THE POST OFFICE PROBLEM

The financial problems of the post Office department have been in the headlines. The Postmaster General had to go to Congress for a $47 million deficiency appropriation to carry the department through this fiscal year, and he estimates that, unless rates are raised, the deficit in the next fiscal year will reach $651 million.

Writing of post office troubles in the New York Times, Jay Walz points out that Congress has this broad problem on its hands—should it treat the post office as a business or as a public service? Mr. Walz adds: "If it is business, then postage charges should be raised until the post office can pay its own way. . . . But just recently a Senate advisory committee turned in a report saying the post office is mainly a public service and its deficits are, therefore, not deficits at all, but expenses to be absorbed from taxes."

This "public service" argument may have validity when it comes to carrying matter which contributes to public knowledge and entertainment, and which is not in direct competition with existing private business. But it has no validity in the case of at least one service—parcel post. Parcel post is not a basic postal service function—it did not come into existence until 1913. The law creating it specified that it should be self sustaining and that it should not necessarily compete with private parcel or express organizations. But the fact is that it is in direct competition with such organizations, on a tax-subsidized basis—and that during much or most of its life it has operated at a deficit.

Here is one place, at least, where the charges for a post office service should fully reflect and cover all the direct and indirect costs of providing that service.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

MOOSE LAKE, MINN., STAR GAZETTE: "Casualty" lists of U. S. highways have mounted steadily until in 1956 all records of heedless haste and needless waste were shamefully broken. The facts of human suffering and death speak for themselves. . . . If this year's record is equal to that of 1956, one in 70 Americans will be a statistic. . . . a pain wracked survivor, or a name in the obituary column."

RUPERT, IDAHO, NEWS: "Who has the biggest payroll in the world? Why, the U. S. government, of course! . . . In January, the payroll for civilians reached $1,000,000,000 per month! If it continues at this rate, the 1957 payroll will exceed $12,000,000,000."

WELLINGTON, O., ENTERPRISE: "Obviously, there can be no such thing as 'profit before taxes'. Before taxes, you can be sure whether you have won or lost for the year. Take your own performance in 1955, for instance. How much more would you have made, or put in your savings account, if it hadn't been for that little item of income tax?"

TAZEWELL, TENN., PROGRESS: "The litterbugs have become so bad in our area that most of the shoulders of the roads look like garbage heaps."

ROSEBURG, ORE., NEWS-REVIEW: "Before we can rid ourselves of confiscatory taxes, we must make up our minds to do things for ourselves instead of having everything done for us by a paternalist, socialist government."

KNOXVILLE, GA., POST: "Approval of the Alabama Public Service Commission was sought recently for the building of a huge steam-electric power plant on the Cocoa River. The Southern Electric Generating Co. which proposes to build and operate the plant, will be owned jointly by Georgia Power Co., and Alabama Power Co. The new generating station will be one of the nation's largest. It will require the expenditure of about $150,000,000. Plans contemplate the installation of four 250,000 kilowatt units for a total initial power capacity of 1,000,000 kilowatts."

OSWEGO, KAN., INDEPENDENT: "A prominent West Coast surgeon says that the day of available ready repairs and spare parts for the human anatomy is in the foreseeable future. Now there is a main street business venture with possibilities."

BEEVILLE, TEXAS, BEE-PICAYUNE: "Indiana recently became the 18th state to uphold a citizen's freedom—through a 'Right-to-Work' law—to join or not to join a union, as he sees fit, in order to get or hold a job. Thus the march of the states to assert and uphold a basic American freedom continues."

TELL CITY, IND., NEWS: "We're happy to see that the Supreme Court has made a decision and still happier over the fact it decided that there was nothing illegal about the Federal Power Commission's permitting a private utility, using private capital and paying taxes to the public treasury, to build a series of dams in Hell's Canyon in Idaho."

PIKEVILLE, TENN., BANNER: "There is a lot of squawking about the huge Federal budget, but who wants economy? It is all right for the other fellow's project to be cut, but 'don't cut mine!' seems to be the attitude of at least 150 million Americans."

CLEWISTON, FLA., NEWS: "A 25 per cent reduction in Flood Control district levy is in store for taxpayers in the 17-county flood district. Coming at a time when the legislature, Congress and everyone else is figuring on increased expenses and increased taxes, it is very heartening to find a board which is actually planning to reduce taxes."

ALTOONA, PA., MIRROR: "A nation where men once had freedom but did not use it is now described as a dictatorship nation."

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Matthew H. Galt, Springfield, Mo., who had been notified of his mother's extreme illness, arrived here on Friday evening last, the day of her death. Matt is successfully engaged in the practice of law.

Miss Nellie Irene Fringer is among the list of graduates of Western Maryland College, this year.

Baltimore Street is certainly not in a desirable condition, for it is covered with a two inch coating which is either dust or mud according to weather conditions. Evidently the street needs a good scraping, or a fresh coating of stone.

Within a very short time, on Thursday, the Fire Company turned out, on Frederick St., for dress parade and for practical business, and it must be said that in both cases, they did full credit to the occasion. Fire-fighting in parade-dress, is rather hard on the dress, but not as expensive as buying new buildings.

Governor Warfield was in Westminster on Monday and delivered an address at the Commencement exercises of the High school.

Myers-Wolf.—On Tuesday evening the 28th, Miss Bessie K. Wolf and Mr. Marshall A. Myers, were married at the home of the bride, by Rev. G. W. Baughman. Wm. J. Flohr presided at the organ, and during the playing of a wedding march from Lohengrin, the bridal couple entered the room, attended by Misses Alice M. Myers and Margie Formwalt and Messrs. John Wolf and Guy Haines.

Harney.—At the close of our schools, on Friday of last week, Miss Mabel Lambert, who has served as principal for about seven years, handed her resignation to the trustees. We learn that they have accepted it and have since employed Miss Alice Clousher to fill the vacancy for next year.

Tyrone.—Baust church school closed on the 24th, with all the patrons of the school in high glee over the grand success of their teacher, Miss Jane Ecker. After having feasted on the abundance of ice cream, cakes, bananas, etc., provided by their highly esteemed teacher, they gave a rising vote in favor of her return to the school which she accepted.—The masons are at work on the foundation of a new church.—The creamery at Tyrone is being pushed toward completion, and will soon be ready for business.

"Insure with Confidence"

An annual physical examination, including a chest X-ray, is a good way to prevent tuberculosis from getting the upper hand.

When you finally get your place in the sun you'll also find you will be blistered occasionally.

Ranking first among infectious disease as a cause of death, tuberculosis is nevertheless a disease which can be prevented and can be cured.

Tuberculosis is caused by a germ—it is not inherited—the disease is spread from person to person.

The X-ray is one of the doctors' most valuable aids in diagnosing tuberculosis. It can show signs of the disease even in the earliest stage.

Experience is that which recognizes a mistake the second time you make it.

FEESERSBURG

(A Voice from Carroll)

Thursday is Memorial Day. On this day we customarily honor the dead by placing flowers on graves, making appropriate speeches, marching in more appropriate parades and gorging ourselves on picnic food. All these things in no way aid or detract from the memory of those who have gone on their final journey. As Lincoln so eloquently said it at Gettysburg, the living cannot consecrate nor hallow the dead more than the dead consecrated themselves while they lived. So many times we try to build up a personality after death that in no way resembles the person who lived. Instead we should remember the ones that have gone for what they really were and what they contributed while living for the good of all. We often watch on television the living great placing a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington and wonder if they actually think of the soldier and what he died for while going through the ceremony of laying flowers on his grave. As Lincoln said in his famous address it is for the living to dedicate themselves to the unfinished work for which the dead gave up their lives. This not only applies to soldiers who gave up their lives for freedom, but to teachers who dedicated their lives to educating the children of their country; to doctors who spent their life to ease suffering; to mothers and fathers who dedicated their lives to bringing up fine future citizens, to ministers who tried to bring faith and ideals to everyone; to farmers who dedicated their lives to the land and guarded their great heritage for future living. Every person who has been given the miracle of life leaves behind him when he dies, a mark upon people he associated with either for good or evil. No memorial, no matter what form it takes can erase this fact. But if the living takes up the work of those who pass on and dedicate their lives to the best that was instilled in them by example, then the living has set up the only kind of memorial that really counts. Memorial Day should be a day not to honor the dead but a day to re-dedicate the living to the kind of ideals and work that will bring honor both to the past and the future.

The rain storm Sunday afternoon cut off our electricity for four hours leaving us living in the past. We ate supper by candlelight, had to let the dishes in the sink because the pump couldn't work and we had no water. We couldn't read or watch T.V. because candlelight isn't strong enough to see the printed words and T.V. won't operate without electricity. We were taught in dramatic fashion how much we depend on electric power and when we don't have it, life practically comes to a standstill. We had to wonder what one would do if they had to do without electric power for one week. We would manage, but it could be rugged, especially for farmers. Milking cows by hand again would be the most difficult task of all.

Water supply too would be a problem since all farm use of water powered by electricity. Refrigeration of milk is a must and when the electric power is off for a length of time it means a big loss to dairymen. Meals are cooked on an electric stove and water heated by an electric heater. In fact farmers didn't hitch their farm to a star but they have hitched it to an electric power line and made themselves a slave to electricity. Not that they mind because electricity has taken the place of hired help in many instances, but when something happens to cut off the power then one realizes how little one can do without it. However this happens so seldom that it is a minor worry and the Potomac Edison is conscious of its duty to its customers and makes every effort to render quick, efficient service. Only during storms over which no one has any control does the power go off and then it is restored as promptly as it is humanly possible to do so. Our compliments to a fine company and to the men and women who make up the efficient teamwork.

Experts say that women bake one billion cakes per year and half of them are ready-mixed. What kind do you bake? One woman we asked said half of them are ready-mixed while half are her own. When ever she wants to make an impression like the church festival or a P.T.A. bake sale she bakes over her own favorite recipe. When she is rushed for a family dessert she uses box cake-mix. She said they disappear so fast anyway that her family can't tell the difference.

The storm Sunday didn't treat the birds too kindly. The rain and wind blew four nests out of our pine trees and when the storm had passed we were busy scooping up half grown birds and putting them in the nests and then placing the nests under the trees hoping the mothers would find and feed them. All the time we were saving the birds, the parents were chirping and fussing at us and flying around with frantic anxiety. If a woman wants to dress to please her husband she will wear last years clothes.

With Our Regret

What happened to the dreams we dreamed
And to the ship we planned to build?
We settled for a house and lot
High on a Carroll Hill.

Where are the books we meant to write
The seas we meant to sail?
We settled for a brown eyed miss
With dancing feet and pony tail.

We've put aside our lovely dreams
And moored our ship with silken net,
We read the books that others write
And this we've done without regret.
—Ruth Roelke.

In Loving Memory of my father
CHARLES MARTIN SMITH
who was killed in railroad accident, 50 years ago, May 30, 1907

When I remember all you've done
To guide my footsteps right
And all the loving ways in which
You made my childhood bright,
My happy little thoughts of you
Are mingled with this prayer
That God will bless you, dad dear
And keep you in his care.

If you could just be here with me,
Or I could be there with you,
And we could chat of this and that
And the things we used to do,
Wouldn't it be wonderful,
Wouldn't the world seem gay
And wouldn't it be grand to be Together this memorial day.

Beyond the Sunset he has gone,
To rest a long while;
The memory of his loving words,
The kindness of his smile;
Falls like a benediction soft
Upon my lonely way
And there dad lives forever
When twilight ends the day.

Daughter, HELEN LANTZ SMITH.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Consider Trends
Before You Plan
Kitchen Changes

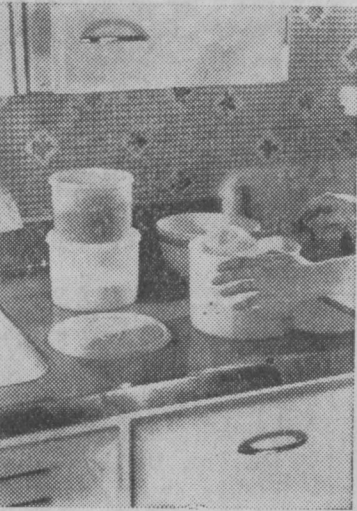

TODAY'S kitchen may be as modern as tomorrow, but if you look at it closely you'll probably see that many of the ideas were borrowed from long ago.

What about those copper pots and pans that add a decorative note to the wall? They were originally used in kitchens so old-fashioned they didn't even have cabinets to hold them and were hung near the open hearth!

Marble? It goes not only into many modern table tops but is making news in kitchens. Oak, birch or pine cabinets? They're seen in many of the newest kitchens, too.

Cabinet Variety

The all-white, sanitary looking kitchen has been fading for some time from the designer's scheme

Resilient plastic canisters are a wonderful help in the kitchen because they can't break and are lightweight. Airtight lids keep contents fresh and clean and the canisters will serve on cupboard shelf or refrigerator.

of things. Wood cabinets are now being made to match the modern furniture which you may have in the living or bedroom. They're easy to keep clean with light sponging and occasional waxing and will not chip, of course.

Many colors, too, are being introduced in kitchens for cabinets. They range from a rich mocha brown to a pastel green or carnation pink. There's a yellow like sunshine and a blue like the sky.

If you prefer deeper colors you might like spruce green, tile red terra cotta or a beautiful deep seafoam blue green. Ranges and refrigerators can match or may be used in the white as an accent.

Flooring Choice

New plastic flooring is meeting with success. It keeps its colors bright and is hard enough to offer a good floor that will take lots of wear.

Plastic has also been fused with cork in a new floor tile that may be your choice. It looks like cork and may be used in the kitchens, foyers or dining rooms. Specks of color have been added for interest while the finish is a waxy gloss.

Keep Jewelry
Fresh, Sparkling

Do you like to put on jewelry because it's so bright and sparkling, catching all the lights in the room or reflecting bright sunlight?

Perhaps you don't much care whether you wear jewelry or not because it has lost its luster. It's tired, dusty and dull.

If the latter is your problem, then it's time right now to do something about it. Real or costume jewelry can be made to sparkle anew with a smallest amount of effort imaginable.

Care for Pearls

Most women have pearls of some kind, some Oriental, some cultured. These may be washed in mild, soapy water, rinsed in clear water and then patted dry with a soft towel. They keep nicest when wrapped in a linen handkerchief in your jewel box.

Pearls on a string should be checked somewhat frequently by your jeweler to see that the string is not weakened with wear.

Imitation pearls lose their luster in soap and water, as described in the treatment above. Wipe these carefully with a damp cloth.

Diamonds and Stones

Diamonds and other stones, colored types and semi-precious varieties respond to the soap and water treatment nicely. Use an old toothbrush for a bit of real scrubbing. Rinse in hot water, then polish with paper toweling until they sparkle.

There is one caution to be observed in washing all stones. That is, don't change the temperature of the water suddenly since some stones may crack.

Engagement ring dirty? This may be boiled if you will place in a pan the bottom of which is covered with a cloth. Bring the water, with ring sitting on the cloth, to the boiling point slowly. Boil until jewelry is dirt-free. Rinse in warm water and polish with tissue.

By V. T. Inglish

I HAD a hangover. Not an alcoholic hangover—it was a people hangover—too many people in judiciously mixed. Sally who was adorable was trying hard to be a good wife. And Mom was really trying to be a good mother and mother-in-law, but not succeeding very well at either. And there was Pop. How was I ever going to get Sally and mother to quit pulling in two directions at once? Take that morning. Sally hated to spend Sunday afternoon with the folks, and I knew it, but Mom expected us to come to dinner and stay. We'd had a spat this morning, and finally I telephoned Mom I wanted to stay home.

We were determinedly gay all through the main part of the meal, with no reference to the early morning quarrel. Until the lemon pie. My favorite.

"Gosh," I said. "I used to think I'd never get enough of Mom's lemon pie."

Sally's face began to cloud up. "I suppose now you're going to tell me about your mother's cooking again," she blurted. "I suppose you wish you were over there eating her lemon pie!" She dropped her fork and fled from the table.

How well Dad understood. I hadn't realized it was obvious.

THE EARTH IS MAN'S HOME—

At the very beginning it was a part of God's plan
To make this earth the future home of man;
So He sent Adam, Noah, and Jesus this way,
And, the three have made it, what it is to-day.

It is still far from perfect, the Scriptures say—
(And, the same may be said of man to-day);
But the day is not far off, when all shall know
More about God; and, the right way to go.

Man has listened to men, the savants all say;
That is why things are as we see them to-day;
But, when to God, he turns the other ear,
Many words of wisdom he shall hear.

There is no power like the power of a Word;
(To try to minimize that statement would be absurd!)
So, when God made the earth He knew what to say;
The whole planetary system was built that way.

Jesus laid great stress on the power of man's word;
So, when He spake, men saw what occurred;
He fed the hungry—even brought back the dead!
All by the power of His Word it is said!

Jesus never spoke till He knew what to say—
He controlled His thought and His actions that way;
So, God sent Him here to tell of His plan
To make of you what we call a model man.

We are the offspring of God, the Scriptures also say
So, we should all try to do things His way;
Don't listen to men! for man does not know
Just how God wants His children to go.

Jesus knew the body is destroyed by discord, they say,
That all of our ailments come about that way;
Fewer is a clashing of the cells of the body men say,
So, the ancients used music, as a Sedative, in their day.

David used the harp King Saul's life to save;
And, the Bible says, brought him back from the grave;
And, Plato said, the Flute and the harp a cure would be
For nervous disorders and insanity.

Harmony is a wonderful medicine, the doctors too say;
(It keeps people healthy and strong from day to day)—
So, why not give the old method a try,
Since there is no risk; and, nothing to buy?

But Love, the Bible says, is the greatest cure of all,
There is no panacea on this great ball
Which is so potent; and, drives the blues away,
As a kind word, and a loving hand they say.

Without Love (God) I am nothing, said to be,
I only help to form the Great Trinity;
God, Himself, shares that honor with me—
So, without Him, and His goodness, I would not be.

God is making the earth perfect as well as man—
Perfection, is the Key Word in His great plan;
So, when all things are perfect which you see
This earth a fairyland shall be.

I once wrote, "Nothing on earth charms me so
As the beautiful flowers which around us grow";
For I know just why God sends them here;
They all come to fill our hearts with cheer!

They say to us all that, in the years to come
On this velvety petals the bees shall hum;
So, a land of "milk and honey" this shall be,
When earth celebrates her Great Jubilee.

Were it not for God, I would not be here,
Much less claim His title; and domineer;
For, He is my life; and, with Him I shall always be,
Both now, and through all Eternity.

For the Father and I are One—don't you see?
Just so it is with all humanity!
There is only one Life, and, that is the Life of you
So, together, we form the Great Trinity.

That is the relationship between God, you, and me;
We form what is called, "Earth's Great Family";
Our God is always with us, the Scripture says;
So, here to the live; and, let the chips go their way;

Jesus did many things about which we don't know;
It seems like God told Him just how to go;
Even when a boy He made birds out of clay;
And, when He said: Fly; they flew away.

And, so it shall be with you and with me
When we learn to know God; and, as brothers shall be;
All present many secrets are hid from man
Because he refuses to follow His plan.

God has not yet divulged to mortal man
Many of the secrets of His great plan;
But, the Bible tells us that nothing we see
Shall equal Earth at the time of her jubilee.

And, recent legislation is proving to mortal man
That God is bringing to fruition His Great plan;
That this Earth a Paradise shall be
At the end of Time; and through all Eternity.

One phone call brought me $45
from a man I didn't know

My business is painting houses. I paint them inside and out. Like all painters, my income literally depends on having one job lined up after another. Usually I do, too.

Last Friday when I got home, my wife handed me a letter cancelling my next job. I was pretty glum, and so was she. We needed the money for some bills that were due.

About nine o'clock that evening the phone rang. It was a man I didn't even know. He wanted me to do some painting in his apartment over the week end. Well, that job brought me $45, enough to carry me until I got another job lined up.

I got to thinking. I wouldn't have had the work at all without my telephone. Matter of fact, the $45 would pay my phone bill for months. Guess my phone not only pays for itself, it saves our family all kinds of time just about every day of the year.

Roots of Hatred

Lesson for June 2, 1957

IF the hatred between Arabs and Jews today threatens to wreck the peace of the world, this is made worse by the fact that it has been going on for a long time. There is no hatred more bitter than that between brothers. The Bible shows that from ancient times, the most implacable enemies of Israel were among those people closely related to them by race. Indeed, the stories in Genesis trace this intra-family feud to two brothers, Jacob and Esau. In the story of how these two brothers became enemies, we can see some of the same roots of hatred which may be found anywhere in the world where one man or class or nation hates another.

Dr. Foreman

Inherited Quarrels

As Jacob and Esau grew up, the hatred seemed to be all on one side. Jacob may have despised his brother, or feared him; but there is no evidence that Jacob ever hated Esau as Esau for a time hated Jacob. It takes two to make a quarrel, but only one to make a hate. . . . Or is that quite true? The roots of hatred are not always in the hate; they may be in the one who is hated, or they may not be in either one. Part of the reason why Jacob and Esau, though brothers, were not brotherly, was not their fault at all. In their home, father and mother were at odds. Isaac their father and Rebekah their mother had different, even clashing temperaments. The two boys being quite different from each other, their parents at once took sides. The mother played Jacob as her favorite, while old Isaac did his best for the other brother, Esau. It can be said that humanly speaking, coming up in a divided home, Jacob and Esau could never have grown up in peace. They inherited the quarrels of their parents. And inherited quarrels never grow less bitter—usually more so.

Low-down and Crooked

If one root of the hatred which Esau bore to his brother can be traced to their parents, another certainly must be traced to Jacob himself. He was hated because he was hateful. As Billy Sunday once said, Jacob in his younger days was so low-down he had to climb a tree to look a snake in the eye, and so crooked he could hide behind a corkscrew. The famous sale of the birthright has something decidedly fishy about it. Some historians believe that Esau could not legally (as laws went at that time) dispose of his birthright, it was inalienable. In that case Jacob was promoting a criminal act. In any event, legal or not, the trade was not a fair one. Indeed it was grotesquely, monstrously out of line. One bowl of stew for a birthright! Considering the power and (in this case) wealth which a birthright carried with it, the bargain was a barefaced theft on Jacob's part. Then the theft of the blessing was even worse. It could not have been managed, one is inclined to say, if Isaac had been the least bit bright. Jacob need not have been surprised if, after that, Esau had murderous thoughts. When a man finds himself the object of another's hate, the first thing he should ask is, what have I been doing?

The Jealous Heart

But hatred grows also from roots in the heart of the hater. It is fairly clear that Esau never forgave Jacob for that birthright business. Strictly speaking, while Jacob was mean enough, Esau had only himself to blame for losing his birthright. He was so much the victim of his appetite that a bowl of stew looked bigger and more important than all the power and responsibility of a great birthright. He was by no means as near death as he said, and he had no right to lay all the blame for the bad bargain on his brother. But he did, and the thing rankled in his heart and he never, for years, forgot or forgave. So hatred may be partly the result of inherited quarrels, it may be partly rooted in a hateful attitude on the part of the one who is hated; but these other roots will wither in time unless they receive strength from the root that goes deep into the hater's soul. Conceit brings forth jealousy, and jealousy, long nourished, brings forth hate. And then not even murder is far away.

Lamb Main Dish Stars In Second Act

Meat main dishes are as American in tradition as the names of Washington and Lincoln. Certainly February is just the month to skillfully create some of these meat-in-one dishes.

Planned meat leftovers are not only economical but also become an interesting food adventure when carefully combined in a casserole dish.

Reba Staggs, well known meat expert, suggests this Epicurean Lamb Casserole as an exciting and pleasing way to serve leftover cooked lamb. It's a modern product of the imagination, and is a seasonal meat dish that takes the minimum of time and effort.

Epicurean Lamb Casserole
2 cups diced cooked lamb
2 tablespoons lard
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, drained
1 cup cooked rice
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) tomatoes
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook onions in lard until tender. Add mushrooms and brown lightly. Combine all ingredients except cheese in greased 1 1/2-quart casserole; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Pork Sirloin Roast

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is the ham end of the loin which contains the hip bone. The outer surface is covered with fat and there is some fat covering the tenderloin.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting—a dry heat method of meat cooking. The roast is placed fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan and placed in a 350° F. oven. Allow 45 to 50 minutes per pound for cooking or if using a roast meat thermometer, allow the internal temperature to reach 185° F., the recommended internal temperature for pork to reach the well done stage.

White Satin Ribbon, Candlelight and Butterflies

Candlelight gleams on white satin ribbon. And only the way the bride's bouquet trembles . . . only the way the groom nervously straightens his tie . . . tells the secret of the butterflies fluttering in their hearts as they start out on one of life's greatest adventures.

Whether or not the young couple lives happily ever after usually depends on how successfully they meet and share the problems of everyday living. And not the least of these problems is financial. A family's sound financial standing depends as much upon a woman's ability to manage money as it does her husband's ability to make it. And a family savings program is as much the wife's responsibility as it is her husband's.

Many young couples today are working towards financial security by investing regularly in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan. It's the easiest way to save—and one of the safest.

Now Savings Bonds are better than ever!

Every Series E Savings Bond purchased since February 1, 1957, pays 3 1/4% interest when held to maturity. It pays higher interest, too, in the earlier years, and matures in only 8 years and 11 months. Now, more than ever, it's smart to save with guaranteed-safe U. S. Savings Bonds. Buy them regularly where you bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

PAPER DRIVE WILL BE HELD SATURDAY

on sale; and a cake walk conducted. Both groups have been invited to march in the Memorial Day parades for Taneytown at 1 p. m. May 30 and for Harney on June 1 at 8:30 p. m. Boy Scouts will have their weekly meeting Wednesday May 29, when some marching practice and an outdoor scout theme and game night was the order of the day after a most successful swimming evening at the Frederick Y.M.C.A. the week before.

Paper Drive Saturday

Next in the series of paper collections made the first Saturday of every month by members of Troop 348, Taneytown, with the help of the Cambridge Rubber Company, will take place June 1, commencing at 8 a. m. The roads to Keymar, Pine Hill, the Twin Bridges, and Stumptown will also be covered, and roadside deposits picked up, since individual solicitation beyond town limits would delay the drive until too late to get the vehicle emptied. Where it is possible, the secure bundling of scrap items insures the speedier handling which is essential. Rags, magazines, newspapers and iron are solicited, and the fine public cooperation makes the goal of a scout meeting place that much closer to reality.

Coming Events

Explorer Adviser Bowers, who is assisted by William B. Abrecht, Jr. and Larry L. Barnhart, met with favorable response to his proposal that another summer succession of ball games be scheduled with neighboring Explorer posts and with the Boy Scouts of the Taneytown troop. A week's camping excursion is also proposed for some time later this summer. A visit to one of the Big League games on a Monday meeting night can be carried out more or less on the spur of the moment, depending on the Oriole home game outline.

Boy scouts look forward to completion of their inter-patrol contest in late August, the Flaming Arrows at present leading under Patrol leader Charles Turner and Assistant Ronald Hopkins. A baseball trip is the much sought-after prize. In fact, that sport enters into the scout advancement picture too, for a baseball inscribed with Yankee player signatures donated by the Vul-Cork sole division of Cambridge Rubber Company is to be presented that Boy Scout showing the greatest progress in passing tests and moving on to higher rank. A second Natural Dam outing (with the hope of somewhat moisture) will enable much spadework to get done on these second and first class tests. Senior patrol leader Grant Harman has set the pace by completing merit badges in Automobiling, Hiking, and Rabbit raising, while Assistant scoutmasters Robert J. Rock and Harold W. Slaybaugh have been exceptionally busy at hearing boys on tests after meetings.

Broad Creek

The summer camp week at the council Broad Creek Camping Reservation near Whiteford has been set for August 3, and another large encampment is expected, since the Cody individual troop site is a most attractive one. It is an excellent vacation spot and at a favorable time for those older Boy Scouts and Explorers who have spent the earlier months working.

New Scout Hall

With much going on, nevertheless it is hoped to start construction of a hall to meet in. Application has been made to the Park Board for permission to locate in Memorial Park and when this is granted and the spot designated, things will really hum. All this is a big order, and sometimes things seem to move slowly, but the goal of every paper drive, the conservation of all the troop resources has been directed towards erecting a new meeting place. The collection of scrap on Saturday is also towards this end, and citizens of the town and country, who have been most cooperative in the past, are again asked to lend their vital assistance by donating rags, magazines, newspaper, and iron.

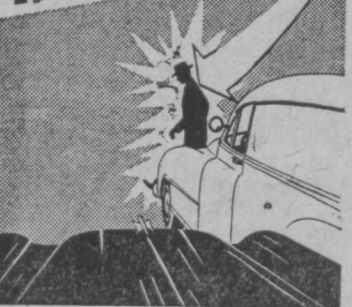

PENWOMEN MEET

The Carroll branch of the National League of American Penwomen met Monday in Taneytown, with Mrs. George L. Harner as hostess, Mrs. F. R. Ray assisting. Luncheon was served at the Taney Inn, followed by a program and business meeting at the Harner farm. In keeping with the theme for the meeting, Americana, Mrs. Robert W. Smith spoke on the early days of Virginia City, Nevada, illustrating the inspirational possibilities of the Old West for present day writers and artists with slides taken on her recent visit to that area. Mrs. Lillian Ibach and Mrs. Hewitt MacPherson of Taneytown were guests.

The main thing is your ambition, your aggressiveness, your disposition and kindness in getting along with the other fellow. Don't become intimate with your fellow employees and that way they will treat you with much more respect.

Recently, while I was calling in the hospital daily, I observed much. If you are gifted for nursing there is no other profession which quite equals it as there are so many openings now for a R. N. Nurses positively do not have to work in the hospitals as they did in former years. Frankly, I think that she use to do. The hours even are cut to eight hours daily and in the hospitals years ago all nurses worked much longer hours.

Whatever you attempt to do, Miss or Mr. Graduate, go at it as though you are going to enjoy every minute of it from the start and that way you will be successful.

In the June issue of The Reader's Digest on page 215 you will enjoy the article titled, "The Spainards Were Here Before Us!" It surely is a fact when you read on how much of Spanish there is really around us.

Now, here's a very important message, Mr. and Mrs. Housekeeper and in fact, everyone who is contemplating taking out insurance on anything. Your Observer has really learned more in one week as to insurance than in anything of my life previously. When you take out any type of insurance demand to see the policy first and ask to have it in your hands to read it a few days before you buy it in your own home. If the agent refuses to do this, take my advice and see that man to the door. It is these kind of things that make the buyer suspicious when it comes to insurance in any line. Your Observer could relate one entire column right here about life insurance policies and with some of the biggest companies in these United States. Ortabalaw!

May 15, aboard the attack transport USS Chilton after taking part in Carib Ex, a full scale amphibious landing to test the vulnerability of the Panama Canal Zone defenses.

The assumption of the operation was that aggressor forces had taken over the Fort Sherman and Camp Pina area on the Atlantic side of the zone. An Army company acted as aggressor.

After rehearsal landings at Vieques Island, the Chilton steamed under simulated wartime conditions, of darkened ship and silent radio, to the objective where she conducted a series of demonstration landings April 26 before high ranking military and civilian dignitaries from Latin America and the United States.

Throughout the exercise, atomic defense measures, vertical envelopment and troop landing by helicopter were employed.
