SENATE CLOAKROOM by J. Glenn Beall United States Senator from Maryland

August 20- Adjournment of the 83rd Congress will undoubtedly be this afternoon and in looking over the rec ord of achievements we can proudly say that this is a "Can-Do Congress".

During the final week of the session the Baltimore Sun, an independent Democratic newspaper, comment-ed on an editorial entitled "An Invest-ment Pays Off". "As the Eisenhower program continues its triumphant march through the Congress, interested observers will have noted several features of the situation which are almost unprecedented in recent years"

HISTORY OF

PART II

The old log church at Toms Creek had been used for 146 years, first by the Lutherans and Reforms, and beginning in 1797 by the Methodists when in 1903 the congregation decided to build a new church at a better lo-

The condition of the church at the turn of the century can best be described by quoting from the report of Rev. W. L. Orem, who was the circuit minister from 1901 to 1903. Just prior to his departure for another circuit he wrote the following report con-cerning Toms Creek: "This appoint-ment is sadly in need of a new church edifice. We are satisfied that with a new building in a more central location this would be a strong congregation, and there would always be a good Sunday School. As it is, the church building is situated in such a remote place that our Sunday School is noorly attended and must be dis is poorly attended and must be dis-continued during the winter months. However, with all of these things with which to contend, our congregations have been good and the spiritual condition of the people healthful."

Under the leadership of Rev. George W. Harris a new church location was selected approximately two miles from the old site at the intersection of two important roads. A parcel of land was purchased from Elias Valentine for $25. A portion of the adjoining woods was given to the abundant entine for $25. A portion of the adjoining woods was given to the church by James Troxell for use as a parking lot. In April 1903, following a service in the old church, the ground was broken for the new building. Holland Weant wielded the spade to move the first shovelful of earth.

The Municipal Band of Westmin-ster will hold a concert in the garden of Historical House Sunday, August 29, at 7 p. m. During the intermission Mr. Noah H. Arbaugh, a well-known county musician and former bandmaster will relate incidents of the early bands of our county. The "Carroll County Reed Band", organized in 1863 of which his father was a member, "The National Grays" organized in 1867 was another well-known band of that period. Mr. Arbaugh played in the band for the two Cleveland inaugurations and when Theodore Roose velt and Wm. J. Bryan visited Westminster during their presidential campaigns. He was also a member of orchestras which furnished music for dances in many of our old hotels, The City. Montour House and others. The public is invited.

"You never miss the water until the well runs dry" is an old saying that struck the residents of E. Baltimore struck the residents of E. Baltimore street very forcibly this week. I hope this condition does not continue on into the winter. If it does the "poor souls" in Taneytown have my sympathy. The City Fathers should not only set back and hope and pray for rain but they should get busy. They sold the people of Taneytown on the idea that a sanitary sewer will bring more industry to town, more bring more industry to town, more people would build and town property would become more valuable. Should would become more valuable. Should the water situation continue with the shortage of the life giving aqua no one will want to live in Taneytown. Naturally no one would want to build in Taneytown and industry would pass us up if the water supply is limited.

The Chamber of Commerce should take an interest in the situation too.

take an interest in the situation too. It would show that they are not a mere name but have an interest in the town's welfare. It would show that they are not merely a selfish organization, doing very little for the town. I hope my views outlined above prove to be pessimistic and the water situation corrects itself and the people will soon again an organization corrects.

A Windsor chair, given to the old church about 1850 by Richard Gilson, is now used by the Sunday School Secretary. Our present pastor delivers his sermons from the same pulpit as the circuit riders of the last century. The organ was also moved and used for a while in the new church.

A large memorial window in the rear of the church was given in honor of William and Lydia Stansberry by their children.

The old church was torn down and the lumber and materials sold at auction. The old doors are still in use on the Murray Roop farm.

The new church was dedicated in May 1904 with services in the morning, afternoon and evening. Rev. B. F. Clarkson, the District Superintendent, was the principal speaker. He was assisted by Rev. George Harris, the regular pastor, and Rev. Osburn Belt, who had served as the circuit pastor twenty years prior to this time. The congregation had the debt of the church cleared in a short time.

The congregation grew rapidly after the erection of the new church. Church services were usually bi-weekly, there being four other churches on TEACHER

The Toms Creek Schoolhous

The Toms Creek Schoolhouse, closed in 1928, was purchased a year later by the church from the Frederick County Board of Education for $300. For twenty years it was the scene of many board meetings, church socials, and church suppers.

In 1940, under the program of the unification of the three branches of Methodism, namely, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal South, and Methodist Protestant, the charter of charter amendment was not completed until late 1942 when A. Dean Kessler was pastor. Children's Day and Christmas programs had been held in the church for vears. The small curved pulpit stage did not allow much room for this type of service. Therefore, during January and February 1942, a remodeling of the church was accomplished. The the church was accomplished. The stage was enlarged and the appearance of the front part of the church was greatly enhanced. Mr. and Mrs Jacob Stambaugh gave to the church an altar in honor of Mrs. Stambaugh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ohler. This altar was made by Lloyd Ohler. A portion of the ceiling was replastered, and then the interior of the church and Sunday School room was church and Sunday School room was repainted. The furniture was all re-rarnished and the floors sanded. New carpet was placed in the aisles and on the pulpit. Most of the work—except painting and plastering—was done by the church members.

At this time two memorial windows vere installed; one, presented by Mrs. Mary C. Fuss, in memory of her husband, Edward M. Fuss; the other, by Mrs. Harry Baker in memory of her mother and father. While the improvements were being made to their church, the Toms Creek members worshiped with the congregation of the Trinity Methodist Church in Emmitsburg. On February 21, 1942, the church was rededicated, with the District Superintendent as the principal speaker. Rev. Milton B. Crist was the regular pastor at the

On November 10, 1946, Mrs. Garrie Fuss Long presented to the church a memorial window in loving memory of her son, S. Sgt. Wilbur Roland Long, who lost his life in the Southwest Pacific during the Second World War.
Rev. William F. Wright was the principal speaker. The local posts of the

for this service An Honor Roll of those serving in the Armed Forces during the two World Wars was also dedicated at this service. It contains the names of four members, who served in World War I and twenty-four who served during World War II. Since then the names of five, who have seen military duty during the Korean conflict, have been added. Under the pastorate of Rev. Adam Grim, a new educational building was added to the church. Prior to the building of this annex, there were not sufficient facilities for conducting a number of Sunday School classes. The lay-out of the Schoolhouse owned by the church made the serving of church suppers difficult. So, with these prob-lems in mind, the Official Board of the Church on February 27, 1950 voted to proceed with a building program. The previous July a strip of ground had been purchased from Mrs. Paul Valentine for $75.00. A building committee, composed of Lloyd Ohler, Jones Baker, and Maurice Moser, was appointed.

The schoolhouse property was sold and the money applied to the building fund. A ground-breaking service was held during May 1950 with the president of the official board, Ambrose Eckenrode, turning the first shovelappointed. ful of earth. Construction work began early in June, and the building was completed by January 1951. A new oil furnace was installed shortly thereafter.

Lloyd Ohler, a member of the church, was the designer of the annex. The building is a lasting monument to the labors of the congregation. All labor, both skilled and universely by members exskilled, was donated by members ex cept for the plastering of the building. The total cost of the annex was ing. The total cost of the annex was $7,435.55, of which only $108.00 was paid out for labor.

The building fund debt was liquidated by December 31, 1951. The entire cost of the annex was raised by the congregation in less than two years. At a special service held Nov-ember 4, 1951, the new building was consecrated for the Lord's use. The main floor is used by the Primary De partment of the Sunday School, and for socials, receptions and organiza-tional meetings. The basement is used primarily for church suppers.

At a dedication service, held September 16, 1951, the Toms Creek Methods Church became the recipiont of ient of several needed worship accessories. Rev. E. G. Being a rural church has not hindered the growth of Toms Creek.

Present membership now numbers 135 with an average ettendance of 135, with an average attendance of 75. Church School is held each Sunday prior to the worship service and is well attended.

The women of the church have organized a Helping Hand Society. which meets once each month. Their meeting coincides with the meeting of the Official Board, composed of the men of the church.

The present membership roll includes nine persons who have been members at Toms Creek for over fifty members at Toms Creek for over fifty years. They all united with the church when it was at its old site. They are: Mrs. Grace Baker, Mrs. Florida Haugh, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stambaugh, Miss Emma Ohler, Mrs. Maurice Hahn, Mr. Emory Ohler, Mrs. Edna Clem, and Mr. George Naylor. The people at Toms Creek are proud of their rich heritage. Many years of struggle and sacrifice have made Toms Creek the church that it is today. Since 1757 great changes have been made in the church building, order of worship, and the everyday affairs of life, but today's congregation studies the same eternal truths as their ancestors 197 years

During the 1890's, a series of revival services were held in the old church. The theme or keynote for these services was:

"As long as the lamp holds out to burn. The vilest sinner may return."

SHORT STORY

CONTRACTOR AND ADDRESS OF THE PROPERTY OF THE

Doctor's Harvest

By F. L. Rowley "QUITTING, Doc?" Sheriff Giles let the question slide

out of the corner of his mouth. "The people in this town just don't like me sheriff," said young Doctor Stuart thrusting the last O - Minute of his gleaming instruments into a 0 Fiction huge black trunk, "so I'm leaving-ing on to some town where I'm needed-and wanted." "You're needed here Doc."

not quitting, mind you-just mov-

"But not wanted." "Sure is nice to feel wanted," said Giles grinning. "Like the time we pitched our tents here when I was a young'n. Indians all over the place, screaming and hollering to show us how welcome we was. Some even brought flowers-for our graves. Yep, sure is nice to feel wanted." "I'm no pioneer," said Doctor Stuart with a sigh. "I've got a wife and baby to feed. If folks here insist on going to nearby towns when they need medical aid there must be a reason. I sure wish I could put my finger on it."

"I'll do it for you-you're too

Doctor Stuart didn't move. He

"I'll do it for you," he said. "You're greedy."

stared across the big desk at Giles. "Well," said Giles, "I got work to do. Sorry I had to be so blunt Doc. Never was much with fancy words-

"Wait!" Doctor Stuart snapped, "I want to thresh this out. You say I'm greedy. I say my fees are moderate; why in the big city—"

"Doc, you're smart, but you don't know much about farm folks -or farm towns either. You want to feed your wife and baby. I tell you that your wife-and a dozen babies-won't be able to eat all the stuff left on your porch come harvest time—if you do things our way. All bills are paid and supplies laid in after the harvest. Of course, it's always a gamble. Some years are lean, others fat. We don't have much cash this time of year, but we eat pretty well—all of us. How about it Doc?"

"Betty isn't going to like this," murmured Doctor Stuart as he began to unpack his bags. Sheriff Giles whistled as he strolled down Hillcrest's main street a few minutes later. He planned to argue the doctor's cause at the town-meeting that evening. He knew it was going to be a stiff task trying to convince those hardheaded councilmen that Doctor Stuart couldn't live on notes and promises until harvest time.

Then Giles found the answer. It bore down on him in the person of Mrs. Rogers, county newscaster. Mrs. Rogers was delighted to learn that young Doctor Stuart considered her one of the most charming women in Hillcrest. She was thrilled to death to hear that the good doctor had thrown similar,though smaller bouquets, naturally -to her friends.

The town meeting was a howling success. Doctor Stuart was invited —the first time since he had come to Hillcrest. Mrs. Rogers made a motion to create a health-center with Dr. Stuart as its director. Sheriff Giles was for a hospital. The good doctor's pretty wife Betty looked as if she were about to cry.

You could have heard a pin drop when Doctor Stuart stood up. He looked straight at Sheriff Giles as he spoke:

"Something wonderful happened today, my friends. I've lived and worked in Hillcrest nearly six months now-today, for the first time, I got a good look at the town. I like it. I'd like to stay. The projects you mention flatter me but they're not practicable at this time. I'm sure you won't object to your country doctor riding about the countryside in his old car. As for bills-well, we'll wait to see what the harvest brings-"

Cheers stopped the doctor's speech. Glowing words of praise were heard from all over the hall. When at last the meeting broke up and Dr. Stuart spied the sheriff leaving by the side door he tugged at Giles' sleeve: 'All right sheriff, how'd you do

"I just told Mrs. Rogers that you said she's beautiful—she did the

. And Sheriff Giles chuckled as he walked away. He could hear the red-faced Dr. Stuart trying to convince Betty that he had said no such thing.

Wonderful Wife

By Denny McClung 66 A ND SOLD to the gentleman for thirty-five dollars. Give your name to the clerk, sir.

"Next, we have a very fine . . Mentally kicking myself, I go to the clerk's desk, pay my bill, and get my perfectly adorable antique -a scarred, disreputable cobbler's bench.

I wondered what Ann would think this time. Our friends are always kidding me about my passion for auctions. I just can't resist them.

Ann never berates me when I come Minute in with some piece Fiction of old furniture or glass. But I often wonder what she thinks about my love for auctions. I hoist the bench to my shoulder and start for the car. There's no use putting off the ordeal. She'll have to know sooner or later. I couldn't help remembering that Ann had mentioned new drapes. "Listen, why take it home?" I ask myself. "It can only remind Ann of the drapes." Surreptitiously, I set the bench

"Buddy, you couldn't force that thing on me," he says.

casually light a cigarette, and saunter toward my car. Just as I open the door, someone touches me on the shoulder. "Pardon me, sir. I believe you forgot. your cobbler's bench. You set it among some other furniture

"Sure," I mumble. "Thanks a lot." I throw it in the back seat while the little guy trots away. Why can't people mind their own business?

So I still have the bench when a fellow with a truck moves up to load some other furniture. I lift the bench from the car and take it "Look, mister," I say, "what'll you give me for a good cobbler's bench? I just bought it a few minutes ago-you can have it cheap."

He looks the bench over, then says, "Buddy, you couldn't force that thing on me."

"I'll let you have it for twenty-five dollars," I counter.

Nope. Don't want it." "Twenty?"

"No," he yells!
"Fifteen?"

"No! Beat it, will you?" "How about accepting it as a

"Scram, buddy. Can't you see I got work to do?"

Driving across town I get another idea and whip into an alley. If I can't sell it or give it away, there's certainly no one to object if I throw it away.

I set the bench out in the alley and start to get back in my car. But as soon as I touch the door handle, I hear, "Hey, buddy, just a minute." I freeze. Then I hear steps coming up the alley and turn around to see a sour looking cop striding toward me.

"Say, mister," he says, "what do ye mean by blockin' the alley with your junk?"

"Officer, I was just trying to get rid of this thing," I try to explain.
"I don't care what ye were tryin' 'to do, I should run ye in for obstructin' an alley."

"Couldn't we reach some under-standing about this?" I ask.

"Oh, so it's bribery ye're tryin' now, is it?" he thunders. "Now, me bucko, pick up your junk and get the devil out of here." I'm beat, so I decide to go home.

As soon as I walk in the door, Ann sees the bench. "Darling," she says, "what a wonderful present. I was afraid you would forget." "Forget? Forget what?" "What day this is." "Oh-yeah. Happy birthday." "It isn't my birthday, silly."

"Anniversary?" "Umm-in a way. Now don't be so modest. You know perfectly well. We had our first date four years ago today. November nineteenth. Remember?"

"Sure. Say, what was the name of that movie we saw?" "It wasn't a movie, you took me to a basketball game." "Oh, yeah . . ."

"It's just a wonderful present. Of course, all that old paint will have to be removed. You can do that in the basement. Then it will have to be filled and sanded. Then you can put a new finish on it. But it shouldn't take long, should it?"

Yes, sir, that's my wife. I must remember to buy her a present on the next anniversary of our first

Some One Needs You

Lesson for August 29, 1954

IS RIGHT belief all that is needed to make a Christian? In several places in the New Testament a plain NO is given to this question. For one thing, there is the example of Jesus. The first biography of him we have is the thumb-nail sketch from Peter's sermon at Caesarea. spoken (of course) years before the gospels were written down: "He went about doing good." Jesus not Dr. Foreman only was good, he did good, he spent his time helping people. What can we say of a "Christian" who makes no effort to do as Christ did? Then James and John, different types though they were, agree on the same point. James says flatly that faith without works is dead, and a look at the whole paragraph where he says this, shows that the "works" he is thinking of are just the giving of "things needed for the body," to those who are ill-clad and in need of daily food. As for John, he makes the same point: if a man sees his brother in need and closes his heart to him, how can the love of God be in such a man?

Need for Bread

Some one needs you. This is as certain as that you are a human being. Nowhere in the New Testament is it suggested that any one should be so super-generous as to make a pauper out of himself. But all through the New Testament it is strongly suggested that if there is a need in the world that we can supply, we do not have to ask ourselves, What shall I do? but only How can I help? The simplest needs are physical. There are children in our own families; there are the perpetually poor, the unemployables, the defectives, in every community. There are people without work, hard-up people, even in the best of times These are people you can see.

And you do not have to travel farther than the nearest church to be reminded of hungry people you will never see but whom you can help through that church. In Korea, for example, missionaries in every church that is at work there have been spending a large part of their time, in these last few years, in famine relief. Through "Church World Service. CROP and other interdenominational agencies you are offered the chance to help widows and orphans who without your help would simply starve. When your church helps to support "agricultural missions" you are helping people in backward countries to farm more intelligently and feed more people on the same amount of land.

Not by Bread Alone ... But man does not live by bread alone, though to be sure he does live by bread. Just because he is man and not brute, he has needs which are mental and spiritual. Every minister of a prosperous congregation knows families that never have needed help to pay their bills; they have all the money they need and all that money can buy. But these may be among the most needy families of the congregation, their lives may be empty, or filled with fear and despair. Physically well-fed, spiritually starving people are all around us. In these days in particular there is need for cheer and courage. We are certainly living in the darkest hours of human history, and many believe these are the last hours of the human race. At such a time men's hearts melt within them.

Sharing and Bearing
There are also the needs of those who have missed the mark, who have been (to quote Paul) "overtaken in a fault" and need above all to have their spiritual health restored, they need to "get right" with God and man. Here again is a need which Christians supply not only to those whom they personally know, but-through the missionary work of the church which they support — to others around the globe. Wherever, in mid-Africa or in a lonely western mining - camp, or anywhere else, the message of Christ is brought by those who are supported by churches such as those in your community, there the Christians in the home churches are helping the deepest human needs perhaps better than they could if they were there themselves. Each of us has his own load of responsibility to bear; but also each of us can share some of the burdens of the heavy-laden, near and far.

NOTICE

A number of years ago, a committee was formed to collect funds for and decide upon a suitable memorial for World War Veterans from Taneytown District.

A sum of money was collected and paid to me as Treasurer of this Committee from citizens of Taneytown. However, before a suitable memorial was decided upon in keeping with the amount collected the committee was disclosed upon in keeping with the amount collected the committee was dissolved through resignation from the committee and death of a member.

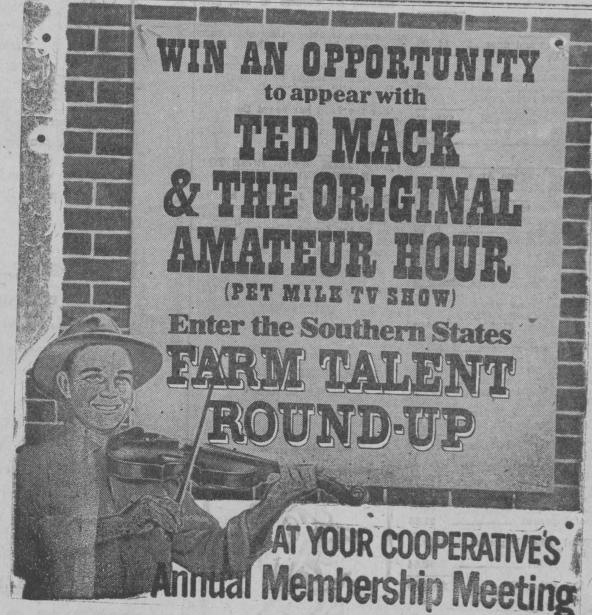

Taneytown District has been fortunate to have a group of citizens of civic pride to launch the project of a suitable park for recreation and community activities. This park has become a reality and has been taken over by the Mayor and City Council of Taneytown and has been designated "Taneytown Memorial Park."

Since the idea is in keeping with the ideas of the former committee, I will turn this money over to the Park Board to assist in furthering the expansions and improvements of this park, unless I receive objections by Oct. 1, 1954 from the original Contributors.
