhide. The meeting was then adjourned until March as the February meeting comes on our skating party night.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth
I wish you always near so that I may help
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

This year it has "Two in the Red!" that charming calendar with the Cocker Spaniel Puppies—just like "Sugar" with the exception that they are white instead of "Strawberry Blonde"! Large calendars like that in the kitchen please any housewife! Eh?

Your Observer spent New Year's week end in old Philly especially to view the "Mummer's Parade" on Broad street for this column. Each year it appears to be improving in every way and they say it has been going on for 53 years! The day was perfect and if it had not been for the wind, it would not have been so cold. However, the entire affair simply glistened and the thousands were full of enthusiasm and praise who looked on at the brave individuals parading for the all day affair.

Truly it appeared as a Carnival of color from 8:40 a. m. to dusk when the prizes were awarded. It was estimated that 200,000 saw the parade sitting and standing along Broad Street. Those viewing the parade seemed to be in a happy and jovial mood and yet I wondered about the many Kiddies who were brought along by the Oldsters. The costumes were truly the most lavish of any previous year or as far back as I can remember. There were many glittering with Sequins and metallic cloth and satin.

The String Bands pleased the on-lookers with their lively tunes which were up to date and catchy. The Mummies spent more than a third of a million dollars on their elaborate costumes just for that $55,000 in prize money appropriated by the city.

Of course, there are many who say like myself that after seeing it once they would not attempt to be so brave again but back we go just to be there with the Thrills, Chills and what not!

It would take more than three of these columns to describe it all and if you have not seen this great spectacle you truly have a treat in store for you next year. When the tunes of "I Love to Spend This Hour With You!" (Eddie Cantor's) "If You Knew Susie" and "Now's the Time to Fall in Love" with everyone singing along with music—the cold was really forgotten.

All in all everyone went away smiling and happy and the many Restaurants and Cafes plus Hotels did a thriving business immediately after.

Many big sales are in the stores now selling their winter stock for the Spring garments coming in and it appears as though Spring is really here as to the windows especially in hats of Navy straw and again—the Chapeau is quite small.

Velvet, Ladies, is being used for an increasing number of wedding gowns for winter nuptials plus the crown-like headdress is of cut velvet leaves, dotted with rhinestones. This wedding attire is quite glamorous.

For the latest fad for Teenagers there are little animals sewn to the ankle socks on the turned over cuff. All colors are available and the cats and dogs lead the list. All this was followed up by that dog collar of last year, which the teenager wore around the ankle. Remember?

Thinking of wearing apparel and you own one of those jeweled sweaters be careful the way you wash it. Many remove the fancy parts but you can dunk them up and down slowly in sudsy lukewarm water without all this trouble. As to dresses for 54—"SLEEK" is the word! And I predict that the Corset companies are going to do a thriving business as you are supposed to have a bosom. Nothing else!

While typing this column a little precious two year old boy's voice said, "Happy New Year, My Love!" and then hung up! That, "My Love" he has called me since he has been able to talk! Cute?

Did you see the photograph in the newspapers of the Dime-store Heiress, Barbara Hutton which pictured the wedding party? Something, Your Observer observed immediately and it was that nice son's face, Lance Revell—was and especially did I notice his hands. Anyone could tell that he was under a terrific strain. Anyway, I hope that the great love this time is real for the poor little rich girl and not all one sided.

These days the wife of our Vice president of the United States and a Columnist, Dorothy Kilgallen are knitting little sweaters!

Many saw the "Rose Bowl" spectacle on T. V. and the announcer they say was constantly reminding the public about color. T. V. Now, don't wait for color. It will be frightfully expensive. The cheapest set will cost $800. Be satisfied to see it all just as you see it today. Go right ahead and purchase your T. V. without hesitation.

So long until next week. D. V. Have a grand week end and with this new year—

Do all the good you can,
By all the means you can
In all the ways you can.
At all the places you can.
At all the times you can.
To all the people you can.
As long as ever you can!

I am,
Faithfully,

OUCH!

President Eisenhower has urged Congress to pass the bill now pending on postal rate increases, as essential to enabling the P. O. Department to meet its deficit. But, even though we pay more for our postage stamps, many Washington observers think Mr. Summerfield's books will remain out of balance.

Rate increases, according to qualified spokesmen, will surely mean pay boosts for postal workers, and very possibly after that a general across-the-board wage hike for all Federal employes.

It would be more than the new four-cent stamps that would take a licking—U. S. Press Association.

ROADS ARE EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

One of the most interesting, lucid and informative booklets we have seen in a long time is the joint effort of The National Grange and the National Highway Users' Conference entitled "Along these Roads".

It is the purpose of the booklet, which is being distributed by the Grange, to explain the PAR movement to farmers and rural communities. It tells how to get into this "Project Adequate Roads", and how to judge what sort of road is adequate for any particular community. It is the first thing we've seen that gets "the highway problem" down out of the clouds and onto the ground where roads are built.

In the joint foreword, Herschel D. Newsom, Master of the National Grange, reminds readers there was a time when "Travel from farm to market was arduous and slow. Medical and other emergency services were obtained with difficulty. Many farm families lived in semi-isolation. . . . Today," says Mr. Newsom, "the American farmer is a business man who buys and sells in a far-flung market. He is confronted with the same problems of transportation that face other business men in cities, towns and hamlets across the Nation".

Sharing the honors with Mr. Newsom, Chairman Albert Bradley, of the National Highway Users' Conference points out that ". . . The National Grange and the NHUC are mutually agreed that our nation is confronted with a domestic emergency of far greater proportion than any we have faced together in our years of close relationship. Present inadequacies existing upon our roads and streets threaten the good job that has been done."

Together, these organizations have given us a graphic picture of how "the nearest mile" and "the unseen road" are equally vital, since the farmer and his family must travel that nearest mile on every errand in sickness and in health, to school, to church, to vote, to buy stock or an Easter hat; and since 99 percent of live poultry, 62 percent of the apple crop, 75 percent of cattle, 77 percent of milk and 90 percent of shell eggs (to mention a few items) move from farm to market over the highways.

But perhaps the most telling sentence in the book is this: ". . . all the publicity in the world will not, of itself, improve one mile of road."

That, it says here, is your job. —U. S. Press Association

FOOD GOES DOWN THE RIVERS

J. N. (Ding) Darling, the famous cartoonist, put the case for soil conservation in these memorable words: "Beefsteak and potatoes, roast duck, ham and eggs, and bread and butter with jam on it, are being washed down our rivers each year in the form of good rich farm top soil."

We have long passed the point where we can afford to let this happen. We will have to feed a population which is growing at a dizzy rate from an agricultural acreage which is virtually fixed. That fact imposes a dual obligation: to get maximum production from our land and, at the same time to save and whenever possible improve that land for the needs of the years ahead.

Basically, soil conservation is not the job of government, even though government agencies are vitally interested and are active participants in the movement. It is the job of the farmer—individually, and collectively with his neighbors. And he has no lack of aids. Agricultural colleges, the soil conservation service, the forest service, farm equipment manufacturers, government bureaus and others offer booklets and other materials dealing graphically and constructively with the problem. Modern farm machinery provides an efficient, low-cost means of doing the actual work.

Every time an acre of farmland is properly and scientifically conserved, the whole country is permanently enriched.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DILLON, S. C., HERALD: "The United States is the great bulwark that stands between freedom and slavery. If the communists could get control of this nation it would not be very long before the whole world would be reduced to a state of slavery."

WALTHAM, MASS., NEWS-TRIBUNE: "The failures of domestic government and the personality clashes are part of the price we pay for a system founded on freedom of personal expression. The rewards far outweigh the penalties, so despite all the uproar over subversion and malfeasance the domestic situation is never really out of control."

DOS PALOS, CALIF., STAR: "By backing the Benson program and sounding a call for ultimate independence of Government help, the California Farm Bureau Federation, has given a powerful push toward saner national farm policy."

ALBANY, ORE., DEMOCRAT-HERALD: "Is there any reason why parties to a labor contract should be on any different basis from the parties to any other contract?"

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y., HERALD: "There is no dishonor in being a capitalist. Just be sure, and this to every small home owner and worker, that some one doesn't try to take it away from you some time."

TALK ON PUBLIC EDUCATION BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

The Rotarians of the Easton (Md.) Rotary Club were told Jan. 6, 1954, "It is not enough to take an interest in education by complaining about taxes, finding fault with the schools, and criticizing the teachers."

The speaker was Edward Hardcastle of Hagerstown, who reminded them, "The fundamental issue today is not whether something called progressive education is better than some other kind of education, nor is it between education of 1954 and that of 100 years ago. The question is: What is good education for American children?"

Just because you do not agree with today's curriculum, it was stated, is no reason why you should be classed as an old fashion conservative educator who believes the desks should be screwed to the floor and learning administered through the seat of the pants.

The schools have many great problems today, according to the speaker, and some of these are brought upon the schools because of the failure of the home environment. The tasks of the public schools were listed as: child delinquency, education along basic educational lines, making an American citizen clearly understand the great founding facts of our nation, and preparing the girl and boy for her and his path through life to face the world's ideologies with knowledge.

"In a democracy the schools must belong to the people", it was said, "and as Thomas Jefferson so well put it, 'our liberty can never be safe but in the hands of the people themselves, and that, too, people with a certain degree of instruction'."

The importance of education and the peoples' part were stressed with, "The hope of our future lies, as it always has, not in a far off place, not even in Europe nor in the near-east, nor in a magic formula but in our own children. And the future of these children lies, as it always has, with you and with me."

Beloved children, the world has need of you—and more as children than as men and women: it needs your innocence, unselfishness, faithful affection, uncontaminated lives.—Mary Baker Eddy.

In the man whose childhood has known caresses and kindness, there is always a fibre of memory that can be touched to gentle issues.—George Elliot.

HOPELESS

"Where have you been for the last four years?"
"At college, taking medicine"
"And did you finally get well?"—The Teamster.

I'LL TRY JUST ONE

"I'm going out to buy a book."
"A book?"
"Yes, my husband bought me the most adorable reading lamp yesterday."—The Teamster.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

This winter, for continuous cold in this section, has been unusual. The present freeze set in on Nov. 18, and, with the exception of a few days, the thermometer has stood considerably below the freezing point each day since.

The carnival, last Friday afternoon had the effect of bringing a considerable crowd to town, which seemed to enjoy the sights. A parade, composed of band, drum corps, 50 mounted grotesque figures, about half that many footmen and six wheeled wonders, constituted the show.

D. B. Shaum, daughter Mary, and son Edward, visited his father's family and friends, in Philadelphia, last week, as well as his sister, Mrs. Cappie Garrison at Elmer, New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Reindollar returned on Thursday evening, from a week's stay in Philadelphia.

The following are the officers elected for the present term for the Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company: Pres., R. S. McKinney; Vice-Pres., Chas. O. Fuss; Sec., Levi D. Reid; Treas., J. S. Fink; Foreman, Chas. A. Elliot. Membership, 40.

Frizzellburg—Rev. Mr. McCullough and wife, of Uniontown, spent Wednesday afternoon, at Leonard Zile's.

The shooting contest was well attended on New Year's day, much to the enjoyment of all. There were 8 contestants, and the prizes consisted of oysters, cigars, clocks, watches, etc., most of which were won by Uniontown and Jansontown sportsmen.

Clay pigeons were used for targets and some good shooting was done. A seasonable event took place at the home of H. E. Koontz and wife on Wednesday evening. A jolly band of sleighers from the vicinity of Westminster, arrived about 8:30 o'clock, only to find a happy company ready to join them in the fun.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Taneytown Vol. Fire Co. No. 1 of Taneytown, the following appointments were made: Foreman, 1st Asst., Robert S. McKinney; 2nd Asst., B. S. Miller; 3rd Asst., W. E. Burke. Plugmen, O. T. Shoemaker, Harry G. Hawk, Geo. H. Birnie, Maurice Nau and Robert Elliot. Nozzle men, U. H. Bowers, J. S. Fink, S. W. Plank, Jas. B. Galt, and N. B. Hagan. Axemen, Emanuel Harner, Samuel H. Little, Frank Gardner and D. B. Shaum. Hose Directors, Dr. C. Birnie, Dr. F. H. Seiss, C. O. Fuss, L. D. Reid, F. M. Yount, Reelmen, Joseph Fink, Frank Kuhns, Ladder men, William Erb, James Stoutter, Frank Kane, Chas. Kuhns, John J. Reid and Sherman Gilds. Hose men, James H. Reindollar, John S. Do something for somebody, somewhere

While jogging along life's road; Help someone to carry his burden, And lighter will grow your load. Do something for somebody always, Whatever may be your creed— There's nothing on earth can help you So much as a kindly deed.

Let's Think
by
G. H. ENFIELD

CONFUSION IN A CONFUSED WORLD

The world is confused because the people are confused. They are bewildered. Many have released their hold on God. One hears little of God in the Parliaments of men. In his deception and in an air of self-sufficiency, man has taken the reins of government out of the hands of God, as he thinks, and is trying to run world affairs according to his conception. Thus, he brings upon himself and all peoples fear, anxiety, confusion, disturbances, suspicion, and chaos. Whenever and wherever one discovers bigotry, prejudice, injustice, excessive political, social, and economic inequality, and the spirit of superiority, one always find the way hazy and uncertain. The fortress of mighty national power gives reasons for argument, debate, and bickering with other great powers over world-problems which is not good for security in a world unsettled. No nation or government or people can afford to plan and strive to shape world destiny by leaving the Creator of the Universe on the periphery of the world. God must be given a voice in the affairs of government. He must be recognized in the deliberations and discussions of the United Nations. Until man's program that program is doomed to defeat. Thus man plans in vain. Peace efforts will result in more suspicion and greater hate. A belief in the Fatherhood of God means also a belief in the Brotherhood of Man. Many Americans claim a belief in the first while in practice they deny the second. Why cry, "Peace, Peace", when there is no peace? Why continue to deceive yourselves? To have peace without, it must spring from within. Jesus is the Prince of Peace whether we concede Him to be or not, and until He is recognized and accepted as such, we shall grope in darkness and come to the brink of the river without being able to cross over into the Promised Land of our hopes.

Rill, Hampstead; Treas., T. K. Harrison, Westminster. Directors, Mrs. Lloyd Wilhite, Middleburg, Mrs. Grayville Bixler, New Windsor, Miss Pauline Fuss, Union Bridge, W. Acme Program Tailored To Desires of Shoppers

By WILLIAM PARK, President, American Stores Co.

As we come to the threshold of another year it is appropriate to look back for a moment and appraise our progress during the last twelve months. 1953 was a good year, not without problems, but we in American Stores Co. feel that it was a year of progress. More than forty new Acme Markets were opened and each opening suggested improvements for those that followed. Customer response indicated that we provided the kind of shopping facilities that modern shoppers prefer.

Looking to the future of our business, we must be influenced by general business conditions, to be sure. At present the employment has not reached what might be called a "working level." The number of families being established is on the increase, and the population trend continues upward. These indices seem favorable for the outlook and will influence our planning. We do not pretend to be forecasters and while we will keep a careful watch on the indicators, our greatest effort will be to learn what the consumer wants and to try to satisfy these wants.

Our future planning must be based on those things we have observed during the past, and some of these observations have been interesting. The homemaker has told us quite definitely of some things she expects of food retailing. Our customer of today is

Some were interesting only because they were so filled with human shortcomings. We bring this thought up only because we are going to write about people this week, individually and in groups, old and young and all of them interesting because they are human.

As if there aren't enough people in the world already, we learn today that the world's population is increasing at the rate of 70,000 a day or 25 million a year. This means that a large increase in the present production of food and goods and vast improvement in distribution are essential. And it is another reason why the talk of decreased production here in the U.S. doesn't make sense. The solution of too much food in America is to find the means of getting it to the people who need it. . . . not cutting down the amount that is produced. To maintain the standard of living average people are used to here in the U.S. requires that each person uses 17 tons of food and goods each year. What 25 million times 17 means in what 25 million times 17 means in increased production. Of course the standard of living in the U.S. is high but not so high that it shouldn't be the standard for all the people in the world. If the leaders in every country had this in mind instead of more selfish ideas, it wouldn't be too long before enough for everyone would be a reality instead of a dream.

Gerald Johnson, our favorite writer from Baltimore, has been cancelled as a commentator by the American Broadcasting Co. We are sorry because he was trying to bring a little sense to the American people. Heavens know there is little sense coming over the airways or through the news papers these days. It may just be a coincidence but one by one the liberals are being eliminated from radio and T.V. Edward R. Murrow so far has escaped the hatchet. His programs are about the only redeeming feature of television.

We had weather in abundance this week. Ten inches of snow and zero temperatures. But the wind was quiet and so far the snow has remained where it fell. The roads remain passable and life goes on pretty much the same. The birds are beginning to come near the barn and house in search for food. This kind of snow is hard on them for they can't get to their normal supply of food. Remember your feathered friends. Put out some small grain where they congregate and in the spring you will be repaid for your trouble with song and diligent insect hunting.

Accumulating years is no accomplishment in itself for fate is generally the deciding scorekeeper in determining how many years a person shall live. But if the scorekeeper has been kind enough to allow a person to reach 90 years and that person has been wise enough to make each one of those years count in creative ability touched with personal kindness then he or she is to be congratulated. Such a person is Mr. Louis H. Dielman, distinguished citizen of New Windsor and Carroll County. He will celebrate his 90th birthday this Saturday, Jan. 16th. We wish him a very happy day, surrounded with friends and hope the coming year will allow him to continue on with his work and to share his knowledge and philosophy with the community and outside world as he has done for so many years.

We take note of a letter in the Carroll Record written by Merritt Copenhaver. He asks the question "Where will Your Child be Tonight?" It reminds me of the old song "Where is my Wandering Boy Tonight?" except for the fact that it also includes our girls. The writer points out that Taneytown has no recreation what so ever to offer the youth. What he writes about Taneytown also holds true for Union Bridge and for that matter every town the size of these communities. What is the answer? Some of us thought T.V. would be the "boys and girls at home. But we failed to take into account that youth is active—they want to do things themselves, not sit still and watch other people do them. After all adults provide themselves with clubs, parties and drinking places. What do they provide their off-springs with? For instance, the Girl Scouts have had an active troop for fifteen years in Union Bridge and yet they have never been given a permanent club room. The scouts take part in every community program and their services to the community should have been recognized long ago. This is just one instance where the adults have failed the children.

Modern Cows Lead Factory Existence Efficiency Ratings, Production Counts

In this modern day the life of a cow has become a factory existence. They have cafeterias, efficiency ratings, and production quotas.

Cow cafeterias deliver breakfast of cut green grass. Overhead feeding devices, for all the world like automat restaurants, dole out scientifically measured rations of hay and grain.

When allowed to eat out, the cows are chaperoned by charged wires and accordion pastures.

Like factory workers coming off a shift, cows have hot shower baths. Dairy farm loafing barns and stainless steel milking sheds with electric milking machines are nothing more than industrial processing plants.

Assembly line living for dairy cows reaches the acme of modernity in the Los Angeles milk-

This is a typical cow cafeteria that has turned the life of a modern milk producer into a factory existence. Efficiency and cleanliness is of top importance in modern milk production.

shed, where a farmer speaks of a cow as he would a machine. There the herds never see rolling meadows, but live in corrals. They get "shogun feedings" of orange and beet pulp, copra meal, molasses and grains—all of it calculated to be transformed into milk as quickly and efficiently as possible.

As to those efficiency reports, as long as a production line cow turns out about four gallons of milk a day, she is kept on the payroll, but few can stand the pace for more than two years. When she fails to meet her quota, she is fired.

Radioactive Atoms May Help Farmers

According to scientists radioactive atoms may prove a gold mine to the farmers of America.

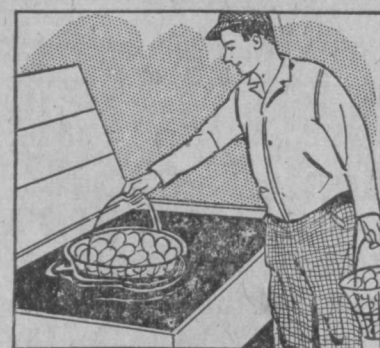

Radioactivity e a r m a r k s the atoms so that they may be followed through the bodies of animals given experimental foods. The atoms will even stand up in the heat of a diesel engine's combustion chamber.

Produced in an atomic pile the atoms already have shown that it is safe to use a new pig and chicken fattener. The fattener slows down the action of the thyroid gland. Physicians feared that it might remain in meat and slow the action of the thyroid of humans who ate it.

However, the radioactive atoms are said to have proved that the fattener wouldn't show up in pork chops, drum sticks, or other edible portions of the meat. Consequently, it was assumed that it will have no effect on human thyroids.

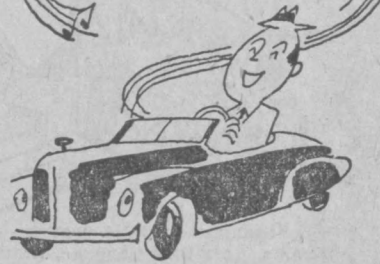

Scientists are bombarding seeds with radio active atoms in efforts to develop better strains. They have definite hope of producing a better peanut. Researchers say radioactive atoms may show them how to make synthetic milk. They are being used to study the efficiency of diesel engines. They may show how to economize in the use of fertilizer.

Clean Eggs

Clean eggs will bring the producer a better price since they will be graded higher. See your local county agent for a proper solution in which your eggs can be washed. A good method is illustrated above. Place the eggs in a wire basket and plunge them into the solution which your county agent recommends.

SUGAR 'N' SPICE AND EVERYTHING NICE

SUGAR 'N' SPICE AND SUCH OTHER NICE THINGS as apple and butter make this dessert a prize. A crisp layer of Pep whole wheat flakes, sprinkled over the top before baking, creates a crisp topping that's tasty and good! Dip way down and get the juicy, spicy apples and crunchy cereal topping in each serving. In a word, it's DELICIOUS! Another famous recipe from the test kitchens of the Kellogg Company.

APPLE CRISP

- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 5 cups sliced apples
- 2 cups Pep whole wheat flakes
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 tablespoons flour

Mix together 3/4 cup of the sugar, melted butter, salt and cinnamon. Sprinkle in bottom of greased 2-quart casserole or baking pan. Arrange apples over sugar mixture. Crush Pep slightly. RIDE DIVIDEND

New Ball-Joint Front Suspension

This revolutionary new suspension is the greatest chassis advance in 20 years . . . and it's exclusive to Ford in its field. It gives front wheels greater up and down travel to smooth out the going on rough roads. And it helps keep the wheels in true alignment for consistently easy handling. Movement of the wheels is on ball joints whether up and down, as wheels travel over rough spots, or in steering as wheels turn right or left. Ball joints are sealed against dirt and water.

DIVIDEND IN DRIVING EASE

Ford offers five optional power assists* you might expect to find only in America's costliest cars

Master-Guide power steering does up to 75% of your steering work, yet leaves you with natural steering "feel" on the straightaways. Swift Sure Power Brakes do up to one-third of the work in stopping. Fordomatic Drive gives torque converter smoothness and the "Go" of automatic mechanical gears. And only Ford in its field offers Power-Lift Windows, both front and rear, that open or close at a button's touch . . . and a 4-Way Power Seat that adjusts up and down, as well as front and back, at a touch of the controls. They're all worth-while optional extras available in the 1954 Ford!

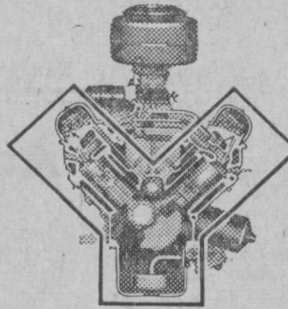

*At extra cost.

The New Birth

Lesson for January 17, 1954

THERE are many doctrines which unite all Christian churches. The doctrine of the New Birth is one of these. Some churches talk about it all the time. Some do not, but that does not mean they do not believe in it. If you are going to put churches on a black-list because they do not keep talking about the New Birth, you will have to rule out a good many writers in the Bible, because it is seldom mentioned on the pages of Scripture. However, the fact back of the words is there.

Not a Command

There is a common misunderstanding about the New Birth which is based on a mis-reading of the English translation of John 3:7. "You must be born anew." You can hear sermons on this text, preached as if this were a command, an imperative: Go and be born again! As the Greek original plainly shows, Dr. Foreman

Jesus did not mean this as a command. He was stating it as a necessity. Nothing can be commanded which cannot be willed; and no man can decide to be, or will to be, born again. It is an act of God, not of man. The word "must" in John 3:7 is like the word "must" when you tell a gardener: "In order to raise tomatoes you must have a certain amount of rainfall during the spring." It is like the word "must" used by an art teacher saying to a pupil: "If you want to be an artist, first of all you must have artistic talent." A gardener cannot go out and make it rain. A young man cannot make up his mind to have talent. Still, rain is necessary for tomatoes, and talent is necessary for art. In the same way, although the New Birth is necessary to the Christian life, no one can say, "I have decided to be born again," for this is not something we can do ourselves.

Not a New Leaf

Again, the New Birth is not simply a new start, a new leaf, a new stage in life. Every moment is a fresh start, every day turns a new leaf, every week marks a new stage in life. But no matter how much a baby grows, no matter how many times he is weighed, no matter how many changes come as the child grows to boyhood and manhood, that child is born only once. Life has many new leaves, but only one new birth.

The New Birth is not even conversion. In conversion the Christian does something; in the New Birth something happens to him. One is perfectly conscious of conversion, in fact it is not possible to be converted unconsciously. But the New Birth is not anything visible, observable at all, it is not even conscious. Let us put it as simply as possible. Take the case of some bad person who is converted. If you say to that person before his conversion, "Be good" (or anything that means that), he will not be good. The big reason why not, is that he does not want to. If you were to say, "Don't you even want to be good?" he might well reply, "No I don't, and what's more, I don't even want to want to." But one day or night, perhaps suddenly, perhaps slowly, this man realizes that for the first time he does want to be good. Perhaps he does not go so far at first. All he could say is that he wishes he did want to be good. If that is the truth about him, then he is already born again.

God's New Life

Without this first desire, faint though it may be, no progress can be made. Turning over new leaves in the wrong book never gets you anywhere. God has to put the right book into your hands. What the New Birth means, is God enabling you to desire what is truly good; in more personal language, it is the touch of the Holy Spirit on your dead and indifferent spirit, waking you so as to desire Him. It is an act of God, not of man. It is not something God does about man, but in man. The Old Testament calls it exchanging a heart of stone for a heart of flesh. The New Testament sometimes calls it the "New Birth," sometimes "passing from death to life," sometimes regeneration, which means the same thing. The New Birth cannot be seen, because it is the beginning of life. You cannot see life in the maple trees now, but you will know it is there, one spring day, because you will see the maple buds. So it is in the soul's spring-time.

CAN'T WIN

Three cellmates in a Red prison were talking things over. The first factory hand said he was accused of "absenteeism" for being late to work. The second told how he was five minutes early for work and was charged with spying. The third one said, "I came to work on time, and they accused me of buying a Western watch." The Teamster.

The skipper of a tramp steamer was peering over the side of the bridge through a thick fog. Suddenly, he saw a man leaning over a rail only a few yards wak. "Get out of the way, you fool," roared the skipper. "Can't you see I've got the right of way?" Out of the gloom came a stardonic voice. "Gently, sir, this ain't no blinkin' ship. This 'ere's a lighthouse."

It seems a fella' bought a mule and he just couldn't teach that mule any thing. Finally he called in a professional mule trainer. When the mule trainer arrived he went out to the barn, took a 2x4 and started clubbing the mule on the head. "Stop," cried the owner, "Are you trying to kill my mule?" "Listen, Mister," said the mule trainer. "The first thing in training you gotta get the mule's attention."

Wise guys who ask a pretty waitress for her telephone number never get turned down. She whispers a certain number enticingly. When they dial it, a voice answers pleasantly: "Pest Control Service."—Virginia State Restaurant Magazine.

CORRESPONDENCE

(Continued from fifth page) dren. We wring our hands over delinquency but do nothing to prevent it. We are so busy catering to our own desires that we brush youth aside. Most of us tend to look back to the days when children were supposed to be seen and not heard. That day is as dead as the 5 cent cup of coffee, and we may just as well admit it. Sometimes when I overhear teenage conversation I am bewildered that they can be so intelligent and wide awake. If adults would listen once in awhile to their plans and ambitions and help them instead of blocking their natural, active pursuits there would be few bad boys and girls.

We wonder sometimes who is giving our President such bad advice. In his message to Congress the other day he said inflation has been stopped. We know of course that he nor the first lady have to do the shopping for groceries. If they did both would know that coffee went up last week 4 to 6 cents per pound and bread went up in D. C. one cent a loaf. The cost of eating is higher right now than at any time in my memory and my account books prove it.

Mrs. McNair writing from Washington says that if mink is any sign of the soundness of our country then we have nothing to worry about for the Senate gallery last week was lined with mink. Every lady present had on a mink coat or stole. I guess every woman would like to own a mink coat not only for prestige but because the fur is so beautiful. Each time we drive to Marston I am tempted to stop in at Hoff's Mink farm and see if the mink is as beautiful in its fur as the fur is in a coat.

A woman is never happier as when she sees a double chin on her husband's old flame.—R. Roelke.

The Reporter Says...

STEP TOWARD DISARMAMENT:

An immediate East-West standstill agreement freezing all armaments — atomic and conventional — at their present levels is suggested as the "indispensable next step" to President Eisenhower's plan for a peacetime atomic-energy pool, by David F. Cavers, Associate Dean of the Harvard Law School. Dean Cavers says, "Of course a standstill is not an end in itself. It provides a period of preparation for further steps toward peace. As the inspection machinery was tested and improved, confidence would grow in the workability of more drastic controls. Arms-reduction talks could take place under favorable conditions. With economic well-being bettered and prospects for political settlement brighter, even a dictatorship would find it hard to reverse this trend."

COMMERCIAL TV IN BRITAIN: "During 1953 the Times (of London) carried more letters on the subject of commercial television than on the Coronation, Everest, the Korean truce, or the Mau Mau. The core of the opposition to advertising on British TV has been the belief that television is no mere extension of radio and movies, but an utterly pervasive and apparently irresistible force in the life of the community. The Archbishop of York has announced that he considers television at least as powerful in our lives as the atom bomb — adding that he would not hand the bomb over to commercial sponsors."—Blake Ehrlich

COMMUNIST TACTICS: "They (Communists) are ready to give inspiration and assistance to any man or any movement that hampers the work of democracy—and the more to the right they are the better. Above all, the Communists follow the trends of politics: If these move toward conservatism or reaction, the Communists always manage to adjust themselves. There are many indications that the trends in most European countries are toward conservatism just as those in Asian nations are toward extreme nationalism. The Communists go along. They are the parasites of success."—Reporter Notes
