A TRIP WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuss returned Tuesday from a five week tour which in cluded nineteen of these United States and also Mexico.

They traveled the northern route went through Illinois to Lincoln's Tomb and his home and visited rela-I tives in Plano and Dixon, Ill., through the Bad Lands, Black Hills and Yellowstone Park. From there to beautiful Teton Park, Wo., west through Oregon to Crater Lake, a large blue lake on top of a high mountain with walls of rock on all sides up to a thousand feet high.

Looking over the lake they could see the snow-capped Mt. peaks reflected in the water. At this point there were drifts of snow beside the road higher than the car. Traveling southwest toward California they saw many sawmills in the forests of pine and fir. South through the redwood forests to San Francisco where they took a tour to places of interest. Visited friends in Stockton, Cal., before going to Yosemite and Sequoia Parks. Yosemite Park is noted for rocks and water falls and Sequoia for the largest trees in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuss visited Robert W. Fuss and family at Corina, Cal., for ten days while Mr. and Mrs. Bowers visited friends in Fontana, and Salone Beach in California and Tijuana Mexico. A group including both couples spent a day at Catalina Island off the California coast.

One day was spent deepsea fishing. Three men caught 160 fiish. Driving east they visited Boulder Dam, Grand Canyon, Quarez, Mexico and Carlsbad Caverns. Visited friends near Oklahoma City for several days visited the Rodkey Mills at Edmond, Okla., which are very well known there. Then east toward home arriving safe and sound and very thankful for such a lovely trip of about 8900 miles.

PINEY CREEK 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Piney Creek 4-H Club held its monthly session at the home of their local leader, Don Bollinger. The president, Dave Gunther had charge.

The meeting opened with the use of the 4-H pledge followed by roll-call to which we named different kinds of grain. Barbara Rinehart, treasurer, gave her report.

In observance of Land Week our local leader took us to a nearby farm being farmed with the use of contour strips and pointed out their value in saving our soil.

The president then reviewed the many activities the club had taken part in the past month.

On July 25th the club members and their families journeyed to scenic Caledonia Park for their annual picnic. A wonderful time was had by all.

The club recently completed its first community project by erecting a "Welcome to Carroll County" 4-H sign near the state line.

At the Carroll County fair held the Club members made an excellent showing. John Rinehart received a blue ribbon on his junior yearling Holstein heifer and Barbara Rinehart reduring July at the Agriculture Center ceived a fourth on her senior year-ling Holstein heifer. In the Guernsey heifer class, Eddie Koons, first; Douglas Gunther, second, and Donald Gunther fourth. David Gunther received a first place and Donald Gunther a second in the junior year-ling class. The 25th anniversary of the Western Md. Guernsey breeders was held at Frederick recently and as usual Piney Creek members came home with their share of ribbons. David Gunther brought home two silver trophies.

The annual 4-H County Campfire to be held August 27 was discussed and a committee appointed to work up several skits for the club. ing on the committee are: Mildred Bowling, Donald Gunther, Barbara Rinehart and Douglas Gunther.

It was also announced that the Md. State Fair will be held at Timonium this year, Sept. 1-10. Five members plan to show their dairy animals.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mildred Bowling, Aug.

25, 1954.

The meeting was then adjourned, after which a social hour followed.

DEMONSTRATION OF FARMING EQUIPMENT

Field Demonstration Friday, August 20

The most complete demonstration of grassland farming equipment held in this area will be presented at the Earl Remsberg farms, located seven miles south of Frederick, Md. on Rt. 15 at the Field Demonstration Day on Friday, August 20.

This announcement was made by Herman Stockslager, president of the Four-State Farmers' Association, which, in cooperation with the Mar-Del-Va Farm Equipment Dealers' Association, is sponsoring the event. One of the major parts of the program to be presented at the day long demonstration will be the showing of fourteen of the latest types of field harvesters. These machines, repre-senting all the major farm equipment manufacturers, are the latest design and will be shown in two different demonstrations. In the morning the machines will perform in actual field tests cutting silage. The afternoon demonstration of the same machines will show them at work in the fields making hay. Both tractor engine drive and power take off harvesters will be shown, giving farmers an opportunity for judgement for individual farm

The new types of harvesters have been especially designed to aid farmers in cutting crop loss by allowing for speed up in harvesting operations, harvesting more acres when the moisture content and maturity are just right.

Other types of grassland farming equipment to be featured on the equipment to be featured on the program under the committee of Charles Remsberg will be the new types of wagon unloaders and conveyors for filling silos.

Six new types of both power take off and hydraulic unloaders will be demonstrated as well as three of the property designed sile filling conveyors.

To the Cast and the Production Staff of the Taneytown Bicentennial Pa-

Dear Fellow Workers: When on July 31 the curtain of darkness fell for the last time on "Here on the Monocacy", I wished so much that it might be possible for me to shake hands with everyone of you and thank you personally for your marvelous cooperation. But since there were just too many of you and since we were all too hot and too tired, I'm saying now what I wanted

First, it was most fitting that we chose a ball field as our stage, because the presentation of a pageant is just as much a matter of good team work as is a ball game. From the tiniest child carried in its mother's arms to the oldest bewhiskered man, you played an equal part. From the one who carried a bucket of water for Indian make-up to the chief executive who stayed up all night guarding the grounds, you bore responsibility as it came to you. Finally, as a fellow Carroll Countian, I'm just as proud of your history as you are. In fact, it's mine, too. Thank you so much for inviting me to your 200th Birthday Party and for letting me help "cut the Cake".

Your co-worker,
DOROTHY ELDERDICE.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

PORT HURON, MICH., TIMES HERALD: "Nobody has a right to damage the confidence of the public in his employer-whether the employer is the public itself or a private firm or individual. And anybody who sidesteps—even legally — questions dealing with his loyalty to his Country invites discharge from his position, whatever it is".

LAFAYETTE, LA., PROGRESS: "The most frequent violator of postal laws is the home mail box thief. Some 3,851 persons were caught in 1953 for stealing mail. A woman mail box thief for five months averaged $100 daily stealing checks from apartment houses. A man stole electric light bills and confronted housewives saying the bills were overdue and current would have to be turned off immediately unless the bills were paid. Before he was caught he collected $1,500."

PINEVILLE, W. VA., INDEPEND-ENT-HERALD: "The average American loves freedom and all that it implies, with an almost holy zeal. But no individual has a right to turn his ear into a lethal weapon and menace the lives of others".

MEBANE, N. C., ENTERPRISE: "Nearly every reader of this editorial can become a relatively wealthy person if he follows one simple rule. That is to spend less money each week than he makes. Men like Benjamin Franklin, and others on down through the years, have become wealthy by following such a rule"

MOTOR CLUB LISTS THINGS TO REMEMBER IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

What would you do in case of an accident during a trip away from

Ask Mr. Robert L. Leese, Westminster Branch Manager of the AAA and he'll suggest "seven simple steps", They are intended to help you meet what could be a difficult and trying circumstance. Here is Mr. Leese's list of things to do: of things to do:

Stop immediately after an accident.

Determine the extent of injury to individuals and give all the aid and comfort you can. However, don't try to move anyone who may be uncon-scious. You'll be helping plenty if you stop severe bleeding and keep the victim warm.

3. Call the police. If anyone is injured, the police will bring an ambulance and physician.

Get names and addresses of all possible witnesses.

THE AFTERMATH

The celebration is over, The great tension is eased, Now we are all in clover For everyone is pleased. There is one thing that is sure, In which we all will share, By joining together in saying It was a swell affair.
It was held in the great wide open,
For a canopy the sky,
We are thankful for the great help, That came down from on high. The story is so wonderful And it will ever, ever be, And will live down through our lives Here On The Monocacy We heard the fine history Of the place in which we dwell And we will well remember For it was told so well. We enjoyed the concert given By the Ceremonial Air Force Band The music we enjoyed so much It was marvelous, it was grand. The Pageant was a big success With beauty of color galore, Just something a little different, Than we ever saw before The one who wrote the story Of the great by-gone days Deserves so very much credit, And has our greatest praise. And those who did the coaching Deserves much credit, too, For they did a swell job, The way they pulled it through. The many, many others Who in any way had part, They did their very best They gave their very heart So working all together In one great big style Made it all so wonderful Made it all worth while. The people came to see it They came from far and near, And what they saw and heard Filled their hearts with cheer. The kiddies in their parade Was a swell thing to see They did so very wonderful As good as it could be. The last but not the least, For as we gazed upon it To the eyes it was a feast. The bands that played the music As they gaily marched along, Made us all so cheerful And filled our hearts with song. The many floats of beauty Was a pleasant sight to see, And the many other units Were as great as they could be. The many old time autos They were so quaint and queer But they were a great thing In the days of yesteryear. The men of the bearded club The men of the bearded club
Made a humorous show
And brought back memories
Of the days of long ago.
The horsemen on their pretty steeds Came riding proudly by,
We enjoyed them all so much
They were pleasing to the eye.
The units of the many things
That were useful in their day,
We watched them with some pride
As they passed along the way. As they passed along the way. The town was decorated With colors, bright and gay,
And the windows were all filled
With antiques on display. We are proud of our endeavors We think it all so swell, And down through the days to come It will be remembered well. And now that it's all over We know all things done and said, Will be written down in history In the future to be read.
We are thankful for our heritage
Our forefathers handed down, We love our community And we are proud of our town. As the time passes onward May it linger with us yet, And write it on our memory Lest we forget, lest we forget. Thus ends the lovely story To every one we lend, We say it was a swell affair From the beginning to the end. WM. J. BAKER

SOLDIER RECEIVES NEW ASSIGNMENT

Staff Sergeant Leland S. Stone-sifer. United States Air Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stonesifer, Tan-eytown, Md., was recently assigned to Detachment 21. 4th Weather Group, Edwards Air Force Base, Calfornia. In the new assignment, his assigned duty is Shift Chief in the Rawinsonde Station, supervising 4 to 6 men as they track a weather bal-loon with radar and evaluate data received from a radio transmitter attached to the balloon. He is a graduate of Taneytown High School. Staff Sergeant Stonesifer has served two years in the South Pacific Theater.

Bachelors: Didja know that, many vears ago, young men in love would pick a certain blue blossom in the morning while it was still damp with dew. The gent would place it in his nocket, and, if after 24 hours, the flower was still fresh, the marriage he was thinking of would be happy. If the flower was faded, the marriage would be unhappy. Naturally, the blossom usually faded and, as many men followed its advice and remained immarrned, the flower became to be known as the 'Bachelors' Button. It's a fact. Bachelors: Didja know that, many

Southern States Cooperative and Its Service Agencies

Drastically Reduced FEED and SEED PRICES

UNDER FARMERS' SELF-HELP DROUGHT EMERGENCY PROGRAM

In many sections of Southren States' operating territory a devastating drought has played havoc, adding to the problems of farmers already squeezed by lower farm prices and high production costs. In some areas the drought has struck for the third time in as many years, making the situation even more disastrous. The farmers who own and use Southern States Cooperative—283,000 strong are doing something about it under their own self-help program of working together.

DROUGHT EMERGENCY PASTURE

Prices on Balbo and Abruzzi rye and Domestic Rye Grass have been drastically and arbitrarily reduced—rye from 30 to 35 cents per bushel, and rye grass about $1.75 per 100 pounds. Yet Southern States' high quality standards have been maintained. These seeds may still be seeded with the coming of the rains for late fall, early winter and early spring pasture. Pasture is by far the cheapest and one of the very best feeds. Its use can greatly reduce the amount of hay and grain which otherwise would have to be purchased, and thus substantially reduce feeding costs. To help you lower your production costs, Southern States is pricing these seeds below cost, and service agencies are handling them at their approximate cost.

FEEDS SPECIALLY PRICED DURING EMERGENCY

The price of Southern States 16% Pasture Dairy feed has been lowered as much as $6.00 a ton (30c bag). This top quality feed contains over 1,400 pounds TDN per ton. It is an excellent dairy feed for cows on pasture regardless of weather, but is especially suited for dairymen hard hit by drought. It will keep your milk production high, your expenses low, and you will have a better cow

The price of Southern States Egg-Maker has been lowered as much as $4.00 per ton (20c bag). This top quality laying mash for birds on range contains 20% protein with an abundance of vitamins, minerals and all other nutrients needed by birds on good pasture. Egg-Maker will keep your egg production high, expenses low, and you will have a better hen left. Both 16% Pasture Dairy and Egg-Maker are regular Southern States Open Formula feeds. Their high quality remains unchanged although prices have been substantially reduced as an emergeny aid to you farmers who own and use this cooperative. In fact, Southern States is pricing both feeds below cost, and service agencies at their approximate cost.

DROUGHT HAY PROGRAM

Hay will be purchased and supplied patrons at money-saving prices this year, as was done last year. Both Southern States and agencies will render the service at greatly reduced margins.

SELF-HELP AT WORK

By supporting this cooperative effort, you help make prices of supplies more reasonable and save real money by using quality feeds and seeds cooperatively manufactured and processed by farmers in their own plants and mills.

FEESERSBURG

The semi-annual business meeting of Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., will be held Saturday, Aug. 14, in the auditorium of the Westminster H. S., 1:30 p. m., EDT. This is the opportunity for the Dairy farmers of Carroll county to get together and talk over the milk situation as it effects them. A new plan for marketing milk will be discussed and each farmer will have a chance to express his views on this subject and any other operation pertaining to milk. Here is the place to go to express your side. Don't stay away from the meeting and later on meet some of your farm neighbors in the grocery store and tell them what should have been done and said at the meeting. If you have some good constructive ideas on how to solve the milk problem, you owe it to everyone concerned to stand up in the meeting and tell everyone about them. If you have a pet peeve, the meeting is the place to air it—not on the village corner. So farmers take Saturday off to attend the milk producers meeting and take your wife along for women have a tendency to keep a meeting on an even keel. Furthermore, women have as much interest in milk as the men, for they not only help with the dairy, but they know the many uses to which milk is put and understand to a great degree the consumer's angle.

While we are on the subject we might discuss the consumer's angle for a minute. Last week a report was ssued showing that farm prices had dropped 20 percent in three years, but that the homemaker is paying as much for food as she did at any time since the end of World War II. Almost none of the lower prices received by farmers since 1951 has been passed on to consumers in the form of lower retail food prices. One of the leading arguments offered by the supporters of the flexible farm price support plan is that it would mean lower food prices in the grocery store. Unless recent tendencies to increase marketing and processing charges are curbed, the consumer will receive no lower prices for the food she buys no matter how low the amount the farmer re-ceives for the things he raises. For example: In January, 1948 wheat was $2.81 a bushel, and the average price of bread was 13.8 cents for a one-pound loaf. However, in June of this year, wheat prices had dropped to sale and Mrs. Douglas Fox. up to 17 cents a loaf. The price of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weikert and wheat had declined 32 percent while the price of bread went up 23 per cent. Is it any wonder that farmers and Mrs. Luther Fox. do not want flexible price supports unless there is an adjustment all down the line? Farmers will admit that it is time for adjustments, but let everyone do a little adjusting and just not one group.

A great many mothers must have been shocked this week to learn that they have been loving and caring for a young subversive right in their own home. I am of course referring to the charge by some irresponsible American Legion members that the handbook of the Girl Scouts contains sub versive material. How silly and ridculous can some Americans get? We know that not too long ago the mempers of the American Legion were fighting in France to preserve Demo-cracy: There are more ways of preserving Democracy than carrying a gun and one of those ways is not to label a fine American Youth organization like the Girl Scouts "Subversive" without one grain of truth to back up the charge. Did I say it was only a few years since the American Legion fought for Democracy? must have been more than just a few years for I see the signs of senility setting in on some of its members. Too bad— for it has been such a fine organization but Father Time waits for no man, nor group of men. Unfortunately time not only stiffens ones muscles but jells ones thinking too This is the tragedy that so often happens to the best of men.

We have no way of knowing, but we think that the French dress designer Dior either has a grudge against women or he is losing his hair. He doesn't like women or he wouldn't design such unflattering clothes for them and a man that still retained his own hair has a deep appreciation for the beautiful and a pright mental outlook. Dior's dresses are neither beautiful or bright.

Canned Vegetables And Tempting Salad For Winter Menus

WHEN you serve a salad you dd vegetables with their precious vitamins and minerals to your menus. In addition, you add color and texture contrast to your meals. All these features are as important to winter meals as for summer.

You tap a large supply of vegetable material when you resort to canned vegetables. Try dressing them up in these ways to give your meals a much needed lift.

To make the salad arrangement pictured, place on a bed of salad greens a mixed vegetable aspic, in the center. Chill and marinate canned peas and whole green beans in French dressing and circle the mold with mounds of them. Garnish the peas of tiny celery slices and separate the vegetables with rows of cucumber

You can serve this colorful salad platter in a matter of minutes using flavor-brimming vegetables and a few simple garnish tricks. Featured is a vegetable aspic mold made with mixed garden vegetables, surrounded by marinated peas and green beans.

Curtains, Drapes Should Stay Clean

Few of us have picture windows, but we can all have curtains and drapes to enhance the view from our windows, or at least to make the best of a mediocre outlook or hide a hideous one.

Next to the artistry of the curtains and drapes, cleanliness is the most important aspect to consider. Even simple white curtains, as long as they are immaculately clean, can do much for window dressing.

Use Washing Machine

There's no problem about keeping most curtains clean, since they can be plunged into a washing machine for a few minutes and then whisked out clean and beautiful. Older or more delicate curtains may need a bit more care, such as placing them in a cotton bag before the washing to give them some protection.

It's a good idea to give curtains a lukewarm, pre-rinse to remove soot and loose dirt before actually washing them.

Glass or ruffled curtains should be washed a minimum amount of time, two minutes, in the machine, using soft hot water for two minutes, with soap or detergent, then rinsing thoroughly two or three times, using an overflow type of rinse which washes away any remaining traces of soap or soil, without wringing or handling. Use the above method for rayon curtains, too, but substitute lukewarm water for hot water. Finishing Steps Curtains can be placed in a spin dryer or they may be put through a wringer set at medium. Permanent finish curtains need no starching, but other types may be starched to assure a crisp finish.

Stretchers are helpful in assuring straight edges on the sheer curtains, and, naturally, they also cut down on the amount of ironing. Big Value Days

SHORT STORY

Chicken And Dumplings By Norman Disher

MR. WINKLE had been a bachelor for forty years but his landlady, Mrs. Emily Lumley, widow of two husbands, intended to put an end to it. Her last husband had passed away over a year ago and Emily was beginning to feel the need of companionship. Mr. Winkle was a small, but good looking man, and he had a fine job in the downtown bank. He was what Mrs. Lumley termed, "responsible and secure.

Emily knew Mr. Winkle's ideas on marriage were negative but she intended to remedy that. One morning when she met Mr. Winkle at the bottom of the stairs she started her campaign. He'd just told her about his latest promotion. "Why Mr. Winkle, that's twice now in three months. I think it's wonderful!' "Yes it is," Mr. Winkle replied, "but not wholly undeserved. I've introduced several new shortcuts in the system for handling accounts and statements. One must use his head, you know."

"Yes, yes, that's true," Emily answered thinking how nice it would be to have such a confident man for a husband. Her last two husbands had been small men in their fields. "Why haven't you married? Now that you have such a good position you ought to have a home.

"My dear Mrs. Lumley," Winkle assured her, "I have never in my forty years found a woman capable of fulfilling the virtues of domestic and mental qualities that I admire in womankind. Until then I am content to live alone." Later in the day when Emily thought about their conversation she decided that she knew a way to ensnare Mr. Winkle. "After all," she remarked to herself, "I've been through this before and there's one sure way of convincing him about married life.'

Emily intercepted Mr. Winkle when he returned from work and invited him to have dinner with her on Friday evening. Mr. Winkle readily accepted.

Friday evening Mr. Winkle appeared at Mrs. Lumley's door. "Come in, come in," Emily beamed at him.

Mr. Winkle entered into a neat, modern living room. He mentally checked his list of domestic virtues on the good side. Dinner was waiting on the table.

"Chicken and dumplings!" he exclaimed. "Wonderful, wonder-

They sat down and ate in silence (another good check on the list) while some light dinner music tinkled in from the plonograph in the front room.

"Mrs. Lumley," he rejoiced, "this dinner is exquisite. It's my favorite dish. Wonderful indeed!" 'Well, thank you, Mr. Winkle."

After they had finished their desert and had discussed the banking business, which surprised Mr. Winkle no end since he'd always contended women knew nothing about banking. Mr. Winkle started to leave. It had been over an hour since he'd checked the last item on his mental list and he'd been so overcome by the easy manner of Mrs. Lumley that he'd forgotten to look further. Now it was time to go.

"Thank you, Emily, the dinner was excellent.'

"You're quite welcome, Robert. We'll have to do this again soon. Goodnight," Emily smiled.

"Goodnight," Mr. Winkle answered feeling exuberant.

She let him eat out for two weeks and then one evening there came a knock on her door.

"Emily," he practically shouted, "Emily, you must marry me, you just must!!"

"Well goodness gracious, you don't have to shout. Of course I will.

"When?"

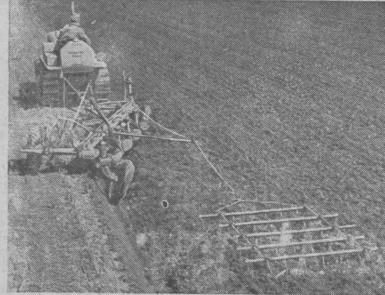

"As soon as you want." Emily never did show her husband the book of matches he'd dropped the day she had spoken to him at the bottom of the stairs. The cover advertised:

"Come to THE NEST CAFE, the best Chicken and Dumplings in Town.

Self-Discipline

Lesson for August 15, 1954

GOD will not live any man's life for him, nor do for him what he can do for himself. There is peace and repose in the life of the Christian, to be sure; but there is also work, effort, struggle. Paul uses the language of the athletic field and the army to describe the life of the Christian man. The religious life is a race, a fight.

Pressure and Power We grow, body and soul, partly without knowing it. But we have to put forth effort, all the same. One thing necessary in all kinds of growth-of body, mind, or spirit-is discipline. To some ears that is an ugly word, it seems to stand for repression. Can't we grow better if we are allowed to do as we please? Not by any means. A fruit tree or a grape vine which is never pruned Dr. Foreman will never produce prize fruit. A razorback hog running wild and eating what he pleases will not make as much bacon as a hog kept penned up and fed with care. A boy who practices the piano only when he feels like it will never learn to play. A football player who gets up and goes to bed when he likes, and eats and drinks whatever he happens to want, when he wants it, will never make the team. Discipline is just not doing certain unimportant things in order to do other important things. When water is run through a hose, the tighter the nozzle is screwed the farther the water is thrown. So it is in the world of Christian character. The life without any restraint is the life without fruit or force. The life without discipline is like the tree never pruned, a tangle of barren branches.

Habit of Vigilance Sometimes Christians are disciplined by circumstances. Pain, or defeat, or poverty, may have a wholesome effect on us, like a surgeon's knife But some of the Christian's discipline has to be imposed on himself, by himself. Discipline means getting rid, so to speak, of useless fat, keeping fit. Discipline means not fritting away our time and energies on useless things. It means going without some things we want in order to have more to give to others. It means locking up our pride when our feelings are hurt. It means not becoming so busy with trifles that we have to say "I have no time" when we are asked to help with the Lord's work. It means cutting out even harmless habits when they pull us down to less than our best. It means training down to get into condition for the fight right inside us between our best and our worst. Now we have to be careful about criticizing other people, who may have different battles to fight than we have. It may be quite easy for Mrs. X, who never took a drink of liquor in her life, to say hard things about Mr. Y, who seems not to be able to pass a tavern door without going in. But perhaps Mrs. X has just as much trouble passing up the second piece of cake or the tenth chocolate cream. We have to be on guard all the time, not over others mainly, but over ourselves. Not that we should not help others; indee i we should. But we need always to remember what Jesus said: "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone."

What Alcohol Does

It ought not to be necessary to say a word about such an obvious subject as a Christian's relation to alcoholic liquors, but nowadays such a word is very much in place. In this matter the best and simplest self-discipline is to leave it alone entirely. What the apostles of "moderation" forget is that alcohol is a drug of a kind that weakens the resistance of the person who takes it. Asking people to be moderate in the use of liquor is not much less ridiculous than asking them to please be moderate in the use of narcotics. The stuff works on the nervous system itself and does it no kind of good. Let a Christian consider: Does the use of liquor help one to grow into the likeness of Christ? Does it make one more clear-headed, unselfish, more useful as a Christian citizen? (Based on outlines copyrighted by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. Released by Community Press Service.)

Let's Think

G. H. ENFIELD

OUR DAILY BREAD

The Psalmist's familiarity with God is an indication of his nearness to God. In verse one he is seeking an audience with the Lord. This was not his first appeal to God for help. He had sought the help of his Lord many times before, in various circumstances, and always received help to carry on.

This man of God laments the godless efforts of some of his fellowmen to humilate him. He chafes under the dishonor and vanity and lies of the godless. But when he remembers "that the Lord has set apart the godly for himself;"

ly for himself;"
the Psalmist finds consolation and strength, and happily exclaims:
"the Lord hears when I call to him."
The Psalmist proceeds with calm counsel to his fellow believers:
"Be angry, but sin not; commune with your own hearts on your beds, and he silent

with your own hearts on your beds, and be silent.

"Offer right sacrifices, and put your trust in the Lord".

Modern discoveries and inventions have made living comparatively easy, and the tendency is to forget God. There is too much dependency, today, man human incepuity, wisdom, and upon human ingenuity, wisdom, and skill. Long ago "the Lord said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved

There were pessimists in that far distant past. A pessimist is one whose faith in the goodness of God is

There are many who say, "O that we might see some good!
"Lift up the light of thy countenance upon us, O Lord!"

There are people as here below

There are people so busy looking for the evil as to stumble over the good in their pathway, and all about them. They place so many clouds in their sky that they fail to see the sun shining through.

The religion of the Psalmist was not the long-face, sour-puss kind. He was religious, and did not have to appear religious. It was not necessary for him to wear a morose countenance and manufacture an air of saint-

This man of God enjoyed his religion. This is always true when one has a genuine Christian experience. You know the joy the farmer and the owner of a vineyard express when their harvests increase. Now, listen to the Psalmist. to the Psalmist:

Thou hast put more joy in my heart Than they have when their grain and wine abound." This is a religion that counts. In that atmosphere the man of God lives, and moves, and has his being. His audience with God leads to a trust, and the trust leads to a conviction, a composure, a serenity, which deepens sleep and the sense of security:

"In peace I will both lie down and sleep;
For thou alone, O Lord, makes me dwell in safety."

The experience of the Psalmist should be typical of that of all who put their trust in the Lord. The more crucial life becomes, the more diligently should one seek, and tenaciously cling to one's Lord. ly cling to one's Lord.

YOUR OBSERVER

OUR DAILY BREAD CASE OF THE RIGHTEOUS

"O Lord, in the morning thou dost hear my voice".

A good start for the day! A good start for the day! The Psalmist's voice calling upon the Lord is heard in the morning. How opportune is the morning for calling upon God! The morning of life, and the morning of each day should begin with God. 'In the beginning God'. 'In the morning I prepare a sacrifice for thee, and watch'.

The first use of the strength restored during the night is a recognition of the Restorer of depleted energy of the strength of the Restorer of depleted energy of the strength of the Restorer of depleted energy of the Restorer of the Restor tion of the Restorer of depleted ene-gy, and a sacrificial offering to the Lord. Such an observance in the morning is to put first things first. The wiseman puts first things first, and then everything else in its proper and then everything else in its proper order.

In this morning observance a prayer precedes the sacrifice. There will be no sacrifice until there is prayer. Sacrifice is one of the fruits of prayer. Also observe that the Psalmist expected results. "And watch". People will pray and then expect nothing. Many are like the old lady who prayed that the hill in front of her door might be removed. The next morning when she removed. The next morning when she saw that the mountain was still there, she said, just as I expected. she said, just as I expected. "The Lord hears the prayer of the rightous." The author of the General Epistle of James says: "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." The Revised Standard Version says the same thing in a different way: "The prayer of a righteous man has great power in its effects." To put nothing into a prayer means to get nothing from the prayer. The Psalmist prayed, sacrified, and then watched. He waited for the answer. He expected results.:

lights in wickedness; evil may not sojourn with thee." Evil doesn't make even a temporary stay with the Lord. A thing lingers, and a person sojourns, when the environment is conducive, and the at-mosphere inviting. The Psalmist per-teristics of a person.

2. "The boastful may not stand before the eyes; thou hatest all evil-

They flee before the Lord. They stand not in His presence. The boastful cannot thrive in the midst of meekness and humility. "The meek shall inherit the earth."

'Thou destroyest those who speak lies; the Lord abhores blood-thirtsy and deceitful men."

The fact is that the liar, an dthe murdered, and the deceiver, destroy themselves. "Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap." Many people overlook this inevitable law. Wrong doing destroys one's capacity for doing right. Evildoers starve their spiritual capacities. They dwarf their spiritual powers. They eat of the forbidden fruit. They die because of lack of spiritual sustenance:

The Psalmist's conception of those who do not fashion their lives by the ideas and ideals that make for strong character:

There is no truth in their mouth; Their heart is destruction;

Their heart is destruction;
Their throat is an open sepulchre,
They flatter with their tongue"
Both the source and the expression of their lives are foul. The whole being savors of rottenness. They cannot be believed. Their heart is evil. They say what they don't mean. "They flatter with their tongue". The practice of too many petty politicians, office seekers, and schemers of peanut politicians.

Having proved his God, the Psalmist concludes with a note of triumph: "Let all who take refuge in thee re-

Let them ever sing for joy; For thou dost bless the righteous, O Lord;

Thou dost cover him with favor as with a shield".

A lady was filling out a credit form but when she came to the line that said "Age" she hesitated a long time. Finally, the clerk leaned over and whispered, "The longer you wait, the worse it gets." the worse it gets.'

Mother: "What have you been doing all afternoon?"

Son: "Shooting craps, Mother." Mother: "That must stop. Those little things have as much right to live as you have.'
