GRASS ROOTS OPINION

MEDFORD, MASS., MERCURY: "Add two more R's to the traditional three of reading, 'writing and 'rithmetic to round out today's education. To their credit and glory, 16 and 17-yearolds on the New York Times Youth Forum named the two R's as responsibility and religion. The true goal of education, according to these amazing youngsters, is to make people Americans and make them aware of their land and its opportunities. And yet there are people who despair of this generation!'

PETALUMA, CALIF., ARGUS-COURIER: "We have not gained very much, if anything, if the federal taxes go down while state and local taxes

BISHOPVILLE, S. C., MESSENG-ER: "A news release coming out of Washington tells us that 'an early Senate hearing was promised today on advertising mail delivered to homes without carrying any specific address'. Such mail has been called 'junk mail' by many people disguested with receiving this type of mail."

ESCONDIDO, CALIF., WEEKLY TIMES-ADVOCATE: "The free market, governed as it is by the natural law of supply and demand, is the only kind of market that brings maximum benefits to all concerned. It is a lot better to rely on that market than it is on the mouthings of politicians who, when they're out, yell about high prices and when they're in set up costly bureaucracies to control prices."

CARLSBAD, N. M., CURRENT-ARGUS: "The U. S. Supreme Court s indicated that it does not expect immediate compliance with its nonsegregation decision in all the nation's schools. It will take time to get peaceful compliance for such a revolutionary change The high court, in our opinion, is wise in letting its decision go into effect gradually. You can't stuff a sweeping change in a practice going back 200 years down the throat of a people overnight."

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., LEAD-ER: "According to Virginia's Senator Harry F. Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee, the national debt limit is equal to all the assets in America today and 'we are mortgaged to the hilt.' How an individual decides to 'drown his troubles' may be his own business. When it looks like the national debt may drown the whole country, that becomes the concern of every citizen, every taxpayer."

SHELBY, MONT., PROMOTER: "Survey after survey indicates that, generally speaking, the big commercial highway freighters are not paying their proper share of the cost of building and repairing highwaysand these costs have soared to an almost incredible level because of the growth of such heavy traffic. We are building our roads to the specifications of the big truckers and not to accommodate our passenger car level."

Friendship, business, democracy, and hash have a common dependency on a man's faith in his fellow men.

CARROLL COUNTY ASSOCIATION FOR RETARDED CHILDREN INCORPORATES

The incorporation papers for the Carroll County Association for Retarded Children were presented by Mr. H. S. Albright at the January meeting held Thursday evening at 8 p. m. at the Carroll County Medical Center. They were read by the secretary, Mrs. James R. Langdon, and then approved, signed, and notarized This act establishes the Association as a legal charitable organization of Carroll County.

The Association plans three major programs for the children: (1) a monthly party or recreational period, (2) a six week summer camp program for retarded children of all ages (3) a daily school program. Definite progress is being made in this planning. Mr. Fern Smith, newly elected treasurer and chairman of the Committee for Investigating Community Resources, reported that the West-minster Methodist Church has offered quarters for the summer camp program. He also reported that several teachers, who have had experience teaching retarded chidren, have expressed an interest in helping with this work. However, it will be necessary to solicit community support. In addition to financial support, there will be a need for various types of equipment, volunteer assistants to the teachers, and aid with the problems of trans-

The next meeting of the Association will be held on Thursday evening, February 3, at 8 p m. at the Carroll County Medical Center. It is hoped that the Association will continue to have such a marked increase in attendance at each meeting.

TANEYTOWN, MARYLAND OPEN EVERY NIGHT EXCEPT THURS & SUN. SHORT STORY

By Venus Inglish

HE CAME in almost as soon as we opened the doors of the store at nine o'clock. I thought he had slept in his clothes; had perhaps just come from Hobo Square, a disreputable small park a few blocks away in the direction of the City Hospital. As he fum-O - Minute bled his way up Fiction the main aisle of the store, I saw that this was a mistake. His clothes were in good condition. It was the way he was wearing them that stamped him as a bum.

His overcoat hung open and was nearly falling off one shoulder, the collar doubled partly inside. His tie flopped crazily to one side. He needed a shave, and his shoes were untied in spite of the slush

Drunk, maybe, I decided, especially with that indefinite way he was walking. Suddenly he turned around and looked at the clock over the door he had just entered. He scowled and checked with his wrist watch. I was close enough now to see that it was a good make of watch. (He ran his fingers through already finger-combed hair) and resumed his odd progress up the aisle.

By this time I had become downright apprehensive. A floorwalker is something of a peace officer in his domain. While it didn't seem likely that a single man would try to stage a hold-up of a department store at nine o'clock in the morning, I decided not to take a chance. Carefully I followed his course from the next aisle. I tried to watch, too, for possible accom-

He paid no attention to any of the Christmas displays that lined the aisle. He seemed to see nothing clearly until he had neared the rear of the store. There we had an innovation. It was a different idea-my baby-FATHER'S TOYLAND. The letters were festooned across the rear of the store in brilliant red. They even caught the eye of my indeterminate-or was it determined! - early customer. I wondered nervously if I should call the store detectives and alert them. He was acting oddly, but if it were a false alarm, they'd laugh. I decided to wait a little longer to see if any accomplices appeared.

My man walked first to the electric train that was winding its way doggedly through a maize of tunnels on a big table. A salesman came by.

"May I help you?" "Just looking," said the lone customer absently. The salesman made some unnecessary adjustments about the table and that seemed to distract the attention of the visitor. He checked his watch again, held it to his ear, looked around, and sauntered to a table of toy guns. He picked one up, looked at it absently, replaced it and took up another.

"Did you have something special in mind?" he asked. "Yes," replied the customer. He cleared his throat, and said, a bit too loudly, "My son."

"Perhaps he'd like this air rifle," suggested the salesman. "Oh, no. I'd be afraid he'd hurt himself." "How about bicycles?" asked the salesman making a tentative gesture toward the rack where they were displayed. The customer ran his fingers through his hair again, checked his watch and seemed more and more nervous. "No, not this year," he muttered. "Perhaps if you'd tell me the boy's age, I could help more," persisted the salesman.

The customer turned an odd red and reached his hand toward his hip pocket. I had waited too long! I was sure it was armed robbery. My knees were watery! And then I saw he had only pulled out a handkerchief.

"Oh, I just took his mother to the hospital this morning. Doc says he won't be born for another hour at least. They told me to take a walk until then."

A certain "cuddlesome" little Men, like tools, don't get an edge office and said: "Doc, you've got to do something for me. I'm always chasing women . . . and as two something to the same and the sam ing women . . . and, as you can see,

Many times in this column I have sung the praises of the Volunteer Fire Companies and no matter how many nice hings one writes about them it isn't enough. This time we have written some bad verse which although the poetry isn't the best the thoughts expressed seem to fit the occasion. Here When fire or illness strikes your

And will continue to do so if the burden we And this we can do in our share own little way....By returning the coin cards - FILLED - today!....

while we would like to bury all our problems with the old year, never-the-less like bad thoughts they just won't stay buried. The farmer's problems of '54 are still the same problems of '55. Life Magazine in the January 3rd issue portrays in pictures the complex business of farming all over the United States and the eating habits of the citizens. All one has to do to grasp the change n farming is to go through this is sue of Life and face reality. For like the "little business" the day of the family farm is over. The emphasis s on BIGNESS and with the modern xpensive machinery one can readily understand why the small farmer is doomed. While efficiency may be desired it seems to us that the iniative of the individual is being smothered by too much bigness and too much efficiency. We hear so much about individual freedom and the effort to preserve it, but when every factory and every farm becomes an assembly tine, where man is just a robot and is never a complete part of a finished product, how long can man hope to retain any individuality or any desire for personal freedom. The small store or shop radiates a personal con-Sunday eve and found him tact with the customer which bigness can never hope to duplicate. The family farm exerts a personal influence on the community which a Seabrooks farm with it's thousands of acres and mass efficiency would never attempt. We believe in progress but not material progress alone at the expense of the creative ability of the

Don't let your pride become inflated—you may have to swallow it. Last Friday night Contralto Marion Anderson was finally permitted to sing in the Metropolitan Opera.
House, making her the first Negro ever to sing a leading role there.
Miss Anderson's talents have long been acclaimed by kings, queens and presidents and it is quite fitting that finally she should receive this honor from her own country.

We hope that a great many of you saw Edward R. Murrow's interview with Dr. Oppenheimer on last week's program. To us it was "See It Now a glimpse into the mind of a very great man and the impact was so astounding that we haven't recovered yet. Like all men of knowledge, Dr Oppenheimer is a person of great humility with the manner of a poet. Listening to him speak, one knew in-stantly that his is one of the finest minds in existence. If television performs no other service than allowing the viewer to meet the great men and women of the world, it will have performed a great service. For it will eventually teach the viewer to select the wheat fqrom the chaff in T.V. programs. What intelligent person would listen to Milton Berle in preference to listening to a man like Dr.

Oppenheimer? Breathes there a man with years so plenty, that never to himself has "I've had too many, Let me go and daughter, Mary.

Miss Gertie Ridinger and Luther world, I've had too many, Let me go world, I've lived too long, Life is no Ridinger, were Sunday dinner guests longer a dance and a song". The above six lines are written to Shildt and son; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Snyder and daughter, Patsy, of Reese, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Ridinger and tinguished citizen of New Windsor and Carroll County, who will cele-brate his 91st birthday January 16th. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vaughn and I doubt very much if Dielman in liv-garet and Joyce Fleagle and Mr. Ver-non Clem, Thurmont, and Mrs. Theo-dore Ridinger spent Sunday after-long ago that the secret of a bountiand a promise to him. For he found long ago that the secret of a bounti-ful life is the sharing of one's time and talents with one's fellow men. To those of us who are not fashioned of the richer clay, we often need in-spiration from the lives of others to keep us striving toward a richer life. Mr. Dielman certainly furnishes ing Saturday evening, Jan. 15th. Nice this inspiration to all those that come in contact with him. His kind letters, in contact with him. His kind letters, his interesting scrap-books to hospitals, his collection of historical facts now at the Carroll County Historical Society have set in motion a chain reaction of human relationships which will endure for a great many years. We take this opportunity to salute a distinguished scholar and genial citizen on his impressive 91st birthday!

If we have tried the literary patience of our readers this week with our over indulgence in bad poetry we promise not to go on a poetic spree too soon again. In the meantime there are two things to think about—Spring and the income tax returns. Both have their bad points. One brings us extra work and one takes away the fruits of our work. But it could be a lot worse we could be living on the planet Venus where they tell me there is no air -Ruth Roelke to breathe.

This is my Father's world;

I rest me in the thought Of rocks and trees, of skies and seas; His hand the wonders wrought.

This is my Father's world, O let me ne'er forget That though the wrong seems oft so strong,

The part that intrigued Your Oband that intrigued Your Observer were the men dressed as women! Never have I seen a more glamorous male since the time of "The Julian Eltinge" days when he was the only real female impersonator playing, "The Merry Widow" in the fine theatres, Johann Rrigade stagged on called tres Jokers Brigade staged one called "Calypso Fantasy" which I frankly thought was a "Carmen Miranda" affair having the hats filled with fruit and highy colored matching gowns.

That did go over big.
You should have seen the impersonation of Jackie Gleason. Many hearty laughs were drowning out the music Two cute youngsters were being coached by their Grandfathers who handed me a card and it was a Mr. Frank Hepp of 2112 S. Philip Street. The parade was at a stand still and and I had a little talk with the Grandfather who stated that the children father who stated that the children whom he called Chickie and Eddie were dressed as Colonial Youths. The one child was 8 years of age and the other 4. Mr. Hepp said they had been in the parade each year since they were two years of age! They were trying to be brave and those Kiddies did everything that Grandfather suggested.

One of the "Shooters" was dressed as half man and half woman and as for a female well he did have an outstanding figure. Then there was the one dressed in black and white sequins with a very tight fitted bodice for evening wear.

Another was dressed in Alice Blue Another was dressed in Afree Blue Taffeta for afternoon and he could have fooled any one for he appeared so 'lady like' that the women spectators gasped! About this time there were people about four rows deep in back of us which helped keep the cool morning air down morning air down.

Many were taking pictures and I was sorry that I left my Camera behind. Such catchy tunes were "Lady of Spain", "Brazil", "From The Vine came The Grape", "Powder Your Face with Sunshine", "Keep Your Sunny Side Up", "Drink, Drink Drink", "Deep in My Heart, Dear", the can-can music of "Giate Parieienne", "Parade of The Wooden Soldier" "Are You from Dixie"? "I Need You Now" "Serenade", "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise", "Stout Hearted Men", "Deep purple" "The Sandman", "Somewhere over the Rainbow". The Sweetheart music made a big hit, "Sweethearts Forever", "Sweetheart", "Sweethearts on Parade", "A Garden of Roses," Moonlight and Roses", "One Dozen Roses" and many other numbers.

The spectators were so interested that applause was missed by the "Mummers" as many "Thank you's" could be heard as they marched along for the sightest applause.

The Mummers this year celebrated the 300th salute to ancient King Momus! Even the Great George Washing-ton during the years he lived in the Presidential Mansion at 9th and Chestnut Streets held open house and with his lovely wife, Martha would come to the door and distribute food desired by The Mummers!

So today as in the many years gone by The Mummers brought much joy and happiness to everyone! Heres hoping they never stop doing what they do and each year becomes more glamorous with the original ideas! Have a grand week-end, Folks.

SHORT STORY

By F. L. Rowley

The

"YOU'RE much too excitable, George," said Mrs. Gavin re-George," said Mrs. Gavin reprovingly as the car nosed into the dark driveway. "Our Mary may be young but she's not silly enough to elope. I do wish you hadn't dragged me away from my bridge club meeting like this." -Minute 'And I tell you Fiction that this thing has come to a head!"

snapped George Gavin as he turned off the car's headlights. "Less than an hour ago I saw Mary's suitcase lying on her bed; and on top of the suitcase was an envelope containing two airline tickets - for Cuba!"

"Was Mary in the house at the time?" asked Catherine Gavin. A note of anxiety had crept into her

"She was not. So I decided to get you. Perhaps you can drive this wild scheme out of her head." "If it's not already too late,"

George Gavin paced the floor for what seemed like an houractually was about 15 minutes.

sighed Catherine. She pointed to a ladder half-hidden by the bushes. George's eyes ascended it painfully, rung by rung, settling at last upon Mary's bedroom window. He gawked as if he'd been hit on the head with a crow-bar. Mrs. Gavin squeezed her husband's arm tenderly as she led him away from the ladder and into the house.

"I'll call the police!" she said as they entered the parlor. "I'll have those foolish children picked

A ray of hope flickered in George's eyes. "Good!" he said. Then—"But I thought you approved of Henry? I wanted to separate them long ago but you wouldn't hear of it. You were always so sure that he'd make Mary a good husband - bah!"

"I still think so - but they don't have to sneak off like this. Mary has always talked about a church wedding. I want her to have it. Will you see if the suitcase is still in her room, dear?"

George reentered the parlor as his wife was placing the receiver back on the hook. She turned to face him. "The police say they'll pick them up at the airport.'

"Why didn't we think of that?" "It doesn't matter, dear. The police can get through if the gates are closed. We couldn't. The suitcase—is it missing?"

"Of course. Wait until I get my hands on Henry—I'll mangle him.' "And have our daughter married to a hospital case?" asked Cath-

George Gavin grunted. (He paced the floor for what seemed like an hour) - actually it was something less than fifteen minutes. At the end of this time a uniformed policeman ushered Mary Gavin and her blushing suitor into the parlor.

"Got 'em!" he announced proudly. "Standing in front of the gates they was. Now I'll bid ye goodnight - never could stand a scene." "He's an idiot!" said Mary hotly as the door closed behind her. "And whoever sent him after us is also an idiot. Of course he got us - we weren't going anywhere. You'd think it was a crime to see a couple of friends off for Cuba."

"But," objected her mother, "didn't you have airplane tickets?" "Naturally I had tickets bought them for my girl friends.

I also lent them one of my suitcases; I suppose the police know "Henry, my boy," said George

Gavin placing his hand on the young man's shoulder, "how about a nice quiet game of chess? My nerves are on edge."

The two women watched until George and Henry had settled themselves on the porch. Then Mary kissed her mother.

"I couldn't go through that again," said Catherine. "Your father almost had heart failure when he saw that ladder. I know he'll agree to a fine church wedding for you and Henry. I only hope your father's business never calls him to Cuba."

'Why? "Because if it does he's sure to uncover our (little) scheme. Our little airport, my dear, does not and never did schedule flights to

Cattle Grub Tests Now in New Field New Hope for Safe Phosphate Injection

Search for a safe insecticide that kills cattle grubs when injected under the skin or fed to the animal, has moved into the promising field of organic phosphorous insecticides, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Entomologists and veterinarians investigating insects affecting livestock at the Kerrville, Tex., laboratory of the Agricultural Research Service have found that diazinon given by mouth and under the skin and chlorthion and a diakyl phosphate given yearling cattle by mouth killed cattle grubs for as long as three weeks following

Aldrin, dieldrin, and lindane—all chlorinated hydrocarbons — has previously been found to kill cattle grubs when injected into cattle, Science hopes for an effective agent against cattle grubs which may be either taken internally or injected early in order to kill grubs before they puncture animal's skin.

but the Kerrville research represents the first successful use of phosphorous insecticides. Yet to be determined are what toxic effect continued use of the chemicals will have on the animals and whether treatments cause accumulation of chemical residues in meat or milk.

Research scientists hope that phosphate insecticide residues will disappear rapidly from animals as they do when used on plants for insect control. Proof of quick disappearance of residues would recommend further testing of phosphates against both internal cattle grubs and perhaps such internal pests as flies, mosquitoes, and lice.

Avacado May Furnish Perpetual Youth Secret

The secret of "perpetual youth" may some day be revealed in the study of avacados and other fruits. Science, of course, has little hope of discovering eternal youth for human beings. Instead, scientists, like Dr. Jacob Biale of the University of California, hope to slow down the aging process in fruit from a practical storage stand-

The avacado stays "young" as long as it is on the tree, Dr. Biale points out. It will ripen on the tree and drop only when the stem suffers damage. One speculation is that a tree substance which inhibits ripening is constantly supplied to the fruit as long as it remains attached.

This is difficult to prove by studying the fruit on the tree, but laboratory studies hold promises. Key to the process seems to lie in a chemical action involving phosphorous, an important element in all life processes. "If the trigger mechanism is determined, it seems that a likely means of inhibiting the actionjust as in the avacado-might be devised," Dr. Biale says.

Prevent Choking

Sometimes cattle that swallow large objects as whole ears of corn, apples, etc., will choke unless the object is removed quickly. If the object is in the upper throat, you can remove it by using a piece of baling wire doubled in a loop. Slip the loop over and beyond the object, then pull forward to dislodge it.

The Son of God

Lesson for January 16, 1955

THE churches composing the I World Council have set up one theological condition for membership, and in spite of efforts to induce them to change, they have stuck to it. No church can be admitted that does not acknowledge

Jesus Christ "as God and Savior." Now when Jesus is called God outright, the church is saying something the Bible rarely says. Furthermore, it can be confusing to say this. The church universal Dr. Foreman has never meant to say that Jesus is all the God there is, or that Jesus is identical with God. For God exists in three persons (as the church expresses it), and Christ is only one person. Christ is both God and man, but God is not man at all. And yet the church universal, and churches in particular, cling to the statement "Jesus is God," partly because they would rather make the mistake of saying too much than too little about Christ, and partly because this does express their real

Equal With God Laying all technical theology aside, and speaking as plainly as possible, things can be said about Christ, which the Bible teaches, and which the church believes, and which put together come out where the church stands—on the deity of Christ. First, Jesus himself called himself regularly the "Son of God," and even his enemies could see that that meant placing himself on an equality with God. Paul in the New Testament speaks of Christ as the "image of the invisible God;" Hebrews says he "bears the very stamp of God's nature." As was said here last week, Christ is our true picture of God, our best way of knowing what God is like. Now if Christ is "equal with God" we should expect the church to worship him-and so it does. Prayers are offered to him directly as well as to the Father in his name. The Doxology sings, "Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost," and many other hymns and songs are actually prayers to Christ. ("Jesus Savior, Pilot Me; "Rock of Ages," "More love to Thee, O Christ," "Make me a captive, Lord," "Fairest Lord Jesus,"and any reader can think of many

Second, Jesus himself spoke of his words as being not his own but those of the Father who sent him. This was a vivid way of saying that he knew what was in God's mind, he knew God's attitudes and intentions, how God felt and what he planned to do. Now it is true that there had been prophets who spoke by inspiration and who brought the Word of God to the people. But a famous living theologian has put the difference between the prophets and Jesus this way: The Word of God came through the prophets-but Jesus Christ was the Word. The prophets were at one remove from God, and in Christ there is not even "one remove" from the Highest. The Sermon on the Mount gives perhaps the most striking illustration of this. Often in that sermon you find the words, "Ye have heard that it was said" (and here Jesus quotes some passage from the Old Testament) "but I say unto you" (and here Jesus gives a teaching which may be radically different from the Old Testament). In short Jesus set up his own teaching as actually above the accepted "Word of God." What greater claim-?

The practical question is: How seriously do Christians take this doctrine of the Deity of Christ? The churches officially believe it; and yet church members act as if Jesus had never spoken, or as if his opinion were only one man's opinion, worth no more than the average. Christians might well remember Jesus' own question: "Why do you call me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" It is one thing to sing hymns to Christ on Sundays, another and harder thing to follow his teachings on weekdays. The test of whether a person really believes in the deity of our Lord is not in what he says about it but in what he does about it. We might even risk this proposition: A person who shrinks back from saying "Jesus is God" and yet believes that in any case Jesus is always right, comes nearer to truly ac-

Only BLUE CROSS pays so many hospital bills in full!

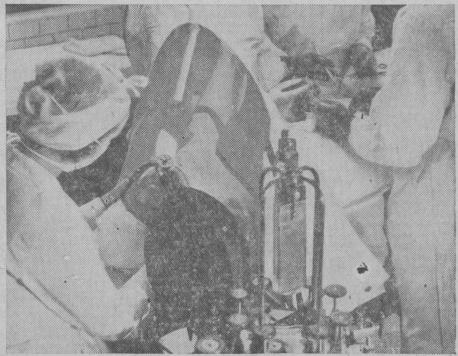

Get the full facts today about the not-for-profit plan that now protects nearly 900 thousand Marylanders

One in three Maryland families will face hospital bills this year. Yours may be one of them. Protect your family against unexpected hospital care through low-cost Blue Cross.

Welcome additions to the family-included on family membership at no extra cost with protection until they reach 19. BLUE CROSS protection will continue after that age on individual membership.

Extra-expense services, that add so much to hospital bills, are paid by Blue Cross, too. Blue Cross provides the hospital care you need, rather than just dollars to pay bills.

What is BLUE CROSS?

It is the most successful idea ever found to put protection against hospital bills within the reach of virtually everyone. It is the standard against which other forms of hospital expense protection are measured, a standard hard to match. That's because BLUE Cross is a not-forprofit community plan-providing maximum protection for the least cost.

What makes Blue Cross different?

BLUE CROSS service benefits are unique . . . designed to help people get the hospital care they need, rather than just dollars. BLUE Cross provides benefits for all the basic hospital services—full coverage in a semi-private room (save maternity)—and out-patient care too. When you go to a hospital, simply show your membership card. BLUE Cross pays the hospital directly. No claims to file. No waiting for reimbursement. No red tape.

What keeps Blue Cross costs so low?

Sponsored by hospitals, doctors and people like yourself, BLUE CROSS is operated strictly not-for-profit. This means that every dollar paid in, except for low administrative expenses, goes to provide hospital care benefits. Dollar for Dollar, Blue Cross gives you more for less money maximum protection at minimum cost.

To help with Doctors' Bills, there's BLUE SHIELD

If you are hospitalized, you'll have doctors' bills, too. For broad protection, why not join BLUE SHIELD? This organization gives BLUE CROSS members a non-profit way to prepay medical-surgical bills . . . provides liberal allowances to help pay for hundreds of different operations and for maternity care.

DON'T DELAY-WRITE TODAY!

You owe it to your family ... yourself ... and above all your own peace of mind to find out all you can about BLUE CROSS and BLUE SHIELD. Telephone the BLUE Cross office listed in your directory. SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

To the farm operator, it means "Old Age and Survivors Insurance."
Q. What is Old Age and Survivors Insurance?

A. It is a family insurance plan provided by the social security law and operated by the United States Government. Under this law, gainfully employed people contribute during their working years to provide an income for themselves and their families when their usual income from employment is cut off by old age or death. Through contributions based on the amount of their wages and self-employment income, establish rights to future benefits. The amount of the monthly benefits to a family will depend on the amoun of the insured person's earnings and on the number of other members of the family who are entitled to payments as the insured person's de-

Q. What kind of insurance payments can a farmer and/or his family expect? There are four kinds of payments: (a) Monthly retirement payments to insured persons 65 or over and his family.

(b) Monthly payments to insured person and his family if the insured person is 72 or over even if he is still working.

(c) Monthly survivors payments to the families of insured who died regardless of age.

(d) Lump-sum payments to an insured person's widow or widower, or to the person who paid the work-er's burial expenses. This lump sum will be paid even when there is a survivor who is immediately eligible for monthly insurance payments. Q. Are all farm operators covered by the Social Security Law?

Yes, assuming such persons are self-employed farmers, whose net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more per year beginning 1955 Q. Do I have to report if my net earnings fall below the $400 amount?
A. No, but the law provides that if a self-employed farmer reports his income on a cash basis, he has an optional method of income computa-

(a) If his gross income is not more than $1800 in a year, he may report one half his gross, if it is not less than $400.

(b) If his gross income is more than $1800, he may report $900.

Q. What is the amount of social security tax for a self-employed farmer?

A. Three percent of net earnings reported. (Not to exceed $4200.) Q. How do I report my self employment income for social security tax purposes?

It is reported as part of your Federal income tax return. When is my first social security tax return as a self employed farmer

A. Early in 1956 you make a social security report of your 1955 net earnings and pay the social security tax. This report is part of the Federal income tax return.

Q. How will previous social security credits earned affect my social security account?

A. Such credits are already a part of your social security account to which credits as a self-employed farmer will be added. Q. Does a self-employed farmer operator, age 65 or over, pay the social security tax? Yes, regardess of his age, if he has earnings to report. Q. How long must a self-employed farmer be covered before he can receive retirement benefits?

That depends on his age. Generally speaking, if he is near or already 65 or older he needs only 1½ years of coverage to become eligible to receive retirement benefits. Farm operators who reach 65 in the future will need more than a year and a half of coverage.

Q. How long must a self-employed farmer be covered before survivors benefits are payable to his family? A. Survivors may be eligible for benefits if the self-employed farmer dies after having obtained only a year and one half of coverage. In any event it is worth while to inquire at a social security district office.

Q. What happens to the social security tax money collected? A. It is deposited in the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Trust Fund out of which fund benefits are paid and a reserve is accumulated for future benefits.

Q. Are social security benefits paid automatically? A. No, an application for benefits must be filed before any benefits can be paid.

Where are benefit claims filed? A. At any social security district office or at the itinerant service station servicing your locality.
Q. Must a self-employed farmer be in need before claiming social security benefits?

A. No, this is an insurance program and benefits are payable as a matter of right.

Q. When is it especially important that I visit the social security

A. (a) When you are 65 and have worked under social security.
(b) If a worker in the family dies who has worked under social security.

c) If you become totally and permanently disabled before age 65, and have worked under social security prior to your disability.

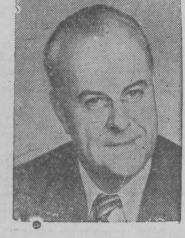

Q. What is the range of old age and survivors benefits payable?

A. From a $30 minimum for an individual to a $200 maximum family benefit monthly. In addition a lump sum death benefit may be payable ranging from $90 to $225.
