JOIN THE FIGHT AGAINST POLIO

Mothers' March in Taneytown Monday Evening, January 30

The Mothers' March on Polio in the fight against this terrible disease will be held Monday evening, January 30, in Taneytown.

Ladies have been contacted and graciously agreed to make the door-to-door canvass.

Home should have the porch lights on or a light placed in the window between 7 and 9 p. m. and a warm and generous welcome should be given the workers who will call during this time, asking for funds for this humane fight against Polio. The battle against this dread disease that strikes our youth is being won but there is still plenty of work to be done.

Science has won a battle—not a war—and there's still much to be done before we have finished the fight. There are in fact several big reasons why the need is as urgent now as ever before.

It's urgent because polio is still striking, and striking hard. That's reason Number 1. There were 30,000 victims last year, despite the vaccine, and the casualty rolls will be swollen this year by many thousands more. We can't be sure yet when this grim toll will cease. We can't quit fighting until it does.

We will publish the names of the volunteer workers in next week's issue of The Carroll Record.

LEADERSHIP EDUCATION SCHOOL TO BE HELD

The Taneytown Community Interdenominational Cooperative Leadership Education School will be held the next three weeks with sessions each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 7:30 until 9:30.

This school is held annually under the sponsorship of the Taneytown District Sunday School Association which included the Lutheran and the Evangelical & Reformed Churches at Keysville, the Presbyterian and Church of the Brethren Churches at Piney Creek, and the Lutheran, Evangelical & Reformed, United Brethren and Presbyterian Churches in Taneytown. However, any interested workers and teachers and leaders in other congregations in the surrounding area of Taneytown are more than welcome to attend the school and to share in the benefits which it seeks to bring into those interested in the revelations of the Holy Bible and the teachings of the Gospel of Christ.

The sessions January 24 and 26 will be held in the parish house of Grace Evangelical & Reformed Church; the Lutheran Church will be the place of meeting for the dates of January 31 and February 2; while the final nights of February 7 and 9 will be held in the United Brethren Church.

Because of the high calibre of teachers which the Taneytown School has always endeavored to secure there was usually some lamenting the fact that those attending could not be in all the classes which were held and thus profit from the instruction of the teacher of the other class; therefore, this year there will be but one class and all may drink alike from the fountain of spiritual knowledge which refreshes those who hunger and thirst after righteousness, and it is believed that they shall be filled.

The course to be presented is a very practical one and will be of benefit to all regardless whether they be interested in teaching children, youth or adults. The course which is accredited by the International Council of Religious Education is entitled, "Jesus and His Teachings." The purpose of this course is to lead to an increased acquaintance with the main emphasis made by Jesus in his teachings, to a better understanding of the meaning of his teachings for personal and social living today, and to a more active part in carrying his teachings into effect.

The instructor for the course will be the Rev. Mr. Nevin R. Frantz, minister of the Arendtsville-Bigerville Charge of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Adams County, Pa. During the 17 years in the ministry, Rev. Frantz has had a wide and varied experience which will be helpful in making the course practical and most interesting to all.

The usual registration fee of 50c per individual will again prevail, and it is hoped that each church school may have a good representation in the school as enrolled scholars.

CHILDREN ELIGIBLE FOR VACCINE SHOTS

As a result the new priority group approved today will make eligible for poliomyelitis vaccine any child in Maryland more than 1 year old and less than 16 years old, i. e., children from 1 through 15 years old inclusive.

The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide.—Longfellow.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET HELD

The annual Father and Son banquet sponsored by the Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, Md., was held on January 16, 1956 in the Church School auditorium. The President of the Brotherhoods of the Reformed and United Brethren Churches of Taneytown attended as invited guests.

The menu for the occasion consisted of roast turkey with all the trimmings. It was served by the Mite Society of Trinity Lutheran Church and the ladies are to be commended for the manner in which it was prepared and served.

The next scheduled activity will be the regular monthly meeting which will be on February 1, 1956 at 7:30 p. m. The Brotherhood meets on the first Wednesday night of each month. At this time the Past-President of the Maryland Synodical Brotherhood and presently the Chairman of the Mission Fund for the State of Maryland will be the guest speaker. He will explain to us the Mission work that our state has undertaken for the future. The committees urge all members to attend.

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Letters that should have been answered yesterday.

Observer: I hope that you can aid me as you did a friend last year. I am 17 years of age and will graduate soon from High School. I have talent for Dramatics and I do want to go on the stage even if not in the Movies or T.V. Many times on the T.V. I have heard where they try to discourage girls from going out to Hollywood. A great deal depends upon your reply. Thanks a million! D. N. Answer—D.N. you did not state if your parents objected to the entire set up. First of all I do think it would be wise to get in touch with a Dramatic school where you could study and that is the time the executives will discover your real talent. After several years of study, it won't be difficult for you as those very Executives will give you much aid in every direction. It is a hard pull. I know a girl who is on T.V. in New York for big shows as "You Are There" and General Electric" and she has been there for a number of years and still only takes a very small part. The girl's name is "Margaret O'Neal."

Dear Observer: My husband died last February and I am alone with the exception of a married daughter in another city. I have sold my home and now live in a little apartment. I have always had the greatest desire to live in Florida for I love that State. Many of my friends tell me not to attempt to go. Please advise me. G. W.

Answer—You just go right ahead. G. W. and please yourself especially that you like Florida. I know many who have gone there and keep writing for me to move there with my family (when day is done). They love it and so do I!

My Dear Observer:—Will you kindly let me know as well as all your Readers your opinion of Delinquency. My Club met the other day and we all decided to ask your opinion, M.E.R.

Answer—I am glad you asked me that very question M.E.R. and here it is.—First of all, I think wives—especially Mothers belong in the home and to be right there upon the children's return from school and also see them off in the mornings. Have you ever noticed a child upon his return from school opening the front door and calling, "Mother?"

If a Mother is compelled to go out to business for a very good reason that is different but five out of ten just want to go out of the house to work and let Grandmother take care of the picture! Another thing is the neglect of the every day father—who never has time for his children because he is too busy with outside interference which occupies most of his time. It is always a mad rush. It really isn't home any more. Another thing is the method they have in school today stating for the present time. This causes a child to become bewildered as in the Ten Commandments it says, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother!" Too many activities are outside of the home where they should be in the home. Teachers should use more discipline in the school room and not so much as this expression by the Board of Education—"Self Expression!" The teacher must do as the Board of Education advises so there you have it.

Young people should not go on individual dates as they do today but in a group to a nice affair and also be entertained in their own homes and outside guests invited. I do not approve of public showers in the public school, and those awful shorts which are worn today. They should all be abolished.

It is so ridiculous to see a girl in shorts and then in the evening to wear one of those wide hoop skirts. All girls should be sweet and feminine regardless of age! Frankly, I would not want to change places with the girl of today in the manner as to rearing, dressing, school or any activity when I was a girl. I had everything to make life beautiful and did not have my own way about things in general either. We obeyed and did as my parents advised all of seven children! I was that Seventh! No home was any happier and I have the most wonderful memories!

I beg of all fathers to take time with their children!

There is much more M.E.R. but space does not permit in great detail. Have a grand week-end, Folks. Go to Church of any Denomination and always remember that you are worshipping in God's House!

Be most careful when you drive. It is best to start early so you won't have any regrets. Until next week end. D.V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

A CITY WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER

What is it like to live in a city without a regular newspaper?

The people of Detroit know—after a prolonged strike that shut down all three of its dailies. The merchants of the city learned it particularly well—the hard way. They used all the other media to the limit. Some stores put out handbills of their own, to advertise their holiday wares. Yet, though Christmas trade for the country as a whole was well above last year, many Detroit stores did less business. The lack of newspapers was responsible.

Again, the merchant's faced a fresh problem at post-holiday sale time. They had bargains and specials to offer as usual—but moving them was another matter, without newspaper advertising space.

The community problems that arise from lack of newspapers are certainly not limited to the big cities. The smaller towns are equally dependent upon the weeklies that serve them. In the small town, especially, the newspaper is a running record of its history—a thread that constantly touches the lives of all the people who live there. And, despite the newer media, it remains the most effective means of advertising for merchants and others.

Infinitely more important, the newspaper, small or large, is a guardian of our rights, and liberties which is always on duty—Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

TRAER, IOWA, STAR-CLIPPER: "The American principle of freedom of opportunity is related to Jesus' parable of the talents. You remember the story of the three men who were given one, two and five talents. The man with but one talent buried his. The other two worked hard and increased their holdings two-fold."

JOHNSTON, S. C., RIDGE CITIZEN: "There are powerful forces at work in this nation attempting to federalize the schools along with the power industry and others. We should be on guard against these forces."

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "The family doctor is a great institution. His financial reward may not be as great as the specialists' but the personal and professional satisfaction he get in his practice truly is beyond price."

REMINDER CARDS

Approximately 5000 reminder cards were prepared for mailing for the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association by the Civinette Club on January 9 and 10th. Those talking part were as follows: Mrs. David Geiman, Mrs. Fred Wehrenberg, Mrs. Gene Plank, Mrs. Herman Ramsburg, Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Mrs. Samuel Smeiser and Mrs. Philip Wampler. Joseph Kinser and Naomi Kinser of St. John's High School and Charles Rinehart of Westminster-High School also assisted.

To anyone receiving a reminder card who has sent in a contribution within the past week, the Association would like to explain that the contribution has been received and recorded. The cards were in the process of being prepared and it was impossible to remove these names.

During the month of January, letters of appreciation will be sent to all organizations and individuals who assisted in any way with the campaign. The Association would like particularly to thank the Civinette Club, The American Legion Auxiliary, Mr. Charles Magee Mr. Eltinge Reifsnider, Senior Girl Scout Troop #497, and Radio Station WTRR. The Association is also greatly indebted to the late Rev. Joel W. Cock for his untiring efforts as chairman of the 1955 Seal Sale Campaign.

All sections of the 2,050-mile Appalachian Trail were followed by 700 Scouts and Explorers last year.

Grow your calves when the growing is easy!

Size in a cow means MILK to you and size in a cow is easiest to get when that cow's a calf!

At no time in the life of a cow does she grow like she does when she's a calf. That's when Nature gives her that ingrown "want" to grow which, through proper feeding and management on your part, lets a calf triple... sometimes quadruple... her weight in four short months. Purina's calf Chow teammates... Nursing Chow and Calf Startena, have what it takes to help calves grow to half their breeding weight in four months' time. Purina Nursing Chow, a top milk replacer, supplies a baby calf's milk needs during her all-important first 30 days and provides growth-stimulating, disease-preventing vitamins, minerals and antibiotics as well. Purina Calf Startena, a complete calf Chow, has been developed by years of laboratory research and on-the-farm testing to provide carefully-blended nutrients for strong bones, deep bodies and healthful vigor.

Raise your calves the Purina way with Purina Nursing Chow and Calf Startena. Let these famous calf Chows help you grow big calves today... for big cows tomorrow!

CURRENT EVENTS
FIFTY YEARS AGO

A very enjoyable affair was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Brower, near Taneytown, in honor of the marriage of their two sons, Vernon and Walter. Promptly at twelve o'clock a call was made to the dining room. The dinner was very elaborate, consisting of turkey, chicken, beef and vegetables in season which all enjoyed to the utmost. At 4 o'clock all were called to a table laden with refreshments consisting of cakes, wine, lemonade, candy and apples. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brower, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. At the expiration of the term of postmaster S. C. Reaver draws near, interest in the appointment of his successor increases. Petitions have been circulated for the appointment of S. C. Reaver, James H. Reindollar, and Robert S. McKinney, while there are supposed to be two or more "dark horses".

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

MARYLAND YELLOW-THROAT
(Geothlypis trichas trichas.)

RANGE: One of several subspecies that range from Newfoundland and Quebec to Florida and Mexico; it is doubtful if the Maryland yellow-throat goes much farther north than the state for which it is named and southern Pennsylvania; abundant summer resident in Maryland from middle of April to November.

DESCRIPTION: Length about 5 1/2 inches; upper parts olive-green; under parts yellow with conspicuous black mask across face and side of head; female and young mostly plain olive.

BREEDING: Nests in thickets, cattail bogs, meadows and hedgerows; nest made of dry leaves and grasses; 3 to 5 eggs, white with brown or purple spots; two broods annually; female builds the nest. HABITS: Food essentially injurious insects; one of its chief enemies, cats. Search for it in briar tangles, bushes, rarely seen many feet from the ground.

MANAGEMENT: Little if anything can be done, as like all the countless warblers it is a migrant; it of course, as all wildlife, must have food, cover and protection, and an abundance of insects upon which it feeds is essential; bare fields valueless.

VALUE: One of most useful of our insectivorous birds, and, pleasing to the eye, and the song of the male at the nest is musical.

LEADERS DISCUSS NEEDS OF EDUCATION IN CARROLL CO. On Thursday, January 12, a dinner was held at the Mechanicsville school for community and civic leaders...

The principal speaker of the evening, Mr. Milson Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association, outlined the five year program as proposed by the Maryland Congress of parents and teachers...

Among other proposals of the five year program were; increased aid to state teachers colleges in order to aid the state supply of teachers; a retirement program revision which will revise the system established in 1927; a driver education program to train students in the schools to drive better and safer.

A panel discussion by Virginia Condon, Edwin Warner and Jereth Cullen outlined the needs from a student's point of view. The fact that Mt. Airy High School had from 40 to 45 students to a single class, an unequipped chemistry lab and poorly lighted rooms were pointed out.

The dinner was under the direction of Mr. Arthur Griffie and supervised by Mrs. Jane Randle.

Cull Out Infected Birds In Flocks

Tuberculosis Problem Reported in Study

A survey reported at the annual convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association indicates that tuberculosis is a serious problem of poultry flocks.

Dr. C. D. Lee, Iowa State College, reported that in a survey of 468 flocks, 45.08 per cent had birds that were positive to tuberculosis tests. In pullet flocks, the number of positive flocks was slightly over 13 per cent but in flocks where pullets and hens were housed together, 63.34 per cent were infested with tuberculosis positive birds.

"The procedure of marketing all birds at the end of their production year has merit in eradicating avian tuberculosis but one must bear in mind that pullets also may have tuberculosis and be a source of dissemination of the disease to pen mates or to swine. The threat of tuberculosis remains as long as a single infested bird remains on the farm," Dr. Lee said.

It's wise to keep old birds away from chicks, say the experts, since one infected bird endangers the entire flock. Tuberculosis is reported a bigger problem than most farmers realize.

He outlined the following control program:

1. Cull birds daily, destroy and burn birds with possible symptoms of tuberculosis.
2. Abandon old buildings and equipment if disease is extremely prevalent.
3. Brood chicks in clean houses at least 400 yards from old birds. Move to clean range far enough away to avoid contact with old birds and lots.
4. Sell old birds in late summer, or at the end of production year.

Yearly Livestock Losses Two Billion

An estimated total loss of over two billion dollars per year is caused due to mishandling, diseases and parasites of livestock, according to a report made to the Annual Convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Reporting to the convention assembly, Dr. Harry E. Kingman, Jr., the AVMA's official representative to Livestock Conservation, Inc., said the annual loss amounts to about one-fifth of the nation's annual income from meat, milk, hides and wool.

Several research studies and action programs sponsored by Livestock Conservation, Inc. are now in progress. These include the National Bruise Survey; the U.S.D.A. survey on non-skid flooring; the internal ham bruise study at the University of Minnesota; research into liver condemnations by Colorado A&M College; an age of bruise study at Ohio State; a state wide campaign against cattle grubs in Oklahoma; 4-H demonstrations and the work of several standing committees of Livestock Conservation, Inc.

Dr. Kingman also reported that regional offices of Livestock Conservation, Inc. were active during the past year in helping reduce these serious livestock losses.

Big Businessmen

Strange as it seems, recent figures show industry has taken a back seat to agriculture in capital investment per worker. Average investment of $14,000 per worker in agriculture indicates that back of each of the 8.5 million farm operators, hired hands and family workers is a sizeable investment in equipment and materials.

Earlier-Than-65 Retirement Plans Held Unlikely

MINNEAPOLIS—An industrial pension plan which provides an average worker with a life income of $100 a month if he desires at 65, would only yield him $70 a month if he retired at age 60. But the same program, if based on retirement at age 70, would yield him $148 a month, reports the family economics bureau of a National life insurance company.

Agitation for programs of retirement at younger ages such as 60 run into two main objections, says the report: The heavy added cost of providing a given income beginning at 60 instead of 65, and the vast loss in output of goods and services.

Present trends are in the opposite direction. When the figures in a recent U.S. Department of Labor study of 300 industrial pension plans are analyzed, they reveal that of the nearly 6,000,000 workers covered, 42 per cent are under plans which have no compulsory retirement age, and 46 per cent who do come under fixed-retirement-age provisions nevertheless can be retained on the job beyond the specified age under certain conditions.

Of the remaining 12 per cent, 4 1/2 per cent must retire automatically at 65, 5 per cent must retire at 68, and the remaining small fraction at various other ages from 66 to 72. None of the plans calls for retirement prior to age 65.

To provide a male worker with a life income of $100 a month starting at age 60 requires a pension fund of $17,700. If the income begins at 65 the fund must contain $15,150. If not until 70, a fund of $12,700 will do it, the insurance company's report says.

More Ball Players Wearing Eyeglasses

CHICAGO—White Sox outfielder Bob Nieman thinks almost 50 per cent of the major league players could play better baseball with the help of eyeglasses. It's pride that makes them go without, but they'll change when they learn that spectacles can raise their earning power.

"When you need them," says Nieman, "glasses certainly help you pick up a line drive quicker and add 10 or 20 points to that batting average."

Among the players now wearing specs is Del Ennis of the Phillies, who took them up after his batting average slumped, is well satisfied with their effectiveness. He and Nieman agree that the only drawback is a little fogging up when it's necessary to flip sun glasses over the corrective lenses. Catcher Stan Lopata, first baseman Earl Torgeson, and infielder Bob Niece-lotta also use spectacles.

Other well-known eyeglass-wearers are pitchers Bob Rush and Jim Brosnan, catcher Clint Courtney, outfielders Harry Elliot and Bill Virdon, Yankee shortstop Phil Rizzuto and pitcher Jim Konstanty.

Catching Snakes Fun For This 16-Year-Old

FRANKLIN, Va.—Snakes are fascinating to most small boys, but Joe Chase, a 16-year-old schoolboy finds them both interesting and profitable.

The female members of Joe's family naturally dislike the hobby he has pursued since the age of 9, when he began catching snakes. He has since caught thousands of them, both harmless and dangerous, and sold them from 50 cents to $10 each to zoos and private snake farms.

Joe has been bitten by some non-poisonous snakes. His only encounter with a dangerous snake came when a big cottonmouth moccasin struck his hand once—but the fangs hit his fingernails and didn't puncture the skin.

More Than Verse on New Greeting Cards

BOSTON—They're jazzing up greeting cards these days with more than a cheery or sympathetic verse.

For example, one firm plans to use on its cards this year:

- 1,500,000 wedding rings, miniature water and whiskey bottles, and similar trinkets.
- 100,000 plastic baseballs.
- 84,000 sets of artificial teeth.
- 330,000 chips of wood.
- 11,000 simulated pearl necklaces.
- 2,500,000 rubber cubes.
- And 1,250,000 yards of colored ribbon.

Atoms for Peace

CHICAGO—The Armed Forces are seeking ways to harness the atom in small ways for peace and defense as well, says a report from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The Army and Air Force, for example, are testing storage batteries, less than half a cubic inch in size, which utilizes the rays from atomic bomb byproducts to produce electricity.

WHEN should a car be traded in for a new model? There are almost as many answers to this question as there are car owners. Some say that a car should be traded in every three years, others trade every four years, some every other year, a few every year.

There are even some hardy souls who keep the same car for eight or ten years.

Actually, there is a solution for this problem without heated arguments. Here is a table of yearly depreciation values for a new $2,000 car (cars costing more or less can be figured easily from this table also). It covers automobiles which have normal use, not those which have been abused or which roll up a very high mileage. The figures given are approximate.

DEPRECIATION FOR YEAR
New	0
1st year	$445
2nd year	330
3rd year	225
4th year	195
5th year	185
6th year	140
7th year	125
8th year	125

There is sound economic justification for trading in a car at the end of its second year. The difference in depreciation between the first year of a new car and the third year of an old car is $220, as you can figure from the table. Repairs begin to multiply in the third year, replacements of battery and tires become necessary, the car begins using a little more oil and giving fewer miles per gallon of gasoline. Meanwhile the insurance cost has been reduced very little, car licenses and taxes are the same, and garage owners charge as much for old cars as they do for new.

In calculating the cost of a new car most owners forget the cost of "loss of use" during the time their cars are in the repair shop. But the insurance companies put a definite value on "loss of use."

These are the tangible values of getting a new car at fairly short intervals. Every car owner knows the intangible values, and often they are even more important.

Check up car and trade-in values with a good dealer. A good dealer will also give you the back-up service on a new car that you have a right to expect.

WANT TO AID DIGESTION? TAKE TEA AND SEE!

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE BY THEIR VERY NATURE, natural hunters! We're constantly on the look-out for information and clues that will improve family health or add more enjoyment to the family meals. And, so, by virtue of the fact that this is TAKE TEA AND SEE WEEK, we've gone on a safari through an interesting and authentic pamphlet on tea entitled, "Physiological and Psychological Effects of Tea," for information.

According to Dr. I. Phillips Frohman, Chairman, Section of General Practice, American Medical Association, "... after a hearty meal, there's nothing like a good hot cup of fragrant tea. Unlike other beverages which contain volatile oils which retard digestion, tea's tannins (not to be confused with tannic acid) aid digestion. That's why tea with meals leaves you with a just right feeling—not a feeling of having eaten too much..."

Another important bit of information we hunted up is that unless you use boiling water and 1 teaspoonful or 1 teabag per cup, and let it brew from 3-5 minutes, you're forfeiting all the good in the tea leaves. Don't stint on the amount of tea you use, or the length of brewing time. If you like weak tea—add piping hot water after the brewing period.

Another idea we've hunted up for a meal-in-minutes is Yam Crowned Ham Slice. All you need shop for is 3/4-inch slice of ham, a small can of crushed pineapple, and a No. 2 can of yams. While you're at the market, be sure you have plenty of tea on hand. It comes in 1/4-pound (48-50 cups) and 1/2-pound packages (98-100 cups) in both loose tea or teabags. You couldn't find a less expensive clue in a hunt for mealtime enjoyment!

YAM CROWNED HAM SLICE (Makes about 4 servings)

- 1 No. 2 can of Louisiana Yams, Salt and pepper to taste drained and mashed
- 1 ham steak, cut 3/4 inches thick
- 3 tablespoons melted butter 1/2 cup crushed pineapple 1/4 cup brown sugar

Combine yams, butter, salt and pepper; mix well. Place ham on rack in shallow baking pan and spread with yam mixture. Top with crushed pineapple. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 45 minutes, or until pineapple is lightly browned. Taste occasionally during baking period with drippings

Christian Marks

Lesson for January 22, 1956

HOW can we tell whether a person is a Christian or not? Is there anything that marks all Christians? There is faith, of course; but only God can see faith itself. Jesus said: "By their fruits ye shall know them." What kind of "fruits" should we look for, in others and in ourselves, to see whether we are Christians? Only God is the final Judge. We should not be too quick to say brashly, "I know..." Better say, "I have good reason to believe..."

Dr. Foreman

So, what are the good reasons for believing that a person is a Christian? Sticking to our one chapter in Luke for this week, we can take note of three marks of a Christian, that is, of Jesus' followers, those who take his word as in order. They sound quite simple and ordinary; what is extraordinary, what is specially Christian about them, is the thoroughgoing quality Jesus expects.

Helpfulness

Three marks which we can readily see suggested, in this chapter of sayings of our Lord, are: Helpfulness, humility, and honesty. Everyday qualities, aren't they? In fact, you can't get along without them in the civilized world. Nobody likes a man who brags all the time. Nobody likes a man who never lends a hand to anybody in trouble. Nobody likes a man who can't be trusted. Helpfulness, humility and honesty are not in themselves specially Christian attitudes. Jesus certainly did not invent these qualities. They are found among people of many religions and of no religion. What Jesus did was to demand an extraordinary high degree of these everyday virtues. First, as to helpfulness: Not only in the words quoted in Luke 14 but in many other ways and places, Jesus emphasizes how far his friends are expected to go. Most people are willing to help others, if it isn't bothersome or expensive. Jesus' idea of helpfulness was of something quite costly, something that calls for effort, self-sacrifice. Helpfulness as he sees it is not just doing something for somebody who will do as much for you. It means doing for people who never can pay you back. You can't be sure you are helpful as Christ was unless you are willing, as he was, to put out more for others than you are going to get back.

Humility

We all expect humility from other people, and we even practice it ourselves, in the form of courtesy. For courtesy is a form of humility—"After you!" "Please," "Thank you," "Pardon me," and the like, are humble expressions, when you come to think of it. But Jesus expects His disciples to be humble and not just to talk humble. Are you a Christian at this point? A few questions are in order, to ask yourself. Am I always thinking that other people don't appreciate me? Am I a little sore because I don't get the promotions I deserve? When I say, "What's he got that I haven't got?" Do I feel a little peevish, as if the answer I expect is "Nothing"? Have I often been able to forget my own interests on behalf of others? One of the most striking stories about Jesus is told by John, who records that Jesus, "knowing he came from God and was going to God," took a towel and did the "menial" service that every one of his disciples was too proud to do. The highest is the humblest.

Honesty

Everybody knows that honesty is a good policy. But one mark of a Christian is that he will be honest at two points where (strangely enough) most people are least honest; that is, with himself and with God. The parables about counting the cost are really about the importance of facing the facts, admitting to yourself where you come short. Human capacity for self-deception is astounding. Why a man takes himself for a sucker, in other words, is something hard to understand. But it is even more amazing that men will think they can "get by" with God. Those excuses made by the unwilling guests, in Jesus' parable,—did they feel their host? Excuses offered to God are worse than waste of time.

Professor Believes Too Much Leisure Time Poses Problem

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Leisure time can be a liability and for the first time in the history of America, or any other nation, the average U.S. worker has more leisure time than working time.

"And this," says Fred M. Coombs, professor of physical education at the Pennsylvania State University, "can lead to a degeneration such as has befallen nations of the past which have achieved great amounts of leisure time for their peoples."

Pointing to a great need for increased recreational facilities, Coombs explains that the creation of such facilities can have lasting benefits, not only for individuals, but for communities and the people as a whole.

Citing the example of Lake Wallenpaupack, an artificial lake developed in Northeastern Pennsylvania, Coombs says that it not only provides recreational benefits, but has increased real estate values of the area 300 times. Vacationists spend $4,000,000 annually there and now 1,100 cottages are found where there had been 100 houses.

Individuals can do much about their own recreation by interesting themselves in hobbies. He suggests hobbies in which the individual is a participant rather than a spectator, one in which he can be successful since it's no fun to be a dud, and one that the individual can afford.

Family hobbies and activities are important, Coombs believes, since "the family that plays together, stays together."

Blushing Fashion In 16th Century

LOS ANGELES—A lady had to be a lady in the 16th century.

In the eyes of Barnaby Rich, a soldier turned author who earned fame in Queen Elizabeth's day as an expert on the fair sex, any woman who "powders her periwig, paints her face... and deformeth her selfe evry day with new fashions" was anything but a lady.

Rich first achieved fame in 1581 with a best-selling collection of stories dedicated to "the right courteous Gentlewomen, bothe of Englande and Irelande." One of his firmest convictions was that any woman who couldn't blush was not an honest woman.

In fact, wrote Rich, it should be enough to make an honest woman blush merely to image that she cannot blush.

He maintained in his books that his criticisms of women were based on scientific investigations. According to Dr. Paul A. Jorgenson, associate professor of English on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California, and author of an article on Rich, the early authority on women was soundly beaten on at least two occasions in Ireland by angry husbands.

Scientist to Rescue Of 'Batty' House

COVINGTON, Ky.—The household of Mrs. Royal Atkinson was in a constant uproar for more than a week. The place was batty, with bats all over the place. They flitted into the living room at uncomfortable times, causing embarrassment.

Then she read in a newspaper about a woman scientist at the University of Cincinnati who was crazy about bats—even kept them in her refrigerator, for scientific purposes.

Mrs. Atkinson got in touch with Dr. Elizabeth Smith. Dr. Smith's arm was in a cast, but nevertheless she had easy pickings gathering up the bats. She found 22 of them, 11 of them babies, in two clusters at one end of the attic wall. She plucked them off with ease, weighed them, tagged them and then turned them loose in a barn that was already a bat hang-out.

Crows Won't Bother Stringy Melon Patch

CROWS WON'T BOTHER—guide WINNSBORO, La.—Crows are smart, but they're also superstitious, says Hub Dear.

This, he points out, makes them a cinch to keep out of watermelon patches. Just drive stakes at intervals through the patch and stretch string from stake to stake.

"Thinking the string is some kind of trap, he will not light in the patch where the string is placed," said Dear. "The crow is a smart bird but he is also very superstitious."

Dear discovered this version of the traditional scarecrow in 1917 and has used it successfully since that time.

Doubling Up
WILMINGTON, N.C.—Thieves unable to open a motor sales company's safe containing $13,525 during a weekend burglary, solved their problem by stealing one of the firm's new station wagons and carting the loot away.
