1956 CAMPAIGN KICK-OFF DINNER

Carroll County Ass'n for Retarded Children Makes Drive

The Carroll County Association for Retarded Children will hold its 1956 Campaign Kick-off dinner on Thursday evening, November 8, at 6:45 p. m. in the new dining hall at Sunnybrook Farm, Bond St. extended, Westminster.

The Honorable State Senator, Mr. Sherman E. Flanagan, will extend greetings to the approximately 250 guests, volunteers, and Association members expected to attend. Mrs. Jane Cooper who teaches a special class in Baltimore City will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Cooper is well-known for her outstanding work in this field and her ability to speak on the needs and achievements of "her children." The film, No Less Precious, will also be shown.

The educational and fund raising campaign is scheduled for Nov. 11 to 22 which has been set aside as National Retarded Children's Week. During this time volunteers will solicit funds and at the same time distribute literature which explains the true facts concerning mental retardation. There will be a concentrated "New Hope" for Retarded Children in all 12 townships of the county at 7 p. m. on Tuesday evening, Nov. 20. When you give, you will be helping the child up the block—or one block over. And through your gifts, instead of frustration and defeat, some child will find happiness and security—and a chance to lead a useful, productive, and happy life.

During the 1955 campaign approximately $8,000 was collected. Some of this money was used to finance a summer camp, to pay a scholarship for teacher training in special education, to purchase a station wagon for transporting the children, to purchase looms, tape recorders, aluminum cots and other equipment for use by the special classes.

At this point, as a matter of clarification, it might be well to point out that the three special classes in Carroll County are now functioning under the Board of Education; the two Westminster Elementary part of the Westminster class being a part of the Mt. Airy class a part school, and the Mt. Airy Elementary School. In other words, the Board of Education is providing school training for these youngsters while they are in school age. The two station wagons owned by the Association, but operated by the School Board, under contract to the Association and the cost is supported by State schools appropriations.

With this cooperation for the Board of Education, the Association, which was very active in establishing and equipping the special classes, can now focus attention on a program for retarded children before and after their school years.

With proper training and in a protected environment, an estimated 75% of the mentally retarded can become productive citizens. The Association hopes to establish a sheltered workshop which will offer occupational opportunities under supervision.

"Yes, progress is being made in Carroll County in helping the mentally retarded to lead normal lives," tually retarded to lead normal lives," says Mr. Fern L. Smith, campaign chairman. "But much remains to be done. Our jobs have only started. Mentally retarded children and adults need to feel that they are accepted as members of the community. We must help them with our actions to gain this confidence. We must give them a sense of belonging. We must help them to help themselves."

Is there a warmer satisfaction within the human heart than the sense of helping where help can mean so much—and is so deeply needed?

CHURCH FELLOWSHIP

Presbyterian Charge Honors Minister

Monday evening October 29, was a time of fellowship of the three Presbyterian congregations of Emmitsburg, Piney Creek and Taneytown at the home of the Misses Amelia and Elizabeth Annan. The occasion of the meeting was in appreciation of their minister the Rev. Gideon E. Galambos who resigned from this charge to accept a call to Cincinnati, Ohio. It was a time of deep regret and also of good wishes for his work in his new field.

The guests inscribed their names and messages in an autograph book, which was decorated with pictures of the three churches and their dates, it also included an appropriate message asking God's blessing on Mr. Galambos and his family in their ministry. Mrs. Galambos and little Miss Georgia Elizabeth were the high spot of interest, so much so that one young guest was almost constantly standing by in admiration.

The friendliness and sociability of the group were outstanding, aided possibly by the atmosphere of the home, an open fire in the library and fall flowers in all the rooms. The flowers came from the attractive gardens of Mr. John Francis, Mrs. Geo. Brown and the Annans. At one end of dining room table decorated with a beautiful bouquet from Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Pickett's wedding, Miss Elizabeth Annan poured coffee from a silver urn and Mrs. Ralph Hess served punch at the other end. Cookies, nuts and mints were served.

The Boarding Circle of the Taneytown church were the hostesses, Mrs. Robert McVaugh, Mrs. William Abrecht, Mrs. Wilbur Shorb, Mrs. George Ingram, Mrs. Edward Shorb, Mrs. Robert Ingram, Mrs. Thomas Tracey, Mrs. Clifford Stiffler and Mrs. George Brown. Mrs. Ray Crumbacker and Miss Amelia Annan received the guests as they arrived.

All three congregations were well represented. The autograph book with a gift of money was presented at the end. All the guests were loathe to break up the party, hoping it meant only an revoir.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)
With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you always—life's greatest wealth I wish you health near so that I may help to cheer each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Driving along the Susquehanna River last week-end toward Kingstown, Penna. was most colorful and beautiful! The trees all with their dresses of gold and red with splashes of green of all different shades was really a most artistic picture. The Mountains all around! Many vacationers finding it more delightful at this time of the year, the road held many autos. As we would drive toward little towns there were the Amish, Dunkards or Mennonites in their little buggy going to town to shop two and three in the carriages.

The Pumpkins lay in huge heaps at many selling points, and there were all colored "Mums", the ground everywhere was spread as a carpet of brown with the leaves which had fallen previously. As I have stated a number of times that each season has its own type of beauty and many prefer to take vacations at this time of the year. We stopped by on a very high mountain under a tree and was delighted with the view plus the table along that highway and somehow I enjoyed that meal more so than eating in a swanky place.

We took "Sugar" and "Buttons" along and they were wonderful companions. And that reminds me when you take your dog on a long trip be sure you have a special cardboard box for him to rest as he will enjoy it so much more. I took along their, "Pard" (our favorite dog food) and (Continued on Fifth Page)

Mr. Forrer has been on a big game expedition to Africa which was sponsored by North Western University. The purpose of this expedition was to secure motion pictures of hunting wild life in the wilds of Africa and it is this exciting adventure that Mr. Forrer will explain in a very interesting way as you view the film. One of the incidents filmed which almost proved fatal was that of obtaining the picture of a rhinoceros charging the camera. As the individual, who was to attract the attention of and at the last moment get the dangerous wild animal started towards the camera stumbled and fell, it was Mr. Forrer who dropped the animal dead in this tracks right at the point where the man was still lying in the grass. A capacity crowd is anticipated. Immediately following the evening's program there will be fellowship period.

Use Fall Fruits In Low-Calorie Spread

If you've never tasted Cranberry Conserve, you've a treat in store for you. This sweet but tangy spread combines some of the best of the season's harvest of fruits . . . fresh cranberries, apples, oranges and raisins.

Dieters will especially enjoy this delicious conserve for it's sweetened with the new non-caloric sweetener, Sucaryl. Happy result is that it contains approximately one-fourth the calories of the same spread made with sugar. A tablespoon of this spread contains just 12 calories! Had it been sweetened with sugar, the calorie-count would jump to 46 calories per tablespoon.

Best part is that no one can taste the difference. For Sucaryl is the sweetener that has a natural sugar-like taste, even when cooked at high temperatures. This means it can be an important ingredient in all your low-calorie cooking and baking. Unnecessary calories are eliminated without sacrificing any of the eating enjoyment.

You'll want to take advantage of the fresh cranberries now on the market by putting up a good supply of this sugarless spread. Then you'll be able to enjoy this delightful low-calorie conserve for many months to come.

CRANBERRY CONSERVE
(Sugarless)

- 4 cups fresh cranberries
 - 1 cup water
 - 4 medium apples, pared and diced
 - 4 medium oranges, pared and diced
 - 1/2 cup seedless raisins
 - 7 tablespoons Sucaryl solution, or 168 Sucaryl tablets, crushed
- Wash and pick over cranberries. Combine with water in a large saucepan. Cook until skins burst. Add apples, oranges, raisins and Sucaryl. Cook until mixture is of desired thickness, about 30 minutes. Turn into sterilized glasses. Seal immediately.
- Makes five 8-ounce glasses, 16 tablespoons each. Each tablespoon contains 12 CALORIES; 0.1 gram protein; 0.08 gram fat; 3.2 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each tablespoon would contain 46 CALORIES.

Niblets Brand Corn a New Barbecue Treat

EVERYONE LOVES THE FUN OF A BARBECUE. And an important factor is ease of preparation. For that reason, vegetables have been absent from the scene. But now you can have your simplicity and vegetable, too.

All you need do, according to the Green Giant Company's home economist, is remove the top from their "Quick Cooked" Niblets Brand corn, put in a pat of butter and place the can on the grill with the meat. When the butter is melted, the corn is ready to eat. Not only does this become the barbecue's simplicity, but corn is a perfect choice to round out a spicy meat and salad meal—its wholesome fresh flavor and firm consistency providing an ideal contrast.

To add to the fun, a "Sierra Sizzler" barbecue tool set consisting of salt and pepper shakers, spatula, spoon and fork is available for $3.00 plus two labels from either the Niblets Brand corn or Mexicorn Brand corn. Smartly styled in blued steel with copper spiralled bound wooden handles and leather tongs for hanging, the set has a retail value of $7.00 (ANS)

CURRENT EVENTS
FIFTY YEARS AGO

Rabbits and partridges are said to be rather plentiful, this year. According to the weather bureau, Thursday was the coldest Nov. 1, for twenty-one years.

A Halloween party was held at Miss Eileen Schwartz's on Wednesday night and was attended by a score of young folks who greatly enjoyed an appropriate program of amusements and refreshments. Ghost stories, fortune-telling, and "spookish" things generally, were indulged in.

Rector-Simpson.—On Nov. 1, 1906, at Detour, by Rev. T. J. Kolb, Mr. Horace C. Simpson and Miss Stella S. Rector, both of Taneytown, were married.

Murray-Hesson.—On Tuesday, October 30, 1906, the Bethel Church of God, at Mayberry, was the scene of a very pretty wedding. Promptly at one o'clock, to the strains of Lohengrin march, which was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Wm. E. Keefer, the bride, Miss Ida E. Hesson, came in with her matron of honor, Mrs. Claudius Barrick, where they were met by the groom, Rev. L. F. Murray, pastor of the church and his best man, Mr. Claudis Barrick, when Rev. Mr. Crawford, of Uniontown, performed the wedding ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party and over one hundred guests returned to the bride's home, where a reception was held. In the evening the well known Mayberry band arrived and rendered some fine selections. Rev. and Mrs. Murray will reside in Woodsboro, Md., where he has a large Pastorate and at which place a reception will be given upon their arrival.

Middleburg.—A very pretty wedding took place on the 22nd of Oct., at the home of Elder Grossnickle, of Ladiesburg. The contracting parties were Miss Alice Delphay and Archie Eyer, both of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Eyer had their house furnished and ready, so they went to housekeeping at once.—Walter Smith moved, last Monday, to Linwood.—Percy Ohler, Seaman on the U.S.S. Kearsarge, was home on a furlough. He spent a week with his father, Wm. P. Ohler, of Bridgeport, and is now visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Mackley.—The small boys had a good time Halloween throwing corn, removing gates and bridges.

Low Feed Rations Don't Halt Growth

Heifers Can Catch Up When on Full Feed

Latest results of growth studies with identical-twin beef calves show that young heifers and steers 3 to 4 months old can be kept temporarily on rations that barely maintain their weight—or even result in some weight loss—and yet can recover later on full feed to make economical gains and high-quality beef, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

These findings supplement earlier results from twin-calf experiments which demonstrated that beef steers kept on maintenance rations between the ages of 6 and 12 months could nevertheless produce good beef economically later when sufficient cheap feed was made available. Many animal husbandmen formally believed that unless calves gained steadily at least half a pound per day their ability to make profitable gains would be permanently impaired.

Heifers on low fed rations can make later gains if their short diet includes proper minerals and vitamins.

U.S.D.A. researchers feel that continuous feeding for rapid growth is desirable for beef cattle whenever it is economically feasible, but their work shows that there need be no loss in growth potential as a result of low calorie intake for 3 to 6 months during the year, so long as the animals' limited forage is supplemented by sufficient protein, minerals, and carotene (provitamin A) to keep them healthy.

Yeast Mold Causes Mastitis in Cows

Certain types of mold can cause mastitis in milk cows, according to a report by the American Veterinary Medical Association. It has heretofore been recognized that bacteria are the prime cause of this condition which results in farm losses in the millions of dollars each year.

The Association reports a case in which four heifers in a milking herd became infected with mastitis which was traced to a yeast mold.

A complete veterinary medical examination and inspection of the herd revealed good management practices and good herd sanitation. There was only one exception, and that was blamed for the outbreak of the mold-caused mastitis.

The veterinarian discovered that the teat cup inflations for the milking machine were stored dry between milkings. Cultures made from the dry teat cups produced a growth which could not be distinguished from the molds found in the infected udders.

The infection stopped spreading promptly after the teat cups were stored in 0.5 per cent lye solution, the report says. Apparently this solution killed the mold and prevented their introduction into the udder. The veterinarian also had the Farmer stop making promiscuous infusions of the udders with antibiotics since they are not effective against molds, the report added.

How Advertising helps you

BY CHARLES B. ROTH

What Do You Know?

YOU have heard it many times. Two persons will meet. One will say: "What do you know?" It is a common everyday American greeting.

It would be a good idea if each of us would ask ourselves the question, "What do you know..." and add to it this phrase, "because you have advertising to help you?"

You would be astonished if you were to check on your store of knowledge to find out what much of what you know does trace to the ads you read in the newspapers. For the newspaper has become the great fountain of knowledge.

For example, how far would "new" things like radio and TV, vacuum cleaners, ammoniated tooth paste, chlorophyll, vitamins, hormones, wonder drugs, popular best sellers, modern furniture, and whatever else you might want to name, have gone without the power of advertising?

Before advertising entered our lives so strongly, so frequently it took years for a new idea to "take hold." Now new ideas are taking hold almost every night. There has never been a limit to the capacity of the American public to absorb new ideas. There was, until advertising developed fullness, a limit to the number of new ideas which could be presented to the American public.

Of late years there has been a craze for European cars, and a new breed of Americans who spurn anything made in America and term it "Detroit iron."

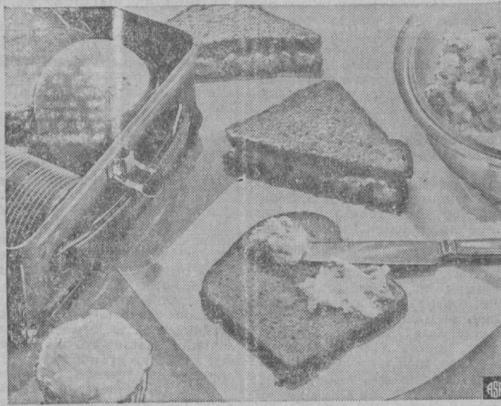

While there is unquestioned merit in many of these imported automobiles, their design or lines somewhat resemble the lines of cars which Americans were exclaiming about in 1933.

One of the reasons for the continued acceptance of these old lines, to take only one example, by Europeans is that they haven't had advertising to teach them what's new.

But here in America, with the force of advertising prodding us to seek the new, always the new, we have no chance to become static or content.

Argue as much as you like about whether that's good or bad, the fact remains America is ahead of the world—in practically every thing!

Double-Up On Lunch Box Oranges

Every homemaker who has lunch boxes to pack—whether for the man of the family or youngsters going to school—knows that oranges are wonderful travelers. There are several good reasons why fresh whole California oranges have been lunch box favorites for generations. Dad and the children like that fresh flavor. Mom likes to tuck an orange in the corner of the lunch box because she knows this citrus fruit is good for her family. She knows that the Vitamin C and bio-flavonoids in oranges work together to help prevent colds and infections—and that the whole orange contains ten times as much of the bio-flavonoids as the strained juice. Another point in their favor is that California oranges are easy to peel, in addition to being practically seedless.

Anyone packing lunch boxes is especially aware of the importance of varying the menu. Oranges come to the rescue of homemakers looking for a different kind of sandwich filling. Here's one made of the whole orange (for added nutritive values) with cream cheese and raisins or crisp bacon. In the food chopper, grind one whole orange, peel and all; blend it with 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, a dash of salt, and 3 tablespoons chopped raisins or crisply fried bacon. Spread it on wheat bread, and you have a delicious sandwich.

Make Christmas Sweets Early

Be smart and make your Christmas sweets before the last-minute rush gets under way. Orange Marmalade, made now and put into glasses, small jars or crocks, will be all ready for a bit of fancy packaging, or for tucking "as is" into family boxes or stockings. Of course you will want to use liquid fruit pectin to make delicious marmalade the quickest and easiest way.

Orange Marmalade Yield: about 7 medium glasses (3 1/2 lbs. marmalade) 3 cups prepared fruit (2 oranges, 2 lemons) 5 cups (2 1/4 lbs.) sugar 1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin First, prepare the fruit. Remove skins in quarters from 2 medium-sized oranges and 2 medium-sized lemons. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife or scissors slice remaining rind very fine, or chop or grind. Add 1 1/2 cups water and 1/4 teaspoon soda; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Section or chop peeled fruit; discard seeds. Add pulp and juice to undrained cooked rind. Simmer, covered, 10 minutes longer. Measure 3 cups into a very large saucepan. Then make the marmalade: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 7 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover marmalade at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

Just how many children admire their parents enough to follow in their footsteps when it comes to choosing an occupation? Not many in this modern 20th century, especially if they are college graduates. A youth research organization just completed a survey among six thousand girls and boys recently graduated from college and found that only 8 to 50 percent planned to follow the same careers as their mother or father did. The data on the profession was shunned by all except 8 per cent while strangely enough 50 per cent of college-trained sons and daughters of farmers were ready to return to the family farm.

Days of course must not be taken too literally and this particular one seems to be out of step with facts...

especially the part where so many college graduates are eager to return to the family farm. One of the factors at present in the bleak outlook on family farms is that so few of the younger people want to make farming a life's work. Just in our own small farming community in the last four years no less than 25 boys and girls have left the family farm for some other profession or work.

Frederick County seems to be having quite a problem with Hallowe'en vandals. They roam the country side setting fires and destroying crops and property. While Hallowe'en pranks can be overlooked, destroying someone's hard earned property cannot be classified as fun, or a prank, and the guilty parties should be dealt with severely.

We read this in a popular magazine: Remedy for removing vermin from children's hair—"Soak peoberries in whiskey for a day or two—then rub into scalp. The trouble-makers will disappear at once." We wouldn't be surprised if the mixture made everything disappear—especially the hair and scalp.

The Christian Endeavor group of Mt. Union Church entertained the Keysville group Monday evening at a Hallowe'en social in the parish house. About twenty-five young people came in costume and enjoyed the games and refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bohn chaperoned the group.

Mrs. Harry Schue died Monday morning at her home in Union Bridge after a long illness. She was one of the outstanding mothers of the community and her death will bring sorrow to many. To the Scheu family we extend our deepest sympathy and understanding.

Mrs. Donald Warrenfeltz has returned to her home after a three weeks stay in the hospital. The Junior class of the Elmer Wolfe school held a bake sale Saturday and in spite of the miserable weather made a profit of over thirty dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Myers and children, of Towson, were visitors of the Russell Bohns on Sunday. Miss Barbara Nusbaum was the guest of Miss Nancy Roelke over the week-end.

Some of our citizens journeyed to Westminster on Saturday to see Senator Kefauver, but due to the bad weather and crowds along his route he was delayed and was unable to keep his appointment on time. However he finally arrived but some people didn't get to see him. Its pretty difficult for a candidate to stick to a time table.

And speaking of candidates, in the coming election on Tuesday it seems a tragedy that our good State should be in the unfortunate position to have two men running for the U. S. Senate without any good reason for either one to be on the ballot. Neither party has nominated a man of sufficient talent to represent our great State. It is a fine dilemma for a voter to find himself in. What can one do when in fairness to himself and to his State he feels he can't vote for either candidate? Write a name in? Stay home and not vote at all or vote for the party and not the candidate? Maryland used to have outstanding men in the U. S. Senate and congress, but for one reason and another, not in our State has sunk to a new city. From the counties to Baltimore take place, on both sides of the aisle. The young people in both parties should elbow the dead wood out of the way and take over. Its too late for this election but maybe the next time the young Democrats and Republicans will have more to say about the candidates.

Do you like the new homes done in yellow, or green or pink? They seem gay and light-hearted but I still prefer the white clap-board homes with apple green shutters. They seem so serene and restful—just the kind of homes one can live in forever.

Children today start to school with a little advantage over past generations. They already know two letters... TV. "What were you in civilian life?" asked the commanding officer. "Happy, sir" replied the new recruit.

The annual supper at the Mt. Union Church is scheduled for Nov. 17. Mark the date on your calendar. Failures are divided into two classes—those who thought and never did and those who did and never thought. John Charles Salak.

See you at the polls next Tuesday. May that which is best for our country happen on that day—Ruth Roelke.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, near Detour returned to their home Sunday after having taken a very enjoyable trip into New York State. They visited with their daughters-in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, in Binghamton, N. Y. The Zimmermans surprised Mrs. Zimmerman's brothers and sisters, as well as other relatives and friends. Tupper Lake and Lake Placid are near the home town of Mrs. Zimmerman which was Corey, N. Y. and these late vacationists spent some time in this section. Other points of interest seen by the travelers in this part of the country, which is nothing else but mountains and lakes, were Ticonderoga, Lake Champlain, Lake George and the Bear Mountains. Had it not been for the warm spell in the Adirondack Mts. the Zimmermans at this time of the year would have been traveling in snow. Saturday night and part of Sunday were spent with Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers, their daughter and husband, of Dunroming Road in Baltimore.

One of our local farmers, Donald Hoff, won third place for 1955 in the efficient production contest. This contest was sponsored by the National Dairy Products Corporation. Mr. Hoff's prize was $25.00.

Mrs. Marie Fitze and her friend of Baltimore, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide, Sunday eve. Quite a number of persons from this community attended the dedication service held at the Mt. Tabor Rocky Ridge Church on Sunday. The church was full of friends, former members, fellow parishioners who joined in the joyful spirit of the dedication of this work of labor and love to the Lord. The educational building is very nice, but the beauty and the spacious look and feeling of the main building has to be seen to be appreciated. Pastor Yastie's parents and his paternal grandmother of Baltimore were present for the dedication.

The Keysville-Detour Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. Clarence Jackson, Mt. Union, on Oct. 25. Miss Langsdale gave the demonstration on "How to Construct Drapes". The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earle Wilhide in Thursday night. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Two carloads from the Keysville Lutheran Church attended the State Sunday School Convention held in Hagerstown on Saturday. I understand that the Sunday School Superintendent, Carroll Kiser, plans to have a teachers meeting soon to talk over information received at this convention and to see if any of it can be used in our own Sunday School.

"Did you see the big cross formed by the pictures of Missioners who are to do the preaching during the Baltimore Lutheran Evangelistic Mission?" "The Lutherans are having a big time in Baltimore this week", "Haugh's are having their Evangelistic Mission in December", these are statements and questions which attract my attention because this Westminster Area group of Lutherans is getting set for its Evangelistic Mission to be held in February. It is my hope that there will be enough publicity on this so that schools and other organizations will wipe their date calendar clean from Feb. 24th thru 28th, 1957 so that Lutheran families can go to church together at this time.—Mrs. Carroll Wilhide.

SCOUT NEWS The scrap paper collection which was to have been made Saturday, Nov. 3, has been postponed due to a temporary market surfeit, and a new date will be announced in the near future by members of American Legion Troop 348, Taneytown, Md.

Explorer members elected new officers October 22 at their regular meeting presided over by Robert L. Bowers, Adviser. Re-elected Senior crew leader was Harold W. Slaybaugh, while Robert S. Fitz was chosen Deputy senior crew leader, and Phillip Garrett of Crew 1 and George Abrecht of Crew 2 were newly named Crew leaders. Carroll Hively was again elected to the post of secretary.

An exhausting round of "Keep-away" opened the October 29 meeting with teams chosen by Bowers and Garrett, followed by a business session conducted by the adviser. Slaybaugh then directed a very close "theme" contest in Compass dash, Crew 2 winning by a single point over the leaders and Crew 1 in that order. He and Fitz will have charge of the program for November 5 in the absence of Adviser Bowers.

The Boy Scout straw ride October 27 was made possible through the generous equipment aid of Messrs. Lloyd S. Fitz, William Houck, and Norman R. Sauble, with Larry Hively doing a capable job of tractor driving over his planned route.

The theme and contest will be selected by the Foxes under Fred Sherman, ceremonies and clean-up to be handled by the Raccoon patrol under John Myers, with a game session to be the Panther province under the leadership of Grant Harman.

McCULLOCH SAW-DRAW CONTEST A new contest in which 150 McCulloch chain saws will be given away free is announced by Tobias O. Brown, McCulloch dealer in this area, whose store is located at East Baltimore St., Extended.

The contest—called the Saw-Draw—will be open to all persons over 18 years of age, and will last from November until February.

To enter the Saw-Draw, a contestant need only secure an official entry blank from the local McCulloch dealer, fill it out, and mail it to McCulloch's home office.

Each winner will be awarded a D-44, the lightest and most powerful direct-drive chain saw on the market.

This brand-new power tool is so powerful and well-balanced that it is so powerful to feed itself right into the wood," the dealer said. "In fact, we call it the saw with the light touch because it requires so little effort by the operator."

It is not necessary to purchase a saw to enter the Saw-Draw, the dealer emphasized. But if a contestant has bought a new McCulloch chain saw prior to his name's being selected he will be awarded three times the advertised list price of the saw he purchased.

The Saw-Draw is not open to persons who live in areas in which such contests are taxed or prohibited, nor is it open to McCulloch employees, distributors or their families. Winners' names will be posted in McCulloch dealers stores about two weeks after each drawing.

a can opener and their dish and they ate their special dinner, along with us. Then we took real movies which we will show at a later date. One does not have to go far to enjoy a week-end. There is so much to see in the East.

Upon arriving at the College, I never thought I would live to have young girls whom I met for the first time right there curtsy to me! That I have not seen for many years with very few exceptions. Wyoming Seminary is a Methodist "Prep" school and one of the very finest. There are girls and boys from far away places even from across the sea. From South America and Korea! They have a THREE MILLION DOLLAR endowment!

Last week was the lovely annual Harford County "Fiesta" for the benefit of the North Harford hospital and it was truly wonderful to see all those women of the entire County at work selling which articles they had collected for the grand cause.

There was the "Apron Fair" of Delta; "The Country Boy Score" of Bel Air, "The Kitchen" by the Aberdeen Ladies, "The Fish Pond" by the Girl Scouts of Harve de Grace, "The Toy Table" from Perryman, "Your Photo" by Mr. Mans, "The Bake Goods" by the Darlington ladies, "Unit Cake Table" by Bel Camp, "The County Grab Bag by the Doctor's wives from all over the county, "The White Elephant Table" of Havre de Grace, "The Book Mart" from the Churchill ladies, The Magazine and Marble booth of the Boy Scouts of Harve de Grace and the "Gifts" from Forest Hill and Jarrettsville.

There was the grand kitchen with the excellent arrangement and system for the meals which were served including dessert for the price of one dollar! And the grand "Snack Bar" A lovely doll dressed most beautifully in a decorated cast iron cart all done up in pink which was given away by a purchase of a ticket. Those ladies and all who take part deserve much credit as they are giving their entire day and evening.

Well, Gentlemen I hope you did not miss Rocca last week on T.V. at the Coliseum. As to my thinking his opponent should have been disqualified keeping Rocca outside of the ropes so long and with those continuous thumps! Eh? That gentlemanly Rocca was thoroughly disgusted.

Ladies, if you desire to make some money for your church W.S.C.S.—why not give a "Tupperware" party? There are so many splendid new pieces which have been added and they all go over in a big way.

Have finished the book by the Duchess of Windsor and you will love that Duke all the more after reading, "The Heart Has Its Reasons!" He truly is a KING with all capital letters!

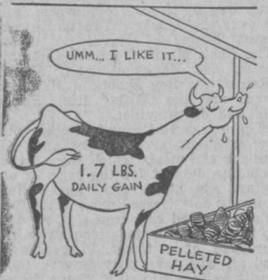

Whatever you see don't miss "Tea and Sympathy" the movie taken from the play with Deborah Kerr and John Kerr (no relation). It is most unusual and not what you really have been thinking. The performance was brilliant! The class boys called him a "Sissy" because he was cultured and refined! Loving music and books. The school master is insanely jealous and has evil thoughts because his wife has taken a personal interest in the young man. Betcha, that will bring an Oscar this year!

Pelleted Hay Best in Tests Eat Better, Gain More in 119 Days

Pelleted hay fed to steer calves was worth $15.68 a ton more than the same hay fed long or chopped in experiments at Dixon Springs, Illinois last winter.

George Cmarik, extension cattle specialist at the experiment station of the University of Illinois, reports that steer calves fed pelleted hay gained 206 pounds over a 119-day feeding trial. Average daily gain for those calves was 1.7 pounds.

Calves seem to enjoy eating pelleted hay—and they thrive well on it.

At the same time, similar calves fed long hay gained 75 pounds a head, on the average, and those fed chopped hay gained 74 pounds a head for an average daily gain of about .6 pound.

Calves fed the same forage put up as silage gained only 5 1/2 pounds during the test. After 28 days on silage alone, these steers lost 48 pounds a head because they couldn't eat enough of the high-moisture silage. Station researchers added five pounds of chopped hay daily per head to get any gain at all, but the gains still were not satisfactory.

Cmarik points out that pelleted hay is a highly concentrated feed, and the steer calves apparently liked to eat it. They ate an average of 15.7 pounds of the pellets a day. That's about 3.5 pounds more feed than you'd normally expect steers of their age and weight to eat. Steers on pelleted hay needed only 826 pounds of dry matter to put on 100 pounds of gain. The pellets produced 175 per cent more gain on 50 per cent more total feed eaten.

Pigs Fare Better When They Wallow

Pigs that can keep cool in a wallow will gain faster and boost your profits.

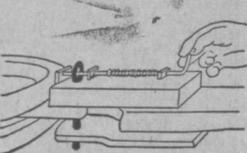

S. W. Terrill, head of the swine division at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says tests at the Louisiana Experiment Station saved 35 pounds of feed for 100 pounds of gain with hog wallows.

In the tests the Louisiana researchers put eight 79-pound barrows and gilts in each of the two lots for a 73-day feeding period. Pigs with no wallow averaged 1.46 pounds of daily gain and needed 386 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds of gain. Pigs with wallows averaged 1.80 pounds of daily gain and ate 351 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds of gain.

Pigs with wallows ate more feed but gained faster. They followed a feeding pattern of cooling off in the wallows and then eating at the self-feeders. Pigs without wallows seldom came out from their shade to eat between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Body temperatures of hogs with wallows averaged 104-105 degrees to 106-106 degrees for the hogs without wallows.

Safety Hitch

This safety wagon hitch is made by welding a loop to top of drawbar pin, then welding 2 guide sleeves to wagon hitch to hold a sliding 1/4" or 3/8" rod. A spring holds the rod in a forward position. The operator moves the rod back to remove pin and the large loop makes it easy to pull out. Spring returns rod.

SHORT STORY

Perhaps Someday

By Inez G. Lock

"I've got spurs that jingle, jangle, jingle, as I go riding merrily along," sang Slim Tucker as he drove the big truck along in the humming traffic. It was opening day of the Southwestern Exposition and Rodeo, and he was burn-in' leather for Fort Worth. Well, maybe not leather exactly, more like rubber on the big double wheels. Anyhow, there before him as he reached the crest of a hill coming in from the West was once again the skyline of them all.

Oh, he'd seen bigger and fancier places during his rodeo tours, but they didn't seem to count. Nor was he impressed with New York; except with a frantic desire to get out of the golden place as quick as his two long legs and a fast train could carry him. No humans in their right minds could live like that, he figured.

But as for old Cowtown, just thinking about the next few days there started him in again even louder. "Oh, I've got spurs . . ." and he could hardly wait to get 'em back in the stirrups for the big doings that night. This year he sure intended to show them a fancy thing or two about roping and bulldogging. If Sally Sue asked him, might join in a few extra quadrilles, too.

As he pulled into a lane leading to the stock barns near Will Rogers Coliseum, he was thinking how good it all looked. Guess seeing so many people all at once was a pretty fair change from mesquite, rattlers, gophers and bawling cows; especially the pretty fillies in their bright finery. Yep, it was a smiling, howdyin' place, and it was gonna be some ten days. He sure hoped his boss wouldn't keep him so busy with the Flying R stuff that he didn't have plenty of time.

The sun was bright, the sky was blue and cloudless as Slim, in fresh blue jeans, red silk shirt, green tie, second best boots and battered Stetson, set out for town a couple of hours later. At the corner of Seventh and Houston, he absently rubbed his leathery cheek and sighed. What a sight for sore eyes. Bright flags and banners waving everywhere, and some of the finest looking fifteen and twenty gallons he'd seen in many a day. Maybe he could manage a new one to go with the fancy stockman's suit and splashy boots he intended to use his prize money for this time. That is, if . . .

"Jim! Wake up! You wanted to get down to the office early this morning. That Alston contract is due today."

"Wh . . . what, pardner?" "Pardner? Jim Fisher, that book of western trash you stayed up reading has you dreaming again. That Texas rodeo last year didn't help any, either, except to put more impossible ideas into your head. Come on now, wake up. Remember this is New York, not the wide open spaces, and you mustn't forget your appointment."

Jim Fisher rolled over, looked around at the sumptuous furnishings of the room, and sighed regretfully. How could he help remembering that instead of an irresponsible cowpoke, he was a prominent advertising executive, complete with fashionable home, ambitious and beautiful wife, pace killing schedule—and too dumb to quit.

As his wife vanished into her room again, he whispered half aloud, "I'll get the new contract as usual. You and the children will have another pile of money to spend. And I'll go on doing something I hate, seeing people I don't like, ruining my health, because I am James Fisher, III. But even you and Fisher, Incorporated can't stop one thing. I can dream, can't I? And some day, maybe someday . . . what's that, Margot? Yes, dear, I'm coming."

Historic Election Cake

Here is a modern Spry version of America's traditional Election Cake. Baked in a generous tube shape, delicately spiced with mace and nutmeg, and deliciously fruited with the traditional "raisins of the sun" and candied citron.

- 2 pkg. active dry yeast 1 teaspoon mace 1/4 cup lukewarm water 3/4 cup Spry 1 teaspoon sugar 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind 1/2 cup boiling water 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed 1/2 cup milk 2 3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour 1/2 cup milk 2 3/4 cups sifted cake flour 3 eggs, unbeaten 1 cup granulated sugar 1 cup seedless raisins 1 1/4 teaspoons salt 3/4 cup candied citron, diced 1 teaspoon nutmeg

Sprinkle yeast in lukewarm water, add 1 teaspoon sugar and let stand until mixture is frothy (5-10 min.). Pour boiling water over brown sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in dissolved yeast. Add 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm place until light and bubbly (30 min.). Sift cake flour and next 4 ingredients together into large mixing bowl. Add Spry and next 4 ingredients and beat 300 strokes (3 min. on mixer at low speed). Scrape bowl and spoon or beaters once during mixing. Add light yeast mixture and beat well (1 min. on mixer at low speed). Add raisins and citron and mix well. Turn into Sprycoated 8 1/2" tube pan and let rise in warm place until light (about 1 hr.). Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 55-60 min.

5 COURT ST. WESTMINSTER, MD. PHONE 1491

COMMITTEE Erman A. Shoemaker, Chairman Stanley H. Tevis, Jr. Mary E. Hull Robert L. Bixler

Oct. 30, 1956

TO THE CITIZENS OF CARROLL COUNTY:-

The privilege of the vote is the very foundation stone of this nation's strength and greatness. It is the very essence of our freedom. It represents our highest responsibility to our country.

A nation, like a business, succeeds or fails in time of crisis according to the strength and ability and vision of its leaders.

Therefore, if you find it impossible to get to the polls on November 6th, please call a local Republican Committeeman or worker, and he will see that a way is provided for you. The telephone number of County Republican Headquarters is Westminster 1491.

To those voting for the first time we extend a hearty welcome, and call your attention to the following suggestions:

1. GO TO THE POLLS EARLY IN THE DAY AND VOTE.
2. Study the picture of the voting machine in your local newspaper and in the polling place before you vote. There is also a miniature machine at each polling place. Try it out.
3. It requires three levers to vote the Republican ticket. Be sure to vote for all three.
4. You pull the lever down above the name of the candidate. If you make a mistake, push the lever back into place and pull the proper one down.
5. Do not hurry. It is very simple, but if in trouble consult the officials. They will help you.
6. Perhaps some of your relatives and neighbors cannot get to the polls. Take them with you. Your reward will be "more votes for better Government".

Sincerely yours, REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

Suffering for Us

Lesson for November 4, 1956

IN THE days when a running man could overtake a carriage that was in no hurry, a Christian man named Philip was led to run up close to a very handsome carriage—they called it a chariot—in which sat a man reading aloud to himself. Something about the way he was reading made Philip, now jogging along beside the carriage, ask the rider a question. For the man was reading aloud from a book which is no doubt owned by every reader of this column, a book which to this very day outsells all others, every month of every year: the Bible. Philip didn't ask the man where he got the book, or what he thought of it, much less what the book was. Philip asked, "Do you understand what you are reading?" The distinguished stranger admitted he did not. But he was so eager to find out that he invited this unknown pedestrian to ride with him. He was reading a chapter from Isaiah, the very same one that is our lesson scripture this week. It is all about "my servant," that is, God's servant. But who is this servant? The prophet himself, or somebody else? Could Philip please explain?

A Prophet Sees Christ

The book is 25 centuries old, the story of Philip about 19 centuries ago; but that chapter is still a favorite with Christians. The Church today gives essentially the same answer Philip gave: this is a prophecy about Jesus. Even those Christians who doubt whether the prophet originally set out to describe the historic Jesus of Nazareth agree that the picture fits Jesus remarkably well. Most of the Christian church says not only that, but Jesus is the only person the description fits remarkably well. It is a fair question: Would the first Christians, such as Philip, have thought this to be a prophecy of Christ if Jesus had never thought so himself? Are we to say that Jesus was less bright than his followers? The beauty and power of this great chapter from Isaiah do not come from accuracy in details; it is pretty difficult to make all the details match exactly the facts of Jesus' life. Nevertheless this chapter is more than beautiful in language and thought; it is powerful in giving us, in a few sentences, the central spirit and underlying intention of Jesus' life. It is this: What he endured and suffered, in life and in death, he suffered and endured not for himself alone but for others, for us.

Levels of Suffering
Suffering can be undergone on different levels, as it were. At lowest level there is mere pain, the kind known by animals. The beast does not think about it, animals around him do not; he simply suffers. At the next level there is pain suffered and resented, by human beings. Above this is pain which is suffered bravely, even defiantly, by a stoic ("I am the captain of my soul"). Above this again is pain which is borne with resignation not because it is necessary, but because God wills it. On a still higher level is suffering which is offered to God as a sacrifice—all the sufferer may have to give. As high as this, if not higher, is suffering which is undergone for the sake of others, as a mother for her child. The suffering of Christ, the church believes, is on a plane even higher than all these, though it is like some that have been mentioned. For his sufferings were for men and women everywhere, always.

"He Poured Out His Soul"
The tragedy of Jesus, taken as a human tragedy alone, is saddening. "To what purpose was all this waste?"—we ask Judas' old question as the alabaster box pours forth its treasure. If we remember that this was not only a man but God, undergoing this tragic darkness shot with "lightning of his pain," we can understand a little better (but dimly, for the opaqueness of our selfish minds) what the suffering of Jesus meant and means. It was for us; he bore our griefs and carried our sorrows; he made himself an offering for sin. You remember the girl who said to her older sister: "Oh, sometimes I wish I could take all the miseries of the world and put them on my shoulders!"
And the older sister said, "Didn't you know Jesus did that, long ago?"

Drought-Area Hay Short in Vitamins

Could Result in Poor Health for Livestock

Livestock losses are often caused by drought-induced vitamin deficiencies, says the American Foundation for Animal Health.

"Hay from drought-stricken areas may have poor quality and may be low in vitamin 'A', the Foundation says. 'Feeding of this low quality hay over an extended period may result in poor health for stock.'

Vitamin A deficiency is especially a problem in cattle, but can also affect swine, sheep and horses. Weak, blind calves that often die shortly after birth, and breeding failures, may result from this deficiency—even though the cows appear normal.

Night blindness in cattle is one of first symptoms of Vitamin A deficiency.

Rapid breathing, swollen legs, loss of appetite and emaciation are signs of both shipping fever and vitamin A shortage, but the two conditions require different treatment.

Night blindness is another of the first symptoms of vitamin A deficiency. Cattle affected by this condition cannot see in dim light. The condition may progress into permanent blindness in young cattle because of damage to the optic nerve.

"Corrective rations and proper supplements, under veterinary guidance, can help prevent losses from this cause in areas where the drought has damaged the vitamin content of feeds," the Foundation says.

Plastic Mulches Up Tomato Production

The mid-century "plastic age" that has revolutionized such commonplace items as food containers and children's toys may also be a boon to the tomato grower.

Plastic mulches tested by Oregon State college scientists increased tomato yields by more than one-third and decreased weeding and irrigation during trials at Corvallis last summer.

Black polyethylene sheets—4-foot-wide strips with holes cut out for tomato plants—were centered over the rows. Plastic-mulched plots yielded up to 14 tons per acre compared to only 8 tons of marketable tomatoes from unmulched plots, reports Vernon Clarkson, OSC horticulturist.

With tomatoes valued at 5 cents a pound, fresh market, Clarkson figures the added yield grossed about $580 an acre.

An added advantage of plastic mulching is that it keeps tomatoes off the soil. In tests, only two-thirds of a ton rotted fruit per acre were recorded compared to one on unmulched plots.

The scientist estimates cost of mulching around $200 an acre with cost of laying the material offset by reduced weeding costs. Properly handled, the plastic should last for three or four years. Clarkson says. Three-foot wide paths were provided between plastic-covered tomato rows.

Paul Swaffar, Secretary of the American Hereford Association, is shown above presenting the Association's Junior Membership No. 1 to 17-year-old Shirley Ann McIntyre of Howard, Kansas.

She served nothing but carrots for two months. He could not eat carrots.

He poured iced tea into her ears when she was asleep.
She insisted on the pet skunk sleeping between covers on his bed.

A Waukegan wife gets a divorce from her Boston husband who blacked her eye because she would not cultivate a Boston accent.

Judge: "So you say the defendant stole your money from your stocking?"

Plaintiff: "Yes, your honor."
Judge: "Then why didn't you resist?"

Plaintiff (pouting): "Well, how did I know he was after my money?"

Cannibal King: "What are we having for lunch?"

Cook: "Two old maids."

King: "Ugh! Leftovers again!"

TAKE THAT

Mr. Conrat: "You say you want to marry my daughter. Preposterous, young man! You couldn't even keep her in underwear."
"You haven't been doing any too well yourself, sir!"

"Now that I'm going to marry Nancy there's one thing I'd like to get off my chest."
"What's that?"
"A tattooed heart with the name Marie on it."

"What kind of a car has Tom?"
"A pray-as-you-enter."

Doctor: "Your throat is very bad. Have you tried gargling with salt water?"
Skipper: "Well, I've been torpedooed six times."

Horace: Say, but your mother-in-law is thin.
Clarence: I'll say. Why, when she drinks tomato juice she looks like a thermometer.

Wyoming restaurant window: Waitress wanted—will marry if necessary.

Raisin Bran Flakes Add Variety to Autumn Breakfast Buffet

Here is a novel breakfast serving suggestion to add variety to your "Better Breakfast Campaign" to serve all members of your family a good breakfast every day. Set the table with a simplified buffet service. Fill a flat casserole serving dish with three kinds of breakfast cereals such as raisin bran flakes, ready-to-eat oat cereal, and corn flakes, pre-sweetened or regular. Place the filled casserole on an attractive tray; decorate the tray with a border of whole oranges and bananas. Tuck in a few autumn leaves to add additional sparkle. (Your young school-age children would enjoy gathering the leaves.)

On a second tray, place slices of cinnamon-nut bread—a wonderful combination with breakfast cereals. Add a pitcher of milk, glasses, cereal bowls, dish of butter, and serving silver—your buffet breakfast is complete. In addition to variety, this cereal and milk breakfast is quick and easy to prepare, rates high in appetite appeal and convenience and fulfills the requirements of a basic breakfast pattern.

Doctors and dietitians recommend a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter—which provides one-fourth to one-third of the daily nutritional requirements—as a good pattern to follow for the morning meal. Research has demonstrated that a good breakfast will make the entire family not only feel better, but work better, especially in the late morning hours.

MENU FOR SIMPLE AUTUMN BREAKFAST BUFFET

- Whole Oranges or Bananas
- Raisin Bran Flakes, Ready-to-eat Oat Cereal, and
- Corn Flakes, pre-sweetened or regular, with Milk

DEMOCRATS...

"It is true what they say about Georgie"

GOVERNOR WM. PRESTON LANE, JR. (DEM.)

(In Full Page Ad in "SUN", Sept. 10, 1956)

"Mahoney sent one of his gumshoe investigators down to the Eastern Shore Hospital and had him take some phony pictures. One showed a man drinking out of a tin cup. But what he didn't show you was that the picture was cut so as not to show the dispenser of paper cups less than a foot away! "Another picture showed what they said were flies all over a ham. There were no flies there; the picture had been re-touched. And, what do you think the little black specks were? CLOVES!"

REPRESENTATIVE LANSDALE G. SASSCER (DEM.)

(Baltimore Sun, May 3, 1952)

"I think it is time that Mr. Mahoney's tactics be exposed for what they are—a complete fraud and a hoax. In the first place, he has hired professional performers to dramatize events which never happened, just to delude television audiences. These actors tell a story about housing in St. Mary's County, using photographs taken at Great Mills, and telling the public they were taken at Lexington Park."

(Baltimore Sun, May 5, 1952)

Sasscer said that the pattern of Mahoney's campaign had been "vilification, innuendoes and statements uttered without any regard for truth, accuracy or fairness..."

E. BROOKE LEE (DEMOCRAT)

(Baltimore SUN, June 22, 1954)

Lee said, "The advertising boys always built up Mahoney as a fighting man. Some 500,000 Maryland men managed to get into World Wars I and II. Mahoney was old enough for the first and young enough for the second and also rich enough to serve without hardship in the second. Yet Fighting Georgie did not connect with either World War. He just took no notice of either. Now the publicity boys have a veterans committee working for this phony Mahoney."

DR. "CURLEY" BYRD (DEM.)

(Baltimore SUN, June 17, 1954)

Dr. Byrd called George P. Mahoney a "political character assassin" who "twists up and misrepresents" facts.

(Baltimore SUN, June 23, 1956)

Dr. Byrd accused Mahoney of using "misrepresentation" and "political trickery" with the race question. He said that Mahoney is "preaching the doctrine" to Negroes in Baltimore that he (Dr. Byrd) is prejudiced against the Negro race. He added that Mahoney supporters mailed out literature to five rural counties, purporting to show that he (Dr. Byrd) is "working too strongly for Negroes."

(Baltimore Sun, June 25, 1954)

Dr. Byrd added that it is impossible in a fight with Mr. Mahoney to "discuss the real problems of Maryland's state government because he and his advisors seem convinced that his best chance—perhaps his only one—is to indulge in mud-slinging and smears and downright misrepresentation."

MAYOR THOMAS D'ALESSANDRO (Democrat)

(Baltimore SUN, May 1, 1952)

Mayor D'Alessandro told members of the Young Men's Bohemian Democratic Club that George P. Mahoney is a "party wrecker." He said that Mahoney "is trying to wreck the Democratic Party." He accused Mahoney of trying to smear Representative Sasscer. He said that Mahoney had padded the Office of Price Administration "with four of his relatives", and was using it for political purposes.

BALTIMORE "SUN" (Editorial, April 29, 1956)

"... But in all of these years of persistent politicking he (Mr. Mahoney) has failed to offer a single valid reason why he should represent this State in the United States Senate, or any indication that he has the capacity to cope with the fateful issues which that body must deal with. Such comments as he has made from time to time on public questions have carried no conviction, nor even given the impression that he knows what he is talking about."

BALTIMORE "SUN" EDITORIAL (August 23, 1956)

"Mr. Mahoney, so far as the public record is concerned, is devoid of political principles and in no way equal to the demands of the position of Senator."

BUT--Maryland points with pride to Sen. Butler's Record

"John Marshall Butler has been consistently attentive to his duties as a Senator of the United States, and constantly aware of his obligations to the State of Maryland and its citizens. While well-versed in the broad fields of national and international affairs, he never has lost sight of the opportunities to advance the proper interests of Maryland. As a member of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, he is in an advantageous position to give the best possible representation to this maritime State. He has used this advantage wisely and effectively.

In the interests of our great harbor facilities, the future of Friendship International Airport, our overland commerce by rail and highway, the general economy of this rapidly growing State and the prosperity of all its citizens, the people of Maryland will serve themselves best by re-electing Senator John Marshall Butler.

SHORT STORY

Lifetime Chance

By V. T. Inglish

YOU never seen a guy so set on an idea. That's all he'd ever talk about. Used to come into my hole-in-the-wall cafe, two-three times a week. Sit at the end of the bar and never say anything to anybody, but after people had mostly gone home, then he'd begin.

"I got a boy," he'd say. "Fine boy. An' he ain't goin' to ever want for nothin'. No, sir. He ain't goin' to have the kind of life I had."

And then he'd tell about how his dad died when he was twelve and his ma married another man, and he left home. Didn't go to school anymore after that. Made his way somehow. I didn't pay much attention, but it always ended the same way.

"But I got it fixed so that boy of mine won't never have a hard time. I got money saved, see, and

3-Minute Fiction

I was busy washing glasses, so I just nodded.

I got insurance. That boy can have anything he wants. He's living my life and his, too, see. I didn't have a chance, but that boy of mine, he'll have his chance all right."

Late that summer I didn't see him for about a month. Then in September he came in one night. I noticed he was all excited. He ordered a cup of coffee and grinned at me when I put it down. Looked as though he was bustin' to say something, but I didn't have time to listen then. After a while, though, I was wiping up the bar, and he got it out.

"Know what I did today?" he asked. I shook my head. "Sent my kid off to college," he said. "Yes, sir. Sent him off to college in the best car you'll see anywhere. Big yellow convertible. Know what I told him? 'Have a swell time.' I says, 'Have a swell time for both of us. If you get in trouble, wire your old man. I'll take care of everything.' That's what I told him."

I was busy washing glasses, so I just nodded.

I started lining up the glasses on the back bar, and all of a sudden he lets out a sort of gasp. I look around, and he's slumped over the top of the bar holding onto the top rail with both hands.

"Help m—," he whispers, and slides right down to the floor.

A lieutenant came along while they were putting the guy into the ambulance. Wanted a report, but I couldn't tell him much. I called my wife and told her I'd be late, and then I went to the hospital with the lieutenant.

They'd put the guy to bed in a ward. Heart attack, the doc said, and it was pretty bad. The lieutenant had a nurse bring the guy's clothes, and we looked for identification. There was a driver's license in the name of Bill Thomas, and an address in a cheap little hotel. Also, there was a card that said in case of accident notify Maxwell Thomas, same address.

"Maxwell Thomas," said the lieutenant. "I know that kid. I'll never meet."

Just then the doc came out. "Well, that's that," he said in a matter of fact voice. "Died about three minutes ago."

The lieutenant said we'd better go to the hotel and find out where the kid was so we could notify him. It was late, and nobody was around except the night clerk. He said he didn't know anything about what college the kid was going to, but he did know he'd left that day.

"Had all kinds of clothes delivered the last few days. And the car his dad bought for him! You should see it. Yellow with lots of gadgets." And then he remembered his business. "Hey, there's a telegram come for old Bill about an hour ago. Bet it's from his kid. Want to open it and find out?"

The lieutenant nodded, and the clerk rummaged in the mail boxes for the yellow envelope. The lieutenant ripped it open and read. Then he looked up.

"So the kid was going to have the time of both their lives," he murmured. "Looks like he did." He held out the paper to me. It read:

"Maxwell Thomas killed instantly auto accident. Contact Coroner Griswold, Eudora."

NATIONAL RETARDED CHILDREN'S WEEK

"I hope the observance of National Retarded Children's Week will result in increased understanding and strengthened efforts to help the mentally retarded live rewarding lives for their own sakes and for the nation." With these words President Dwight D. Eisenhower called for renewed efforts of all members and units of the National Association for Retarded Children in a letter to the NABC president, made public this week through each unit of the Association throughout the country. National Retarded Children's Week is scheduled to begin November 11.

The president of the Carroll County Association for Retarded Children, Mr. Fern Smith, said that copies of President Eisenhower's letter had been received. In it, the President congratulated members of the National Association for Retarded Children throughout the country for their work in increasing the opportunities for the mentally retarded.

"Because of the inspired work done by Americans such as your members the 120,000 mentally retarded children born in the United States each year have a better chance to develop their abilities and lead useful lives," the president said.

He noted the contribution to research in the prevention and treatment of mental retardation made by members of the National Association for Retarded Children.

The kick-off dinner for the Carroll County educational and fund-raising drive for retarded children will be held on November 8, at 6:45 p. m., in the new dining hall under the management of Elmer E. Frock, Sunnybrook Farm, Bond Street extended in Westminster. Approximately 250 volunteer workers and guests are expected to attend.

Mr. Ray LeGore, program chairman, is planning a very interesting program for this event. Mrs. Jane Cooper, well-known for her work with retarded children in Baltimore City, will be the guest speaker. As a result of many requests, this will be a second appearance for Mrs. Cooper before the Carroll County Association for retarded children.

A small percentage of funds raised in this drive goes to the National organization to support research and other vital national services. The remainder is used locally to further the program in Carroll County. Three special classes are functioning with the support of the Board of Education, but there is an immediate need for playground equipment and an additional station wagon to transport the children from the north-eastern part of the county. Funds are also needed to provide a pre-school training program and a program which will offer occupational opportunities in a protected environment for the older children as they leave school.

As honorary chairman of National Retarded Children's Week, Jack Benny makes the following plea. "Like the blind child, the deaf child or the crippled child the mentally retarded must go through life with this terrible human handicap. But friends, so much can be done to help them find rich and rewarding fulfillment in life. Not to help them is to hurt them. Help wanted is their unspoken word. Please don't fail them."

THE 10 COMMANDMENTS OF SAFETY

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the first rule of gun safety.
2. Guns carried into camp or home, or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded, and taken down or have actions open; guns always should be carried in cases to the shooting area.
3. Always be sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the gun you are carrying. Remove oil and grease from chamber before firing.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble; keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know the identifying features of the game you intend to hunt.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot; avoid all horseplay while handling a gun.
7. Unattended guns should be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored separately beyond reach of children and careless adults.
8. Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun; never pull a gun toward you by the muzzle.
9. Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; when at target practice, be sure your backdrop is adequate.
10. Avoid alcoholic drinks before or during shooting.

FEAR

Mortal man, they say, is a victim of fear
Because he does not know his God is near;
But the real you, who inhabits this body of clay,
Is fearless, and never tries to run away.

He knows that fear is just an emotion;
It has no power (it is just a notion);
But it causes all of our ills to-day—
Physical and mental, experts say.

Fear has power to make the face white or red,
It all depends on what another has said;
And it acts the same on the animals, they say;
They, too, all try to get away.

When I was a boy, in my earlier days,
Certain horses were classed as "run-a-ways";
When the country band would begin to play,
Some always tried to run away.

The noise of the instruments caused them to fear,
Because something told them danger is near;
But the horse is a lover of music it is said;
So, when he sees it is harmless draws near instead.

In the same manner fear acts upon man—
It is just the opposite of God's great plan;
Jesus said: "Fear not!"—only believe,
And the blessing you ask for you shall receive

Fear is an archer you must fight from the start,
His arrows are sure, never miss the heart;
And, unless you are crafty, and they pass by
Earth's sojourn will end, and you shall die.

Standing on the corner of a country town one day,
I saw a horse, a beautiful dapple-grey;
A traction engine shook the ground under his feet
And the lovely creature fell dead on the street.

And fear is, daily, doing the same to those
Who are fearful; we see it wherever one goes—
But, remember, God gave you dominion here;
So, you have the power to conquer fear!

Imagination is the father of fear, we are told,
And, though a weakling, fear is bold;
So, put on your armour, and enter the fray,
And you shall be the winner, the Scriptures say.

Those whom Jesus healed when He was here
Were made free, because they conquered fear;
Remember, God made everything down here,
And He is your Father, so do not fear.

When fear is conquered, Faith comes your way,
Nothing, not even mountains stand in its way;
Faith is an attribute which God admires;
In fact, it is a virtue He always requires.

So, put your faith in Him, and the boggies you see
Like little lambs will turn out to be;
For the thing from which you once tried to flee
Nine times out of ten is a nonentity.

FORMER 4-H MEMBERS CAN BE NOMINATED IN NEW AWARD PROGRAM HONORING ADULTS

Do you know a member of your community whom you consider a notable success in his or her chosen career or who has an outstanding record as a citizen or as a leader in community and public affairs? And is this person a former 4-H member?

And have you often thought that that person should receive some form of public recognition for his or her acceptance of citizenship responsibilities and achievement in life?

If so, you now have the opportunity to do something about it, according to G. L. Noble, director of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, who recently announced that the Plant Food Division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation would again sponsor the National 4-H Alumni Recognition Program, the only 4-H Award Program honoring adults.

You can help nominate one of your neighbors for these coveted awards by filling out the form below and sending it to your county Extension agent. The program provides two certificates as awards in each county. Four state winners, selected from all the county winners are presented burnished copper plaques mounted on walnut.

Eight people, four men and four women, chosen from all the state winners, will receive gold keys and all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 25-29.

Men and women who have previously been 4-H Club members, who have an outstanding record of participation and leadership in community activities and who are a success in their chosen occupation or profession are eligible for consideration. So, if you know any one in your community who is eligible for this award fill out the blank and send it to your County Extension Office. They have official nomination forms.

Many 4-H Alumni are successful farmers and homemakers. Others are leaders in business, government or civic affairs. Some may not have been recently active in 4-H Club work, yet because of the basic training received through the 4-H program, they contribute to the advancement of community, state and nation.

Purposes of the awards are (1) to inspire present-day youth to greater accomplishments by providing them with living examples of dependable purposeful citizenship and (2) to encourage former 4-H Club members to support and cooperate in 4-H work.

Fill in information regarding nominee for National 4-H Alumni Recognition Award, attach any supplementary information which may be helpful and submit to the County Extension Office.

QUESTIONS

For Against
Question No. 1

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes that Councils of Counties having a charter form of government, instead of sitting not more than one month in a year for the enacting of legislation, shall have the right to sit not more than 45 days, which need not be consecutive, and legislation may be enacted during those designated days.

For Against
Question No. 2

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change the present method of introduction of bills in the General Assembly. The present law contemplates that during the last 10 days of the session bills may originate in either House only with approval of two-thirds of the members. The proposed change would limit the introduction of bills, under the same voting rules, during the last 10 calendar days of even-numbered year 20-day sessions and the last 20 calendar days of odd-numbered year 30-day sessions.

For Against
Question No. 3

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change the Constitution's method of confirming or rejecting gubernatorial appointments made while the Senate is recessed, from the present system of submitting such recess appointments to the Senate within thirty days after the next meeting of the Legislature to a system whereby recess appointments are submitted to the Senate for adoption or rejection on the first day of the next regular meeting of the Senate.

For Against
Question No. 4

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change budget procedure which now provides for the Governor to submit the budget to the General Assembly within twenty days after its convening in odd-numbered years, for a ninety-day session, but allows a newly elected Governor thirty days for such budget submission. The amendment, if approved, would remove the exception for newly elected Governors and cause the twenty-day provision for odd-numbered years to apply to all Governors.

For Against
Question No. 5

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
An Act to propose amendments to or change certain sections of the Constitution to the effect of: "Executive Branch"; "Judicial Department"; "Public Works"; "Labor and Industry"; "Military Affairs"; "Culture"; removing from the State Constitution certain obsolete, out-moded provisions.

SHORT STORY

Out to Lunch

By Lyle Pace

SAM CLAUSON always closed up the grocery store at noon and put the Out to Lunch sign on the doorknob. Some folks said Sam was too independent, that someday he'd have some competition in town and have to stay open to serve his neighbors. But Sam didn't mind the talk. He was a man who believed that lunch should be taken easily, with a little nap afterwards.

Some of the newcomers to town, especially in the summer season, were a little annoyed when they couldn't shop between twelve and two. But Sam kept right on putting out the sign, and once in a while he'd put out another in the afternoon that said simply "Gone Fishin'."

Sam had a wife, too. Sarah helped in the store, and some said she was the real drive behind Sam. Whenever new things happened in the layout and advertising in the business it was usually Sarah who had the ideas about it and put them into action.

She was against Sam closing for lunch, but there was nothing she could do about it. Staying in the store alone was out of the question for Sarah.

The day the new Delicatessen opened in town Sam had gone fishing. Sarah had decided to go along, under protest, and when they returned at eight o'clock that night they drove by the new store. Large neon lights blazed and streamers announced the opening of Grantville's new and most complete food store.

"Some sign," Sam muttered. "Must have cost a couple of hundred."

"Yes," Sarah agreed. "But he'll get it back. A store like that's bound to do a good business, Sam. 'I don't know about that,' Sam said, turning the corner of their street. 'Flash in the pan. All that money invested. Can't see it. Not in this small town.'"

"You'll see," Sarah returned. "Sam, we've got to do something. Stay open later at night, stay open at noon, too."

Sam slammed on the brakes before he drove up their driveway. "Now, Sarah, you know how I feel about that. No, sir. I won't do it. Folks know when we do business, and so far we ain't starved."

"I know," Sarah said. "But we might. Things like progress, Sam."

"Humph!" Sam grunted. "Killin' yourself, you mean."

The next morning almost everybody who came into Sam's grocery talked about the new store.

"Sure a pretty place, Sam." Hal Whitfield said as he counted out change for a quart of milk. "Went in there last night just to look. You should see those counters! All stainless steel. Near knock your eyes out!"

"That's all, Sam. You should take a look."

"At what?"

"Why, the new store. Man by the name of Murdock owns it. Nice fella, too."

"Yeah," Sam said. "I'll have to do that."

Come noon Sam hung out his sign and walked out into the summer sun.

When he arrived home Sarah had lunch prepared as usual. But she seemed nervous and sort of jumpy. Finally Sam threw down his fork and said:

"Sarah, what's got into you? You act like you was going to get married again. What's wrong?"

"Oh, Sam!" she exclaimed. "It's just that I'm worried about the store. Now with this new competition, and business hasn't been too good anyway."

"Forget it," Sam snorted. "We'll do all right. You leave it to me."

That afternoon Sam stopped in the new store on the way to his own. Hal Whitfield had been right. Mr. Murdock was a real nice fella. So friendly, in fact, that he and Sam became good friends. Soon they were having lunch at each other's houses, and taking off on a Sunday to go for a drive.

Grantville had two groceries now but you couldn't buy anything between twelve and two, or sometimes in the afternoon either. That is, during the fishing season.

New Chemical Kills Most Cattle Grubs

First Experiments Considered Promising

It has been demonstrated experimentally for the first time that the common cattle grub can be prevented within cattle, the USDA reports. This feat, long a goal of agricultural science, was accomplished by feeding an organic phosphate chemical to grub-infested animals.

The chemical, designated for experimental purposes as Dow ET-57, is systemic. It moves through the bodies of cattle to destroy grubs wherever they may occur in an animal's flesh.

These first highly promising experimental results are considered a milestone in research progress toward development of a systemic grub-control chemical that can be used by livestockmen.

Cattle grubs cost the livestock industry an estimated $100 million a year in losses of meat, milk, and damaged hides. New facts that could increase this loss estimate were announced by the Sioux City, Iowa, Livestock Sanitary Committee, which during the period January-April 1955 surveyed all cattle received at several typical Midwestern packing plants. The survey showed that 38 per cent of the cattle were grub-infested, and that because of this infestation, packers trimmed away from loins and ribs, on the average, an extra $8 worth of meat.

Limited Irrigation Shown Successful

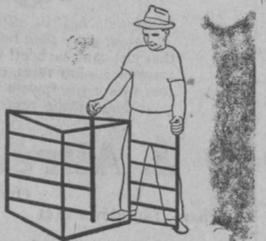

Timing irrigation to critical growth periods of tobacco and corn, in Virginia experiments during the last two seasons, provided more efficient use of water and yield increases comparable to those obtained with full-season irrigation.

Research conducted near Blacksburg by cooperating engineers and soil scientists of the Agricultural Research Service and the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station demonstrated that irrigating burley tobacco only during its period of rapid vegetation growth—from the time plants are knee-high until they are in bloom—gives yields as high as those under full-season irrigation.

Highest corn yields were produced in tests when this crop had full-season irrigation. However, when irrigation was limited to the period from tasseling through the milk stage, yields were 80 to 90 per cent as high, and in terms of inches of water applied were achieved more efficiently.

In two years of research with burley tobacco, water was applied by sprinkler and only when the moisture available to the plant roots from the top 18 inches of soil was reduced 50 per cent below soil moisture capacity. In comparing the extremes—irrigation during the critical growth period and all-season irrigation—yields obtained were as high with the first method as with the latter, and less water was required—2 inches less the first year and 4.6 inches the second.

Hallow'e'n Party Drink

Hallow'e'n is an exciting time for children. Every child loves and wants to give a Hallow'e'n party. Traditional games are fun, ducking for apples, fortune telling games and, in some communities, dressing up in ragamuffin costumes. When those ragamuffins ring your doorbell, be sure to have something to give them or you'll be "tricked." A cookie and a glass of pale dry ginger ale will please.

For Hallow'e'n refreshments a decorated cake with a fortune-telling symbol contained in each slice provides merriment. An ice cream soda always makes a "party" drink. You might provide the youngsters with a choice of soda flavors—orange, black cherry, grape or root beer—add a big scoop of vanilla ice cream to any of them for a fine soda.

A can of purple plums combines with cream soda in an unusual and delicious drink that would be excellent for a children's party.

How Advertising helps you

BY CHARLES B. ROTH

Advertising Teaches

THE head of one of America's great universities sat on the same platform with the head of one of America's great advertising agencies. It was the advertising man's duty to introduce the educator, which he did, identifying him as one of the most eminent of educators and head of one of the world's greatest institutions of learning.

After acknowledging with graciousness this introduction, the college president said: "You, sir, are a greater educator than I or anyone else in my place. For advertising, which you represent so successfully, conducts the greatest school for adults—children, too, for that matter—in the world."

And then he pointed out that through advertising America had become a well-informed nation; not only in values or qualities of merchandise, for advertising long ago outgrew such narrow boundaries, but in ideas and issues as well.

What he said is true.

By that same token, the advertising pages of the newspaper ceases to be merely a guide for those who have needs to fill and money to buy. It really becomes an encyclopedia of current living. In those pages you can find practically anything you want.

Future historians, studying our current civilization, will learn more about us and how we lived from reading the ads than the news section of the papers. For each generation put down its story in the things that it found essential to life and comfort.

When you pick up your newspaper, read the ads carefully, which is the habit of intelligent people, you may not think you are "going to school." But you are. It is a pleasant "school," one easy for you to attend, but its learning is no less important or lasting for that.

The late Will Rogers was wont to say so often it became his slogan that all he knew he read in the newspapers. He knew a good deal. And anyone who will read the newspapers, not alone what is printed in the news columns, but also in the ads will know a good deal also.

He will not only know what is interesting to know, but he will know how and where he can spend his money to best advantage. Which is also important knowledge.
