HARNEY FIRE COMPANY BURNS MORTGAGE

Rural Community Completes a Worth-while Project

About 250 members and guests of the Harney Volunteer Fire Company gathered in the Fire Hall, in Harney Friday evening, November 25th, to witness the burning of a mortgage after the Littlestown State Bank. The event was preceded by a sumptuous banquet of roast turkey and fried oysters with all the trimmings, served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company.

Early in 1951 the idea of a volunteer fire company was conceived and plans were begun that resulted in a modern hall with a new fire truck with many accessories necessary for up-to-date organization.

It was necessary to borrow money to complete the arrangements and money was borrowed from the Littlestown bank.

The Fire Hall, now reported to be worth over $45,000, built by E.E. Stuller Construction Company, was dedicated June 1, 1955, at a cost then of more than $23,000. Of that amount, over $10,000 was paid back during the last year and a half. The company also has paid off the $13,000 fire truck which was also mortgaged by the bank.

The 48-star flag was hauled down and a new 50-star flag, presented by Monocacy Valley Post, V.F.W., was raised.

Elmer Shildt, president of the Harney Volunteer Fire Company, presided at the meeting following the dinner. He and Mr. Wilbur Bankert of the Littlestown State Bank conducted the burning ceremonies.

Another highlight of the evening's program was the presentation of a $500 check to president Shildt for the Fire Company's treasury by Mrs. Lake Ridinger, Sr., president of the Auxiliary. The final payment on the mortgage note of a $100, check was returned to the Fire Company by Mr. Bankert.

Merwyn C. Fuss was the guest speaker. In his speech he commended the Fire Company and the people of Harney in their splendid efforts and the cooperative spirit shown in completing a wonderful job.

Carroll County Fire Companies and Auxiliaries were represented at the event.

Miss Hazel Hess furnished organ music during the banquet.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

Last week Edward R. Murrow produced on television a true story of the migratory farm workers and their families called "Harvest of Shame." It was the story of how America's abundance from its farms are harvested by three and a half million workers whose share in all this wealth is a starvation diet, housing that no self-respecting animal would accept, no education for their children and a future that promises the same degrading life unless the conscience of America arouses itself from its indifference and tries earnestly to solve the problem. There are some people who are aware of these forgotten families and in their own way try to help, but the problem is too big for anything less than an aroused public. We recall that several years ago, a citizen of Carroll County spent her vacation on the Eastern shore just when the migratory workers were picking the tomato crop. It was the first time that she had ever seen how they lived and what little they got for a days work. She returned home so indignant over the injustice that she contacted the Packing House Firm that was buying the tomato for a well-known tomato juice and told them about the conditions. Nothing came of it naturally because one or two people have little influence. But the combined voice from a million Americans can be heard and felt around the world. And this problem does concern every American that sits down to a dinner table. For every fruit and vegetable we eat is picked and harvested by a migratory worker or a member of his family including children that should be in school. How do they live? One has to see it to believe it. The farmers of Carroll would not house their cows and pigs in similar conditions. The shame of all this is that Americans are content to eat the best food in the world at the lowest possible prices at the expense of their fellow country men who have no possible means of fighting for their own rights to live as human beings. Will the conscience of America respond? We believe that it will for America hates injustice.

A columnist, tired of the irate letters from his readers which followed each of his publications, decided one week to make sure he offended no one. So he put in his column only a copy of the "Ten Commandments". But this wasn't enough for an angry reader wrote him: "I will never read your column again, you are getting too personal."

No blazing temperature heralds its attack; no sudden agony; no dramatic collapse. Silently, giving no sign of its presence, the TB germ invades the body. Not every one who picks up the tubercle bacillus comes down with active TB. But it is an ever present threat, waiting for the slightest lowering of resistance... fatigue... another infection... inadequate food... to burst into life. Even when the tuberculosis germs become active, there may be no outward signs of the disease until much damage has been done to the lungs. Scientists are working on a simple blood test to diagnose TB quickly and simply. Christmas Seal dollars are supporting that research. Until such a test is found, however, our only defense against TB is to protect the health of everybody, everywhere, so as to reduce the chances of infection; and to redouble tuberculin testing and chest X-raying efforts so that everyone who needs treatment gets it before the disease has gone too far. Educating people to protect themselves against tuberculosis and helping to run free tuberculin tests in school and free chest x-rays terrifies cost money. The only way Tuberculosis Associations have of getting the needed money is through the once-a-year Christmas Seal campaigns. Your dollar is urgently needed by your local Association to maintain the present services to our community. This is the only time in the year it asks for your help. So don't lay aside your Christmas Seals and promise yourself that tomorrow you will mail a check. Do it today and you will feel happier to do the rest of your Christmas shopping. The Carroll County Tuberculosis Association will be very grateful for having been remembered.

The Women's Missionary Society will hold its annual Christmas party December 5th in the parish house at Mt. Union Lutheran church. An interesting program is planned and gifts will be exchanged. Mrs. Russell Bohn, president of the Society urges all members to attend and bring a guest.

No self respecting house would be caught without one clock today and many American homes can boast a clock in every room. However, the first americans clock-maker didn't find business so good. William Davis in 1698 was the first clockmaker in the colonies, but he went bankrupt. Evidently, the colonists didn't work by the clock... probably by the sun.

We like this definition of a statistician: "A person who believes that if he stuck a man's head in a roaring furnace and his feet in a tub of ice water, that by the law of averages, the victim should feel pretty good."

Yesterday we saw a fine example of self-discipline. We went out to feed our dog Mike and our cat Castro and while stooping over to put the food in the pan we spied a rabbit nestled about two feet away in the grass almost completely hidden by some late petunias.

With three of his natural enemies standing so close he kept perfectly still except his large brown eyes, which once in awhile blinked. We waited until Mike and Castro had finished their breakfast, then we brought them in the house. About half an hour later we looked for the rabbit but he had departed. When we told our head man about the episode he wasn't at all impressed with the rabbit's self-discipline. He said he wished the rabbit would practice self-denial instead, it seems that Mr. Rabbit has been eating our newly planted shrubbery and young trees.

If our gold reserve gets desperate we women in America can be like the southern ladies during the Civil War we can take off our wedding bands and jewelry and have them melted down in blocks and stored away at Fort Knox.

It was a shock to us to hear the president of the American Medical Society say that he would oppose any law to give our older citizens medical help through social security. He is no doubt the kind of doctor who would demand payment before he would treat a patient. Thank the fates that keeps that kind of doctor out of Carroll County.

TV AND THE PRINTED WORD

Competition for shares of the advertising dollar gets tougher all the time. Television has seen to that. Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential consumer than any other—including newspapers. So a survey, made in Richmond, Virginia, is of unusual interest.

Editor & Publisher reports: "An independent research organization found that more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them had the TV set turned on. Of that number 81% were able to identify could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to be like leaning over backward to us fair".

FACTS AND OPINIONS

David Lawrence writes, in U. S. News & World Report: "Of what use is it to listen to speeches about agreements or treaties on disarmament when the Soviet Government violates the provisions of the United Nations Charter, one section of which says: 'All members shall give the United Nations every assistance in any action it takes in accordance with the provisions of the present Charter and shall refrain from giving assistance to any state against which the United Nations is taking preventive or enforcement action.' The United States should press its charge of violation of the Charter. For if the Soviets get away with their present course, they will move into Cuba and into Latin America just as they have in Africa, claiming they are merely sending 'food' planes and trucks for 'peaceful' purposes, when the action is as plainly military as it was in Korea and as it is now in the Congo".

The year 1959 was one of the best safety years ever recorded by the railroad industry. There was but one passenger fatality in train accidents on Class I lines, although passengers traveled a total of 22 billion miles. Eleven other fatalities resulted from what is known as train-service accidents—those arising primarily from the negligence of passengers themselves such as when people attempt to board or get off moving trains.

Chain Store Age says that one of the major, but hidden costs of filling prescriptions can be traced to the tremendous range of drugs a store must carry to provide complete health service. In busy stores, prescription drug inventory can easily amount to more than $12,000, and include over 3,000 items.

Henry Hazlitt says, in a Newsweek article: "The most serious domestic issue today is the presentation of the integrity of the dollar. This requires an end to reckless Federal spending. It requires the tapering off or termination of some of our major spending programs. It requires not merely the passive consent of Congress to monetary discipline on the part of the Federal Reserve authorities, but positive Congressional insistence on such discipline. It requires removal of the interest-rate limitation on long-term Treasury bonds".

Scientists at Socony Mobil Oil Company have designed a four-lane "highway" that permits autos to "travel" up to 100 M.P.H. without moving an inch. Known as a "highway simulator" it reproduces almost every traffic and road conditions the American motorist encounters: stop-and-go jams, high-speed turnpikes, and steep up-and-down grades. It is being used to test tomorrow's cars.

The Federal Reserve rediscount rate (the rate at which commercial banks borrow from the Federal Reserve banks) is now 3.5 per cent. Among 45 countries only nine have a lower rate.

OCTOBER ON THE HILLS

A quiet, unobtrusive entrance in a gown that's mostly green. But there's something in the air. You can sense it everywhere; (Words are faltering and useless) Something to be felt as well as seen. At first she takes her mission lightly, Languid touches here and there; A flutter of gold where poplars grow, A gentle touch, and the sunsac glow; Then suddenly she takes a whirl, And flings her colors every where.

Ah, 'tis then we're lost completely, Wholly captured. Nature's child. But oh, the time is all too brief For a poem to every falling leaf; We want to forsake the trodden ways And seek the hidden byways wild.

For we've heard October calling, All this witching, witching weather; We're sure to meet with fay or fairy, Just round the turn of wood path airy, We long to find the soul that's kin, And go gypsying together.

Oh, the charm that is October Could we but clasp and keep her near; But laughing winds blow her all about, In mostly brown she rustles out, Leaving scattered jewels here and there, Just to remind us she was here.

LUCY CUTRIGHT.

The foliage is still very beautiful down here on the Shore and yesterday A. M. we had a snow flurry. It was lovely falling on the bright leaves. Today has been bright and sunny. I am to go back to the Home on this coming Sunday. Am having a very pleasant visit.

New Covenant

Lesson for December 4, 1960

ALL OF US live under laws we have never read. But there is one law in the United States which is at the base of all others. Laws which conflict with this one are declared to be "null and void" (empty and nothing, to you), unconstitutional. For the Constitution of the U.S.A. is the basic law of the land. It is not long, it can be read by any one with a high school education. If every community had a public ceremony once a year at which this Constitution would be read, preferably by every one there in unison, it might be a very good thing.

Dr. Foreman

Is there—a bold question—anything corresponding to the Constitution, having to do with the relations not among men, but between men and God? Is there any Agreement or Plan in line with which God and men can have dealings with each other?

Can God Be Depended On?

One answer to that question is NO. It is not the Christian answer, it is not the Bible answer, but you may hear it from many people. Such people believe that God is more like lightning, or the wind, than he is like a person. The expression "Act of God" often refers to something not only unpredictable, like a tornado or an earthquake, but something horrible and devastating, wiping out the works and the welfare of man. Granted, God is not all "sweetness and light." He is not a Grandmother-in-the-sky. Nevertheless, the Bible never speaks of God's wrath without a good reason for it. God is not a capricious prima donna with an un-governable temper. God's wrath is anything but a tantrum. His goodness is not dependent on how he feels—as ours is. God does not have

"moods," he does not do what he does "just because . . ."

The Old Covenant

On the contrary, God's dealings with his people, the ancient people of Israel, followed a pattern. Not that God is not free to act as he will; free to choose any pattern, free to act on any line. But once having chosen the pattern, the line, the way of dealing with men, God does not give that up (as we would say) without notice.

The characteristic pattern of God's dealings with Israel was called a Covenant. Another word for that is Agreement. It means a two-sided arrangement. "Bargain" is not a good word for it, because the word "bargain" suggests haggling, each side trying to get as much and give as little as possible. Covenant is a good word, if we remember that no agreement between God and man can be dictated by man. God, not man, sets the terms.

Many times in the Old Testament there is a story of the making and remaking of the Covenant. (Exodus 24 and Joshua 24 describe two such occasions.) The people choose God; God chooses the people. The people choose God and promise to obey him not in order to bribe him into choosing them, but because he has chosen them.

The New Covenant

Jeremiah makes two things plain about this "Old Covenant." One is that the people invariably broke it. The other is that God will make a new one, and this will be written on men's hearts, not on the wall or in some document outside them. If we give a name to the Old Covenant it would be Law; if we give a name to the New, it must be Love. Jesus called the Communion cup "the new Covenant in my blood," because his blood would be shed as a "pure sacrifice of love."

To put this in another way: God's dealings with men, with those who knew him best, once upon a time was in the pattern of Law. Now he acts in the pattern of Love. This does not mean that God never acted out of a motive of divine love before Christ came. We must not fancy that Christ somehow managed to induce God to love this world of men. We cannot believe (and the Bible does not suggest) that God began to a God of love just recently. Some of the great saints and seers in Old Testament times saw that the law itself was an expression of God's love.
