HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

On Friday evening, May 10, the auditorium of Taneytown High School was transported 300 miles south of the Mason-Dixon where it took on the gaiety and charm of the Old South.

The occasion was the annual Jr.-Sr.

Banquet and Prom attended by approximately 175 members of the Junior and Senior classes.

The enchantment of a "Plantation Paradica" respectively.

Upon entering the auditorium, attention was immediately focused on the attractive centerpiece, a crystal pool arched by a curved wooden bridge and surrounded by a lovely rock garden, an ideal spot for photo-

The bandstand depicted a Southern Mansion with its wide door, over-hanging roof, and graceful columns. The walls of the auditorium were transplanted into rose arbors by white rose trellises bedecked with over 3,700 red roses against a back-ground of blue. The sky appeared as a mantle of blue, crowned by a golden moon and silver stars.

Prior to the dancing, those in attendance enjoyed a banquet served by members of the sophomore class. The menu included roast turkey, potato salad, peas, corn muffins, des-sert, coffee, and iced tea. The waiters and witresses were costumed as Negro slaves, the girls wearing red skirts, white blouses, and red ker-chiefs, while the boys wore white shirts, black trousers, and long red stockings. Music for dancing was provided by the Mel-O-Tones, a five-piece orchestra from Hanover. The lovely music beautiful decorations, and good food all helped to make "Plantation Paradise" a dream come true that will long be remembered.

The Student Council will sponsor a Talent Show on Friday afternoon in the high school auditorium. This is an annual program and has always been well-received. Students from grades 7-12 will participate.

Time for Action

Now that sign-up time is past, Now that sign-up time is past, don't think that the fight on this wheat referendum, May 21, is over. Remember, we can have all the necessary people signed-up but if these same people don't go to the polls and exercise their right to vote . . . we have not won.

have not won.

Each and every one of you who are now eligible to vote must go to our assigned polls and vote "NO!"

This is similar to a presidential election, everyone thinks that the favorite candidate will win hands down... so they don't bother to even go to the polls. They say they have more important things to do! What is more important to the farmer? Loosing his freedom to manage his farm as his conscience dictates or farm as his conscience dictates or keeping this agriculture in the hands of the farmer? Another thing to think about is the fact that if one-half of the people voting, vote yes, but not two-thirds or enough to make it pass, they will bring it back again next year . . . majority rules as usual. The next time it comes up they will have even more help to "SELL" the program to the farmer. Besides all of the government agencies that have been utilized they will have the county A.S.C. committeemen working for the program. As of July 1, the per-sons elected by us in free election, to represent us on the committees must sign a pledge to support each and every program that the government tries to sell. Lutheran World Action

Lutherans in Taneytown (Carroll County) are being asked on May 19 to contribute through regular or special offerings toward a $4,450,000 goal set for the 1963 "Lutheran World Action" appeal, an annual effort to support a world-wide program for millions of hungry, siek and homeless.

That date has been designated as "Lutheran World Action Sunday," when special emphasis will be given to this aid program in Lutheran churches across the nation.

The Rev. Howard W. Miller, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Taney-town said some congregations of the town, said some congregations of the denomination may also have stressed the LWA effort last March 24, the day set aside as "One Great Hour of Sharing Sunday."

On the "One Great Hour" observance, the 1963 United Appeal of Protestant Churches in America, a simultaneous emphasis was given to simultaneous emphasis was given to the several denominational paigns. The total goal of these drives this year is over $15,000,000. The Lutheran World Action effort, promoted through National Lutheran Council church bodies, represents nearly one-third of the total united Protestant appeal.

The nation's Protestant churches support a vast network of overseas aid projects—shipment and distribution of food, clothing and medicine; aid to disaster victims; provision of tools and equipment for self-help and community development projects; and the establishment and maintenance of numerous health, welfare and educational institutions and programs.

Efforts to ease global hunger play a dominant role in virtually all of the denominational and voluntary cam-paigns for overseas relief. In this regard, the churches have expressed their concern and support for the purposes of the "Freedom from Hunger" campaign of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the U.S. Government's

"Food for Peace" program.

As noted by the Rev. Rollin G.
Shaffer, chairman of the nation-wide
Protestant appeal and assistant di-Protestant appeal and assistant director of Lutheran World Action, the UN campaign as well as LWA and other denominational programs are concerned not only with supplying food to the starving and undernourished, but also are broadening their activities in agricultural improvement and health and nutrition projects.

As a specific example he cited the LWA grant of $25,000 that will help start a model farm and agricultura training center in Brazil. Also, food distribution and health and nutrition education projects are conducted in many countries by denominational agencies, often in cooperation with

LWA will provide over $600,000 for the widespread LWR effort, give nearly $500.000 to the Lutheran military ministry, which builds and sus-tains centers for servicemen around the globe, and devote some $200,000 to interchurch aid and relief projects administered through ecumenical Underscored in most programs are community development projects, a variety of aid projects based on recognition that help is most enduringly valuable when it assists people to help themeslves. Of the 1963 LWA budget, over $2,500,000 is earmarked for the world-wide service and mission programs — many of them in community development—of the Lutheran World Federation.

Other programs and projects supported by the appeal include the LWF "Voice of the Gospel" radio station at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, which began shortwave broadcasting in February and is reaching listeners throughout Africa and many parts of Asia. American Lutherans gave $375,000 through LWA toward establishment of the station and will carry a major share of operating expenses.

The Lutheran appeal also supports the Lutheran Immigration Service, another NLC-Missouri Synod venture which has assisted thousands of homeless, and in the past year has aided Chinese immigrants from Hong Kong and started a center for Cuban refugees in Miami.

A ministry to migrant construction workers and military families in temporary communities in the U.S. also draws support from the LWA appeal.

ANNUAL MAILBOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK

The week of May 20-25, 1963, has been designated Mailbox Improvement Week by the Post Office Department. Now is the time to paint that old rusted mail box, or if unserviceable, replace it with a new approved-type one. Make sure the box is mounted on a good firm support and has a flag. Names of the owners should be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door if boxes are grouped together. Your usual kind cooperation is requested in this annual program.

He said it would require a minimum of 75 letters to get his name re- "Now that the rules on expense acmoved from mailing lists, including count deductions have been tightened, those of many charitable institutions, maybe we can get back to entertaincivic organizations and local merchants. Even this effort would be meaningless, since governmental agencies must write him about licenses, waxes and similar annoying matters.

This recommendation is like tel-Hing a newspaper editor, whose mail is usually the heaviest in town, to tell his correspondents he does not want letters from them unless they contain orders for advertising. In a matter of days, he would be without news or advertising and, consequently, out of business.

Mr. Sackheim was particularly incensed at the scornful treatment of business mail, much of which originates through newspaper advertising. He told the postmaster that this adwertising contributed $29 billion to the nation's economy in 1961 alone.

"Instead of suggesting punitive measures, you should encourage your customers to read all of their mail. That's what the post office is for," he wrote.

Perhaps the postmasters over-Booked an important personal matter - How they would keep their jobs if they had only first class mail to deliver.

HANDS THAT HELPED SAVE A LIFE

The operator answered the signal-only to hear the incoherent mumbling of a child.

She and her supervisor listened patiently until they understood that the youngster had burned herself badly. Then, she hung up without giving her name or address.

Holding the line open, the operator called the man on the Test Desk. With another man's help, he traced the number through the Dial Office. An ambulance was quickly sent to the address.

Meanwhile another operator stayed on the line, questioning the child when she came back on. Once she had secured a neighbor's name, the operator called and asked her to go to the child's aid.

Within minutes, help was by the side of the eleven-year-old girl.

That morning, she had missed her school bus and returned to her empty home. Her clothes became ablaze when she backed into the fire she had started in the fireplace.

Peanut-Resistant Parking Meter

New York, N. Y.—Some day elephants will learn peanuts can't operate parking meters. The seven-mile trek from the railroad yard to Madison Square Garden wearied Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus performer, "Susie". She pulled out of the elephant line to rest at one of the city's new Nautec Corporation Duncan vandal-resistant parking meters. But the peanut didn't work. Fortunately an elephant admirer came along with a dime. Meanwhile, the meters are not only defying peanuts, but since installation six months ago, they have reduced New York's meter vandal problem by 95 per cent.

In the "wee" hours Sunday morning some our folks at the East end of the "Burg," were awakened by a noise. It is reported a young man going home from a dance fell asleep at the wheel, his car ran into a teleat the wheel, his car ran into a telephone pole and breaking it in three pieces, knocked over four mail boxes then ran into a bank before coming to a stop. The Telephone Co. replaced the pole on Sunday morning, but who will put up the mail boxes? The reis go home before you get so sleepy.
You, young man, can thank your Maker that your life was spared. It is reported that 80,000 car accidents have occurred in Maryland in the past year. What a waste of life and money.

Deliverance

Lesson for May 19, 1963

Bible Material: Psalms 91; 107. Devotional Reading: Psalm 13:1-6.

DOES God guarantee that His children will not get into trouble? There is a well-known song one line of which is: "Nothing you ask will be denied." Is this true? Experience says, No. The notion that God rewards those who honor

Him by giving them a carefree

life with all their wants supplied, is a very old notion. It seems to be found in the Bible. So there have been persons who would say that happiness is a kind of index Dr. Foreman to goodness; find man in deep trouble and there you have a man in deep sin. Find a man in peace and prosperity and there you have a man of blameless life. What God promises

There are places in the Old Testament (none in the New) where the idea just described seems to be found. But in the first place, this Psalm 91 which seems to promise a charmed life to God's people is a poem, and poets are never matter-of-fact. In the second place, this poet must have been acquainted with some of the more ugly facts of life, and indeed from his own writing we can see that he did not shut his eyes to all the evils in the world. A part of this poem, often overlooked, is at the end (verses 14-16). From the piled-up promises of God there spoken, three call for special no-tice. What God promises is first of all deliverance. The very word deliverance suggests trouble. A mother near the end of her life looks back and thinks, "How did I ever make it? I've gone to bed many a night hardly able to hope that I'd live till daylight. I've got up many a morning feeling that I'd go crazy before sundown. If it wasn't the children it was the bills, it was always something. But somehow God always gave me a song in the night, and somehow He pulled me through." -

Protection

That's deliverance.

But deliverance is not always of the same kind. One day a business man who had been on a trip wired home to his wife that he was safe though his plane had crashed When he got home, the whole fam ily knelt in gratitude to the God who had protected this husband and father. But the man took a plane several times each week This was the first time he had ever been in a plane that crashed What about the occasions, trips by night and day in all weathers. where no accident had occurred

This Psalm 91, by the way, is one that (according to Matthew) the devil quoted. According to the devil (who may well have known better), Psalm 91 means that no matter what you do, God will keep you from being hurt. He tried to get Jesus to jump to the ground from a high part of the Temple, expecting angels to be on hand to keep Him from so much as a stubbed toe. Jesus refused to try this. Not that He was afraid, Jesus never feared danger. But He did not believe that God's protection is offered to those who deliberately get themselves into trouble. It's one thing to pray for safety on a plane flight. It's quite another thing to take off in a light plane by yourself when the weather bureau says DON"

"I will be with Him" One of the most joyful promises of God is this: "I will be with Him in trouble." There is something better than being kept always out of trouble. That is to be in trouble with the Lord in there too, at one's side. A great host of God's saints have found that to be true. Paul was one of the most famous of these. The "thorn in the flesh" was not removed; instead, he learned that God's strength is made perfect in weak-ness. A preacher in a rough slum was interrupted in his sermon by a man who shouted: "You're a liar! You've never had trouble like I've had. Wait till you've had real trouble and you'll sing another song." The preacher went on as best he could after that, but did not see the man afterwards. Within the month, the preacher's wife died, and the funeral was held in the little chapel in the slums. At the service the minister himself stood by the casket and "If the man is here who heckled me the other day, there is something I want to say to him. I have lost the one dearest to me in the world; but God has never been closer than now." The heckler was there; and that simple testimony brought him to Christ. To have lots of blooms you must have lots of vigorous, healthy leaves. To make sure of having them - do just three things

- 1. DISEASE and insects destroy leaves -but a weekly application of HAZE will give them thorough protection.
- 2. WATER. See that your beds get at least 1-2" a week - rain or spray. 3. FOOD. A monthly feeding with Scotts
