WOMEN'S SHORT COURSE

Seventy-seven Homemakers Graduated

The thirty-second Annual Rural Women's Short Course at the University of Maryland ended last Friday with Visitors Day and with graduation for seventy-seven homemak, ers who had attended for four years. Special recognition was given to a group of women who had attended College Week for Women for eight years and to Mrs. Walter E. Mulligan of Prince George's County who was present for the thirty-second year. Visitor's Day brought many families to the campus for the afternoon "graduation" exercises. Featured speaker was Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C.

"Use your talents, or lose them" said the minister. He said, too, that even though we are not all endowed with equal talents we should all have the same freedoms and rights, as set forth by Jefferson and Lincoln.

Graduation was an impressive event—especially so for the president of the 4-year class, Mrs. W. Hearon Buttrill, Annapolis. Her husband and six children were right down in the front row. Extension Director Dr. Paul E. Nystrom presented certificates to those who had attended for four years.

Traditionally the President of the University of Maryland presents pins to women who have attended Short Course 8 years. At the request of Dr.

Wilson Elkins, pins were presented to 31 women by Dr. Nystrom.

Claude Gifford, associate editor of Farm Journal magazine, who spoke at the morning assembly, said that even though farms are larger now, they are still "family farms" and he challenged the homemakers to change with the changing times.

Cool weather added to the joy of atending classes, special events and assemblies. Theme this year was "Opportunity, Reponsibility, Achievement".

GROUP FORMS NEW CORPORATION

Utilities Will Conduct Research and Development

Articles of incorporation forming the East Central Nuclear Group, Inc. were filed May 23, 1858 with the Ohio Secretary of State in Columbus.

The new corporation, an Ohio non-profit membership corporation, was organized by a group of electric utility companies of the East-Central region of the United States to carry out research and development work in the atomic power field.

Among the 12 members companies of ECNG, Inc., is The Potomac Edison Company. Its President, D. E. Stultz, will serve as one of the corporation's 14 trustees.

For a number of months prior to its incorporation, ECNG had been studying a program of nuclear research and development that would represent an important advance toward making electric power produced from atomic fuel competitive with power generated by conventional means. Last December, ECNG announced a proposal to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission for research on, and development of an advanced Nuclear power reactor. In February, the AEC announced it had accepted the ECNG proposal as a basis for further negotiation contingent upon necessary action by the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of the U. S. Congress and appropriate Congressional legis-The proposal is now before Congress.

The proposal, made jointly with the two-company Florida West Coast Nuclear Group (consisting of Florida Power Corporation and Tampa Elec-Company), includes a research and development program on a part-nership basis with the AEC and the subsequent construction by FWCNG —based on that research and development—of a 50,000-kilowatt prototype reactor, the prototype of a 200,000-

The reactor type proposed is a hightemperature, gas-cooled, heavy watermoderated unit operating on natural uranium fuel. It would be built in Florida, where fuel costs are significantly higher than in the East-Central area and where there would thus be fewer economic disadvantages in the reactor's construction and operation. Total cost of the entire program is estimated at slightly over $50,000,000; of this amount, construction costs are estimated at about $26,000,000.

The incorporation of ECNG is a further step in the carrying out of Mr. Lyles installed the fo the proposed reactor project, contingent upon Congressional approval. The member companies of ECNG are: American Electric Power Service Corporation (formerly American Gas and Electric Service Corporation), The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, The Margo Emerich, Martha Harman. Dayton Power and Light Company, Baumgardner. Connie Mummert, Sandra Feeser, Indianapolis Power & Light Com- Announcement pany, Louisville Gas and Company, Ohio Edison Company, Pennsylvania Power Company, South-ern Indiana Gas and Electric Company, and the three principal operating companies of The West Penn Electric System: Monogahela Power Company, The Potomac Edison Company, and West Penn Power Com-

HOW ABOUT PARCEL POST

The new postal bill passed both Houses of Congress without opposition, was signed by the President, and will become effective August 1. Charges, for carrying mail, newspapers, magazines and advertising material will all be substantially in-

The bill is designed to increase post office revenues by $550 million a year. However, almost half that sum-$265 million-will be absorbed by pay increases granted postal workers. Thus, a very big postal operating deficit will remain. This deficit has been running at around $700 million a year.

The new bill does nothing about a postoffice service which has contributed materially to the deficit for many years. That service is parcel post. The current charges, as the Hoover Commission and other authoritative were persons in their late thirties bodies have pointed out, de not meet and forties. Mr. Hoover also says the cost of providing the service. So, in effect, all the taxpayers of the munist-inspired. country are paying a part of the bills of those who use parcel post.

On top of that, parcel post is not a basic postoffice function. It came into being late-in 1913. And stipulations laid down then by Congress -that it should pay its own way, that it should supplement, not supplant private parcel services, and that it should not unduly compete with private enterprise-have consistantly and flagrantly been violated ever

The least the taxpayers should demand is that parcel post charges hon-estly cover all costs—direct and indi-000 other Kiwanians, their wives and estly cover all costs-direct and indirect.—Industrial News Review.

SAFETY FACTS

-the high traffic toll notwithstand-

This pat on the back for the average mortorist comes from the National Safety Council as it opens its annual appeal for Fourth of July holiday safety.

The Council makes a good point: with upwards of 70 million vehicles whizzing past each other only a couple of feet apart, the average driver must make 20 to 50 decisions an hour, many of them literally involving life or death. Last year's alf-time low death rate of 5.9 fatalities per 100 million miles of travel proves that most drivers made the right decisions.

Most of us want to be good drivers. We pride ourselves on our skill and common sense. We obey the law. We don't want to hurt ourselves, our families or the stranger in the other car. Then why do we have accidents? Carelessness?

Carelessness is a catch-all word that drivers that we are most of the time, every one who has ever been behind the wheel of a car remembers the near misses—and our accident toll is made of those that didn't miss covers a multitude of sins. Good made of those that didn't miss.

We get tired. We burn up at some minor rudeness by another driver. We drive a little too fast. We take a chance in passing. We think a couple of drinks oan't do any harm. Or due to any one of a hundred distractions, we let our attention waver from the road for an instant beyond

The National Safety Council estimates that more than 45 million cars will be on the roads over the three day Fourth of July holiday. So don't be a good driver most of the time. You can't afford to make even one

This year the Tennessee Valley Authority celebrates its 25th birthday Writing in Newsweek, Raymond Moley reviews TVA's activities and returns and presentation of the new

Back in the days of the Roman Empire one author recommended "pouring vinegar through the left nostril and putting two ounces of grease in the jaws" to treat bloat in ruminants.

This bit of *dvice, offered 2,000 years ago, may actually have helped Romans who watched over herds and flocks. But modern scientists cite this page from history to show that the problem of controlling this severe digestive disorder, especially in the spring, is nothing new to livestock producers.

"Straighten up, Johnny, or people will mistake you for a beagle hound on the trail of Bugs

The other day we heard a mother admonish her young son thusly. Since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, most people emphasize the appearance feature of correct posture. For example, children are constantly reminded by their parents that, if they slouch or slump, they'll never be king or queen of the junior prom, or be offered a movie contract.

A slovenly appearance is only a minor penalty induced by poor posture. During National Correct Posture Week, sponsored annually from May 1 to May 7, the National Chiropractic Asso ciation endeavors to open the eyes of the public to the pre-eminent dangers of postural de-fects: organic disturbances, dis-ease, nerve tension, and even mental impairment.

With "Stand tall, sit tall, walk tall, and sleep tall" as its clarion call, the chiropractic profession attempts to engrave on the minds of everyone the vital role played by correct posture in ev-ery human activity. The impor-tance to good health is stressed, not only in personal habits, but also physical items utilized in everyday living—such as the shoes we wear, the chairs and mattresses upon which we lounge and sleep, the automobiles in which we ride, and so forth

All aspects of correct posture and its contribution to physical and mental well being are covered in free literature distrib-uted to schools and other organ-izations during National Correct Posture Week May 1-7.

ENTERS PRIZE ANIMALS FOR JUDGING

Peterborough, N. H.—George and Lillian Gunther, Three D's Farm, Taneytown, Md., have entered two registered Guernseys in the 1959 National Guernsey Futurity, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club here.

The first two eligibility fees have been paid, and two more are due to keep the entries eligible for final judging.

The 1959 Guernsey Futurity will be the third in an annual series which was initiated by the AGCC. The purse for the first Futurity was worth over $2000, and it appears that this year's may be worth as much as $3000.

Animals are entered in a Futurity as heifer calves, and are kept eligible for final competition as owners pay additional eligibility fees. They are judged as three-year-olds.

Mr. R. D. Stewart, AGCC secretary, says the Guernsey Futurities present a tremendous challenge to the ability of purebred Guernsey breeders to select heifer calves that will develop into top-notch threeyear-olds.

An argument is a futile pastime. If you win, your opponent is angry; if he wins, you are. If neither wins, what was the use of arguing in the first place?

A DOCTOR REPORTS

The following is an article clipped from the St. Paul Pioneer Press. "PSYCHIATRIST WARNS OF IDEAL PATIENT

Beware of the "model" patient, a psychiatrist told medical social workers Thursday during a hospital conference in the Minneapolis Auditor-

Dr. Richard R. Teeter of the University of Minnesota's Mayo hospital said the model patient may turn out to be in real need of psychiatric help. Often he is so eager to please, the doctor said, that he won't ask questions that should be asked or won't express his emotions. He bottles them up, and this may result in hysteria, withdrawing from reality, Dr. Teeter,

The model patient was one of six categories of patients whose problems, the doctor said, cannot be solved by X-rays. Others listed:

Persons suffering lengthy illnesses which allow a minimum of movement, such as a polio victim. The doctor suggested roommates to help eliminate mental stress.

Chronically ill persons with "vague multiple complaints." They tend to become dependent on medical workers. "Their love may be a pill. The hospital may become the equivalent of love life and home life," Dr. Teeter said. These persons are economic and personnel drains on hospitals and probably always will be ailing and need care.

Mentally ill persons who may be in great pain but have other prob-lems, too. They need honesty and calm treatment.

Children. They need as much honesty, attention and kindness as grownups since they obviously are disturbed and dependent when taken away from their parents, Dr. Teeter He encouraged frequent visits from the parents. Aged persons, who generally are very good patients but who may be-come too passive with the common de-creasing sense of their own value. Their conscious wishes toward death, said Dr. Teeter, conflict with an equally strong subconscious desire for life. The six-state conference concluded May 16, 1958". Dr. Teeter is a member of the class of 1940 which graduated from Taneytown High School.

A farewell dinner was given on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Powell in honor of their son, M/Sgt. Calvin S. Powell, Mrs. Powell and children, Virginia and Charles. M/Sgt. ## SHORT STORY

Tea Cup Thriller

By B. C. McAfee

IF anyone had told week that her husband's life would that her husband's life would some day depend on a cup of tea, she no doubt would have laughed and said, "Don't be silly-Pete never touches the stuff." That was true, of course, with one exception -the fateful night they dined at The Gypsy Tea Room.

Pete was flying to Denver that night on a busi-3 - Minute Fiction ness trip. Meg had suggested having dinner together in town, after which she'd accompany him to the airport and drive their car back home.

"You'll love this Gypsy Room!" she told Pete, as they walked down Fifth Avenue that evening. "It's simply loaded with atmosphere and they say Princess Tanya is a marvel at reading tea leaves. Maybe she can tell us whether you're getting that promo-

"Atmosphere I can do without," grumbled Pete, holding the door

"Atmosphere I can do without," grumbled Pete, holding the door for her.

for her. "What I need is a good, thick steak."

As they entered the dimly-lit room, a tall, dark-skinned Gypsy greeted them, bowing low.

Pete made an exaggerated face at Meg and followed her across the room to a small table in the corner. Their mysterious guide held a chair for Meg, handed them each a gilt-edged menu, then bowed again and disappeared. The air was heavy with incense. An invisible string trio played melancholy music. Girls in gay Gypsy costumes moved silently among the candle-lit tables, bearing trays of food. One of them came to take their order. "We'll have your best steak dinner," said Pete, "and a large pot of black coffee."

"Oh, no-tea, dear!" Meg corrected, smiling at the waitress. We want Princess Tanya to read the leaves."

"Aw, Meg . . . for heaven's sake!" Pete squirmed uncomfortably. "We won't have time for all that nonsense. I've got to catch that 8 o'clock plane for Denver.' As usual, Meg had her way. After dinner, Pete drank his tea with a wry face, then meekly allowed Princess Tanya to read the leaves. Pete stood up, looking slightly dazed. "Well, I'll be-" he muttered.

Meg was busily mopping the table with a huge linen napkin. "It was just an accident, dear. She'll bring your coat back and then read your tea leaves. I'm so anxious Pete handed her his wallet. "Here, you pay the check while I get my coat. If that clock's right, we barely have time to make the airport!" Turning, he strode over to the curtained doorway where Princess Tanya had disappeared. He heard voices inside, arguing. The Princess was saying, "But we must not let them go! Perhaps if we keep them waiting for the

"I'll take the coat now, if you don't mind!" said Pete, snatching it out of her hand. "And I'm having this place investigated!"

As they sped to the airport, Pete continued to grumble. "Craziest place I ever saw. We should've gone to the Steak House—I'll never make that 8 o'clock plane. What's that siren-a cop?"

"No, look-it's an ambulance!" said Meg, pointing as a white streak shot past their car. "Petedo be careful." "What's up?" Pete asked a man in uniform. "Eight o'clock plane to Denver cracked up as she was taking off.

"Oh, dear!" gasped Meg and burst into tears. "That-that was your plane!'

"Yeh," said Pete, putting an arm around her. He pulled a handkerchief from his breast pocket and a small white card fluttered to the ground. Meg picked it up, glanced at it, and looked like she'd seen a ghost. Speechless, she handed the card to Pete.

On one side was the name and address of the Gypsy Tea Room. On the other side, scrawled in black pencil, he read:

"THE GENTLEMAN HAS NO FUTURE"

'Prefab' Church Costs Less

Prefabrication is making it tion helps make services and possible today for communities throughout the country to build new churches at costs far lower summers, and makes the church throughout the country to build new churches at costs far lower than conventional construction.

An example is the 30-by-70-foot Episcopal church above. Built on the outskirts of Baltimor; Md., for the congregation of St. Margaret's Mission, the church has a full-sized sanctuary, nine classrooms, and full basement with storage and boiler rooms. Its total cost was $32,000, plus $10,000 for 2½ acres of wooded land.

Comfort was one of the chief considerations of the designers. They specified an asphalt shingle roof in white to reflect heat from the summer sun. The asphalt shingles also provide an economical roof that is durable and dependable.

Thick mineral wool insulation in the ceiling and walls is another comfort factor. The insula-

Four Wheel Padded Cell?

What with satellites and other cosmic aspects of travel we're all a little inclined to ho-hum any mode of transportation slower than the speed of sound. However according to Mobay Chemical Company, before long we may be traveling in a four-wheel equivalent of a padded cell. This makes ground transportation take on a new

The padded cell possibility is inspired by taking a look at all the possible applications of urethane foam in automobiles. (Urethane, incidentally, is one of the newer test-tube foams which has more lives than a cat and is a lot more adaptable.)

Future foam-packed cars will include urethane foam "upholstery" for inside the doors, trunk liners, padding of the back of the front seat (to protect backseat riders), underlay for the car rug, and "headliners" which are pads of urethane foam on the ceiling of the car. These, combined with featherweight urethane foam for seats and armrests, foam-wrap the car into a mobilized padded cell.

In many automobiles, you'll find urethane foam in as many as six places in the car. It's in safety namels (the automobile industry has places in the car. It's in safety panels (the automobile industry has an understandable aversion to the word "crash pad") as a shock-absorbing cushioning. Result: If, you do use a little headwork on the instrument panel, the foam, not your cranium, takes a lot of the shock. Other safety-angled foam paneling is found in sun-visor pads, steering wheel) and armrests. Urethane foams, unlike other foam, can be cut, stitched, and otherwise tortured into place—hence their Because urethane foam is remarkably lightweight (less than half that of foam rubber), it is used for such practical applications as pads for station-wagon rear decks which can double as mattresses horn-button pads (you'd be surprised how many people hit the on camp-out trips. Some of these facts and predictions which come from the Mobay Chemical Company, are based on research on urethane chemical in its own labs and reports from its customers. The Company hastens to add, however, that its concept of a packed cell on wheels refers to the safety, not the sanity, of the driver-of-the-future.

Pineapple Sundae Sauce

HERE'S A SUNDAE SAUCE that can be served to the family as a special treat or to guests any day in the week. Excellent as a topping for ice cream, it is equally delicious over cake or cottage pudding. The sauce is simple to prepare because its base is a no-cook instant pudding. The silken-smooth texture comes from the use of rich evaporated milk in the blending. In the time of roses, bridal showers, and June wedding parties, this sauce is excellent over store-bought ice cream for that "extra special" touch.

PINEAPPLE SUNDAE SAUCE 1 package Jell-O vanilla 1/2 cup evaporated milk instant pudding 1/4 cup pineapple juice 2/3 cup light corn syrup concentrate, thawed

1/4 teaspoon salt Combine the pudding mix and syrup in a bowl. Mix until smooth. Gradually add evaporated milk, pineapple juice and salt, and stir until blended. Allow to stand about 10 minutes to thicken sauce. Serve on ice cream, cake, or other desserts. Makes 1-3/4 cups of sauce.

Evening's a lonely time When you sit and wait, Listening for footsteps To turn in at the gate.

Up and down the little lame
Windows come alight; Families unite again, Close against the night.

Child Safety Arouses Women

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

WHEN CHILD SAFETY becomes an issue, women go to work.

Take the case of Janelle Brimball of Provo, Utah. Hoping to make neigh-borhood youngsters more safetyconscious, she taught bicycle ordinances to a small group of children, coached them in proper signalling and handling of their bikes.

Miss Smith

Soon more requests than she could handle poured in from other sections of town and Janelle's program was taken over by the Police Dept., PTA, Board of Education and the City Recreation Committee A special program on bicycle safety was launched, which in-cluded classroom instruction, oral and performance tests, a film on bicycle safety, and an S.O.S. (Safety on Streets) club with membership cards, letters stenciled on bike fenders and summer outings.

At last count, there were 800

S.O.S. members.

In Bellaire, Ohio, the Pilot Club, a group of business and professional women, appalled by the rising number of accidents involving child pedestrians, decided the community needed added safety instruction. They distributed several thousand copies of safety books to the high schools, and sent coloring books on pedestrian safety to the grade schools. Literature was distributed to adults, safety posters put up, radio spots arranged for, and weekly good driving awards were given. To climax the program, the mayor proclaimed an "All Bellaire Safety Day", and most citizens attended neighborhood safety meetings.

AMERICA-GOD'S MODEL COUNTRY

In the year 1800, Jefferson gave us the "Golden West";
To find it, Lewis and Clark (his neighbors) did their best;
An Indian maiden, they tell us, led the way;
To the land of the "setting Sun" in that day.

That event took place 175 years ago-At first, our progress here was slow; But, 49 years later, the "gold rush" opened the way To make America the ruling power to-day.

"How Great our God is," many now say;
It was He, they tell us, who showed us the way
To a land which would make our country great, And the pride of every city and state,

To-day we have things of which people never knew;
(Like a snowball, just gradually, the country grew),
Until to-day, on our flag, each single star
Tells all the world of our strength and power.

When Columbus discovered the "New land" in 1492, Of it, they tell us, only the Indians knew; But, 128 years later, the history books say, To bring people here, the "Mayflower" opened the way.

The Indian now rules our land no more;
But, he did, countless things we all adore;
He named half the States, mountains, and rivers you see,
And, those names, they tell us, still continue to be.

That they were a great race, the records all say,
One of the 12 Tribes of Israel which came this way;
God sent them here as guardians to be
Of this great El Dorado, "The Land of the Free".

To-day, on our travels, (no matter where we go!)
The name of certain States, we do not know;
Except for road marking; many people say;
Are we in Maryland, or, in Pennsylvania?

And, just so you shall find things all over the land—
(I tell you, it is the work of a Master hand?)
God made it an object lesson for all to see How in future Ages the whole earth shall be

So, in years to come—(about the Time of the End)
All Nations shall call America their friend,

For here they learn our Great God to know, And the people show them how to go.

God has many things which He wants us to do
To help Him make this old earth new;
So, why not, at first, follow His great plan
To make of you a perfect man? God keeps telling us all, day after day,

How to treat others, and what we shall say; But, He gave, to each one of us, "Free Will"; So, mortal man keeps using it still.

Who but God could have made such a plan?
(A plan which includes the brotherhood of man?)
That we are one family, many do not know;
So, with others, they never want to go.

Men are like chickens, people sometimes say; White Leghorns and Black Minorcas each go this way; But, whether it be a chicken or a man; It is not in tune with God's great plan!

That is why God made the earth, some say—
He made it to be a home for us all some day,
Where, with Him, in the future we shall be
Through all the long years of Eternity.

These physical bodies in which we all stay
Are all God's beautiful temples of clay;
So the cold has nothing to do with a man
Who serves God daily and follow God's plan.

The fruit trees on earth all look the same But the fruit of each has a different name; With man, it is just the reverse, they say— Men may look different, but they act the same way.

People of all colors some day shall know More about God and the right way to go; Like brothers, they tell us, all men shall be When man is made fit for earth's great jubilee.

I repeat—these are things we should all think about; God looks within a man—(not without)
In all things, God likes variety, they say;
So, it matters not if a fellow is white, black or gray.

One of the troubles on our planet seem to be That men have no knowledge of fraternity; God is the Father of every race, they say Why should puny man try to change this way?

Then, too, there are other things we should think about Before from our schools we try to keep out A boy who is black (as some still say)

Since color has nothing to do with the boy in any way. This is a little story about our Nation's birth, The greatest land on the face of the earth; So, when men are in bondage, and want to be free,

They always came, people say, to America. At the very beginning it was God's plan
To establish here the Brotherhood of man;
So, here all peoples thall come to be free
Till time shall end in Eternity.

It is foolish to wonder why so many come here; The reason to me is now quite clear-They come here to be free; and to learn about God Who is the Almighty Ruler on this great sod.

That is like the whole thing looks to me—
God intends that all of His Sons shall be free;
So He had this great land for Ages, they say,
To show how the whole earth shall be some day.

WASHDAY HELP

Ask any housewife what appliances she considers her most valuable work and time saver, and she's quite likely to say her automatic washer and dryer. She would certainly have a point. For almost since their first introduction, these units have revolutionized the home laundry operation. And manufacturers have been quick to incorporate new features and improvements to keep up with home decoration trends as well as new fashion fabrics and their special cleaning requirements. Latest of these is the use of stainless steel for the working drums of both washer and dryer units. Long famed for its sani-tary qualities and extensively used for surgical equipment and food processing, stainless now does its part in helping to make an even cleaner family wash. Absolutely rust-proof and easy to clean, these drums are safe for even the most diaphanous washable fabrics, and are particularly effective in helping the lint-re-

Voice for God

Lesson for June 29, 1958

WHAT does the voice of God sound like? That is an important question, but perhaps a rare one. For the Bible, and all religious experience, teach us that God more often than not speaks indirectly rather than directly. The practical problem that all ser ous - minded people have to settle is: Out of all the many voices that claim to be speaking for God, how can I tell which really are voices for God? To name only a few, there are the Pope, and Dr. Foreman Mary Baker Eddy, and Joseph Smith, and Billy Graham, and

Oral Roberts, and the Jehovah's Witnesses, and the local preacher, and maybe your mother-in-law, all laying claim, one way or another to be telling you exactly what God wants you to do. There were, and there still are, true prophets and false. How do we know which is which? How can we tell the genuine voices for God? A Strange Story

Back in the Old Testament there is a strange incident about an old man and a young boy, Eli and Samuel. The old man was a high priest, the boy was only a helper around the shrine. Yet one morning the boy came to the man and gave him a terrible message, a message which, he said, God had told him to take to the old man Eli. It was one of the most horrifying predictions that could come to a man. Yet after Eli had heard what the boy Samuel had to say, the old priest's only comment was: "It is the Lord; let him do what seems good to him." Now, perhaps we can get some light on our problem, if we inquire, How did Eli know that Samuel's voice was genuinely a voice for God? God Is No Echo First of all, this did not sound like Samuel. It was not the kind of thing Samuel would have liked to say. Eli was his oldest and best friend, he was (as we would say) his bess. A word from Eli and young Samuel would have had to go home to his mother. Saying what Samuel did (the whole story is in the Bible material for this week), was likely to lose him an old friend and to risk his position and future. Further, it was most certainly not what Eli wanted to hear. It was not by any means a comforting, encouraging message. There are people who claim that "God" is only a name for the projection of our wishes; a great loud echo in the sky, echoing our dearest desires. Not at all. The true God is no echo. Even a lazy incompetent man like Eli (for priest though he was, he was a mighty poor one) knew better than that.

In the Middle of Conscience

In the second place, Eli knew that Samuel's voice was a voice for God, because it hurt him in a sensitive spot, namely right in the middle of his conscience. Now persons without a conscience, or a conscience seared by sin, or twisted and half-demented, have not this way of knowing. But Eli had still, we may believe, some genuine spark of conscience in him, though he had poured the cold water of indifference on it these many years. This voice that came to him in Samuel's boyish treble was still a true voice for God, because it told him what, deep down, he knew was the truth. He had been doing wrong. He who was expected to be spiritual leader of his people had been (literally) asleep on his job. He knew he deserved no good from God. And when Samuel told him so, Eli knew that Samuel was a voice for God.

Voice for God and Voice of God

A third point is this: The voice for God, any true voice for him, does not contradict the voice of God. Now Eli did not have our Bible; but he did have some of the early part of it. He had some knowledge of the Law of God as it had come to his forefathers in. the Ten Commandments. What Samuel told him was exactly in line with what Eli must have understood to be the genuine voice of God. We today have a much fuller and clearer revelation than Eli had, in our Holy Bible. As a New Testament writer puts it, God in these days has spoken to us by his Son. Any voice, claiming to be for God, that contradicts what we know of God in Jesus Christ, we can ignore; for we can be sure it is the voice of a faker.

From Beeswax to Transistors

Dramatic change in office communications through the years is pointed up as this gentleman, dressed in the fashion of Alexander Graham Bell's time, compares new transistorized Dictaphone Time-Master dictating machine (left) with a model of the first practical dictating machine, invented by Bell and associates in 1881. Recording surface for 1881 Bell machine was beeswax and parrafin, spread on a cylinder which was hand-cranked. A far cry from beeswax is the Dictabelt record (foreground) used in the new Time-Master; this unique plastic record provides visible tone grooves for quick place-finding, is non-erasable, and can be easily filed or mailed.

Hillside Home Has Facade Breathtaking As The View

An example of a successful blending of home and site, is this hillside version by Designer Don Scholz. Presenting to the street an interesting contemporary ene-story facade, this home becomes excitingly different when approached from the rear. Double insulating glass, extending from floor to roof peak, open up the entire end of the spacious beamed living room to the outside. A dramatic balcony extending the length of the family kitchen and living room further enhance the effect of open spaciousness

Indoors, the home is equally as refreshing in appearance and utility. The family-kitchen, popular gathering place, is spacious and efficient in layout. The living-dining expanse gives room for luxury with its massive fireplace. The bedrooms are private and quiet in their own secluded area. The master bedroom has its own rivate, modern bath, and the ther bedrooms share a similar athroom that is conveniently acessible from the living area. Extending from the large foyer (big enough to be completely furnished) is the stairway to the spacious downstairs recreation room. New vistas for outdoor-indoor living and eating, open up here with the fireplace and slidingglass door wall. For complete information on this exceptional house design, write to Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 103, 2001 N. Westwood, Toledo 7, Ohio.

ALUMINUM GARDEN CHAIRS -so light to move about—are also a breeze to clean with oval scouring pads. Give them a quick rub-down with a dampened soap-filled pad—see how shiny new they look.

GOOD PICK-ME UP for warm days spent digging in the garden ...three heaping teaspoons of instant cocoa mix in a tall glass of milk. Then, to be different, add two drops of peppermint.

Really refreshing. GARDEN TOOLS need a quick going-over after use. An oval soap-filled pad helps remove rust and the tools will give you longer service.

TENDER ROOT VEGETABLES -new potatoes, carrots and beets-take naturally to the gentle cleaning of a plastic mesh ball, the handy helper to keep at the kitchen sink.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Continued from first page) ite story (and I did love fairy-tales) about the youngest daughter who asked her father to bring her a rose upon his return trip. He had bought the gowns which the stepdaughters had requested and as he handed the rose to his beautiful young daughter he said, "Take this, my child, it has meant much by that rose!" Then, he tells the story of the prince who had been changed into a beast living in a castle and as he passed the Man-sion, he saw the beautiful roses hundreds of them and remembered Beauty's wish and as he leaned down to pluck just one rose from all the hundreds, the Beast came upon him. When the father tells him the reason when the father tells him the reason he plucked the rose for his lovely daughter, the Beast requests to see the daughter and the Merchant promises. In the end, it meant marriage and instead of a Beast immediately after the wedding there stood "Prince Charming" before his lovely bride! bride!

I remember my Dad always calling me "His Last Rose of Summer" be-cause I was his youngest daughter and his seventh child! I always played that old piece of sheet music, "The Last Rose of Summer" for him on the piano and now each time, I hear it—

piano and now each time, I hear it—a tear or two falls!
I recall the lovely bouquet of pink rose buds the night I made by Debut in Philadelphia when I was just 17 and as I danced the numbers, they were tied to my upper left arm with the matching pink ribbon so as they would not be crushed. I can see the would not be crushed. I can see the real red roses now which my Escort presented to my Chaperone—my eldest sister who was dressed in white satin with a long train. She appeared the most beautiful woman I had ever seen. My gown was of pink satin underneath pastel blue marquisette with matching slippers, and long white kid gloves plus a little Juliet can of silver seening with my hair in cap of silver sequins with my hair in curls! I remember the lovely "Blue Danube Waltz" so distinctly.

The following day, a large box of real American Beauty roses were sent to me by the escort of that night before! And any lady knows just what red roses mean in any language!

Then, I recall the largest bunch of Then, I recall the largest bunch of roses which I have ever seen which were presented to this beautiful sister of mine for the first curtain call after the first act in which she played "Camille" in Philadelphia. A lady seated next to my precious Mother leaned over and whispered, "Do you really think that the leading lady, Camille is as beautiful off the stage?" And to this I heard my modest Mother reply, "Well they say she is!"

I never will forcet when I first

I never will forget when I first came down to live in this grand state of Maryland on the train in my arms were beautiful roses which had been presented to Mary Garden the night before in "Carmen" which she gave to my sister and as a going away gift, my sister presented them to me!

I remember attending many lovely shows at the Academy of Music (where the Stanley now is) and each time there was the little aged "Flow-er Lady" selling roses to the patrons out on the sidewalk and regardless of the weather she was right there with the sweetest smile!

I remember the wonderful Aroma of the roses each June at "Loves' Re-treat" which filled the entire farm

Then, I recall the graduation of the Goucher College girls at Lovely Lane on St. Paul Street where the other girls from the balcony showered red roses petals upon the graduates as they walked up the brick path

I rememberd the day before Mother's Day, a Lieut. in the Aberdeen Proving Ground hospital who was so Proving Ground hospital who was so worried because he did not get his Mother a card and I said, (being a Gray Lady) "You just give me the money and I'll wire roses and they will be red ones, too!" The following week when I went to the side of his bed, he said, "Just read this letter, Mrs. Love!" It was from his Mother thanking me for the roses and the request for the flowers went to a Florist who knew the family and they Florist who knew the family and they were American Beauties! And last but not least, Folks for rather's Day, I carried over the red roses to my Minister's grave to place in the lovely Bronze vase from the Mayor of Westminster which I purchased from him at the time I bought the Monument and those roses—well they were the rose bushes my Minister planted two years ago in the rose garden at the bungalow!

Adois, Folks! Have a grand week-end! Have love in your home at all times—life is so short! I am, Faithfully,
