She has tried to keep a record of all births, marriages and deaths up-to-date, thus two hundred years of printed history. Also reported her findings for the past eighteen years—since 1940.

There was a fine response of the people of the community to the first of two vesper hours of worship planned for this summer as they assembled in Taneytown Memorial Park on Sunday evening. In addition to the singing of congregational hymns the different ministers shared in leading the worship as the Senior Choir of Grace Church rendered a special anthem and Rev. Andreas preached the sermon on the theme "The Constituency of Real Life." The second of the vesper worship hours will be held on July 27 at 7:30 at the same place.

LEBANON

Sen. Beall Expresses His View of Situation

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall (Rep., Md.) recently took the Senate Floor to speak on the Lebanese situation. Senator Beall said:

"Mr. President, now is the time to shut up or 'put up'."

"The news of the landing of Marines in Lebanon gives us pause. The decision was the President's, and it was the only decision he could make. In his statement released this morning, the reasons leading to his decision were given, and I need not repeat them."

"Needless to say, I support the President's position in dispatching a contingent of United States forces to Lebanon to protect American lives and by their presence there to encourage the Lebanese government in defense of Lebanese sovereignty and integrity. The action followed an urgent plea from the President of Lebanon. We are obligated to come to the aid of a free sister nation whose sovereignty is threatened by anti-Western sources."

"Mr. President, I would go farther, and say that now is the time for us to take a firm position against the encroachment of communism. Now is the time to stand up and say to Communist Russia, which undeniably has designs on communizing the world, 'Thus far and no farther.'"

"We have backed off here; we have backed off there; we have compromised. All in the good cause of Peace. That's all very well, but let us not fool ourselves—if we are not to succumb, I am convinced that sooner or later we must take a firm stand, and it seems to me that the sooner we do this the better."

"If we are firm now, I believe that another World War can be avoided. 'Let us protect American lives everywhere in the world. Let us protect American dignity everywhere in the world. Let us uphold the provisions of the United Nations. Let us once again prove by our actions that we are worthy of our heritage.'"

FIVE NEW SWINDLES SEEK TO PART YOU AND YOUR MONEY

Fast-talking sharpies have come up with a new crop of schemes to bilk the gullible, the August Reader's Digest reports. To protect ourselves—and stamp out the crooks—we must report attempted frauds or deceptions to the police or other authorities.

A nationwide survey of Better Business Bureaus, by Don Wharton, reports these "Five Swindles to Watch Out For":

1. Blank contracts. Some people who wouldn't dream of signing a blank check, Wharton says, apparently can't resist a fast-talking salesman who says "just sign these papers and the car is yours; we'll fill in the details when the secretary gets in tomorrow." Those "details" often add up to several hundred dollars overcharge.

2. Contests and credit checks. Many hard-sell merchants hold ridiculously easy "contests" in which every entrant "wins" second prize—a "credit check" for, say, $50. This entitles him to $50 credit on some item which has been marked up $50 in price.

3. Gyp correspondence courses. They often employ high-pressure, and falsely promise to refund the student's money if he doesn't get a big job. One school is selling a $295 course to girls who want to become airline hostesses. Most major airlines train their own hostesses at the airlines' expense.

4. The "Business Opportunity." Often, this is a scheme to sell vending machines at three or four times their value, through advertisements offering $400 to $500 a month for a few hours' work a week, as a "Supervisor" or "Route Manager."

5. Drug and cosmetic frauds. The Better Business Bureau gets ten times as many complaints about these as it did two years ago. One great hoax is the "royal jelly" capsule and cosmetic campaign. The jelly may be extremely nourishing for a queen bee, but it does nothing whatever for humans—except those who sell it.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (FHTNC)—Ray L. Owings, of Route 1, Westminster, Md., completed recruit training July 2 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Relatives and friends of many of the new Marines were on hand to witness the graduation ceremonies.

The 12-week training schedule included drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremonies, and other military subjects. Three weeks were spent on the rifle range where the recruits fired the M-1 rifle and received instruction in basic Marine infantry weapons. This recruit training prepares young Leathernecks for further specialized infantry training at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

FORT SILL, OKLA. (AHTNC)—Second Lt. John W. Kauffman III, 22, whose father lives at 96 Pennsylvania Ave., Westminster, Md., recently completed the 17-week field artillery officer basic course under the Reserve Forces Act program at the Army Artillery and Missile School, Fort Sill, Okla.

Lieutenant Kauffman was employed by Bethlehem Steel Company, Sparrows Point, before starting his RFA training. A member of Delta Pi Alpha fraternity, he was graduated from Westminster High School in 1953 and Western Maryland College in 1957.

MEMORIAL TREE TO BE SACRIFICED

State Engineers Declare it an Obstacle and Orders Removal

Members of the Historical Society of Carroll County are deeply concerned over the pending destruction of the Jerome Day oak on old Baltimore Road. The State engineers who are in charge of constructing Route 97 from Washington to Gettysburg have declared the tree an obstacle and have ordered its removal.

This action comes as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hunter, past owners of the property on which the Memorial oak stands, because when Malcolm Drive was constructed in 1952 there was a clause in the option made between the owners and the State in which the State agreed to "preserve the oak tree."

This beautiful red oak stands as a memorial to Jerome Day, the first Carroll County boy to die in World War I. It was the first tree to be dedicated in the mile of living Memorial Trees extending from Liberty Heights, Westminster, to the first toll gate on the Baltimore road. According to The Times of June 20, 1919, this was "the first row of trees planted in America as a memorial to heroes of the Great War, although since this planting many others have been set out."

The Women's Civic League is responsible for the Memorial tree idea. While the men of Carroll County were arguing over the respective memorial merits of a hospital and a recreation center, the women enthusiastically united on the living trees. Mrs. D. F. Shipley, president of the league, launched the project in January, 1919, with the cooperation of the following forestry committee: Mrs. S. Luther Bare, Chairman; Mrs. Hugh Latimer Elderdicke, Mrs. C. E. Forlines, Mrs. Austin Gallagher, Mrs. Dorla Edwards, Mrs. E. T. Mowbray, Mrs. C. O. Clemson, and Mrs. A. F. Rainey. They enlisted the help of State Forester Besley who supplied them with 150 trees which were planted in the early spring of 1919.

The dedication of the Living Memorial was July 4, 1919 in connection with the homecoming celebration planned for World War I soldiers. It was one of the most colorful events in the history of the county. Professional decorators had been working for a week on the massive arch in front of the Firemen's Building. There were huge white columns with a brilliantly lighted Welcome in the center. Pyramids flying the flags of the Allied Nations rose on both sides of Main Street. At 3:00 p. m., the parade started from Belle Grove Square, led by Lt. Lloyd Schaeffer, aviation hero of Carroll County who had won the Croix de Guerre. The units of men in uniform were followed by Red Cross and Army nurses in automobiles along with accompanying bands of the county. They proceeded to a stand erected on Liberty Heights in front of Frank Logue's residence. After introductory remarks by the Rev. Thomas McGuigan, prayer was offered by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons. This was followed by a reading of the record of 35 deceased soldiers. As the roll was called veteran Harold Roop received the bronze tablets to be placed on the trees. Accompanied by a little girl in white carrying flowers, Ruth Lindsay, he proceeded to the designated trees and while tablets were being placed, flowers were strewn around the trees, after which tabs was sounded.

On account of the intense heat and traffic problems, the remaining exercises were held on the Court House Plaza. Dr. Hugh Latimer Elderdicke gave the address of welcome. Dr. Woolsey led in singing of World War I songs. The featured address was given by the Honorable J. G. Sanders, congressman and former governor of Louisiana. He issued "a call for that same unselfish and unflinching service in the coming days of reconstruction" as was manifest on the battlefield.

The women of the Red Cross served the veterans 2500 sandwiches, 800 deviled crabs, 50 gallons of punch, 50 gallons of ice cream, and 100 cakes. In the evening there was an hour long display of fireworks, the band played and people lingered till long after midnight.

"SPICE 'N EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

It was wonderful seeing the display of fireworks at the Stadium from my Apartment window on the night of July 4. The parades on Charles Street can be seen, too. The Municipal Band plays every now and then through the summer evenings at the Washington Monument and that does bring a big crowd. Walking along the city streets in this sweltering weather, individuals smile as they trudge along as much as to say, "I'm trying to bear it! How about you?" The only stores still open on Saturdays during July and August are the furniture stores and Brager's.

When it is so hot, folks heavy meals are positively not necessary and whatever you do if you love your husband don't let him take a shower returning from work but a lukewarm bath instead so as he does not have a heart attack and whatever you do—Don't ASK HIM TO DO CHORES AROUND THE PLACE UNTIL HE HAS FULLY RESTED AFTER EATING. Even then nothing should be strenuous.

Strolling into a air-conditioned Movie is truly delightful and that is what Your Observer did in my favorite theatre "The Little" on North Howard Street right about Franklin. The show is "The Light Across the Street" with the famous young actress from France, Brigitte Bardot, it is truly a real life story and the acting was perfection throughout plus the picture being filmed in France. I leave the rest to you!

Hope you did not miss "The Late Show" last week on T.V.—that grand story of the late Florence Ziegfeld.

What a grand letter arrived from our President of these United States to add to my famous collection!

Have you noticed since the heavy rains and those often, the grass appears a beautiful heavy blue-green? Just looks like a magnificent carpet. Especially at the bungalow where I cut it once weekly.

If there is a little girl, reading this Column or a parent who would like to run a "Snow-Ball" stand—this is the time right now and it will occupy the child's mind and give him or her spending money and create a little independence. Who does not enjoy a Snow-ball—young or old?

Thinking of furniture, folks. Did you see that glamorous affair of real Mink in the show window on North Howard and Mulberry Street? The premiere showing was in the Grand opening in Washington, D. C. which is a convertible sofa which is positively fabulous and truly a real aristocrat by Bernard Castro, America's foremost designer and manufacturing retailer of convertible furniture. The luxurious sofa is upholstered in pure white raw Italian Silk and lavishly trimmed with real Mink which is breathtaking. Like all other Castro Convertible furniture, it is converted within seconds to a KING size bed larger than the standard double-sized bed.

This company has many stores in the East in fact there are 53 of them from New England to Florida and then west to Detroit. All the furniture is built beautifully as years ago not the type since the wars that do not hold up. How fascinating it was to examine it thoroughly. The Cocktail tables can be converted into a dining table! Just imagine? And that in a second!

And here, Mrs. Housekeeper is a grand dessert which you MAKE not BAKE for these hot nights. You can make this in a cool of the morning for supper.

1 1/3 cups sweet condensed milk.
1/4 cup lemon juice.
1 cup cherries or whole raspberries.
2 vanilla wafers.
Blend together milk, juice, add prepared fruit. Line narrow, oblong pan with wax paper. Cover with fruit mixture. Add layer of wafers alternating this way until 1 fruit mixture is used finishing with layer of wafers. Chill in the refrigerator 6 hours or longer. To serve, turn out on a small platter and carefully remove the wax paper top may be decorated with fruit. Cut into slices and serve plain or if desired with whipped cream. UMMMM Good!

There are so many main dishes for summer eating that can be prepared in the mornings and that way it will keep your kitchen cool.

Have a grand week end, folks. Drive carefully. Will be seeing you the first cool day around the town.

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

AN AD IN THE PAPER

One of the most valuable tools that has been used for combating the current recession is the advertising power of home town and neighborhood newspapers. At the end of every production line stands the consumer and national prosperity is but the sum total of local prosperity. In thousands of communities all across the country because of editorial comment encouraging people to buy in their own neighborhood or in their own home town and as a result of newspaper advertising programs undertaken by local merchants, local retail sales, the pulsebeat of national prosperity, have been much encouraged.

An ad in the local paper has always been the mark of a successful business and the experience of recent months has only served to prove the point. —Industrial News Review

FIRE ON THE FARM

Various problems concerning agriculture are widely and continuously discussed. But there's one major problem that we don't hear enough about—and its name is fire.

The Department of Agriculture tells us that fire losses on the nation's farms have shown an almost steady increase over the past 18 years. In that span of time, the loss has gone up about two-and-a-half times—from $64 million in 1940 to $152 million last year.

Fire is a menace anywhere. It is particularly so on farms. Fire protective facilities are often of limited value, at best, and in many instances are non-existent or virtually so. When fire strikes, especially in the hot dry season, the chance of a total loss is high.

Inflation has brought with it another and related problem. The house or barn or other structure a farmer built 20 years ago will cost twice as much today if it has to be replaced, and perhaps more. That goes for equipment and possessions of practically every kind, large or small. The consequence is that farmers—like most of us—are under-insured. The average property owner—in and out of agriculture—will be in for a shock if he carefully inventories his possessions, totals their value at today's prices, and compares that with his insurance coverage. The wise farmer will periodically re-appraise his holdings in the light of changing prices and values. And he will continually practice fire prevention. A little thought, a little common-sense, will greatly reduce the hazards.

ALL OUT FOR FARM SAFETY

Makers of farm equipment always have put safety high on their list of goals. All manner of important safety features have been incorporated in the machines as soon as proven. A great mass of literature stressing the rules of safe operation has been distributed. Years ago, working through the Farm Equipment Institute, the manufacturers decided to open all patents to the industry which furthered safety in equipment design, and this has been the practice ever since.

Now Farm Safety Week will soon be here—it is to be observed July 20-26. And the Institute and its manufacturer members, in cooperation with the National Safety Council, are undertaking a new and vital safety promotional program.

This program emphasizes that "modern farm machinery is designed for safe and efficient operation," and that if the operators follow the rules they will be safe. A new leaflet, "Tips for Safe Tractor Operation," will be given free to all who want it by local farm equipment dealers. Special safety promotional material will be released to thousands of newspapers and magazines. TV spot announcements will be distributed on film to 500 stations.

Here is a real opportunity for farmers everywhere. The equipment industry is going all out in this comprehensive safety drive. Now it is up to the users to devote a little time and attention to a program that is designed to save life and limb.

A MAN-MADE MIRACLE

The Salk vaccine is a modern miracle—for those who use it.

But for the Salk vaccine, thousands of men, women and children now walking, running, playing and working would be in hospitals and treatment centers trying desperately to regain the use of ruined arms and legs. These people are still sound, whole human beings because they protected themselves against polio paralysis by three shots of vaccine.

Actually, there is nothing miraculous about the miracle of the Salk vaccine. The vaccine introduces into the blood stream tiny doses of polio virus so weakened that it can no longer cause paralysis. But this "killed" virus still has enough pep to produce the antibodies that fight back against the polio virus.

Then, when the polio virus enters the body, the antibodies go to work. The result might be at worst a slight fever or a slight sore throat and, after a day or two, the system is back to normal. The antibodies have won the fight against the deadly little virus.

The miracle of the Salk vaccine is a man-made miracle. It was made by men who, delved deeply into nature's mysteries to find out what caused polio, and then used nature's own protective forces to combat the crippling so often caused by the disease in the past. The vaccine merely triggers the body's own defensive mechanisms. Once started, these mechanisms can win the fight almost every time.

Take advantage of this modern miracle. Get your polio shots now. —Industrial News Review

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

BEDFORD, INDIANA, DAILY TIMES-MAIL: "No person ever got very far in the world without helping himself . . . That is just as true of nations. What Latin-America needs is some hard-headed talk about living within its income—the same kind of stuff you get from your banker when you have overdrawn your account for the third time."

FARMINGTON, MAINE, THE FRANKLIN JOURNAL: "It could happen to you . . . It has happened to so many others . . . Paralytic polio hurts, cripples, wrecks lives and families, sometimes even kills and always costs a lot of money. Your chances of getting paralytic polio may not be great but why take even a small chance when protection is so sure and so easy?"

ANTIGO, WISCONSIN, DAILY JOURNAL: "This is the time of the year when game managers renew their pleas of 'Leave the young of wildlife alone, regardless of whether it is a deer, bear or birds.' Wildlife does not desert its young and there is no need for a human search for deserted babies. Interfering with the young of wildlife is both anti-conservation and illegal."

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA, INDEPENDENT AMERICAN: "A New Jersey housewife, going all out to destroy a persistent moth, struck at it with a hammer. She missed the moth and hit her husband instead. Any similarity between the episode and the recent actions of Congress in swatting the 'recession' with public works projects which cannot possibly be under way until the supposed recession is long forgotten is purely coincidental. We only hope that when the congressional spurge is over, the taxpayer will be as comfortable in the poor house as the New Jersey husband is in the hospital."

PINE BLUFF, ARKANSAS, COMMERCIAL: " . . . We sincerely believe that a relaxing of trade barriers will give the healthy competition to American manufacturers that is needed. And, too, we are mindful of the fact that this competition should in the long run bring lower prices in certain fields to the sorely oppressed consumers of our nation."

OSWEGO, KANSAS, INDEPENDENT: "More and more of the sensible and well-meaning and far-sighted heads of the bigger labor organizations in this country are beginning to realize, where the periodic labor strikes, and always resultant wage and fringe benefits hikes are leading this country. They are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs . . . Natural results is an influx of cars and other manufactured products from other countries."

BAY SHORE, NEW YORK, SENTINEL AND JOURNAL: "Let's suppose you're on a 400-mile trip. Statistics show that if you whizz along at 75 m.p.h., the chances of someone getting killed if an accident occurs are 1 in 8. Drive 65 m.p.h. and your chances of dying if an accident occurs are a lot slimmer—1 in 20. At that speed it'll take about an hour more on the road. Slow down to 55, though, and if a collision takes place the chances of a fatality occurring is 1 in 50. The slower speed will mean a couple more hours of driving on the 400-mile jaunt."

CONWAY, SOUTH CAROLINA, HERRY HERALD: "The challenge to religion and the role of the church are no different today from what they were in the past. While there are various creeds, philosophies and faiths, they seek essentially to bring about a communion between man and Supreme Being. Differences in the manner of operating the various churches do not involve the substance of religious beliefs."

SANDY CREEK, NEW YORK, NEWS: "With the scientific achievements of Russia challenging our educational systems, a sudden, new interest in our schools is apparent across the nation. We believe that our schools have been 'right in there pitching' all the time out they had too little support from parents and townspeople. How many of us make it a point to talk with our Johnny's teacher to discover how we can encourage and help him at home? How many of us ever show up at school meeting?"

SOCIAL SECURITY FOR FARMERS

Social Security for farmers has been accepted with mixed feelings—to some it has been a welcome benefit, but to others, particularly the younger farmers, it has taken money that could have been put into capital investment.

Farmers now pay a social security tax of 3 3/8% on their earnings up to $4200 ($141.75 maximum). This is paid in a lump sum along with their federal income tax (if any).

Recent proposals have been made to liberalize the social security program. One bill being considered in 4-1/8% in 1959 and include earnings up to $6000 per year. The tax rate would gradually raise to 7 1/8% in 1975, which would impose a tax in the $6000 income of $427.50 in that year.

"If farmers are required to pay the proposed rates, the tax would be a House Ways and Means Committee."

"In this connection, it is plainly evident that the self-employed farmer is going to find it difficult saving for the purchase of a farm or the livestock, machinery and equipment needed for his operation."

"Farm Bureau's policy, made by its members, is to oppose any further liberalization of Old Age and Survivors Insurance (Social Security) benefits."

REPEAL OF THE TAXES ON THE TRANSPORTATION OF PROPERTY

The 3% tax upon amounts paid for the transportation of property other than coal, and the tax of 4 cents per short ton for the transportation of coal, have been repealed.

The repeal is effective with respect to amount paid on or after August 1, 1958, regardless of the date upon which the transportation commenced or terminated. In other words, no tax is payable upon any amounts paid on or after August 1, 1958, for the transportation of property (including coal), whether such transportation began or ended before, on, or after August 1st.

While 10,000 theatres have closed in the last three years, more than that many new church buildings have been erected.

SAFETY FACTS

Persons you've heard that falls are the No. 2 accidental killer, ranking right behind motor vehicle accidents.

Think you can identify the next most frequent cause of accidental death?

It may come as a surprise, but, according to the National Safety Council, the main cause of non-motor vehicle death to persons in the "active" years—5-44 years of age—is drowning.

Drowning deaths result not only from swimming accidents, but from falls into the water when working or playing near it, and from boating mishaps. More than 6,000 persons of all ages die each year from drowning.

It's not surprising, either, that the number of drownings is highest during the warm months—July, June, August and May, in that order. An average of more than 525 persons a month die of drowning, ranging from a July high of almost 1,500 deaths to a February low of 160.

How can drowning deaths be prevented?

1. Don't swim alone or in unprotected areas.
2. Don't swim too far, or after dark, or right after eating.
3. Know the depth of the water you swim in.
4. Don't get chilled—get ashore.

spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Cole's parents at Frostburg, Md.One kind word in the early morning will poison the thoughts for the day;
One unkind look to the one we love
Will take all the sunshine away.And twice all the sunshine we take awayFrom the lives of others at early day,
We steal from ourselves the whole day long.And we lose the beauty of earth's glad song.One little smile when things go wrong Will drive off many a frown;One pleasant look, though the thoughts do rage,

Will put the temper down.

And twice all the pleasure that we give out.At the time when we are most tempted to pout,Will sweeten our lives like a breath of May.And the sun will shine through the whole glad day.

FEESBURG

(A Voice from Carroll)

The Public Service Commission has just granted the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company the right to increase its rates. This means that each subscriber will pay an additional 33 cents per month on his gas and electric bill. We have always been of the opinion that the Public Service Commission was created to protect the public. Whether in this instance it has done so remains to be seen. The gas company argues that it is entitled to 6 and a quarter percent on its investment. We don't agree. If this is true then everyone that invests money in a business can say the same thing. What about the farmers who invest one hundred thousand dollars in a business producing food for public consumption.
Is he guaranteed 6 per cent on his investment? We all know he is not.
He isn't even guaranteed one percent. The trouble with all public utilities is their lack of concern for the public. If they gave better service they would have a greater demand for their service. The gas company is also asking an increase to meet the cost of last winter's snow storm. What about the farmers loss in last winter's storm due to the breakdown in electric service? He lost his source of income for five days due to lack of refrigeration to store milk. Is the public service Commission going to see that the Gas and Electric Company repays him for his loss? It should by all means, for they failed to keep electricity available. We don't know how many citizens know that they have a right to present their side of the story to the PSC too. But if thepublic isn't concerned enough to raise its voice in protest against the constant increases in rates of the various public utilities than they have no one to blame but themselves for increase in rates.There are some people who can always find time to do things for others even though it means putting aside important jobs of their own. These are the persons who find time to visit and entertain the veterans in the different hospitals and centers. Recently the "Varitones", a group made up of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Repp, Russell Bohn, Jimmy Fouché and Linda Forney entertained the veterans at the Veterans Administration Center, Martinsburg, W. Va. At the same time Stella Study and her mother with Elmer, their dummy put on several ventriloquist acts to help bring a little fun into lives of the veterans.It always is amusing to have visiting heads of state from dictatorships come to our country and have the impudence to get up before an American audience and lecture on democracy. Not only do they ignore the principles of a democratic government but they even speak to us when they speak they are totally ignorant of the meaning of the word.
And we as simple naive glibble
Americans confer Honorary degrees
upon them from some of our most liberal Universities.The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals last week protested to the American Embassy in London because a live mouse had been launched into space in our missiles to suffer the unknown hazards of space travel. We wonder if the members of the Society have ever watched a cat playing with a mouse.
Nothing can be more horrifying from the mouse's point of view than trying to escape from pussy's little game of
"now you can run and now you can't".
If we were a mouse we would much prefer to take our chance on a missile.Did it ever occur to the teenage set that when they complain that older people bore them that they might bore older people? We are quite happy to admit that neither children or young adults have ever bored us but to some older people here are a few things they find annoying with the bare-legged, tan-crazed, top-down convertible set. First, is their arrogant assumption that they know all the answers to everything and that they have discovered all the facts about life themselves. Second, they are reckless and do not think they can learn anything from their parents experience. Third, and maybe the most important is that when parents have provided the best they can afford in clothes, education and a home some youngsters pretend to believe their parents aren't fair to them, because they expect a certain amount of good manners and respect from their children. Some young adults think showing good manners to their parents is a sign that they are still children. This is far from the truth. It takes a person grown up and sure of himself and liking himself to treat his parents with the same esteem with which he treats himself.July of this year promises to be as wet as the July of last year was
dry. Now every little cloud that passes overhead cries like the one Johnny Ray use to sing about. Last summer the clouds didn't have a tear left in them by the time they reached our section. This weather is putting a damper on combining and hay making but last summer there was no hay to make and very little of anything else. So don't complain about the rainy weather. At last the soil is absorbing moisture and storing the water for the dry spells that are sure to come.It is often possible and more effective to give a two hour sermon
with a two-line wisecrack.—Ruth Roelke.

MARRIED

The Charles Town Presbyterian church was decorated with vases of white gladioli and Queen Ann's lace, white tapers in candelabra and palms
for the marriage Saturday afternoon,

States Navy, stationed in Bermuda.The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of glowing white Italian bridal satin, the bodice having a round neckline trimmed with Peau D'Ange lace which was embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. The gown's long sleeves were tapered over the hands. Its voluminous skirt fell in deep folds, the back having multiple pleats which formed a slight train and a wide bustle bow was at the waistline. Her fingertip length veil of silk illusion was caught to a crown tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. She wore small pearl earrings and carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli, carnations, rubrum and gypsophila, with white satin ribbon and streamers.Her sister and maid of honor, Miss Margaret Ann Hockensmith, wore a gown of crisp American beauty taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline, the three-quarter length sleeves
having their fullness gathered below
the elbow, and the full skirt having a bustle bow across the back waistline. She wore slippers and bandeau to match the dress and short white gloves. She carried a cascade bou-quet of gladioli, chrysanthemum and gypsophila. The four bridesmaids wore frocks similarly to the maid of honor in sunset rose taffeta, with slippers and bandeau to match and short white gloves. They carried cascade bouquets of gladioli, the color exactly matching the shade of the maid of honor's gown. They were Miss Evelyn Hockman and Miss Helen Hockman, sisters of the groom, Shep-herdstown; Miss Nancy Hockensmith, cousin of the bride. Shenandoah Junction, and Miss Nancy King, college roommate of the bride, Pittsburg, Pa. The flower girl, Carol Ann Hockensmith, small cousin of the bride, Harpers Ferry, carried a white basket of mixed garden flowers. She had a frock of pale pink taffeta trimmed with white satin ribbon and lace, a headress to match, white shoes and short white gloves.With a pale green silk organza dress, Mrs. Hockensmith, mother of the bride, wore a white, lace-veil trimmed large brimmed hat, long gloves and a corsage of pink carnations and gypsophila. The mother of the groom, Mrs. Paul Hockman, wore a navy blue lace dress over navy taffeta, white gloves and a corsage of white carnations and gypsophila. A white hat and white slippers completed attire.The bridal party received at a reception for the several hundred guests
which was given immediately following the ceremony in the church social hall, with Mrs. Alfred Benner, aunt of the bride, Harpers Ferry, attending. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth, the beautifully decorated four-tier wedding cake being cut by the bride and groom and later served to the wedding guests by Mrs. B. F. Higgs, aunt of the bride,
Salem, Va.; Mrs. John Porter Burns
and Mrs. Charles Sechrist, Charles Town.The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and held an arrangement of mixed flowers in a silver bowl sided by lighted tapers in silver candelabra. Punch was poured by Mrs.
A. O. Albin, Charles Town; Mrs. Abner Hockensmith, Shenandoah Junction, and Mrs. Brown Riscler, Ranson, both aunts of the bride; Mrs.
Ray Harris, Shepherdstown and Mrs.
Richard Dailey, Charles Town. Cookies, pink mints and assorted nuts were also served and assisting as aides were Mrs. Charles Dorsey, Mrs.
Virginia Birkett, Miss Margaret Gracey, Charles Town, and Miss

fit. She wore a corsage of copper chrysanthemums. They will be at doah Junction.

Christian businessman, Charles E. Jones, manager of the central Pennsylvania office of Mutual of New York, who yearly averages more than 100 speaking engagements at Bible conferences and churches of all denominations, is listed on the July 19 Hampstead YFC program.

In just six years, Jones was promoted from a salesman to the manager. A director of the Harrisburg Association Life Underwriters, member of the General Agents and Managers Association, he has received the National Quality Award each year he has been in sales work and is a life member of the Pennsylvania Leaders Round Table.

Since 1951 when Mr. Jones designed the "Eternal Life Insurance Policy" yearly distribution has mounted to $50,000.

The recently organized girls' sextet of HYFC means new talent for next Saturday night's rally. The sextet was organized and is directed by Mrs. Barbara Schultz.

Just as we are right-handed or left-handed, most of us are either right-eyed or left-eyed, according to the Murine Company. Figures show that in 60 per cent of the people, the right eye dominates the vision. The left eye takes over in 25 per cent of the cases. The remaining 15 per cent alternate between the right and left eyes.

In loving Memory of my dear husband
HOWARD C. FOREMAN,
who died 1 year ago July 19, 1958.

The stars are brightly shining
Upon a silent grave,
In it lies a loved one
I loved but could not save.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tenderly, fond and true
There is not a day dear husband
That I do not think of you.

Your loving wife, FLORENCE.

In Loving Memory of my dear father,
HOWARD C. FOREMAN,
who died 1 year ago, July 19, 1958

One sad year has passed
Since my great sorrow fell
The shock I had that day
I still remember well.

God knows how much I miss you Never will your memory fade
My thoughts will always wonder
To the place where you were laid.

Daughter DOROTHY & FAMILY.

FOREMAN—In loving memory of our dear father, HOWARD C. FOREMAN, who passed away one year ago, July 19, 1957.

One year has passed
Since we lost our dear father,
Dear father how we miss you,
Since from this earth you passed away

Our heart is still aching for you
As we think of you today,
Though your smile is gone forever
And your face we cannot touch.

We will never lose sweet memories
Of our father we loved so much Forgotten by others, you may be
But never will you be by us.

By his loving daughter and son-in-law, ANNA and HARRY PITTINGER.

New Split-Level Design Looks Like Ranch-Style

If you don't like the looks of a split-level house, yet admire its convenient layout, this may be the home for you and your family.

Designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N. Y., the house has its second level "hidden" at the rear, giving an appearance from the street of a long, low ranch style.

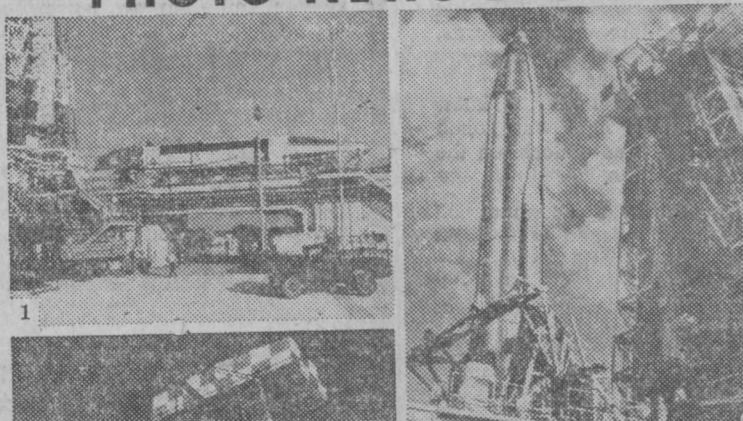

A roof of deep blend asphalt shingles specified by the architect further enhances this effect, since a dark color tends to make any house appear lower. Matern also has selected asphalt shingles because they provide a long-lasting roof that has both texture and color.

Inside, the three bedrooms are located at the rear of the house for more quiet. For more "sound conditioning," the bedrooms' 11 closets are located along an inside wall to baffle sound waves from the living areas.

Other features are a large kitchen with plenty of windows for natural light, three complete lavatories, a full bathroom, dining room with breakfast nook, and fireplace.

Additional information, blueprints, and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y. Refer to Plan No. 9362.

SHORT STORY

Big Fight

By Larry Sutton

I GUESS for the biggest part of my thirteen years—and I've spent every last one of 'em in Shady Point—I'd waited for the kid and Henry Williams to have it out. Maybe one reason is that I'd been tellin' those two things about each other for years in hopes that I'd get to see 'em have it out.

I was down at the creek pinching off tad-pole tails when I heard that it was about to happen. Rushing up Shady Points main street, I was at Josie's Place when Henry Williams barged in.

"Whatya have, Speck?" Josie asked me.

"Surprise me," I drawled.

Then I saw this kid, Freddy, standing by the bar, all crouched and mean looking. He and Henry had already had words outside, I knew that much, and I was anxious to see what was going to develop.

I crept next to Henry, all the time watching those big arm muscles of his'n wiggling. "Henry," I whispered, "when you gonna do some'n about what the kid's sayin' about you?"

Before Henry could answer, the kid slid between us; and Henry looked down at him. "Beat it, Kid," Henry snapped.

"I ain't going nowhere," the kid remarked, smiling with the words.

"Then we'll fight," said Henry.

"Where?" said the kid.

Hearing Ben's answer, I knew positively that a fight was gonna take place. "Three o'clock—in the prairie land."

After stealing a doughnut off Josie's bar, I finished getting out into the street. It was gonna be a long wait until three o'clock—it was one now—but I had a lot of patience.

At two o'clock old Flesh Jones was waiting in that rattle trap car of his. Flesh and me is a lot alike, in that we both love good fights. Every Saturday night Flesh follows fights out to the end of town.

"Wanta rife with me?" Flesh asked.

"Yeah. If you're bettin'."

"I take the kid, Speck."

This suited me. I laughed out-loud. "I'll take Henry Williams," I said.

Flesh's old car swerved and bounced until we hit some level prairie land. "When you gonna junk this heap?" I asked.

Flesh held up his hand. "Look up there," he said. "There's Henry and the kid all squared off."

I was outa the car before it hardly stopped. "Hit 'em!" I yelled to either of them.

I saw this other fellow then, but I didn't pay too much attention. He was about my age, only a lot stockier, and he had a flat nose and eyes that frowned like an angry wild cat.

"Let's get on with the fight," I said, aware that they were watching me.

"Sure," Henry Williams said. Both he and the kid grinned at me. "This here fellow is Frank Clark, Speck," the kid said, pointing at the new fellow.

This fellow walked right up to me, staring me hard in the face, and said: "Yeah!"

"You ain't no Yankee," I said weakly. "They is cowards, and I can readily see you ain't no coward!"

It was too late to make amends, however. He was on me and quick. Big fists were all over my face, and I was knocked down, plenty hard.

"Get up and fight 'em!" the kid yelled. "We imported him all the way from Forked Rock to whip you."

I had been took. I fought kinda hard for about a minute, but I knew I was licked. Looking sadly at the others, I began begging off.

"You gonna stop starting trouble?" Henry asked me. "If I wanta fight somebody, I'll arrange it."

"Sure," I muttered. "Only get this thing off me."

When I got back up town I was plenty relieved, even if I was the source of some bad jokes. No more trouble for me, I decided, then and there.

I called my bird dog over, about my only friend left. "Spot," I says, "Let's go steal a doughnut . . . Let's."

It Begins at Home

Lesson for July 20, 1958

JUSTICE, like charity, begins at home. People who don't practice it there are not likely to practice it anywhere. A home is often called a retreat, a place where one can get away. But the home is no place to get away from the human race, no place to get away from God, no hide-away from duty. In one sense the home is the easiest place to live. When some one wants to express the idea of a delightful situation he will say it is like "one big happy family." On the other hand the home is a very difficult place to live, just because those who make it up are so very different. Anywhere else in the world, for instance, a man has other men he can team up with; but in the home father is the only man. He has only a woman and children for company. They love him and he loves them; but they are all so different that they are hard to understand.

Social Justice in the Home

It is hard to comprehend the meaning of "social justice" in society at large. The whole thing is so complex and enormous that we seldom feel certain of the answers. But when we look at a single home, the problem is in some ways clearer. For example: The home makes it plain that "justice" is not the same thing as treating every one precisely alike. A good diet for mother may be a poor one for father, and what both of them eat may be poison for the baby. Father, mother and child have different parts to play in the home, they have different contributions to make, they need from the home different benefits. The Bible at many points deals with the home, and if what is said sounds too simple and commonsense for inspired Scripture, we must recall that the home itself.

which are the greatest to itself a product of the religion of the Bible. One thing the Bible makes plain is of the essence of justice: rights and responsibilities go together. The father and the mother between them furnish the support, they command and teach.

The Teaching Mother

No one will try to make light of a mother's willing sacrifice in bringing a child into the world. But if all a woman does for her children is to give them birth she is not the Bible's idea of a good mother. A woman who has a child who, because of her neglect, is only a future thief or killer, might better not have had the child at all. The Bible (as in Proverbs) often brings out directly or indirectly the importance of a good mother in a child's life. And the thing often mentioned is her service as teacher. She is the principal teacher—or she can be, if she gives her time and mind to it—of her child for his first six years.

What has all this to do with "justice"? This much, at least: One important feature of justice, in society or in the family, is giving each person an opportunity to render all the service of which he is capable. Hence if mothers are going to be good teachers, we must see how important the education of girls is. "Educate a boy and you educate a future man. Educate a girl and you educate a future family." If mothers are to be teachers, then justice requires that everyone, husband and community alike, give them every encouragement and opportunity to live with their children.

The Children

In the Bible's teaching about the home, one feature is stressed which is not at all popular today, though our country would be a better one if it were more popular: namely the idea of obedience. What is the best contribution a child can make to the well-being of a home? Two things every child can bring: Cheerfulness, and obedience. And what has this to do with justice? It should be obvious: Justice does not require that everybody in a given group or situation should be the equal of everybody else there. There is such a thing as subordination which is fair and right. Justice in the home does not call for children to be treated like grownups. There is no conflict whatever between love and obedience; indeed the best obedience is the obedience of love.

It's Always Vegetable Time!

Fresh, frozen or canned, vegetables lend themselves to endless ways of preparation. They can be mixed and matched or sparked with a delicate sauce, but whatever the preparation, it's the flavor that makes eating a pleasure.

Accent brings out the natural flavors of vegetables, making them taste as though they'd gone straight from the garden into the saucepan. Three quarters of a teaspoon to every four servings and your vegetables taste better than ever before.

Try the tempting mixture of canned corn and tomatoes, or frozen asparagus with a creamy hollandaise sauce, and for a real taste delight, serve glistening glazed carrots. But whether they're fresh, frozen or canned, vegetables need a little careful attention for extra-special flavor.

Glazed Carrots

1 pound carrots 1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon Ac'cent 3/4 tablespoon butter melted

Remove tops from carrots. Scrape carrots; leave whole. Place carrots in saucepan with 1 inch boiling water. Sprinkle with Ac'cent and salt. Cover and cook 20 - 40 minutes (depending on size) until almost tender. Remove from heat; drain and pat dry. Roll carrots in granulated sugar. Place in melted butter in saucepan or skillet and cook, turning frequently, until glazed.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Maple Makes The Dish!

Take the simplest of fruit desserts—add Log Cabin Syrup and you'll come up with something really special! And you will suddenly realize that maple-blended syrup is wonderful for many foods and not only for pancakes and waffles. Use it for sweetening fruits, for making super sundaes, for all kinds of beverages, including hot as well as iced tea and coffee. Try and see—and you'll agree that maple makes the dish!

Banana Maple

1 banana, sliced lengthwise 2 to 3 tablespoons sour cream
Maple-blended syrup Tender-thin flaked coconut Arrange banana halves in individual serving dish. Pour maple-blended syrup over banana. Top with sour cream and sprinkle with flaked coconut.

Grapefruit with Maple Syrup

Prepare grapefruit halves for serving. Pour 1 tablespoon maple-blended syrup on each half. Chill and serve.
To broil: Dot each half with 1 teaspoon butter after adding syrup. Broil under medium heat 15 minutes, or until bubbling. Serve at once.

about

Feed Consumption

When pullets are moved to the laying house, they may lose their appetite temporarily. Birds that aren't eating don't lay—so, take steps to correct this condition promptly.

My Recommendation:
Give the flock Dr. Salsbury's Avi-Tab® in their mash to stimulate eating. Avi-Tab contains a dozen active ingredients to aid run-down, off-feed, convalescing birds. It's the custom with many of our customers to give Avi-Tab 10 days each month. Try this first aid to poultry.
