'SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Walking up Charles Street, I went into the old home of the Jenkins which is all being renovated by the new owner, Mr. Gladding which is on the S. W. Corner of Mt. Vernon Place and Charles Street. Houses are not built like it today and as I walked around the entire place in each room realized just that. The wide entrance hall with the handsome winding stairway is beautiful! As I walked slowly up this stairway, I somehow was turning back the pages of a book and with my imagination, it is something to remember. How fortunate Baltimoreans are that a buyer purchased it for a home and especially in that neighborhood where the cream of Society lived of yesteryear. I went through the huge rooms on the second floor and there are three baths plus a powder room, plus a foot bath in one of the bathrooms. As I walked slowly down the stairway, I pretended that I lived there years ago and way is beautiful! As I walked slowly ed that I lived there years ago and there was such fascination about it all beyond describing! Years ago, all beyond describing! Years ago, there were the draped walls as one of those draperies still hung with all the dust clinging to it. I observed a few pieces of very old furniture which was left right there and those pieces are handsome. There are many workmen and from all I gathered, it appeared as though it would take a full year to complete the entire job for there is so much to do. I was wondering as I stood in that tremendous ing as I stood in that tremendous living room how many servants has been kept in that household? There is a huge back enclosed porch facing the old carriage house which, no doubt will be made into a garage. There are still some draperies at the windows! Of course, the bathtubs are the old fashioned ones with feet but I always liked a big bath tub and that all of those are. There was something of tranquility in that wonderful home ing as I stood in that tremendous of tranquility in that wonderful home which no adjective could describe! I am one of the thousands who are awaiting with much anticipation when all this beauty is restored! Happiness was the word for everyone in Annapolis the other day as parents and wives looked upon some being handed the Diplomas passing the Bar examination. One of the sons was mine and one belonged to Mayor and Mrs. Theodore McKeldin! Of course we shook hands congratulating each other as parents! The day was ideal and that little town was as dear to me as ever as I spent many dear to me as ever as I spent many happy hours there for years each week as my family — my father's side of the house were stationed in the Naval Academy. I love even those brick payements and the Colonial architecture of the old homes.

that vivid yellow always brings a thought of pumpkin make yours, Mrs. Housewife be sure this time to add less pumpkin and it will be more like a "Chiffon Pumpkin" and you will enjoy it much more as naturally it will be of lighter tex-

That grand Oldsmobile is still my favorite — the only car as to the engine getting sweeter the more mileage that it drives. It makes some think that it is purring! No other car can compare and if you are thinking of purchasing a car just wait a little longer until you can go "OLDS" all the way. You will never purchase another make when once you own an "O L D S!"

Will be seeing you next week D. V. Have a grand week-end. Enjoy all this beauty while you can, no matter from the old front porch or as you slowly drive along. Until then.

BIG QUESTION

A tax reduction bill has passed the House. It will meet tougher going in the Senate. But the chances are that an overall federal tax cut in the $10 billion-plus area is in sight.

Welcome as that may be, some extremely important questions are yet to be answered.

One is whether major tax reduction which is not accompanied by any reduction in government spending will lead to more inflation. Many a recognized economist thinks it will - then the decline in the dollar's value here and abroad will more than offset any benefits.

Another is whether the spiraling costs of state and local government will eat up any dollar gains from federal cuts, aside from the inflation problem. These costs, proportionately, have been rising faster than federal costs in late years. If one tax collector takes from you what another tax collector leaves, you aren't gain-

The interest of the citizen lies in how many dollars he has left after taxes, and in what those dollars will buy in the way of goods and services. That is the big unanswered question. -Industrial News Service

FACTS AND OPINIONS

"Something we have suspected for a long time has been verified at last. The use of the term 'senior citizen' as applied to retired elderly persons is 'loathed' by every one of a number of retirees recently interviewed by a Los Angeles research firm. The terms 'old' and 'elderly' are perfectly good words and, with the backing of the Goodkin Research Corporation, it would seem the person who successfully has navigated a large number of years cannot abide the condescending appellation foisted on them by 'modern-minded' younger folks who seem to have no concept of how fulfilling it can be to reach a ripe, old age."-Grants Pass, Oregon, Courier.

Five kinds of drugs orbited the earth with Astronaut Cooper on his famous flight into outer space. They included a stimulant to increase alertness; a relaxant; a pain killer; an antinauseant; and an antihistamine.

Barron's magazine recently observed: "According to the folklore of politics, successful office-seekers boast a happy knack of staying in step with, or slightly ahead of, their constituents' views. However, on one major issue of the day-wasteful federal spending-Congress seems to be lagging perilously behind public opinion. To the astonished chagrin of such agencies as the Area Redevelopment and Urban Renewal Administrations, several communities lately have elected to reject government handouts." Its editorial went on to deal with the increase in appropriations for the Rural Electrification Administration, in the face of the fact that some 98 per cent of all American farms are now electrified. Barron's holds that the REA" . . .

has become a positive menace to free enterprise," and concludes, "Sooner or later the lawmakers must realize that the time has come to throw the switch."

There has been a sharp increase in the number of physicians per 100,000 population in this country, according to an American Medical Association report. The present ratio is 146.7 physicians for every 100,000 Americans, an increase of 8.9 from the 1960 figure, and of 11.4 from the 1950 ratio. Our physician population, as of a recent date, was 275,974.

This helps the Cub to get ready to be a Tenderfoot. iontown Lutheran Cemetery,

In loving memory of Lloyd S. Lambert who departed this life October 3, 1958 and Ellsworth L. Lambert who departed this life October 28,

'Twas hard to say a last farewell, To those whom we loved so well, But God thought best to take them An angel whispered to them come!

They never more shall suffer pain, Their death is an eternal gain, For they who die in Christ are blest, And shall forever be at rest.

They sleep, they sleep, they are not dead! But live with Christ their living head, Their body rests beneath the sod, But their pure spirit rests with God. THE LAMBERT FAMILY.

Two Kinds of Love Lesson for October 27, 1963

Bible Material: I Corinthians 11:2 through 13:13.
Devotional Reading: John 15:9-17.

WHEN THE religion of Christ began to spread through the world, it was so new and totally different from everything that had been called by the name of religion before that Christians almost had to find new words to express it.

the familiar English word "Love." We all know the 13th chapter of I Corinthians by heart (or if we don't, now is the time to learn it!) and we have said all our lives that

Dr. Foreman love is the greatest thing in the world. What's new about that? Unfortunately, the newness of the idea of "love" cannot be expressed in our English language, but it can in Greek, which is the language of all the New Testament books. For the Greeks often had several words for (almost) the same thing, and they used these words to express the different varieties of whatever it was they were talking about. For example, there were four different words in Greek which can all be translated "love," and two in particular, "eros" (rhymes with morose) and "agape" (pronounced a-GAH-pay).

Selfish love is shellfish love

By far the more familiar one of these two words was eros; the other one is hardly ever found before the Christians got hold of it and began using it. Eros is something everybody knows about; and no pagan Greek could have seen the point if Saint Paul had told him eros is the greatest thing in the world. But it isn't, and Paul didn't say it was. Eros can be a kind of mental sickness, it can be frustrating, it can injure the one who has it, for it is what is often called "possessive" love. It is the love a domineering mother has for a child she keeps tied to her apronstrings. It is the love of a jealous lover who can't bear to see his sweetheart smile at another man. The song of eros is "I want you all for mine." This can be very sweet, and there is room for it in the varied experiences of life. But it can be frustrating and painful, for it is never fulfilled. The eros-lover is never satisfied, always anxious lest his sweet possession be swept from him. And at the worst, eros-love destroys personality, for the tendency of eros to seize and to hold is like the action of a clam caring not a minnow's worth for any creature around it, opening its shell only to take in, never to give. (Who ever heard of a generous clam?)

God-like love The love of which Paul so eloquently and beautifully writes, is not eros, it is agape. Wherever in the New Testament the love of God for his children is spoken of, it is always agape, not eros. Now the special glory of agape is that its desire is not to be served but to serve. Eros is love that stops being love when it finds its affection is not returned. Eros is fastidious; it loves only what is lovable and noble. Eros demands that what is loved come up to a certain standard. Agape loves others as they are, where they are. But agape is never content to leave the loved ones where they are. Agape love is transforming love. If God's love were eros, he would be waiting yet -and he might wait forever-till man was good enough to deserve to be loved. But God loved us 'while we were yet sinners." Agape transforms the unworthy. Eros vanishes when the loved object fades; Agape, itself unfading, creates a never-fading beauty in the object of love. Where love is needed

Now it needs no argument to persuade us that agape-love is needed in this distraught world. Persons and nations perish for the lack of it. Is there any place where we can find enough agape-love to go around? Is there any company of pilgrims on this earth who have fed on this bread of heaven till they want no more? One answer comes straight to mind: The church, of course the church! It is no doubt indeed the one company out of all mankind which makes love its aim; it is the one company which has no excuse for its existence if it does not make love its aim. But the church has never achieved this love, or has never achieved it in such measure that it can say, we need no more. Paul speaks of the need for love, to men and women who had many gifts of the spirit; he speaks of it to those who worshipped with joyful hearts. But even at the very throne of grace, who can say that he has loved enough?

YOUR HOME MERCHANTS ASK YOU TO "BUY AT HOME"

UNCOMMONLY COMMON

There are few things you see more frequently than the telephone. Virtually everybody has one.

This is what makes your phone so uncommonly useful.

Friends, neighbors, stores, doctors, business associates -you name it-can be reached so easily by telephone. You save time, trips to town and all kinds of trouble.

Your phone gives you convenience that's indispensable -that can often make the impossible possible.

That's why low-cost telephone service is so uncommonly high in value.

FAREWELL TO OCTOBER

Farewell to October, with skies bright and blue, Farewell to her sun, warm and mellow,

Farewell to her glorious colorscheme, too,

Of flame red, and amber, and yellow. Farewell to October, with days sparkling clear,

Farewell to her breezes, caressing,
Farewell to this bountiful month of the year,

A time of rich harvest, and blessing!
