PEOPLE

A farm equipment manufacturer announces that it is approaching the end of the best year in its history. Two reasons are given—improved conditions in agriculture and the increasing use of modern machinery to do the work on the farm.

The first of those reasons is certainly important. When farm income runs at high levels, as it has this year, farmers are naturally going to spend more freely on machinery as on everything else they want or need. But in the long pull, and aside from ups and downs in the farm economy, the second reason is infinitely more important.

Successful farming today is virtually impossible without tractors and the other mechanical aids. The cost of hand labor has reached the out-of-the-question point. The modern history of farming has been one of revolutionary technological changes, in which fewer and fewer people have become capable of larger and larger production. In 1910, one out of every three persons lived on a farm—this year the ratio is one out of every eight. In April of this year about 20,827,000 people lived on farms—and that marked a decline of 4,231,000 from as recent a date as April, 1950.

We have a vexation farm surplus problem. But our increasing population, along with, one hopes, a wiser and more far-sighted government farm policy, ultimately will take care of that. Indeed, a future problem may be the need to avoid scarcity. Fewer people must feed more people and that means that farmers will require the best mechanized equipment the manufacturers can devise.—Industrial News Review

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Christman has been assigned to Taneytown, and will preach his first sermon here, on Sunday evening. There were numerous changes made in the conference.

A dispatch was received here, on Wednesday morning, announcing the death in Kansas City, Mo., of Mr. Sterling Archie Galt, son of Mr. Henry Galt of this place. Mr. Galt and wife lived in Taneytown, until several months ago, when they removed to Kansas City. He was about 42 years of age.

Jurors for November Term. The following is the list of names of jurors drawn for November term of Court 1908, by Judge Wm. H. Thomas, October 19th, 1908. Taneytown—John J. Crapster David C. Harney—On last Monday evening, Mr. Russell Shoemaker, teacher at Bish's school, house, had quite an exciting, as well as dangerous experience. While he was going from the school house to his boarding house, he was attacked by three men who cut him in the throat, twice across the back of the hand and on the arm; they also cut his coat down over the breast, and relieved him of his watch, money and pocketbook. Fortunately, none of the cuts were deep and the injuries are not considered serious.

After all was over, he walked to his home, a distance of about 14 or 15 miles and on Tuesday morning went to Westminster and resigned the school. We are told that he is the third teacher that quit this term already; it is certainly a bad reputation for the back woods.

What DEMOCRATS think about their senatorial candidate: In the Democrat primary for U. S. Senator, 65% of the votes were cast AGAINST D'Alesandro. Public statements by prominent Democrats reflect their true sentiments. Dr. R. Walter Graham in an article headlined "Little Hope for Spending Curbs Under D'Alesandro", Graham, Baltimore's City Comptroller declared "They aren't going to reduce expenditures. That would mean discontinuing certain jobs which is suicide for an aspiring politician". Baltimore News-Post, Aug. 27, 1954 Clarence W. Miles "These are clearly not times in which the nominee for the United States Senate should be chosen on the basis of purported political expediency or the primary purpose of satisfying individual political ambitions". Baltimore Sun, Jan. 15, 1958 Dr. Clarence Long: "The 'little guy' that the Mayor is for is a 200-pound guy named Thomas D'Alesandro. His claims of allegiance to the little guy are phoney and a cruel joke. The Mayor's tax program drove many firms out of the city and caused widespread unemployment, and it was the 'little guy' who suffered most." Baltimore Evening Sun, April 16, 1958 James Bruce: "James Bruce saw in the D'Alesandro campaign for the United States Senate a plot of Jack Pollack to take over control of the city and state". Baltimore Morning Sun, May 8, 1958 East Baltimore Democratic Club: The East Baltimore Democratic Club sent out circulars with sample ballots, reading: "Do you remember full time employment in Baltimore—until D'Alesandro drove industry out of town?". Baltimore Morning Sun, May 15, 1958 And, here's what Mr. D'Alesandro said about the office he now seeks: Baltimore Sun, Oct. 8, 1957: "If they tell you that the United States Senate is the top of the ticket, don't you believe it. I DON'T WANT THAT JOB" Baltimore Sun, Dec. 9, 1957: Mr. D'Alesandro was quoted by Thomas O'Neill of the Sunpapers as saying that, as Senator, "the only jobs you get are a couple of elevator operators". Baltimore Evening Sun, Oct. 20, 1957: Asked if he would run for the Senate, Mr D'Alesandro said: "No, sir! They want me to run. You know why? They want a strong Baltimore man on the ticket to help drag an OLD NAG across the finish line." But... Everybody likes GLENN BEALL FOR U.S. SENATOR By Authority of Lewis J. Ort, Treas.

PROPORTIONED CARS

To say the 59 Ford is "new" ... is an understatement. For the 59 Ford is much more: it's a brilliant kind of newness.

It's a newness of beautiful proportions ... not a bulky, "padded shoulder" look, but a classic rightness of space, size and line. It's a departure from the humdrum in cars to the exciting elegance of the Thunderbird. And there you have it: the sleek and graceful 59 Ford is a perfect blending of Thunderbird elegance with the world's most beautiful proportions!

There's a happy ending, too. The 59 Ford is a masterpiece of underpricing!

NEW! 59 Ford awarded Gold Medal for beautiful proportions by the Comité Français de l'Élégance at Brussels World's Fair. You'll admire the crisp styling of the new Thinline roof, the fresh, straight-through look of the big picture windows that surround you.

NEW! Save up to 5 cents on every gallon of gasoline! Every standard Ford engine—Six or Thunderbird V-8—thrives on regular gas at regular prices. And with Full-Flow oil filter you change oil only at 4000 miles instead of the 1000 miles often recommended.

NEW! A simplified low-cost, Automatic Drive! Team this all-new Fordomatic Drive with Ford's Mileage Maker Six or Thunderbird V-8 and enjoy automatic driving at a price within everyone's car budget! With nearly a third fewer parts, upkeep costs are lower, too!

Instead of a Cross?

Lesson for October 26, 1958

THE TEMPTATIONS of Jesus have been the subject of tens of thousands of words explaining them. Some people seem unwilling to believe that Jesus could ever have been really tempted. Of course he could not really be tempted, he could not really be human. Being tempted is not the sin, it is yielding to it that is the defeat.

Choice Always Means Temptation

Many Christian theologians believe that the three special temptations described for us by Matthew were, so to speak, official not personal. That is, they had to do with the question of what Jesus was to accomplish with his life in this world. If he was really and truly human, then like human beings everywhere he would have to think out his problems.

Dr. Foreman

He was born to be king; but what kind of king? He was born to set up a kingdom; but what matter of realm would it be, and how was he to go about getting it started? That he had a high destiny, he knew. But still the question bored into his mind: What next? What do I do now?

Choice always brings temptation. For in every choice there lies the possibility, and the attractiveness, of choosing something less than the best. And to choose less than the best, even when that is a good thing in itself, is wrong.

The Good Instead of the Best

Looking at the temptations of Jesus from this angle, we can see that the first two of them were temptations to use his great powers in ways that were good... only not the best. Remember Jesus had at this time never performed a miracle. It is quite possible that he was conscious of possessing supernatural powers, and if so, he must have given thought to the question, What should he do with his power? This is a special form of the problem every Christian must decide: How shall I use the gifts and the powers which God has given me?

The first temptation suggested that he use these powers to feed the hungry. We forget Jesus' overflowing generosity if we fancy that if he had turned stones into bread, it would have been used as food for himself alone. Stones are useless, bread is useful. The country was burdened with hungry people. What was wrong with feeding them with miracle-bread? Nothing was wrong with it. The point was, it was less than the best use he could make of his God-given powers.

The second temptation was like the first. He was tempted to perform a miracle in the most public and spectacular fashion. He was invited to defy the law of gravity to prove that God would take care of his own, no matter what. Who will deny that Jesus could have won friends and influenced people by such astounding miracles? But he would not do it. It wasn't that the thing was sinful in itself. It was the wrong way to the throne.

Bad Means to Good Ends

In the third temptation, Jesus was tempted in a different way, namely to attain his great purpose of setting up a universal kingdom, by the use of bad ends. Here he is tempted to something evil in itself; but the end in view, namely control of the kingdoms of the world, would surely justify whatever method Jesus might take to achieve that end. Or so the tempter might argue. But Jesus knew better. He knew that if an act is really evil, all the good intentions in the world, all the noble purposes of a Messiah himself, will not glorify the evil thing.

Jesus was born to be king, king of mankind. But he would not be the King of the Full Stomach, he would not be the King of the Astonished Mind. Still less would he be the King of what could be seen from the devil's most high-flying airplane. He would be king of men's hearts. He would be the Savior-king, Lord of transformed hearts. And this he could be only by going to the cross. For that, after all, is what all these temptations were: signposts pointing him down this way and that, away from the cross. If he had taken these byways, he could not have become what he is, Savior of the world.
