A Voice from the House

The Hughes Committee and the Cooper Commission have been the subject of many news releases over the past six months. The final report will be submitted to the General Assembly when it convenes, and there will be recommendations for changing the tax laws for this State which will affect almost everyone.

The Cooper Commission was established as a result of a Legislative Resolution to review the exisiting state and local tax structures and the distribution of those taxes. This Commission prepared reports, and a spe-cial legislative committee, known as the Hughes Committee because of its chairman, Senator Harry Hughes of Caroline County, was appointed to review these reports, hold public hearings and report with recommenda-tions to the Legislature. This Com-mittee consisted of six Senators and six Delegates selected from around the State. I have served on the Com-mittee as one of the Delegates.

Customers served by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland reached an all time of nearly 1,000,000 in 1965, according to L. Mercer Smith, vice president. At year's end, the total number of telephones sorving these sustemers telephones serving these customers had also reached a peak of over a million and three quarters. The increase of 134,000 telephones in 1965 was the largest in any year in our history.

Mr. Smith placed special emphasis on the economic prosperity of Maryland and the contribution made by the C&P and other Bell System companies doing business in the state.

More than 20,000 Bell System people are employed in the Free State. They buy their groceries, their clothing and all other necessities of life right here in Maryland. They are taxpayers, too. The total payroll of these Bell System people amounts to more than $140,000,000 each year.

It is interesting to note that while Bell System expenditures in Maryland amounted to some $246,000,000, people of Maryland paid $215, 000,000 for telephone service. A dollar spent for telephone service was returned into the state's economy as $1.15. It is indeed unusual to find a company which puts more into the

In summary, Mr. Smith said, "We are proud to make an economic contribution of this magnitude to the State of Maryland and we are even more proud of the job we have done in meeting the growth and service requirements of nearly a million Maryland customers — and I am pleased to say that they are now all served by modern dial equipment."

One Christmas Eve there was a small boy standing outside the church door. How he wished he could enter the church and present a gift to Jesus. But he was noor and had to Jesus. But he was poor and had nothing to give. "I can at least pray," he thought to himself. He knelt outside the church window and listened to the voices raised in song. When he rose to his feet again he was amazed at what he saw in the spot where he had knelt. It was a beautiwhere he had knelt. It was a beautiful plant with scarlet leaves and a yellow flower center. He had never seen anything like it. Realizing it was a miracle, he carefully plucked it and took it into the church. As he placed the beautiful flower before the manger, he whispered, "This is placed the beautiful flower before the manger, he whispered, "This is my gift to the Christ Child. My own precious gift." The Mexicans called the plant "The Flower of the Holy Night." Our first Ambassador to Mexico, Dr. Joel Roberts Poinsett, brought the flower to the United States and it became known as the

ALL AROUND THE PROBLEM

Should a scholar who accepts a government research grant also be willing to accept government rules on how to do the work? That question is being discussed quite a bit these days in colleges and universities. And with millions of tax dollars being spent on such grants, it might be a good idea if we taxpayers gave a little thought to the question, too; perhaps passing our thoughts along to our Congressmen, who are supposed to have some control over how our tax dollars are spent.

It's easy enough to say, as some do, that anyone who accepts money to do a research job should also accept the rules laid down by whoever puts up the money. But this doesn't work with a government grant because the taxpayers put up the money while some political appointee or career bureaucrat lays down the rules. A classic example of what usually happens under that arrangement showed up during the hearings in early 1965 on appropriations for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. When members of the House and Senate appropriations committees examined research papers produced by professors who received grants from that agency, almost without exception those researchers had left unchallenged the premises laid down by the agency beforehand, and ended up simply endorsing and promoting the current policy line. In some cases the research papers appeared as nothing more than rewrites of theoretical papers published months and years before by leading proponents of international arms control.

Former Secretary of HEW, Arthur Flemming, who is now president of the University of Oregon, said recently that if conditions surounding research grants "would impair a scholar's freedom of inquiry, he has an obligation to say no to the government . . . This may cause the government to change its policies." A noble thought, we agree, and perhaps practical enough for a university president. But faculty members in lower pay brackets might see it a little differently. Those who agree with the current policy line, or who were willing to say so for cash, would then get all the grants and there would be even less objective research.

Moreover, it is apparent that Mr. Flemming and most other scholars who have made news on this topic never entertain the thought of doing away with government research grants. They propose there should be even more such grants, only with fewer restrictions on "freedom of inquiry." Which is, as we see it, talking around the real problem. The question should be whether all these government grants are necessary or proper in the first place.

I remember around Christmas and New Year the neighbors would gather at one another's homes and we would have a wonderful evening together. In those days people would bake lots and lots of layer cakes and cookies and home-made Congratulations this week to the new grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn (Jimmy) Groshun of Keysville. MEETING OF CHURCH WORKERS

Lay Life and Work of Grace United Church of Christ, Taneytown, met on January 6 at 8:00 P. M. with David Reifsnider presiding. Plans were made for the Congregational Meeting to be held on Saturday, Feb. 19, at 7:30 P. M. At this meeting members will be informed of the progress and the honor of being the only man in the last 35 years to hit .400. Ted hit .406 in 1941. The last one before him to top .400 was Bill Terry of the Giants who turned the trick in 1930 with a .401 mark.

Despite his many differences with 7:30 P. M. At this meeting members will be informed of the progress and accomplishments of the various organizations of the church during the past year. There will be time for past year. There will be time members to ask any questions they might have, or to make any suggestions for the coming year. Special entertainment will also be presented and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the meeting. Mr. Murray Baumgardner and Mrs. Virgina Sanders were appointed to take charge of the publicity for this meeting. The refreshment committee consists of Mrs. Jerri Musser and Mrs. Anna Motter.

It was decided to give $400 toward the cost of paving the parking lot.
Mr. George Motter was made chairman of a committee to plan a Christian Education Program to be held sometime in the spring.

THE WAY I SEE IT ...

Observations on the World of Sports -John Breth

Here it is the dead of winter and the Houston Astros are talking as if they have a candidate for Rookie-of-the-Year honors in baseball. He is SONNY JACKSON, a shortstop whom the Astros say has a starting job all wrapped up.

Jackson's credentials are very impressive. But they were established in the minor leagues, and the 21-year-old infielder has a big jump in front of him. He played last season for Oklahoma City in the Pacific Coast League, and he wound up with a batting average of .331, which in itself, is enough to warrant attention.

Among the others who will get a chance at spring training is Norman Miller, an outfielder, who showed both power and a good batting eye last year with Amarillo. It will be surprising if TED WILLIAMS isn't named to the baseball Hall of Fame in the forthcoming provided each service which will be held at 7:30 P. M. Sunday evening the Children's and Youth group will provide the special music. The public is cordially invited to these services anybody else will get in along with the special music. This is the first year that the 450 baseball writers who do the voting have had a chance to cast a ballot for Ted. His last year as a player was 1959. He finished with a lifetime average of .344 with 521 homers and the honor of being the only man

But that brings up the question of whose else? Among the holdovers from the last ballot are Red Ruffing, Roy Campanella, Joe Medwick, Pee Wee Reese, Lou Boudreau, Al Lopez, Leo Durocher, Billy Herman, and Ralph Kiner. Among those eligible for the first time under the rule which says a man must be retired five years are such former greats as Country Slaughter, Don Newcombe, Alvin Dark, Hank Sauer and Bobby

But our guess would be that if anybody makes it, Roy Campanella will be the man. Campy was a great catcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers and no less than three times was voted the Most Valuable Player Award in the National League. Roy won it in 1951, 1953 and 1955. Today's Sport Laugh-Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers was 29 when he stole his record number of 104 bases in 1962. Now he is 32 and still going at a record pace. Wills puts it this way: "I don't admit to being three years older, I'm three years smarter."

League play began with the Tigers playing the Globetrotters and the Globetrotters coming out on top by a score of 18 to 4. Paul Sell and Dana Gonder paced the victors with 8 points; each and Barry Garner scored the 4 points for the losers.

The Bullets beat the 76ers by a score of 13 to 9 in a closely knit ball game. Brian Etzler was top man for the winners with 5 points and John Zentz led the losers with four points.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills, Mgr.

Phone 756-2281 or 756-4842

If you're planning to do any painting in your home, you can "buy insurance" against a possibly fatal illness in your child by being sure the paint you buy does not contain lead.

Lead poisoning in small children is still a critical health problem, according to a report from the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies. Lead poisoning, which can be fatal, is difficult to diagnose, and, if undetected, can damage a child's brain cells and prevent their regeneration.

The accident prevention department of the Association says children are particularly susceptible because of their tendency to chew objects of all kinds. They gnaw on the sills as they look out of a window, they chew on their cribs or they'll put a toy in their mouths just because it somehow seems to be a good idea.

The disease is most prevalent in slum areas although children in better homes are not immune. Entire families are sometimes poisoned when they burn old automobile battery casings for heat. The fumes contain lead.

The accident prevention department of the ACSC suggests five preventive measures parents can take: give your baby a clean teething ring or hard rubber toy he can chew without danger; never use a lead paint indoors; never use outside paint for indoor work, because many outdoor paints have a high lead content; remove old paint if it contains lead; if you suspect your child may have eaten lead paint, call your physician or local health department to investigate.

God Is Holy

Lesson for January 16, 1966

Background Scripture: Leviticus 19:1, 2; I Chronicles 29:10-19; Psalm 29; Isaiah 40:21-31; 55:8, 9; Acts 17:22-31; Romans II: 33-36; Revelation 4:6b-11. Devotional Reading: Psalm 97.

IF YOU STOP a dozen Christians on the street or on the way home from church, and ask them: Do you believe God is holy? They will all give you an odd look that means — What a silly question! Of course he is holy. But then if you asked these people just what exactly does 'holy' mean? You would run into a blank wall. If ordinary believers are confused by this word, no wonder, for professional theologians themselves are not agreed about the exact meaning of it. Probably the best suggestion is that holiness in the Bible has two meanings: for one thing, it stands for the highest degree of goodness, the closest following of the will of God. The other meaning is lofty even if obscure: it stands for those qualities in God which a man can never understand and cannot fully share. It stands for God's apartness, his indescribable greatness, for all the mystery and majesty of his sublime Being. God's holiness in his "otherness," what is techni-cally called his "transcendence."

God alone creates

The Saturday Evening Post a few years ago carried an article by a famed theologian of our time in which he said that God does not exist. This shocked a great many readers, who did not read on to see what the writer meant. Just look at any object in sight — a window-plant, your own hand, a glass of milk, the mercury in a thermometer . . These things and uncounted millions more exist. God is as real as they are, and much more so indeed. But God "exists" in such a different way that some theologians (including the author of is, we believe in God first of ali as Creator. You would not have to rearrange the universe much to wipe out the entire human race; but even if you wiped out the universe down to the last atom, God would be just as great as ever, and just as able to create all over again.

the article) do not like to use the same word for it. The fact

Words that point at God

One way in which men have tried to speak of God is to use the noblest and strongest words imaginable - glorious, just, merciful, wise, victorious and many others, and say that God is all these things PLUS. God is greater than the greatest we can imagine, more powerful than any power dreamed by man, good to a degree we can never appreciate. Language about God is (so to speak) thrown at him rather than fitted around him. God's holiness is this beyondness, this more-ness, this most sublime, this all-highestness which our human languages can only suggest and never describe.

Stand in awe

The writers of the Bible dare not to be too familiar with this majestic and holy lord of all. A common word used in the Bible to describe the attitude toward God that is the basis of religion itself is the word "fear." We read of God-fearing men. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and so on. This does not mean terror. God is not a big Scare. It does mean the most profound reverence. Another word for what is in the heart of a man who sincerely wishes to worship this one true God, a better word than fear, is awe. Awe has been described as a mingling of desire and dread. The true worshipper never forgets the overwhelming greatness of the Almighty, and so never treats God like an equal. But unlike those African tribes who know of the High God, but have no desire to meet him, the Christian feels in the midst of his embarrassment and even fear in the presence of the Eternal Mystery, the drawing power of the Divine Love.

How can a phone get any rest on a Sunday with Long Distance rates so low?

It can't, of course. Sunday is the day to find everyone at home . . . to swap good news . . . to share good humor.

And it costs so little. All day Sunday, you can make a 3-minute "station" call to any place in Maryland for 45¢ or less, and to any place in the continental U.S. at bargain rates, too.
