Junior High Mathematics by Jackie Jester and Nina Trankley

The seventh grade mathematics program starts with a review of the fundamental processes: addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. Since many have forgotten, a review is found necessary and helpful. Decimals are introduced during the year. A complete understanding of the decimal is expected. From the decimals, the natural procedure is to percentages, which are a convenient way of expressing numbers and values.

An entirely new concept that is met this year is the comparing of numbers by division. This is formally known as ratio and proportion. During the course of this year a most interesting unit is presented; this unit is demonstrative geometry. This includes the use of the compass, straight edge, and protractor. Also the "pi" symbol comes as something new. This is the ratio of the diameter to the circumference of the circle.

Throughout the year in the seventh grade, the mathematics foundation is reinforced. The reinforcement that takes place in both seventh and eighth grades is very important for all continuing studies in math. Now as we turn to the mathematical program, you are sure you will discover many new things.

A great emphasis is placed on the structure of our number system. Beginning study of this unit explores the number systems of the past and how they were constructed. From these obsolete systems the students discover the principles behind our present-day number system. To further this understanding, they work with numbers in bases other than ten. In addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division of whole numbers, fractions, and decimals are reviewed. New and interesting ways of working with these operations are learned. Studying various different kinds of taxes and insurance, such as automobile, fire, and life, are next. There is also a short unit on stocks and bonds.

The Story of Easter

The last week in the life of Jesus Christ is remembered by Christians with special services and great solemnity, for it was a time of betrayal and suffering that led up to the resurrection of the Son of God.

Jesus arrived in Jerusalem on Sunday, cheered by hopeful throngs who showered His path with branches of palm trees. It was dangerous for Him to enter the city because of the high priests who feared and resented Him; but He believed it was His duty to preach there.

According to the Bible, reports Mrs. Francine Klagsbrun, religion editor of World Book Encyclopedia, Jesus spent the first few days teaching and visiting the Temple. Once again He threw out the moneychangers and those who sold doves for sacrifice. Some of the time, He prayed and meditated in Bethany, just outside the city.

On Thursday night He joined the 12 disciples for what was probably the first meal of the Jewish Passover: During the Last Supper, He told His disciples, "This is My Body" and "This is My Blood". From this meal originated the sacrament of Communion, or Lord's Supper.

Jesus knew that His hour of suffering was near. He led the disciples to the Garden of Gethsemane, on the slope of the Mount of Olives. Late that night a band of armed men, with Judas Iscariot among them came to the garden. Judas kissed Jesus, identifying Him to the armed men, who took Him away to the high priest.

Charged with blasphemy for calling Himself the Son of God and King of the Jews, Jesus was taken early Friday to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor, and then to Herod Antipas, ruler of Galilee. Herod mocked Jesus, dressed Him in a kingly robe, and sent Him back to Pilate.

Without the approval of Pilate, Jesus could not be executed. But Pilate named Erabbas before the People and told them to choose one to go free, as it was the custom to pardon one prisoner during Passover. The mob screamed a common Roman form of Execution.

The crucifixion took place on a hill outside the city called Golgotha, or Calvary. After several hours Jesus died and His body was taken to a new tomb.

On Sunday morning Mary Magdalene went to the tomb. The stone had been rolled away and the tomb was empty. But an angel told her that Jesus had risen.

Later Jesus appeared to Mary Magdalene and to Simon Peter. For the next 40 days He taught His 11 faithful disciples. Then He rose to heaven.

Lovely points were given us of "Mutual Interest, Service, Friendship, courage, understanding, companionship, laughter and self-expression. She likened in to a light in a darkened room. Mabel's conclusion was that she keep the key so she may come at anytime and walk through these doors.

A lovely gift was presented to Mabel. The program chairman, Alice Frock, introduced Bobby Lynn Hopkins, who did a lovely ballet dance. She then presented Mrs. Zimmerman assisted by Mrs. Nellie Lambert who gave us a nice demonstration on pastry and salads at the Potomac Edison. They served delicious refreshments. A few posters will be posted to tell something about PTA so that the founders day plans will not be discarded entirely. There will be a report of the nominating committee which is headed by Earl Wilhide, Mrs. Carroll Wilhide, chairman, Mrs. William Fleharty, Mrs. Nevin Dutrow.

MD. LEGISLATURE DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Sen. Weant Reports the Speeding up of the Deliberations

As the 1961 session of the Maryland General Assembly draws to a close, the tempo of the Legislative activities continues to increase. Last minute efforts of lobbyists and pressure groups have reached their peak. The members of the Legislature in both Houses are trying desperately to keep the bills in which they are interested on the move way side.

On March 16, Delegate Joseph N. Hahn of the Carroll County Delegation introduced a Bill to authorize the County Commissioners to remove any menace to public health and safety arising from the growth of weeds, accumulation of refuse, presence of stagnant water, combustible material and to enter upon the premises for the purpose of causing such menace to be abated. The bill also provides for notice to responsible persons in connection with the cost of this operation and provided further for the enforcement of payment thereof.

Sometime ago House Bill No. 71 received an unfavorable report from the Judicial Proceedings Committee on the ground that this Bill would be unconstitutional if enacted into law. This proposal would prohibit persons willfully or knowingly to sell, lend, give away, show, advertise for sale or distribute commercially to any person under 18 years of age any books, magazines, etc., which for a person under 18 years is obscene.

This Bill, under the urging of many citizens of the State, has been reconsidered by the Judicial Proceedings Committee and has now been given a favorable report. In all probability this will pass the Legislature and at some time later have it constitutionally tested in Court. Another Bill covering the same subject with an approach of injunctive relief has already passed the Senate and should provide a constitutional law by which the sale of obscene literature can be controlled.

It appears at this time that a law will be enacted which will allow the sale of "Ice Milk" in the State of Maryland. Practically all other states allow this product to be sold. It is claimed that ice milk contains less calories than ice cream and the proceeds from the ice milk will be used for the selling and labeling requirements.

Your correspondent, along with Senator Parran of Charles County, introduced Senate Bill No. 533. This Bill would have provided for the abolition of the State Aviation Commission and would have terminated any duties or functions now carried by it. The Bill was introduced on the theory that the State Aviation Commission is merely duplicating the work of the federal agency covering the same subject matter. However, because of the shortness of time, this proposal was sent to the Legislative Council for further study and subsequent recommendations.

Since this session of the Maryland General Assembly will draw to a close on or about April 1, 1961, we will in all probability, have only one more column relating to the regular session of the 1961 General Assembly Session.

E. O. Weant, Jr.
State Senator for Carroll County.

Calling All School Teachers!
Why not spend the day with your pupils down in the Walters Art Gallery this Spring? That would be a grand day of learning and so different than the class room which would interest all the pupils as there is so much of interest right there. Would you believe there are 25,000 objects housed in this building? They state only 20% can be displayed at one time due to lack of space! Sculpture large and small, paintings from the days of the Carolingian Empire to Manet, stained glass, ceramics, jewelry, textiles, ivories and enamels, and objects of daily use covering 6,000 years of time are represented in the collections. Nearly all these things were gathered over a period of 90 years by William T. Walters and his son, Henry Walters. Although, William Walters began to collect sculptures and paintings as early as the 1840's, he was able to devote himself more intensively to this avocation when he took up residence abroad during the Civil War. There his greater leisure was spent in haunting the art galleries of the continent and the studios of famous artists. He made many friends among the academic and romantic painters of Paris and London and began a collection of their works that is of interest now as a record of the official painting of this turbulent period. At this time the elder Mr. Walters also became interested in oriental ceramics. It was his growing assemblage of Far Eastern porcelains which brought the earliest renown to the Walters collection and is credited with having initiated in this country a serious interest in the subject.

Henry Walters as a boy was his father's companion on journeys to the museum and the artists' studios and developed his own zeal for collecting along with the practical lessons in judging and acquiring works of art. After his father's death, he expanded the accumulation of nineteenth century paintings and oriental ceramics to include all the arts in which man has wrought significantly. As a result, the collections of the Walters Art Gallery rank among the five most comprehensive art museums in America. Upon his death in 1931, Henry Walters bequeathed to the citizens of Baltimore his collection of art, the Gallery building and an endowment fund with which to maintain the institution for the benefit of the public.

On entering the gallery, one finds himself in a Central Court devoted to the arts of ancient Greece and Rome. There is a stair way leading to Gallery No. 3, until you have visited fourteen galleries!
Visitors will find a selection of books and booklets in small stands in nearly every room throughout the Gallery. The books may not be removed from the building, but are provided for your pleasure while you are there.

There is a statue of Italian Armour, a Rococo Clock, a beautiful Greek vase, a handsome Renaissance Pendant, Gallery 11 sparkles with the gray wordliness of the French and Italian seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

The chief interest in Gallery No. 12 lies in the small objects as the English Porcelains, miniatures of portraits and gold watches.

No column could ever describe it all to any Reader. So plan to spend the day.

It will be most educational.
And this from a teen-ager—
Dear Observer: A friend presented me with a beautiful Cocker Puppy and after a few weeks when I returned from school one day, it was missing and my Mother who does not like dogs opened the back door and left it go out. I cry every time I think of it for I loved him so much. Somehow, I cannot feel the same toward my Mother. How could anyone do this? I do not understand. Won't please help me? Signed Broken Hearted.

Dear Broken Hearted: Even if the puppy was given to you—did you permit your mother to shoulder all the responsibility? It is easy to love any animal but the real love is doing for that special pet. Of course, I do agree with you that your Mother should not have allowed it to go out the back door but somehow I feel that little puppy is in a good home and is perhaps loved by someone whose love was as deep as yours. You know, there are many people who still say "that they would not own a dog!" Your Observer.

And another Teen-ager. Dear Observer: We live near a big city and I hope you won't think it is real bad of me to say that I love my grandmother more than I do my mother (her daughter) and I want to spend the summer with this grandmother in another city but not far away from where we live. Would it be wrong for me to do this? I will await your reply as much depends upon it. Signed, Anxious Joanne. P. S. (Grandmother lives alone as she is a widow.)

Dear Joanne: No, I see nothing wrong in spending the summer with your grandmother in fact I think it would be nice for your grandmother and you, too providing there are no objections with your parents. Do not have any misunderstanding. Your Observer.

Have a grand week end, folks and always remember the greatest thing in life is LOVE! Will be seeing you next week end. Until then D. V. I am, Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

ALMA, MICH., RECORD: "When we talk about how our prestige has slipped abroad, let's not forget the thousands who are risking their lives daily to escape Communism for freedom. When we talk about the military and scientific achievements of the Russians let's not overlook the fact that we have put more 'shoots' into orbit than any other nation and that we are sufficiently prepared to defend ourselves against any and all enemies. When we talk about unemployment and sagging business let's put in a word or two for the record number of employed and the high national income."

POCOMOKE, MD., DEMOCRAT: "We aren't against social security or properly regulated unemployment benefits, but we believe the working man and person who has saved his money to invest in business, are already carrying as much of a 'benefits' load as they are able."

SHELDON, IOWA, MAIL: "The free enterprise system, upon which the economic foundation of this country was built has provided the American people with the highest standard of living ever known to any society and continued functioning of this system is dependent upon active participation by the citizens throughout the land."

GILLESPIE, ILL, NEWS: "Public welfare is big business in the United States... The largest amount of aid is given to dependent children. Three million of them received a billion dollars in assistance last year. Deserting fathers and illegitimacy are at the root of this problem... Public welfare is big business and so is administration... and the cost falls on those who pay the taxes."

PRENTISS, MISS., HEADLIGHT: "The federal government has usurped the right to take the wage of Americans and spend it all over the world, and even use a great part of it to force upon us a way of life we do not want."

"The federal government is in competition with private business, and runs its business tax free, while exacting exorbitant taxes from free enterprise... It is later than we think... and a time when only Americans should be placed on guard. Our freedoms are ebbing away."

EUDORA, ARKANSAS, ENTERPRISE: "Too many of us, it seems, are looking to Washington to bring a rabbit out of the legislative hat. We are depending upon huge public improvements and highway projects, losing sight of the fact that these can be built only through taxes which later we must pay."

"It will help a lot in this community if we will live by a slogan, 'business as usual', continue to strive for industrial and agricultural development and demonstrate to our neighbors, to the state and to the nation that, so far as we are concerned, we are not going to be 'chicken.'"

KANSAS CITY, MO., PRESS-DISPATCH: "Another bugaboo which should be tossed out on the mound of hearsay and nonsense is the old saw about workers 'over 40'."

"How many articles in newspapers and magazines, how many comments over television and radio, have already noted the 'young' President and his equally 'young' cabinet?"

"Why are men 'young' when they are elected or named to office and 'old' when they ask to do a fair day's work for a fair day's salary?"

GREAT FALLS, MONT., LEADER: "The Budget Bureau, taking a leap into the future, estimates that the income of the U.S. government in 1970 will be about 120 billion dollars—based on current growth and no change in tax rates. Income this year is 81 billion, with expenditures only slightly below that. Anyone care to bet that government over-spending will not be an issue in the congressional elections of 1970?"

No. 9784

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this bill is to obtain a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the Complainant, James Denver Hansbrough, from the Respondent, Mary Lee Hansbrough.

The bill recites the marriage on February 28, 1949, in Uniontown, Maryland, and that the parties lived together until August 10, 1954; and there were two children born as issue of the said marriage; that the Complainant behaved himself as a good, kind, and dutiful husband to the Respondent; that the Complainant is a resident of Carroll County, Maryland, and has been such for more than one year prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint; that the Respondent deserted and abandoned him on August 10, 1954, without just cause or reason; that the said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly since August 10, 1954, that her action is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation. It is thereupon, this 24th day of March, 1961, by the Circuit Court of Carroll County, ORDERED, that the Complainant, James Denver Hansbrough, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some weekly newspaper published in Carroll County, Maryland once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of May, 1961, giving notice to the Respondent, Mary Lee Hansbrough, of the object and substance of this Bill, and warning her to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 17th day of May, 1961, and file a plea, answer or other defense within fifteen days thereafter and show cause if any she may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Hot piston test reveals the ash-free secret of Shell X-100 Premium. A simulated piston is heated and a few drops of conventional multi-grade motor oil dropped on it. As the picture on left shows, this oil leaves a deposit of additive ash. When the test is repeated, as at right, with Shell X-100 Premium, all the oil vaporizes. It leaves no additive ash.

BREAKTHROUGH:

Suddenly Shell makes every other motor oil obsolete
—with a revolutionary new formula which fights
the five internal troubles that can shorten engine life

Shell's research reveals five common internal troubles that can shorten the life of your car. All five work silently and unseen.

These troubles are additive ash, crankcase dirt, temperature changes, engine acid and cooling system leaks.

Read how new Shell X-100[®] Premium fights all five internal troubles.

New Shell X-100 Premium.

TODAY, every Shell dealer in America has new Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil ready for your Spring oil change. New Shell X-100 Premium is a genuine breakthrough because it is the only motor oil available that protects your car simultaneously against these five internal troubles that can shorten engine life.

Trouble #1—additive ash

Up to now, even the best premium motor oils were powerless to guard against additive ash—because they actually created it. While endeavoring to keep your crankcase shipshape, some of the ingredients in these oils contributed to the hard crust of ash inside your combustion chamber. All other premium motor oils still have the same snag.

The trouble stems from the metallic additives used to prevent scuffing, dirt deposits, oxidation and so forth. These additives do what's expected of them, but with each stroke of the piston, they can leave a tiny amount of metallic salts in the combustion chamber where they burn and form additive ash.

This crusty ash, when allowed to build up, can affect your car's performance—can make it knock and run roughly.

New Shell X-100 Premium doesn't add to this problem—because it doesn't contain a single metallic additive.

Trouble #2—crankcase dirt

All engines accumulate crankcase dirt no matter how well they are protected by filters. The problem is to stop this dirt from getting together and forming sticky sludge which can clog your engine.

Most premium oils use a detergent additive to do the job. And they perform well. But, like other additives, most detergents are metallic and cause that old devil—ash.

Shell's solution is to replace detergent with a remarkable new ingredient known as a dispersant, called Alkadine.*

The Alkadine in new Shell X-100 Premium helps keep your engine clean by holding dirt particles apart. Thus they don't form sticky sludge. Some particles can be trapped by the oil filter; most are drained out when you change your oil.

*Trademark

the oil resists thinning.

Thus, new Shell X-100 Premium eliminates trouble from sudden temperature changes. It lubricates just as efficiently in June as it does in January.

Trouble #4—engine acid

All automobile engines manufacture acid. This acid can do far more damage than friction. It can eat away at engine parts in much the way stomach acid can cause ulcers. Then you're really in trouble.

One way to combat engine acid is to make the oil alkaline. Many oils use this method. But here's what happens.

The neutralizing effect of alkaline oil inevitably gets weaker and weaker as engine acid eats up the alkalinity—till it eventually stops working completely. Then your oil no longer gives you anti-acid protection.

Shell tackles this troublesome acid problem in a new way.

Shell X-100 Premium actually plates all engine surfaces with a thin chemical film. The metal literally adsorbs some of Shell X-100 Premium's protective qualities. Chemists call this phenomenon "chemisorption." "Chemisorption" offers a longer-lasting protection against acid attack than any other method yet invented.

Trouble #5—cooling system leaks

Tiny leaks of permanent anti-freeze can play nasty tricks with many motor oils.

These oils can react chemically with permanent anti-freeze and form a horrible sludge which can actually bring an otherwise healthy engine to a standstill.

Then you're on the way to a major repair bill.

New Shell X-100 Premium sets all such fears at rest. It resists reaction with any sort of anti-freeze. It shrugs it off.

The additives in Shell X-100 Premium resist washing out with water, too. In some oils, additives can be lost to water leaks. In Shell X-100 Premium, they stay.

How much does Shell X-100 Premium cost?

If you drive the national average of 10,000 miles per year, the switch to Shell X-100 Premium (with regular oil changes) will cost you only $3.60 more than ordinary oil—give or take a nickel. And probably nothing extra if you already use a premium grade.

Drive to your Shell service station and ask the dealer to change your oil while the engine is still hot. Be sure to ask for Shell X-100 Premium in the white can. It protects your engine from all five internal troubles listed above.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

It looks like the American farmer is going to play a brand new role in the American economy. That is, if President Kennedy has his way. For he has embarked on a powerful public relations campaign to picture the farmer as the unsung hero of the American economy instead of being a burden on the taxpayer and a drag on the economy. Why is the President showing all this interest in the way city folks look at the farmer? It is motivated by a number of reasons.

First, he wants to improve the farm economy, but more important he wants to change the public's attitude toward farmers and the farm problem. In recent times it has been customary to speak of American agriculture in terms of distress and failure. The public must be given the true picture of the farmer for he is the provider of food and fibers for the entire country. Farmers deserve praise, not condemnation. Their efficiency should be cause for gratitude not something for which they are penalized. The truth of the matter is that farmers are subsidizing consumers, rather than the consumer and taxpayer subsidizing the farmer. But no matter how much the President may help to get better relationship between the public and the farmer, he can't do it alone. The farmers themselves must help to get the public on their side. There is still a picture of a farmer and his wife in the minds of most city dwellers, as a couple, not quite bright, the man dressed in overalls and straw hat with a bit of hay between his teeth, and his wife in calico and sunbonnet with a peaked and sorrowful look on her face. Most city people get this idea from the plays and movies they see about farmers. They never stop to think that this great country was born because of the strength and wisdom of men of the soil. This country should be reminded of this over and over again and here is where the farmers themselves could help by hiring a good public relations man to tell their story. The American farmer, like the French peasant and the keepers of the soil in every country, is really the backbone of his country. The only draw back is that his country doesn't know that. Its up to someone to tell the real story about agriculture.

We have had several calls from people this week telling us that the robins have been back in Carroll County since February. We are happy to hear this as we were beginning to think that the winter had killed them. We hope that a few will soon be chirping on our lawn, but so far they are giving our place a complete boycott. A friend loaned us a copy of the Baltimore Sun dated October 9, 1905 and we found some interesting comparisons of news stories with our own papers today. For instance, an entire page was devoted to articles on health in 1905. Not too different from today when health seems to be an interesting subject to write about. And teaching were seeking higher pay too back 56 years ago and people were writing letters to the editor for and against the raise. Students were getting killed playing football, people were breaking into churches to take a nights lodging and there was racing at Pimlico. Maud Adams opened in "Peter Pan" in Washington and Dr. Flick said that Tuberculosis could be wiped out in 25 years. (He was wrong) Hutzlers was giving S & H green stamps and bulls were selling for 2 cents per pound, the most change in newspapers in fifty years seems to be the type of humor they published. In 1905 the following story was considered funny: "They say that many Hindu Idols had diamonds in their eyes. That's not incredible, my girl has a diamond in her eye now, hang it, I'm afraid I'll have to buy it."

The commemoration of the Civil War seems to have touched off several little "Civil Wars" all over again. It looks like several southern states are getting ready to fight the real one all over again. Maybe the committee should call the whole thing off before it gets out of hand.

I have always considered that the substitution of the internal combustion machine for the horse marked a very gloomy milestone in the progress of mankind. Sir Winston Churchill.

The County Commissioners and the Welfare Board have come up with a very constructive program to get our county roads repaired and to give employment to persons that need a job. It is the kind of planning that benefits many people in our own county. By giving employment to persons that need the need for quick repair of our county roads is self-evident to all that use the roads. So by two groups working together, two tasks will get done and three groups will benefit namely the unemployed, the tax-payers and the users of the roads.

The Easter message is a simple one. Christ said it as he was dying. "Forgive them, Father, for they know not, what they do." It is such a timely message for the year 1961. For all over the world men are doing things to other men in the name of many things. But mostly through ignorance, misunderstanding or immorality, they are the wrong things. Because of these human frailties we must say, forgive them, for they know not what they do.

One day in spring, Sir Walter Scott was walking around his estate with Lady Scott. They came upon a field where mother sheep were grazing with their lambs. Sir Walter, a poet himself said, "Ah 'tis no wonder that poets, from earliest ages, have made the lamb the emblem of peace and innocence." "Delightful animals indeed," responded Lady Scott, "especially with mint sauce."

Carroll County Mental Health Fund

Dr. Paul V. Lemkau, President of the Maryland Association for Mental Health announced the appointment of Paul H. Smith, of Westminster as chairman of the 1961 Carroll County Mental Health campaign. Mr. Smith is sales representative and announcer for radio station WTTR A.M.P.M.

The Carroll County drive is part of the nationwide fund-raising campaign of the Maryland and National Associations for Mental Health. It will be launched with Mental Health week, April 30th to May 6th, and continue throughout May, which has been designated Mental Health month.

The evening of May 8th has been chosen for the Bell Singers' March for Mental Health. This door-to-door drive will be the high spot of the campaign. Other events will include special gift and business solicitation. For a second year, the slogan of the Mental Health Campaign will be "Next, Let's Conquer Mental Illness."

"We are continuing to use this slogan," said Mr. Smith, "because mental illness is the nation's number one health problem. Public support has made it possible for science to conquer many diseases. If the public will get behind this effort, we can rid mankind of the scourge of mental illness, too." Volunteers are needed for the May 8th door-to-door drive. People wishing to volunteer may call the Mental Health Office TI 8-3910.

Meeting of Lions Club

At the invitation of program chairman John T. Hottinger, Mrs. Edward Jones, wife of the Hanover Junior High School principal, shared her knowledge of teen-age situations, problems, and promise with an attentive audience of Taneytown Lions and their ladies at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday night in Taney Inn.

President Glenn O Reever opened the meeting, calling upon Merwyn C. Fuss for the invocation, and led in musical birthday greetings to Charles L. Little and wedding anniversary recognition for the C. David Hiltner during an interlude in the congregational singing conducted by Lion tamer Donald R. Lawyer to Harry I. Reindollar's piano accompaniment. After dinner Secretary Kenneth C. Shorb approached members individually with tickets for the Hospitality night, April 22 at Har- ertown, and the nominating committee report of Chairman Raymond J. Perry, Delmar E. Riffle, and Merle S. Ohler was presented by Lion Ohler. Nominations from the floor will be received at next meeting, there being at the moment no nominee for first vice-president.

A note of thanks for flowers was received from Ebbel S. Welker, and a contribution for the Tail Twister's Lion was reported duly received from his counterpart in Cocoa, Florida, where E. Gregg Kiser had visited. President Reever thereupon invited Lion Hottinger to take charge of his evening's program, and the first part of it consisted of two piano selections performed by John Rinehart: The "Polonaise joyeuse" of Richard Krentzlin and "Glissando-Mazurka" by Carl Bohm. Lion Hottinger also introduced as his guests Mr. Edward Jones, principal of the Hanover Junior high school, and Mrs. Robert Rinehart before presenting the speaker.

Mrs. Jones, teacher of English in the Hanover public schools, B. A. (Juniata) and M. A. (Western Maryland), began by expressing her pleasure at speaking before Lions anywhere because of the wonderful manner in which Hanover Lions have backed her in many educational projects requiring large monetary outlays on top of their already generous contributions in other fields of community welfare. She then warmed to her subject, "A public school teacher talks about teen-agers" and outlined four points by which the youth of today differs greatly from the teenager of yesterday: His broad scope of knowledge, greater ability to express himself, a stronger desire to go farther in any field of endeavor, and an ability to take better care of himself in many situations.

With these greater capabilities, however, there are some problems, chief among which is the feeling on the part of the present-day teen-ager that he should be considered above everyone else. This usually begins with the question, "Do my parents (or my teachers) have the right to punish me, to require an introduction to my friends, to keep me inside when other kids are out late?" In short, he questions the justification for any discipline whatever. Coupled with this attitude, and quoting from a New York Times article by the Hirschmeyer, "Teen-Age Tyranny Extends Its Empire" these writers point out, said Mrs. Jones, that "we as parents have developed a 'permissiveness' which is becoming a disease that can only harm as it pervades the whole of the teen-age way of living." We give our offspring charge accounts on which to draw, we submit to their slavish desire to conform, to do whatever the crowd does, we want our children to be better housed, fed, educated, even to "go where the boys are", but in so doing, we join the great army of status-seekers, we leave the hard and narrow way of discipline for the broad and easy way of happiness. Even our children, in their more lucid and self-judging moments, try to tell their elders they do not really enjoy their own regime, that they are in reality dreadfully "punished by being pampered".

The antidote?—it lies in rekindling a joyous sense of using their talents as a reward for a disciplined way of life—as witness the overwhelming response to the President's "Peace Corps", to the schools' science projects, and the like. Parents can make of adolescence a step towards growing up, not a privilege to be exploited.

It is like "Building a Temple", and she ended her stirring message by quoting that little poem, which closed with the line that (while the building made with hands will some day lie molded and covered with dust), "the temple that the teacher builded is a child's immortal soul".

The meeting was concluded with announcement of a brief directors' session immediately following, and a report by Secretary Shorb that nearly $400.00 was realized from the recent public oyster feed.

The next meeting program of Taneytown Lions Club will be presented on Tuesday, April 11, at 6:29 p. m., in Taney Inn by Homer Y. Myers in observance of International Counselor night. A Buddy Deane Hop will take place on April 21 in St. Joseph's Social Hall, while on April 29 the club will sponsor a food sale in the Firemen's hall of the Municipal building.

Calorie Counters' Delight

Charlotte dessert, a calorie-laden delight dating back to early White House days, is now appearing on modern-day tables in a new streamlined form. Like the original, it's a delicacy rich in eye and taste appeal. But its calorie count is cut sharply to please weight-conscious food lovers of today. Resembling a light pudding, the original was a calorie-rich blend of heavy cream, fruit and gelatine, all molded with cake or ladyfingers. The streamlined Strawberry Charlotte, perfected by the Borden Kitchen, meets the needs of calorie counters by using whipped nonfat dry milk instead of heavy cream for the base. The homogenized-smooth instant nonfat dry milk whips into the desired consistency in a matter of minutes. Freshly picked or quick-frozen strawberries help make this a memorable dessert. Here's how to make, mold and garnish:

- Strawberry Charlotte (Makes 6 to 8 servings)
3/4 cup Starlac nonfat dry milk
1/4 cup cold water
3/4 cup cold water
1 package ladyfingers
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup boiling water
2 (10-oz.) packages frozen sliced strawberries, defrosted
Red food coloring

Combine nonfat dry milk with 3/4 cup of the cold water in small electric mixer bowl; beat on high speed until stiff, about 6 to 8 minutes. Place in refrigerator. Line sides of buttered 2-quart bowl or mold with ladyfingers. Soften gelatine in 1/4 cup cold water. Dissolve softened gelatine and sugar in boiling water. Add strawberries and mix well. Stir over ice water until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Gently fold whipped nonfat dry milk into gelatine mixture. Add food coloring to desired shade. Pour into bowl lined with ladyfingers. Chill in refrigerator 2 1/2 to 3 hours, or until set. Unmold. If desired, garnish with additional whipped nonfat dry milk and strawberries.

Know Your Lawn's Enemies

With many homeowners, having a lush, healthy lawn is a matter of pride. One of the first steps is learning to recognize your lawn's enemies. Crab grass easily stands out as the worst offender and until recently one of the hardest to control.

Fortunately crab grass is not difficult to spot. It is characterized by its wide, spreading blades and, as it matures during mid-summer, by the three-pronged purplish seed head which forms then. Like most weeds, crab grass grows profusely and can quickly choke out the lawn grass, leaving in its place a scraggly unkempt ground cover.

Control of this pest is now within every homeowner's reach, however, according to turf specialists at The Dow Chemical Company. Unlike most grasses which are perennials, crab grass is an annual, sprouting each year from seeds produced the preceding year, and this fact has become the "weak link" upon which research scientists have focused their attention for several years.

Their work now has led to development of a new pre-emergence crab grass killer which destroys the seeds before germination, thus giving near-perfect control of this old lawn enemy. The job is surprisingly easy to do, too. Treatment should be made in early spring, preferably as soon as frost is out of the ground. The granular material is applied with an ordinary lawn fertilizer spreader, and a moderate sprinkling brings the chemical into contact with the soil. Once crab grass has been eliminated, a good program of preventive lawn maintenance—proper fertilizing, watering, and mowing procedures—should be all that is needed to keep it out.

Stilbestrol Ups Gains in Test

Feeding Conditions Varied in Trials

Stilbestrol hormone implants for boosting livestock gains have proved profitable under a wide range of Oregon beef-feeding practices as tested by Oregon State college research workers.

Yearling and two-year-old steers receiving stilbestrol implants in the ear gained about one-half pound a day more on the average than untreated steers, according to David C. England, OSC animal husbandman. The OSC scientist conducted 10 feeding trials under widely different feeding conditions during the past year.

Locally-produced crops as the Yearlings and two-year-old steers receiving stilbestrol implants in the ear gained best in tests conducted under various feeding conditions.

predominant feed source, supplemented for a balanced ration, included peavine silage; potatoes; high grain rations; meadow hay and moderate grain levels; and silage and hay with low grain levels.

England found that a 30 to 36 milligram implant appears to give maximum increases in most feeding situations, although large-framed dairy steers may respond better to 45 milligram implants.

Thirty milligrams of stilbestrol was a satisfactory level for weaner calves on a fattening ration containing either high or low levels of grain, the OSC tests showed.

The tests also demonstrated that sprayed heifers gain faster when treated with stilbestrol implants, although a 15-milligram level appeared to be enough. The OSC animal scientist does not endorse heifer spaying. He said the tests demonstrated, however, that implants of stilbestrol—a female hormone—probably make up for some of the loss in normal hormone production that occurs when ovaries are removed.

Artificial Breeding Tests Span Oceans

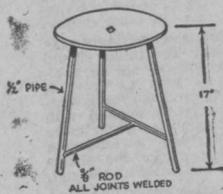

Animal scientists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture have artificially bred sows in Maryland with boar semen collected in Norway.

Semen samples were collected and processed daily and flown to the USDA's Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Maryland, over a 15-day period last December. In each case from 30 to 40 hours elapsed from the time the semen was collected until the sows were inseminated.

Results of the experiment show that boar semen treated with diluters can be successfully shipped long distances. Other experimentation in artificial insemination in swine and processing boar semen for storage is going on at the Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin and Cornell agricultural experiment stations.

Of the 24 sows artificially inseminated in the Beltsville experiment, 11 or 46 percent farrowed litters of strong, healthy pigs. Average litter size was 9.2 pigs farrowed and 7.4 or 80 percent were alive at 21 days of age. Survival rate on other pigs normally produced the same season at Beltsville averaged 83.6 percent in pigs weaned at 56 days of age.

Utility Stool

An old cultivator disc mounted on legs of 1/2-in. pipe makes a utility stool that is quite handy around the farm or in the shop. Legs are welded to the convex side of the disc and are braced with two lengths 3/8-in. rod, as shown.

The Concluding Prayer in Unison:

O Thou great Redeemer of mankind, we commit ourselves into Thy hands for the blessing of Thy Spirit as we come to the close of this solemn Service. We bless Thee for all pains Thou hast suffered, for all the words of comfort Thou has spoken and for Thine eternal victory over the powers of darkness, death and hell. Surely Thou hast borne our griefs and carried our sorrows. Thou hast been wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities, and Thou hast laid on Thee the iniquity of us all. Father, forgive us for what we have added to the dark weight of the World's sin. Give us a desire to carry forward the eternal cross of Christ, so that His death may become effectual for the salvation of the whole world; and grant us through our complete self-renderer that victory overcomes the world. This we ask in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Our Living Lord

Lesson for April 2, 1961

JESUS CHRIST is not a historical character in the same way that most such characters are. For historical characters are by definition figures out of the past. Whether the revived character, or the "image" of him that is now cherished, resembles the original man or not, still the historical character is always a dead-and-gone character. But Jesus Christ is radically different. He is not dead-and-gone. He did die, to be sure; but he rose again from the dead, as millions of Christians will be saying and singing this Easter morning. Yet this is not the last word about him. His rising-again in Joseph's garden was far away and long ago. The strange and most significant truth about Jesus Christ's resurrection is that he has risen over and over again—in the hearts of those who love him.

Dr. Foreman

From Sorrow to Joy
Jesus Christ is a living person, our contemporary, one with whom we can speak in prayer and high moments of meditation. People outside the Christian religion do not always realize this, that Christ is as well as was,—that what he is and what he wants and what he approves are questions to which we can find answers. He is a person of the present and future, not only of the past. And not present as a mere ghost, a haunting spirit out of an ancient tomb, but a vivid, vital, present person. Have you ever known people whose very entrance into a room seemed to change the climate? Jesus was and is that kind of person.

What kept happening during the forty days after the first Easter has kept happening since. The disciples after Calvary were in the depths of a grief close kin to despair. A darkness deeper than Good Friday's "darkness at noon" had settled over them. But after the first shock of the Easter discovery that their Friend still lived, all the shock and sorrow were turned to joy. So it is wherever Christ comes into a life. The darkness fades, the sun comes in, tears are bitter no longer.

From Doubt to Faith

If the story of Mary Magdalene illustrates the change from grief to joy in the living Presence of the Lord, the story of Thomas illustrates a passage from doubt to faith. Now there is something we need to remember about Jesus' appearances after the Resurrection that may help us with the story of Thomas. It is often supposed that various people saw Jesus after the resurrection, and because they saw, they believed. As a matter of fact, a study of the four gospels is likely to convince the reader that it was the other way around: Jesus did not appear to people to make them believe in him; on the contrary, there is no record that he ever appeared to unbelievers such as Caiaphas and Pilate and the Roman soldiers. Was Thomas an exception? On the face of it, Thomas was an unbeliever, yet Jesus appeared to him. Wait a moment—let us straighten this out. Thomas was (he said) an unbeliever in the resurrection, but he was a believer in Christ. He believed enough to be there with the disciples the Sunday after Easter. He was ready to believe, readier than he thought, as the story shows. He had doubts, yet he was still in heart a disciple. So the living Lord to this day turns doubts into faith—it happens somewhere every day of the world.

From Discouragement to Devotion

With Simon Peter it was still another kind of story. He was a disciple and a believer in the resurrection besides. But it did not at first seem to make much difference with him. He went on back to Galilee, to the old familiar fishing-grounds, to the old familiar job. For Peter, as for some today, Christ had to knock twice to be heard. No true disciple can face the risen Christ in personal faith and say, "So what?" The living Lord says still today to all part-way believers: "Do you love me? ... Feed my sheep."

WHO WE ARE AND WHY WE ARE HERE— (YOUR BODY IS NOT YET YOURS)—

We come here, like God, to learn to be; For, through us, He shall reign in Eternity; These bodies of ours are only machines, they say, Which we operate here from day to day.

The Christ in your body is God's ideal son— (That, they tell us, is true of everyone?); We all come here, like God, to learn to be; For, through us, He shall reign in Eternity.

Our bodies are not yet the real you and me— (They are far from what God wants them to be!); The average fellow thinks his body is swell, But, 9 times out of 10, he makes it a hell.

To build a perfect body, we must follow God's plan— (That is one of the "wants", since Time began?); At the very beginning God gave to man "free will"— That is why the real you has a hard job to fill.

God sends the real you here to teach him His plan (How to make a perfect woman or man); Jesus, too, said to all peoples: "I am the way" Every mortal on earth must be some day.

There are many secrets in God's great plan— (One of which is, why He made man?); The truth is, we come here, like Him, to learn to be; For, through us, God shall reap in Eternity.

God has many secrets we some day shall know— (To learn them all, we have a long way to go?); So, Reincarnation, they tell us, is His plan To make us perfect woman and a perfect man.

Just like the rivers, we must come and go Till all of life's secrets we learn to know; God keeps sending us back to help with His plan To make the whole earth a heaven for man.

When we learn to know God, the saints all say, We shall be like Jesus, and, do things God's way; That is why Jesus came in that early day— God sent Him here to show us the way.

All through the ages man has thought his body is him (That is why he caters to each tiny whim?); But, it is only a temple made of clay; And, in it, we learn how to go God's way.

Here we all learn to do things, God's way— (The Father watches over us, night and day); So, awake! Awake, mortal man!—don't you see What an honor it is God's Son to be?

In God's great Book, called Nature, we learn the way To make ourselves fit for the endless way; In it, God shows how we all must be When we go from Time to Eternity.

God does not speak to the physical man— (That has never been a part of His plan?); He only speaks to these bodies of ours, Through Nature—the earth, the trees and the flowers.

God did not reveal to primitive man Many of the secrets in His great plans, Because He knew how long it would be Till he learned how to live in Eternity.

So, let us now learn to know our Great God— (Let Him be the only idol on this sod!); We all come here, like Him, to learn to be; And, to make ourselves fit for Eternity.

When the body is perfect, we all shall be Like the Boy God sent to Galilee; He made the clouds, His chariot, and, walked on the sea— Just so, in Eternity, we all shall be.

Physical man always listens to men, they say, But to reach perfection, man must learn God's way, Until he does, back to earth he must return, And, the fires of Hell shall continue to burn.

"God is Love; but, His laws we must obey— (To make ourselves perfect, there is no other way!); Just like Jesus, we all must be, Before, we can go from Time to Eternity.

That is how God wants us all to do— He gave us the Bible to teach me and you!; It is the chart which shows the way Through the journey of Time to the endless day.

Fertilizer is your best investment.

Cut feed costs by topdressing your pasture this Spring

THE part of your milk check that winds up as profit in your pocket depends mainly on how much money you've got to pay out for purchased feeds. Realizing this, cost-conscious dairymen will produce more of their cows' feed intake from pastures by topdressing early this Spring with high-quality AGRICO fertilizer. These 7 reasons show why topdressing pastures makes good sense:

1. Improves the milk-making capacity of your pastures by promoting denser, healthier growth ... higher in protein and total feed value.
2. Gives 7 to 10 days of earlier grazing.
3. Extends the lush grazing season into late July.
4. Dense growth of fertilized pastures will choke out many weeds, reduce grub damage.
5. Healthy pastures increase the water-holding capacity of soil and slow down water runoff.
6. More acres of good pasture cut manhour and machinery costs because cows harvest more of their own feed.
7. Helps legumes and other plants recover faster and healthier from any Winter setback.

FISHING LINES
 By DICK WOLFF

New sporting goods are making family fun a boon instead of a boondoggle. Fishing tackle, firearms, and camping equipment companies are out to make us the most outdoor minded people in the world. If the record number of exhibitors at the National Sporting Goods Association show means anything, fishing, camping, and the like should rate high on the list for family fun this summer.

New tackle that does everything but clean the fish will find a place in the heart of many reluctant anglers—notably, women. The Garcia Corporation's new Abu-Matic line of spincasting reels, the 140, 160, and 170, feature dual pick-up pins that assure positive and instantaneous line pick-up—not even a split second delay in the reel to tax new angling reflexes.

The beauty of spincasting tackle lies in simplicity and adaptability. Push button operation makes it easier than a can opener to operate, and promises proficiency to the beginner with one or two practice casts.

Lines and lures are enjoying a heyday of improvement, too. A new Platyl monofilament introduced this year, tests to within .004 pounds as strong at the knot as any point in the line. This means your 10-pound test line breaks at 10 pounds except at the knot which is designed to break just a hair under the breaking point of the line. This saves whatever line you have out in case of snagging.

Improved camping equipment will help your woodland retreat become more liveable too. Coleman recently introduced a new family sized, cooler with a 14 gallon capacity. It features a push button faucet and magnetic latch. Incidentally, Coleman's one burner picnic stove is a good buy for a camping family.

These new products are bound to catch the fancy of old and new anglers and campers alike. My advice is to get in there while prices are right and buy early.

Federal and local conservation, fish and wildlife agencies are expanding their efforts to stock new lakes and streams to provide good fishing for burgeoning number of outdoor enthusiasts.

Incidentally, shopping at your local sporting goods store holds some big advantages. Repairs, advice, and special offers can mean long run dollar savings for you and your family.
