"ZIP" — WHO PAYS?

We're willing to go along with the enthusiastic endorsement "Pete" Hoke (publisher of The Reporter of Direct Mail Advertising) gives the Post Office's new "ZIP" (Zone Improvement Plan), its method of operation and its hoped-for results. But the fact remains that private users of the U.S. mails (who have already been saddled with repeated rate increases and constantly decreasing postal service in the last several years) will have to employ and pay for the personnel and equipment this new system will require.

In the name of all fairness, aren't private mailers entitled to reductions in their postal rates when they perform services of and for the Post Office?

How "ZIP" Will Work

The "ZIP Code" divides the country into geographical units, each part of a five-digit number. Mail carrying this number will be exempt from most post office handling and will go directly to its destination.

The first digit (from 0 to 9) indicates one of 10 geographical areas.

The second digit indicates a state or geographical portion of a heavily populated state or two less populated states in the area.

The third digit indicates a major destination point within the state.

The last two digits will indicate either a postal delivery station of a large city post office, a smaller post office served from a sectional center, or a single office building that gets large volume of mail.

The complete national "ZIP Code" will be ready for use by large mailers beginning July 1, on a voluntary basis. On that same date, the new edition of the department's annually revised "Directory of Post Offices," including all the code numbers, will be issued.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

It's time again for that first sunburn of the season. Here's how to do it. Go to the beach or pool on the first hot day. Stay all day in the sun in your swim suit, particularly through the noon hour, when the rays are most penetrating. Don't bother with protective lotions. It really is very easy to get a painful, almost crippling burn. If you stay out long enough, you can even get a deep, third-degree burn.

The Nome, Alaska, Nugget writes that it was Will Rogers who observed, "I don't make jokes—I just watch the government and report the facts."

The Secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department last year spent $3,500 on telegrams urging support for the Administration's College Aid Bill. Just published Committee hearings reveal the telegrams, each 30 inches long, went to every member of Congress. The HEW building is 2½ blocks from the Capitol. —Public Service Co. of Colorado.

The AMA was founded in Philadelphia in 1847 by 250 physicians from 22 states to promote the art and science of medicine and the betterment of public health. Today, 116 years later, its 200,000 members are in all parts of the world practicing some 37 medical specialties. Just over 18,000 of these physicians are in government or military service.

Frank S. Meyer in National Review says: "Communism . . . is a power machine whose essence is the drive to world conquest, a drive conducted on all levels but backed always by the threat of ruthless use of armed force and limited by no moral criterion, only by the criterion of probable success. It can be stopped only by force greater than the force of which it disposes."

ped only by force greater than the force of which it disposes."

The American Petroleum Institute maintains: "Since oil and gas are irreplaceable by man's effort and, since they are not limitless, continuing emphasis on conservation efforts is highly desirable to make these valuable assets available to present and future generations at reasonable price levels. This does not mean that oil and gas should be hoarded but should be used for the greatest good and in free competition with other energy sources."

The notion that massive federal intervention is the only solution to the problems confronting American education has been called "bunk" by Ladd Plumley, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He pins the same label on ideas that Russia is turning out super-scientists "while our own schoolmasters fumble along with inadequate schools and inept students (and) that everything will be worse tomorrow."

The railroads and other groups have urged the Senate Commerce Committee to eliminate unnecessary confusion and inconvenience to travelers and shippers over various times by establishment of a uniform time system for the nation. Part of the problem confronting the railroads at present is due to public business being transacted on one time basis while railroads are required to observe a different time standard.

Letter to Barron's, National Business & Financial Weekly: "... Price fixing has been tried thousands of times and always ended in failure. Let me remind you of three famous occasions: In the reigns of Tiberius, Domitian and Commodus, price fixing was tried and immediately created a black market; in Domitian's reign, sellers in the black market were executed, but the black market still persisted. How blind can our leaders be to the past?—John Pen-ywitt.

The Everhart Bakery is said to have furnished about 1,000 loaves of bread, each day this week, to Gettysburg.

Attorney S. Galt Birnie of Philadelphia is renewing his annual acquaintanceship with Taneytowners.

The week was memorable as a hot harvest week, but fortunately there was some air, even if it was hot air.

Gettysburg Battle—50th Anniversary. The big crowds commenced coming to Gettysburg on Sunday. There were literally thousands of automobiles and vehicles on the avenues all day. 20,000 veterans arrived during the day, about 5,000 being from the South. General Scales was one of the noted arrivals. During the day two northern veterans died on account of the heat.

Graham-Sentz — On June 27th, 1913, at the Lutheran parsonage, Taneytown, by Rev. L. B. Hafer, Mr. Andrew W. Graham and Miss Ruth V. Sentz, both of Taneytown district, were married.

The most of our old soldiers visited Gettysburg briefly this week, but there was not a large attendance of visitors from the town or neighborhood. The chief interest hereabouts, centers in the fireworks, this Thursday night.

TURNPIKE TRAVEL INSURANCE

Take to the turnpikes on your vacation this summer—they're three times safer than ordinary highways, according to National Safety Council. One reason for this "travel insurance" is steel median guard rail which eliminates deadly head-on crashes by preventing cars from crossing over into opposite lanes. New Jersey Turnpike, nation's busiest highway, has not had a single cross-over fatality since it installed guard rail down the center of most of its 118-mile length. Pennsylvania Turnpike is another bustling highway being modernized by installation of this steel lifesaver.

(The struggle of peoples around the world to win stability for their countries and better lives for themselves is one of the great stories of our time. Especially equipped to tell this story are OARE Mission Chiefs. On four continents they distribute the CARE food and Self-Help materials made possible by U.S. contributors; they are in daily contact with the men, women and children engaged in striving for growth. Here is a recent report by the Mission Chief in Sierra Leone, West Africa.)

SIERRA LEONE — When the Principal of St. Andrew's Secondary School in Bo, Sierra Leone, announced that CARE was about to begin a feeding program at the school, the assembly room shook with laughter. The American teachers — from Peace Corps and African-American Institute — were shocked: they'd seen the CARE posters in the States showing hungry children enjoying the food from America; and the children in the local primary schools were also participating in school feeding under the auspices of CARE. Now St. Andrew's too was to receive food. The boys' laughter was a disappointment to the staff.

The teachers questioned some of the boys. The laughter, they were told, was the consequence of joyful, ironic disbelief. Who could accept such an incredible thing as meals at schools? When the Principal explained the plans further, disbelief gave way to pure joy and irony was replaced by hope.

Now the hope is a reality; the students daily enjoy the OARE lunch. Made from basic food commodities (corn meal, flour, milk, and vegetable oil) donated by the people of the United States, locally available foods such as meat, fish, sugar, pepper, onions, oranges, and bananas are added. And the results have become immediately apparent: the students feel better, are more alert, and have greater sustenance for the sheer work of study.

St. Andrew's is one of forty-five post-primary schools in Sierra Leone. Students are selected on a competitive basis. Hard as it is to gain entry into a Secondary School in Sierra Leone, it is even more difficult to continue studies. There is not only the hardship of acquiring the school fees; room and board must be provided in most schools by the student himself, as there are few dormitories. Most students come from remote, rural — and poor — areas and they must seek housing and food from relatives or guardians. As highly as education is regarded in Sierra Leone, people are not usually able to give much assistance to the aspiring scholar. CARE's assistance in the School Feeding Program has dramatically helped. And with the additional assistance of CARE, St. Andrew's and other schools will go further.

Under the supervision of the Principal and the American teachers, students of St. Andrew's have begun clearing land with CARE tools to build their own dormitory. With a machine delivered by CARE, building blocks are being made. Carpentry and masonry tools have been supplied to the school and, when they are ready, CARE roofing material will also be provided.

A PLEASANT WALK

This is such a lovely, shimmering June day that I cannot resist the temptation to get out into the fresh air and take a walk. Indeed, I know of no better way to relax and to "take a breather" from my many tasks. It is so easy to let oneself slip into a dull routine of work and responsibility! Walking is one of my favorite methods for combating this.

And so, armed with a pair of binoculars and accompanied by my faithful dog, I set off down the lane at a leisurely pace, for even at this early morning hour, the heat is already intense. First of all, I check the corn fields. The vigorous green stalks are shooting up rapidly. On hot humid nights one can actually hear the corn grow.

The parent bluebirds and their offspring greet me down at the locust grove. I counted 4 young birds. A close-up look at one of them reveals a heavily spotted breast and back. Only the tail is blue. Bluebirds, as well as robins, are members of the thrush family. This fact explains the spotted markings of their young. Mr. and Mrs. Baltimore Oriole and family are quite active this morning, also.

The parents seem so proud of their little ones, and justly so. As I watch them flit back and forth, a bright-eyed squirrel darts up a tree. Overhead, a noisy bluejay screams. From down near the woods, the bob whites are calling to one another. They have a very easy call to identify, for they actually pronounce their name.

The dog, Skippy, wanders down the hill to the stream. His presence proves very upsetting to a pair of killdeer. The mother bird flops around on the ground, pretending to be crippled. What a clever ruse to divert attention away from her nest! It is remarkable how strong the protective instinct is in the parents of the wild.

Looking further down into the woods, I glimpse a Flicker, silhouetted against a dead tree. Flickers are large golden-brown woodpeckers. They, as well as their cousins, the red-headed woodpecker, are very abundant around here. I hear the plaintive call of the mourning dove, or rain crow, as it is sometimes called. Dainty white and yellow butterflies dance over the fields and meadows, as the sun climbs higher into the heavens. It is really becoming uncomfortable hot now, so I turn around and retrace my steps homeward.

My walk was relaxing and very pleasant. I feel willing and able now to take up my duties once again. For me, walking is more beneficial than any spring tonic!

—Zola Cantwell.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We think the following report of Editor and Publisher Hugh Ferguson of what happened, or didn't happen, in Heathsville, Va., when 'The Northumberland Echo' of that city offered free classified ads to job-seekers, will be of interest elsewhere around the nation. Under the heading: "ARE 'SITUATIONS' REALLY WANT-ED?" Publisher Ferguson wrote:

"It would be untrue to say that our editorial of last week (in which we offered to print 'Situations Wanted' ads free of charge) drew no response. The Richmond Times-Dispatch responded with a news article on it. A reader from Kilmarnock responded with a letter to the editor.

"And one 1961 high school graduate responded with an ad.

"Rather than spelling out any conclusions to be drawn from this information, we would rather here list a few of the more ironic facts about employment and unemployment in the Northern Neck.

"1—A tomato-canning factory in Lancaster County last summer was unable to find enough employees to operate at full production.

"2—A fisherman last year found that he had to give his crew a raise in order to get them to give up their unemployment checks. Why should they, in effect, work all week for a mere ten or fifteen dollars more than they could draw at the unemployment office?

"3—A canning factory executive recently was asked by an employee to keep that employee's wages down below a certain level—so that unemployment compensation could still be claimed.

"4—The owner of a marina was approached by a job applicant last year—but the applicant stipulated that he did not want to work on week-ends or holidays (when the marina would naturally get most of its trade).

"It may well be that there is a high rate of unemployment in our area. But surely, most of our jobless are unemployed by choice! They might take a job, if it were offered to them, if it paid well enough, if it required little enough effort and responsibility and enterprise.

"But how many of them are actually seeking employment? How many of them are approaching employers with the request that they be given the chance to prove their ability? How many of them are asking for the opportunity to serve as an apprentice in a skilled trade? How many really want to pull their own weight?

"We submit that there are mighty few of them. Those with that attitude have already found jobs—and always will."

Are things different out your way? Sincerely,
Bob Taylor.

Kiwanis Clubs On European Continent

Three new Kiwanis clubs, one in Vienna, Austria, one in Basel, Switzerland, and one in Brussels, Belgium were chartered early in May, to mark the entry of the 48-year old service organization into cities of the European continent, according to Oliver Leakins, President of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown, Md. Prior to this year, Kiwanis served only in the U. S., Canada, Mexico, and the Bahamas. The latter two countries were entered in 1962.

The Vienna club was chartered on May 4, the Basel club on May 9, and the Brussels club on May 13. Present at each of the charter ceremonies were 147 Americans, Canadians, and Bahama Islanders, all members of the Kiwanis European Mission. The Mission was undertaken to permit Kiwanis leaders and members to become acquainted with the nations in Europe into which Kiwanis is now extending, and to be on hand to provide proper send-offs for the fledgling European clubs. The Kiwanis European Mission represented 29 states, 2 Canadian provinces, and the Bahamas. Some 52 occupational groups were represented, making a true cross section of business and professional life in the New World.

Merle H. Tucker, Gallup, New Mexico, President of Kiwanis International, led the European Mission. Tucker was principal speaker at each of the three charter ceremonies. He also presented the respects of Kiwanis International to the municipal leaders of the three cities into which Kiwanis is extending, thanking these leaders for the opportunity to establish Kiwanis clubs there, and pledging the greatest of effort to make the new clubs important adjuncts to their cities.

At each charter ceremony President Tucker said, "Now it is to be our privilege, we firmly and humbly believe, to assist in our small way, we in Kiwanis, toward the solution of the greater problems of mankind brought about by the collisions, the differences in opinion, and the stresses and strains of a truly international world in the making."

"May our philosophy, which we firmly believe is the right philosophy multiplied a thousand-fold by the efforts of men in the new Kiwanis clubs of Europe and throughout the world—may that philosophy contribute materially toward a better life for all in the years that lie ahead."

The people-to-people character of the Kiwanis European Mission was dramatized when President Tucker laid the cornerstone for The House of Kiwanis, a building providing living quarters for 80 students and apprentices living at the SOS Children's Village near Vienna. The House of Kiwanis will be the first project of the first Kiwanis club of Europe, just as work with one youngster was the first project of the first Kiwanis club ever established—Detroit, Mich., in 1915.

"Our common concern for the welfare of young people has spanned the ocean and the years," President Tucker said, "proving that men of good will can work together for their fellow man despite the restrictions of boundaries, nationalities, or even the years, themselves."

In speaking to the European Mayors to whom Tucker paid the respects of all Kiwanians, the Kiwanis leader said, "We did not come here to ask you to do things our way. We came with an idea—the idea of service—which we believe to be a sound one. We believe that idea can be adapted to your customs and your way of life, and that you may benefit by that adaptation. If this is so, then we are proud and humble—proud that your people have asked Kiwanis to come to your city; humble because of the challenge that confidence places on our shoulders."

Included on the Mission roster were the President-Elect of Kiwanis International, C. A. Swain of Cape May, New Jersey; Mel R. Osborne, Toronto, Ontario (East York Club); Vice President; Edward B. Moylan, Jr., Miami, Fla.; Treasurer; O. E. Peterson, Chicago, Ill.; Secretary; Harold M. Heimbach, Los Angeles, Calif. (West Hollywood Club); Jack Willis, Winnipeg, Manitoba (East Kildonan Club); and Marshall E. Jetty, Hillview, Brockway, Pa. (Saint Mary's Club). Trustees, Five of the 30 Kiwanis district governors participated, too. They represented the Capital District, the Kansas District, the Michigan District, the Montana District, and the Texas-Oklahoma District.

The group visited Copenhagen, Denmark; Vienna, Austria; Lucerne, Zurich, and Basel Switzerland; Paris, France; Amsterdam, The Netherlands; Brussels, Belgium; and London, England. They departed New York on April 29, returning to their homes on May 16.

Dog Care For Dog Days

Dog days — named for Sirius, the dog star which rises with the sun in the heat of summer — can be as rough on Rover as they are on you! But he can't complain about the weather!

To ensure his comfort when the mercury soars confine running, ball playing and strenuous exercise to the relative cool of early morning and evening.

Provide a dark, quiet spot for resting when the sun is strong. During the summer months, ignore the songwriters' advice and keep away from the sunny side of the street... baked asphalt and tar tend to stick to paws.

Just as you enjoy a cool dip, your dog will find a swim or sponge bath refreshing. A word of caution from Purina Dog Care Center authority, Clarence C. Fawcett, "After any salt water aquatics, wash his eyes and bathe his ears with a cloth dampened with fresh water."

Remember to examine your pet frequently for insect bites. And watch for summertime allergies. What may start as a small skin irritation can be scratched into a serious one.

And don't forget to make plenty of cool water available for him at all times.

The Fish Are In The Bag!

The idea of spooning shrimp sauce over boned fish, then baking it in cleverly folded heavy paper, originated in old New Orleans French restaurants for serving Gulf pompano "en papillote." But it is adaptable to any fish, fresh or frozen, and ordinary brown paper sandwich bags, well brushed with oil, will do the trick. The bags keep the sauced fish piping hot and everyone opens his own and eats from it. It's an easy exciting way to serve fish outdoors. The filled bags may be prepared hours ahead and refrigerated. Time-saving canned shrimp, always at their best in a sauce, are used in this one, and it goes together quickly. Later, these shrimp pop up in the bag, after extra cooking, as tasty, pink, and shrimp-shapely as you please.

SHRIMP SAUCE FOR FISH, EN PAPILOTE

1 can (4 1/2 ounces) shrimp	1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons butter	1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, drained	1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1/4 cup flour	2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 cups milk	6 raw fish fillets
1 teaspoon salt	6 brown paper sandwich bags, oiled
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1/4 teaspoon cayenne

Drain and rinse shrimp. Melt butter in a saucepan; saute mushrooms a minute or so. Blend in flour; add milk and dry seasonings. Cook over medium-low heat until sauce begins to thicken. Quickly stir a little of it into the egg yolk, then add yolk to sauce. Cook-stir until sauce is quite thick. Remove from heat; add lemon juice and shrimp. Blot fillets dry and spoon sauce over them. Place one in each bag; fold bag ends under. Bake about 25 minutes at 400 degrees.

ROUND TRIP: 10,000 AIR MILES — Dr. and Mrs. James Teeter plot their itinerary with the aid of a big map. They left Saturday from New York, the flight touched in Paris and continued by Air Afrique to the Ivory Coast, a distance of 6,000 miles. The return journey at the end of July will follow the direct 4,000 mile route home.

LOCAL DOCTOR-NURSE TEAM
ON AFRICAN HOSPITAL 'SAFARI'

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Teeter left Waynesboro, Pa., Saturday on a unique safari to Africa's Ivory Coast.

Instead of bringing death to the wildlife of Africa, the doctor and his nurse-wife will take life itself to the tribes of remote Ferkessedougou. They will be armed not with guns but with very special skills developed through years of study, training and practice.

Dr. Teeter's office at 117 W. Main St., Waynesboro, will be closed in July while he and Mrs. Teeter are absent on their working holiday. "I will return to my practice here August 1," said the doctor.

The Teeter doctor-nurse unit went to a Baptist missionary hospital north of Abidjan, capital of the Ivory Coast Republic. In the hospital operating room the Teeters will free Dr. Dwight Slater, 35, from his duties.

Dr. Slater and his brother, Dr. John Slater, 31, comprise the entire medical staff of the hospital. It has 50 beds serving 500,000 people.

"Compare the figures with Waynesboro's 100-bed hospital for 20,000 persons and it is easy to realize the great need of this mission hospital in a distant corner of the earth," Dr. Teeter pointed out.

The couple's trip is being sponsored by the Christian Medical Society with headquarters in Chicago, Ill. This means that the Teeters pay all their own traveling expenses and donate their services for the privilege of working one month in the short-term missionary program.

Several hundred doctors of all denominations are enrolled in the society. Some contribute up to three months' time annually.

"We hope this trip is but the first of many to other lands," Dr. Teeter said. His wife pointed out that their sons may be able to accompany them in years to come. "They are just a bit young at the moment," she added.

Dr. Teeter expects to spend most of his time in surgery. "The language may be different, but the human body and its ailments is much the same the world over.

Leaving Idlewild Airport at 7 P. M. Saturday, the couple flew Air France to Paris, arriving in time for early breakfast. A day's sightseeing schedule before the Teeters left Orly Airport at 10:30 P. M. Monday. They arrived at Abidjan early Tuesday, again in time for breakfast.

There's a Wednesday plane into the interior each week. The flight of 2 1/2 hours landed the doctor and his wife in the vicinity of the mission hospital. There, they will occupy a bungalow on the grounds. Another couple has already promised the loan of their houseboy to help with the Teeter laundry.

Why would a busy doctor lock the doors of his office and travel 6,000 miles so he and his wife could spend their vacation in hard work?

Their answer is brief and to the point: "Because there's a great need for the work we can do."

The Teeters lived in Taneytown for a number of years.

FISHING LINES

By DICK WOLFF

With the world coming alive again and the trout season open, it's time for the angler to start planning hikes to his favorite stream. Not necessarily 50-mile jaunts of the Washington variety—but just a pleasant stroll from highway to nearby brook.

One of the things a fisherman has to do this time of year is sharpen his sluggish, winter-jaded senses. The first time out, too many people look around but don't see. A chap driving with us recently, for example, didn't even spot the hawk and crow sitting on the same tree branch even though he was in the passenger seat as we went by these two natural enemies perched side-by-side.

Ever notice one of your companions slapping insects on the back of his neck? It's the same thing: the bugs biting you may be the very ones the trout are taking. So open your eyes when you get to the lake or stream, look carefully into the water and study what's beneath the surface. Just the way a minnow swims will give you a clue to what colors, sizes and movements will attract a fish.

One thing your observations should reveal in early spring, when the big 'uns, start gobbling the little 'uns, is that everything is moving faster. That means you want lures that maneuver convincingly to trigger the reflexes of a pike, a trout or a bass.

An artificial bait that offers this naturalness is the Vixen, a shapely imitation of a minnow that puts out its siren call with a wierd and wondrous wiggle. Its curved, streamlined shape causes it to slither through the water in a most enticing fashion. Field tests show it to be a deadly fish catcher.

Or, you may favor the Garcia Eel, a natural lure so real and deceptively lifelike that live eels call it "Brother." Try the 3/16-ounce size; chances are it will dance most effectively in the local pond still overflowing with melting snow.

As long as you're stressing light tackle, there's no point in defeating the purpose with heavy line. You'll find Platyl Monofilament, preferably in the 4- to 12-pound test range, most suitable for the task. The soft line, so supple it comes off the spool effortlessly, is practically invisible as it spins off the cast.

All these fast-moving tackle elements do an even better job when used with a Garcia rod. The spin-casting and bait-casting models with fast-taper design, feature sensitive tips that help the lines dart through water to duplicate the natural movement of live bait.

Toss in an Abu-Matic 140 spin-casting reel to round out a balanced tackle program, and you're all set to return to that brook where you saw "a beauty" just before the season ended last Fall. Maybe his cousin is there now.

Milk, the Drink of Champions

When Parnelli Jones won this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race at Indianapolis, he did it in record time. He also set a record of sorts in downing a quart of milk (upper photo), even while acknowledging the cheers of the crowd during the trophy presentation ceremony. Note the fabulous first-place winner's trophy which looms over Jones' head.

Roger Ward (lower photo), who won the Indianapolis "500" in 1962 and this year copped fourth place, also is a champion milk drinker. He is pictured as he quaffed a quart of Borden's, slaking his thirst following a qualifying heat at Indianapolis. Although "June Is Dairy Month" throughout America, every month is milk-drinking month to these famous racers. With other sports stars, they have made milk the drink of champions.

The God Who Acts

Lesson for July 7, 1963

Bible Material: Genesis 1 and 2.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 33:1-12.

BELIEVING there is a God is necessary to religion; but just believing that God exists doesn't make a person religious. Believing there is a school doesn't make me educated; believing there is a hospital somewhere will not mend my broken leg; believing that women exist does not make a marriage. So believing that God exists does not make religion, it is only the bare start of it.

That God is, is Dr. Foreman important; what He is, is more important; but the Christian religion, and the Jewish before us, believe that we haven't got to the heart of the matter till we have asked, "What does God do?" The God of the Bible is not a serene infinite Contemplator, lost in his own great thoughts, viewing human affairs with indifference, as an emperor might look at an anthill. The God we worship is a God who acts. He is a God whose actions, so far as we are concerned with us, have been revealed to us through the Bible. At the beginning of the Ten Commandments God is identified, not by describing what He is like, but by recalling what He has done.

Why God acts

The very first mention of God in the Bible, in the very first sentence, tells of something God did: He "created the heavens and the earth." We must not fancy that God had been spending eternity in idleness and that now for the first time He was stirred up to action. But whatever else God has done, His dealings with men and women began, we may say, when He made the world in which we live. The Christian theologians generally believe that God didn't have to create any world at all, or this one in particular. He was entirely free in creation.

Still, He must have had reasons. He is not a God who does anything "just for the fun of it." We are not left to sheer guess work. We can perhaps not comprehend why God should create anything at all; but we can think of some good reasons why God created this kind of universe. The story in Genesis tells of God's creating a world carefully ordered; a world beginning with light; a world filled with life. It is a fair belief that God acted in this way because He does not approve of disorder, darkness and death.

Where God acts

God doubtless acts in ways and places far beyond our power to follow Him even in thought. But within the range of our line of sight, so to speak, God acts in two realms: the realm of nature and the realm of man. God does not force His way into nature or the life of man. He belongs in both because He created both, and He did not shut himself out when He made them. People sometimes make the mistake of ascribing to God only events that are mysterious and terrible. On insurance contracts, for example, "act of God" means disaster of some kind. But God is in the world on a sunny summer morning just as much as in a blizzard. It is by an act of God that the sun is bright and the sky is blue; for it is by an act of God that there is a sun and a sky at all. Christians do not believe that God made this world and tossed it—this earth and all the stars there are—out into space to spin in the emptiness as best it can. Rather, God upholds the earth and the heavens, keeps them going, is at work continually. The growth of a flower is as much of a miracle as could be imagined, only we have grown used to the mighty and amazing acts of God that we can see every day.

How God acts

God also acts in man. We believe that all good comes from him. Wherever we see an unselfish act, wherever we see a selfless devotion, wherever there is sincere repentance for sin, there we see God at work by His Spirit. Whoever abides in love abides in God, one apostle wrote,—for "God is love."

But how can the Holy God work in unholiness? How can the infinite God who is Spirit be at work in this material universe? This we do not know, and God has not revealed to us the how of His actions. If we knew how God acts in the universe and in man especially, we should know as much as God does. To recognize God, to love and to serve Him, it is not necessary first to explain Him.

Straw Hat Time In Strawberry Patch

Pick yourself some scarlet berries and make this pie. A sweet, transparent glaze filling brimful of berries nestles in a tender pie crust lined with softened cream cheese—delicious!

GLAZED STRAWBERRY PIE

Makes one 9-inch pie

Pie Crust:
One half 10-oz. pkg. (1 cup) 1 cup sugar
Flako Pie Crust Mix 3/4 cup water
2 tablespoons cold water 2 pints fresh strawberries, washed and hulled

Filling:
One 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
Sweetened whipped cream

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For pie crust, measure 1 cup pie crust mix into bowl. Sprinkle cold water by tablespoons over mix; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary, add another one-half tablespoon cold water to make dough hold together.) Form into ball. Roll dough out on lightly floured board or canvas to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Trim; flute edges; prick bottom and sides. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool.

Blend together cream cheese and confectioners' sugar; spread on bottom and sides of baked pie crust. Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; stir in water and 1 cup strawberries. Cook over medium heat until thickened and clear; reduce heat to low and cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool 5 minutes. Arrange remaining strawberries in pie crust. Pour cooled glaze over strawberries. Just before serving, garnish with sweetened whipped cream.
