GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

CHIPLEY, FLA., NEWS: "For the first time in the peacetime history of the United States, it is proposed in legislation now pending before the Congress to deny the right of trial by jury! This is one of the more important (and least publicized) aspects of the S. 1731 and H.R. 7152. . Under this insidious bill, the judgment of Federal inspectors, appointed to bring about social reforms, would supersede our traditional and Constitutional judicial processes. Through the sly device of eliminating criminal penalties, those who drew the bill have made it so a violator of the 'public accommodations' section (Title II), would be hailed without hearing before a judge and placed under Federal injunction to cease and desist whatever act of discrimination the Federal overseer may have charged him with. And the penalty would be fine or imprisonment for contempt of court-from which there is no appeal."

WILLIAMSTOWN, KY., NEWS: "It was recently pointed out that one in every sixty Americans now achieves his home in the form of federal government public housing. This is in addition to the many aids provided by the federal government in helping keep mortgages inexpensive and to enable the private citizen to obtain his own home by private, long-term payments. One planning consultant, Carl Feiss, of Washington, puts his fears this way: You're getting into a situation in which public housing hildren will themselves get married live in public housing, and raise children in public housing, and you'll get a new kind of 'dependence' society."

CAMBRIDGE, NEBR., CLARION "The Government loses so many taxpayers in traffic accidents on legal helidays it's strange it doesn't abolish such holidays."

CLAYTON, N.M., LEADER: "The bureaucrats and their politician 'Boy Fridays,' are increasingly resentful, and almost invariably present a 'who dares to criticize Caesar?' attitude when confronted with the growing groundswell of unfavorable public in the sensitive hide of the usurpres powers never intended under the American constitution. Any individval or organization who sticks a thorn in the sen sitive hide fo the usurpers is subjected to ridicule or implied association with political action groups, and if these fail his or her character is assailed. Objections to their omnipotence could only originate | Westminster - Taneytown Road, the from extremists, ultra-rightists or the following will be sold: 'hunatic fringe'."

BROOKFIELD, N.Y., COURIER: "No political thinker of any stature has ever interpreted a republic as allowing equality in all things. What you will find set forth is the ideal that every individual-however broken his body or impaired his mindshall have equality before the law and equality of opportunity to fill his own highest potential. That is the American dream. That is the dream that made this country the symbol of hope to enslaved people all over the world. That is the exact opposite of the Communist philosophy of equality by edict of law toward which we have been rushing during the past 25 years. That is the dream we are throwing away."

LENNOX, S.D., INDEPENDENT: "In observing some government officials' refusal to face reality in dealing with the adversaries of our system, we are reminded of the man who jumped out of a 40th story window, and when passing the fifth story called out to a friend, 'It hasn't hurt

Kids Take To Crusty Franks At Noon

Busy mornings often leave little time for preparing lunch. On such days, a recipe like Hot Doggities comes in handy. These quick frankfurters are a big hit with youngsters, so schedule them often for noontime To prepare Hot Doggities, just roll frankfurters in catsup, then in packaged Corn Flake Crumbs and bake on a foil-lined pan. Speared on skewers, the wieners are easy to eat. Be prepared to serve seconds.

HOT DOGGITIES

10 4½-inch wooden skewers 10 frankfurters (about 1 2 cups Corn Flakes or 1/2 cup packaged Corn Flake Crumbs

1/2 cup catsup If using Corn Flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Insert skewers lengthwise into frankfurters, leaving about 2 inches for a handle. Score surface of frankfurters lightly, spiraling from end to end. Roll frankfurters in catsup, then coat generously with Corn Flake Crumbs. Place in foll-lined shallow baking pan. Do not crowd. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 15 minutes. Serve with additional catsup and mustard, if desired. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you:

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Devilbiss of Keysville upon the death of her mother, Mrs. Merle Garrett of Taneytown, on the 7th, and also to the family of Mrs. Dora Duble of Keysville who died of a heart attack on Friday evening. This is truly a sad time for

Mrs. Earl Myerly of Mumma Ford Road, a recent surgical patient, wishes to thank all her friends and relatives for the cards, fruit and flowers she has received while in the Frederick Memorial Hospital for 10 days and now at home. It is a slow pro cess, but she is coming along very well now. My apologies for the error in the name of the church for the 4-H meeting on Friday the 18th. Somehow it was listed as St. Paul's Methodist Church but it should have been St Luke's (Winters) Church near New Windsor. Do hope all the girls have been corrected.

Special thanks to Union Bridge Firemen Jack Gray and Ray Wilson for their fine demonstration at the P-TA meeting on Monday evening at the Elmer A. Wolfe School. They demonstrated mouth-to-mouth resu-citation as well as the use of the machine used on the ambulance for this purpose. There was a fine turnout for this meeting and it is hoped it will be as well for the rest of them during the school year.

THANK YOU

Pastor Rhinehart of the Messiah EUB Church wishes to take this medium to say a word of appreciation to the good people of Taneytown for the expressions of concern for him during his recent illness. Your prayers and words of felicitation, personally expressed and through letters, and "get-well" cards, your many, many acts of kindness and interest in my physical well-being will always be an inspiration to both Mrs. Rhine-hart and me. The members of the Messiah EUB Church, the Ministers of Taneytown and the business peo ple of our town have been very thoughtful and kind. Many, many thanks to each and all. I can only say 'may the kindness and personal concern for my physical well-being" be translated into spiritual blessings for each and everyone.

Observations on the World of Sports

Will that four-punch knockout by the Los Angeles Dodgers bring an end to the domination of the American League by the Yankees?

Tough to answer, that one. But it is hardly likely to do the Yankees any good. Teams which are swept the world series all too often fail to bounce back the next year for a pennant.

The last team before the Yankees to be swept was Cleveland in 1954. The Indians haven't won a pennant since. Before that it was the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950 and they haven't been heard from since.

The opportunity is there for the other clubs in the American league. The Yanks will not quickly forget their anemic performance against Messrs. Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podes, and Don Drysdale. But in order for the other clubs to cash in, they will have to start apply-ing pressure. All to often in past years the leading challenger has been content to roll over and play dead when the Yankees put the pres-Make no mistake about one thing, the American League flag derby next spring.

They will have the best balance, the top infield and outfield--if heal-thy--in the league.

But that aura of invincibility has been dispelled. The Yankees can be pitched to and that's for sure. And they know the same occasional feelings of doubt and dismay that afflict ing, "Koufax."

Forget about counting the years on the calendar. Nobody can really consider himself getting old until the day a youngster comes across a sports story and asks: "Who were Musial and Spahn?"

That day will be a long way off. Remember, Ty Cobb last played a major league game in 1928, and they are still talking about his fantastic performances. Ty Cobb stories will, no doubt, be heard for another generation, and the feats of Musial and Spahn will be known for a long time after that.

You'll know your getting old when you can't come up with an answer when someone asks: "What was the name of that fellow on the Giants who hit that ninth inning homer in the playoff game and beat the Dod-gers?" And, then try to explain that it was the Brooklyn Dodgers--direct descendants of the team in Los Angeles--who were beaten by Bobby Thomson's homer. Of course, it may be tough explaning that once there was a major league team in a place that's not even a city, but only a borough of New York. That, no doubt, will sound strange 50 years

We'll all be grey beards the day a puzzled youngster doubts that once upon a time the New York Mets actually finished in last place for two successive years. The records show, believe it or not, that even the Yankees finished twice in last place back in the early 1900's. But, old age probably will not really be upon us until the day we turn on our pocket television sets and watch the three games of the World Series from Tokyo.

Remember when Dept. the Baltimore Orioles played their longest game ever in Memorial stad-ium. It was against the Boston Red Sox on June 23, 1954. The Birds won in 17 innings 8-7. Time of game was 4 hours and 58 minutes--an

There is a familiar little story about the city mouse and the country mouse, which runs somewhat in this vein: A city mouse, rather worldly and sophisticated, once invited his cousin, who lived quietly in the country, for a visit. The country mouse accepted the invitation, but found that he did not like city life at all. The noise and lack of privacy were most distasteful to him, and he was only too glad to return to his rural home. When the city mouse returned the visit, he reacted to country life in much the same way. "The country," he complained, "is much too dull and quiet for me. Give me the

It seems to me that human beings are very much like the two mice. Some of us prefer the stimulation of urban life, while others are content in the peace and quiet of the rural areas. There are, of course, advantages and disadvantages to both of them. However, for those of us who love nature and the creatures of the wild, the country is the very best with posters and bills of various kinds. tages and disadvantages to both of place of all.

Speaking of the wild life, we had a very gratifying experience with a friendly deer the other evening. Darkness was just falling as we drove up the county road. Suddenly, almost directly ahead of us, we saw a doe. We followed in the car, as she ran nimbly up the dusty road, to our neighbor's recently picked-over corn field. Here she leaped the fence and then, in the most matter-of-fact way, began nosing about for corn. By this time we had stopped the car, turned off the motor, and were practically abreast of the little creature. She didn't seem at all disturbed or frightened by our presence. Apparently, our little friend could sense, in the amazing way of animals, that we meant her no harm. Occasionally, she lifted her head and gazed at us with big brown eyes. For some time we watched her, until she finally drifted down the hedge-row and melt-ed out of sight in the fast-gathering darkness.

I wouldn't exchange one experience like this one for all of the glitter and excitement of the city. No, I much prefer the country way of life. -Zola Cantwell.

WALK DOWN A DAFFY PATH

A path with daffodils blooming on either side becomes a golden walkway in early spring. Good companions for daffodils are pansies in purple or white or English daisies with pink or white blooms.

Plan now to walk down a daffy path next spring, a path bounded on either side by the bright yellow or glistening white trumpets of the big narcissi commonly called daffodils.

The bulbs that produce these flowers must be planted this fall, the earlier the better-for daffodils need time to grow sturdy roots before ground freezes.

Almost any soil will do for daffo

So, spend a few minutes looking over your favorite bulb catalog or visiting your favorite zarden supply dealer and select daffodil bulbs that will produce golden trumpets with white petals, pale yellow trumpets with golden petals, or with all parts white or yellow or deep gold. All of these colorings are available.

If you crave daffodils that are different from any of these colors -how about trying some of the newer "pink" flowering varieties? The blooms of these daffodils usually open white and the gardener who expected them to be pink is greatly disappointed. But in just a day or so the pink coloring appears, deepening as the blossom ages.

To hold this delicate coloring and keep it from fading, set trumpets, they complement de bulbs of pink daffodils in a situ- dils in flower color and size.

ation where the flowers are shaded from the hot sun.

The beauty of daffodils is not only in their flowers but in the fact that they increase in numbers each year. A single bulb, which may produce one or two flowers the first year, soon becomes a clump of bulbs, with a dozen flowers waving above.

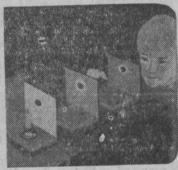

In five years' time one daffodil bulb may have grown to be a dozen, all of which may be separated from the mother bulb and planted individually. This constant increase without any effort on the part of the gardener makes daffodils a real joy.

Pansies, with their pixie faces, and English daisies, with their round, tight buttons for flowers (see front, center of picture) bloom at the same time as daffodis. While they are too short to compete with the big trumpets, they complement daffo-

For My Neighbor Lesson for October 20, 1963

Bible Material: Matthew 4:1-11; I Corinthians 8 through II:1.

Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 8:7-

AS A Christian, I have acknowledged my responsibility in two directions. I am responsible TO God and FOR my neighbor. No matter how high in the scale of human society a man may live, he never can climb so high that he is no longer answerable to God. No matter how high a wall a man builds around himself, though he may shut himself away from mankind, or from the needy part of mankind, every man is still

Dr. Foreman responsible to God for his neighbor. This is true of all men whether they know it and believe it and live by it, or not. The Christian is not the only man who has this double responsibility, but he is the only man who is clearly aware of this. If he is not aware of it, or denies it, we have a right to ask, Is he actually Christian? Three illustrations

Three illustrations will show how this works out in practice. Take first the problem of liquor. Many a man is able to drink in moderation all his life. Such a man may say to himself: "Drinking or not-drinking is a personal prob-1em. Every man must solve it or answer it in his own way according to his own best judgment. Other people have no business caring whether I drink or not, and it's not my business to inquire whether other people can drink and hold their liquor like gentlemen. Every tub must stand on its own bottom.'

But this man, just because he himself can "hold his liquor like a gentleman," can be one of the worst influences in his community. You will hear such a man denouncing juvenile delinquency, unaware that he is contributing to the very delinquency of which he complains. For others, seeing how little he is hurt by his temperate drinking, will be encouraged to drink also, only to find, when it is too late, that they haven't the same powers of restraint.

Attitudes Another illustration: Some people are so constructed mentally that they can take, or seem to take, some wrong attitude more or less in fun, without really meaning it. They speak of sacred things in a tone of light mockery, or they make all sorts of jokes, some pretty sorry ones, about marriage, or women, or the church. They will av with a laugh, "I'd like to wring his neck" or refer to some absent person as "that dirty buzzard." Now such a person may be one who really doesn't mean any harm by this, and takes no harm himself. It's just a "manner of speaking." He doesn't seem to be affected by the silly or vulgar words that pass his lips. Essentially he remains an honest and honorable man. (This deesn't happen often, but it does happen.) Now here is a parallel to your moderate drinker. This careless talker spreads the dirt or the froth in moderation. He's really søber for all his careless speech. But perhaps just because he is an attractive personality, he (maybe without intending it) induces others to imitate him. And most of these imitators find out, too late, that "he that toucheth pitch shall be defiled." Using vulgar language leaves the user vulgar; use of the language of hate and contempt helps to shape the soul of the man who even plays at hatred and contempt. "It doesn't hurt me," the first man says. But it hurts others who try it, just to be smart. The first man does harm to others, just because he doesn't think about others. He feels responsible for him-

Take a third example. Some condition of injustice may be pressing hard on some of your neighbors. Not neighbors you see, perhaps, but the "invisible poor," for example. It may be a bad condition in the public schools; or it may be the denial of an education to those who are eager for it; it may be lack of recreation facilities for young people; it may be an unfair differential in wages because of sex or race. Whatever the injustice may be, if it doesn't hurt me I'm not likely to worry much about it. But this carelessness about injustice from which we benefit is exactly the opposite of the Christian position. The Christian question always should be: "What is this doing to my brother, my neighbor?" Color For Your Winter Garden

The annuals that are dwarfed because they are growing too close to other plants, the seedlings that began to grow later than the others and therefore still are undersized, all are grist to the mill of the gardener who has a sunny window sill. For these little annuals will furnish color for a good part of the winter.

Potted now, before cold weather comes, so that they can become acclimated to their new root restrictions while still outdoors, many annuals will adapt themselves to being house plants.

The two annuals that will bloom all winter long, with at least one flower on a plant almost every day, are browallia and eximea. Both have blue flowers, though of different shades and shapes. Neither is well known.

Small-flowered marigolds that grow in bush form, ageratum, which also is bushy, little plants of coleus, calendulas, petunias, dwarf asters and other low-growing annuals, all may be used.

Watered well one evening, lifted with plenty of soil around the roots, placed into a pot large enough for the root system, watered again, and set in a shady place, the annuals should recover soon.

Within two weeks they should be ready to move indoors. It is best to place them in a sunny window before heat is turned on in. the house. Given plenty of water and a place near the window, they will continue to flower just as if they still were in the outdoor

Hot Weather? Play It Cool

The crisp feel and clean look of organdy—so right for a summer switch in at-home mood—turns up just in time for this season in care-free Dacron.

The new-fashioned Organdy of Dacron has all of the oldfashioned gossamer charm, but none of the traditional fragility. Hot work-like hand-washing, stretching and ironing-has been replaced by cool pleaschine-washable, require no stretching and little or no ironing-just the right treat to refresh tired homes, relieve tired homemakers. Cameo Curtains makes them in a choice of lengths, widths and styles, in white and eight sherbet colors.

Prizes of the collection are the classic ruffled styles (pic-tured) that blend crisp coolness with traditional charm. Modern design gets into the act, too: these exclusive Cameo Shir-Back curtains have a built-in, patented pull-tape that insures a uniform, perfect drape. Or-gandy of Dacron Shir-Backs come in classic sheer fabric, and Schiffli-embroidered and rosebud flocked designs, with I matching spreads and tiers.

Gentle pastels join the whitewhite look in cafe curtains, tiers, Cape Cod shorties and valances. For clean-lined accent, Cameo styles the sheer-pleasure Organdy of Dacron, in thite and colors, in pleated draperies and tailored curtains.

To complete the best-dressed at-home look, avoid stripped-down bareness this summer. The watchword is care-free, never careless. Complement no-wilt windows with cool colors on upholstered pieces, plenty of polished wood. Bare floors are cool to the touch, if yours aren't up to snuff, take a look at the easy-care fiber area rugs woven in gay colors and priced right for part-time pleasure. Like the Organdy of Dacron curtains, they are year-round styles that are especially right for hot days when you're at home more than ever, and enjoying home-work less.
