MILLIONAIRES ARE SCARCE

Why not let the millionaires pay most if not all of the taxes? They've got more money than anyone needs, so why not take it away from them for the benefit of the rest of us?

Well, here's why: According to the Internal Revenue Service, there are only 244 taxable incomes of a million dollars or more. And these incomes are taxed to the hilt now, with the top rate being a cool 91 per cent.

Moreover, says the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, the taxes actually paid by the millionaire group, are just enough to run the government for 25-1/2 hours... a trifle more than one day. And even if they were taxed 100 per cent, the increase in revenue would merely support the government for another 14-1/2 hours.

There just isn't enough money in the big or even the middle income categories to operate a $90 billion a year government. So the lower income people must pay the bill.

—Industrial News Service

GOVERNMENT BY CREDIT CARD

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says: "All agree it is criminal for one man to steal from another. But over-powerful government can rob the individual just as surely—only the scale is grander, the stakes are greater, and the loss far more tragic. For what is stolen by paternalistic government is that precious compound of initiative, independence and self-respect that distinguishes a man from the mob, a person from a number, a free man from a slave... Too much government planes off the peaks of excellence, hones down differences, dries up diversity, and leaves a bleak sameness... No one can stand, simultaneously, for more individualism and more centralized government... We are against the insulting concept of government by Big Brother... I believe deeply that continuing deficit spending is immoral. It forces our children to support spendthrift parents. It visits upon vengeless youngsters a mountain of unpaid bills. It is government by credit card, with the bill to be paid by our children not merely in money but also in liberty."

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

WEST POINT, MISS., TIMES LEADER: "When grants of federal funds are involved, federal control is inherent, and the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld in this principle... It follows, as logically as night follows day, that federal aid to education must sooner or later be followed by federal control."

GOODING, IDAHO, LEADER: "The federal government has worked out a system which will insure receipt of immense sums of money from the taxpayers."

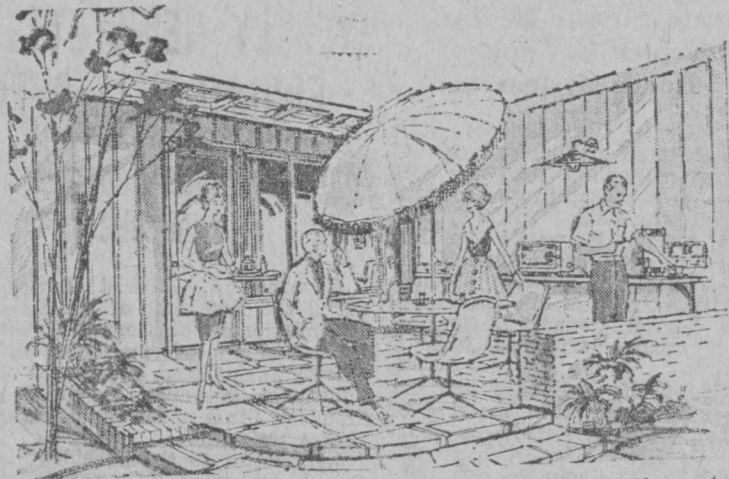

"There are at present no, less than 80 separate programs in operation by which bureaucrats of the federal government 'give' part of the costs to states providing the states match this spending by adding more outlays to their own budgets."

"In addition to 80 programs now in operation, the government has plans to move into new areas."

FORT WORTH, TEX., THE SOUTHERN CONSERVATIVE: "Congressman James F. Battin of Montana says that $89,000 was spent by the Public Health Service during the past year in research and issuing a detailed report on people's behavior at cocktail parties. This should be valuable information which will go a long way in solving the troublesome problems which now confront the United States on every hand. Also, we imagine that Public Health staff members stood in line in applying for this particular 'research' job."

Electric Housewares Ideal

Cooking on Patio Makes Outdoor Parties More Fun

An entire meal is being cooked outdoors at this patio party, thanks to the help of electric housewares. Electric coffee brewer makes a tasty beverage while corn-on-the-cob cooks in the electric roaster and buttered rolls warm on the electric hot tray. The electric rotisserie cooks the roast to perfection.

"Roughing it" is fine for backwoods picnics or camping trips, but everyday living on the patio at home calls for relaxation as well as carefully-prepared and well-balanced meals.

That's why families who enjoy outdoor dining at home are bringing more and more electric housewares onto the patio. Parties on the patio—even everyday meals—are more fun when the cooking is easy.

Electric broilers and rotisseries, for instance, cook meat perfectly with a minimum of watching, and the good results are consistent. Electric casseroles, skillets, saucepans, and Dutch ovens are good outdoor party accessories because they cook one-dish meals, soups, vegetables, or hot desserts at controlled temperatures, then keep them warm until serving time. The hostess doesn't have to trot from kitchen to party scene, carrying hot dishes that may be cold by the time guests are ready to eat.

An automatic electric coffee brewer is another ideal appliance for outdoor dining enjoyment. It always makes coffee the way you want it, and keeps the coffee at drinking temperature indefinitely. An electric kettle provides for the coffee drinkers who want plenty of coffee served hot.

For extra guest convenience, electric coffee brewers are available that will serve up to 40 or 50 cups.

Refreshing drinks can be made on the spot if an electric blender and ice crusher are included among the other housewares plugged in on the patio.

A must for good dining out-of-doors is an electric hot tray and food warmer to heat rolls and keep other foods warm without further cooking. The hostess can relax until guests are ready to eat, and second helpings will be as hot and tasty as firsts.

Let's Go Fishin'

BY BOB BREWSTER

Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

You'd like the way Norm fished. Anybody would. It was a real pleasure to go fishin' with him. Because you knew beforehand you were going to have a good time, whether you caught any fish or not.

He was grinning when he picked you up in the early morning hours, long before most people got happy, and all the way to the lake showed his pleasure at being able to go fishing.

Once he got there he began kidding the girl at the cafe where we always ate breakfast and greeted the operator of the fishing camp like they were brothers.

VOLUNTEER

He always volunteered to captain our fishing craft, talked lovingly to his Fishin' Merc 60 as he started it and ran us out to the coves that we liked to fish for crappie and bass, or gented it down to a throaty hum for trolling alongside the dam for walleyes.

Norm and I grew up together, from the time we were catching bullheads from a creek called Long Branch till we were taking sailfish from a larger creek called the Gulf Stream.

He was never a great fisherman, mostly because he was too busy enjoying himself to attend to the serious business that many people make out of fishing.

He absolutely refused to carry home more fish than he and his family could eat at "a sittin'", claiming that it was just too much trouble to clean that many fish and he didn't prefer eating them after they were frozen, anyway.

'GO HOME'

He never kept the little felers that always seem to graze a hook when you don't want them. He would release them with a grin and tell them to "go home and grow up."

Many's the time I've seen him lose a good fish when he shouldn't because he prolonged the "playing" of the fish much longer than was reasonable just because he enjoyed it.

He had another bad habit. A lot of times he'd insist we quit fishin' and would go for a boat ride, just zooming around the lake and letting the wind blow past our ears.

"Givin' the fish a chance to cool off," he called it, but I suspect he was really doing the same for the fishermen instead of the fish, taking out a little heart attack insurance.

JUST PRACTICE

Sometimes if the fish were biting well on minnows he would tie on a surface plug and practice casting, shooting the lure into little coves and points all around our boat instead of continuing catching fish as I did, or tried to do until he talked me into joining him in a practice session.

"Why bother with all those little crappies," he'd say. "We need practice so when the bass start hitting we'll be ready for them."

Just in the last couple of years have I begun to realize just what kind of a fisherman he really is. He doesn't go for competition, he refuses to make work out of his fishin' and he just will not drag home a trunk full of fish. He'll quit fishing first.

Norm is probably the best kind of fisherman. He just goes to enjoy himself!

Barbecue Chef's Task Made Easy

Home barbecue chefs are in their glory, as they take command of the cook-out arena. To help them with their culinary artistry is a plentiful supply of turkeys and other poultry, fresh or frozen, plus a host of convenience foods ready for instant use. For really easy-to-do outdoor fare, the Borden Kitchen suggests a turkey or poultry broil with rice and a cranberry-mince meat sauce. The sauce is hardly a challenge, for the mince comes in a jar, ready to use, and the cranberries are canned. A special note to the chef: Foil-wrapped halves of turkey or other poultry may be cooked on a charcoal grill about 40 minutes, or until tender. Then remove foil and brown on both sides.

Broiled Turkey or Chicken Halves with Mince Meat Cranberry Sauce

1 (5 lb.) turkey or chicken split in half 2 tablespoons butter, melted Salt

Sprinkle turkey or chicken halves with salt and pepper. Brush with melted butter. Place on grill over hot coals bone side down. Broil 15 to 20 minutes. Brush with melted butter. Turn and broil additional 15 to 20 minutes or until meat is tender.

Mince Meat Cranberry Sauce

1/4 cup butter 1-1/3 cups None Such Ready-to-Use Mince Meat 1 cup finely chopped onion 1 (1 lb.) can whole cranberry sauce

Melt butter in large skillet, add onion; cook until onion is golden brown. Stir in mince meat and cranberry sauce. Cook just until mixture comes to a boil. Serve with broiled turkey or chicken.

Summer in Your Freezer—

All Year 'Round!

Summertime is the time to concentrate on freezing luscious fruits at their peak ripeness. You and your family can enjoy peaches, apricots, pears and other fruits on crisp fall days and cold winter evenings. For modern freezing methods now preserve all summer fruits at their peak ripeness—to be served orchard-fresh as a winter treat!

The moment fresh fruits are peeled and exposed to air, they begin to lose flavor. Light-colored fruits such as peaches turn brown. But this air-damage can be halted with antioxidants like A-C-M (Ascorbic-Citric-Mixture), which protect the delicate color and flavor of fruit in the freezer for months. A-C-M, available at drug stores and frozen food lockers, contains vitamin C, and the citric acid found in lemons and other citrus fruits.

Like fresh fruit salads for summer desserts? You can prepare them hours before the dinner rush begins if you mix 1/2-teaspoon A-C-M per cup of sugar, coat the fruit well, and refrigerate until mealtime. And try this simple recipe for home freezing with long-range delights in mind: mix a medium syrup using 5 cups of sugar to 1 quart water. Add 2 level teaspoons of A-C-M to each pint of syrup. See fresh fruit directly into the liquid to minimize air exposure. Cover fruit completely with syrup but remember to leave 1/2-inch head space in the container—for expansion in the freezer. Come December, it's a peach shortcake treat for your family—garden-fresh from the freezer!

Ray-Mond is one of the selected top Magicians of the World that is still active in the tradition of the late Howard Thurston, The great Chang, Houdini & Blackstone, Ray-Mond's Magic travels have taken him throughout the entire world. His slight of hand has not been surpassed by anyone having been selected three times at National Magicians conventions was top in his field. He carries tons of beautiful and expensive equipment and a company of lovely ladies and assistant too, his illusions run from the comedy to the serious floating a lady in the air is as easy for this master of mystery as driving a car for most people, his original presentation of the mad Doctor in which he saws off a persons head, never fails to thrill any audience, and of course he never fails to produce a few live rabbits, chickens, doves and ducks, the name Ray-Mond has become a household name in this part of the country, having appeared in all the public Elementary and High Schools, for clubs and civic Organizations here in Taneytown as well as almost every city and town across the Nation. On talking with Ray-mond one finds him to be quiet, even a bit shy, but talk with him on any subject and you will find him well versed, asked him how he cut a girl in half and he won't talk. Really a versatile fellow, Ray-Mond has appeared with The Great Blackstone, Movie Stars, John Calvert, Reta Hayworth, George Jessel, Jimmy Cagney and many others, heads of Governments. During the second World War he appeared for the troops as well as having a medal & citation awarded to him by General Charles DeGualle. His life is more like something you read about, a dream come true for this young man, as he started his career at the age of eight years and has appeared in all the major theatres from coast to coast, Warners, Paramount, etc. and has topped all his previous accomplishments by being selected to appear this year at the National congress of Magicians convention being held July 5th to July 8th at the Chalfont Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Ray-Mond had been selected as one of the feature performers to appear for the International Brotherhood of Magicians, who gathered there all week to fool one another with their pet experiments, learn from the professionals many new tricks to take back to their homes and fool their family and friends, and carry on the oldest art in the world of entertainment. Of course Ray-Mond never fails to have a large crowd around him, if you have never seen this amazing fellow, don't miss him when he appears in your town.

This Was She

Lesson for August 6, 1961

THE LAST judgment is God's; but the first judgment is the neighbors'. The very first is the family's, to be sure; but Dorcas' family is not mentioned. Dorcas is one character whom we never see alive; all we know of her is what the neighbors thought of her at the time she died. Everything was ready for the funeral, till some one thought of sending for Simon Peter. Perhaps they expected the miracle, perhaps not. At any rate, Simon prayed . . . and there was no funeral after all.

Dr. Foreman says they expected the miracle, perhaps not. At any rate, Simon prayed . . . and there was no funeral after all.

Remembered—For What?

A funeral is a great place for memories. Every one comes early and they sit there thinking about their memories of the one who has died. And after the funeral they talk with one another about the one they all remember. But if people are remembered, it is always because of something in particular. One man is remembered for his funny stories, another for his bad temper, another for his sharpness in business, another because he was the governor. Good, bad or indifferent, we shall all be remembered for something or other. This Dorcas was remembered for clothes—not the clothes she wore but those she had made for others. In those days a widow had no way of earning an income, and life insurance was unheard-of. So Dorcas had with her own hands made many a garment for poor widows—and that was what the women brought to the funeral. Suppose Dorcas had been a dreamer; and an intender? Suppose she had thought that making clothing for poor neighbors was somehow beneath her dignity? Suppose she had dreamed of some big thing, like changing the world so there would never be any poor people anywhere? Good intentions —dead good intentions—may be remembered at the funeral, but they are not cherished. Better to be remembered for one small handkerchief actually made, than for a princess' wardrobe intended out unmade

They Wanted Her Back

Most people at a funeral would tell you they wish they had her—or him—back again. But all the stories about "dead" people sitting up in their caskets also tell of panic in the audience. Most people who have acquired the title "Late"—like "the late John Smith"—if they came back three months after their funeral, would find themselves in an embarrassing position. Somebody else would have the old job, maybe somebody else would be living in the old house—worst of all, after the many nice things that were said at the funeral, it's too bad to spoil it all by going back, in real life not quite the saint you were said to be by the preacher.

People really want you back only if you are truly indispensable. Dorcas was that rare kind of person. Her needle and thread, her practical skill, all gone now. There was no one to take her place. People wanted her back, just as she was. Even God wanted her back, or Peter's prayer would have been in vain.—How much of a hole would you leave if you died today?

Seven-day Religion

We do not know what creed Dorcas professed. Would she have been a Roman Catholic, a Methodist, a Presbyterian? We are not told. How long every day did she sit reading the Bible? Was she high church or low church? What did she do with her Sabbath days? We do not know,—nothing was said about these items when Peter came to that upper room. The thing the women showed him were things that Dorcas made on week-days, no doubt. It was what she did on week-days that made her memorable and beloved. Now we do know one thing about her mind and heart. She is called simply a "disciple." She was a follower of the Lord Jesus, she believed in him above all. But having said this important thing about Dorcas, Luke (writing Acts) at once says, she was full of good works and charity. Maybe she was full of enthusiasm—of kind words—of true doctrine—of good looks—of education or what not. That was not the point. That was not the way she was remembered. She was full of good works.

In Our Time

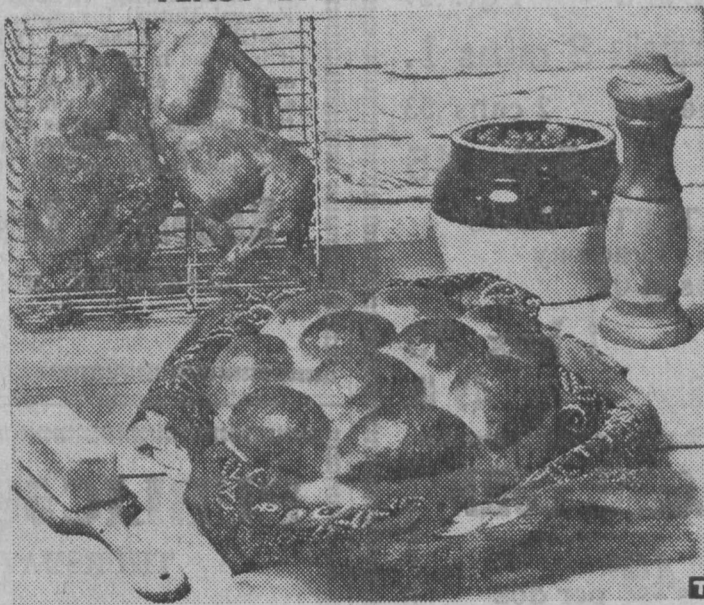

CONSERVATION OF THE NATION'S NATURAL RESOURCES, A PRECIOUS COMMODITY, HAS BECOME INCREASINGLY IMPORTANT TO AMERICA... AND TO AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

THROUGH CAREFUL RESEARCH AND PLANNING, INDUSTRY HAS BEEN ABLE TO OPERATE IN VIRGIN AREAS WHILE PROTECTING... AND IN SOME CASES IMPROVING... THE HABITAT OF WILDLIFE, GAME AND FISH.

IN LOUISIANA, FOR EXAMPLE, AN OIL PIPELINE ROUTE WAS CHANGED SO AS NOT TO DISTURB A COLONY OF RARE WHOOPING CRANES. AND OFF THE COAST OF CALIFORNIA AN AREA THAT WAS A VIRTUAL MARINE DESERT BECAME A FISHERMEN'S PARADISE AFTER RIGGS SUNK IN THE OCEAN FLOOR GATHERED BARNACLES AND VEGETATION THAT ATTRACTED FISH.

MANY CONSERVATIONISTS ARE FINDING THAT WILDLIFE AND INDUSTRY CAN BE COMPATIBLE WHEN MEN MOVE WITH UNDERSTANDING, RESTRAINT AND RESPONSIBILITY AMONG THE BEAUTIES OF NATURE.

BARBECUE ROLLS WIN SPECIAL YEAST BAKING AWARD

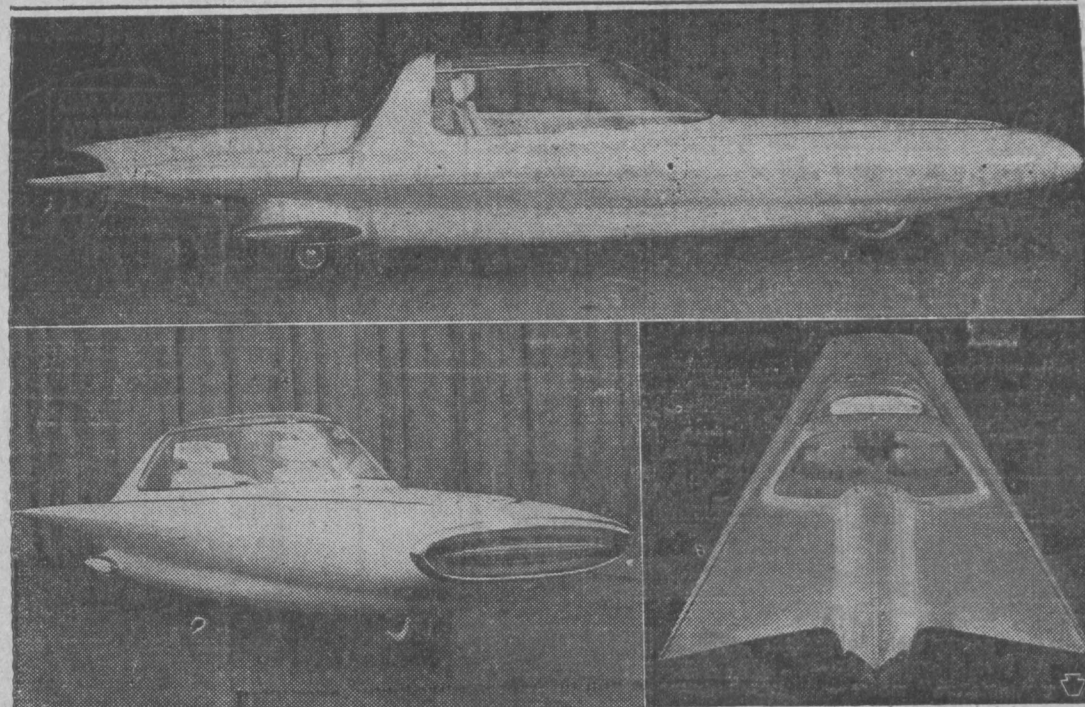

These barbecue rolls—which can double indoors as dinner rolls—are a good example of a prize-winning fair award recipe. Baked by Mrs. Henry J. Hanson, they won the very special Fleischmann's Yeast Best-of-Show Award at the Black Hills (South Dakota) Exposition. This year will again find women all over America entering yeast baking contests at many state and county fairs—competing for that coveted Fleischmann's Yeast prize—the special award for skill in the traditional art of baking for fair competition.

BARBECUE ROLLS

|---|--|
| 1 package or cake Fleischmann's Yeast, Active Dry or Compressed | 1 1/2 cups warm, not hot water |
| 1/2 cup very warm water | 6 cups sifted flour (about) |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1/2 cup softened, not melted, shortening |
| 1/2 cup non-fat dry milk solids | |

Dissolve Fleischmann's Yeast in very warm water. Measure sugar, dry milk solids, salt and water into large bowl. Add three cups of flour; beat well. Add and beat in shortening. Stir in remaining flour to make soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush top with soft shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes. Shape into balls the size of an egg. Place in 2 greased 9-inch round pans or on greased baking sheets 2 inches apart. Cover. Let rise until very light, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15-20 minutes. Remove from oven and brush with melted margarine or butter. Make 20.

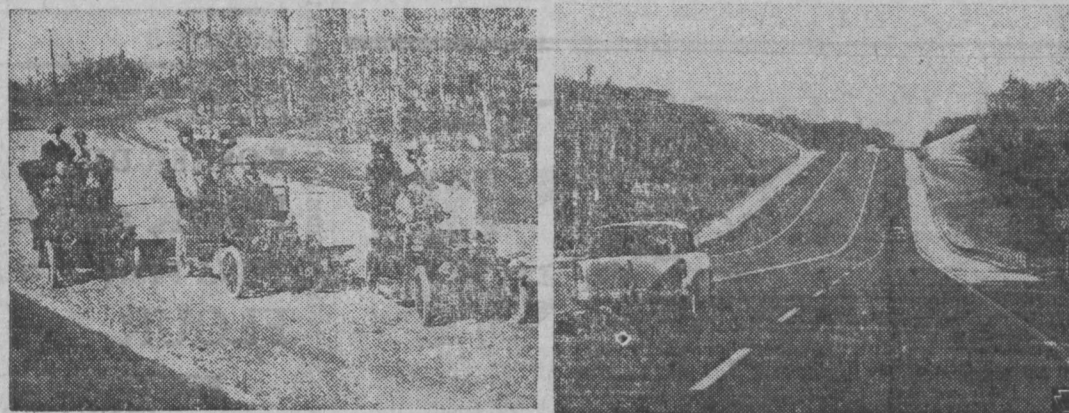

FORD UNVEILS DREAM CAR

Two running wheels instead of the usual four, together with its unique delta shape, mark the Gyron as a novel experiment in possible future automotive styling. Shown above in three views, the full-size dream car was developed by Ford Motor Company advanced stylists under the direction of George W. Walker, Ford vice president and director of styling. The stylists assume that the vehicle could be stabilized by means of a gyroscope mounted just behind the passenger compartment. Two small outrigger wheels at the rear would retract when the gyro was in operation. A steering dial between two contoured seats replaces the conventional steering wheel and makes it possible for the car to be steered from either seat.

Road Research Aids Motorist

From This . . . THROUGH RESEARCH . . . To This

Motorists—who pay twice for maintenance of public roads, first for taxes to repair the roads and second for the delays and inconvenience while the roads are out of service—may soon be in for a break. For in more than 50 specific locations across the country, local and state highway and paving specialists have put down and are now testing a new type of pavement that promises to extend pavement life and reduce deterioration resulting from traffic and weather.

The new pavement consists of conventional asphalt paving mixtures, with the addition of from 2 to 3% of asbestos fibers. According to the results of an intensive and extended laboratory and field testing program conducted by the Johns-Manville Research Center, adding such small quantities of asbestos fiber to asphalt paving mixtures may double serviceable road life. It is also possible that the paving thickness can be considerably reduced and still give an improved service compared with a thicker pavement of conventional asphalt mix, thereby effecting no increase in overall cost.

Proof of the wearing qualities of asbestos-asphalt mixes is given by numerous such pavements laid during the 1920's.

Many of these are still in satisfactory service, in spite of the fact that forty years ago road engineers were not concerned with today's heavyweight trucks and automobiles.

Johns-Manville also reports that asbestos-asphalt is being tested for use in problem pavements, such as air strips utilized by jet airplanes, or heavily travelled access roads to super highways, and at bus stops where extremely heavy wheel loads and the effects of diesel exhausts tend to ruin asphalt paving in short order. As a result of this program, the use of asbestos-asphalt has been specified in New York City for resurfacing pavements over high-pressure steam lines.

Both laboratory and highway tests have demonstrated that the cost of adding asbestos fiber to asphalt paving mixes is slight, compared to the savings expected. A total of 5.5 billion dollars was spent on road construction and 2.469 billion dollars on road maintenance during 1960 alone.

Johns-Manville has not merely done the research and then left it to local highway engineers to feel their way along in determining the best approach to a local test program. J-M also offers the services of its asbestos research and engineering staffs to local state, and municipal road officials and highway engineers without charge. To date these specialists have assisted in the design and laying of asbestos-asphalt test strips in every part of the country.

A number of paving companies have already started to use asbestos-asphalt pavements. Recent commercial applications include several city streets in New York City, six acres of recreational fields at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado, heavy equipment yards in Charleston, West Virginia, a roof parking deck in Brookline, Massachusetts, and many others.

Interest in the potentialities of asbestos-asphalt pavement is spreading. Requests for technical information have been received by Johns-Manville from eight foreign countries including Indonesia, Peru, Japan, and the East Africa area. The Soviet Union has used short asbestos fiber in cold asphalt pavement for ten years with excellent performance reported to date.

With results coming in from such a large number of closely controlled tests, it appears that in the near future the American motorist will be reaping the benefits of this present-day highway research aimed at improving paving materials.

H. I. F. Reports

U. S. Death Rate Down 45% Since 1900

Mortality rates, the best available measure of a nation's health level, have dropped by almost one-half in this country in the last 60 years, Health Information Foundation reports.

The Foundation, reviewing published and unpublished data of the National Office of Vital Statistics, points out that the annual U.S. death rate in 1900 was 17.2 per 1,000 persons. (See chart.) The 1960 rate, as estimated by the Foundation research staff, was only 9.4 per 1,000—a reduction of about 45 per cent.

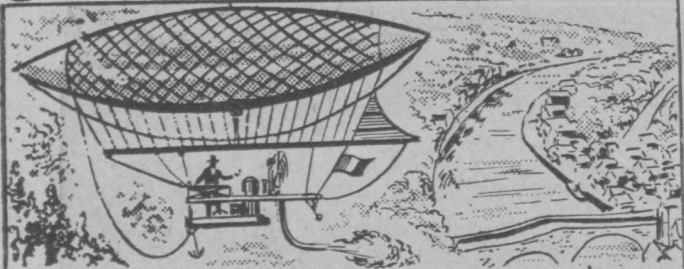

Moreover, when the actual mortality rates are adjusted to a standard population (to eliminate the effect of changes in age composition over the years), the estimated 1960 death rate is only 7.7 per 1,000—less than one-half the comparable 1900 rate. One of the main reasons for the decline in mortality has been the fact that the major communicable diseases—leading causes of death in 1900—have been largely brought under control. As George Bugbee, Foundation President, points out: "Children do not die in epidemics as they once did. The benefits have been almost as great to persons in the child-bearing and chief work years. These are precious attainments, leading to more stable family life and a more active work force."

HOLLYWOOD COMEDIAN BOB HOPE is equally at home on the golf course or the movie set. He has a chance to prove it in the new film "Facts of Life" where he and Lucille Ball team up as the zaniest pair of duffers to invade the fairways in many a day. Despite the clowning, Bob can hold his own in pretty tough golf competition. Bob also believes in making golf a game, not a hike. He prefers to ride around the course in a Cushman Golfster instead of tramping several miles in the average 18-hole match. Hope also finds that using Cushman Golfsters for fairway transportation allows him to fit a quick game into his busy schedule.

ODDLY ENOUGH by WALDMAN

The first airship engine built in France in 1852 provided only three hp... but weighed 350 pounds! Thirty years went by before a lighter engine — 240 lbs. and 9 horsepower — gave us the first navigable airship.

In order to power their lightweight glider, the Wright brothers had to build a "miniature" motor — 170 pounds! Auto engines of the day were much too heavy.

Newest development in miniature motor power — weighing only one-ninth of an ounce — is made by the A. W. Haydon Company of Waterbury, Conn. Important for guided missiles, it powers computer timing devices.

IT'S SHAPE UP TIME, for Outdoor Motor Queen Kam Higon, 19, of Coral Gables, Florida, who wants to be sure she's in trim to defend her crown. An Art student at the University of Miami, the statuesque blonde measures up quite well to the standards of perfection set by the "ideal weight" chart from Wesson's new "Cook Book of Glorious Eating for Weight Watchers". She plans to make a few minor adjustments to match the figure in her scale with the appropriate one on the chart, and then, with the help of the menus and recipes in the cook book, she'll maintain her perfect weight without giving up her favorite, formerly-forbidden foods like pizza, pie, pancakes and potatoes.

The basic theory of the "weight watchers cook book", with which Kam wholeheartedly agrees, is that you don't have to count calories all your life in order to have a good figure. You don't have to go on spasmodic crash diets either. Instead, you just find your individual daily calorie requirements, and develop eating habits that will keep you within them. That way, feels the athletic beauty queen, you can have your cake and eat it too.
