MARCH OF DIMES

$64,000,000. Needed To Carry on a Vital Work

Whatever the results of the evaluation of the polio vaccine are, the disease will continue to be a problem in 1955 we know. We have a moral obligation to the unknown number of people who will be stricken and to the 70,000 victims of previous years who still need our help.

So, the March of Dimes will need at least $64,000,000 to carry on this vital work in 1955. This money will purchase enough polio vaccine for 9,000,000 people. The vaccine will be held until the hour when final word members of the Key Club was re-corded. Wayne Baumgardner, presi-dent of the Key Club presided over the meeting with one of the boys of its worth comes and it is licensed.

every county in the country.

Remember, there are three special things to remember when you give your dimes and dollars:

(1) the money will support scientific research on improved care and treatment for the many thousands of polio victims from previous years, this year and from years to

(2) the money will continue the wise and wonderful investments in "brain power". It will help pay for the schooling of skilled medical workers whose educated heads and hands are so desperately needed to relieve suffering.

(3) the money will provide emergency equipment like iron lungs which is vitally necessary when polio strikes in a community.

Because of the desperate need, we will gather these dimes and dollars through the great Mothers' March on Polio, special events, coin boxes and through every March of Dimes activiour job is far from finished. We nust be sure everyone has complete facts on the polio vaccine and its use when it is finally licensed for use. We can hasten the day when all parents will be able to protect their children.

We must be sure everyone realizes, though, that polio is still a problem and probably will be for an unknown number of years to come. And we must be sure that the polio stricken the many thousands for whom a vac-cine will be too late—have the best care and treatment we can give them for as long as they need it.

As women and mothers, we tackle this job joyfully—because the final results some day will be safeguarding our children from a disease that often cripples, sometimes kills. There is no greater goal.

Visiting a dear aged man of just 90 years who has been bedridden since July, I met his blind son for the first time who was the most cheerful individual I have ever met. He told me that he listens to T.V. even if he cannot see it! Of course ,it was minus the crystal an dthere were raised numerals which easily could be recognized the time by any individual. He—this blind man said to me, "I can hear very good for you know when one sense is gone another sense becomes stronger!"

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DULUTH, MINN., PUBLICITY: "It has been from the Bible that America has learned that the humblest man is a priceless child of God and that every man's opinion in matters relating to the common welfare has in it the bugle call of sovereignty. In the midst of a world of disappearing freedoms, America is gloriouly

ALBANY, N. Y., TAXPAYER: "Public power pushers are riding high, wide and handsome again, howling holy horror about "giveaways'. If giving private industry permission to develop waterpower is 'a giveaway of the people's power resources', couldn't it be claimed that there was a similar 'giveaway' of the people's land resources every time a lumberjack chopped a tree? How about the miner who digs deep into the earth for coal or the man who builds his own home? Are they, too, the recipients of 'giveaways'? After all, the land in which they dig or build is 'the people's land.' "

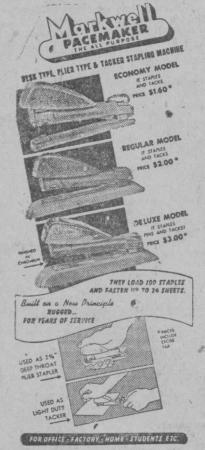

LODI, N.J., MESSENGER: "It would seem to us that if the closed shop does 'create' jobs, it could only be through feather-bedding. And we would certainly consider our own freedom not merely 'curtailed' but practically extinguished if the law forced us to buy a union card and pay dues in order to be allowed to make a living."

SHORT STORY No Fear In Love

Marcia corken pushed the wheel chair into the shade of Dave's favorite oak, and confronted him with: "Isn't there any way I can keep the neighbor's cows out of our flower bed?'

By Evelyn Witter

A shadow passed over Dave's brown eyes as he looked up. She knew he was wishing he could do -Minute something about a lot of things, but he was afraid he couldn't . . . now or ever. But Dave bravely put a tone of levity in his voice. "That's the price we have to pay for living in the country," he said. "Putting up with cows. Might as well learn to live with them. Remember you're the one who was so set on living at the edge of town."

She pressed him close for a moment. She wanted to say: "Please Dave, try to walk! The doctor says if you don't use those legs soon the use of them will be gone forever."

But she didn't say anything. Saying wasn't enough. Dave wanted to walk. It was the fear that re couldn't that kept him prisoner. 'Well, I must fix that fence if we're to have any flowers," she announced with a nonchalance she didn't feel. At the fence she turned and glanced at Dave speculatively. Actually he looked as strong as His shoulders were still straight, his arms muscular.

He had tried to walk once, in the hospital after the polio virus had spent itself. It was the tumble he took the first time he tried to stand that convinced him that he would never walk. "Emotional Dr. Gorham called it. "He thinks he can't walk. Now he must believe he can. It is as simple and as difficult as that."

Marcia gave vent to her feelings by driving a nail into the fence with a vicious crack. The cows kept pushing against it. The garden patch lured their appetites

'Go away!" she shouted at the animal who seemed most bent on knocking down the fence.

Time was running out for Dave, she mused on as she worked. Just last week the physical therapist had confided that Dave's muscle tone was good, but he'd lose it if he didn't use it . . . soon.

"Oh," you pesky creature!" Marcia snapped as the big head pushed against the fence again.

Dave was trying to make those legs move, she went on in the line of thought that occupied her very soul. He couldn't help an emotional block. But never to walk again! She just wouldn't let that happen!

("Maw-w-w!" came the sound so loud Marcia almost dropped her hammer in fright.) The maddened creature was pawing the earth. She threw a quick glance at

Dave. His eyes were riveted on the animal. His face was flushed. She could see this time his thoughts were not for himself, they were for her. Like he had said so many times: "My main concern is for you, Marcia." Why hadn't she thought of it before!

The beast's bellow filled the air. . . . run . . . run for safety, Marcia!" She heard Dave's voice: "Marcia

Marcia felt dizzy, then cold, then hot as she stared at the maddened animal. Her natural impulse was to run, but her reason kept telling her to hold her ground for Dave. He must forget the fear for himself. She closed her eyes. Then suddenly she felt strong arms encircle her. It was Dave! Leaning on her, dragging her, stumbling with her into the shelter of the garden house.

"Dave!" "I can walk! I can walk!" Dave's big frame shook with sobs. Unashamed tears of relief and gratitude streamed down his lean face, and hope for a new future shone through every one of them.

HEIFER PROJECT INC. SETS GOAL

Heifer Project, Inc. has set goals of 1,200 cattle, 500 goats, 400 pigs, 100,000 chicks, and 400 packages of honey bees for overseas shipment to war ruined or agriculturally undeveloped lands for the coming year. The board of directors, meeting in January 12, at New Windsor, Md., recommended that most of the livestock and poultry be sent to Austria, the Caribbean countries, Germany, Greece, Central America, the Middle East, and Turkey.

Plans were also approved for extending appeals for contributions into other countries where livestock is now available. This will reduce shipping costs and will supply animals which are more acclimated to regional climatic conditions.

Thurl Metzger, Executive Secretary, reported that during 1954, 28 shipments were made to fourteen different conditions. shipments were made to fourteen different countries, including Turkey, Iraq, Thailand, Lebanon, Afghanistan, Formosa, Puerto Rico, Egypt, Germany, Korea, Austria, Haiti, Cuba, and France. Animals shipped were 643, cattle, 712 goats, 94,640 chicks, 8 pigs, 720 hatching eggs, 546 rabbits, 43 sheep, 3,000 turkey poults, 2 jacks, and 200 packages of honey bees. A new executive committee was elected, consisting of Carl Klein, St. Louis, Missouri; Dan West, Goshen, Indiana; Corl Leach, Columbia, Missouri; Virgil Deeter, Greenville, Ohio; and J. N. Byler, Akron, Pennsyvania. In ten years of activity since 1944, Heifer Project has shipped 7,592 cattle, 6,618 goats, 225,410 baby chicks, 889 pigs, 217,080 hatching eggs, 47 horses, 546 rabbits, 43 sheep, 3,000 turkey poults, and 200 packages of honey bees.

Farm Scientists Found Dicumarol

While Seeking New, Better Type Hay

Agricultural research, which has done so much for the farmer, often produces other unexpected benefits. University of Wisconsin scientists made a triple-barreled discovery that lead to a new medicine and rat killer. 6

As a part of a federally supported project to produce better varieties of alfalfa and sweetclover, Wisconsin scientists searched for the cause of occasional deaths among cattle eating sweetclover

Their hunt lead to the discovery of a chemical substance in spoiled hay which slowed natural clotting of blood. Sufficient quantities taken in over a prolonged period of time

Agricultural scientists, searching for new and better varieties of seeds, plants, fertilizers, often discover chemical agents and other products of benefit to both the farmer and the worlds of medicine and science.

could cause death in a warmblooded animal.

The scientists, looking for a beneficial use of the chemical, went on to develop a substance now well known to the medical world as Dicumarol. Surgeons use it to prevent blood clots after operations; other doctors treat some heart disorders with it.

Warfarin, a chemical cousin of Dicumarol developed by the same scientists has become the most effective rat killer known. Mixed with a grain bait, rats will eat more Warfarin than other poisons. It is now used all over the world to kill rats which cause untold human misery and enormous economic losses.

Seed Producers Lose Large Share of Crops

Most of this country's legume seed producers lose about half of their year's crop, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which puts the blame on both nature and inadequate harvesting methods.

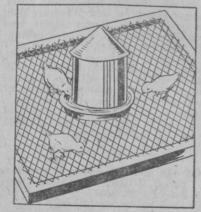

Seeds have a natural tendency snatter from the p ods as the plant matures, and this factor coupled with pelting rains in humid areas (half of our crimson clover and lespedeza seed is produced in the humid Southeast) and strong winds in dry areas is one big reason.

Second big reason is the average grower's dependence on standard grain-harvesting equipment-combines, windrowers, swathers-to harvest the smaller, lighter legume

According to the Department's Agricultural Research bulletin, Oregon crimson clover growers and Michigan alsike clover and alfalfa growers lose 60 per cent of their seed crops. Alabama crimson clover fields with a possible 1,000 pounds of seed per acre often yield less than 300. In South Carolina, 40 to 50 per cent losses of crimson clover and lespedeza are common.

The Agricultural Research Service, conducting tests to find ways to reduce seed loss traceable to equipment, showed in preliminary tests that direct combining is usually better than combining from windrow or swath.

Clean Fountains

When poultry water fountains are placed about they usually become scratched full of dirt and litter. One method of keeping them clean is to use a chicken-wire ground covering. Wire is nailed to a 6x6 wooden frame and the assembly laid on the ground with the watering fountain located in the center,

Gypsum-Sealed Tomb of Cheops Well Preserved

CHICAGO - A fabulous 4,700year-old boat has been preserved with the help of a "magic min-

The boat is the mortuary vessel recently found near the tomb of Cheops, which was designed to transport the soul of this famous Pharaoh who built Egypt's greatest pyramid. The mineral is gypsum, a highly versatile substance that among other things is one of the world's oldest building mate-

The 42 15-ton limestone blocks forming the roof of the 33-yardlong rockhewn subterranean chamber, it has been revealed, were sealed together with pink gypsum. Recognized as one of the greatest finds in the history of Egyptology, the wooden boat discovered inside the crypt was still intact, thanks to the vault's unbroken gypsum

Besides the fine condition of the boat, which looked as if the painters had just finished their job, another sign the seal had never been broken was the complete absence of cobwebs in the tomb. In fact, so airtight was the gypsum seal that when Kamal el-Malakh, Egyptian archeologist who made the dramatic discovery, chiseled the first opening into the tomb, he and the other scientists present at once sniffed a mysterious perfume.

Drifting up through the hole was a strange scent of cedar and incense, an aroma which had enveloped the boat for 47 centuries.

Egyptians believed Pharoahs rode mortuary boats to join the sun-god Re on his journeys through the day and night.

New Ideas Sparse, But Inventors Try

DETROIT - A completely new idea is hard to come by, but amateur inventors keep trying. This is the conclusion of Chrysler Corporation's special staff that works full time going over the 400 ideas, suggestions and inventions that the company receives each month. But only one out of every 30,000 ideas turns out to be both new and usable.

Most of the letters the company receives are not from professional inventors, but from ordinary Americans who feel they have hit upon something really new and useful. Many who send in their suggestions for new features or changes do so merely in the hope that they may be able to purchase cars embodying the idea. Others, believing their suggestions to have commercial value, offer them on a business basis. Only about one out of every 20 of the ideas is patented.

One man wrote in to say the company could use his idea if they would supply him with all the ice cream he could eat for the rest of his life. Another offered his idea for $3,000, a used Plymouth, and a new wooden leg.

Bong Becomes 'Bung' So Visitors Can Sleep

SALEM, Ore. — Curfew still rings, but instead of the once resounding "bong" it gives out in the darkened hours with a very dull "bung." And, the town sleeps

Guests of the Senator hotel complained that the clock recently installed in the City Hall across the street startled them from peaceful slumber every time it tolled the hours through the night.

City engineers were presented a problem. Towns people relied on the clock during the day hours and it would be quite impractical to have the clock strike only in the daytime and not at night.

So they compromised by covering the clapper with a leather boot to muffle the counting of the nighttime hours.

Clotheslines Break Fall From Fourth Floor

CINCINNATI - Judy Combs, 4, rolled off a fourth-floor fire escape while sleeping but was saved from serious injury by a bunch of clotheslines.

The heat had caused Judy's mother, Mrs. Mary Combs to move to the fire escape with the child. While both were sleeping, Judy rolled off, fell 20 feet before landing on the clotheslines and bounced back onto the fire escape on the second floor of the apartment building. Judy, who suffered only a cut on her head, wasn't even crying when a neighbor investigated the commotion and found her.

Near Washout

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. - A drive-in restaurant here is looking for a safer place to hide its day's receipts. An employee recently put receipts in a laundry bag, and the laundryman picked up the bag. Police were able to stop the laundry truck and recover the money just before it was dropped into a soapy bath.

Why hesitate, indeed, when colds attack your flock. Prompt treatment with Ar-Suifa usually causes symptoms to disappear in 2 or 3 days. You'll find Ar-Sulfa easy to use-just add it to drinking water. Ar-Sulfa saves losses in egg production, helps birds shake off colds quickly. Treatment for 3 to 5 days is sufficient. Have Ar-Sulfa on hand when symptoms of infectious coryza (often called a cold) appears. Don't let colds ruin your profits.

(A Voice From Carroll)

The members of the Elmer Wolfe School's Orchestra and Band visited Western Maryland college Monday but next the girls will be wearing morning to enjoy the Little Symphony Orchestra under the direction of student Conductors of the 21st conducting class of the college. Twelve numbers were played by the orchestra with a different student conducting each selection. The program proved very interesting to the future musi-cians from our local school, Mr. Min-Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zimmerman of near Detour visited with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide and family on students to the college.

Mr. Samuel Jenness, superintendent of Carroll County schools is to be congratulated upon his way of hand-ling a difficult situation in one of our schools last week. I refer, of course, to the incident where some students damaged school property in one of those impulsive sprees some teenagers indulge in once in a great while. If more persons in authority in cooperation with the parents would make boys and girls right the wrong they inflict and repay in monetary value the property they destroy, it wouldn't be long before the impulsive pranks would end. A lecture with words has little effect but when combined with firm decisions the lesson charge

We are in the midst of plenty of tax arguments since this is the season when taxes come home to roost. The state of Maryland seems to have its share of tax headaches this year and the reason is too many bad political promises and too many gullible tax-payers. We wonder how Governor McKeldin can be on one side of the ence before election and on the other ide after election and still maintain hose religious principles he talks so much about. Before he was elected the sales tax was "unfair and unnetessary". This week the sales tax

The men of St. Paul's are invited to attend the mid-winter rally of Luthern mereased at least 50%. Come now, Mr. McKeldin, there is a limit to even what the gullible tax-payer will eated on the sales tax issue and you are the man that did it. If the sales ax was bad for Mr. Lane it should be bad for you, too. Maybe an election spent Sunday afternoon at the home. what the gullible tax-payer will e bad for you, too. Maybe an election s far, far away and by that time the oters will have forgotten, or maybe by then the state of Maryland will have grown too small for our Govrnor and he will be off to the U. S. Senate and some one else can solve taken over the jumps because our tax rate is higher than Frederick County. Our neighboring county has the same problems of schools and roads as we do here in Carroll and yet their tax rate is 16 cents less on the hundred. The thing that probably ourts the most is that just recently he assessment on properties has inreased 25 to 50 percent. We know hat most of our tax dollar goes to our schools and we certainly have no quarrel with that. But we may be paying out too much for what we are actually getting in the way of ducation. I am not pretending to t wouldn't hurt if the tax-payer was given a little more information on the

One more item on the tax situation and then I will drop the subject for the present. We fuss about how much t costs to run the Federal governnent, but do you know that less than en percent of our tax dollar actually seent on governing, but that 67% of the tax dollar goes toward preparing for a war or paying on the ones dready fought? Something to think about, isn't it? Wouldn't it be cheaper in the end to spend a few billions educating people for peace? Our rovernment, which after all is you and I, seems to be a santa claus in inancing any country these days that decide to indulge in a war, private or otherwise. Just this past week the little country of Costa Rica got four planes from us for a dollar each. The planes cost the American people no less than a hundred million. Those are the items that keep the taxes soaring-not schools, roads, better housing, or hospitals which are needed so badly yet are skimped so hat preparation for a future war can go on. Along about this time of each year we look for signs of spring peeping through. Yesterday we thought our neighbor was doing some spring plowing when we heard the sound of a tractor in the distance but it turned out that he was picking corn. The field had been too wet and he had to vait until the ground was frozen. The surprising thing is that the crows never found the corn, but the son, Kenny, of Sykesville, Md.

The tragedy of fire uncontrolled was inflicted twice on our community this week. The Compton family lost most of their farm buildings, ma-chinery and crops in a fire of unde-termined origin and the Linthicum family had a fire in their home which injured a small child. HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The meeting of the Carroll County Historical Society on Thursday, Jan. 13, crowded the assembly room of the organization to capacity. The speaker of the evening, F. LaMotte Smith, held the audience with intense interest as he told the story of Carroll County roads, past, present, and future. Mr. Smith, Senior Assistant Engineer of the State Roads Commission, Seventh District, spoke from long familiarity with our highway system, nationally as well as locally. While mentioning the evolution of the road from the buffalo trail to the Indian warpath, to the wagon road of the white man, he concentrated on the macadamized road of modern scientific man and placed major emphasis on local highways. The Shoemaker Road Law of 1904 was cited by Mr. Smith as the first method of State financing of highways. It provided $200,000 annually as State aid for road construction. The money was distributed to the counties on the basis of public road mileage and on the further condition that the county provided a sum equal to that allocated by the Maryland Geological Survey who at that time had charge of all highways was from Piney Grove church to Ridgeville, a twelve foot macadam road, costing $2643.99. The first road built in Carroll County under the State Roads Commission, created by an act of the Maryland Legislature in 1908 was a fourteen foot wide macadam highway running from Hampstead to the Baltimore county line, a distance of 1.12 miles. Completed January 24, 1912, at a total cost of $10,880.07, it is commonly know as the Black Rock Road.

Mr. Smith graphically depicted the growth of the roads through the past thirty-three years by contrasting the record of the Carroll County Maintenance Budget of $49,411.29 in 1921 to that of 1953-54 when it amounted to $237,897.00. The 1921 mileage was 21, at the cost of $525.00 per mile. Of the total miles in Carroll County at present 207.6 are termed Rural, while 12.90 are called Urban. To the 220.5 miles of road already mentioned may be added 765.6 miles of county roads and municipal streets, making a grand total of 986.09 miles in the county.

Mr. Smith concluded with a glimpse into the Carroll County Highway of the future, based on the 12-year construction and reconstruction programfrom 1954 to 1966.

The business meeting was presided over by J. Harry Koller, president of the Historical Society of Carroll county.

The hostess were Mrs. Paul Rob-ertson, Mrs. Melvin Meredith, Mrs. Paul Kuhns and Mrs. Carroll

Shunk. DOROTHY ELDERDICE, Chairman Carroll Co. Historical Society.

Careless Poisoning Kills Livestock

Use Extra Caution, Farmers Are Warned

Even on the best-managed farms, carelessness with poisonous materials used in farming may exact a costly toll among livestock.

The American Foundation for Animal Health believes the risk may be even greater on well-managed farms, because of their greater use of chemical products, as in weed and insect control.

"For example," warns a Foundation report, "cattle readily eat plants treated with sodium chlorate, and the results are often fatal. They will by-pass plants treated with arsenic, but may be poisoned by drinking from puddles in fields recently treated. Various other weed killers are

Fertilizers containing nitrogen should be placed well out of reach of livestock. So should discarded paint pails, old storage batteries, and other products containing lead. An animal may be poisoned after only a few licks.

equipment during the first half of 1954 were steady and averaged $164 million a month. The continued unspectacular but steady pace of farmers' purchases of new tractors and other farm equipment is expected to carry industry sales at retail value to slightly under the $2 billion mark for the full calendar

The tractor industry turned out 160,870 wheel and crawler type farm use tractors between Jan. 1 and June 30 according to Implement and Tractor, the business paper of the farm industry.

During the comparable period in 1953 the industry produced 268,210 farm use tractors. Thus, production of farm tractors for the first half of 1954 was 40 per cent under the production for the first half of

Sales for the first six months. ending June 30 were estimated at $987 million as compared with $1,-187 million for the same period in

It was pointed out that tractor production pace during the second calendar quarter was stepped up to 89,741 units as compared with the 71,129 turned out during the Jan.-Mar. quarter. The increase was necessary to return inventories in distribution lines to more adequate level. Tractor-output for the July to December periods of this year are expected to approximate 160,-000 units, as compared with 146,000 produced during the last half of

Handy wall hangers for the garage or barn can be had by using discarded auto valves. Many Americans Going to Church To See Movies

NEW YORK-All over the country these evenings, you can see lines of people going to the movies. But don't be surprised when you also see it's a church they're entering, and on a weekday! For a great number of Americans are going to church these days to see a good movie.

While these church sponsored films are on various religious subjects, they are professional productions with full dramatic impact. Many are full-length features, some are even in technicolor—and measure up to commercially produced films in every detail. They are made by top-notch film directors, and cast with professional actors. Of course, church leaders supervise script outlines for religious and factual authenticity.

Of the more than 300,000 churches in America, about half are equipped with movie projectors and screens.

These religious movies entertain as well as inspire and educate. They're enjoyed by youngsters and adults alike. These movies carry an important message in a medium we know and enjoy. After all, in Biblical times, the minister or elder gathered a group around for religious stories and discussion. Today, movies tell the stories in pictures as well as words. And the discussion during social hour in the church or parish house when the lights go on is just as serious as in the less mechanized times of yesteryear.

Typical of the deeply dramatic and detailed new movies under religious sponsorship is "The Bible -How It Came To Us." It was made by the American Bible Society and released to churches around the country in June.

Scientists Use $1,900 Can Opener

RICHLAND, Wash. - Scientists use a $1,900 can opener at the Hanford Atomic Products Operation facilities here, operated by the General Electric Company for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The job of opening containers of radioactive materials is "so fantastically complicated" that a series of special tools had to be fashioned for it, according to H. J. Bellerts, plant engineer.

"An entire cycle of operations must be performed to open one can with complete safety from adiation contamination," Bellarts

Use of the tools, however, has been made in many other research programs besides the original one, he points out.

The device is used when special materials must be irradiated in an atomic pile. The materials are placed in aluminum cans and the cans welded shut. After irradiation is complete, the "hot" materials must be removed from the cans and placed in shipping containers, all from behind 10 inches of lead shielding to protect the operator.

The entire can opening process takes approximately an hour and 15 minutes.

Chain Reaction Puts Four in Hospital

LANDSKRONA, Sweden - Alex Holmstrom smacked his car into a tree when a dog unexpectedly ran in front of the vehicle. He and his wife were knocked unconscious.

A woman on a bicycle, passing by at the same time, went into shock and crashed into the same tree. She was also knocked unconscious. The owner of the dog rushed out to retrieve his pet. The dog, excited by all the activity, bit his master on the nose.

Use Sought for New Pure Iron Crystals

OMAHA-General Electric Company has announced development of perfect crystals of pure iron, one-hundred times stronger than any known metallic crystal and inherently resistant to rust.

Explaining crystals as the building blocks that make up metals and alloys, the G. E. spokesman said the perfect crystals represent for the first time metals that are as strong as theory predicts they should be and, as such, "provide a new and exciting dimension in metallurgy.'

Now they're trying to find a practical use for the crystals described as metallic whiskers about one thousandth of an inch thick and an inch or so in length.

Old Timer

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. - Jesse Newman's favorite hobby is driving a shiny black 1919 Milburn electric car with less than 2,000 miles on the speedometer.

Powered by 10 wet-cell batteries, the box-like vehicle has room for five passengers in its plush-lined interior. "Going downhill we can hit about 20 miles an hour," says Newman.

Festive Chocolate-Fruit Pudding

Here's a delicious all-new version of a traditional old-fashioned dessert—"plum pudding"—that's sure to make your Thanksgiving dinner this year a better than ever feast! This newcomer to holiday tables is called Festive Chocolate-Fruit Pudding, and it has a wonderful chocolate-with-a-difference flavor that all your guests will love. Its big taste surprise comes from the rich cream-filled Hydrox chocolate cookies which are combined with dates and orange rind in its making. Here's

Festive Chocolate-Fruit Pudding

1 package (7% oz.) pitted dates, chopped
1½ cups milk 34 cup granulated sugar 1½ cups sifted all-purpose

1 teaspoon nutmeg

1 tablespoon baking powder

4 teaspoon salt
14 cups finely ground suet
14 cups coarsely crushed
Sunshine Hydrox Cookies
3 eggs, well beaten
4 tablespoons grated orange rind

Cook dates with milk in top of double boiler for 15 minutes. Sift together sugar, flour, nutmeg, baking powder and salt. Combine suet, cookie crumbs and eggs. Then combine all three mixtures. Add grated orange rind. Pour into greased, floured 1½-quart pudding mold. Cover mold, or if mold has no cover, tie 2 thicknesses of waxed paper over its top. Steam for 2 hours, or until toothpick, inserted in center, comes out clean. With knife, loosen pudding from sides of pan; unmold on to layer of cookies centered on serving plate, arranged in a circle larger than bottom of mold to give a scalloped effect around base of pudding. Garnish with hard sauce and quartered Maraschino cherries. Serve with hard sauce or ice cream. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

To steam pudding: Use a deep covered kettle with wire rack in bottom. Place the filled covered mold on rack. Carefully pour enough boiling water into kettle to come halfway up side of mold. Cover kettle and bring water to boil on top of range. Turn down heat and simmer until done.

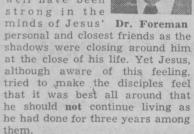

Power of the Spirit

Lesson for January 23, 1955

MOST Christians have wished. at some time or other, that Jesus of Nazareth were still on this earth, living at a post office address, perhaps with a telephone, certainly available for interviews, for lecture and preaching engagements. There are so many questions we should like to ask him, so many debates in and outside the church that he could settle with a word. This feeling may well have been

Who Is the Spirit?

Entirely aside from the importance of the Atonement, it was best that Jesus should, as he put it, "go away." Existing as all human beings do in a body, subject to all the laws of nature, he could be in only one place at one time. But, once away from this earth physically, he could be present spiritually in ways not limited by space and time. Sometimes he said the Father would "send" the Spirit, sometimes he said he himself would send the Spirit. (Compare John 14:26 with 16:7) By the Spirit men would be linked with Christ and the heavenly Father. As Paul was to write later, out of years of Christian experience, "through him (Christ) we have access in one Spirit to the Father" (Eph. 2:18). So this divine Spirit, Cholly God though not the whole of God, is sometimes called the Spirit of Christ and sometimes the Spirit of God. Paul even says once that the Lord 'is" the Spirit (II Cor. 3:17).

Many theologians of the present day express it this way: The Holy Spirit is God at work in the lives of men. The Holy Spirit is sent from God, but also the Holy Spirit is God. Theology has devised a great many complicated ways of explaining this - and the truth may be even more complex than theologians think. But the simple and important truth is that wherever the Spirit lives in a human heart, there God lives, -no faint reflection or distant emissary of

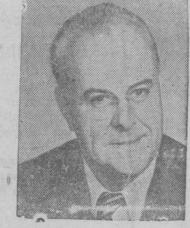

God but God himself. The Spirit in Us

Now there is a question that will naturally come up in the minds of thoughtful people. Is not God everywhere? How can he come or go? How can he ever be absent from any place or any person if he is infinite? The Bible speaks of the Holy Spirit "coming," "descending," being "sent;" also of the Spirit's being "taken" or "departing." If the Holy Spirit is God at work in the hearts of men, how can the Holy Spirit go and come? The full answer to such questions only God himself knows. But we can get a glimpse of the truth from what is said in the Bible. (Of course a full study of these deep matters is not for a short column like this.) God is indeed everywhere by his power and his providence. In him we live and move and are, as Paul said. We stick to that. But God has so made man that we can open or close the door even to God. God does not force himself on any man. As friend, as one who transforms life, who brings comfort and purity and power, he comes only where welcomed. It is possible to grieve the Spirit, yes to drive God out.

The Spirit for Us But it is also possible, a glorious fact, that where the Holy Spirit lives in a human life, that life is transformed into the very image of the divine Life. The Holy Spirit is the Life-changer. In us—and also for us. One of the most remarkable, one of the most uplifting truths we know about the Spirit is that when we pray, though our prayers are limited by our ignorance and tainted with our own self-interest, the Holy Spirit prays with us, prays for us. Over the dull monotone of our stumbling prayers can be heard in heaven the melodic overtones of the Spirit's pure desires for us. Our noblest aspiration still is short of God's aspiration for us. This does not mean we can afford to be careless about prayer. It does mean that as we reach up to God we find that he has first been reaching down to us. It is because of the Spiri' in us that we can pray at all. (Based on outlines copy the by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. Released by Community Press Service.)

GROWING BETTER CROPS

Partners on the Land

The time of Thanksgiving is peculiarly American even though other peoples have celebrated good harvests down through the ages. Much of our Thanksgiving spirit is still attuned to bountiful harvests. In contrast, however, to the early days when people were thankful just to have enough to carry them through the winter, we now have harvests of such abundance, variety and availability that our food supplies are among the wonders of the modern world. In a less spiritual sense, the Thanksgiving season is a national tribute to our agriculture and the food industries based on it. It is a time, too, when special thought may be given to one of the most remarkable of these partnerships on the land.

This is the partnership between grower and canner. In vegetables, fruits, juices and specialties alone this team is producing close to 500 million cases of canned products annually, judging by National Canners Association annual pack statistics. When canned milk. meats and fish are added, this total runs about 624 million cases, according to the 1953 statistics.
