MORE FUN AT THANKSGIVING

In the old days the homemaker's preparations for Thanksgiving amounted to a huge task. Chores often started weeks ahead of time. Some recipes took days to prepare. Gathering the food for Thanksgiving dinner meant a long tour of various shops.

But now, as a house organ issued by First National Stores points out: "The modern 'Cook of the Day' can have a complete Thanksgiving dinner ready in a matter of a few hours. Scientific improvements in the food itself and in packaging have made cooking so easy, beyond any dream of generations past".

Anyone who's ever been in a modern American food market can attest to that. Everything is ready to hand -plainly marked as to price, weight and quality, and attractive packaged. And an ever-lengthening list of foods now come in a ready-for-thepan or ready-to-eat form.

As the First National's magazine says: "Food shopping for Holiday time or any time is faster, pleasanter, cleaner than in the old days, which, of course, was fun with the family hustling around doing all the preparation work. But today it's more so because pre-holiday preparations leave more time for the recreation that goes with Thanksgiving."-Industrial News Review.

Since no ordinary mortal-who is neither a traffic manager nor a postal official-can remember the ins and outs of mailing a Yule package to Aunt Mary, our duty to our readers and our sympathy for the long-suffering souls in the post office demand that we try to point out the pitfalls of that "public-be-damned" parcel post law.

If Aunt Mary lives on a rural or star route or in a town with a second, third or fourth class post office, or if you intend mailing the package from a rural or star route or in a second, third or fourth class post office, you are in luck. You can then send her a package weighing up to 70 pounds, so long as its girth plus length is no more then 72 inches. But, if your bundle weights more than 40 lbs., or the combined length and girth is more than 72 inches, and you and Aunt Mary are both served by first class post offices, you'd better drive to a smaller town to mail it. Or, if Aunt Mary lives more than two postal zones away (more than 150 miles) your package must not weigh more than 20 pounds if it is to be mailed. If it weighs more, you'll have to deliver it yourself, hire a truckman, see if you can persuade the Railway Exthe problem, divide your Yule offering | wide nterest in scentific studies-

FOR RETARDED CHILDREN, INC.

Fern L. Smith, campaign chairman, has announced that plans for the 4th annual fund-raising drive for the Carroll County Association for Re-tarded Children have been completed. Brochures are being distributed to every home in Carroll County. These brochures explain some of the facts about mental retardation, list the accomplishments of the county as-sociation and the immediate and long range plans. Some of the teachings n the public school classes and the Assocation programs are illustrated by photos taken through the courtesy of Englar Studios.

Of added significance this year is the Baile Hall Day Center opened re-cently for the retarded children who are not eligible for the public school classes because of age or limited ability. This Day Center, which is located at the Sams Creek Church near Dennings, is entirely dependent on funds collected during the fund-raising campaign—Nov. 16 through 29.

FEESERSBURG A Voice From Carroll)

Now that we will have some new faces representing Carroll County in the Maryland Legislature let us hope they will face up to the fact that our county needs a zoning law and needs it immediately. Every county around Baltimore city has enacted one for its own protection. This leaves our beautiful county wide open to all sorts for a farm to rehabilitate law offenders. Fortunately public opinion was aroused in time to nip this proposed plan in the bud. However we will not always be able to stop this sort of thing unless some good zoning laws are put on the books. Just recently the Navy and will be home until there existed in Baltimore city an around the 25th of Nov. undesirable burial ground known as Laurel cemetery. After much legal sparring a realty firm took possession of it for the sum of one hundred dollars. It has a shopping center value of $250,000 today. Where does Carroll County come into the picture? Well, our county became the new burial ground for the dead removed from the Laurel cemetery. According to David Culhane, writing in the evening Sun the dead have been removed from the cemetery and taken to Carroll County for reburial, mainly in a common grave, according to the funeral establishment handling the job at a cost of 15,500 dollars. So unless we pass some zoning laws for our beautiful county it looks like it will become penal farms and Potter's fields for Baltimore city.

Billy Graham says that telling little white lies is a sin and there is no justification in even resorting to this kind of subterfuge in dealing with people. We are afraid that either the medical nor nursing profession will agree with him. There are times when little white lies are justified and indeed necessary to save lives and much mental suffering. If it is a sin to be kind and to shield people from unnecessary worry then every doctor and nurse is living in sin. Little white lies may not be pure white but when used in an effort to be kind then they are almost lily white. This would indeed be a nasty world if everyone went around being exactly truthful in everything they said. A child of five asks his mother to comment on the color book he has worked so hard with. It's in a state of purple and red blobs but he says: "Isn't it beautiful?" Mother answers: "Yes dear very beautiful." Suppose she had spoken the truth or the truth as she saw it. But little white lies are the instruments of diplomats to spare the feelings of The T.V. program Kaleidoscope on Sunday afternoon presented a program that we hope a large group of viewers saw. It was titled "The American Stranger" and was a study the contemporary Indian. Most white Americans viewing the program must have felt ashamed and uncomfortable at seeing the plight of the American Indians in the 20th century. This once proud American race has been reduced to poverty and degradation by the white man through trickery and dishonesty. Many Americans think the Indian is protected by the Federal Government and are given fair treatment but this is far from the truth. The men in the government who handle Indian affairs too often deprive him of all nis land and the means of earning a iving. Ranchers cut off his water rights and oil companies swindle him out his oil; even the timber growing on his land is leased to big lumber mills and the Indian receives not one penny. Robert McCormick narrated the program and acted as guide thru the different Indian reservations. All who saw the program has a better understanding of the Indian's story then before. But the white man cannot be proud of the way he has treated the men who once owned the whole United States. Another example of the white man's utter disregard for the rights of other races. We were sorry the people of Baltimore did not see fit during the last election to grant the Walters Art Gallery the money it asked for improvement. Maybe they had their reasons but we think it was lack of foresight. Every city or country that is important takes care that its cultural life grows along with its economic growth. To provide for one and not the other gives an outsider the impression that its citizens are not interested in the finer things. One week after the election we spent an afternoon in Walter's Art Gallery and came away much impressed by what the gallery offers. The day we were there they had three very fine exhibits. A collection of church orna-ments dating back to the 15th century. Paintings, robes, tapestry work altar objects, Bibles that were beautiful with colorful pictures and rare hand writing. Also Aztec art objects with exquisite hand made jewelry with precious stones; an exhibit Millets pantings and fine English china. An art gallery is a place to see what past men and women contributed to living, and to learn some thing about our forefathers through these things. It is necessary to pre-serve these things and to teach our It is necessary to preplain that they don't know what to do with their time. Its because they haven't found the Art galleries, the antique shops, the library and book stores. A city has much to offer in these things and they cost so little.

NEW CHURCH ORGAN TO BE DEDICATED

(Continued from First Page) and is exclusive development of Schulmerich Carillons Inc. of Sellers-ville, Pa. The instrument consists of 25 miniature bell tone generators of bronze bell metal which are struck by metal hammers, producing exact true bell tones almost inaudible to the human ear. These bell vibrations are then amplified over 100,000 times by means of specially designed electronic equipment, producing true bell music with all the depth and richness of traditional cast bells of massive proportions. The final bell tones are just as rich and deep as the finest bell music produced by the world famous European carillons.

The instrument which (has been) installed in Grace United Church of Christ provides the tonal equivalent of 79,462 pounds of cast bells tuned to the finest English standards. The range is G below Middle C to C two octaves above and it is interesting to note that the low G bell is equal in tone to a cast bell weighing 13,250 pounds. The "Carillonic Bells" instrument will be played from a special keyboard located at the organ console. Selector switches will permit the bells to be heard within the church alone, from tower alone, or both together.

Automatic daily programs on the "Coronation" Carillon will be provided by means of the "Auto-Bell' Roll Player. This is neither a phonopragh nor a wire-recording device, but actually plays the bells through the use of perforated plastic rolls. These rolls actuate the circuits which strike the bell tone generators, duplicating the performance of an artist at the key clamation citing the benefits for which board. Made of a durable plastic material, the rolls are formed as an endless belt and the roll player can be the different states appoint the last set to play a single desired selection or an extended program.

Automatic operation of the Roll Player is controlled by a calussed clock which can be set to play the carillon at any time of the day. Presently it is planned to have selections played on the bells each day at noon to bring the great hymns of the church into the daily lives of the people of the community.

A Westminster chime striking device is included and will strike the hours throughout the day from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. as a public service to the people of the community.

"Carillonic Bells" instruments, produced exclusively by Schulmerich Carillons, Inc., have caused a revolution in bell music. For generations Amer-ica has turned to Europe for its cast bells. During recent years, however, this practice has been reversed and Europe is now turning to America for 'Carillonic Bells". Schulmerich installations are in churches and missions in virtually all parts of the world, providing fine bell music which would be impossible otherwise because of the great weight and cost of cast

Church bells, ringing from the belm., Sunday School; 10:30 a. m. Worship and Sermon. Chas. E. Held, Pas-J. Schulmerich revised the bell making craft in 1930. A young electronics engineer at that time, Schulmerich concentrated on solving the bell problem when his church contacts revealed the pitiful state of bells in this country. Hearing clergymen lament that they could not afford the great cost of cast bells, Schulmerich determined that there must be a new and better way to create the beloved music of bells.

Spurred on by his own personal love for bell music, months of research were spent in his laboratories apply-ing the knowledge of his engineers and noted musicians to the problem of creating the sound of a perfectly tun-ed bell without using the great mass of metal required to mold a cast bell. At last—a solution was found in the field of electronics.

One of the most famous Schulmerich installations is the National Evening Hymn Memorial Carillon at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. This great carillon was given to the people of the United States by the American Veterans of World War II.

In addition to serving churches and chapels of every religious faith, Schul-merich "Carillonic Bells' 'installations have gained wide acceptance in col-leges and universities throughout our land. At such outstanding institutions of learning as the University of Minnesota, the University of Pennsylvania, the College of Puget Sound, Boston University, the famous West-minster Choir College of Princeton, New Jersey and so on, Schulmerich pells add their voice to campus activi-

LET US GIVE THANKS

The last Thursday in November we shall be observing the anniversary of our National Thanksgiving. Our traditional thanksgiving day is not substitute for daily thanksgiving. The daily giving of thanks enhances the value and deepens the meaning of national thanksgiving. Not even an ingrate can honestly exclaim, "Thankful! For What?"

"I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart" was the feel-ing of the psalmist many centuries ago. And this is the spirit and attitude of grateful men and women to-day. Such is the breath of him who loosens his grip on self and takes hold of Christ. When a person is wrapped in himself, it is very difficult to unwrap him. It is not difficult, however, to be thankful when you turn away from self and remember who gave you 'yourself'.

In the beginning of American history grateful Pilgrims bowed their heads and thanked God for the fruitage of a good earth and the blessings of a loving heavenly Father: In this twentieth century dare we do less!

Let us make 1958 a memorable Thanksgiving. Let us thank the Lord for our homes and for our families. Let us praise Him for the necessities—food, shelter and clothing—of life, yes, also for the comforts, and luxuries which we enjoy. Let us thank Him for our schools and teachers, for our churches, and for our friends. How could we live wihout freinds! "None of us lives to himself, and none of us dies to himself". Helpers and mourners are ever near.

So many things are ours for which we seldom think of being thankful. Among them are health, happiness, love and affection, laughter and hu-mor, liberty, sunshine and rain, the realities of today and the hopes of tomorrow.

Gratitude in the heart will issue in praise upon the lips. The present custom of a National Thanksgiving is probably due to Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hall, Philadelphia, editor of "Godey's Lady's Book". As far back as 1859 she wrote the governors of the various states recommending a national thanksgiving observance every year. After the battle of Gettysburg she suggested to President Lincoln that he issue a proclamation designating a national day of thanks-giving. He did this by naming the sixth of August. Since then it is customary for the President of the United States to issue an annual pro-Thursday in November as a day of thanksgiving.

Let this day find all of us in the act of giving thanks. CARROLL COUNTY SCHOOL

Superintendent of Schools, Samuel M. Jenness, has recently received a copy of a report submitted in connection with a survey of Maryland schools. The report is a part of the outcome to be anticipated from the Survey Commission authorized by the State Governor to report on the charpublic schools. The Survey Commission was named by the Governor partly as a result of the many critical statements and unwarranted judgment made by many persons following the successfulaunching of the Russian "Sputnik" The friends of education and those directly engaged in education were of course, greatly concerned with such statements and judgments and welcomed the opportunity to be subject ed to objective analysis by competent personnel. The work of the Commission was carried on largely Dr. Freeman Butts, assigned to the task of making a judgment and an-alysis of the school system and its work. His report was submitted re-cently to the Commission and has had some prominence in state newspapers during the latter part of August.

The report should be of interest to citizens in all counties of the state and has been analyzed in the office of the Carroll County Board of Educa-tion. The administrative and supervisory staff of the local county school have looked forward to it and are pleased to submit salient points to High Team Set both the friends and the critics of High Single Game public education. These points are submitted with considerable pride and satisfaction because of the generally favorable nature of the comments made. Dr. Butts spent considerable time in the State collecting data and evidence for his report. The length of | High Set the report prohibits complete publication, hence the effort in connection with this article has been to select important statements which may be of interest and may have application to local schools.

(a) The report, instead of criticism, reflected satisfaction and commendation for the public schools Newspaper headlines reporting the affair said; "Report defends schools", "Survey rejects idea of Useless Programs", "State Educators Doing Good Job-Expert says".

(b) Favorable comments gleamed from the report: "My over-all impression of the educational program of Maryland is that it is right in the middle of the main-stream of modern developments in education in the United States. "It reflects the same variety of theories and practices concerning what constitutes a good education." |

"The State is to be congratulated "The college-preparatory curricu-lum has not been crowded with useless courses."

"These facts should still the clam-dence to be highly favorable to the public high schools".

"Among the elementary schools I saw, I felt that good work was being done. The program is essentially sound".

"The basic design of the educational program is sound." Enrollment in the various sub jects in the first semester of 1955 (pre-Sputnik) shows that academic and general subjects are not being neglected by the vast majority of stu-

THE HALF-WIT

Any farmer, forced to hire help at today's wages, should get a chuckle out of the following story: A farmer with a reputation as a tight-ward, had two hired men and a housekeeper. Rumors were that he paid them starvation wages. A Federal inspector from the Wages and Hours Administration called at the farm.

"I hear you pay your help below the legal minimum", said the inspec-

"Is that so?" demanded the farmer angrily. "Well, there's Willie, who milks the cows and does odd chores. Ask him what he gets." "Forty dollars a week, sir", Willie

"And there's Sammy", said the farmer, calling over the other hired hand. "Tell this man what wages I pay you."
"Forty dollars a week", Sammy told him "And there's Katie, the maid, ask her what she gets."

"Thirty dollars a week, with room and board", Katie answered.
"Any more employees?" asked the

"Well, no—only the half-wit," the farmer said. "He gets $10 a week, a bit of tobacco and his food". "Could I speak to him?" asked the inspector. "You're speaking to him now", answered the farmer.

A DAY WITH GRANDMOTHER

Grandmother on a winter day Milked the cows and fed them hay Slopped the hogs, saddled the mule, And got the children off to school.

Did a washing, mopped the floors, Washed the windows, and did some Chores;

Cooked a dish of home-dried fruit, Pressed her husband's Sunday suit, Swept the parlor, and made the bed. Baked a dozen loaves of bread; Split some fire wood, and lugged it in, Enough to fill the kitchen bin.

Stewed some apples she thought would spoil. Cleaned all the lamps and filled them with oil Churned the butter, and baked a cake; Then exclaimed, "For heaven's sake, the calves have got out of the Rushed out and chased them in again; Gathered the eggs and locked the

Back to the house, and set the table, Cooked a supper that was delicious; Afterwards washed up all the dishes. Fed the cat and sprinkled the clothes, Mended a basketful of hose; Then opened the organ and began to play "When you come to the end of a perfect day."

Opposing Jesus

Lesson for November 23, 1958

WE COMPLAIN about other people on account of their faults. Suppose we met a man without fault? We should probably go right on complaining. We can be very critical of other people's sins; but suppose we met a sinless man for once? We should probably not know it; for we would, by long habit, go right on carping and complaining.

This is not just imagination. That was precisely what happened to Jesus of Nazareth. Many wonderful stories Dr. Foreman cluster about him, but one of the most amazing facts is that he had enemies. You would think that surely when the Divine Love in human form "went about doing good," the welcome would be unanimous. But it was not.

Breaker of Patterns

We should not forget that Jesus did not die a natural death; he was murdered. And this not by some alley assassin, some mad crank. He was done to death by the forces of "law and order," by people high on the ladder of respectability. His opponents were not obscure perpersons from the criminal classes, they were people who had front seats in church. The murder on Calvary, for murder it was, like all events had its beginnings long before. What did Jesus do, what did he say, to induce solid and respected "pillars" of society to suspect, fear, hate him?

It was chiefly that he was a breaker of patterns. Those who disturb or even criticize other people's ways of life, ways of thought, always run into storms of opposition and abuse.

God on Our Streets

One of the familiar patterns that Jesus broke was theological, an idea about God. This idea-pattern was that God was far off, "high and lifted up" remote from the stirrings and scramblings of men. But Jesus said things, strange things such as forgiving the sins of a man who had not so much as opened his mouth to say "I repent:" so that it sounded as if he were actually claiming to be equal with God. A God in heaven men could understand, or thought they could. But a God who walks on our street, who talks to shady characters and even eats with them? A God focused in one human personality? No, this could not be, though the theologians, the Pharisees . . . and the spiritual descendants of the Pharisees to this very day oppose Christ, and the high claims made in his name, for the same reason.

"Our Way of Living"

For one person who opposed Jesus on theological grounds there must have been many more who opposed him on social grounds. Many church people will permit their preacher, for example, to have any theology he pleases; right left or center. But let the preacher move just a trifle to the left socially, and his resignation is requested. Jesus experienced this. He broke through old social patterns. It was thought then, just as many think today, that men can be measured by the social class to which they belong; and that there should never be crossing of class lines. Jesus broke with these old social patterns. "A man's a man for all that" describes his attitude to men. He knew that individuals are far more important than their class-status. But for this completely democratic attitude to men, he was opposed . . . and still is.

If Jesus stirred opposition by his claims to deity and his ignoring of many established social patterns, he aroused real horror in some people by his fresh and free attitude to moral problems. His healings on the Sabbath Day were cases in point. No one had a higher regard for the law of God than Jesus did. But his critics confused the law of God with their own interpretations of it. Jesus on the other hand would not believe that moral problems can be settled by formulas, or that the formulas of yesterday are always and invariably right for today. Laws are good; but Jesus did not accept even the law of Moses as God's last word. Jesus' approach to every moral problem was to ask, in effect, What is this doing to people?

Labor and related expenses per loaf of bread to the baker "nave just about tripled since 1945," according to a report released by the Agricultural Marketing Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The price of retail bread, however, is up only 35% in that period.

The report titled, "The Marketing and Transportation Situation' showed that between 1948 and 1957 the average price of bread has increased from 13.9c per pound to 18.8c per pound. The farmer's share of this price received for ingredients-flour, shortening, sugar - declined from 3.4c to 3.2c.

"Increases in wages and salaries (paid by the baker), since they are the largest part of the (baker's) expense, accounted for the major growth in the baker-wholesale mar-gin," the report states. "Between 1951 and 1957, average hourly earnings for bakery employees rose from $1.43 to other items have shown gains $1.92. Indirect labor payments of 100 per cent or more. and social security taxes also made advances and in 1957 probably amounted to more than five times the 1945 level."

Pronts of six leading baking companies declined from approximately 4% of sales in 1947 and 1948 to 2.3 per cent of sales in 1956 and 1957.

keynotes most Independence Day speech-makers from Washington will be sounding all across the land

Most of the fears and worries that beset Washington only a few weeks ago seem to have disappeared. There is a feeling that although we still have problems, everything is going to work out all right.

Washington has shaken off most of the jitters caused by the Russian sputniks, the business recession, big unemployment, international tensions and the farm problem. There are some who continue to think such optimism is premature, but they are in the minority.

What has happened to cause such a change in the short space of only a few weeks? Ask any of a dozen officials and you are likely to get a different answer from each of them.

Whatever the answer may be, the fact is Washington has lost the sense of urgency which pushed officials to the verge of nervous breakdowns earlier this year. Some who write about Washington refer to the present situation as one of complacency.

Happy Days Are Here

There is a fairly good explanation for the sudden and drastic change in Washington attitude toward all of the problems which seemed to be so urgent at the start of this year. The only point in doubt is whether the new optimism is fully justified.

First, the sputnik scare died down when we put three spheres in orbit to pull one ahead of the Russians.

Confidence and optimism are the The race for superiority in outer space seems less important now than it did a few months ago.

> The business recession doesn't seem quite as threatening as it did. President Eisenhower's confidence that business will begin to pick up this fall has spread to other government officials.

There is almost no talk of a tax reduction this year. Congress would have liked to cut taxes, but the Administration discouraged it. A few billions were appropriated for increased public works, but there has been no big rush to spend the money.

Business men who come to Washington are more confident that this is not to become a major depression, only a temporary re-cession. They tell government officials they expect employment to pick up before the end of this year.

Farm Prices Are Up

One of the big worries earlier this year, low farm prices, is no longer as serious as it was. The average of prices received by farmers has increased each month since the start of this year.

The climb in farmers' income, at a time when the Nation has been in serious business recession, has been one of the most encouraging signs that the national economy is basically sound.

Agriculture Secretary Benson isn't sure how long the new trend in farm prices will continue, but he is more than ever convinced that if he can get the government off of farmers' and taxpayers' backs, everything will work out all right.
