It is a little silly to go around with the everyone-is-lucky-but-me attitude. Who are you to be singled out for special treatment?

We often say, "I told you so" to others. How about a strictly private, personal interview with the same script?

We all know construction is building, destruction is tearing down. It is folly for men to spend time and talent on the former, then permit it to be followed by the latter.

One of the trials of famous men is that, while they can count on their great achievements receiving publicity, their mistakes are not kept secret, either.

No matter how conceited we may be, there is no denying the fact that the world got along very well without us before we got here.

PAPER COLLECTION

SATURDAY, JAN. 9

Other Activities of the Boy Scouts Reported

Boy Scouts of American Legion Troop 348, Taneytown, will conduct their regular drive for rags, newspapers, and magazines on Saturday, January 9, beginning at 8 a. m. Besides the town itself, the collection will cover also the roads to Bridgeport, Keymar (as far as the Keysville Road), Crouse's Mill, Copperville, and Mayberry, and those rural residents on the individual pick-up list. In the event of bad weather which would be serious enough to prohibit a successful drive, a new date will be announced. Members of the troop gladly pick up direct from your cellar or garret if their attention is drawn to this need while the scrap drive is going on.

Four Morse words by Assistant Patrol Leader Wayne Putman, three semaphore words by Patrol leader Byron Baer, swimming at the Frederick "Y", a knot tying and rope whipping relay by the scoutmaster, ten Morse words in cipher by Scribe Stuart Dom, a first aid bandage and carry relay by Assistant patrol leader Gerald Tracey, and toy repair by all Green-Bar leaders have constituted the recent weekly themes, while in the recreational line Capture the flag by Gerald Tracey, Mounted football by Dwight Perry, rooster fight by Assistant patrol leader Samuel Sower, as well as Grab the bacon and the Antaeus rush by Dom were the games selected. Another one is hoped for shortly in which interested parents will be invited to join.

The misfortune of Rickey Clingan in breaking his leg at the December 3 meeting was most regrettable; the officers are thankful, however, that this accident is covered by the troops group insurance policy which binds boys and leaders alike in any activity and in travel to and from such activity.

In Scout advancement Safety merit badge was earned by Arthur Eyer and Cooking by Shaffer, while the Tenderfoot test was completed by James Flock.

One bid was received from the anchor fence division, for the erection of a 724 ft. anchor fence around the new water tower site. Other bids are expected to be received. It has not been definitely decided to install a fence but the action being taken is pursuant to our insurance company's recommendation.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Never have I seen any Altar so beautifully arranged for Christmas as was the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church! The high background was of the tall and graceful Palms, then the lighter shade of green in the lacy ferns and then came the large Poinsettias with the many blooms and the covered pots all in pastel shade of green foil paper. In between each plant, fern was laid and all this to the front of the Altar before and in back of the railing. With the beautiful white brocade fringed scarfs on the table and the Pulpit, the contrast with the red was most affective. Frankly, as I entered and sat down in the second Pew which I always occupy, I hope that I will be forgiven for not bowing my head immediately in silent prayer as is my custom! No adjectives could really describe all the beauty!

What a surprise to get a Christmas card from Lawrence Welk plus his picture on the back of a beautiful poem! And another surprise of the two Red Birds in my yard!

It was sweet to see Margaret Truman on T.V. and her two sons going back to the old Homestead in Missouri for the holidays. No sweeter girl ever lived in the White House! How proud her father was carrying the eldest grandson!

Another surprise was the delivery of the mail on Sunday!

Three days before Christmas when I went to the P. O. near here at Northwood, there was not a soul and to my surprise and then saying "Why, where are all the people?" The reply came quickly, "Don't you think it is about time?" And a letter arriving from Street, Md., stating DANDELIONS were growing right there! And Chestnuts in the Acme store for the small price of 2 pounds for 28 cents.

It seems strange to me in a way how many write just once a year. Guess if it was not for Christmas we would never hear. Eh?

Mrs. Housewife: If you have any turkey or chicken left in your house at any time be sure you add the grand tall can of all ready Cooked Chop Suey! Add plenty of onions and cut up celery plus green pepper. Ummm good! Follow the directions on the can.

The chair, I upholstered just in time for Christmas gave the room more Oomp!

Don't forget to read in the Reader's Dec. issue of "I GAVE MY SON!" by Dr. Daniel Pohlning of New York. I had to read it twice and I never knew previously that his son was one of the four Ministers of different Faiths who was lost at Sea during the War.

Another surprise, a girl walked up to me in Stewart's Dept. store beautifully dressed and handing me a tiny bag, said, "A Kiss from Sheba!" Just one candy kiss! A nice way of advertising the play now at the Century!

Hope you did not miss my favorite dancer—Cyd Charisse on T.V. with the Ford Hour. No one compare with her! Beauty, Brains, talent, grace, poise, tall 'n' everything!

The title was rather original, "Meet Cyd Charisse" Eve Arden was excellent in the part she took and never was she so good looking in school! Eh? The next morning, returning from town there was a package in the door and I saw it was from the "Ford Motor Co" one of those real cute "FALCONS" and a white one, too just like I would desire! Now, I am wondering just who did that? I have placed it right on the table with all the other decorations. I'll always keep it for the more I examined it closely, saw that it was exactly that car in detail! America is surely buying the small cars these days. Never have I seen so many and they will be outnumbering the larger car this year.

Baltimore is still talking COLT! And that will continue for many moons.

Well, Ladies Your Observer really has one over on her Ancestor discovering that Fountain of Youth—Ponce deLeon in Florida! Secret? Why, it is right here in Baltimore at Hochschild Kohn Co. It is called, "Body Beautiful". You are shown to your booth where you are to undress and given a big sheet to wrap around you. Then, you are taken to the scale and weighed even without the sheet and then the fun starts.

You are placed on a table with the electric reducing machine for a half hour then two different types of cabinets follow, and from there you are placed in a grand soapy bath just as you see in "Happy Anniversary"—all soap bubbles but your head! Ah! then comes that grand massage! You are powdered from neck to toe. The massage of the face is delightful! You are taken back to the scale to see how much you have lost! You will feel like a million dollars! Right now, they are running a special price so hurry down to the store. I did not know this was going on now for fifteen years and right there!

Have a grand week-end, Folks. Hope you did not miss "The Orange Bowl" on T.V. on New Year's Day. Will be seeing you next week. D.V. Until then I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

A poor basis of criticism is someone's not being like us!

There are usually only two things your mother-in-law doesn't like about you—everything you say and everything you do.

SHORT STORY

Safety First

By Ona F. Lathrop

I WAS standing at the top of the steps of my plane remembering all the things they had impressed upon us in our training for stewardess—safety and comfort of the passengers come first—things like that. It was my first flight on this line and I wanted to do just the right thing—sort of a trial run.

The two young things coming across to board the plane looked like a honeymoon couple. She had on a light blue suit and a little flowered hat covered with pink veiling over her blonde pony tail, and he had a flower in his navy buttonhole.

Then suddenly a figure came dashing through the crowd and out through the gate, gesticulating madly for them to wait. He carried a cardboard shoebox and his dark curly hair was flying in the wind and rain. A fine drizzle had started and the girl came on up the steps out of it, and turned to look back. There seemed to be a great argument going on down there. Her boy-friend kept pushing the box back into the other man's arms.

"NO, NO, I won't take it. No, Nick, I don't want the thing."

"But you must. It is the only way. It is our one chance—"

The dark foreign-looking fellow gave the box one final thrust into the young man's arms and then dashed back and disappeared in the crowd.

"I don't like it," I told him. "He holds that box too gingerly."

"It's my cousin, Nicholas, baby. He wants me to—to—" he looked at me apprehensively and then rushed into the plane, dragging the girl with him. I followed along curiously, making a pretense of helping them find a seat. He kept shifting the box nervously.

"Would you like to sit near the front or back?" I queried in my usual Hostess Voice. They chose the seat next to the emergency exit window, and strangely, he went in first. The thought flashed in my mind that I could always open it if worst came to worst. I went right on up front to the pilot's cabin.

"I don't like it," I told him. "He holds that box gingerly as if—"

I walked back and stopped to chat. "Would you like me to put the package up on the shelf for you?" I inquired pleasantly.

"Oh, no, no, no," he cried. "I have to hold it. It must be kept—uh, warm." He broke off as if he were biting his tongue.

"But darling, what is it?" the girl kept asking.

He answered impatiently now. "Francie, I can't tell you. Now don't ask again. Why don't you go sit in the back? The view is better."

The plane had taxied out to the takeoff runway and was revving up the engines, but still we didn't go. I glanced at my wrist-watch. Probably waiting for the tower-signal—the fog was getting worse.

It must be a matter of time. I went forward and pulled at Wilcox's sleeve. "You've got to do something," I cried. "I can't get it away from him, and he says we MUST get off on time. This is murder!"

Wilcox snorted. "All right, Miss Benson. Take over, Hannigan."

He followed me back. "Let's have a look, young man," he said sternly, grabbing the box.

"Oh please, sir, don't open it here—I beg of you." Reuel scrambled over his bride's knees and followed us to the control room.

Wilcox was opening the strings. He lifted off the cover and there lay—a setting of duck eggs, I guess—big fancy white eggs.

"What on earth—" I screamed in relief.

"It was my cousin's idea—he wanted to send them to our uncle in California, but I told him no—they might even hatch on the way. But he made me take them, and I didn't want Francie to know—"

After he had gone back and snuggled his bride's head on his shoulder, Wilcox laughed. "Delivering ducks—what next!"

Kenny Foundation Sponsoring Probe of Neuromuscular Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—Medical research into the cause and possible cure of a number of neuromuscular diseases and disorders, including polio, continues as one of the prime objectives of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation, according to Marvin L. Kline, national executive director.

Now in its 15th year, the Sister Kenny foundation recently set up an auxiliary organization, the American Rehabilitation foundation, headed by Dr. Frank H. Krusen, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Among the efforts of the American Rehabilitation foundation is a project to develop educational seminars for physicians and other health workers that offer training for such persons so that they may provide better care for the handicapped.

The committee also plans to publish and distribute widely a series of abstracts of important papers on the rehabilitation of chronically-ill and disabled persons, according to Kline.

Dr. Paul M. Ellwood, Jr., national assistant medical director of the Kenny foundation, is serving as executive secretary of the new ARF. Advising on activities of the ARF is a committee of medical experts in the rehabilitation of the disabled from leading medical centers across the nation.

The Kenny foundation has made grants for medical research to universities and individual doctors throughout the country. Such grants, Kline pointed out, are made possible by public support of the annual Kenny fund appeal, such as the one now under way.

The projects include a study of employable convulsive persons, cleft palate rehabilitation, medical problems of the chronically crippled and basic studies of muscle function in health and disease.

Among the nationwide Kenny-sponsored projects are: physical therapy, University of Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, Pa.; rehabilitation of children with congenital heart disease, Children's hospital, Oakland, Calif.; study of virus in sewage, University of California, Los Angeles, Calif.; study of brain reaction in epilepsies, Montreal Neurological Institute, Montreal, Canada; child rehabilitation, University of Colorado, Denver, Colo.; central nervous system disturbances, Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md.; muscle-testing techniques in neurological diseases, Biophysics laboratory, Bethesda, Md.; micro-chemical techniques, Washington University school of medicine, St. Louis, Mo.; surgery for Parkinson's disease, Bellevue Medical center, New York, N. Y.; rehabilitation techniques, University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.; brain function investigation, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., and the study of cerebral sclerosis, University of Oregon, Portland, Ore.

TWO LITTLE PATIENTS who received Kenny treatment and rehabilitation for neuromuscular disabilities at a Kenny facility look on as Al Capp, one of the nation's most-widely-read cartoonists, draws a sketch of "Lil Abner," his well-known comic strip character. Capp is serving for the second consecutive year as national volunteer campaign chairman for the annual fund appeal of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation.

Gracious Living

BEGINNING OF A DREAM

Almost every woman has ideas about her "dream kitchen," but it's possible that making it a reality might have to be postponed for a time. Either a "complete overhaul" may not be within the family budget at present, or perhaps an outmoded kitchen has been inherited from an older home or rented apartment.

But a few "day dreams," at least, can come true now with the help of some inexpensive and well-thought-out improvements.

You can start by changing or adding a new decorative color. Even one new accent color, tastefully used on cabinets, moldings, windows or one wall surface can do wonders. Existing colors in kitchens might well be white, yellow or green. To make it interesting, you might experiment with some of today's ideas in decorative combinations. You have an unlimited choice with white, of course, but with green, you could add royal blue or pink. An existing yellow would be given high fashion brightness with red or orange.

Coordinate your decorative tones with new curtains. There are a variety of ready-mades, or they're easy to make up yourself, if you sew. Somehow, fresh curtains can give the same lift to a kitchen as a new hat does for you.

In an old kitchen, the wall behind the stove can pose a problem. There's an inevitable accumulation of grease, especially if the stove is "vintage."

You can give this area a clean, modern look by covering it with a few stainless steel tiles. These are reasonably priced, easy to apply and maintain, and the luster of the metal will give off an attractive reflection of your decorative color scheme. These same stainless tiles might also be applied around the sink or the counter top, and you'll have a marvelously easy-to-clean surface.

Strong Churches

Lesson for January 10, 1960

A TRAVELING medicine man is not a registered pharmacist. They both make a living out of selling medicines; but there the resemblance ends. The medicine man is interested in the money and nothing else. The pharmacist is a member of the community and has a personal stake in the community's health. The medicine man has never had one to examine him; the pharmacist has to pass a stiff examination to be licensed. The medicine man seldom knows much about his stuff; the pharmacist spent years studying it.

Dr. Foreman

Likewise, the fly-by-night preacher is not, as a rule, a churchman. They both are religious professionals, that is to say they "live by the Gospel" as Paul put it. But the fly-by-nighter can be identified by the fact that he is interested chiefly in the money; the churchman is interested in the people of the church. The churchman is a member of the Christian community, he lives there, he feels responsible. The fly-by-nighter is irresponsible; the churchman has been stiffly examined, and has spent years learning his job.

Strong Churches Make Strong Christians

Saint Paul was one of the most successful evangelists who ever lived. But he never thought his duty was done when he had simply preached somewhere. Saint Paul was a traveling preacher, but no fly-by-nighter. He had a sense of responsibility for the Christians whom he had converted. He knew that just getting people converted and then doing no more about them is like a doctor who would specialize in delivering babies but would not care what they ate, drank or wore after that. A neglected baby is a sickly baby, and a neglected Christian is a sickly Christian. The best place for babies is in a good home; and the best place for growing Christians is with other growing Christians, namely in a church. Strong churches make strong Christians.

What Makes A Church Strong?

Paul knew all this, indeed we may say that this method of work demonstrated that this is true. He knew if he left weak churches behind him the Christians would also be weak.

The recipe for a strong church has not changed since Paul's time. Three foundation-stones for a strong church are mentioned in Acts 14:21-23. First of these is preaching. Paul had preached in these churches before; they had heard the gospel. But they needed further help.

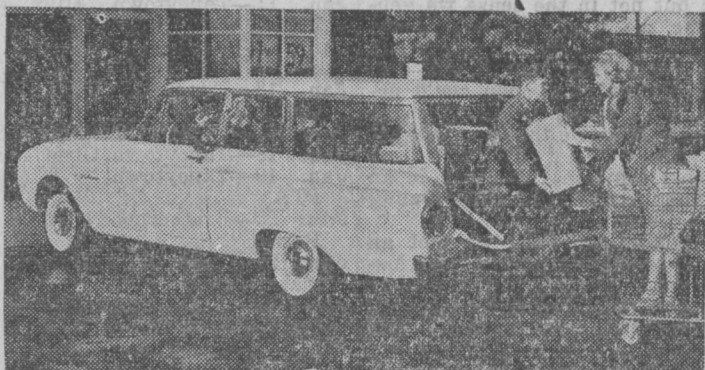

Can Christians be strengthened by talk? Certainly if the talk is right. If the preaching in a church is faithful to the Word of God, and if the preacher is trained to preach instead of being a fuzzy-minded chatter who likes to talk, the listeners in that church Sunday after Sunday are being fed, to the health of mind and spirit.

Organization and Worship

Another foundation for a strong church is organized leadership. A church is not a mere collection of Christians, a religious mass-meeting. It is, or should be, a power in its community. Its responsibilities to its members and through its members are many. To do what needs to be done, leaders are needed who have some authority, some capacity for planning, some gifts of persuasion, some far vision.

Paul preached and organized, but he also prayed. These churches were to be communities of prayer. A church where all the praying is done by a few people, a church where people go only to be talked to, or to meet their friends, is not the strong kind of church that will nourish strong Christians. The most important Person we can meet in church is not some local "Mr. Big." It is God; and if we do not meet him we have missed the meaning of worship. For the real source of a church's strength is not the preacher and not the official board, whatever they may be called or however good they are. Everybody knows that it is God; but why do some churches grow weak by forgetting that God is the Center?

Ford, which has sold more station wagons than any other company, today announced the new Falcon station wagon as the latest addition to the economy car field. The two- and four-door station wagons, like the sedans, are powered with the 90-horsepower Falcon engine that gives 50 per cent better mileage than six-cylinder engines in standard sized cars. The Falcon station wagon has the longest cargo space and greatest load floor area in its class, as well as the lowest tailgate floor loading height in the industry.

Holly Top Pie, Holiday Favorite

The delicious combination of flavors in Cherry Mince Pie will make it a holiday favorite with your family. Quick-cooking tapioca, a pie thickener supreme because it has no color or flavor of its own, helps keep the spicy-tart flavor while the pie bakes to perfection in a "holly-top crust." When you serve this pie, a few drops of the luscious syrup will run onto the serving plate. . . because tapioca is a gentle thickener . . . while the fruits stay in the wedge of pastry.

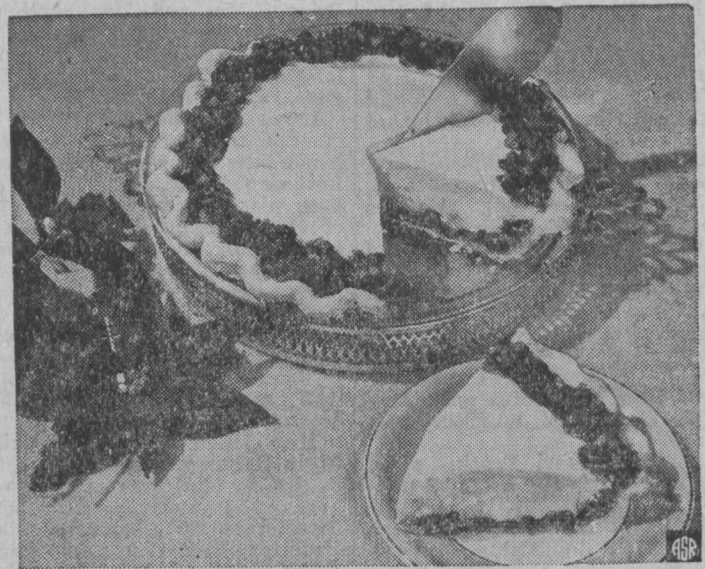

Cherry Mince Pie

- 2 tablespoons Minute Tapioca 1/2 to 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups (17-ounce can) water- 1-1/2 cups moist mincemeat
- packed pitted red sour Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
- cherries*

Combine tapioca, cherries and juice, sugar, and mincemeat. Roll half the pastry 1/8 inch thick. Line a 9-inch pie pan and trim pastry at edge of rim. Roll remaining pastry 1/8 inch thick and cut several 2-inch slits or a holly leaf design near center. Fill pie shell with fruit mixture. Moisten edge of bottom crust. To adjust top crust, fold pastry in half or roll loosely on rolling pin; center on filling. Open slits with a knife. (Well-opened slits are important to permit escape of steam during baking.) Trim top crust, letting it extend 1/2 inch over rim. To seal, press top and bottom crusts together on rim. Then fold edge of top crust under bottom crust and flute. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 55 minutes, or until syrup boils with heavy bubbles.

*If syrup-packed cherries are used, omit sugar.

Yuletide Favorite

Get out your rolling pin — nothing's quite so appealing as a delicious pie, all dressed up for the holiday season. This tasty dessert can be made as easy as one-two-three. Measure your favorite pie crust mix into a bowl, add water, mix and roll — what a perfect way to frame a vanilla-mincemeat filling!

MINCEMEAT PUDDING PIE

Makes one 9-inch pie

- | | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Pie Crust: | | 2 tablespoons cold water |
| One-half pkg. Flako Pie Crust Mix (1 cup) | | |
| Filling: | | |
| 1 1/2 cups moist mincemeat, drained | 1/2 cup sugar | |
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatine | 2 egg yolks, beaten | |
| 1/4 cup cold water | 2 teaspoons rum or vanilla flavoring | |
| 1 pkg. vanilla pudding mix | 2 egg whites | |
| 1 1/2 cups milk | | |

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For crust, measure pie crust mix into bowl. Sprinkle cold water over mix; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary to make dough hold together, add an additional half tablespoon water.) Form into ball. Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas until it is 1 1/2 inches larger than inverted 9-inch pie plate. Fit pastry loosely into pie plate. Trim and flute edges. Prick unbaked shell thoroughly with a fork. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) 10 to 12 minutes or until evenly browned. Cool.

For filling, spread bottom and sides of pie shell with 1 cup mincemeat. Soften gelatine in cold water. In a saucepan, mix together pudding mix, milk and 2 tablespoons sugar; heat thoroughly. Add a small amount of hot liquid to egg yolks; mix and return to pudding. Cook until thickened; remove from heat. Add softened gelatine and rum flavoring; stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cool until partially set. Beat egg whites until frothy; add remaining sugar gradually; beat until stiff and glossy. Fold egg whites into pudding mixture. Pour into pie shell. Refrigerate. To serve, spoon remaining mincemeat around the outer edge of pie.

Man Now Duplicates Ancient Preservative

Man has taken over from nature in the production of one of the earth's most important resources, asphalt. Today's fire-resistant asphalt roof shingles are made from a refined petroleum product that is exactly the same as nature's asphalt, yet is cleaner.

Asphalt, the most effective waterproofing agent and preservative known to man, is found in its natural state on every continent on earth and in most major countries. One of the world's richest deposits is in Oklahoma.

OIL RENEWS BLOCK

A shabby chopping block can be renewed with a few drops of olive oil or cooking oil. Rub the block briskly with a clean, soft cloth.

Beauty Bath Routine

A BRISK SCRUBBING in the tub or shower is a good daily habit any time in the year. And protect that pleasant, clean feeling by applying a cream deodorant. The idea that these routines are not so necessary in winter is a misconception. Perspiration, according to the makers of Mum cream deodorant, is formed by 2 million or more tiny glands in the skin. And these glands function all day—every day—not only when it's hot.

Nowadays every man wants life, liberty and an automobile in which to pursue happiness. If you go out on the road and get killed and God is not with you, where will you go? So many people do not go to the Lord's house on Sunday. We pray more peoples better go to church on Sunday before its too late.

Children are very smart these days at 6, they know all the questions and at 16 they know all the answers.

Whether a man winds up with a nest egg or a goose egg will depend a lot on the chick he marries.

Beer is like unto the sun; it rises in the year and settles in the vest.

We want to say all beer houses and stores ought to be closed on Sunday. Perhaps more people would go to church, they would have no place to sit around also some people work every Sunday in place of going to the Lord's house; everybody better think it over before it is too late.

Sing while you drive a 45 miles per hour; sing highways are happy ways. At 55 miles sing I'm but a stranger Here, Heaven is my home.

At 65 miles sing Nearer my God to Thee

At 75 miles sing When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there.

At 85 miles sing Lord I'm Coming Home.

Let us take a lesson from the advice fast living may be as fatal as fast driving. The unrepentant sinner is a stranger to Heaven and Him. That he will meet there when the roll is called up yonder make Christ's way your way today.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

The Christmas glitter is over. The tree is gone from the living room and the bright red and green balls are stacked away in the attic. All the symbols of the holidays have disappeared from sight and so we feel free to give our full attention to the brand new year of 1960. It promises to be quite a year. Already the heavy smell of politics is in the air and as the year progresses the aroma may become too powerful for timid people. Most of the major problems of the old year are still with us but here and there small glimmers of light give testimony that there is reason to hope man will still save himself from extinction. We hope so, for there are quite a number of jobs that should be completed before man takes his place beside the other animals that no longer exist. One of them is to prove that the brotherhood of man is no myth but a real possibility and if given a chance to succeed it would solve most of our problems. Another task is to see that food and medical care are made available to all people in all lands regardless of economic systems or ideologies.

This will be a herculean task, but it may well be the ideal which will set man's imaginations on fire and cleanse his spirit of false gods and set his soul at peace with himself. The year 1960 offers great challenge to the stout of heart. So many people believe that all of us must return to the high ideals and morals of our grandparents. We are just naive and simple enough to think they are right.

In spite of the many fine new fabrics made by chemistry, women still like to wear silk made from the cocoon of the silk worm, for it has a special texture and characteristics that no other fabric possesses. It has that certain luxury look and feel that all women love. During World War II, silk from Japan and China were cut off from the American market and women in the United States learned to do without it. But now it is being imported again and dressmakers are once again finding how wonderful it is. Silk is a fibrous substance produced by many insects, but the fibres used for manufacturing purposes are exclusively produced by the mulberry silk-moth of China. For many centuries the secret method of making silk was diligently guarded by the Chinese. Through Korea a knowledge of the silk-worm reached Japan, but not before the early part of the third century. At one time silk was really worth its weight in gold and only persons of great wealth could afford it. Today, like everything else the silk-worm is a domesticated insect and its silk-making apparatus carefully controlled. The rearing houses where the worms are bred, hatched and reared are spacious, well-ventilated and well-lighted. The worms grow at a rapid rate and their appetites consumes unbelievably large amounts of mulberry leaves. When the worms approach the cocoon spinning stage they are carefully watched to prevent overcrowding and noise is also kept at a very minimum to prevent damage to the cocoon. The weaving of silk is a complicated art and one that requires plenty of skill. It is no wonder that a woman clothed in a silk gown feels superior for she instinctively knows she is wearing the miracle fabric of nature.

We rarely recommend a movie for we seldom see one, but when "On The Beach" comes this way, you owe it to yourself to view it. It will leave you shocked but not in the sense we generally use the word. It will leave you sad that the human race could create so much folly but it will also make you proud that men could accept death so gallantly and with so little fuss. A movie that you will not soon forget!

The best tonic in the world is an active mind that is always finding something new.

At a party last week we met an old friend whom we hardly recognized as she was wearing glasses. When we told her about it she casually replied, "Oh, I've needed them for years, but I've just reached the age where my curiosity is greater than my vanity."

How does one handle the problem of an unfriendly dog? He resents visitors and sometimes leaves them with the impression that he hates all humans. The impression is often his teeth marks. He has a phobia about being tied or penned in an enclosed place although he likes being around his owners no matter if they are in the cellar or the attic. His ears are always alert to strange noises and he can tell even the difference between the sound of one car and another. With all his intelligence he has never learned to know that visitors are friends and should be accepted like a member of the family. He suspects everybody and every car. His owners have tried to train him but it doesn't work. He doesn't want to be trained. He just wants to be a good sentry and he is.

Our family had a lot of celebrating to do in two weeks. There was Christmas, a wedding anniversary, New Year and a birthday. Come to think of it, we celebrate them all every year, but some years we put more emphasis on one day than the others. This year it was the wedding anniversary that received most of our attention.

They tell us that 1960 will see another rush of farmers and their families eager to quit the old homestead for other industries. The reason can be seen in the falling prices for farm produce. Its a trend that will not stop until farming can be stabilized or prices controlled. This is something that no one in authority wants to do so we will continue to turn our rich farmlands into real estates developments or clover leaf for four lane highways. With a rising birth rate this seems the kind of silly planning that we Americans are beginning to be noted for.

Please remember to send your check in for the Christmas Seals that were mailed to you by the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association. Christmas may be over but the fight against T. B. goes on every day of the year.

"GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS"

REEDLEY, CALIF., EXPONENT:
"The bitter and prolonged steel strike may do far more damage to both business and labor in the long run than is evidenced even in the astronomical losses in earnings and wages."

"Freedom calls for a high degree of responsibility on the part of citizens. Free bargaining cannot exist without a high degree of responsibility on the part of labor and management. If this freedom continues to be abused it is in danger of being lost."

RIVERTON, WYO., RANGER:
"Our government is strong only because it is built upon freedom. Our nation has flourished because individual initiative has been encouraged. There is great power in Washington because our country prospers through a free enterprise system."

"The government counts on a solid, productive people for strength. When the people are corrupted to believe their salvation springs from the government, both the people and the state will perish."

WILCOX, ARIZ., NEWS: "Government spending is meeting with a crying public demand for decreased spending as well as taxes. In fact, everything that has any tendency toward increasing the cost to the American consumer is meeting with public indignation."

"The government should find a way to direct a greater portion of the take-home pay of the working man into more channels of trade, instead of increasing his costs and making it harder for him to find enough left to meet the needs of his household."

ALTOONA, PA., MIRROR: "Even though Uncle Sam and his associates, the Congress of the United States, impose severe barriers, the American people are saving money and are practicing the virtues of thrift."

"Thrift is a worthy practice. It should be more widely practiced."

VERSAILLES, KY., SUN: "In our book, the heroes of the day are those anonymous doctors out in California who succeeded in putting back the leg of a young foundry worker after it had been chewed off by a crane."

"This, we think, is progress. We would be far more proud to have had ever so slight a hand in this victory than to have controlled the lunik camera that (they say) shot the back of the moon."

LOUISBURG, N. C., TIMES: "Fidel Castro has unleashed a vitriolic attack on the United States and staged a huge rally designed to whoop up anti-American sentiment in Cuba. He is now at least out in the open with his communist-inspired plans."

SALEM, IND., LEADER: "It isn't so much the decline in revenue that has hurt our railroads as the increase in expenditures. They have had to pay for a lot of things they do not receive. Firemen, for instance, used to have to shovel a lot of coal. Now they sit in ease while diesel motors glide along the tracks. Yet railroads have not been able to economize because of this improved locomotive that costs near the million dollar mark."

"The new locomotives pull longer trains, but extra help has to be paid, even though not needed."

"It is high time more people recognize that this is a buyer's market—and that means transportation service. It is possible to price anything out of the market. Once priced out of the market, it is too late to do anything about the jobs lost."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Graceful Hands, Trained in Grace Reflect Your Poise

NERVOUS tension, stiff wrists and fingers make hands look ungraceful when they go through the simplest movements or even when they're supposedly at ease. Graceful hands are rarely just come by naturally, as far as adults are concerned. They're the product of training and poise.

There are exercises to make you overcome some of the tension in fingers and wrists, and there's also know-how in what to do with hands to make them look more graceful.

Neither of these are as time consuming as going to a hairdresser! They're easily achieved if you'll think about them and do the exercises a few times daily.

Hand Exercise

Hand exercises are neither strenuous nor tiresome. They're pleasant and wonderfully relaxing. One of the best of them is to flap the hands back and forth from the wrist, just as though they were empty gloves. Do this one just after you've been sewing, mixing

Bold plaids are good for Fall in their bright, contrasting colors. These are styled in crease-resistant, sanforized all-weather cotton with slim, slim slacks. They're good worn with a dark sweater, then teamed with a matching blazer when cold winds blow. The blazer can be worn with contrasting skirt or plain colored shorts, too.

a cake or something equally strenuous. Do it anytime, while you're just sitting or watching television.

After flapping the hands, try twisting the hand in a circle about the wrist. This may be more difficult, but it's easier as the wrist muscles develop.

Here's another good exercise: Make a fist then fling the hand as wide open as possible. Stretch the fingers far apart and as far back as possible.

Grace in Movement

Train yourself to certain hand movements if you would have graceful hands. One of the easiest is using the middle finger and thumb when you hold small objects. It does a great deal towards making hands graceful.

There are lots of situations when your hands can look more relaxed if you'll just remember to use hands properly. When you're seated at a table, playing bridge, perhaps, rest the hands in the lap, both palms up, having one hand lie across the other.

Add More Space To Small Bedrooms

You can't easily push out the walls of small bedrooms, but you can change the color scheme and furnishings to give you more space. Some of it may, of course, be an optical illusion, but properly chosen furniture can add more storage space.

First of all, you must simplify the color scheme. In any small room, bedroom or otherwise, you can achieve a feeling of spaciousness by using a single color in the walls, furniture and drapes. If possible, repeat it in the rug.

One color gives a singleness of effect and doesn't cut up the room. Even a small-patterned wallpaper will destroy the unity of effect you want to achieve when space is small.

Solid Color

If your furniture is blonde it's easy to choose a single color as the walls can be a beige almost to match that of the furniture. The ceiling should be painted the same color. A related color might be used in the bedspread and rug which should be a wall-to-wall type or at least cover most of the floor.

You don't have to do without a spark of color if you have chosen beige, for instance. A chair cover can be bright red, orange or green. These same colors might be repeated in small scatter pillows for the bed.

Choosing Furniture

Simple lines on furniture do much to relieve the clutter in furniture. Decide what your storage needs are and select carefully chests that can be pushed together so two or three chests can be used as one to fit your space.

CURRENT EVENTS
FIFTY YEARS AGO

Master David son of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Wolf is again seriously ill. The Editor of the Record attended the meeting in Baltimore, this week, at which was formed the Maryland Press Association. The Association is non-political and will confine its work largely to the improvement of business methods.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Clousher celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary, January 4, 1910, at their home near Taneytown and entertained at dinner the following guests V. J. Clousher and wife; R. W. Clingan and wife; Mrs. Phoebe Koons, P. W. Brown and daughter, North Dakota; Wm. Tobias Brown and daughter, Littlestown, Pa., Mrs. Janet Shriver, Misses Joah R. Clousher and Mary Shriver, Messrs. Verley, Preston Cover and Melvin Clousher.

Frizzellburg—Since my last letter most of the ice houses here have been filled with 6-inch ice.—The la grippe is here and is on the hunt for victims. Many of our people are suffering with severe colds.—The old homestead of Mr. and Mrs. John Warehime was again cheered to a high pitch of enthusiasm when a masquerade party, comprising thirteen kriskingles, made their annual visit there on Wednesday night, Dec. 29.

Harry L. Rinehart was in Baltimore on Wednesday in search of treatment for impaired eyesight.—Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Lawyer served a dinner at their home, here, last Sunday in honor of C. Otto Myers and bride.

Bright Ideas

A WOMAN'S EYES dramatically prove the old saying "Handsome is as handsome does." When the eye sees well, it usually looks well, its beauty undimmed by weariness, strain or other discomfort often caused by mere neglect. Here are a few simple rules to help you keep your eyes in peak condition: First, regular checkups. Have an eye specialist examine your eyes at least once a year. The M.D. will prescribe "do's" and "don'ts" to minimize daily wear and tear on eyes. Another important eye-care factor calls for occasional brief rest periods. Follow up with a few drops of eye lotion from Murine's new plastic squeeze bottle to give your eyes a soothed, refreshed feeling. Don't use eye cups. An eye cup can be unsanitary because it touches the eye and more than one person may use it.

BRISK FALL DAYS AHEAD — with summer vacations over and children back in school — are an ideal time to take inventory of all your important family records. The deed to your house, marriage license, birth certificates, citizenship papers, records of military service and income data are only a few of life's important documents. Can you put your finger on them quickly? If not, gather them together; make an itemized list for your desk at home; and store your records in a safe deposit box at your local bank. Then, they will be safe from fire, theft and prying eyes. And you will always know exactly where they are.

IF YOUR LAWN was riddled with brown spots of dead grass this season, it's likely that the damage was caused by Japanese beetle grubs or other soil insects that feed on grass roots. A thorough chlordane spray treatment any time before the first frost will rid next year's lawn of the pests. Chlordane is available in pre-mixed form, such as the Antrol Hose-Spray Soil Insect Killer that comes bottled with a built-in sprayer head for attachment to any ordinary garden hose. Or, if you prefer mixing your own, buy the concentrated form of the chemical. Either way, be sure to follow the manufacturer's application instructions carefully.

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP HIGHER THAN EVER IN UNITED STATES

Church membership in the United States is higher now than at any other time in history. Sixty-two per cent of our nation's population regard themselves as "belonging" to a church.

And of the 103.2 million United States' church members, 51 per cent attend religious services on a given Sunday. These statistics are revealed in the American Peoples Encyclopedia 1958 Yearbook.

Religious leaders, in compiling the Yearbook figures, also had a chance to take an overall look at religion throughout the world. They found that 2.2 billion persons of the total 2.6 billion world population are adherents of religion in some form.

The Yearbook researchers say that if numerical strength provides a key to the solution of pressing international, national and personal needs, Christianity is in the best position of its history.

Total world adherents to Christianity are 820.3 million. That group is composed of Roman Catholics, 484 million members; Eastern Orthodox churches, 128.8 million, and Protestants, 207.5 million. Among other world religions, the Jews total almost 12 million; Moslems claim 416.5 million members and Hindu statistics show 319.1 million followers.

In the United States, the Yearbook article shows the following breakdown among major church memberships: Protestants, 60.1 million; Catholic, 34.5 million; and Jews, 5.5 million.

So this is HOUSEKEEPING
BY SHIRLEY STUART

You would have to travel far and wide to find a male who didn't maintain, usually loudly, that, first, men are completely logical in their reasoning, and second, that women are completely illogical in their reasoning. With that bit of whimsy firmly in mind, I set to work on a campaign.

The basic problem was how to pry loose from my husband the wherewithal for a much-needed, long-desired new vacuum cleaner. More specifically, I wanted to keep our old, trusty upright cleaner for a thorough job on carpeting, but I also wanted a new canister type for the 101 other jobs a cleaner should do. I drew up the following, logical list:

Upright cleaner
Far and away best for cleaning rugs and carpets. Has brush power.

Canister cleaner
Superior suction and mobility for all the things I can't vacuum now; upholstered furniture (and under same), draperies, curtains, dusting lamp shades pictures, walls and ceilings, moldings, getting at "hard to reach places," etc., etc.

Concise and to the point, I thought. Jeff also came to the point. "No two cleaners," says he.

"No?"
"No."
"Oh."

It was Jeff's turn to be disgustingly logical, pointing out the idiocy of storing two cleaners, toting two machines up and down, in and around. Just in time, before my campaign dissolved into tears, he brought forth a folder he'd been hoarding for some unknown reason. It described a why-didn't-someone-think-of-this-before marvel. Whirlpool corporation thought of combining the best features of both types of cleaners in one sleek, low machine. The suction power of a canister, the brush power of an upright, the brush needed to waste his time trying to "sell" me on the idea.

He explained about the motor-powered rug nozzle, the super-size disposable dust bag, the fact that attachments ride along in a built-in storage compartment, that the Mark XII is lightweight and so compact it stores in a closet, on a shelf, even under a bed.

According to my feminine reasoning, my campaign may have been a dismal failure, but I did get a vacuum cleaner, and a better one to boot. Logical?
