Taneytown Vol. Fire Dept.

Weekly Report

Friday, 4, 8:50 a. m. Taneytown Fire Department with two engines, and the Harney Fire Department with one engine responded to a house fire in Harney, Md. The Fire Co. used boosted lines and laid out over 550 ft. of 1½ inch hose to a pond. The home of Mr. Richard Leister was badly damaged by fire on the second floor and some water damage resulted on the ground floor. Damage was estimated around $3,000 dollars, which was caused by wiring. Firemen were on the scene for more than 2 hours.

Sunday, June 8, at 4:10 p. m. Taneytown firemen while preparing for their carnival, were called away to answer another house fire. This one was located on the property of Paul Rodkey between the Westminster and the Uniontown road. Firemen used booster lines and laid a line from a nearby stream. The fire was located in the attic and gas masks were used by firemen, because of the heavy smoke, to enter the building. Firemen contained the blaze to the third floor. It was a very stubborn fire which took over 4 hours to quench.

Three firemen were treated at the scene for minor injuries. Over $3,000 dollars was the estimated loss, mostly located in the attic. The cause was believed to be a defective chimney. Harney Vol. Fire Department was called to stand by until the Taneytown equipment was back in service.

Ambulance Transports: Wednesday, June 4, at 3:25 p. m. Mrs. Joseph Leister was transported to the Frederick Hospital and returned to her home.

FIERCE STORM LASHES THIS COMMUNITY

Firemen Forced to Postpone Parade Until Friday Evening

A small dark cloud in the west developed into a terrific storm that descended on this community yesterday (Wed.) afternoon. Trees were uprooted, roofs were torn off and a small amount of hail accompanied the extremely heavy rainfall with winds of hurricane force.

The storm swept a path of destruction from the western part of the state to Baltimore with a varied amount of force.

The storm was accompanied with sharp flashes of lightning and heavy thunder.

Hardly a property in Taneytown escaped some physical damage. The streets were littered, to a small extent, with fallen slate and small limbs and the gutter curbs were filled with water from the downpour. Many yards lost their favorite trees and limbs were broken off and were lying on Taneytown's beautiful lawns.

The Taneytown Fire Company is holding its carnival this week. On the carnival ground almost complete wreckage was manifested in the blowing down of tents, etc., and the upsetting and damage to the several "rides".

Immediately after the storm workmen began the "cleaning up" job. At the carnival ground an extra effort was made to have the grounds ready for the continuance of the carnival and the "show is now ready to roll".

The usual large parade that was to be held had to be postponed and will be held Friday evening, June 13, beginning at 7:15 o'clock.

Two new members were added to the company.

The next public supper will be held July 5th starting at 1 p. m.

The firemen were called to the home of Richard Leister last Friday morning at 9:45 where his produce house was on fire. "SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The green benches in the Mt. Vernon Square makes one think of the green benches in St. Petersburg, Fla. So many interesting people sitting right there!

This time of the year "Graduation Time" brings back the other days in Philly when the sweet girl graduate was dressed in a most substantial and conservative white dress. Today, the High School girls try to see how much can come out of those evening dresses!

Now, is the time, Folks to purchase that good used car while the market is so low and there are so many around!

What a delightful treat is in store for you if you decide to have dinner down town on Monday night when the Fashion Show takes place right there at 6 o'clock. For the past year that favorite department store serves a Buffet supper or dinner at that hour and it really is delicious. The nice part there are so many selections as you help yourself as you walk along the long table and all I can say is Ummmmmm Good! Then, the nice colored waitress standing there said to me when she heard my enthusiasm, "You may come back for more!"

Well, the postage will go up in price the first of August.

That one we have been expecting and after all it is cheap to send a letter to such a distant place as California or far off states.

Those awful Chemise dresses still in my mind are truly the most hideous of anything that has ever been made to cover the figure. They are truly a God-send for the Lady-in-waiting—but that is all.

Don't miss the movie with the wonderful actor Gary Grant in "10 North Frederick Street," shown at the Century theatre. The acting is wonderful and you will just love the charming old home inside and out and the story is worth while from which we can learn much. I leave the rest to you.

Now, that school will be closing the doors for the summer plan on visiting The Walter's Art Gallery. The exhibition of timepieces is composed of two parts, a technological and artistic one. The first part shows reproductions of old devices for time-keeping and time recording as well as early examples of watches provided with the main spring which was invented towards the end of the middle ages. The last invention in mechanism of the watch is represented by the electric watch, the power of which comes from a small chemical cell. The Hamilton Watch Co. of Lancaster, Pa., has provided an example of the new electric watch as well as the reproductions of old timepieces and charts demonstrating the mechanism and the construction of a watch.

The artistic part of the exhibit draws exclusively upon the collection of the Walter's Art Gallery—the collection of timepieces including over 250 has never before been exhibited in its entirety. It gives a complete survey of the different types of clocks used since the Renaissance until the end of the 18th century. The 18th Century French clocks in gilt bronze are superb pieces. An English chime clock with mechanism dates 1735 is one of the earliest of its kind.

The artistic evolution of the watch cases from the early 17th century until about 1820 is represented by an extremely brilliant and valuable sequence of items in which the crafts of the goldsmith and of the enameller combined to produce masterpieces of the colorful delicacy. Do not miss this wonderful exhibition. One could remain days right there.

And don't forget, Folks this coming Sunday is Father's Day—the day that nice man around your house—don't take him as the man who pays the bills! In other words Father should not be thought of the wage earner. Legend and romance always have glorified Mother. The Poet has hallowed her place in life and home. Father's Day comes more than a month after Mother's Day. Thus Mother's Day loses none of its glory or glamor.

Little sentiment is created through Father's toils, sacrifices and expressions of love. Much of his time is spent in the world of strife and competition. It is true that Mothers soothe the brow, heal the hurts, ease pain. Since women now are earning money as well as men, Father is coming into his own. He is becoming recognized for what he is rather than what he has! Tell him you love him on his day and then keep it up the next 365 days! Fathers are necessary! What is life without Father? I will be seeing you on Tyson street. I hope this coming Saturday when there will be "Open House" to see right in those charming and colorful little homes. As one walks down the street, you imagine you are on a street in Paris. It is filled with enchantment and one is given a grand welcome.

Well, Folks until next week D.V. Have a grand week-end. Go to church even when there is rain. You know if you had reserved tickets for a Show you would not break that engagement. Be thankful there are not reserved seats in any church of any denomination! I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

CLEAR THE TRACK!

In the midst of talk of having reached the bottom of the recession, the claims that it is "saucerizing out", and assurances that there's no place to go but up, it's a shock to realize that the railroads, which constitute one of our most fundamental industries, are still in real trouble. Many, in fact, have only enough money on hand at this writing to pay operating expenses for a few days!

But the industry does not exist in a vacuum. It has gross revenues of some $10 billion annually, which it pays out in wages, taxes, dividends and purchases all across the nation.

Trouble for the railroads thus means trouble for the whole country. Their drastic economy efforts have forced layoffs of 150,000 railroaders and even greater cuts in the million-man railway supply industry.

In the light of these facts, we can only agree with this comment of Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads: "If America is ever to end its worries over 'boom and bust' business cycles, it must first manage to solve the problem of periodic poverty among railroads, with its inevitable impact upon millions of people."

Hopes for such a solution now reside in Congress in a transportation omnibus bill providing for relief in various directions—including Government guarantee of emergency loans and fairer tax treatment of money spent for new facilities and equipment. Equally important, pending legislation would give the over-regulated railroads greater freedom to make rates that would enable shippers to take advantage of the lower costs of rail transportation. Other bills would relieve common carrier traffic of wartime excise taxes that were imposed to discourage both freight business and passengers—and they certainly do so.

"Railroading", says Mr. Loomis, "... appears to lie at the very end of the economic pendulum." Thus, it would seem that the Congress could do the nation no greater service at this critical time than to give this vital industry an upward nudge. There are no "handouts" involved here. Rather, the Congress is asked in common justice to grant the greater opportunity—that industry-at-large enjoys—of managing its own business and of meeting the competition.

Prosperity needs healthy rails, defense needs strong rails—and only Congress can clear the track.—U. S. Press Association.

TO KEEP THE WHEELS ROLLING

The transportation legislation presently under Congressional consideration should be of interest to every one who is concerned with the nation's industrial and financial well-being. It is, in effect, one of the most far-reaching anti-recession measures yet studied by our legislators in Washington.

Briefly, it aims to correct some of the economic imbalances which today affect every segment of our national transportation system, and in turn the entire national scene.

In large measure, this legislation stems from the recent hearings before the Senate Subcommittee on Surface Transportation, headed by Florida's Senator George A. Smathers. During those hearings, originally called to investigate what the Senators termed "the deteriorating railroad situation", the hearings served to air the views of not only railroad executives, but those of leaders of the trucking industry and of other carriers.

The hearings clearly developed that there are grave flaws in our present system of regulation. Indeed, some of these flaws have led to the mushroom growth of a whole system of transportation which is completely—although technically legally—beyond any and all governmental scrutiny, much less regulation.

This "loophole" system has had and is currently having an extremely deleterious effect upon the regulated carriers, whose rates, wages and services are established for them by various federal and state bodies.

One aim of the Smathers legislation—to give it a title—would be to bring this unregulated transport system under proper government supervision, and thus to eliminate what is generally agreed to be a grievously inequitable competitive situation.

Another major aim would be the establishment of equitable competitive opportunities for the regulated carriers; opportunities presently denied to them, and most especially the railroads, which continue to operate under a set of laws designed to end a monopolistic situation which no longer exists. These laws have reduced the nation's privately-owned railroad system—which is, incidentally, the only one in the world—to the gravest financial extremes.

It is this financial crisis which, many observers believe, has contributed in large measure to the present recession, for the railroads have until recently been among the nation's top purchasers of such basic commodities as steel and fuel. This is no longer the case. In what amounts to a vicious circle, the decline in the production of these basic commodities has in turn reduced the volume of traffic moving the railroads and further complicated the railroad industry's financial situation.

During the Senate Subcommittee hearings, the Senators were told by many of the nation's foremost railroad executives that unless corrective legislative action were forthcoming, socialized railroads were inevitable. Trucking executives warned that their own regulated industry was being adversely affected by their non-regulated truck competitors, as well as by other forms of transportation over which the government has no supervisory powers.

One of the surest indices of the national economic health is the solidity of its transportation system. At present, our system is in need of a modern and comprehensive national transportation policy without which it cannot continue to be a major factor in the national economy.

It is just such a new healthy policy that the Smathers legislation seeks to establish. Once established, it will aid our ailing transportation system to help itself, and in turn the whole of the United States, back to economic health.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange paid their common share owners $2,179,860,580 in cash dividends during the first quarter of this year—a new high record for the initial quarter of any year and 2 per cent above the equivalent period in 1957. It also marked the 16th successive time that first quarter common dividends increased over the same period of the previous year.

Weeds are a worst threat to farmers than bug or blight. They cause a staggering loss estimated at $5 billion a year, and reduce crop yield by 10 per cent. New herbicides, perfected in oil industry laboratories, are proving effective in reducing the damage, and the search for still better ones goes on.

A Western railroad recently announced the discontinuance of two passenger trains. The reason: It costs $1,800 a day to operate them—and they carried an average of only one passenger per trip.

The National Association of Manufacturers points out that the Department of Agriculture plans to spend $756 million to remove farm land from production under the soil bank program—and that, at the same time, the Bureau of Reclamation wants to spend $216 million to get more land ready for production by building dams and irrigation systems.

Dorothy Thomason devoted a recent column to the heavy dependence of the American economy on war spending. This spending she wrote: "... takes millions of employables off the labor market onto the government payroll, and furnishes an inexhaustible market for the basic industries, since its purchases are perpetually obsolete, sometimes even before they have moved or left the drawing board. An arms race is continual turnover, as each new weapon invented by an enemy must be matched and if possible surpassed."

A Trendex News Poll asked what is most to blame for juvenile crime. A heavy majority—71.3%—gave parents' failure as the primary reason.

A spokesman for the Super Market Institute says: "Through the years, nothing has shaken the super market faith in newspaper space. We know that all business is local. We know that to be really effective advertising must be news. Newsy advertising brings people into stores."

As of mid-1957, industry's average capital investment for each production worker was about $16,000—an increase of $1,200 in a year.

Surveys show that beef is the favorite meat of most men. So the American National Cow Belles, an organization made up of the wives of the members of the American National Cattleman's Association, are undertaking a "Beef for Father's Day" promotion.

Jewelry Trend

Stainless steel, long famed for its durability and beauty in such applications as household equipment, architecture and automobiles, is now emerging as an important new material in the costume jewelry field.

Stainless had long been recognized as a potential jewelry metal because of its lovely and lustrous appearance as well as its unique long-wearing qualities.

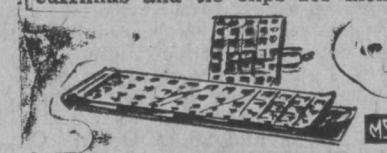

But its innate hardness had previously posed problems in the intricate fabrication of jewelry pieces.

The development of special designs and techniques in recent years has solved this problem, with the result that there are now a variety of these interesting pieces on the market. Thin wire shapes of stainless are used together to produce delicate bracelets and pins. Narrow strips of the metal are formed into everything from earrings and bracelets for women to handsome cufflinks and tie clips for men.

One custom-jeweler, Norman LeBeau of New York, hand crafts various pieces from standard textured stainless steel strip.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Hay making and cutting barley commenced in this section, this week. The indications are that wheat harvest will commence during the week of the 22nd.

Our college boys and girls have all returned home for the summer vacation.

Taneytown Vol. Fire Company was represented at the Firemen's Convention in Frostburg, by a delegation of fifteen.

There will be a game of baseball this Friday evening between the "Invincibles" and the "Irresistibles". It will be worth seeing, so don't miss it.

Mrs. Vallie E. Hoagland, New York and children arrived here last Thursday evening for the summer, accompanied by Mrs. D. W. Garner who had been visiting them.

A Festival and Supper, for the benefit of St. Joseph's Catholic church will be held on the School House lawn, June 18, 19 and 20.

We have been assured by the Burgess, that hereafter, every possible effort will be made to prevent racing and fast driving on our streets, by the arrest of all offenders.

The Fire Company prevented another big fire, last Friday afternoon, at the lumber shed of the Reindollar Co., which caught fire at the peak of the roof in the centre of the buildings and was beginning to get a good start when the water was turned on. The fire was noticed after the passage of the southbound freight, and was likely caused by a spark falling on the dry roof. This building has been on fire several times, from engine sparks, and it and the cooper shop adjoining will now be covered with metal.

Price of Beef Still Advancing. The price of beef which has been high during the last three months, was again advanced this week, making the present wholesale price the highest ever reached in Baltimore. The best beef is now quoted wholesale at 12 cents a pound.

School Board Meeting. On account of resignations, removals and requests, the following changes and additions have been made: at Piney Creek, Elmer Hess has been appointed in place of David Kephart; at Baust's, David Hahn and Charles West have been appointed in place of Levi Maus and Joseph Formwalt; at Bear Mount, Charles Marker in place of William Utermahlen; at Keysville, Mahlon Stonesifer in place of Geo. FEESERSBURG

(A Voice from Carroll)

The annual graduation exercises of the Elmer Wolfe School at Union Bridge was held in the school auditorium, June 5th. There were thirty members in the graduating class this year. The following program was presented: "Traditional processional," "Praise Ye the Father" by the school orchestra; invocation by Rev. Barr; Duet by Bonnie Quisenberry and Nancy Roelke; Address by Dr. Ralph Price from Western Maryland College; Prayer by Rev. Simmons; Presentation of Diplomas by Mr. Paul Niswander, president of the Board of Education; America the Beautiful by the audience; Awards by Mr. Henry J. Kanowicz, principal of Elmer Wolfe School; Selections by the orchestra; Benediction by Mr. Berkley Bowman and the Recessional. The Junior class held rose arches under which the graduates marched to and from the platform. It made a pretty picture with the seniors in their blue and white gowns, but a very emotional one. We never saw so many tears at a graduation. The juniors cried as much as the seniors. There is no doubt but that graduation is sad as well as joyous. It is a time of parting from classmates who have shared twelve years together. Many strong friendship has developed and now must be relinquished for the class will scatter in all directions. It will never be the same again. School days are like no other days in one's life. No one ever realizes this until they are over. But they are only one chapter in growing up. There many chapters to come and each one will be more exciting than the last.

Children's Day services were held at Mt. Union Lutheran church, Sunday, June 7th. About thirty children took part in songs, recitations and plays. The choir sang several selections suitable for children's day. The collection was sent to the Lutheran Children's Home, at Loysville, Pa.

Its strawberry time in Carroll County. Local strawberries are red-ripe and delicious. Homemakers are taking advantage of the bumper crop to fill freezers and pantry shelf with preserves. But the best way to serve them is with old-fashioned short cake and cream. Its delicious eating but for those who must watch their waste line its temptation in the nicest way. There are many ways to make short cake but this is our favorite: "2c. flour; 1/2 teas. of salt; 4 teas. baking powder; one tablespoon of sugar; one cup of butter; one well beaten egg; two-thirds cup of milk. Mix the usual way and bake 25 minutes in a pre-heated oven 425 degrees. Serve hot with plain cream and plenty of strawberries.

Sign in a doctor's office: "Ladies in waiting room will kindly refrain from exchanging symptoms. It gets the doctor confused".

President Eisenhower congratulated the valedictorian of the graduating class at Mt. Saint Mary's college at Emmitsburg last week on making one of the finest speeches he had ever heard. Charles E. Hodges was the leader and valedictorian of his class. He is 21 and comes from the coal region of Pennsylvania. He has an outstanding scholastic record and has held all the important posts on the college campus. But success has not come easy. He was among those students who helped finance his education by working during the summer and while at college. It must have been a real thrill to him to share the platform with the President of the United States and to be so warmly congratulated by him.

We often wonder how our forefathers were able to start fires when they were needed. There were no matches and in rainy weather the flint and steel method often failed. Some information we gathered shed light on the situation. Many pioneers tried to find a way to keep a fire going all the time and finally found a method to do just that. A big green log set in the back of a fire-place would smoulder for days. Dry wood burned in front of it gave heat, but the first died out when it wasn't kept replenished. But the green back log kept enough embers from which a new fire could be started. Sometimes in an emergency the back log would be burned but it was always replaced with another. In this way fire was kept the year round.

The Francis Scott Key senior high school near Uniontown is getting to look like a school. Workmen are putting in the window frames and one can get a good idea how it will look when finished. It is situated at a nice location. Out in the open and not close to any other buildings. It would be fine if the county had some zoning laws which would keep it that way. The sooner some zoning laws are put on the books the better it will be for our county. Just the other day an out of the state visitor remarked how beautiful Carroll County is and hoped it would always remain so. It will if some expert planning is done. But if it left to chance Carroll might well become the garbage dump of Baltimore.

After an absence of six months television is back in our house and we are sorry. The programs have deteriorated to the point that some commercials are more entertaining than the program. Of course that isn't saying much for the commercials. We thought after the sputniks were launched the Americans would demand more programs to stimulate their minds. Instead they are getting more Westerns and more murder. On the other hand maybe people are not watching T.V. like they did. The novelty has worn off and they are finding more interesting things to do. Like working in the garden or taking part in baseball.

Ignore your enemies but treat your friends a little better.—Ruth Roelke.

HOW'S YOUR EYESIGHT

If you drive a car the condition of your eyes should be of great concern to you, naturally. Yet, according to a professor of ophthalmology, poor eyesight probably is one of the basic causes of traffic accidents.

About 35,000 drivers in motor vehicle accidents in 1956 were reported to have defective eyesight, according to the National Safety Council. Add to that the number of accidents that result from blocked vision, and you can see just how important sight is to motorists.

In more than a million auto accidents in 1956, not being able to see clearly was a contributing factor. In about half of the million accidents, obstructions on the vehicle—most important of which were rain or snow on the windshield—were factors.

Highway obstructions such as trees, bushes, buildings and signboards were the culprits in more than 200,000 of the million accidents.

How can the problem be solved? 1. Don't drive if your eyesight's so bad it can't be corrected with glasses. 2. Reduce your speed 5 or 10 m. p.h. so you'll have more time to spot hazards ahead.

FATHER'S DAY

Many people of the United States and Canada express appreciation and gratitude on Father's Day by giving their fathers greeting cards and presents. Father's Day is observed on the third Sunday in June, while Mother's Day is the second Sunday in May. Though more than a month apart, Father's Day is also celebrated by some organizations with special programs, and by some groups with special banquets.

Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, of Spokane, Washington, originated the day in 1910. Since then the observance of Father's Day has widely spread. American business firms which deal in men's wears have been active in making the day popular.

Children have come to think of father as more than a provider for the household, or a tiller of the soil. He is "Daddy," with love in his heart, and kindness in his family acts. The hand that rocks the cradle still may rule the world but, the hand that bought the cradle cares for his own. Words of endearment and love are as becoming to a well-deserving father as well-fitting gloves to the hands of a mother.

Since Father's Day is younger than Mother's Day, there hasn't been as much sentimental material written about father. The gift for father may not cost as much as the present for mother, for Mother's Day coming earlier, the children may have had more money to spend upon "Mom".

While mother is home fondling and caressing the children, father is out in the world earning for them a living. The nearness and constant touch of the mother to the children creates a sentiment for mother that is seldom expressed for father. The father stands between his family and the world while many mothers sit on top of the world. A multitude of fathers are spoken of in terms of geology rather than a genealogy, such as—"solid as a rock".

The feeling of every true father is: "Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him."

He recently returned from La Paz, Bolivia, where he served for two years in the office of the U. S. Army attaché at the United States Embassy. Mr. Morrison gave a brief, but very interesting account of the life and customs of the people in Bolivia.

The rest of the evening was spent in dancing and chatting with old friends in the beautifully decorated auditorium which featured a huge rosette covered Eiffel tower in the center. Music was furnished until twelve midnight by Bob Kersey's orchestra.

Mrs. Doris Harner was general chairman of this year's affair.

HISTORIC MARYLAND HOMESTEAD AT UNION MILLS TO BE OPENED IN JUNE

One of Maryland's most unusual historic homes, the old Shriver Homestead at Union Mills, Carroll Co., Md., will be opened to the public this summer as one of the new historic shrines in the state.

The Union Mills Homestead, on US 140 north of Westminster, was built in 1797 by two brothers, Andrew and David Shriver, who built a mill and a tannery at the crossroads leading from Baltimore toward Pennsylvania and the western frontier. For more than one hundred and sixty years, the old log-and-clapboard mansion has been owned and occupied by members of the same Shriver family, who preserved most of the furnishings, utensils, toys, documents and necessary items of daily living from almost every period of the nation's history. The twenty-three rooms of the homestead are a unique museum of American country life and have witnessed almost every phase of activity that could occupy five generations of Americans.

The Shriver brothers were sons of David Shriver, Sr., an outstanding patriot of Revolutionary days, and a member of the Maryland Constitutional Convention. The brothers became active in early state politics, and in successive years, the homestead became a post-office, a magistrate's office, a stage-coach tavern, a school, and a headquarters for political activity in what was then Frederick County. David Shriver, Jr., became Superintendent of the Reisterstown Turnpike, and later was appointed Superintendent of the Old National Road to St. Louis.

The homestead became well known in Western Maryland as a symbol of Maryland hospitality, and was a pleasant retreat for many notables, including Washington Irving, John James Audubon, William Wirt and Chief Justice Taney.

In 1863, during the Civil War, General Meade had planned to meet General Lee's invading army along the "Pipe Creek Line", running from Taneytown through Union Mills to Manchester, and the homestead had two armies encamped around it within a few hours of each other—Stuart's cavalry on its way to the north, and shortly after their departure, the Fifth Corps of the Union Army under Sykes, which made its headquarters at Union Mills, and then hastened to the unexpected battle at Gettysburg.

The present estate includes about 130 acres of valley farmland, and numerous buildings from the 19th century, including the tannery, barns, outbuildings and brick mill which was in continuous operation by the family until 1942, when it was shut down. Portions of the house which will be opened to the public illustrate changes in rural living habits over a century and a half, with various types of heating devices, furniture and children's toys, household and entertainment devices, household utensils, Civil War relics and a rich collection of historic documents.

The present owners of the homestead are three brothers, direct descendants, through their mother, of the original two brothers who founded the little manorial community. They are Frederic Shriver Klein, Curator and a professor of history at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa.; Philip Shriver Klein, professor of history at Penn State College; and Richard Henry Klein, attorney in Sunbury, Pa. The homestead will be open to the public by June 14th and will be open until September. A guide will be on the premises to escort visitors or touring groups. Admission fees will be used to maintain the historic property.

Among the Shriver descendants associated with the Union Mills Homestead were Thomas Shriver, who invented the elliptical steel spring for carriages, and who projected the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad; James Shriver, who surveyed the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal in 1824; Joseph Shriver, who surveyed the National Road from Indianapolis to Jefferson City, and in more recent years, George M. Shriver, Senior Vice-President of the B. & O. Railroad; Andrew K. Shriver, whose patent for the steam pressure process of canning developed into the B. F. Shriver Co., Samuel H. Shriver, Vice-President of the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Co., and Alfred Jenkins Shriver, Baltimore attorney and President of the University Club.

C. E. NEWS.

The Missionary Service held at the Evan. United Brethren Church, Taneytown, recently with Mr. and Mrs. David Russell Missionaries on furlough from South American Indian Mission of the jungles was very interesting, telling of their work along with colored slides, of the savage Indians and country around Colombia, Bolivia, Peru, S. America. Mrs. Russell sang several solos in Indian and the English languages. Portraying the thought the Lord said, "Go Ye! 'It's up to You' and 'On Which Side are You?'" With South America having the most unexplored land in the world, "This is your work". There are 1000 uncivilized Indians and no one to teach Christ, while their hearts are black with sin.

A cabinet meeting was held at the First Church of God, Westminster, with eight members attending. A Galilean Service was planned to be held June 22 at 3 p. m. on the pond at the Roland Danner farm with the following program to be presented:

SHORT STORY

Effie Fights Back

By B. C. McAfee

EFFIE ALDER was mad. She was good and mad. Her rising temperature was due not only to the scorching hair drier under which she sat, but more to the square of pink note paper in her trembling hand. Peering indignantly through gold-rimmed bifocals, Effie read the note again: "Darling," it said in a feminine flourish of violet ink, "Don't forget our big date on the 18th! Meet me at the Regent." It was signed: "Your devoted Ann." Tight-lipped, Effie jammed the note back into her purse.

3-Minute Fiction

She had found the mysterious note that morning in Henry's pants pocket, while getting his suits ready for the cleaners. At first glance, she couldn't believe her eyes. Was Henry having an affair? At his age, thought Effie—good heavens! Of course, 52 wasn't exactly ancient, and Henry was still a good-looking man in a portly sort of way. Oh, but it's ridiculous, Effie told herself. Why, they'd been married 27 years and Henry had never so much as gone out alone at night, except to the office. A little bell rang in Effie's head. Hmmm . . . the office. Could that be it?

Effie consulted the pink note again. "Your devoted Ann"—Ann . . . Ann . . . of course! That willowy blonde receptionist she'd met at the Christmas party. Ann Lawrence—the one who kept gushing about what a "mah-vel-ous" dancer Henry was, after he'd stepped all over her feet trying to learn the Rhumba.

An hour later, she faced herself in the long mirrors of Ashburn's Dress Salon and decided to charge the smartly tailored blue faille suit. The millinery department found a jaunty hat to match, and Effie sailed forth to meet her foe.

Leaving the elevator at the 10th floor, Effie drew a deep breath and headed for the Executive Offices. Ann, the blonde receptionist, greeted her almost too warmly.

"Well, for goodness sake!" she exclaimed, rising from her desk, "what a delightful surprise. And how lovely you look, Mrs. Alder!"

"Thank you" murmured Effie, waving a greeting to the other girls. "Just thought I'd drop in and make sure that handsome husband of mine is behaving himself."

Ann laughed. "Oh, he's been too busy for anything else—what with working nights. It must be rather lonely for you when he's at the office so much."

Brazen hussy, thought Effie. Smiling sweetly, she replied, "Yes, I've been thinking I might come with him some evening and lend a hand with the filing."

"Oh, no—" Ann protested quickly, "we manage fine."

"I'll just bet you do, thought Effie. Glancing away, she saw Henry striding from his office.

"Well, well!" he boomed, "if it isn't the Duchess." Reaching for his wallet, he laughed, "How much will it cost me this time?"

Effie kissed him lightly on the cheek. "Not a cent, dear," she told him, "unless you'd like to take me out for lunch."

"Good idea," Henry agreed, taking her arm. To Ann, he said, "If anybody calls, tell 'm I'm out with a beautiful woman." Effie thought Ann's smile was a trifle forced. At least, we won that round, she told herself.

As they left the building and started up the avenue, a young man passing out circulars, handed one to Effie. At the same time, a girl beside him handed one to Henry. Henry laughed.

"Take a look at these," he said. "It's a crazy publicity stunt for some new movie. Intimate love notes signed by the stars of the picture—Tim and Ann. I was going to bring one home and tease you with it, but you'd have caught on right away. I'll bet" he chuckled, "a lot of poor devils with jealous wives really got into hot water with these daffy notes! Careful, dear—don't trip on the curb." "Yes," said Effie in a small voice, taking his arm, "some wives are like that."

LEARN TO KNOW GOD—

I am nearing the century mark; but, still don't know
How God works, nor, how He wants me to go;
And there are millions of others, just like me,
Who are exploring the way to Eternity.

It is like taking a journey, here on earth;
Some do not get far from their place of birth;—
Because we listen to what men say
Nine times out of ten, we go the wrong way.

That is why we keep coming and going, they say,
It is here God shows us all how to find the way;
Here He prepares his son—(you and me)
To be like Him in Time and Eternity.

There are many things I don't understand;
And, so it is with people all over the land;
God sends us here to help make a perfect earth
Of what some call heaven, the place of our birth.

You know, and, I know—(for we see it every day!)
That some of the righteous, have wicked sons, they say;
That has always been a puzzle to me;
But, that is how God prepares us all for Eternity.

God sends all who are good back, they say,
To help His lost sons find their way;
Here the "Golden Rule" must be practiced by men
That is one of the "musts" in God's great plan!

Take God's servant, Ezra, of old they say
He was one of the most righteous, in his day;
All of his sons worshiped idols, they say;
So, God picked Ezra to show them His way.

Sam'l, his adopted son, showed what teaching will do
God sent him to Ezra to make him new;
And, just so it has been, since the ages begun,
The righteous come back to teach everyone.

There are many examples one might give
To show God sends us back to learn how to live;
So, whoever you are, don't scoff at a righteous man,
For, God sent him here to teach you His plan.

Some who never knew God, the records say,
Become His best servants, when they learn His way,
Take Saul of Tarsus—(he was such a man!)
He taught the Gentiles to follow God's plan.

One might sit and write for hours each day
Telling of those who now go God's way;
But, God sends the Preacher here that work to do,
To make a perfect man or woman of you.

So, do not listen to what men of the earth say;
God sends the Preacher to show you His way;
Here, he tells you each Sunday about God's plan
To make of you a perfect man.

When we learn to know God, and, who we are, they say,
We try to emulate Him from day to day;
Like His Son Jesus, we all try to be—
That, they say, is the goal of humanity.

God is not the Being He was once thought to be;
His only thought is of you and me;
Jesus said: "Lead us not into temptation" because He knew
How God daily pampers me and you.

Knowing this it is folly for mortal man
To disobey God and ignore His plan;
Then, follow Jesus! and do, as the Scriptures say;
And, make yourself fit for the endless day.

Chocolate Stars In Party Dessert

Glamorous as it looks, delicious as it tastes, this Chocolate Chantilly Torte is remarkably simple to prepare. For the cake, two store-bought sponge layers will do nicely. Split them to make four layers. German's Sweet Chocolate adds its own inimitable flavor to the frosting which, layered with sweet whipped cream, achieves a truly fabulous filling. Since it must be refrigerated for several hours, there's no last-minute preparation to take time and attention after guests arrive when your party dessert is

Chocolate Chantilly Torte

2 packages (1½ lb.) German's Sweet Chocolate
3 tablespoons water
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 egg whites
1 cup whipping cream
2 8-inch sponge layers

Place chocolate and water in saucepan over low heat. Stir until chocolate is melted and smooth. Remove from heat, add egg yolks, and beat vigorously until smooth. Add sugar and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into chocolate mixture.

Whip cream. Split sponge layers in half, making 4 thin layers. Put layers together by spreading each with ½ cup whipped cream and then topping with one-fourth the chocolate mixture. On top layer, spread chocolate to edge of cake so that it runs down the sides in several places. Chill torte in refrigerator for 4 to 5 hours or overnight. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Style, Comfort In New Foam Cushions

FOR THE TRIM, SLENDER LINES and exceptional seating comfort that many of today's homemakers want in furniture, manufacturers are turning to a new cushioning material, urethane foam. Strong, lightweight, and resilient, the man-made foam tailors remarkably well. It can be used in the long, thin cushions demanded by modern styling without sacrificing comfort, because it combines excellent support with easy response to body pressure.

Typifying the new designs made possible by urethane foam is this three-piece sectional sofa in the contemporary mood, by Lewittes. The angled corner piece calls for a hexagonal cushion with gently curved sides that conform to the contours of the semi-wing back—an unusual shape which requires the precise tailoring qualities of urethane. The foam shows great ability to retain its trim shape and neat edges without crumbling, and presents no upkeep problems, since it is resistant to synthetic detergents and most cleaning fluids.

Urethane foam, still a fairly new name to consumers, has been on the market for about three years. Also referred to as polyurethane, and as polyether foam, it is a man-made, multi-cellular material that may be produced with virtually any degree of stiffness or softness required.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Judges 2:11-23; 4-5; 21-25.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 51: 1-13.

Time of Troubles

Lesson for June 15, 1958

LESS than half the chapters of the Book of Judges in the Bible are considered to be fit to print—as Sunday school lessons, that is, in quarterlies to be used by children and young people. It is only rarely that a lesson from this strange book appears, and most of it never does come out as a lesson. The curious reader can easily find out why, by reading the book for himself. He will find that it consists mostly of crime stories or adventure stories, tied together by a sobersided and religious editor (name unknown) who plainly believed that these stories, frightening or exciting or comic or disgusting as they might be, nevertheless taught valuable lessons. What lessons can we of the 20th century, far removed from those lawless days, learn from these ancient stories?

"... What Was Right in His Own Eyes"

First of all, we can see what it would be like if we abolished the police and the courts, burned the law books, never said "Don't" to anybody, but left everybody to do as he pleased. There are silly optimists now and then who think that human nature is naturally so good that all you need to do is to leave people alone, and their natural goodness will arrange everything just right. This is not true and it was never true. The editor of the book of Judges more than once appears to apologize, or offer some explanation, for the horrible events in some of his collected tales. Those were the days, he says, when there was no king in Israel, and every man did that which was right in his own eyes. "Right in his own eyes" is the key phrase. Here is pure individualism, here is anarchy. Here is the paradise of those who think the less law the better, and no law at all the ideal. This is the story of—not what can happen or might happen, but the true story of what did happen, when a whole nation forgot God and paid no attention to his laws and just went on "jags" of doing what they pleased, time after time. It was mess after mess. It is good for us (though unpleasant) that God's Providence has preserved for us these stories of what lawlessness will do to a nation.

Leading Lady

There is a brighter side of the book of Judges. The word "Judge" in this book has nothing to do with courts. (Samson, for example, was one of the least judicious men known to history.) The word here means Hero, Deliverer, Military Leader. The judges were not saints, as we understand saints; but they were believers in God, they were God's Strong Men. The story of Deborah in chapters 4 and 5 shows that when men were scarce, a woman might take over, with great results. In every case of the war-like heroes we meet in these pages, we learn that God called him (or her) to his military achievement. But we can see also that these men were not puppets on God's strings. They thought and fought freely and bravely, putting their trust in God. The story of Deborah is especially interesting, because she was not a strange character, a sort of Joan of Arc, but a "regular person," a "mother in Israel," as she called herself. Even in the darkest times when a real leader appears, people will follow.

Private Morals and Public Welfare

Another very important lesson taught by the book of Judges is that private morals can't be kept private. The entire community is made strong or weak by the strength of the weakness of individuals. The whole story of the time of the "Judges" is a kind of up-and-down cycle like a roller-coaster. The nation would win freedom; but then it would get run down and weakened by laziness, loose living and vice; then it would fall an easy victim to one of the many nations that were always waiting for a chance to move in on them. Then they would be, to all intents and purposes, slaves of that enemy nation for years. Only when the people came back to God and his laws, did they recover the moral strength which built up their national strength to the point where—under some new leader—they could throw off the chains of bondage.

'Teens Spurn 'Mood' Driving

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

MOODS have no place behind the wheel of a car, say the country's top 'teen drivers—youngsters who have won scholarships as winners in the 1957 National Teenage Road-e-o safe driving contests.

"Some 'teens get in a car when they're angry or not feeling well, then take their moods out on the car," says Miss Smith, first place winner Charles Hopkins of Atlanta, Ga.

"A driver training course will show them that such action leads to a hospital bed," continued Charles.

Two more top winners agree. Arkansas state champion Mary Jane Sawyer and Colorado regional winner Vivien Cox support driver training courses as a means of discouraging reckless driving.

The girls felt that immaturity plays a big part in 'teen accidents, but that driver training courses helped 'teens take driving seriously and showed them how to act in an emergency.

The National Road-e-o safe driving contests will be held again this summer, beginning on a community level with state finalists sent to Washington, D. C. for national competition.

More than 300,000 'teen drivers, most of whom will have taken driver training courses, are expected to participate.

Breakfast Pays Off!

Treat yourself to a spring tonic by starting each day with a quick and lasting energy breakfast. What is meant by "Quick and Lasting Energy?" It is a prompt "lift" due to a quick rise in blood sugar—a lasting "lift" due to the fact that the blood sugar remains up and falls only gradually during the late morning hours. The State University of Iowa Breakfast Studies demonstrated that a basic cereal and milk breakfast provided quick and lasting energy.

Quick and Lasting Energy Breakfast

Orange juice, 1/2 cup
Cereal, 1 ounce dry weight with Milk, whole, 1/2 cup and
Sugar, 1 teaspoon

Bread, enriched, 2 slices
Butter, 1 teaspoon
Milk, nonfat (skim), 1 cup
Coffee, black

This low-fat basic cereal and milk breakfast pattern provides 500 calories and 20.5 grams of protein. It will give you a quick "lift" to start the morning and a lasting "lift" to keep you performing better throughout the entire morning.

Wide variety is possible in following this basic breakfast pattern. A springtime buffet might include orange juice, pineapple and strawberries atop assorted pre-sweetened cereals, cinnamon toast, and nonfat milk for the beverage.

Eat breakfast each day and see for yourself that "Breakfast Pays Off!"

Queen Of Flowers

A rose may be said to be the perfect flower. To a man, a flower is a rose, usually a red one, and the hardest woman's heart melts under a gift of their sweet-scented beauty. They are suitable for every occasion—happy as well as sad—always available, and just right for any container. For example, this lovely arrangement designed by Alyn Wayne, official stylist for Florists' Telegraph Delivery. Here he uses an old cut-crystal decanter to offset their regal beauty. Look around your own home for lovely and unusual containers, and remember, roses make the perfect gift to send or wire to friends and business associates both here and overseas—delivered fresh and beautiful within a matter of hours.
