CHAMBER of COMMERCE INSTALLS OFFICERS

The regular monthly meeting of the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce was held at Taney Inn on Monday, January 20, 1964.

The business meeting largely concerned itself with a lengthy discussion on the several contacts that have been made with the Chamber concerning the Taney Dress Company building, which is to be sold at auction on Wednesday, Jan. 22, 1964. Most of the companies making contact would establish stitching operations, should they acquire the building. Concluding the discussion, the membership authorized the Executive Committee to negotiate with the successful bidder concerning financing, if he so desires. The details were left largely to the discretion of the directors. However, they were instructed that under no circumstances were they to exceed the 75%-25% policy that has been followed by the Chamber in previous financial arrangements of this nature. Further, the successful bidder must have a favorable Dunn and Bradstreet rating.

Following this action, Rev. Paul E. Rhinehart installed the recently elected officers for the coming year. In a most effective manner, he charged the officers to not only exercise sound business judgment in directing functions of the Chamber, but enjoined them not to lose sight of the moral aspect which seems to be taking a back seat in today's scheme of things.

The installed officers were: Mr. Frank T. Dunham, President; Mr. Merle S. Ohler, 1st Vice President; Mr. Neal W. Powell, 2nd Vice President; Mr. Donald M. Smith, Secretary; Mr. Murray M. Baumgardner, Treasurer; Mr. Mervyn C. Fuss and Mr. Charles R. Arnold, Executive Committee Members.

Following the installation, President Dunham appointed the following standing committees for the year: Roads—Mr. Arch Carpenter, Chairman; Mr. Elwood Baumgardner, Mr. Harry Dougherty, Mr. Walter Harner, Industrial—Mr. Alfred Helterbride, Chairman; Mr. Merle Ohler, Mr. Murray Baumgardner, Mr. Dave Hiltbrick, Mr. Singleton Remsburg, Mr. George W. Crouse, Banquet—Mr. Neal W. Powell, Chairman; Mr. Delmar Riffe, Mr. Thomas Smith, Mr. Carol Frock.

Also, Membership—Mr. Merle Ohler, Chairman; Mr. Tom Tracey, Mr. Donald Smith, Mr. Delmont Koons. Retail Business Promotion—Mr. Harry Dougherty, Chairman; Mr. Charles Hopkins, Mr. George Harman, Mr. Robert Lowry, Mr. Elwood Baumgardner.

Automatic Dialing Now Available for Home Use

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland's new card dialer automatic dialing phone, recently introduced here for business use, is now being offered in a new model for the home.

This phone automatically dials desired telephone numbers by insertion of plastic cards on which numbers, speed of dialing, and accuracy of phoning, have been pre-punched initially by the user. The card dialer automatic dialing service increases the convenience and accuracy of phoning.

The difference between the newest card dialer telephone now being offered is the line capacity. Recently introduced models for business use are equipped with six buttons which enable them to handle a number of individual telephone lines. The new model is a single line phone. Except for the absence of buttons, it is identical in appearance and operation.

The new single line card dialer phone also is advantageous to "one-line" small businessmen and is available to commercial customers.

The card dialer automatic dialing mechanism is combined with the phone in one compact unit. White plastic dialing cards can be coded quickly with a ball point pen or similar object by punching holes in designated places for the desired number. Any number of cards can be used and space is provided in the phone itself for filing most frequently called numbers. The new model is available in all popular colors.

To call a number, the appropriate card is inserted in the phone, the receiver lifted and a start bar pushed. The phone "reads" the card and automatically dials the correct number. The phone also can be dialed in the conventional manner.

Card dialers are especially useful in the home for women with church or club activities, or for anyone who calls the same numbers frequently. It makes phoning easier and more efficient, plus eliminates the need for maintaining a personal telephone directory or special lists.

Automatic dialing also increases the speed and accuracy of long distance calling. Area code prefixes can be entered on the plastic dialing card along with a distant friend's or relative's local telephone number.

Complete information on the new single line automatic dialing telephones can be obtained by calling your local telephone company business office.

GOVERNMENT WASTE-OF-THE-WEEK

Pentagon officials bought $300,000 worth of new office furniture as replacement for furniture that was perfectly usable. Why? Because — according to the Comptroller General — unspent funds were on hand near the close of the fiscal year!

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning.
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Accepting the wonderful invitation for the dedication on January 12 for The Oregon Ridge Ski Area was simply a wonderful treat for your Observer. I really thought I was in Switzerland! Who says Maryland is last in all things? That is far from the truth, for right here in Md. and just one hour's drive from Baltimore is this grand Ski Run. It was simply fascinating just to stand outside of the lovely Lodge to view it all. The day was a cold one but no one seemed to mind in the least. A huge ribbon was strung across the major ski slope from the top of one of the chair lift towers to a tree on the other side and then was snipped at the appointing hour of 12 noon with a few short speeches immediately after. How proud we can be of this feat which everyone seemed to be enjoying even to the youngsters and the nice part so near from all surrounding territories and that will mean Washington, Philadelphia and New York, too. Another nice feature was no interruption in skiing during the ceremonies as notables from the county, Baltimore City, the State gathered to officially inaugurate the largest metropolitan ski area in the world! And those "SNOW MACHINES" were really making the snow! In a few years it will be a year-round recreation, cultural conservation area. It is located North of Towson in the Worthington Valley and the slopes are terrific! It truly is the greatest sport and now anyone can learn to Ski as there are Foreign teachers, too.

There were demonstrations on the slopes by these instructors and members of the ski patrol. There were 5 instructors who performed the maneuvers ranging from simple snow plow turns to the more difficult parallel christies and all this was given over the public address system. Oregon Ridge Ski patrolmen, solid skiers trained in standard and advanced also gave a demonstration of how injured skiers are treated and removed from the slopes to a first aid room in the lodge. This all was opened on a limited basis on December 15th and now is moving into the New Year with all skiing facilities operational. There are two major slopes 2,000 feet long and rising to a vertical height of 300 ft. The interesting part, too, was the double chair lift, carrying the skiers to the top of the major slopes. There is a 500-ft. rope tow on one slope and a 700-ft. rope tow on the other and that the length of the hill.

Mr. Harroun is a certified ski instructor and is co-manager with Mr. Lumpe with fifteen instructors!

It will interest all of us, I am sure, for it truly is the G R E A T E S T ! There is of course a complete rental shop, stocked with 350 pairs of boots, poles and skis and the Lodge with the huge stone fire places make it most comfortable upon entrance and oh so cozy just as you see on TV or in the movies. There is a restaurant accommodating up to 300 patrons with a buffet-style service. This facility is being catered by the world famous Allenberry Inn of Boiling Springs, Penna., under the personal management of Mr. Chas. Heinze. There have been as many as 1,000 skiers on the major slope at one time and over 10,000 skiers have used the facility in the month of December.

Within 60 to 90 minutes of some 4,000,000 people, Oregon Ridge has attracted skiers from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Penna., with the majority coming from the populous Washington and Baltimore metropolitan regions.

On January 18, Trailways will inaugurate direct bus service from Washington to Oregon Ridge. There is even "Night Skiing" as huge flood lights make it all possible to continue the grand sport.

Never was this Columnist so enthusiastic about anything before and perhaps that is due that this all happened right here in Maryland and so near Baltimore. Congratulations to all the individuals who had part in such a fantastic operation! Nothing can compare!

You and you will go back time and time again!

Until next week, D. V.
I am,
Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

And a P. S. Had the pleasure of meeting that nice Senator Brewster who has just the finest face of any Political man I have ever seen! Was surprised to see his gray "Locks" but it is most becoming with his fine brown eyes. There is a good man through and through! He, too, seemed to be enjoying it all with his two lovely children.

NATIONAL YMCA WEEK

The total of "Weeks" and "Days" which we are supposed to observe each year almost approaches infinity. Some of these can be fairly called ridiculous. But there is a goodly number which deserve the fullest recognition — and National YMCA Week, January 19-26, is most certainly one of this honorable company.

There are more than 1800 Y's across this broad land of ours, and in only 20 years the membership has doubled and reached the record figure of 3,880,000. Some 500,000 volunteer leaders — over 100 for each professional worker — today direct clubs and groups, serve on boards and committees, raise funds, secure new members, and enable the YMCA to carry out its tasks for the very modest fees charged its members.

What do the Y's offer? The answer is: Many things which make our lives healthier, happier and more meaningful. Among them: The father-son movement; health and physical fitness work; the promotion of water safety; sports and athletics; service to members of the armed services; educational courses covering a wide variety of fields; and so on down a lengthy and distinguished list. And many of its activities were the result of the organization's own inventiveness and pioneering.

The YMCA offers programs for all members of the family. Its purpose is to serve any person regardless of his ability to pay, and no one is turned away because of lack of finances. No organization more thoroughly deserves a Week in its honor.

"FACTS AND OPINIONS"

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: "The President has set a goal of 75 million jobs to meet the growing demand for employment and this figure seems very reasonable in view of the approximately 70 million now employed and the persistent 5 million who are not employed but are presumably actively seeking jobs. The magnitude of this added 5 million jobs, however, assumes a much different proportion when translated into the required investment capital that must be spent before these jobs can be created. At the figure of $20,000 per job, a modest estimate in the light of present costs, the sum required will be $100 billion or the approximate amount of the present annual national budget. So if these jobs are to be created at once, the taxes would have to be doubled if government was to do the job. But government lacks creative power and works mostly by taking from one source to give to another, without adding to the whole. In this job-creating business, government can obviously only persuade or appeal to private capital."

In the view of President Neilan of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the purchase and sale of votes through tax-paid federal subsidies threatens the integrity of national elections and the future of democratic government. He feels that "Time is running out" for those who believe that the essence of free government consists in treating public offices as public trusts to be bestowed for the good of the nation rather than for the benefit of any one party, or of groups of individuals.

Federal tax collections for the last fiscal year came to just under $106 billion. This was an increase of almost $6.5 billion over the preceding fiscal year.

ial: "Anybody who ever has had to plow through rulings or opinions written by Federal regulatory agencies should give a loud cheer for Supreme Court Justice Black. After trying to comprehend an Interstate Commerce Commission report, Mr. Black observed: 'I am compelled to say that the Commission could have informed me just as well if it had written its so-called findings in ancient Sanskrit.'"

People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones, as the old adage tells us. And, according to the American Medical Association, they should also be aware that it's necessary to slide open the glass door before walking briskly through it to the patio. An estimated 40,000 persons each year try to walk through glass doors, glass walls and picture windows. Almost 6,000 are injured so severely that they wind up in the hospital and some even die from the severe cuts and loss of blood.

Data compiled by the New York Stock Exchange shows that there are currently 10 million shareowners in Western Europe, including the United Kingdom, and the number appears to have increased substantially in recent years. Commenting on this, the Exchange's President, Keith Funston, says that "shareownership may well become as much a part of the Free European economic way of life as it has become in our country." As of early 1962 there were 17 million shareowners in the United States, compared with 6.5 million in 1952.

John Chamberlain writes in The Freeman magazine: "When Paul Elmer More, the American humanist, defended the property right some 40 years ago as something fully as important as the right to life, he offended a whole generation of young people who thought of him as a hard-hearted old reactionary. The history of the Western world since the Bolshevik Revolution, however, has served to indicate the humanity of Dr. More's position. When people are deprived of the property right, they live on sufferance—which means that they may not live at all."

The most expensive oil hunt in history is being conducted in the Gulf of Mexico, according to an American Petroleum Institute publication. At one time in 1963, oil companies were spending an estimated million dollars a day in Gulf operations.

Worn but still useable clothes are indeed riches to this destitute and ailing elder from an impoverished village in South America. Here his ragged "wardrobe" is being replenished by Brother Daniel Sirtoli with a gift from America — part of the Thanksgiving Clothing Collection distributed through Catholic Relief Services, overseas aid agency of American Catholics. You can help maintain this good work by bringing serviceable clothing, shoes and bedding to your nearest Catholic Church during November.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. John E. E. Hess was taken to Frederick Hospital on Thursday morning where she was operated on in the afternoon for gallstones. The report is that she is in serious condition.

Currens — Charles Clifford Currens died at his home in Thurmont on Thursday, January 15th in his 71st year. Mr. Currens' former home was Taneytown where he lived from boyhood, until his removal to Thurmont. When quite young he enlisted in Cole's Cavalry Co. C., August 1862 and was mustered out May, 1865. He was taken prisoner in May 1864 and suffered greatly in Andersonville and other Southern prisons for about 7 months. On his return from the war he married and engaged in the harness-making business and served a number of terms as postmaster of Taneytown. His wife who survives him was the daughter of the late Joshua Shafer.

Anders — John A. Anders, 77, died at his home on York Street, Taneytown, on Tuesday. Mr. Anders was a veteran of the Civil War, having served under Col. Wm. A. McKellip in Co. A. 6th Md. Regiment. He leaves a widow and six children: Mrs. Samuel Anthouse, Littlestown; Misses Martha and Sadie at home; William of near Keymar and Harry and Luther of Taneytown. Funeral services were held Thursday in the Lutheran Church by his pastor, Rev. L. B. Hafer.

Stockslager after which interment was made in Mountain View Cemetery. . . . While J. F. Kiser and Elmer Noll were hauling wood, Elmer had the misfortune to have his toes badly smashed by the wagon wheel running over the fore-part of his foot. The funeral of the infant child, David Edward, of Harry Sentz and wife was conducted at the Lutheran Church last Saturday by Rev. Stockslager. Interment in Mtn. View Cemetery.

It is easy to forget that government is the enemy of personal freedom, but it is.

There are more advertisers than there are people who know how to advertise.

It is funny how some people keep chasing society when there is really no such thing.

CHEVY-VAN!

Chevrolet's new low-cost quality delivery truck!

This introduces you to Chevy-Van—our new economy delivery truck.

It has a low price tag, over 40 sq. ft. of completely usable flat floor 7½ ft. long, the engine up front, and a lot of quality features which make it a better buy. The body and frame-floor are welded together. The truck is strong, rigid, stable. Doors are double-wall construction.

Chevy-Van has unusual resistance to rust and corrosion. Especially vulnerable areas such as front stepwells are galvanized. Sealers are used at all critical joints inside and out. Certain sections are treated with high-zinc-content primers; others with an aluminum-zinc preservative.

The windshield is a big flat practical one-piece unit. The big 90-hp 4-cylinder standard engine is more powerful than some 6s, yet is remarkably economical.

If you need more power, Chevy-Van offers a 120-hp six at extra cost. Side doors and rear windows also cost extra.

Last but not least, it's a Chevrolet. Which means that it is built to work for you a long time at minimum cost.

Telephone your Chevrolet dealer about Chevy-Van or any type of truck!

Afternoon visitors on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhide, Susan and Lisa Baile near Detour were her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Middlekauff and son of Hagerstown.

Mrs. Oden Fogle of Union Bridge, mother of Mrs. Edward Coshun of Redland near Detour, had a gall bladder operation on Wed., the 15th. Glad to report she is coming along very well.

Belated birthday wishes to Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Detour of Mt. Union, who celebrated with a party on the 17th. Beth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide near Detour, was an overnight guest of the Detours after the party.

Sunday afternoon visitors with the Edward Coshun and Carroll Wilhide families near Detour were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Adams, Maria and Melvin, near Union Bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robertson and Jeffrey of Richardson Rd. near Westminster. Credit is certainly due to our Pastor Brake of the Union Bridge Lutheran Parish for his consistently good sermons. Each and every Sunday he "comes up" with a timely topic and presents it in such a way that one doesn't want to miss any of it. He also presents it in a down-to-earth manner that everyone can understand and associate with. This past Sunday's sermon was titled "Dead or Alive?" and he spoke of how some people live in such a way that after their death they are not missed, because in life they were not noticed and he urged us to make our lives useful to others and to enter the mainstream of life: "to live until we die." His message the Sunday after the assassination of President Kennedy was another particularly outstanding one. It would be a fine thing if some of his sermons could be printed for those who would like to keep them to read over again at other times. Perhaps this could be worked out in the future?

Just received the good news and our sincere and happy congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Otto of Ridge Road in Westminster upon the birth of a daughter this morning (Tuesday, Jan. 21) at 12:50 A. M. Sarah Ellen weighed in at 7 lbs. 15 oz. and she and her mother are both doing fine. Mother is Mrs. Helen Otto to all those who know her as former Home Demonstration Agent for Carroll County.

Waiting For The Morning

There is no roof in all the world of palace or of cot. That hideth not some burdened heart nigh breaking for its lot. The earth is filled with pain and tears and closer draws the gloom; And light or balm there can be none till Christ the Lord shall come. My Savior, who doth know the thirst the longing spirit feels, O, Bridegroom, now so long afar, why stay thy chariot wheels? Were ever eyes so dim with tears, breasts so oppressed with care? Did ever hearts so yearn to catch thy whisper from the air? Thou lonely one, lift up thy head; array thee for the feast; He that hath tarried long is near; the glow is in the East! O Morning Star, so soon to lead thy chosen ones away— O Son of Righteousness, bring in the everlasting day!

ON READING

Television is a wonderful medium, but like all good things, it can be overdone. Many of us, on these long winter evenings, turn on the set and remain glued before it for hours on end. It seems to hold a fatal fascination for us. Now, I have no quarrel with television. It is simply that some programs are not of the best quality, and the valuable time spent watching them could be put to far better use. It may be true that certain shows are entertaining and informative, but let us ask ourselves the following questions: Does a constant diet of television viewing really make us use our minds? Does it induce us to dig and delve for information? Does it improve us as human beings? Does it go deep into our hearts and souls? I am of the opinion that only by reading good books—not sexual trash or trivial stuff—can we feed and nourish our minds in the proper way. We would not think of satisfying our physical hunger by eating garbage from a garbage pail. Why then, should we fill our minds with the garbage of inferior television programs and shoddy books? Surely what goes into our heads is every whit as important as what goes into our stomachs!

Today, there is available to us a wealth of excellent reading matter. Public libraries, traveling bookmobiles, book clubs, and inexpensive but complete paperback editions bring it within the reach of everyone. How fortunate we are! There was a time in the history of mankind when books were extremely rare and very difficult to come by—a time when the common people could not read them, even if they had access to them. The invention of the printing press and improved methods of education have changed these conditions. Really, no one has any valid excuse for neglecting the written word in this day and age. Therefore, I would suggest setting up a schedule for doing some worthwhile reading, not only for the remainder of the winter, but throughout the year.

The first book on any reading list should be the Holy Bible, which incidentally, is the all-time best seller. If you find the King James Version—as beautiful and poetic as its wording is—difficult to read and understand, by all means invest in a Revised Standard, the new English Bible, or another of the more modern translations. Ask your minister, Sunday School teacher, or someone well acquainted with the Bible to help you. Personally, I think it is best to begin with the Gospel of Saint Mark, in the New Testament, and to proceed from there to the other Gospels. After all, they give us a biography of the One about whom the whole Bible revolves. Be sure to make the reading of God's Word a daily habit. For it is the most wonderful Book of all.

Your choice of other books will depend, in large measure, upon your individual taste and inclination. Lovers of drama would do well to read some of William Shakespeare's works, which are too numerous to cover here. Or perhaps historical novels about England appeal to you, in which case I would heartily recommend any one written by Margaret Campbell Barnes. I especially enjoyed "Brief Gaudy Hour," "Tudor Rose," "Ann of Cleves," and "The King's Bed." For a delightful combination of philosophy and nature, give Henry David Thoreau a try. His "Walden," or "Life in the Woods," is truly unique. For some really thought-provoking stuff, read "Essays," by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Civil War buffs will revel in Bruce Catton's "This Hallowed Ground," while those interested in Abraham Lincoln will find that Carl Sandburg is a well-informed author, indeed. There is a host of other great writers of the Western world—Sir Francis Bacon, Samuel Johnson, John Milton, Charles Lamb, James Thurber, H. L. Mencken, G. B. Shaw, Virginia Woolf, Willa Cather, Ben Jonson, Jane Austen, the Bronte sisters, Nathaniel Hawthorne, G. K. Chesterton—my list could go on and on.

In the words of Sir Francis Bacon, "Some books

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports

Dolph Schayes has played basketball too long to just stay on the sidelines and watch somebody else throw the ball through the hoop when he knows he can do the same thing. That's why the new coach of the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association is expected to put himself on the active roster shortly.

Scoring is an old Schayes habit. He was an outstanding point collector in his collegiate days as a teen-ager on the New York University team. And when he became a professional player at the age of 20, he continued to pour in the points. In his 15-year pro career, he has scored more points — 19,115 — than anyone in the history of the N. B. A. Schayes was not a natural ballplayer like Wilt Chamberlain or Elgin Baylor. He had to work, and work hard, to learn his trade. Big and aggressive, Schayes learned the fundamentals of the pick-and-throw and the give-and-go at N. Y. U. His first pro coach, Al Cervi, showed him the need for, and the results of aggressiveness. Then Paul Seymour taught him how to drive better and gave him inspiration. And finally Alex Hannum taught him the finer details of basketball. Schayes also worked hard on things he wanted to perfect. He realized he needed a better left hand shot. So the season he broke his right wrist, he got a good chance to develop his left hand shot. He spent much time in dribbling and feinting maneuvers.

Now, it is Schayes' turn to impart his basketball philosophy and knowledge to his players. He admits it's difficult because his team consists of players with whom he has been playing with and rooming with for the last few years. Says Schayes, "My philosophy, however, will be the same — play to win." Schayes was signed only as a coach, but during the exhibition season and the regular season now, the playing bug started to get to him and now he is anxious to get into the lineup. He has been quoted as saying he would like to enjoy his record while he can, because Chamberlain is a cinch to break it. But if Schayes gets off the bench and onto the court as is expected, he's not going to give Chamberlain much chance to catch up.

Still on Basketball, But Another Team in the N.B.A.

Before the current National Basketball Association season, playing second-string to Wilt Chamberlain was about as rewarding as being an understudy to a Broadway star who gets sick. Chamberlain just never wilted.

In the past, Chamberlain has been an iron-man on the court, playing more full 48 minute games than anybody in the league. One season, he sat out exactly eight (8) minutes.

But along came new coach Alex Hannum and rookie Nate Thurmond and things have changed on the San Francisco Warriors. Chamberlain sits — occasionally. And Thurmond plays — more than occasionally. Hannum has gone on a crusade to make the massive, seven-foot-one in. Chamberlain the complete ballplayer. He has tried to improve Wilt's offensive, defensive and rebounding skills. On offense, Hannum has told Wilt to turn more toward the basket when shooting, rather than taking a fadeaway jump shot, and to pass more. On defense, the coach has made Wilt more conscious of the importance of shot-blocking. To improve Wilt's over-all game, particularly his aggressiveness under the boards, Hannum has given Chamberlain brief rests during a game. And that's where — or when, Thurmond comes in.

The six-foot-eleven standout from Bowling Green University not only spells Chamberlain at center, but he also has learned to play a forward position and often replaces Tom Meschery or Wayne Hightower. With Thurmond and Chamberlain in the lineup at the same time, the Warriors have one of the best rebounding combinations in the league and two of the ablest shotblockers. Thurmond also is helping considerable on offense, now that he has adjusted to shooting facing the basket, rather than with his back to it, as he did in college. His contributions have — helped make the Warriors strong contenders in the Western Division race and the best defensive team in the league. Last year, San Francisco with Chamberlain but without Thurmond, couldn't even make the playoffs.

Remember When Dept. — While back I asked if you had ever attended an ice hockey game? How many of you have taken me up on the invitation? You are really missing an exciting game if you haven't seen the Clippers in action.

Today's Sport Laugh — The young son of Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford, who had seen his father signing autographs, came home from his first day of school and said he needed no further education. Said the boy, "I learned how to write my name and that's all I need to become a ball player." — John Breth.

Stocwett — "He who laughs last laughs best." Sellers — "Yeah, but he soon gets a reputation for being dumb."

Peeved Customer — Hey, waiter, I've found a tack in this doughnut! Waiter — Why, the ambitious little thing. It must think it's a tire.

SMART MONEY

KNOWS WHERE TO GO AFTER READING THE ADS IN THIS NEWSPAPER

IT'S A FACT!

American Indians were chewing a natural form of gum when the first settlers landed on these shores. They gathered resin from spruce trees, reduced it to an aromatic ball, chewed it to relieve thirst. Settlers quickly took up the Indian custom.

Refined paraffin in various flavors replaced spruce gum in popularity as the settlers moved Westward. Most of the gum was homemade — each family having its own flavor favorites.

Today, chewing gum is a well-established American custom. One of the nicest times to chew gum is on a trip. It alleviates thirst, relieves boredom in both children and adults and increases alertness and driving efficiency in turnpike traffic.

Newest addition to the flavor parade is Candy Cane by Beech-Nut. The flavor is a combination of peppermint and other fresh mints and the wrapper duplicates the nostalgic candy cane look. Added flavor in the stripes gives longer lasting flavor for a delicious, refreshing chewing gum.

How to get MORE out of your tax refund

When you get your '63 tax return (Form 1040), take a look at line 23 on the bottom of the page.

It gives you the option of taking your refund in U. S. Savings Bonds instead of a check for the total amount.

There are two big advantages:

1. Taking your refund in Savings Bonds gives you an easy way to hang onto it.
2. When your Bonds mature, your refund becomes 33 1/3% bigger. You get back $4 for every $3.

You also get a nice red, white and blue feeling from knowing you're helping your country's future as well as providing for your own.

Think it over when you ask for your refund this year.

Automobile operators in our small communities are often faced with two extremes in driving conditions. Here at home folks drive in a more leisurely fashion.

Driving to and from other nearby communities, drivers must always be alert to the narrow roads, sharp turns, hills and the constant threat of not being able to see pending dangers.

However, when deciding to take a trip to a distant city via the turnpikes or other thruways and limited access highways our local motorists face many dangers not apparent here at home. Travel on these superhighways generally is at a much higher rate of speed.

Coupled with driving fatigue, carelessness and inattentiveness, speed of the modern highways can become a real killer in a matter of seconds.

Many drivers who are unaccustomed to driving regularly on turnpikes are not experienced when time comes to make a quick decision at speeds of 60-65 miles per hour. Others take safe driving conditions for granted and are often lulled into a state of fatigue or drowsiness of the monotony of the highway.

Shift your eyes frequently so that your attention does not become focused in one particular spot for long periods of time. Remember at 60 M. P. H., you move up very rapidly on a slower moving vehicle. Hence, you must allow sufficient time and space if you wish to overtake the vehicle in front of you.

Remember to stay alert at all times regardless of the speed that you are driving.

Two Rich Men

Lesson for January 26, 1964

Background Scripture: Mark 10:17-31;
Luke 19:1-10.
Devotional Reading: Luke 12:22-31.

RICH MEN are not all alike. Any more than poor men are alike. Jesus knew both rich people and poor, though he himself was very poor. Unlike some poor men, Jesus did not hate a man for being rich; he did not love a man for that reason either. Luke tells stories about two rich men who encountered Jesus, and though he does not follow up his stories about them (for he was interested chiefly in Jesus, not in the people Jesus knew) he does give us hints as to what became of them.

A study in contrasts

Aside from being rich, these two men, Zacchaeus and a young man without a name, were different in many ways. One was young, the other probably older, for the publican's game would hardly make a man rich over night. One of these men was respected and honored in his community; one writer calls him a "ruler," an office holder of some kind. He was no doubt popular too; but the older man Zacchaeus was beyond a doubt the most hated man, or at any rate he belonged to the most hated class of people among the Jews. A publican was a tax collector, and in those days there was no fixed rate. It was the publican's business to squeeze the public for all they would stand, and instead of a salary, the publican, who had bid for his appointment, was allowed by the Roman government to keep whatever he could collect above the amount of his bid.

Drawn by the same magnet

Did these two men, so different in most ways, men who probably never had met each other—did they have anything in common but their wealth? Even their money was different; for the younger man had come by his honestly, while the older man had not. But there was one thing that is true of both: they were attracted to Jesus. The young man expected that Jesus would speak to him; Zacchaeus had no such expectation. All he wanted was to see the teacher from Galilee. You may argue that this wasn't a very lofty desire—no better than mere curiosity. But it was something; and when Jesus gave Zacchaeus (and all his listeners too!) the shock of his life by inviting himself to dinner at the publican's house, Zacchaeus did not back away and make excuses.

But now comes another difference between these two men. The nameless young man had a definite question, about as important a question as could occur to any one: he wanted to know how to get hold of eternal life. He must have thought Jesus knew—and Jesus did. But the young man would not take what Jesus said. Anything but that! So the story ends with the greedy publican giving away half of what he owned, and offering to make good 400% any overcharges he had made to his Jericho fellow-citizens; while the young man went away sorrowful. He wanted eternal life, yes; but he wanted money even more.

Two questions

Two questions come to mind, on reading these stories. Is money a bad thing in itself, so bad that if you have it you must lose no time in getting rid of it? The answer is no. The young man was challenged to give up all his possessions; but Jesus did not lower the publican for giving away only half. And some other comparatively rich people whom Jesus knew, he never encouraged to be rid of their wealth at all. Money is a dangerous thing, and for some persons is spiritually fatal. But Jesus did not prescribe this drastic operation for every one, any more than a good doctor advises all his patients to have their gall bladders removed.

This brings up the other question: Did Jesus mean to say that we can buy our way into the Kingdom of heaven? By no means. A man's money is not the measure of his true self. God does not reward us for being rich, nor for being poor. What he looks at is how we use what we have.
