VALUE OF EARLY DIAGNOSIS OF CANCER by Barbara Rinehart

After a study of a unit on "Cancer", grade 10 biology class of THS was asked to write a paper on some phase of the topic. Since the subect was so timely, one of the best papers follows:

At the present cancer is a dreaded disease, because it is the second greatest cause of death in the United greatest cause of death in the United States today. It is important to know what it is because it may help save the life of a member of your own family. Knowing what cancer is and what to do for self-protection may later save your own life.

Cancer is a growth produced by real multiplication. Cancer is not a cell multiplication. Cancer is not a normal growth because its cells do not change into useful ones and they do not stop multiplying. The cancerous cells break away from their original growth and colonize in other parts of the body. They are carried there through lymph canals and blood vessels. If treatment is delayed until cancerous cells have spread to new locations, cure is very much more difficult and often impossible.

Early diagnosis of cancer is a life and death matter. Therefore early diagnosis is very important and it requires knowledge of early symp-toms of cancer. These symptoms or toms of cancer. These symptoms or danger signals are unusual bleeding or discharge change in a wart or mole, persistent indigestion or diffi-culty in swallowing, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere a sore that does not heal, any change normal bowel habits and persistent hoarseness or cough. At present, one way to diagnose cancer is to re move a bit of tissue from a suspected lump. A pathologist freezes sections, stains and examines the tissue to find out if the tumor is malignant or benign. If the tumor is malignant, it can be treated by surgery, X-ray or radium prior to

If cancer is diagnosed early and treated promptly the young people of today have a better chance of being saved from the disease. surgeryoffasi

RURAL MAIL BOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK MAY 19 TO MAY 24, 1958

It's Spring! Since spring house cleaning is here and we all take pride to beautify our homes and property, let us not forget to tidy up the Rural Mail Box. Remember, a tidy home and surroundings is often judged by the appearance of our mail box. We paint our houses, fix up our lawns and make many improvements to beautify our properties but many of us frequently neglect our mail boxes. So let's surprise the neighbors and passer-byers by giving our mail box the "New Look". A few suggestions to follow are: Paint your mail box and post either white or silver, and your name in neat black letters about one inch in height. Your name should be inscribed on the side of the box facing the carrier as he approaches the box. Your box must be a regulation type and in good condition with a door that opens easily and be a regulation type and in good condition with a door that opens easily and with a flag or signal attached thereon. The bottom of the box should be about 42 inches above the ground and mounted on an arm extending outward from the post. This is the 20th year that the Post Office Department has observed Rural Mail Box Improvement Week with great success through the fine cooperation of rural patrons. So again let's comply with the Department's program by using some of the above suggestions in showing your appreciation for mail service rendered you preciation for mail service rendered you.

Plan Ahead For Carefree Trip

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

PART OF THE FUN of a vacation trip is planning it. Frequently, however, too much time is spent pouring over maps and tour books, while certain annoying—but important—details are left for the last minute.

And, in the final rush to "get going," some of these details are bound to be neglected. A handy checklist of such items has been pre-pared by AAA. Using it, you'll Miss Smith eliminate any frantic worries when you're 500 miles from home about whether you left the stove on or let the car insurance lapse.

1. First, prepare a list of things to do around the house before you leave. Stop delivery of newspapers and milk, and shut off all home utilities. Arrange for someone to take care of your pets and plants and to pick up your mail. Leave a forwarding address if you plan to be gone any length of time.

2. Discourage prowlers by asking someone to mow your lawn periodically so that your house looks "lived in." Lock all windows and leave the shades only

3. Have your car thoroughly checked. Are brakes and tires safe? How about the electrical, cooling and fuel systems, as well as the motor, transmission and steering mechanism? It's a good idea, too, to have the oil changed and wheel bearings, transmission and differential lubricated.

4. Do you have emergency equipment-tool kit, good spare tire, tire jack, tire wrench, pliers and flashlight? How about in-surance? Is your car covered for theft, collision, property damage and public liability?

5. Before leaving, map your itinerary carefully. Limit each day's driving to about 400 miles. Check ahead on accom-modations. Schedule early stops for the evening.

6. Be sure to take your car registration and your driver's license. And don't forget camera and film, first aid kit, thermos bottle, sunglasses and other personal effects. Arrange your luggage in the trunk so that the bags you'll be needing most frequently are easily accessible. quently are easily accessible.

Look what you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 FORD

You just can't appreciate all the wonderful things that have been done to make driving more fun . . . until you've checked out in a shiny 58 Ford!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only "yesterday" was stoop down or knock off your hat. Now that has been changed. There's room for you and your hat inside the Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see. Full-Circle visibility lets you see where you're going ... see what's coming ... see to park!

Now touch the starter. Observe how smoothly your engine idles. That's because each Ford engine is built with painstaking care. Each V-8 is electronically balanced while operating under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly . . . dependably . efficiently. (If your pick is a thrifty Six, you can't buy a more powerful, more modern 6-cylinder passenger-car engine than Ford's 145-horsepower Mileage Maker Six.)

Ease down now on the throttle and you'll take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! For after all, the 58 Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own transmission and engine! Team Ford's Cruise-O-Matic Drive with a Thunderbirdpowered V-8 engine, and save up to 15% on gasoline. It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Next hunt up the roughest roads you can find. Notice how bumps lose their bounce with Ford's softer-riding suspension system. Notice how Ford's exclusive Automatic Ride Control combines Angle-Poised Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level . . . corner level . . . enjoy a "big car feel."

And Ford gives you more-much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide - sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed. natural position with Ford's Automatic Always a leader in safety, Ford again has pioneered new features to protect you. New Safety-Twin taillights, for example, keep you safer because they give better warning to cars behind vou. And only Ford offers you famous Lifeguard Design-the whole family of safety features designed to protect you should an accident occur.

Then there are the hidden values that are yours when you choose Ford. The car is put together with fine-car precision. The finish is durable enamel-baked enamel that helps Fords keep that new-car shine. On the inside, too, Ford cars give you more insulation than any other cars in Ford's field.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

Sometime ago while digging in the garden we found a horseshoe and hung it in a tree. We would have forgotten about it but yesterday we were reading about all the folklore attached to horseshoes and among many other things we learned was that it all depends on how the horse-shoe is hung, whether good or bad luck develops. We went out to the tree to see if we had put our horseshoe in the right position and strangely enough we had. Some other strange beliefs attached to the shoe that horses wear are these: There once lived a saint who was also an artist, and painted pictures of the other saints that were redraculus, in-asmuch as the head, when finished, always became encircled with a halo. The portraits in the course of years faded out, but the halo never did. Whoever possessed one of these strange pictures was always happy and lucky. The shape of the halo suggested a horseshoe, which thus be-came an omen of luck. It is lucky to make a horseshoe red hot, then place it above the door and never touch it again nor have it taken down. But there is no virtue in a horseshoe that is purchaser. Nail your found horseshoe over the door, points turned upward; don't pull out any of the nails and you will keep your luck as mails and you will keep your luck as many years as there are nails. If there are no nails with the shoe you find your good luck will be only temporary. The most popular legend of all is the one about the devil who one day came to St. Dunstan, who was known for his skill in shoeing horses and asked him to shoe his single hoof. and asked him to shoe his single hoof. The saints, knowing full well who his customer was, tied him tightly to the wall and proceeded with his work. But he put the devil to so much tor-

The Juniors entertained the Seniors and their escorts Friday evening with the traditional prom. The auditorium of the Elmer Wolfe school was turned into a small replica of the Far East with Japanese Lanterns swinging gaily from posts and fierce dragons looking down from dark corners. A small bridge was erected in the center of the auditorium decorated with spring flowers and colored balloons. The tables were decorated with minature parasols. Overhead the sky was a deep blue with hundreds of silver stars twinkling with the movement of air. Students dressed like coolies and geisha girls served refreshments. With the girls in pastel evening gowns with corsages on their wrists and their escorts in dark suits or dinner jackets it made a lovely picture of youth at its best. The juniors proved to be expert and charming hosts and hostesses and the seniors enjoyed every minute of the evening. Music was furnished by Genes Frocks Orchestra. Miss Nancy Roelke and Miss Dian-

The concert hall was filled with music lovers and they gave the chorus a splended reception. On the last number by Brahms called "Der Abend" the audience applause brought the chorus back for five curtain calls. The chorus is made up of twenty--six sopranos, sixteen altos, twelve tenors and eighteen bases, The chorus is considered the finest in Baltimore and recorded recently for broadcasting.

Tomorrow is election day and as far as we can find out it is going to be one of the dullest primaries Carroll County has ever had. People seem uninterested in who is going to be county commissioner or sheriff or dog-catcher. Of course they should but these matters seem trivial after hearing that France is faced with a revolution; that South America hates us so that she made it so bad for our vice-president that he came home and that Africa is ready to blow its top. But local politics is related to all these things though remotely. Out of local government grows state govern ment and from state the federal goverament rises. The federal govern-ment makes the policies that enables us to get along with other countries or to be at odds with them as the present chain of events would indicate. So it is important who is coun ty commissioner or delegate to the state assembly. The roots of good government begins to grow at county level. If the majority of the citizens allow the minority to rule and the minority happen to rule badly then what excuse does the majori-

None. There has been quite a commotion over the loud explosive sounds in our neighborhood for the past week. They shake the house yet no one seems to know where they come from. The army denies that they are planes breaking the sound barriers but we know for a certainty that whenever the sound occur there i always an army plane in the vicinity. On Sunday the plane was so low we could read U. S. Army on the fuse-lage and the numbers. What goes on? Are they testing atomic weapons or cicilians nerves? And speaking of civilian nerves ours were tested Saturday evening going into Baltimore. We ran head on into the thirty thousand attending the Preakness race at Pimlico. They were just leaving the race course when we got to Pikesville. It took one hour to go five blocks. I can just

FIFTH GRADERS TAKE A HISTORICAL TOUR by Martha Harman

On Tuesday, May 6, 1958, Miss Shreeve's class of 38 children, 1 teacher and 3 homeroom mothers went to Fort McHenry and Annapolis. The mothers that went along were Mrs. Feeser, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Harman.

As we were going through the entrance at Fort McHenry we saw two dungeons. Dungeon number 1 was closed but dungeon number 2 was open and we could see down into it. The prisoners had to sleep on the floor there.

We went into a room where there was an electric map. A guide told us about the battle of 1814.

We saw some clothes and weapons used by the men. We saw some old flags and the original copy of The Star Spangled Banner. There were some old dishes and furniture there

Then we went to a gift shop where some of us purchased souvenirs. Then we boarded the bus and left in the rain for Annapolis. After about an hour's ride we arrived at the Community House in Annapolis where we ate our lunches. Our next stop was the State House, capital of our great state of Maryland. Our State House was once the capital of the United States, from November 26, 1783, to August 13, 1784. When we went into the State House we saw a big dome. The guide told us it was 175 feet from the cellar to the top and 116 feet from the floor where we stood to the top. In the Old Senate Chamber there was a bronze plate on the floor to show where Washington stood when he resigned his commission to the Continental Congress in the year 1783. In the Old Flag Room we saw flags of all kinds which had net over them. Old Glory was one of the flags there. A money chest was in one of the corners. The guide told us that it had three locks and three men each had a key to open it and all three men had to be there to have the chest opened. Also in that room there was a piece of the Peggy Stewart. It was a ship that was burned for carrying Club.

In the Governor's Reception Room there are many fine oil paintings showing the past Governors.

Tea Cup Thriller By B. C. McAfee

IF anyone had told Meg Taylor that her husband's life would some day depend on a cup of tea, she no doubt would have laughed and said, "Don't be silly-Pete never touches the stuff." That was true, of course, with one exception the fateful night they dined at The Gypsy Tea Room.

Pete was flying to Denver that night on a business trip. Meg 2-Minute had suggested Fiction having dinner together in town, after which she'd accompany him to the airport and drive their car back home.

"You'll love this Gypsy Tea Room!" she told Pete, as they walked down Fifth Avenue that evening. "It's simply loaded with atmosphere and they say Princess Tanya is a marvel at reading tea leaves. Maybe she can tell us whether you're getting that promo-

"Atmosphere I can do without," grumbled Pete, holding the door for her.

for her. "What I need is a good, thick steak."

As they entered the dimly-lit room, a tall, dark-skinned Gypsy greeted them, bowing low.

Pete made an exaggerated face at Meg and followed her across the room to a small table in the corner. Their mysterious guide held a chair for Meg, handed them each a gilt-edged menu, then bowed again and disappeared. The air was heavy with incense. An invisible string trio played melancholy music. Girls in gay Gypsy costumes moved silently among the candle-lit tables, bearing trays of food. One of them came to take their order.

"We'll have your best steak dinner," said Pete, "and a large pot of black coffee.'

"Oh, no-tea, dear!" Meg corrected, smiling at the waitress. "We want Princess Tanya to read the leaves.'

"Aw. Meg . for heaven's sake!" Pete squirmed uncomfortably. "We won't have time for all that nonsense. I've got to catch that 8 o'clock plane for Denver.'

As usual, Meg had her way. After dinner, Pete drank his tea with a wry face, then meekly allowed Princess Tanya to read the leaves. Pete stood up, looking slightly dazed. "Well, I'll be-" he muttered.

Meg was busily mopping the table with a huge linen napkin. "It was just an accident, dear. She'll bring your coat back and then read your tea leaves. I'm so anxious Pete handed her his wallet. "Here, you pay the check while I get my coat. If that clock's right, we barely have time to make the airport!" Turning, he strode over to the curtained doorway where Princess Tanya had disappeared. He heard voices inside, arguing. The Princess was saying, "But we must not let them go! Perhaps if we keep them waiting for the

"I'll take the coat new, if you don't mind!" said Pete, snatching it out of her hand. "And I'm having this place investigated!"

As they sped to the airport, Pete continued to grumble. "Craziest place I ever saw. We should've gone to the Steak House-I'll never make that 8 o'clock plane. What's that siren-a cop?"

"No, look-it's an ambulance!" said Meg, pointing as a white streak shot past their car. "Pete-do be careful." "What's up?" Pete asked a man in uniform. "Eight o'clock plane to Denver cracked up as she was taking off.

Looks bad." "Oh, dear!" gasped Meg and burst into tears. "That-that was your plane!' "Yeh," said Pete, putting an arm around her. He pulled a handkerchief from his breast pocket and a small white card fluttered to the ground. Meg picked it up, glanced at it, and looked like she'd seen a ghost. Speechless, she handed the card to Pete. On one side was the name and address of the Gypsy Tea Room. On the other side, scrawled in black pencil, he read: "THE GENTLEMAN HAS NO

FUTURE"

Love of a Cake for Brides-to-be

THIS LOVELY heart shaped cake is a conversation piece for showers or other festive occasions. It's made with two standard pans-one square, one round. It's rich with unsweetened chocolate and topped with shell-pink peppermint frosting.

CUPID'S CAKE

4 squares unsweetened chocolate

1/2 cup hot water 1/2 cup sugar 2 cups sifted cake flour

1 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup butter or margarine

1-1/4 cups sugar 3 eggs, unbeaten 2/3 cup milk 1 teaspoon vanilla

1 teaspoon soda Place chocolate and water in top of double boiler. Cook and stir over hot water until chocolate is melted and mixture thickens. Add 1/2 cup sugar and cook and stir 2 minutes longer. Cool to lukewarm.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter or margarine, add 1-1/4 cups sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Then add flour alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and chocolate mixture and blend.

Divide batter between one 9x9x2-inch square pan and one round 9-inch layer pan which have been lined on bottoms with paper. Measure and make depth of batter the same in each pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly pressed. Cool. Place square cake diagonally on a large tray, cardboard, or wooden board. Cut round cake in half. Place half circles with cut edges against two upper sides of square cake, to form a heart. Trim, if necessary.

Frost with Fluffy Frosting flavored with peppermint and add just enough red coloring to tint a delicate pink. Decorate cake with outline of heart, using shaved chocolate. To serve, cut heart down the center and in lengthwise strips. Then cut each half of heart in diagonal strips, parallel to upper edge of square cake, to form small diamond-shaped petits fours. Life, Law and God

Lesson for May 25, 1958

THERE are three kinds of law in the Old Testament. Christians are sometimes confused about them because of not stopping to consider just what these kinds of law are. The Ten Commandments come first of all. They are the key to all the other laws. From that day to this -or for that matter, long before that time-all particular laws in human society. so far as they are good, will be seen to be particular cases or applications of Second are the "statutes" as they are sometimes called, the special laws for ancient Israel, embedded in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy, in variosu legal codes. These are like the laws of any country or city that no longer exists. The law died when the country died. What is sta living in the statutes is their principles, and these are as good as new. The third class of laws is the great mass of regulations govaces. These have no binding effect whatever today, because the Tabermacle and Temple are no more, and "Christ our Passover" has been once and for all sacrificed

God's Law No Barbed-Wire Fence What is said about the Law of God in Deuteronomy 6 and 11, not to mention elsewhere, supports three propositions. If we put each of these propositions negatively, it is because the opposite proposition is positive, but positively wrong. First it must be said, against a chorus of croakers, that God's Law is no barbed-wire or any other sort of fence. It is not a chain, hand-cuffs, nor a prison wall. It does not repress, it releases. Note how often in these chapters, and in the Bible, God's will and law are connected with life. Religion has been called (falsely) a "set of scruples," -that is to say, all that religion can do for a man is to make him dreadfully uncomfortable in the region of the conscience. That is definitely not the idea of Deuteronomy. The law of God sets man free. It no more hinders him than a railway track hinders the train.

God's Law Not Superfluous

Another proposition suggested by Deul ronomy is that the law of God is not superfluous. Some people think that because we live under grace, as Christians do, the law is not needed any more. A remark made by the great Saint Augustine is often quoted and enlarged on: Love God, said he, and then you can do as you please. Any act done out of love is right, therefore all you need is love, and the law will take care of itself. Now it is not true that all acts done from love are right. A good many really vicious things have been perpetrated in the name of God by men who loved God with all their might. There have been some quite benevolent tyrants. The New Testament does not suggest that we have grown beyond the law of God now that we know the new law of Love. Rather, love shows us ways in which we may fulfill God's laws. You will find "Love God with all your heart" in Deuteronomy (6:5) and "Love your neighbor as yourself" in Leviticus (19:18). But no writer or user of the Old Testament has supposed that all the other laws but those two could be erased.

God's Law Not God's Whim

An important third point about the Law of God is suggested in these chapters from Deuteronomy. It is the right answer to an old question: Could God have turned the Ten Commandments upside down, so to speak, if he had wanted to? Could be just as well have said, Thou shalt have others Gods before me . . . Thou shalt kill, thou shalt commit adultery, dishonor thy parents; lie and steal? Did he draw these laws, so to speak, out or s. cloud, as tickets are drawn ai a raffle? In short, are the laws of God arbitrary, a matter of divine caprice? Is all we can say about "right" and "wrong" only "He wants it that way, so shut up!"? Absolutely not. God made man, he made man in his own image. With man, and in man, God created and implanted the laws of man's existence. God's will for man is rooted in his love for us his children.

Spring tonic for the busy house-keeper are hints designed to make the daily or weekly household tasks just a bit easier. Here are some ideas developed by Spic and Span Cleaning Clinic, that may help you cope with cleaning situa-tions that at times may appear "copeless" to even calmest and the "copeless" to even calmest and the best organized homemaker.

When baby spills his milk and the toddler drops his bread and jam (jam side down, of course) on the floor of your kitchen or dining areas, don't give it a troubled thought. Replenish supplies and then give the floor a quick onceover with a mon squeezed out of over with a mop squeezed out of hot water to which a special cleaner for hard-surface floors has been added. This cleaner needs no rinsing, no mopping dry. Just one going over makes the floor clean and bright again.

Spring rains aren't so distresssorting taths aren't so distress-ing to the woman who knows the secret of quick floor care. Marks left by muddy rubbers or wet shoes can be quickly erased from even the most light and gaily col-ored hard-surface floors with a once-over mopping if you use a special cleaner dissolved in hot water. Do the cleaning with a squeeze-type mop and go over the floor just once. It will emerge from this easy sponging brighter than ever.

0 The busy young mother could work herself into a state of panic if she tried to estimate the number of miles toy tractors, trains, automobiles and trucks travel over the nursery, playroom or kitchen floor in a day, a month or a year. There's no need to worry if you have a hard-surface floor — linoleum tile or vinyl for instance—and a gleaving tophysica that's and a cleaning technique that's easy. There's a special cleaner to add to hot water that cleans the floor in one quick mopping, with no need to rinse or dry. It makes the floor a cleaner and safer area for the small folk that use it.

New Steel Building Developed For Machinery Storage And Livestock Shelter

A new concept in steel buildings for livestock shelter and machinery storage has been achieved with a pre-engineered all-steel pole lavilding that can be erected by the owner himself.

Considered to be a major advancement in pre-engineered building design, the new Stran-Master employs only 13 different pre-fabricated parts in a frame that is easily assembled and quickly bolted together. The result is quality steel building features at a price comparable to wood poles.

No cranes or neavy equipment are needed for erection A 26% are needed for erection A 26% are needed for erection A 26% are needed for erection.

bolted together. The result is quality steel building features at a price comparable to wood poletype buildings, and 30% to 50% less than other steel farm buildings.

For all its basic simplicity of construction and rock-bottom price, the building is attractively trim and modern in appearance. It's a good looking low-profile building with a roof pitch of 2' in 12'. Heavy 26-gage galvanized wall and roof sheets are extrawide, full length and ribbed for greater strength. This results in fewer laps and joints, assuring weather-tight construction and low maintenance cost.

Whatever the size of the livestock herd to be housed, or amount of machinery to be stored, this flexible structure developed by Stran-Steel Corporation can be built to meet all requirements. It comes in widths from 12' to 120' and in any length multiples

The Hard Way

A little common-sense, day-to-day upkeep, and this tractor might have been out on North 40 doing the job.

Tractors don't need much pampering. They are built to take it. But the reasonable amount of care and maintenance they do require is a must. Take, for example, the day-to-day, common-sense type of upkeep any tractor owner can do for himself. Neglect here can reduce tractor life by as much as fifty per cent, according to a survey by Massey-Ferguson Service.

Massey-Ferguson Service.

Observing the following pre-service maintenance precautions will go a long way toward prolonging the life of any tractor: 1. Change engine oil, transmission, and differential lubricants as prescribed in owners manual.

Change oil filter and service air cleaner at intervals recommended in owners manual.

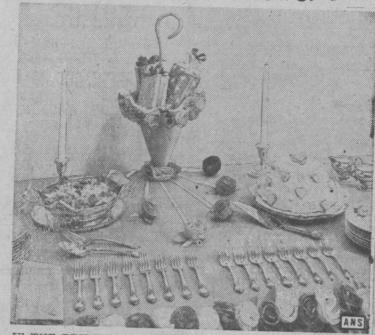

Remove, clean, re-set spark plug gap at regular intervals. Check battery for water once a week

5. Follow instructions in owners manual. If manual is lost, get another copy from your dealer.

One more consideration to keep your tractor in good working order and at top efficiency: at least once a year, get a complete engine tune-up by your dealer's service expert.

Bridal Buffet Shower

IF THE BRIDE-TO-BE is a relative or close friend, here's an idea for a party on her wedding eve. Traditionally, this is the groom-to-be's, "last night out", so why not a "bachelor girl party" to take her mind off the "butterflies" in her tummy?

This beautiful buffet table; the sterling silver, the centerpiece and food all contribute to the festivity and are a fine example to her of how living with charm can be an averyday affair. We to her of how living with charm can be an everyday affair. We now know that saving sterling for Sundays only is an old wives' tale and that daily use and washing not only retards tarnish, but brings out the lustrous beauty of the patina.

Nothing on the table is overly complicated. The delicious casserole was made with 2 four-ounce cans of sliced mushrooms, 1 ready-to-cook stewing chicken (3½ lbs.), cut up, mined parsiley, chonned almonds chonned nimicate, and a condensed ley, chopped almonds, chopped pimiento, and a can of condensed celery soup. The cake is made from a prepared mix, and candy hearts from the bakery have been outlined with silver shot.

Find out from the bride-to-be's dealer which sterling pattern she has selected and suggest to your guests that everything on the table be a co-operative gift for her...the one time anyone has a perfect right to take home the sterling without being stopped at the door!

One Of Every 6 Farms Has 2 Trucks

NEXT TIME YOU'RE DRIVING in the country, look at the vehicles around farmhouses and in the fields. If these are average farms, one of every six of them has two or more trucks. Pictured are the two most popular models used on farms—the pick-up and the stake. The 3/4-ton stake is one of 24 stake and platform models offered by Dodge. The high-style Sweptside 100 pick-up is handsome enough to double as a passenger vehicle on trips into town, to thurch, and to grange meetings.
