HISTORY OF

TANEYTOWN As It Appears in the 1894

Files of the Record Soon after the Revolutionary War, Congress passed laws organizing all the male citizens of the United States, between the ages of 18 and 45 into militia. They were all placed under the command of the President of the United States as commander-in-chief, and provision was made for filling up every branch of the service. These laws, with some modifications are still in force. For many years there was a general muster once a year, but soon after 1840 this was discontinued, except in time of war, when every one of legal age is liable to be drafted. The only organized militia is the volunteer companies who are furnished with arms by the United States Government, and are, unless called out by the President, under the control of the Governors of the different states. In common with the other states Maryland had its annual muster day. Before the formation of Carroll County, the general muster ground was set up at the Monocacy, at Bridge-port I believe; all the male citizens between the ages of 18 and 45 were obliged to be there. They came armed with all sorts of inoffensive weapons, some with sticks, some with small fence stakes, the majority with corn stalks; it was this latter weapon that gave them the name of "Corn stalk Brigade," by which they were generally known. The company officers were, I believe, elected by the men, and the regimental officers appointed by the Governor. Most of the military titles before the war of the rebellion came from rank in the militia. Cols. Knox, Galt, Longwell and Boyle, and the various captains that bore those titles in the old days in Taneytown, won their first military honors from their position in the militia. Dr. Samuel Swope was, I believe, a colonel when the annual muster days were discontinued.

The mere mention of the old muster days brings a smile to the faces of most of those who took part in them; indeed it was because they had at last gotten to be a time for fun and (Continued on 6th page)

On Monday night, March 8, the group met at the home of the chairman, Miss Amelia Annan. Dr. Tracey, of Hampstead, who is an authority on a great deal of Maryland history especially that which relates to land, was present and gave a detailed sum-mary of facts concerning the surveys and grants of that land which later became Taneytown District. Dr. Tracey, in the interest of the coming Bi-Centennial Celebration, recently spent a day in Annapolis in order to gather from records there the material which presented. Copies of this invaluable information were given to the committee. Mrs. Tracey, who assisted her husband in this work, also was present at the meeting.

Miss Dorothy Elderdice, the writer and director of the pageant which will depict the story of Taneytown, attended the meeting and read what she has written thus far. In addition to the chairman the other members of the historical committee are Miss Elizabeth Annan, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Margaret Nul-ton, Miss Clara Brining, Miss Beulah Englar, Mrs. Harry Reindollar, Miss Mary Reindollar and Mrs. John Teet-

All churches and organizations will be asked to put a summary history of their institution within the souvenir program that is to be published in connection with the celebration. Therefore it is suggested that all organizations commence to gather the necessary information together that they will be prepared when their history is to be presented, which will be around May 1st.

PARENT STUDY GROUP

Panel Discussion Held at Elementary School

The Parent Study Group met at the Ine Farent Study Group met at the Elementary school, March 3, at 1:30. Mrs. Chas. Hopkins, chairman, welcomed the Group and visitors whole-heartedly and then introduced the panel and Miss Evelyn Maus, Personal Supervisor who was acting as moderator for the discussion. She introduced tor for the discussion. She introduced the topic, "What are our Responsibil-ities to our Children" pointing out various responsibilities as a community and that we cannot shut ourselves away from these problems. Children previously went to high school because of desire, now with different educational systems it has became compulsory thus bringing up problems in school. Also, parents primary interest is money, causing parents to work; because of this, juvenile cases can be blamed on the home. Mrs. Robert Clingan panelist, representing the home brought up the three vital and main points parents can and should be responsible for. Physical—They should be well cared for. Emotional—Tender loving care should be practiced. Physical love is needed for proper emotional development. Explanations, courtesy and truth should be practiced by parents or else it would revert to the child. Spiritually—Parents neglect their part to a great extent. Parents should help their children to understand why they need spiritual guidance.

Dr. Stevens, panelist, representing the health viewpoint, brought out first and foremost. "Keep Healthy".

Preventative Medicine practiced. Regular hours, adequate sleep. Proper diet.

Accident prevention in Elementary children. 5 A good policy to expose children to measles and mumps at age 3-5.
6. Develop personality, teaching them tolerance to all associates. 7. Intelligence testing at early age from 5 to 6 preferred.

Rev. Morgan Andreas panelist, representing the church, commented how the child should be lead in Spiritual growth. One or two hours a week is not enough time for the child to consume all the spiritual wants he or she needs. Parents should lead the way for them by "doing", not "tell-Go as a family unit to one

Mr. Frank Wargny panelist representing the school which is, as he put it, a target for criticism both just and unjust. The elementary school is the basis for future learning. The Three "R's" extensive Science, world wide social studies, in addition they are taught to talk and act freely and at ease with groups. Arts and crafts are a necessity, morality and religion is practiced. They are taught to be tolerant and open minded and accept responsibilities, leisure time is spent constructively. Thus, the elementary school gives the child a "Thorough Grounding in Fundamentals of Good

Mr. Sam Breth panelist representbrought up how the organizations lend out helping hands to all in need. Concerning themselves to help the children of the community. That all must work together and all should be their "brothers keeper". We cannot forget the other man as long as we live as a group and with people. Recognize the problems, and do something to prevent as well as correct.

The comments were enjoyed by the entire group and questions then were asked. Unfortunately, the time was limited and many questions were unanswered. We hope that next year will be able to continue with these interesting discussions. After the meeting, tea and cakes were served by the refreshment committee for the

The Board approved plans for the holding of scholarship examinations for senatorial appointment: such ex-aminations to be given on Saturday, March 27, at 9 a.m., in the Westminster High School under the direction of Miss Evelyn Maus, visiting teacher. The Board considered at length prob-lems which confront the educational authorities at this time with respect to additional school buildings for the growing school population. It was noted that the effort to secure legislation authorizing further bonding for school construction had not been successful The Board, therefore, directed the superintendent to continue in every way, his efforts to bring about increas ed public consciousnes and under-standing of the school building problems, securing the cooperation of all possible agencies. The Board deems it wise, at this time, to approve any ctivities appropriate to the end that full understanding of the school emergency be achieved in order to prevent misunderstanding and inconvenience on the part of school patrons, should undesirable emergency measures be necessary in order to accommodate school pupils in the buildings. It is the hope of the educational authorities that sufficient awareness of these problems can be created to make possible a plan of financing in the near future. It is felt that the issue of school buildings and school facilities should be an important one in the thinking of all citizens, and that such problems cannot be ignored by any of those interested in the county wel-

What is A Woman?

A Woman is a flower—the only difference of women—some are just a wee bit sweeter than others! A Woman is the understanding side of Human Nature! She not alone is amiable but always forgiving (ten times over) kind, gentle and loving. Some women are a little more reserved although all women are affectionate deep down inside—performing many tasks which would require the services of more than a half dozen individuals. She is cook, nurse, maid, chamber-maid, chaffeur, laundress and with all these many times holds a po-sition on the outside to make ends meet. Nine times out of ten she is the real partner of a husband holding the strings to his success.

A woman can be in the kitchen premake a lightning change removing her apron and appear a charming and gracious hostess for the guests which have been invited home by Mr. Husband and that for the rest of the evening. that and that for the rest of the evening. A Woman sacrifices much (all through love alone) and in many instances performs many deeds that are never spoken of. If her husband is interested in Golf, A Woman will make every effort to learn his sport (even though she may leather the standard of the stand though she may loathe the game).

A Woman will diet and make herself beautiful and keep that way all down through the years just for that man in her life!

A Woman desires love, kindness and consideration from the man she marries and then she will eat from the palm of his hand!

A Woman appreciates the little remembrances such as birthdays, anniversaries, and very special days. She does not crave wealth from the better half (as many are inclined to think) but loves the companionship. There is nothing difficult to understand about Woman as Man has stated all down through the ages which is (their one hig slib)!

A Woman is the best companion on earth with her own sex or the opposite sex. She likes attention such as the chair pulled out for her at dinner, the assistance of placing on with galosh-es, the security of the strong hand across a busy thoroughfare, treated of an evening to the Movies or a special play, the gift for her birthday instead of the paper bill handed to her and many other little niceties.

A Woman may appear tired from the strain of numerous responsibili-ties but she continues to be brave and courageous as she starts another day anew of all the duties which are expected of her. A Woman is optimistic when everything is going wrong, she will say, "It will be all right!"

A Woman's shoulder has always been the soft place for mon wrong.

been the soft place for man, woman or child to rest upon and pour out their innermost secrets. Her shoulders always broad and can hold any weight. Woman is always sympatue-tic! 'A Woman always has a smile Woman is always sympatheeither on her lips or in her eyes even f her heart is aching or breaking. She continues to keep her 'chin up!'
From the time of young woman-hood, a brother will not notice his sister until another Woman's brother s paying marked attention to this new young Woman! From the time of tiny babyhood, Woman has been a breath of Heaven—a warm bundle of flesh idolized by her doting Father and perhaps spoilt a wee bit by her adoring Mother! A Woman is reliable, most conscientious and thoughtful at all times. She can always find the lost article around the house which no one else can find (although it is right at that very place all the time)! A Woman can make a hut a home and a home a castle. She can be compared with the clock constant going and when the clock stops it is'nt home any more! She is the big wheels that makes the world keep going round by her love! A woman will work and work and work for the Lord and Master of the house and when that is given, she will start working all over again! God made Woman to be loved and to give love! God Bless All Women!

SENATE CLOAKROOM by J. Glenn Beall United States Senator from Maryland

Senate Joint Resolution 1-the George substitute for the Bricker Amendment—has now been disposed of after five weeks debate. A two-thirds vote by the Senate would have sent the resolution to the State Legislatures for ratification as the twenty-third amendment to the Constitution. During the debate I received a number of communications from Marylanders recommending that I support or oppose this measure, and when, on February 26, the Vice-President called for a vote on final passage of the resolution I was among those who voted nay.

After five weeks debate neither those who originally sponsored S. J. Res. 1 nor those who had diligently worked for a meeting of the minds were altogether satisfied with the re-sult. In fact, the concensus of those voting yea appeared to be that since this was the best the Senate could do the resolution should go to the House of Representatives where, Senator Knowland explained, "undoubtedly extensive hearings will be held and where other changes may be made to the proposed amendment.

I believe, as did Senator Ferguson, that this was not "the Constitutional amendment that should be submitted to cure the evil which exists. I know it is argued that this will cure a lesser evil, but I think we should not choose between evils, if we can find a better way."

Senator Ferguson in his closing statement proceeded to point out the new "evils" which the proposal would create.

He said: "I have stated on the record that I think we are changing the very fundamentals of our Constitution as they relate to treaties.
Our forefathers, who drafted the Constitution, believed that if we were going to have treaty law it was bound to take from the States rights and privileges which had been reserved to them; and, therefore, if we were go-ing to take away constitutional rights and privileges under State constitutions, if we are going to repeal their laws it should not be done by both Houses of Congress, but should be done by the Senate of the United States, by the votes of two-thirds of the Senators, which, in effect, meant two-thirds of the States . Some absurdities are involved here. We are saying in this amendment, if it shall pass, that two-thirds of the Senators present must be recorded as voting on a treaty, while at the same time an executive agreement, which can do exactly what a treaty can do, can be passed on the consent calendar. That is what this amendment provides."

Senator Ferguson, and I and others who voted nay, were convinced that the United States Senate during the five-week debate had made clear to the world that the Constitution cannot be violated by a treaty or an agreement, and that the amendment nnally under discussion was written in such a way that an executive agreement submitted to Congress could be passed on the consent calen-oar without a yea-and-nay vote.

It would hardly have been helpful to attempt to cure one evil and in do-ing so create a new one.

The Senate debate demonstrated to the world—and the courts—the sincere concern of the American people over treaties or executive agreements which might be interpreted as domes tic law, without having been enacted by Congress. To that extent the debate served a useful purpose, and it leaves the Constitution and the established treaty-making powers as they were written by the Founding Fathers.

President Eisenhower now has the responsibility and the necessary authority to conduct our relations with foreign nations. He was called to the Presidency at a time when the United States needed a man with his particular gifts and experience in working with friendly foreign powers.

The people of the United States said in effect to General Eisenhower, "We want you to assume the responsibilities of the Presidency of the United States, and here are the powers, enumerated in the Constitution, which we give you to carry out the duties of that office."

To seriously jeopardize his prestige at home and abroad after only one year in office-and because of disagreement with certain actions of his predecessors—would restrict President Eisenhower's activities in the very field which made him so uniquely qualified during this period of Cold

Discussion of the proposed Constitutional amendment has resulted in these accomplishments: first, it has been established that it is the belief American Federation of Labor will sedes the Constitution; second, that the Courts, despite any earlier sweep-ing decisions, may be more restrictive in their interpretations; third, the Constitution still stands, unencumber ed by new amendments which might embarrass the President of the United States and limit this country in joinng with other nations to hold back

Communist aggression.

Since the Federal Convention there have been a total of twenty-two amendments to the Constitution. The first ten—the Bill of Rights—were proposed by the First Congress on the 25th of September, 1789. While numbered as amendments they should be considered part of the original instrument proposed in Philadelphia and approved by the States.

From 1789 until 1870 there were a total of only five amendments added to the Constitution. No other amendments were added until 1913. For 124 years the people of this country found the Constitution and the Bill of Rights adequate to meet the national needs with the exception of five in stances, three of which, the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments, were adopted during restoration of the Union after the Civil War.

Since 1913-in only forty-one years —seven amendments have been adopted, which indicates that in mode times we may be amending the Constitution as a matter of expediency. However, as that great Chief Justice, John Marshall, said, "But a Constitution is framed for ages to come and is designed to approach immortality as nearly as human institutions can approach it."

The Constitution has served the United States for 165 years, primarily because it established a government with separated powers and those powers specifically defined. I have complete confidence that it will serve this great nation equally well in the

Organisms Make Productive Soil

Unpaid Laborers Work for the Farmer

What is the difference between a gram of productive soil and a gram of non-productive soil? Scientists estimate that the difference may be more than 1-billion little organisms. A sheet of paper from the ordinary school tablet weighs about three grams.

University of Wisconsin scientists estimate that there are more than 1,012,000,000 living organisms in one gram of productive soil. Predominant are bacteria, next are molds, then come the fungi, protozoa, algae, yeasts and finally, worms and insects. A further estimate is that there are between Scientists say that the difference between productive and non-productive soil may be as much as 1 billion minute organisms per gram of soil. The wise farmer makes these organisms work for him.

3,800 and 6,100 pounds of living organisms in one acre of productive soil to the 1-foot depth. Fungi, which is one of the more important elements, makes up nearly a ton of this total weight.

All these minute organisms are unpaid laborers for the farmer, ever ousy converting crop residues, the stems, leaves and roots of other raw organic materials into forms which can be used by growing crops. These "little friends' must be well fed and must receive sufficient air if they are to continue to do their necessary conversion job; if they die off in large numbers, crops will suffer and yields decline. It's the wise farmer who encourages their activity as much as possible.

Turning under large quantities of well inoculated legumes, grasses, crop and livestock residue will keep these organisms happy and thriving, while over irrigation or poor irrigation may drown or suffocate them.

New Testing Equipment For Soybean Industry

New testing equipment expected to be put into general use in 1954 should prove helpful to the soybean industry, the farmer and the consumers. The new equipment is designed to make it possible to measure both the quality and the quantity of oil in a load of soybeans much quicker than in the past.

Farmers sell their soybeans to processors who extract the oil for use in margarine, shortening, other edibles and for use in industry. Most of the remainder of the sovbean becomes oil meal for livestock and poultry feed and flour for bakery and other edible prod-

Farm Equipment

Retail sales of new tractors and farm equipment in 1953 were approximately two billion dollars, which compares with a high of $2.8 billion in 1951 and $2.6 billion in 1952. Manufacturers believe investment in replacement equipment will hold to present levels through 1954, barring any secondary reaction caused by a general business reaction. Through November. 1953, a yearly total of 38,018 wheel and crawler type tractors had been turned out for farm use, with production for the year slightly below figures for 1952.

FEESERSBURG

After being postponeed for two months due to bad weather the Elmer Wolfe P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the school auditorium. Carroll Wilnide presided and after a short business meeting the program committee gave the tumblers and acrobats of the chool a chance to do their stuff. Miss Collins used her time on the program o present her girls in humorous skits which were very much enjoyed, not only for their humor but also for their brevity. The Harmonettes got tangled up in the harmony, and sang off key but John Hood came to their rescue with his banjo and saved the evening. Mr. Bubrick, as usual, surprised the parents by making tumblers and acrobats out of their boys and girls, who at home can't climb into a hay mow without falling out. Indeed we would like to know how Mr. Bubrick gets so much effort out of the children, because this summer when we attempt to get our teen-ager interested in the lawn mower, we would like to use his recipe. Not too many parents were present to enoy the program, but it was their loss as the boys and girls did put on a good show, and Miss Collins and Mr. Bubrick are to be congratulated for their work and interest.

Parents may not realize how important P.-T.A work is in the setup of our public school system. Like boards of education and administrators, the P.-T. A.'s have made and are still making tremendous contributions to the schools. Their amazing growth and work was the one bright spot in the public's general attitude toward the schools for more than fifty years. Yet P.-T. A. leaders themselves are increasingly aware of the fact that if our schools are to go forward in keeping step with the people's needs, they must be backed with the total resources of the community. Our local P. -T. A. has been most active in the past eight years and has conributed much in time and money to the school and community. It would be most unfortunate if it failed to be less active and progressive at a time when our public school system is in a critical and dangerous period. The local school band and orchestra will give a public program March 16 in the auditorium of the school beginning at 8 p. m. The public is cor-dially invited. There will be no admission charge. Recently the Drum and Bugle Corp of Taneytown gave their uniforms to the Elmer Wolfe School. The members of the school band will wear these uniforms when they play March 16. Just recently the P.-T. A. bought three instruments A. bought three instruments for the orchestra, which included a bass violin, a cello and a viola. I doubt very much if there exists one human being that doesn't like music in some form or another. Even some animals enjoy it, as our cows seem to be more quiet when the radio in the barn is tuned to a lovely waltz or some of Wayne King's music. For some reason they don't seem to care for hill billy songs or off beat jive. But the invitation to hear the band and orchestra does not mean that you can bring the cows along. Just bring yourself.

Women are faster drivers than men. So say the Maryland State Police after checking their radar screens. One out of every four women exceed the speed limit, but rarely drive over 80 miles an hour. When caught for speeding the women unlike the men offer an excuse. It is generally a believable one such as supper is long overdue or the pot-roast is burning or she is late for a bridge party. Although women drive faster than men this doesn't prove they are better or worse drivers than

Do you have trouble keeping parsley in the refrigerator? Try washing it thoroughly, then shake most of the moisture off. Tie it tightly in a cellaphane bag and place on lower shelf of ice box. Or you may prefer to place it in a sealed glass jar. Each time you use it, sprinkle what is left with water and return it to the container. I have kept it this way for six weeks. We homemakers should encourage the grocer to sell parsley in smaller bunches. This way there wouldn't be so much waste for it takes a lot of cooking to use up a large bunch of the herb

Carroll County is about to receive another fugitive from the city and its frustrating way of living. It is Siegfried Weisberger, owner of the orld famous Peabody Bookshop in Baltimore, who thinks most people will soon be Boobs and that America is in for some dark days. He bases his conclusions on the fact that people no longer read the classics, no longer search for culture, but are interested only in business and more business. A farm near New Windsor will soon be Weisberger's new habitat and he could not have picked a better place to soothe his ruffled spirits. For Carroll County is a place from which new hopes arise and shattered dreams are pieced together. It is still far enough away from a large city that it retains the plowman's patience and the space between farm and village still large enough that men keep their individuality. We are sure that here in our beautiful county Mr. Weisberger will find what he seeks and that Carroll County will welcome him calmly and with dignity and that he will accept us as simple country people with not too many boobs among us.

The organizations of the Union Bridge area have responded with en-thusiasm to the Little League and Babe Ruth baseball club. The checks been most generous and offers of other assistance have been most encouraging. The boys of the community will be mighty pleased that things are moving right along and that they are assured of a baseball club this spring.

Would you like to be a better citizen? There is no better way then sharing part of your time to your community. A community is no bet-ter or no worse than the sum total of all its citizens. Do your share to raise the standard of your communi-Ruth Roelke.

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His infiinite wisdom has removed from our midst Jacob D. Adams, the esteemed President of The Key Grain and Feed Co., and Vice-President of The Detour Bank on February 7, 1954, at the age of 75 years; and WHEREAS, Mr. Adams was an outstanding citizen of the Emmitsburg District, Keymar-Detour communities in which he spent his entire life, and where he was prominently identified with many farming, business and civic activities; he was a Director of The Key Grain and Feed Co. ever since its organization in 1925, and served as its President for the past two years; he was a Director of The Detour Bank continuously since 1929, and had been elected its Vice-President only a few days before his death;

WHEREAS, his faithful devotion to his Church, his family and his host of friends, in addition to his sterling in-tegrity, good judgment, and many other admirable, qualities endeared Jacob Adams to the hearts of all who knew him; and his increasingly valuable and distinguished services as Director and officer, on behalf of the welfare and progress of these two organizations to which he so loyally contributed a large share of his time and talents for almost 30 years, will be greatly missed and long remembered by each and all of us. NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RE-SOLVED that in his passing, his Associates on the Board of Directors of The Detour Bank and of The Key Grain and Feed Co. have sustained an irreparable loss, are profoundly conscious of an enduring sorrow, and in mourning his death, we extend to his bereaved family our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

AND BE IT RESOLVED that a copy of this Resolution be published in The Carroll Record, a copy be sent to Mr. Adams' widow, and as a permanent tribute to his memory, that this Resolution be recorded in the official Minutes-Book of The Detour Bank and of The Key Grain and Feed Co.

Just because a cow does not eat all the hay from her manger does not necessarily mean that she has all she wants to eat. Some milk cows are choosy, and will stand hungry rather than eat something they don't like. Cows need a lot of feed for high production, and they won't eat a lot unless they get something they like.

It, is sad that the phrase divine service has come so generally to mean public worship instead of daily deeds. -Mary Baker Eddy

HISTORY OF TANEYTOWN

(Continued from first page) jokes, instead of for serious military work, that they were finally stopped. The officers were generally in uniform but the men came in their ordinary dress. Of course it was a time for a general gathering of the people; cakes and small beer were to be had for a small sum, whiskey was only 3 cents a drink and when you remember that the temperance cause was only in its infancy, and that a large majority of the people thought it no harm to drink it, you can easily imagine that the fun was sometimes fast and furious among those who were inclined to drink more than they

One rather grim joke is still told with a great deal of gusto; a man who had spent all his money but one cent, and had gotten more than was good for him, was stretched out on a bench in the bar room apparently asleep. Some of his companions coming in said, "He's dead, boys, let's put cents on his eyes." He lay still for a few minutes than reaching up took the cents off his eyes and said, "pow I have enough to get a drink" "now I have enough to get a drink," and suiting the action to the word, went up to the bar and got it.

In addition to the county drill they used to have drills in Taneytown. The parade ground was up where the Reformed parsonage now stands which was then in commons enclosed on two sides by a fence. On one occasion while the militia were drilling, the officers of the company being in gorgeous uniform and the men trying how ridiculous they could make it, they finally got all the men faced into the fence corner, and their mili-tary education not being very complete, they did not know how to get them out; there they stood, the men laughing, the crowd enjoying the situation and the small boy thinking it the best fun he ever saw. The commanding officer got red in the face and scratched his head, but could not remember the command—it is said to be characteristic of great com-manders, that they are not bound down to technical rules, and do not hesitate to change their plans even in the midst of a battle when it is in the midst of a battle when it is necessary,—accordingly after a good deal of hesitation the officer of the day gave the order,—it, "boys, turn around and march out of the corner". Squire Fisher and Captain William Burke were, I believe, the two last captain of militia in Taneytown.

Besides the corn stalk regiments have been volunteer military companies in Taneytown at various times; either there was more of a military spirit among the people, or the fact that they were obliged to drill at any rate, and preferred to do it in all the pomp and glory of uniform, U. S. Army guns with bayonets, music and flags, rather than in the somewhat ridiculous corn stalk regiments, I have been able to learn of several military companies that were formed here: the light-horse company, spoken of by Mr. Luckenoach, which was formed during the Revolution, an artillery company raised by Captain Snyder, a company raised upwards of fifty years ago by Dr. Samuel Swope and afterwards commanded by Mr. Tobias Rudisel, company commanded by Mr. Wm. Guthrie, soon after the war. The latter had but a short life; they never had any uniforms or muskets, using their own shot guns and rifles for drill, and soon disbanded. Of the drill, and soon disbanded. Of the light-horse company there is nothing but the tradition of its existence.

The company raised by Dr. Samuel Swope was, I believe, the best drilled, and most notable that ever graced our town. Their uniform was blue coat, with white trimming and white shoulder knots brees buttons blue shoulder knots, brass buttons, blue pantaloons in winter and white in summer, high stiff caps with a shield and a tall feather. For some time they were obliged to get their music, (fife and drum) from Littlestown, a man named Keefer and the Lansingers furnishing it; later however the Messrs. Fogle, Joseph, David and Michael played the fife and drums. I have not been able to learn the names of all the officers. Dr. Samuel Swope was first captain; after the resigna-tion of Dr. Annan he was appointed Lieutenant Colonel of Militia and Mr. Tobias Rudisel was elected captain. Messrs. John B. Boyle and Wm. Otter lieutenants and Mr. Israel Hiteshue orderly sergeant. The company was generally formed on Frederick St., opposite the stone tavern, and then marched to the parade ground, where the Reformed parsonage now stands. On two occasions at least, they took part in imposing military demonstrations; one was when they took part with the Pennsylvania militia in an with the Pennsylvania militia in an encampment at Hanover. Col. Eichelberger, of Hanover, and Col. Small of York, were in command of the York county militia. A great many of our older citizens still speak of what a fine appearance Dr. Samuel Swope made when it came his turn to act as officer of the day. In full uniform and riding a fine horse he was said and riding a fine horse he was said to be the finest looking officer in the encampment. The Taneytown company had some very hilarious members, who played many merry pranks, but always succeeded in putting the blame on their Pennsylvania comrades.

When the corner stone of the court house in Westminster was laid there was another grand civic and military demonstration, in which our citizens took part, some of them rather grudgingly as they had hoped to have the county seat here.

During the Mexican War some of the members of the company, in order to tease the captain and have a good joke on him, proposed to offer their services to the government for the war. The proposition was carried, I believe, against the remonstrance of the captain, (Tobias Rudisel,) by an informal vote; he however turned the joke on them by calling a regular meeting of the company at which time he assured them that he did not care to go, still if they voted for it, every man of them would go whether they were in earnest or in fun. The proposition was unanimously defeated and the company stayed at home The only surviving members of the company so far as I can discover are, Dr. Swope, Messrs. Jas. Davidson, Samuel Slick and Jas. Rogers. The boys also had a company with their own; they were armed with wooden guns, and drilled along with the men. In writing these articles I have to depend mainly on tradition and the memory of those who took part in the scenes described, as every one knows people differ very much in their recollection of past events, even when they happened but a short time ago, and this is much more apt to be the case when relating events that occurred a long time ago. I hope, therefore, that when there is a misstatement of facts, anyone who knows the correct version will tell me of it. I shall always be glad to state it correctly. I am told by a member of Captain Guthrie's military company that the company was gotten up by Mr. Piper who lived at Antrim and Mr. Guthrie was afterwards elected captain. They had a uniform, blue jacket trimmed with yellow, white pantaloons with red stripe and mili-tary cap; also that the company was raised just before the war in 1860. I think, and that the main cause of its disbanding was that a good many of its members enlisted in the Union

So far as I can learn the only surviving member of Captain Snyder's artillery company is Dr. Samuel Swope. They had, I am told, two can-nons; one was lent to the citizens of a neighboring community and no one seems to know what became of it; the other was burst at a celebration the other was burst at a celebration of the 4th of July, 40 years ago.

The 4th of July was then celebrated more generally than it is now; in a great many places there was a parade and patriotic speeches, and although a good deal of it was spread eagle oratory, it was better than to let the day go unnoticed. An excess of patriotism is always better than a deficiency. On this occasion while the deficiency. On this occasion while the celebration was at its height, Mr. Alexander Frazer being gunner, the cannon burst and the pieces flew in every direction, fortunately without injuring anyone

"THE POSTOFFICE ON WHEELS"

The United States Post Office Department has given out the following, under date of Jan. 31: "The interesting experiment of a post office on wheels, which will be tried with the Westminster office as a base, cannot be inaugurated before March 1st. Meanwhile a map has been prepared of the territory included in the new service and in a few days a circular letter will be sent out by the Post Office Department to all persons living within the lines of the route explaining to them in detail what is contemplated and asking their cooperation. They will be requested to notify all their future correspondents that their address will be changed from the name of the little post office from which they now get their letters to "Westminster-Route A". This will mean that instead of having their letters left at the present cross-roads office, where they must ride or walk miles to receive it, their mail will in the future be taken out to them by the wagon office which will leave Westminster every morning. Mr. Shriver, the carrier of the route, will drive over his route every day delivering and collecting mail at the letter boxes which the people in his territory will erect at convenient spots along the road. He will also sell stamps and deliver registered letters. It is assumed that as Mr. Shriver's wagon office develops, the little post offices now existing within his territory will gradually become unnecessary from lack of patronage and they will be eventually abolished along with the star route now supplying them."

Three Ifs

Lesson for March 14, 1954

THERE are important Ifs in the Christian life. The word IF keeps coming up all through the Bible. This does not mean that the Christian life is based on uncertainties. It does mean, however, that there is nothing automatic about it. At an "Automat" restaurant you can put coins in the slot and watch pie, sandwiches, coffee or what-will-youhave, come out of the wall. But the life of the Christian is not like that. You can't put Dr. Foreman in a pious wish, or a short prayer, like a dime, in the morning and then expect the rest of the day to pour out all the virtues without your having to do another thing. Important conditions have to be

"If It Dies"

Many Ifs of the Bible can well be expressed in the words "Only when . . . " Three times Jesus used that fateful word in the hours when he was face to face with his destiny, when he was facing the Cross. These Ifs had to do with himself, they also had to do with his friends. Not only his friends there and then, but now and here,-in short, with every Christian. One of these Ifs is in his saying about the grain of wheat. Save the grain, cover it with protective varnish, keep it in a tin box, put it in a bank vault,-you may save the grain but you will destroy its life, there will be no other grains. Put the grain of wheat in the ground where it can rot, and in a few weeks that grain will be gone, it will have died; but where it died there will be a green blade growing, a blade that one day will be a wheat stalk bearing many grains. If - only when - there is death can there be life. Jesus meant that for himself; if he had refused the cross he would not have been the "Prince of Life" and Saviour. He meant it for us: those persons who mean most in the lives of others, those vital personalities who by a kind of bright contagion bring vitality wherever they go,-those are the very persons who are least careful for their own selves. Wherever people are scrambling every man for himself, there you have strife and destruction.

"If Any One Serves Me—" Another If is in the saying, "If any one serves me, he must follow me." Jesus did not mean follow at a long and respectful distance. He meant to climb where he climbed, dare what he dared. Jesus had put this in even stronger words some time before. His follower, he said, must take his own cross every day and follow Him. Christians are rather too fond of looking at the cross, and letting their Christianity go at that. But the Christian life is not like looking at a show, not even at a tragedy. We see the cross in every Christian church somewhere, perhaps even the building is in the shape of a cross. But what Jesus asked for in his followers was not a cross before their eyes but a cross in their lives. To put it quite simply: Christian life, when it is real, is a life of sacrifice for others. It is a life in which self comes last, not first. A doctor said to his patient: "I think most people are Christians, don't you?" That depends on what you mean by Christian! If you mean by that, some one who admires Jesus, yes, most people are Christians. But if you mean what Jesus meant, one who actually follows Jesus, how many Christians are Christian?

"If I Be Lifted Up"

The third If is in the saying "If I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me." We may suppose a hardboiled practical man of today, or of Jesus' day,-possibly Judas was such a person-asking Jesus, Just why do you go on with this idea of the cross? Why let yourself in for trouble? What do you get out of it? If we let Jesus speak for himself, we know that he no more went to the cross to "get something out of it" for himself than he did anything else for selfish reasons. He did not live, he did not die, for his own benefit. His life and his death were all of one piece; his death was but the final outpouring of a life that had been pouring itself out into others and for others, from the beginning. He did not go through Gethsemane and Calvary in order to be praised, or to acquire merit, or to win a place among the world's heroes. He went to the cross, as he had lived every day, to "draw all men" to him-

Short Session of Legislature Considering Bills

MOTOR VEHICLE RESPONSIBILITY

The 1953 Legislature passed a number of laws stiffening the motor vehicle financial responsibility laws of Maryland. One of these increased from $5,000—$10,000—$1,000 to $10,-000-$20,000-$5,000 the amount of insurance required by those who, under our laws, must prove financial responsibility before being permitted

The present legislature now has before it an additional series of laws increasing penalties for motor vehicle violations and extending the financial responsibility statutes.

The purpose behind all of this legislation is twofold. First to decrease lation is twofold. First, to decrease the very high accident rate in Maryland, and second, to attempt to re quire those who drive to be financially responsible, by insurance or otherwise, for their negligence upon our highways.

The legislature is trying to avoid a compulsory insurance law, which, in Massachusetts, had the effect of doubling automobile insurance rates. It is also trying to avoid an "Unsatisfied Judgment" law which has the effect of requiring careful motorists to pay for the damage done by the uninsured drivers.

In Maryland about 80% of the motorists are insured, but the uninsured 20%, who cause a large per-centage of the accidents, are financial-ly irresponsible and do not pay for ly irresponsible and do not pay for the damage they cause to others. Infant drivers (those under 21) are also going to suffer further tighten-ing of the motor vehicle laws relat-ing to their age bracket. Statistical-ly, this group are shown to cause a disproportionate number of our highway casualties.

SPEED LIMITS IN TOWNS In the past all speed limits in in-corporated cities, towns and villages have been regulated by State laws. H. B. 45, which has passed both Houses, permits any incorporated municipality to regulate speed on any of its streets that are not a part of the State highway system.

MUNICIPAL HOME RULE

For many years the Maryland Municipal League and others interested in the enlargement of municipal powers have been attempting to get through the Legislature some form of Home Rule.

To date the Legislature has been unwilling to relinquish its power over these municipalities even though a large portion of the time of each legislator must be devoted to the "local bills" relating to his towns back

For the first time it appears that a Home Rule Bill will pass. This Bill (H. B. 88) has, at this writing, passed the House of Delegates and has survived two readings in the Senate.

Although this Bill does not give absolute self-government to municipalities it is a long step in that di-

The fight has reached such proportions that the parents persuaded the Anne Arundel Delegation to introduce a Bill (H. B. 114) making it mandatory that the schools use the 5-level system of marking.

The Bill was killed in Committee and, without going into the merits or demerits of the matter, I believe that the Committees' action was proper This is certainly not a matter for

The one healthy aspect of the whole matter appears from the fact that the Anne Arundel County parents have demonstrated that they are not always led by their noses by the State Department of Education. The com-plaint is statewide, not local, that the Department has used the various P.-T. A.'s as sounding boards to reflect the wishes (and sometimes de-mands) of the Department, and that all to infrequently do these organiza-tions demonstrate and independent views on scholastic matters.

On Friday, March 12th, a meeting has been arranged to which all poul-trymen of the county are invited. Since much of the farm flocks are cared for by housewife, the program has been designed to interest them. The meeting will be held at Legion Square East Green Street, Westminster, and will start at 10 AM sharp. Specialists will be there from the Poultry Department, University of Maryland, to discuss with producers the practical methods to be employed in the successful poultry production.

County Agent Burns has suggested that this meeting will be down to earth and that poultrymen should bring their questions with them so that they may be discussed at the meeting and solutions given if possible. Much of the time spent will be taken up with questions and answers. Poultrymen are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to get first hand the answers to many of the problems they may have in connection with their own individual set-up.

Master Home Color Plan Advised for All Remodeling

Before doing even minor remodeling work on the exterior

'For the home-owner who can't afford to do complete exterior modernization at one time, this is modernization at one time, this is the only way to color-style a house in keeping with contemporary trends in design," Rahr says.

"The work can be done step by step, as the home-owner's budget permits, but if he is faithful in following the master color plan he will achieve the result he wants just as well as if he had been able to have all the work done at once.

"Asphalt Roofing Versatile, Suits All Structures

been able to have all the work done at once.

"The master plan, as its name indicates, should be absolutely complete. Don't overlook a single part of the dwelling. Even as minor a detail as a mailbox by the front door should be included. As a rule, a mailbox should be camouflaged by painting it to match the wall behind it. A mailbox doesn't have to be black and conspicuous. The mailman will soon enough learn where it is."

In making a master color plan, start with the roof, the color consultant recommends. He suggests selecting asphalt shingles in any of the wide range of solid and blended colors in which this material is made and then letting the roof "set the color pace" for the rest of the house.

"The roof is the largest unbroken area on the exterior of a house and for that reason serves as a 'background' for colors of other sections," Rahr explains. "Select the roof color first, then the color for sidewalls, and finally colors for trim and accent.

"Keep in mind color's power to colors for trim and accent.

"Keep in mind color's power to create illusions. A light, pastel asphalt shingle color tends to make a small house appear larger, while a darker color will make a while a darker color will make a tall house seem lower."

Rahr advises home-owners to follow their personal likes and dislikes in color selection. Color on the exterior of a house offers the home-owner a "welcome opportunity" to express his personality as he wishes.

"Be free in using the colors you really like," he says. "More important than any other factor in color selection is that you please.

color selection is that you please yourself and your family."

of a house, work out a master color plan and then think of the immediate remodeling job as the first step in carrying out the master plan, advises Frederic H. Rahr, color consultant and president of the Rahr Color Clinic, New York.

Buildings of all sizes, shapes, and purposes can be suitably roofed with at least one of the many different types of asphalt roofing material. The asphalt roofing industry supplies 80 to 85 percent of all the roofing now required in the United States, according to the U. S. Department

Asphalt shingles are the most widely used roofing material for homes. Their combination of weather-resistance, color, economy, long life, and fire-resistance has led to their selection for about four-fifths of all new homes as well as for new roofs on older dwellings.

Asphalt roll roofings are often selected for farm buildings and other service structures. Roll roofing, like asphalt shingles, is produced in numerous solid and blended colors.

"Build-up" roofs are used for flat-roofed structures. A roof of this kind is "manufactured" on the roof deck by applying several layers of felt, which are saturated and bonded together with liquid applying

A LENTEN MESSAGE

Spiritual Addition and Multiplication

Lent is a special spiritual season. It is the time when extra emphasis is placed on consecration, rededication of life, sacrifice, fasting, prayer, and devotion. It is a time when Christianity is urged to be given primary consideration. Unless we exercise care and caution, our relation to secular effairs will assume such promi lar affairs will assume such promi-nence that religion will be given sec-ondary consideration in our thinking, planning, giving, and service.

Lent is a period of forty week-days from and including Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday. The blessed son of God fasted forty days and forty nights in preparation for His holy mission. Lent begins with Ash Wednesday. The days are supported to the control of the begins with Ash Wednesday. The day is so named from a former custom, and still followed by a branch of the Christian church, of putting ashes on heads of penitents.

The first Friday in Lent is now observed around the world as The World Day of Prayer. All denominations, creeds, nationalities, races, and color, participate in this observance. Men and women, young people and children, students from colleges and universities, service man and women, farmers and factory help share in the services of this world-wide day of prayer. There were 18,000 prayer groups in the United States in 1951, and the offering was $290,000; in 1952 and the offering was $290,000; in 1952 the offering was $373,000; and in 1953 the amount was $330,000. These offerings are used for definite, specified projects, among which the American Bible Society, and Leper Colonies.

What does all of this mean? It means that those who sincerely observe the purpose and spirit of Lent serve the purpose and spirit of Lent, and also have a part in the World Day of Prayer, which happens to be a world-wide service on a day within the Lenten period, are enriching their own spiritual life and at the same time spiritual life and at the same time adding enrichment and enjoyment to the souls of many others. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness" is still an injunction of the Lord. "And all these things"— all needful things—"shall be added unto you." Living the Christian life is spiritual addition and multiplication and not spiritual subtraction and division. "Make every effort to supplement your faith with virtue, and virtue with knowledge, and knowledge with self-control, and self-control with with self-control, and self-control with steadfastness, and steadfastness with godliness, and godliness with brotherly affection, and brotherly affection with love ... For whoever lacks these things is blind and shortsighted and has forgotten that he was cleansed from his old sins.—II Peter 1:5-7, 9 (RSV).

We must not through indulgence of the flesh dim our vision of Christ and the Cross, and thus render ourselves unfit to serve Him and His Church. Through fasting, prayer, and devotion we win self-control.

Lent is your special opportunity to increase your spiritual strength which in turn is given to the Church in a larger and better service.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

March 14 will mark the Second An-March 14 will mark the Second Anniversary of the integration of separate Girl Scout troops as District 10 of the Baltimore Area Council. District 10 comprises all of Carroll County and Mrs. W. Glenn Speicher is chairman of District 10 Committee.

Prior to 1952 the various troops functioned independently; the mark functioned independently; the more active ones under the guidance of Mrs. C. B. Gendell, Mt. Airy and Mrs. Albert C. Mitten, Westminster, the latter serving twenty-five years. In 1952 there were seventy-two Registered Adult Scouts in the County. Today there are one hundred fifty and one paid worker, or District Director, Mrs. Anne David.

Although there are twelve Communities represented in Carroll County, they operate as a unit completely independent of financial aid from the Baltimore Area Council. All troops are supported by the County and all monies collected are used in Carroll County. Among other projects, these funds are used to support Girl Scout camping. Last year there was a Brownie Day Camp at Deep Run, near Union Mills with Mrs. Mildred Campbell as Director. This year it is hoped to have at least one Day Camp for the Intermediate Scouts as well as the Brownies.

Early in April there will be a County-wide Bake Sale for the benefit of the Girl Scout Day Camp Program.
On Sunday, March 14. Westminster High School will be the scene of the Girl Scout Rally and Juliette Low Birthday Party. The festivities will begin at 2 o'clock and the public is cordially invited.

Milk production for 1954 is expected to break the record of 121 billion pounds set in 1953. On January 1, 1954, 3 percent more milk cows were on farms than a year earlier and the feed outlook for 1954 is good.

Following laboratory tests that showed the high efficiency of their Custom Mixing equipment, Taneytown, Grain & Supply Co., of Taneytown, Md., has been issued a Certificate of Mixing Accuracy by the Ralston Purina Company, of St. Louis, Missouri.

This certificate qualifies the local feed company to mix Purina Micromixed supplements and concentrates with farmers' locally grown grains under approved formulas, thus enabling the farmer to make the best feeding use of his grains.

Samples of the local feed dealer's regular custom mixed feeds were sent gredients were mixed. These samples met the high standards of accuracy set by Purina's Custom Mix & Chow-Mix Division, showing a variation of less than one-half of one per cent in protein content.

Feed mixed to this high accuracy has the practical result of insuring the feeder that each ingredient of the ration is found in proper quantity in each mouthful of the feed. The proper mixing of rations using grains grown locally by farmers in this area has long been recognized as an important factor in the efficient and economical feeding of livestock and poultry.
