FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Congregation at Tom's Creek Planning Celebration

The congregation of Tom's Creek Methodist church is planning to cele-brate the 50th anniversary of their church at its present location. The church at Tom's Creek dates back to 1757, but the present building was dedicated in 1904.

At a congregation meeting Aug. 29, 1954 was set as the date for the celebration. Committee chairmen had previously been picked. They are: General chairman, Rev. Paul H. McCauley; vice-chairman, Ambrose Ecken-rode; invitations, Mrs. Carrie F. Long; program, Robert Baumgardner; refreshment, Mrs. Edgar Emerick; publicity, John M. Fuss, Jr.

A full day of events is planned. Sunday School will be held at 9 a. m., followed at 10 o'clock with morning worship services conducted by the regular pastor, Rev. Paul H. Mc-Cauley. Between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. a period of fellowship between old members and friends is planned. The women of the church will serve a free lunch between 12 noon and 1 p. m.

A special service will begin at 2 p will include some history the church, special music and remarks by former pastors of the church. The principal speaker will be Dr. Harry C. Marsh, District Superintendent of the Hagerstown District.

All former members, friends of the congregation, and anyone else interested are cordially invited to attend any or all of the services for the day.

FARM TALENT ROUND-UP AMATEUR CONTEST

Members of the Southeran States Taneytown Advisory Board and the Farm Home Advisory committee voted at their annual meeting planning conference held recently to hold a farm talent round-up amateur contest as one of the highlights of their local Southern States annual membership meeting to be held on Sept. 1. The meeting will be held at Lutheran Parish House, Harney, Md.

This contest—for amateurs only from 12 to 100 years of age—will offer an opportunity to the winning act at the local meeting to try out for the Original Amateur Hour Television Show in New York. Amateurs desiring to enter the contest should contact David Hess, Taneytown, or Charles A. Miller, manager of the Miller's General Store. Hess is chairman of the local Farm Talent Round-up Contest committee and is vice-chairman.

The contest is open to amateurs who are members of the immediate families of all farm people and all Southern States patrons. Employees of Cooperative Service Agencies and Southern States Cooperative and their immediate families are not eligible to participate in the contest.

The Farm Talent Round-up contest will be sponsored jointly by Miller's General Store and Southern States Cooperative, with the original amateur hour television show and radio City New York cooperating. About 450 similar contests will be held communities. It will also receive a $5 cash award and a blue ribbon at the local meeting. The second place winner at the local level will receive a $3.00 cash award and a red ribbon, while the third place act will be given a $1.00 cash prize and a white ribbon. The two winners at each of nine district elimination contests will be given an all-expense paid trip to the Southern States Cooperative's annual membership meeting in Richmond, Va., November 11 and 12, to compete in the final contest. A cash award of $25.00 will be given to the third place act at the district contest.

The winning act at Richmond will be given an all-expense paid trip to New York where the act will appear on the original amateur hour tele on the original amateur nour television show. The runner up act will receive a $300.00 cash prize and a red ribbon, while a $100.00 cash award and a white ribbon will be given to the third place act.

CAMP SERVICES WELL AT-TENDED

Parades Climax Bi-Centennial ANNUAL TOUR OF Celebration

Close to 100 entries composed the most acceptable Kiddies' Parade which gave splendid opportunity for participation in the Taneytown Bi-Centennial affair for the generation, which should without any doubt whatsoever see and share in the quarter-millennial celebration in 2004. A collection of children's vehicles including tricycles, bicycles, tandems high-boy bikes, wheelbarrows, coaster wagons, high go-carts, strollers, doll high-boy bikes, wheelbarrows, coaster wagons, high go-carts, strollers, doll carriages, pony drawn buggies, and midget racers were elaborately trimmed and majestically decorated with all colors or crepe paper. However, in most instances the patriotic motif of red, white and blue was predominant. There were also floats representing the Old Jail (where George didn't sleep), Conestoga Covered Wagon, Pa Courting Ma in the Buggy, Peter Pumpkin Eater, Eloise the Elephant, a Winter Snow scene, a Newly Married Couple, and the Progress of Dolls—1870-1954. Two outstanding slogans were "Taneytown, Carroll County's Queen-Town" and "Moving down the Monocacy Trail". In addition there were costumed personalities representing Mr. Taneytown, George Washington, Betsy Ross, Miss Maryland and Her Mascot, Taneytown's Queen, the Mascot of the Taneytown Baseball Team, the Little Country Doctor, a Nurse and Her Patient, Peter Pan and Wendy, the Men from Mars with a Space Lion, a Bride and Groom, and others clad in the suits of the 1700's and the long-flowing dresses of the 1800's. The Pine Hill Band and other neatly dressed groups also joined in making the parade of youngsters, none of whom were more than 12 years of age, one of the outstanding events of the whole week's activities.

The marchers greatly amused the hearty-applauding towns-folks who heavily lined the route of the parade from the high school grounds to the Taneytown Memorial Park. The children maintained a steady stride all the way as they followed the local American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, whose members were all dressed in "boys' apparel". Several parents chaperoned the youngsters and assisted them in their long march.

Upon arrival at the park the judges, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Myers and Mrs. Charles Stonesifer, announced the prize winners which were as follows: best novel idea for costume, decoration, and general appearance, Danny Shriner (dressed as George Washington and carrying a card—"I ate at

Mrs. Charles Stonesifer, announced the prize winners which were as follows: best novel idea for costume, decoration, and general appearance, Danny Shriner (dressed as George Washington and carrying a card—"I ate at Adam Good's Place"), $4.00; runner up to previous mentioned description, Pine Hill Band, $2.00; most novel pet display, Mike Wildasin with dog in unform as baseball team mascot, $2.00; most novel bicycle display, Paul Andreas, $2.00; most novel tricycle display, Robert Lookingbill, $2.00; most novel float or wagon display, Jackie, Jean and Gary Myers with the Progress of Dolls, $2.00; most novel cart or miscellaneous display, Robert Weishaar with tractor having umbrella overhead and pulling market trailer, $2.00; most humorous costume, Cherie Phillips and Barbara Motter with the old Jail, $2.00; and most elaborate costume, Donna Mitchell, $2.00. Five $1.00 prizes were awarded for those having entries which called for note-worthy attention. They were Nancy and Rosann Stine, Georgie Elaine Easton, Tommy West, Cynthia Andreas and Craig Stevens.

OLD-FASHIONED DANCE OLD-FASHIONED DANCE

After a most deeply appreciated round of applause for the noble efforts exerted on behalf of all the participating youngsters and a thunderous clapping of hands by the gathered citizens for their youthful victors, the remainder of the evening was turned into an old-time lawn and field party featuring dancing. There was a mammoth crowd on hand to greet the 6 man string band, Lefty Shindledecker and the Blue Ridge Melody Makers from Waynesboro, Penna., where they are often heard over radio and television station WAYZ. There were numerous rounds of the Bunny Hop, the Hoky-Poky and Paul Jones in which both the teen-agers and the oldsters joined most enthusiastic-

There were also those who found their joy at the two concessions stands where balloons were burst with darts and where one's age was guessed (or was it?). After several hours of delightful entertainment on the part of the community inhabitants, the evening of fun and frolic came to a pre-mature ending as a heavy drizzle began falling. This was the first precipitation in many, many days after a week of most sweltering and scorching weather and was most gratefully appreciated. It was about 10:15 as the crowd quickly dispersed and went to their homes, some of them having sore feet and very tired limbs.

GOVERNOR'S RECEPTION

An assembly of about seventy-five local citizens attended the Governor's reception held on the lawn at Taney Inn, Friday afternoon. Governor and Mrs.

Theodore R. McKeldin, the guests of honor, received all the persons present in a reception line. Politics were forgotten for the evening, in the spirit of helping Taneytown to celebrate her 200th anniversary.—Republican and Democrats were present for the event. The McKeldins witnessed performance of the pageant in the evening. Numerous autographs of the Governor have been seen floating around the town.

ATTENDANCE AT PAGEANT

The ticket committee of the Bi-Centennial organization reported an attendance of 1354 persons viewing the pageant on Friday night and the presence of 1363 people for the final performance of "Here on the Monocacy", on Saturday night.

According to the ticket committee, the total ticket sales for the four nights of the pageant was 5022 broken down as follows: Tuesday, 1087; Wednesday 1218; Friday, 1354, and Saturday, 1363.

BI-CENTENNIAL PARADE

The feature of the week long celebration, the Bi-Centennial parade, was viewed by a estimated crowd of 30,000 persons, Saturday afternoon. The sidewalks were jammed almost the entire length of the town.

The intense heat of 100 degrees temperature caused discomfort among the witnesses of the parade, and a number of casualties resulted from the heat requiring first aid. Three fire calls were handled during the afternoon unawares to the crowd: no sirens were sounded—the calls came in by radio. The cooperating fire companies of Westminster, Emmitsburg, Union Bridge and Fairfield, Pa., extinguished two brush fires out of town, and an automobile on fire in town by the engine responding nearest the point of call. Traffic was exceedingly heavy but was well handled by the local officer and state policemen. Parking was at a premium, but very few were seriously inconvenienced in finding accommodations for their cars.

Led by the Second Army Band from Fort Meade the parade had in the line of march 20 musical organizations, floats, about 100 saddle horses, many antique automobiles an antique biovele members of the whister club old.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Points of Interest Visited in Taneytown and Middleburg Districts

The fourth annual tour of the Historical Society of Carroll County took place on Wednesday, July 28, to points of interest in Taneytown and Middleburg district. A caravan of 43 cars assembled in the grove of beautiful oak and sycamore trees surrounding the old fieldstone home, built in 1812, the old fieldstone home, built in 1812, for Elizabeth Key Bruce, who married John Scott, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leib and family. After greetings by President J. Harry Koller, Mrs. William Buckey, Baltimore was introduced. Mrs. Buckey a direct descendant of the Bruce, Biggs settlers in the county told in a most intlers in the county told in a most in-teresting way some of the highlights of the Bruce, Key, Scott and Biggs families who lived in this section. The present owners graciously permitted the Society to visit this lovely old home. The spacious hall, large rooms with their 12 foot ceilings, hand carved and marbleized wood work were greatly enjoyed.

Leaving this delightfully cool place with all its charm the caravan moved on by Terra Rubra, the birthplace of Francis Scott Key. The original home was so badly damaged by a storm in 1859 that it had to be razed and the present home built. This is one of the three places in the U. S. where the stars and stripes fly 24 hours a day. Pass the tablet marking the site where Francis Scott Key held the first Sunday School for negro children in the United States, through Keysville to the Forest and Stream Club. The group gathered around the porch of the Club House while Mrs. Buckey told the story of the Biggs homesteads to be passed on the way. Dr. Tracey spoke of Mumma's Ford, the first crossing on the Monocacy which could not be visited because of the narrow road leading to it.

The fieldstone Biggs properties, with their unusual and lovely fan-lights were sighted on the way to Hidden Valley Farms the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brawner. Miss Amelia Annan presented Mrs. Brawner who narrated the history of the beautiful old fieldstone house built in 1812 by the sons of Jacob Sheets, one of the early settlers and a Revolutionary soldier. The Sheets mill stood across the meadow from the house but was torn down about the turn of the century, the stone from it being used to build the retaining wall in front of the house and the fence around the barn. The hostess, who greeted us in the side yard invited us to go through the home and the kitchen, with its low beamed ceiling, ten foot fireplace, old oven, fireback with its German inscription and unusual stairway, the first room visited had a colonial charm felt throughout the entire The beautiful hand-carved mantels and cupboards in the living rooms, the winding stairway in the hall, the large and attractive bed-rooms told of the gracious living of the builders and the careful restoraon of the present owners

After leaving this delightful home we continued on past Starner's Dam, through Harney to Piney Creek Church. Here were invited to the Social Hall where refreshing cold fruit punch and cookies were served by our hosts, Mr. Norman Hess and his daughter. In the church Mr. Hess his daughter. In the church Mr. Hess gave the story of the early settlers in this community and the founding of the church in 1763. A record book dating back to 1802 is one of the prized possessions of this congregation. In the church yard Mrs. Frank Cunningham placed flowers on the grave of her Revolutionary ancestor while other members of the caravan looked up the grave of Col. John K. looked up the grave of Col. John K. Longwell, one of Carroll county's most illustrious citizens of the 20th century. Editor of the Carrolltonian, instrumental in the formation of the county, building the Western Maryland Railway and many other impor-tant county projects. Emerald Hill, the present City Hall in Westminster, was his home.

From here to the next stop, Memorial Park, where Mrs. Edgar G. Barnes presented Miss Sandra Welker who narrated the history of the old Crapster Inn, better known to us as Sauble's Inn, built in 1796. Box supper in the picnic pavilion and "Here on the Monocacy" the pageant deon the Monocacy" the pageant depicting the history of Taneytown and the highlight of its Bi-Centennial celebration, a fitting climax to another delightful tour of Carroll County Many making this tour have County. Many making this tour have been on all previous ones and are looking forward to next year. Miss Amelia Annan, Mrs. Edgar C. Barnes and Dr. Arthur G. Tracey arranged the tour.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column) With all my heart, I wish you every morning A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health-life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way-help to bring you happiness!

The lovely colorful Zinnias are truly bursting out all over in the flow-er garden at the edge of the huge lawn. These flowers are more so demand due to the fact they last until Jack Frost arrives. They answer, too for every type of decoration in the home. That special vase, or the centre decoration of any table, the desk and for the guests for their bedrooms. Nothing pleases a guest more than the remembrance of flowers placed especially for her in her room. And thinking of decoration—Wow—oh wow—Taneytown was surely done up for the Bi-Centennial! This Columnist was amazed and astounded at the relics in the windows which interested me greatly. There were articles of which the Smithsonian could not boast. For instance, "The INHALER" IN THE REINDOLLAR FEED CO. window and the unusual looking lamp in the window of "THE CARROLL RECORD" which was on a ship. That lamp was demonstrated to me as to the way it was used years ago which convinced me right then and there of the idea of our lamps as to the design and usage of this day.

I think all the windows should be left just as they are for one month. It will take a full day for anyone to really see it all and I hope to go over again just for that very thing.

Had lunch in 'The Taney Inn'—

Mmmmmmm what a cook! Positively no other place like it! As I entered saw the lovely "Mother Hostess" in the charming outfit and was happy to meet right there a number of my Readers whom I have not seen for a time. Truly it was like being home. The atmosphere was really Colonial with the oil lamps upon the tables and being lit by the waitress as you were seated. There were many old pictures of those days and I did observe one thing quickly—George Washington and his First Lady back to back over the Mantlepiece on the side of the clock—hope they have changed and put them face to face!

The Fashion Show pleased everyone on the lawn of the Annan sisters which was full of charm. The Organist played beautifully—the appropriate number for each Model so nicely ar-ranged with his wife by his side turning all the pages of the music. There were lovely gowns in every description plus the wedding attire and all by "GLORIA" of Hanover. (Miss Annan is still the wonderful person!)
Then came the old fashioned numbers of many, many years ago! Miss Elderdice is truly to be complimented upon all her endeavors. It was a huge undertaking and every individual seemed to be so very co-operative.

The Programme book was lovely but there was only one thing missing and here it is-What happened to the ad for the American Legion AUXIL-IARY? Those ladies, I know have worked hard and given much money toward the Legion for that grand home which holds a prominent place approaching the town. The President of the Auxiliary sure did fall down on that one or is there a President Folks, do try to get 8 hours of "SHUT-EYE" each night so as you will feel "TOPS" in the mornings. That is truly the secret of the beauty of that famous actress Mae whom I interviewed if you recall three years ago. She sleeps every after-noon and at 63—she appears 40. You will appear younger and live longer!

When you go shopping be sure to purchase what you like and keep what you buy and that way according to that big department store of Hutz-lers—"YOU WILL BE A LAMB"!

Thinking of dresses—they are to be just 16 inches from the ground this Fall and Winter. You must retain that small waist as the bodices are to be rather tight fitting again with very wide and full skirts.

Huge glasses can be purchased in the five and dime and that means it won't be necessary for a refill of ice tea or any kind of cooling drink. Here is a delightful dessert which Your Observer served the other evening and quite simple, too. Parfait made with Lemonade! Lemonade parfaits are delicious in a regular Par-fait glass. Just alternate spoonsful of frozen concentrate for lemonade with scoops of vanilla ice-cream. Top with whipped cream and a cherry; then keep in freezing unit until ready to serve. Try it with different flavors.

What a nice Gift Shop is Carrie's! Your Observer broused around and everything is beautifully shown against that Williamsburg Pink as the back ground. You really can see plainly what you are really buying! One does not need to go to town now with that lovely shop right in the heart of around the town. Congratu-

Have a grand week-end, Folks and always remember this line "TO MAKE LITTLE OF SOME ONE IS TO BE LITTLE!!" Be careful when you drive and drive slowly. Remember to "SLOW UP AND LIVE!" (That slogan of Paul E. Burke of Baltimore). So long until next week D.V. I am,

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

TROY, PA., GAZETTE-REGIS-TER: "The enterprise system has given the individual freedom and opportunity to use his private property in the competitive struggle for profit. The result has been a huge continuing growth in the number of business firms, and in the number of productive jobs. on the occasion of The Bi-Centennial Celebration at Taneytown, Md., Sunday, July 25, 1954, 8 p. m.

PART II

1. The people who came to this community in what we may term the time of first settlement were Godfearing and God-honoring men and

I do not know that at the time of which we are thinking, say, between 1710 and 1800, there was any parti-cular religious persecution in those parts of Europe from which our ancestors came. They were not refugees. But they came to better themselves, to have a place where they might find room and a congenial at-mosphere in which to live their lives and to build permanent homes. Nor was this community occupied by any particular sect, who expected through their settlement to perpetuate the life and teachings of their own cult, as did the Puritans in New England or the Mormons in Utah. But they were all members of the Church, and of exactly the same divisions of the Church to which the people of this community today hold allegiance—Catholics, United Brethrens, Lutherans, Presbyterians and Reformed.

I confess I am not able to fix the source of the immigration of some of these denominations, nor their nationalities. There were those who bore Scotch-Irish names, which appear again and again in the records of the Piney Creek Presbyterian congrega-tion, the mother church of the Pres-byterian congregation in Taneytown. They had a close connection with the Presbytery of New Brunswick in New Jersey, and some of their early supply preachers were furnished by the Donegal Presbytery in Lancaster County in Pennsylvania. But by what route or from what source the first Presbyterian people came into this com-munity, I do not know.

As for the source of the congregation of the Catholic Church in Taneytown, I am equally ignorant. An examination of the earliest list of burials in the Catholic cemetery, my only source of information, seems to indicate that some were English, more were Irish or Scotch-Irish, but the greater part seem to be of German

As for the Lutheran and Reformed people, I am on surer ground. They were Germans, coming together in a series of migrations from the vicinity of Philadelphia, they or their fathers having been attracted, as it were, by the mild and promising government, political and religious, of the Penn family. The procedure of these two denominations is practically identical. In a series of migrations, composed both of people who had formerly set-tled in Pennsylvania, but were not influxes of migrants from the Old Country, they started west, leaving settlers in every likely locality from Philadelphia to the first range of mountains west of the Susquehanna River; and then, it seems, not being willing to risk going through the wild unmapped mountains, they turned south, and skirting the Blue Ridge Chain, occupied land as far south as Georgia. As early as 1750 these Germans were found in Lancaster, York, Adams and Franklin Counties in Pennsylvania; in Washington, Frederick and Carroll Counties in Mary land; in every section of the rich Val-ley of Virginia, in Western North Carolina, in South Carolina and in Georgia; and there, in every place, do we find their descendants today.

Thus traveling together and living together in peace and amity, these Lutheran and Reformed people made haste to build union churches as rapidly as they built their own rude idly as they built their own rude homes from the trees of the forest. I venture the assertion that among takes into account the fullness of its should represent and serve a religious spirit and life for hot one year, community, I believe, is this. The the hundreds of Lutheran and Reformed congregations, inhabiting the the varying interpretations some of area of which we speak, the great majority of the first houses of worship were union, nor have union churches to this day entirely disappeared. The Baust congregations in this very section have been housed in a union church for almost two hundred years, using today, the third, I think, built on the same property, and erected less than forty years ago. There is another at Rocky Ridge, and still another at Lineboro. However, there has been no union church in Taneytown since 1883. The Lutheran and Reformed congregations have not used the same place of worship since

> I have no doubt that, constrained by this bi-centennial, the historians of each church group have gone hopefully to the first records to find if possible a very early date for the organization of that denomination in this community. Whatever may have been the result of that search, I can only say that there is glory enough for all, for we have all been here for a long time. Soon after the beginning of the second half of the eighteenth century, we find four religious groups here so well-established in congregations and church homes that they were being served by regular pastors. The present church buildings are venerable—the Catholic Church erected in 1804, and replaced by the present edifice in 1876, the Lutheran in 1812, the Reformed in 1822, the Presbyterian in 1883, the Evangelical United Brethren in 1894. A Baptist Church stood in the cemetery situated a mile west of Taneytown on the Emmits-burg road. I know nothing of its history, church or congregation, but the building was removed almost a century ago, at least before 1873, for Scharf, in his History of Western Maryland, does not mention it.

All this maintains my contention that the first settlers were Christian people, who immediately upon their arrival here proceeded to translate their religious convictions into vigorous congregations, whose influence upon the life and spirit of this community from the earliest times to the present cannot be discounted. In short, our foundations were sound, based upon truth, righteousness, reverence and groups have lived together through the years. At no place in all my experience, have I found such a spirit as it is maintained here. It seems to me to spring from a conception of religion which is more concerned with the promotion and extension of the Kingdom of God than with the prosperity of a church or the perpetuation of a creed. It is not Zwingli or Luther or Calvin or Otterbein or Loyola, but Christ as the Head and Body of His Church who is the object of our adoration as we seek to glorify Him, who is the Founder and the Defender of the faith, the instrument and the source of grace for the healing of the nations and the salvation of men.

2. I place next, as an important element, contributing to and very argely responsible for the very evilent and great influence which reli-

And yet this co-operative spirit does not stem from a lack of denominational interest and zeal. Certainly, denominationalism is not dead in Taneytown. I find here the most Catholic of Catholics; the most Lutheran of Lutherans; and the same can be said for the members of every congregation in this communuity. I can testify in behalf of those of my own communion, after so many years of pastoral relation with them that I consistently found a brand of loyalty to their church as keen and as sustaining as can be found anywhere. There is a place for denomination-alism and denominations in our spiritual life. A good soldier is not merely in the army as a whole, but is a member of a division, a regiment, a company. He has his own particular place and renders efficient service only in his own place and in connection with and co-operating with that di vision of which he is a part. The Christian Church is an organism, a iving, moving, planning, striving entity, composed of divisions or denominations, closely organized, the effectiveness of whose life depends upon the presence, the loyalty, the service of each individual member, working in that part of the living Church where he ought to be. I believe that each Christian has the right to wor-ship his God in the full and free expression of the Divine Spirit, and expressing itself through his own personality. There are those who find that expression in liturgy; others find the mealing as heled themselves choked and numbed by liturgical forms. Each has the right, by civil law and certainly by ecclesiastical justice, to engage in liturgic or in free worship as his own spirit finds utterance in the most profitable way to himself. Some years ago in Eastern Pennsylvania stood a union Lutheran and Reformed Church in which the German language was used. They worshipped together for a long time, for more than a century. But in course of time came disagreement and finally a severance of the bonds which had held the two congregations together in the use of the common house In a series of migrations, composed both of people who had formerly settled in Pennsylvania, but were not content to remain there, and of fresh influxes of migrants from the Old Country, they started west, leaving settlers in every likely locality from mind, an ideal situation for a community such as this, which is served spiritually by several Catholic and Evangelical United Brethren, erected Protestant denominations, is for each in 1894, taking the place of an earlier congregation to maintain its own building erected in 1848 are old church property, to perform for the community such services as providing for public worship, providing for Christian education, for pastoral care and for the betterment of social conditions, but each according to the method in which and for which it has been trained by custom and tradition, or by a more formal preparation through positive training for service and expression in its own particular weary of building houses for the manner, using for the good of the community and for the glory of God in the most efficient way all the facilicommunity and for the glory of God in the most efficient way all the facilities at its disposal; and expressing itself in that way which is the most comfortable and compatible, and which takes into account the fullness of its should represent and severe a religious. wisdom of the philosophy to which I Rather, that the Church and the re-have just given expression is best ligion of Jesus Christ had come to have just given expression is best ligion of Jesus Ch shown in the effective work of the Taneytown to stay churches here, each in its own way and in its own field; and all, through what each does for itself, contributing valuably to the spiritual, moral and religious level of the community as a whole. I call attention to the numerous union services of worship, to the very fine work of the District Sunday School Association, the Leadership Training School, the Daily Vacation Bible School, all of which are entirely interdenominational. We are accustomed to attend one another's services; we contribute to one another's projects; and certainly in times of sorrow and need, not as denomina-tions but as Christian brethren do we perform our kindly services one to another. If time permitted, I might mention other projects, which are not directly church- sponsored, but unin our Churches and which are carried out in this same brotherly undenominational fashion.

One most impressive fact, adding to the evidence of that fine spirit which I have just been discussing is the attitude of our pastors, Catholic and Protestant, toward one another and toward one another's interests and life here is the close personal relation-ship which was maintained with my congregations, many of them from each church—Reverends Fathers Culeach church—Reverends Fathers Cul-ley, Quinn, Little, Murphy, Lane, and now my good friend, Father Walker. Others were Marks, March, Wachter, Ritter, Emenheiser, Redding, Frid-inger, Brown and Garvin in the Unit-ed Brethren Church. Among the pres-byterians, Downey, Brown, Morris byterians, Downey, Brown, Morris Shipley and Owens; of Lutherans, Hafer, Garrett, Sutcliffe and Stahl. Andreas of course could not come until I went, and with the Rev. Mr. Galambos I have just, with a great deal of pleasure, become acquainted. These were all my friends and friends to one another. No wonder I insist that friendly co-operation among the pastors and peoples of our churches has been and is one of the most powerful factors contributing to what we find good and acceptable here in this community today. I would not say that the Chamber of Commerce or the Businessmen's in Delaware, until his death of typhoid fever in 1865. and co-operation in which these church their leaders and their members hold allegiance to one or another of the churches in this community, carry over into the activities of these social or industrial or commercial organizations what they have received from the spiritual sources of their life—the Church, teaching and promoting the cause of Christ. We take our religion seriously here, Church is a respected institution. The banker, the business man, the merchant look to it for instruction, for inspiration, for advice.

This community is peculiarly free from what we call proselyting—sheep-stealing with an ecclesiastical flavor. We are not fighting one another, no one is trying to prosper over the grave of another's hopes. We do not have too many churches; there is plenty of work for all. Our energies are merged in the battle against the common enemy Satan, in all his diabolical activities-sin, immorality, indifference, worldiness, sensuality, ungodliness. We claim to be tolerant, understanding, trusting and loving one another, religious rather than denominational, Christian rather than churchly.

3. Deep feeling and affection of any kind will make itself evident in some sort of outward expression. A home-loving man will want to build and maintain a house—the seat of his home. A community of well-built and well-maintained homes proclaims to all the world that the inhabitants there of are a home-loving people. Reciprocatively, a well-kept home will promote the love of home.

So, a congregation of Christian people will express their love for Christ by building Him a house, where He may dwell among His people, even as David proposed and prepared for the building of a house for the Jehovah of Israel. So when Solomon dedicated that house of the Lord in Jerusalem, God's approval was manifest in His coming to dwell in it. We are told that even through the thick walls there shone a dazzling light, proclaiming to all that He had come to make His permanent abode therein.

So, in this community, the settlers of each religious group early built a of each religious group early built a house for the Lord. The earliest house of worship followed by only a few years or months the building of the first dwelling houses for the people. The "Old Yellow Church" was built in 1764, the only church building in what are now the corporate limits of Taneytown which is not still standing and in regular use at the present moment. The churches of Taneytown, in spite of their modern appearance and up-to-the-minute equipment, are venerable buildings. The oldest, the Catholic Church, was erected in 1804. It is hard to believe that it is in this very year one hundred and fifty years old, or that the Lutheran Church, dedicated in 1812, is one hundred and forty-two years old, or that the Reformed Church, erected to take the place of the "Old Yellow Church" and dedicated in 1822, is one hundred and thirty-two years old. Even the newest of our town churches—the Presbyterian built in 1883, and the enough to feel their age, even though they do not show it. It may seem to be significant that no new church has been built in Taneytown for sixty years, or that three of our five congregations have worshipped without interruption in Lord's occupancy

I have said that these buildings, though very old, do not show their age. The histories of the respective congregations will show that there have been periods of repair, improvement, remodeling, renovation. In my own acquaitnance with this community, covering not quite forty years, each church has undergone extensive improvement and modernization at least once; several, twice; and one, three times. No wonder these fine churches belie their age. If the fathers built well, their children have well-maintained their inherited property. Every church here is in excellent condition, well-painted, well-lighted, well-situated, and with every modern facility for the comfort of its members and for reverent worship. The buildings reflect not only the pride doubtedly have been actuated by those of their owners, but are a splendid inthings which are taught and preached dication of the inner spirit of their people. Our congregations are going concerns, living organizations, growing in membership and in influence in the general life of the community. Any evaluation of the spirit of this town must take into large account the

However, we can not be content work, representing as they do many diverse ecclesiastical opinions and diverse church organizations. One of the fine spirit of co-operation, or the most cherished memories of my earnestness, or of reverence as they life here is the close personal relationary are manifest in the Christian citizenry of this neighborhood. friends, the pastors of the respective churches have also produced splendid men and women in the many genera-tions of their life. I could not even begin, of course, to mention the names of the many prominent and humble people who have been and are the good citizens of this town. But may I intrude further on your patience by mentioning the ministers of the Gospel who were born or reared or trained in this community, our native product, so to speak, who having received the spirit of the Master in our churches and church schools gone forth to serve and to be sources of blessing in other communities. Each congregation has given at least one of its sons to speak and live in the name of our Christ and to preach the unsearchable riches of His truth. Rev. Sterling Galt was born in 1837, was educated at Princeton College and Theological Seminary, was ordained in 1861 and served Presbyterian Churches at Red Bank and Newark

Recently a teen-ager found some snap-shots of her mother taken in the twenties and she just couldn't believe her own eyes, for mother was dressed in something resembling an old sugar sack without even a string to mark the waist line and on her head was a reasonable facsimile of the little black not that grandmether was little black pot that grandmother use to cook hominy in on the back of the old wood range stove. But don't laugh too long or loud for Christian Dior, that Frenchman with a twisted sense of fashion taste, has threatened to bring back the fashions of the flapper era. This bit of news is even more disturbing than the H bomb explosion, for at no time in history have women worn more ridiculous styles than they did in the twenties. Anyone who wore them will confirm this statement and most of us wonder now, how any man ever worked up enough courage to be seen in public with a date. But they did, for the grandmothers of today were the flappers of the twenties. We sure hope that if Dior makes good his threat to give us once again dress styles that have no waist line, no hips and no busts and no shoulders that the women will have the sense to give the styles the cold shoulder. If anyone is too young to remember the 1920-30 styles just get out an old family album and look them up. A word of caution! Don't laugh yourself into a heart attack.

You can hide the truth for awhile but eventually it will come to the surface. Remember when the price of coffee leaped from 91 cents to $1.30 per pound in a very short space of time and the rise was blamed on frost. But now the FTC comes up with it's report and says it wasn't frost at all but speculation on the part of Brazilian and American buy-ers and some irregularities on the New York coffee exchange. Some American housewives suspected this all along and took steps to remedy it by cutting down on their coffee buying. This voluntary boycott was more effective than most coffee packers want to admit. But proof that it was effective was shown last week when the price of coffee dropped five cents per pound. From now on I think my breakfast cup of coffee will be a little

This weekend we visited friends in the city and in spite of the sweltering heat we had the pleasantest weekend we have enjoyed for a long time. Peo-ple in the city have learned to live relaxed and without fuss and feathers. They fix up their backyards as out-door living rooms and there is where they eat and play. Most of them have wading pools and parents and chil-dren live in shorts and swim suits, and learn how to beat the weather Both husband and wife are generally expert cooks and turn out the most amazing foods on an outdoor grill. I bet there are more articles written on how to lose extra pounds than on any other subject. Most people think its harder to take off weight than it is to gain weight, but both are equally difficult. Usually an over-weight person loves to eat and its an ordeal to deny one's expective, while the skinny person appetite, while the skinny person eats only because he has to, to stay alive and stuffing himself with food is just as much of an ordeal. #### STATEMENT FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF TANEYTOWN'S BI-CENTENNIAL

Words cannot express the gratitude and appreciation for all the cooperation, time and efforts given by those who so generously helped make our Bi-Centennial celebration a success. Without a doubt, this has been one of the greatest events ever held in Taneytown. The way everyone worked together in all the phases of the celebration is beyond expression. Every day of the week was filled with some ac-tivity and successfully carried out due to the cooperation of not only tivity and successfully carried out due to the cooperation of not only those in charge but by those that worked to make it such. How marvelous it was when a person, or group was asked to take a responsibility or undertake a specific job, whether a small part in the pageant, or chairman of one of the committees, it was done so willingly and complete. I could not begin to name all those who took part, and to thank them for what they did, but can only say "thanks" to everyone, and "A, Job Well Done". I personally did not think it would be as big an event as it turned out to be. Financially, I know very little as to how we will come out, but hope to be able to print a statement in next week's paper. May I take this means of saying that it has been a privilege to work with everyone, but please throw no credit in my direction, but to those who worked so diligently and gave of their time so willingly to make the Bi-Centennial Celebration a success. M. EDWARD REID, JR., General Chairman.

The forester said there have been a number of fires in the Northern Maryland area in the last two months. Due to the dry weather, there fires burn deep into the forest floor, and a line must be dug to mineral soil com-pletely around them by tractor, or by hand where a tractor cannot be used. Plant life on the areas is generally completely destroyed.

He said showers would ease the sit-uation temporarily, but only a prolonged, soaking rain for several days would provide any lasting relief.

The forester suggested that smokers be especially careful, that tourists use the ashtrays in their cars, and householders limit their trash burning as much as possible. When it is necessary to burn, do it safely by clearing a safety strip around the fire area and burn only when there is no wind.

CARROLL COUNTY TO OBSERVE LAND WEEK

Carroll County will be host to the many conservationists from all sec-tions of the State on Friday and Saturday, August 6 and 7.

The program will include a tour of the Bachman's Valley area to observe many conservation practices estab-lished on the farms of that area. County and State Supervisors of various water sheds of Maryland and conservationists from all sections of the state will be present to participate in the tour.

A dinner meeting will be served at the Western Maryland College Dining Hall at 6:30 for all farmers and sup-ervisors who have made reservations. A program of particular interest will be given following the dinner in Alumni Hall where an illustrated talk will be given by Mr. Robert G. Struble, assistant executive director, Brandywine Valley Association, West Chester, Pennsylvania.

There will be room in Alumni Hall at Western Maryland College to ac-commodate many farmers and friends at 8 o'clock, when this lecture is giv-

ADDRESS BY REV. BREADY

his ambition to be a minister was shattered by his untimely death at the age of twenty years. He is buried in the Piney Creek cemetery.

Rev. J. G. Breckenridge was educated at Princeton, ordained in 1831,

John Motter Annan, a member of the Presbyterian Church at Emmitsburg, interrupted his studies for the ministry by joining the army and was accidentaly killed in camp in Novem-

Rev. Eugene Stambaugh was recently graduated from Princeton Seminary and just this year was ordained into the ministry of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Dr. Valentine was a native of Keysville neighborhood, but he was baptized and confirmed by the pastor of the Taneytown Lutheran Church and then went on to become a Lutheran pastor and finally the distinguished President of Gettysburg Col-

Some years ago a young man by the name of Harner, and I think, a member of the Lutheran Church, entered the ministry, but I am not sure of the denomination. I know so little about him that I can not more than mention his name.

Just tonight I learned about Robert Thomas, though not a native of this community, yet a son of the Lutheran Congregation, who was this year or-dained to the ministry of that denom-

Harold March, son of a former pas-tor of the United Brethren Church, although not born here, spent most of his boyhood in Taneytown. He is now a well-known preacher and pastor in the United Brethren denomination.

In the early part of the nineteenth century, Elias Heiner was born on a farm just two miles from Taneytown, the son of John and Mary Heiner, both of whom were devoted members of the Taneytown Reformed Church. He was baptized and confirmed in the Reformed Church here and went on to become one of the most distinguished ministers of my denomination. For more than two years, he was pastor, during the life-time of his parents, of the Reformed Church in Taneytown. He died while pastor of the First Re-formed Church in Baltimore in 1863. His mother and father are buried in

Rev. William Babylon Duttera was the son of Amos Duttera and was a minister of the Reformed Church for many years, serving for the most part in North Carolina. He died just a few years ago.

Now I mention, with a great deal of affection, the names of three young men of whom this community is very proud—with affection, I say, because I had something to do with their preparatory education.

The Rev. Robert Benner, son of our own beloved Dr. Benner, who has so lately gone from us, was educated at Gettysburg College and Seminary and is now serving with honor a large Lutheran congregation in Pennsyl

The Rev. Fr. David Shaum was educated at Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary, served pastorates in Bal-timore and in Westminster, and is director of music at his Alma Mater.

The Rev. Roland Garvin has been prosecuting his studies at Lebanon Valley College and Bonebrake Seminary and now just this year, following in the footsteps of his consecrated father, will be ordained a minister of the Evangelical United Brethren

These young men will wear with dignity the honor and titles of their calling, as they break the Bread of Life to those who hunger for the

I wish that I might call by name all those boys and girls, natives of this community, who having grown to be men and women, have entered other learned professions, law, medicine, teaching, engineering, and especially nursing; or those fine business men, some of whom form the very backbone of the citizenry of this community today and who are a part of the abundant fruitage of the religious activity and energy of the churches of this town.

I would not have you believe that I am trying to idealize this community, or to have you feel that you have something here which is without fault. There are many things here which are not what we would have them to be. There is still much for the present and for the future generation. ations to do. But our churches have labored only for good, and for the good things here the churches can claim large credit.

So, we recall our history with pride. Our foundations have been found to be permanent, the superstructure of our life as a town abounding in things of beauty, progress, truth. Our past is good. We have something; nay, much to celebrate. But a celebration looks not only to the past. This occasion is a mere in-the past. This occasion is a mere inthe past. This occasion is a mere interlude, a pause, as it were, to look backward for a moment, and then to turn our eyes, our minds, our souls, our aspirations toward the future. We have inherited much. The challenge now to us is to add our own contribution of process and covering contribution of progress and service to that which we have received. It is well for one to be able to be proud of his ancestors, but ancestry involves responsibility also. Ancestors are not merely people who lived in the past and about whom we can brag. Ancestors must be lived up to. If we are proud of them, we must also make them proud of us. We too will have descendants, and we will be their ancestors. Now here is a question which I ask you to receive with attention and to ponder well. Will those who live here a century hence be as proud of us who live in this present genera-tion as we are proud of those who lived a century or two centuries ago? Will they, a hundred years from now, who will be concerned with the three hundredth anniversary of Taneytown. find their foundations as secure as we have found them as they came lately under our examination? It is for us

It is indeed true that hitherto the Lord hath blessed us. Now is the time for us to make a new covenant: First with God and with one another; Second, with our ancestors, promising them that we will live up to their ideals and hopes for us, and wisely use the inheritance which they have bequeathed, and Third, with our descendants, that we will make it as worthy for them to celebrate what we, their ancestors, have accomplished in our generation for the good and for the honor of this community, as and served Presbyterian Churches at Bedford and Schellsburg, both in Pennsylvania. He and his wife died of typhoid fever in 1833.

Appen a member of gestion. There will be other celebrate the achievement. May I close with a practical suggestion. There will be other celebrate the achievement. tions in the years to come. In just fifty years, the quarter-millenial year will be here, the fourth of a thousand years of history and progress. There are those sitting here who will, no doubt have part in that celebration. And then, a hundred years from now there will be a tricentenary. My suggestion is this: in order that the labors of those committees for future celebrations may be considerably les-sened, we should preserve and store safely all the papers and references to the festivities of this week—the programs, descriptions of the various parts, the pageant, the parade, every reference that can be preserved, even, so far as possible, the relics. Let them all be available for the committees who will have charge of the celebrations fifty and a hundred years hence. They will arise and call you

And above all, may the rich heritage which we have received of staunchness, honesty, virtue, constancy, friendship, reverence, freedom; may we preserve it, enlarge it, and bequeath it to those who come after us, that they in their day, may be as justified as we are in ours, in praising our God with the joyful grateful words, "Hitherto, up to this very moment, hath the Lord blessed

Look at the 3-way bonus you get in the car that's sweeping the nation!

1. You get the car that's styled for tomorrow - and for only

In Buick today you find the fresh modern beauty that will pattern the styling of other cars yet to come. That's a major reason for Buick's soaring success this year. But note the low delivered price shown here-that's the clincher. No other car at so low a price gives you this advanced styling - plus Buick's great

2. You get the car that's a sure high resale value

Of this you can be sure: the new Buick you buy today will look modern next year, too-because that broad panoramic windshield will be appearing on other cars as a 1955 feature. So with the new Buick you buy now, you'll stay right up in the style parade for years to comeand command a higher resale price when you trade it in.

3. You get a bigger allowance from our volume business

Regardless of price class, Buick today is outselling all other cars in America except two of the "low-price three." That's fact. So with this tremendous sales volume, we can offer you a higher trade-in allowance when you buy a new Buick. Come in, see and drive Buick the beautiful buy. Then see for yourself how our volume business means a far bigger allowance

Choosing the Best

Lesson for August 8, 1954

A MAN grows by the choices he makes. This is to say, he grows taller by his right choices, while every wrong choice shrinks his soul. This is true of the physical life. Mrs. Gurney, that well-known lady on TV, one evening at a restaurant ordered cream soup, a large steak, vegetables to match, a sizeable salad, chocolate cake with ice cream on top, - and a slice

It is not only our health and physique, it is our minds and souls too, that grow by right choices, shrink by poor ones. Everybody, whether he has thought about it or not, has a "scale of values." That is, there are some things he prizes more than anything, others for which he has little use. One man will spend his last cent for a rare stamp, another man will give his last cent to missions, a third will leave his last cent at the race track. The writer's grandfather was known to have gone without meals more than once in order to buy certain books. Tell me what you prize most highly and I will tell you what sort of person you are. But what the Christian wants to know is: How does God look at it? A jeweler will not buy gems without first having them appraised by an expert he can trust. Life spreads many a bright sparkling jewel before our eyes; how can we tell the true from the false? How can we tell how to value life unless God appraises it for us? So when Saint Paul, or our Lord himself, tells us what the true values in life are, we are only hurting ourselves if we pay no attention.

All Values Are Real

Jesus' words sharply provoke thought, and he meant it that way. He clearly taught that things do not matter in comparison with greater values such as peace of mind and health of soul. But some people, reading the Sermon on the Mount, have jumped to the conclusion that he meant for Christians to pay no attention at all to food and drink and clothing, that if a Christian concentrates on the kingdom of God he need not give ordinary things a thought. Jesus certainly did not mean to be taken that way. He himself would ask for water when he was thirsty. He was not indifferent to meals; indeed his enemies accused him of eating too much. He did not build up a large wardrobe; but he wore clothes, and sometimes good ones. It is only a poor translation of Jesus' words that makes him say "Take no thought" for food or clothing or for tomorrow. What he said was "Do not be anxious, do not worry" about such things. What he means is clear: Christians should put their greatest energies of thought, interest, planning and action, into the greatest things. Don't You Want the Best?

"Bad means: choosing a lower value in the presence of a higher." So a modern philosopher (Urban) has said. The tragedy of life is not that men choose cheap things. The tragedy is that they choose cheap things when they might have had better. It is no tragedy to have a high school diploma-on the contrary it is a good thing. But it is a tragedy to have only a high school diploma if you might just as well have gone on to college. It is no tragedy to be a worker on a farm; it is too bad if the tenant might have owned the farm by harder work and better management. It is no tragedy to be a clerk; one can serve God anywhere. But it is a pity before God if a man is content to live and work in some easy corner when he might have gone into God's great service as a minister or a missionary. God's question to every man is not: Did you choose the good? but, Did you choose the

What a shame to fool the boss! He doesn't even suspect we have worms. We don't really look sick, but all is not well. Some of us chickens have lost weight. Most of us feel lazy. The boss will really be surprised, and shocked, when it's time for us to go into production. Profits will be down. Somebody should tell him -- then he could begin treatment with Wormal. WHISKER CLUB

The bearded men of Taneytown who have been flourishing beards for the sake of the Bi-Centennial celebration since the first of April (4 months) received recompense for their endeavors, when they were judged on Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m. Attracting much curiosity and interest for the last few months, the climax came for the Whisker Club when the judges announced the results; declaring Harold Bell the winner of the club, winning $75 for growing the heaviest beard. Other award winners, each of whom received $25, were: darkest beard, Bennie Bowers; reddest beard, Melvin Amos; Whitest beard, Rankin Davis and neatest beard Francis Lookingbill. WHISKER CLUB

Ending the week long celebration of Taneytown's two hundredth anniversary, was the final performance of the pageant "Here on the Monocacy" portraying the history of Taneytown.

One unfortunate incident occurred when a pop bottle exploded in the hand of Lloyd Myers, who required medical attention. Other than that, everything went off nicely.

The people of Taneytown should be commended on the interest expressed, the cooperation shown, and the time and labor spent in the town's celebration, Everyone deserves a vote of thanks. We hope our descendants are as successively and the cooperation of the control of ful in their undertaking of a celebration after another 50 or 100 years, as we were in our two hundredth anniversary.

OPEN LETTER TO PEOPLE OF THIS COMMUNITY

The City Council and I wish to take this means of thanking all who contributed in any way to make the Bi-Centennial a success. This was the most ambitious undertaking that Taneytown has ever achieved. We can be proud of it. Without your loyal support it could not have been depression. could not have been done.

In our opinion our success was due to splendid cooperation generously given by all. Let us not loose this spirit but remember this lesson. Then through cooperation, we will by the help of God, make the next hundred years more successful than the past two hundred.

Very truly yours, RAYMOND J. PERRY, Mayor.

We pay up to per month if you're sick or hurt .

> Here's an accident and health plan that pays: enough for hospital, medical and surgery expense .: PLUS important dollars to make up for loss of income! Amazing low net premium can be paid monthly. Ask about the Invincible Policy.
