LABOR DAY 1963

We are on the threshold of another Labor Day. And a vast change has taken place in this institution and the cause it stands for in the decades that have passed since its first observance. Labor has grown strong—stronger, very likely, than its leaders of another and simpler age could have imagined.

Nowhere else in the world has labor earned and gained so many material benefits as it has in the United States. The "blue collar" man has caught up with his "white collar" counterpart in earnings and living standards and in many instances passed him by. Labor can take well justified pride in this achievement.

But the high status of labor, and labor's power, involve another element. That element is responsibility. Labor can no longer be content with just pursuing its differences with management. It has another and a larger duty. That is to help provide the quality of industrial statesmanship that is so urgently needed if this country is to maintain its position in an increasingly competitive world.

Next September 2, deserved honors will be paid to labor. May it go on and earn, through wise accomplishment, still higher honors.

—Industrial News Review

FACTS AND OPINIONS

From the New York Times: "On the basis of preliminary figures for the 1963 fiscal budget, the Kennedy Administration is patting itself on the back for holding the deficit to $6.2 billion, well below the $8.8 billion deficit it estimated last January. It conveniently forgets that when the budget was first drawn up there were hopes for a small surplus. It does not mention that the record of the last three years shows a cumulative deficit of over $16 billion, with still more red ink in store for the current fiscal year. In short, the Administration has not yet got the budget under control."

According to health insurance industry reports, more than half of the nearly 18 million people who are 65 and older have some form of coverage. A number of big insurance companies have been conducting intensive enrollment drives aimed at persons in that age group.

"Tough guy takes granny to Coney Island for a pizza." This sentence contains the trading floor nicknames of four companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The brokers, like professionals in many other fields, have coined a language all their own, which helps them carry on their work under often-difficult conditions.

National Review says: "Practicing what they preach is proving quite a problem for Liberia and the Cameroons which, with the other African nations at Addis Ababa assembled, declared ideological war on Portugal and South Africa. Liberia decided to show its displeasure by expelling all Portuguese to be found within her boundaries—all six of them, as it turned out. The Cameroons fired off a tart note breaking diplomatic relations, and didn't much like it when Lisbon replied by pointing out that much as it would like to oblige, the two countries never had any diplomatic ties which they now could break. Very well then, said the Cameroons, we will instead close all our ports and airfields to Portuguese ships and planes—a prohibition which has not visibly upset Lisbon since the last Portuguese sailor to touch shore in the Cameroons was, historians appear to agree, Vasco de Gama."

The new office building of the House of Representatives, which has been called "squat and unappealing," has the distinction of being the most expensive office building in the world. The official estimate of its cost in 1959 was $64 million; the latest figure is $131.5 million. By way of contrast, New York City's newest skyscraper, 38 stories high, cost only $41 million, land and all.

"In order to discover anything, one must be looking for something," states Dr. Harvey A. Neville, president of Lehigh University. He calls this his first Law of Serendipity—serendipity being "the happy faculty of making discoveries one is not in search of." Thus, Columbus discovered America; Roentgen, the X-rays; Goodyear, the vulcanization of rubber; and Madame Curie, radium.

President Edwin P. Neilan of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States observes: "The American enterprise system can provide the productive growth, the employment, the ever-rising standard of prosperity that all of us expect and demand of it; it can compete successfully in world markets; it can support the legitimate security commitments which this nation must undertake to meet the challenge of Communism and preserve the free world." But, he adds in effect, this will happen only if an aroused and informed citizenry demands that the system be given the chance.

Gas, one of the oldest energy sources, has undergone such growth in recent years that it now provides 29 per cent of the nation's energy requirements.

C. Vann Woodward writes, in his "The American Character": "We have to assume that other peoples in the world simply do not have our fortunate history. We have got to recognize a world where there is diversity, not one divided into two antagonistic forces in a cold war but a world in which there are many kinds of peoples, with very different cultures. What is good for America is not necessarily going to be good for other people. We cannot export all the values that we ourselves love and cherish."

According to the American Red Cross, farming is the third most dangerous occupation in the country, exceeded only by mining and quarrying and the building industry. In one recent year, there was a total of 8,700 deaths and 800,000 injuries from accidents to farm residents. The Red Cross emphasizes that safety consciousness and accident prevention knowledge for farm people can be acquired in the courses taught by its chapters throughout the country.

Chairman Joseph C. Swidler of the Federal Power Commission says: "I have every reason to believe that the Atomic Energy Commission would not approve any nuclear power plant unless it was absolutely safe."

SCHOOL'S OPEN BY DICK MANSFIELD

September means "Back to School" for boys and girls throughout our state, and for the motorist it means CAUTION to protect child life. The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission points out the appalling fact that traffic accidents kill more children from one to fifteen years of age than any disease. Protecting the children of your community against the dangers of disastrous accidents is everybody's job—it is the responsibility of parents, motorists and the child himself. Therefore, if the parents will set a good example by obeying all traffic regulations—Teach their youngsters habits of safety—And urge them to play in safe places, this will help them become self-reliant and safe at all times.

Young People's Science Lab

Making An Air Thermometer. You can easily make an air thermometer by following these simple directions from the Young People's Science Encyclopedia: 1. Locate two empty ink bottles or similar containers. Purchase a one-holed stopper for one of the bottles, or make one by drilling a hole in the center of a cork. It will be necessary to put wax around the hole after a piece of glass tubing has been inserted to make the bottle airtight. 2. Fill the second bottle with colored water. Invert the bottle with the stopper over the second bottle, and immerse the end of the glass tube into the solution. 3. Fasten this apparatus to a wooden support. 4. A scale may be calibrated from the readings of a commercial thermometer. When the temperature drops, does the fluid go up or come down in the tube? Does air expand or contract when it gets colder? DID YOU KNOW?

Millions of American youngsters will soon be heading back to school. From the pages of the Encyclopedia Americana, here are some facts about our nation's educational system that may be new to you. In 1636, the Colony of Massachusetts allotted 400 pounds (about $1100), to establish a school of higher learning. Two years later, a clergyman named John Harvard died and bequeathed his library to the new school - which politely took his name - "Harvard." For 60 years, it was the only institution of higher learning in the Colonies. In 1960, California alone spent over $724 million dollars on education. First school to admit women was Oberlin College of Ohio in 1833. However, women students were kept segregated from their male counterparts - could not even become eligible for degrees until 1837. Today, 1,469,000 coeds trod academic halls. Boston, Cradle of Liberty, claims several American educational "firsts." Boston Latin School, the first grammar school was established in 1635 - and the first public High School opened in Boston in 1821. New York City quickly followed suit with a public High School in 1825.

Wall Flowers Are Popular

Artistically-minded home decorators will have fun and will brighten any room in the home when they make this geometric flower pot wall decoration. It's a framed, fiberboard panel with various sized pieces of wood arranged in a creatively simple and interesting design. For the frame, use 1/2-inch thick pieces of wood. For the inner sides of the frame, use 1/4-inch strips of wood molding mitered at the edges. You can use a variety of small wooden objects for the flower pot itself: round wood plant stays, building pegs, wooden dowels, spools, or pieces from an old Tinkertoy set. When the pieces are arranged in an artistic design, glue them to a sheet of white paper covering the fiberboard with Elmer's Glue-All, the white plastic glue that dries in a few minutes. Detailed instructions for this wall decoration plus many other do-it-yourself projects appear in McCall's Needlework and Crafts Magazine, now available at most pattern counters and newsstands.

The Board was advised regarding plans for inspection of public school busses on August 19 and 20 and a general meeting for the training of drivers on August 23 under the direction of Mr. Geo. Baker, Supervisor of Transportation, with the assistance of Mr. Chas. Ecker, Assistant Superintendent.
The Board was also given advise regarding plans for the holding of a school lunch workshop under the direction of Mrs. Josephine West, Supervisor of School Lunch and Cafeterias, during the week of August 19. Members were also presented with information regarding the preliminary and orientation meetings scheduled for the week beginning August 26 and including a special meeting of principals on Monday, August 26; a meeting of new teachers on Wednesday, August 28 and a meeting of all teaching personnel, including principals, on Thursday, August 29 at which the featured speaker will be Philip Lovejoy, noted speaker and educator.
The Board heard a report in connection with requested transfers on the part of parents of schools nearest their homes. The progress and planning in this area was given approval.
The Board noted the successful completion of negotiations resulting in the purchase of land as a school site in Oakland Mills and other negotiations related to land improvement. They heard a report in connection with the grading and improvement of the Westminster High School land with the objective of providing up-to-date facilities for track and field events to be used by the Westminster High School and, also, to be available for county and community use. The project includes grading, draining and the construction of a 440 yd. modern running track. It also includes seeding of the graded areas, said seeding to be accomplished through the use of the county maintenance crew and school owned equipment.
The Board heard a report regarding the building progress at Freedom and Sandymount Schools which are expected to be opened for occupancy at the opening of schools.
The Board also took important action to again re-state its position with respect to the planning of a consolidated high school in the southern part of the county. The Superintendent was authorized to consult with designated architects regarding the preliminary planning of this building which is visualized as a building to take care of senior high school pupils from Franklin, Berrett, Freedom and parts of Westminster and Woolery's Districts. This action of the Board indicated a definite disposition on the part of the Board to proceed with the planning of this building to accommodate an expected substantial increase in pupils in the southern part of the county. The building is to be planned with the idea of providing a comprehensive program of secondary education, meeting as nearly as possible the needs of the secondary school population in the southern part of the county, including staff and facilities for secondary school offerings in the academic, general and vocational field.
The Board concluded an agreement related to the construction of a pipeline and electric service facilities on a part of the Mechanicsville School ground.
The Superintendent announced that the total teaching staff, with the exception of one unexpected vacancy, was complete and that school officials were expecting an orderly and satisfactory opening of schools on September 3.
Adjournment was at 1:00 P. M.

Lesson for September 1, 1963

Bible Material: Genesis 29 through 36
Devotional Reading: Mark 10:13-23.

ONE of the strange stories in Genesis is this one of Jacob at the brook Jabbok. Are we expected to understand this story literally or figuratively? and if it is a literal story, was Jacob wrestling with an angel (Hosea 12:4), or a man (Genesis 32:24,25), or God Himself (Genesis 32:30)? If you had been there with a camera and a flash bulb, what could you have seen? The best thing to do with stories like that, hard to take hold of and understand, is to ask one question about the story and stick to that. We have no doubt what the incident meant to Jacob. For him it was more than an incident, it was the high moment of all his life. "I have seen God face to face," he said; "and yet my life is preserved."

Dr. Foreman

like that, hard to take hold of and understand, is to ask one question about the story and stick to that. We have no doubt what the incident meant to Jacob. For him it was more than an incident, it was the high moment of all his life. "I have seen God face to face," he said; "and yet my life is preserved."

A man before and after

Last week we thought about the story of Jacob and Beth-el, and raised the question: was Jacob converted there? It does not seem likely, because Jacob was the same sort of sharp dealer afterwards as he was before. He had been working for his uncle Laban for around 20 years between the night at Beth-el and the night at Peniel (you notice Jacob named both places), and in all that time, while Laban was a tricky man to deal with, and cheated his son-in-law in various ways, it is clear that Jacob was taking Laban for a ride at the same time. Each one was trying to get some unfair advantage over the other. Observe also what he did the day before that fateful night at the brook Jabbok. He was about to meet his brother Esau, and though 20 years had passed since Esau swore he would kill his brother Jacob, Jacob feared Esau had not forgotten his bloodthirsty vow. So he sent some enormous presents ahead to "make Esau feel better, and then he sent his family, and then he stayed behind. A cheat and a coward both. But after that night of struggle, Jacob was a changed man. He goes out bravely in front of his family to meet Esau; and from that day on, while there was much sorrow in his later years, we do not hear of any more sins.

Turning point

"By their fruits you shall know them," said Jesus, speaking of human beings as well as fruit trees and shrubs. Only God can see the heart, but neighbors and a man's family can see the life. Conversion affects the way a person talks and works and plays, it makes a difference with what it takes to make him happy. Conversion can no more be concealed, when it is real, than spring-time can be. Spring "bursts out" as we say; and so does conversion. But true conversion, such as we may believe Jacob's to have been, is not merely a change in behavior. It can be imitated by any one who can mimic or imitate the way converted people act; but the genuine can be told apart from the fake by the fact that the genuine conversion "stays put" while the fake breaks down when serious dangers or difficulties arise in the path. What makes a real conversion real? It is the fact that it is rooted in the inmost life, centered in and growing in and from the heart. God does not promise us good habits which will produce good hearts; He promises new hearts that will express themselves in good habits.

God's house or God's face?

So the great turning points of life are those in which something vital and radical occurs in the inner life. Now we may ask: Why did this not happen at Beth-el and why did it happen at Peniel? A clue to this may be found in those two words themselves. Beth-el means House of God and Peniel means Face of God. At the one place Jacob thought he had found (so to speak) God's front door. At the other place he met the God who has no doors, the God who comes to meet men in lonely and terrible places, the God whose goings cannot be scheduled and whose house not even the heaven of heavens can contain. A man may go to the house of God, yes even to church, and not see God there at all. Most people are interested in their friends first and in their friends' houses second. Maybe the reason why there are so many not-quite-converted people around is that so many of them think that just going to the "house of God" is enough. A Beth-el conversion is not enough.

LABOR DAY

BY DICK MANSFIELD

Labor Day is the nation's annual salute to the working man, and year after year he celebrates his respite from work in traditional fashion by jamming the streets and highways as he heads for his favorite recreational spot to enjoy this last holiday of the summer season. The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission warns that too many people die and are injured in traffic accidents, especially on holiday weekends. Death is tragic, but many people live on to experience the horrible suffering and permanent disabilities due to the mutilation received in these senseless traffic accidents. We must do something to prevent this tragic recurrence on Labor Day Weekend 1963. Let's make this holiday the safest in history. It can be done if drivers and pedestrians everywhere will keep constantly aware of their personal responsibility to drive and walk with care and consideration. Only drivers make traffic records. No one else can do it, so please keep your personal responsibility in mind when you are behind the wheel on Labor Day Weekend—And every other day, too. Let your driving proclaim to the world you are a driver with an adult sense of responsibility—A driver with the good sense to slow down and live!

"Silvery Moon Ball"

Charles G. Petry, Westminster, will serve as general chairman on the annual "Silvery Moon Ball," sponsored by the Carroll County General Hospital Auxiliary. The date has been set for Saturday, September 28, and the Ball will be held at the Westminster Riding Club. The committee met Monday in the cafeteria of the hospital. The theme for the Ball this year will be "Just South of Gettysburg," appropriate this year with the recent Civil War Centennial and the publishing of the county history of the Civil War book, "Just South of Gettysburg." This will be the major social function of the auxiliary during the year. The hostesses will be: Mrs. Edw. O. Bollinger, chairman; Mrs. John Dahlgreen, Jr., and Mrs. Charles G. Petry.

Mrs. Olin Grimes, president of the auxiliary, is assisting Mr. Petry in the dance arrangements. Eltinge F. Reifsnider is assisting with the dance decorations. Mrs. Charles Shipley is in charge of the souvenir program with the aid of the various district chairmen and Mrs. Lester Phillips is handling the associate patrons list. Reservations for the dance are in charge of Mrs. Paul Stimax, 191 Washington Rd., Westminster, phone 848-7625 after 6:00 P. M.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Tony Geiman and his Twilight Three. The next meeting of the committee will be held September 16 at 11:30 A. M. in the hospital cafeteria. The auxiliary will hold their quarterly meeting on Monday, November 11 at 8:00 P. M. in the hospital cafeteria.

I WALK MY BLUES AWAY

All of us have days when just about everything seems to go wrong. At such times, we tend to feel aggravated and dispirited. Each of us, no doubt, has some favorite method for overcoming such negative feelings. Personally, weather permitting, I like to walk my blues away. Out in God's wonderful world of nature, who can long harbor feelings of anxiety and discomfort! It is not necessary to walk for miles. Just a short stroll accomplishes wonders toward getting me back on an even keel. Since this particular day has not gone at all smoothly, I decided to resort to this healing diversion.

As usual, wherever I go, I always take special notice of the birds. For sometime now, the Baltimore Orioles have been absent from their usual haunts, and frankly, I have missed them. And so, when I stepped out into the yard and heard their familiar whistle again, my spirits received a real lift. Sure enough, there were several of my old friends flitting around in the South Carolina Poplar. By the way, Orioles are members of the Blackbird family.

As I wandered down beside the corn field, I heard the pretty little song of the Indigo Bunting. Then I spotted the little fellow, perched atop a corn stalk. This bird, a member of the Finch family, is a lovely deep shade of blue all over. From a distance, it appears to be black. The Indigo Bunting does not ever remotely resemble the Blue Bird, which is of a lighter blue with a rusty breast.

Going on a little further, I was roundly scolded by a pair of Field Sparrows, with their young. They thoroughly disapproved of me. There are many kinds of Sparrows, and for the novice they are difficult to distinguish. The Field Sparrow is the only one which sports a pink bill. This, we might say, is its "trade mark."

A Gold Finch next came into view. The male, a bright yellow bird with black wings, looks like a wild Canary. The female is a subdued olive shade. Gold Finches are easily identified by their unique "roller coaster" flight.

Down near the woods, for one brief moment, a gorgeous Ring-necked Pheasant stood very still; then crowing excitedly, he flashed away. These exotic birds are year-round residents in this area, and hardly a day passes that we do not see at least one. Nevertheless, I am always thrilled at the sight of them.

As I retraced my steps and walked back to the lane, I heard the strange call of the Cuckoo. Then I spotted him, almost hidden among the leaves of a tall tree. This particular variety is the yellow-billed Cuckoo. He is a very handsome and graceful bird, with a brown back and white breast. The tail is long and drooping, with large white spots. Cuckoos are usually rather shy and hard to get acquainted with. However, a few weeks ago, I saw one in the South Carolina Poplar, which is right outside of my kitchen window. I felt quite honored to have him as my guest.

My walk did not take more than half an hour. Yet I returned from it much more calm and cheerful than when I left. Once again, as on so many other occasions, I had succeeded in walking my blues away.

—Zola Cantwell.
