GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

STAR CITY, ARK., LINCOLN LEDGER: "Regardless of our party affiliations, our loyalties, and our apprehensions, government is a major concern of the people. We are the people. Therefore, government is our concern. We must be involved to have a truly good governmental organization. Otherwise, government will be above us or remote to us. Under ruling such as this, we, the people, would be reduced to utter socialism. . . . We must not only show that we are interested, we must produce an extra measure of care. Or, it will be too late to salvage any type of government that really belongs to the people."

SAFFORD, ARIZ., GUARDIAN: "This year's administrative budget—and this is considerably smaller than the sum total of the Treasury's total expenditures—was announced at under $100 billion by President Johnson. However, the best estimates as of now are that by the end of the fiscal year, on July 1, 1966, the Administration will have gone at least $10 billion over what was budgeted. This will give the Treasury one of the biggest peace-time deficits in history. . . . This is one reason why the Administration is talking of increasing taxes. The Great Society may be great—but it's expensive, and to all of us."

CHICKASHA, OKLA., STAR: "Remember that old Bible story about the handwriting on the wall? Maybe there was a little handwriting on the wall when in the eastern states the lights went ka-fluey and no one could figure just why. Then along comes this subway strike in New York City and traffic jams the streets. Maybe that handwriting on the wall is saying, 'Decentralize, Decentralize.' Wonder what would happen if the filling station operators got together and struck at the same time: the subway workers struck?"

PRENTISS, MISS., HEADLIGHT: "We see the spread of growing bureaucracy like octopus arms spreading out to every nook and corner into business and private life, to bring about rule by man, and not by law. . . . We are being driven by authority in Washington just as relentlessly as Pharaoh's Army drove the Children of Israel. . . . there is one resolve that should be made by all. . . . that is that the only government under which free men can live is that of constitutional government. . . . rule by law and not by man. . . . with checks and balances as laid down by the founders of our Nation. This is the best form of government under God's shining sun, and the liberty of the individual is our most precious heritage. If you want freedom, you must fight to keep it. . . . it is a precious thing that must be earned every day."

SHELDON, IOWA, MAIL: "Why bother to climb the ladder of success? Wait a while and the government will probably build you an escalator."

HUNTINGTON, IND., HERALD-PRESS: "If there was ever a newspaper reporter who did not yearn at some time in his life to own a newspaper and run it the way he wanted, he is a rarity. But the number who turned the deal are few indeed. That helps make William Hobbs a man of unique distinction. Mr. Hobbs is only 23 years old, but at this tender age he has figured out the possibility of financing the start of a newspaper. . . . Pursuing Mr. Hobbs' idea, the University-Neighborhood Council voted to apply to the Office of Economic Opportunity for funds to start a community newspaper in the Cardozo area of the Washington, D.C., complex. . . . Full sympathy is held with those congressmen who cry the dangers of a subsidized press when the government begins setting up newspapers in the name of poverty. . . ."

BALTIMORE, MD., RECORD: "Pan American World Airways is again requesting the Civil Aeronautics Board to grant its permission to haul international passengers across the country. . . . If, for example, a Pan-Am passenger wishes to fly from New York around the world, East to West, he must change planes on the last lap when he reaches California. If he flies from Europe to the West Coast, he must change airlines on the East Coast. Meanwhile, BOAC, Quantas and Japan Air Lines haul international passengers coast-to-coast. TWA, not a global airline in the same sense, does also."

They also read Bible passages about four women who came in contact with Jesus and it was learned that women's status was changed by Christ for He treated them with respect and dignity and as equals in the sight of the Lord.

In the lives of those four women He found qualities that should be apparent in all of us, too: faithfulness, persistence, unselfishness and responsiveness. "Does He," the text asked, "find these qualities in you?"

Thought those of you who know that the children at Elmer A. Wolfe School save their popsicle sticks for the TB Association would like to know that over 13,000 (yes, thousand) have been saved, and washed for this fine cause. They are used for therapy.

FAIRVIEW

There seems to be an epidemic around here, mostly among the children, with the exception of one adult, as far as I know, it is called Scarlet-rash; the symptoms are a bad headache, sore throat and a temperature followed by a rash—it seems the children do not mind it at all, but the older ones get pretty sick.

We were sorry to learn of the death of Mr. John Heltbride of Bark Hill, who passed away last week. His wife and family have our deepest sympathy. Mr. Heltbride had a wide circle of friends who will miss him very much.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baker were Rev. Wilbur Whalen, Mr. and Mrs. — Brownfield, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baker and Franklin Baker.

Visitors on Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frock, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adkins and children, Joyce, Mary and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carl and children, David, Danny and Debbie, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lookingbill, Mrs. Mae Buffington and daughter, Mrs. Marie Moss, also spent Wednesday evening in the same home.

The snow from the blizzard of '66 is about all gone from around here. As we look around over the country we see a drift here and there.

"Home" by T. P. Egling

This Pilgrimage of sorrow shall soon come to an end and we'll be home again. How longingly we're gazing to heaven's happy land; Where heartache, pain and weeping shall dim our eyes no more; When we awake from sleeping, on heaven's happy shore, Only a few more sorrows, only a few more fears; When on that great tomorrow Christ wipes away all tears, And broken hearts singing with joys and aches no more; While welcome bells are ringing on heaven's happy shore, They watch and pray and labor, till that great day shall come; And try to lead a neighbor to heaven's happy home; There may be some more sorrows, But glory hallelujah With Jesus we shall reign.

Eyer, who died four years ago. Born in Carroll County, she was a daughter of the late Daniel C. and Sarah Barnes Dickenses. Surviving are a step-daughter, Mrs. Daisy Blacksten, New Windsor; a step-son, Wilbur H. Eyer, Cincinnati, Ohio; seven step-grandchildren, 20 step-great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Ecker, Union Bridge, and Mrs. Carrie S. Winters, Hanover; a brother, William G. Dickenses, Uniontown, and a number of nieces and nephews. Mrs. Eyer was a member of Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren, near New Windsor. The funeral service will be held (today) Thursday at 1:00 A. Corn Growers Cautioned Against Over-Optimism

Feed grain producers who have a mistaken notion that the Food for Freedom Program could call for increased corn production and exports this year would do well to examine the facts and then file an application to take part in the 1966 feed grain program, according to Stuart C. Peterson, Manager, Carroll Agricultural Stabilization Service; 33 Court St.

To put the record straight, the Manager emphasized that the Department of Agriculture continues to urge full participation in the 1966 feed grain program.

India, where the food situation is desperate in some sections, received 4,600,000 bushels of U. S. corn during the year 1964. This is equal to about one bushel for each thousand bushels produced in the U. S. last year. The people of India, together with those in most of other food-deficit areas, are not corn eaters. They eat rice when they can get it and fall back on wheat and in some cases grain sorghum if rice is not available.

So suggested changes in U. S. crop production, indicated in President Johnson's Food for Freedom message to Congress and his directives to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, call for increase only for rice (a 10 percent boost in the acreage allotment) and action to encourage the production of soybeans to the acreage schedule to be planted to feed grains under the feed grain program.

U. S. production of corn last year was a record 4,171,000,000 bushels and feed grain stocks are more than sufficient. For 1965-1966, the U. S. corn supply is set at 5,342,000,000 bushels, 4 percent larger than in 1964. The total supply of corn would have been much higher if farmers had not diverted from production last year some 25,000,000 acres of corn under the feed grain program.

Despite an increase in feed grain exports, the total supply is entirely adequate to supply domestic needs, and exports, and leave a substantial carryover at the time the 1966 crop is harvested. The exports of corn are used principally for livestock feed and not as feed for people.

Manager, Peterson, urged growers to consider all the facts carefully and not wait until the last minute to file an application to take part in the 1966 feed grain program. The sign-up is now under way in the ASCS county office. Sign-up period closes April 1, 1966.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TO SEEK MONEY FOR BAND UNIFORMS

Starting Monday, March 14, and continuing for two weeks, band members at Taneytown High School will campaign to raise money for additional uniforms.

This announcement was made by Mr. Francis E. Lookingbill, president of the Band Parents Association of the school.

"This year we will be working with the Reader's Digest and Time, Inc., and their Quality School Plan, Inc., which was recently formed to enable local schools to earn money for worthwhile purposes. The band is pleased to be associated with this organization in this worthwhile venture to bring good magazines to the homes in our community."

"The Reader's Digest has an Educational Edition now used in more than half of the nation's high schools. We believe that the Quality School Plan, which our pupils will present to their parents, friends and neighbors during the coming two weeks, represents the same high degree of skill and knowledge that is now manifested by the Reader's Digest in its Educational Program."

He also stated that the money raised this year by selling Reader's Digest, Life, McCall's, Better Homes & Gardens, Redbook and other top quality magazines will be used to help underwrite the cost of band uniforms.

The school magazine sales plans have been in existence for over 40 years. They offer students a chance to help their school, their communities and themselves. A sizeable percentage of the profits are retained by the school to use in the purchase of items which are not usually in the school budget, such as band uniforms, musical instruments, class trips, senior annuals, etc.

The program, said Mr. Lookingbill, has the added effect of teaching students to work as a team, to develop initiative and to gain solid business experience that will benefit them in the years ahead. It also helps them develop better reading habits by exposing them to some of the nation's most distinguished magazines.

I wish to thank all those who volunteered in soliciting for the Heart Fund; also to all those who contributed. Many thanks.

MRS. HOWELL E. ROYER, Chairman.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of GEORGE W. DEVILBISS, who passed away one year ago, March 13, 1965.

One sad year has passed away Since our great sorrow fell; The shock that we received that day We still remember well.

To think of him brings but sadness, To speak his name brings burning tears; None knows the depth of our deep regret, But we will remember when others forget.

Sweetly remembered by THE FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all our friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and following the death of our husband and father; also for the many lovely sympathy cards.

MRS. MARGARET E. BANKS, B. CRAWFORD BANKS, JR.

A Voice from the House

The Legislature is now convening twice daily in order to meet the deluge of Bills which were introduced in the last ten days prior to the deadline for introduction. Many Bills will be lost in the shuffle. However, budget hearings have been concluded and more time will be devoted to other legislation by the committees.

The Carroll County Delegation introduced a Bill to establish a Governmental Study Commission which is to be appointed by September 1, 1966. This Commission will make a complete study of the Government of Carroll County and then make recommendations by April of 1968.

The purpose of the Commission is to determine whether or not any changes should be recommended in the County Government. Much authority has been removed from Annapolis to the local jurisdictions in order that certain laws can be passed in the subdivision itself. This will eliminate the need of going to Annapolis for local legislation and will allow the people in the Counties to have a closer contact with new legislation.

With the effects of re-apportionment and the continued growth of State Government, it is necessary that we encourage and continue a strong, local, County Government. Anyone interested in serving on the Commission or who would recommend members who might be interested in serving on the Commission may write to the County Commissioners, the Delegates or the Senator submitting recommendations.

A Bill was also introduced changing the definition of the powers of the Capital Improvements Commission. This Commission will be required to make its report to the County Commissioners or other Governmental Agency within thirty days after request. No capital improvement is to be made in the County until the report of the Capital Improvements Commission is received and waived by the County Commissioners. Although the Commissioners would not be bound by a decision rendered by the Capital Improvements Commission, its report and recommendations would be in hand and available to the public before final decision is acted upon.

A Bill was introduced by the Carroll County Delegation authorizing the Election Board to remove voting records for the purpose of using a computer provided, of course, that duplicate copies are retained in the Elections Office.

Another Bill would provide for the removal of junked or abandoned automobiles appearing on private property.

The Speaker of the House has announced that Sessions will be held at 1:00 P. M. and 5:00 P. M. daily from now until the end of the Session. In prior years, Sessions were held at 2:00 P. M. and 8:00 P. M. However, it is hoped that the 5:00 P. M. Session will allow the work to be completed before leaving for the evening.

The Session will adjourn on Wednesday, March 30, 1966. In order to become law, every Bill introduced must pass both Houses and thereafter be signed by the Governor. No one can be certain, therefore, that a Bill is law until it is signed by the Governor. This act may occur several weeks after the Session is adjourned.

William B. Dulany Member, House of Delegates.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

TATTLETALE FOOTPRINT

Police, investigating a murder, found the bloody print of a bare foot on the victim's bathroom floor. This print eventually played a vital role in convicting the killer, by placing him—unmistakably—at the scene of the crime.

Similar use has been made, more often, of palm prints. And most of them, of course, of fingerprints. What all three have in common is a highly individual set of markings, made by the pressure ridges that corrugate the skin.

There is nothing new, at least with regard to fingerprints, in the realization that the markings are distinctive. Various peoples of the world probably knew this even before the time of Christ.

What is new is the development of classification systems that make fingerprints easy to compare. This development, along with improved techniques for obtaining prints, has made fingerprinting a preferred method of identification all over the world.

Is there any chance that two people will have the same fingerprint pattern? One scholar calculated that duplication would occur once in 64 billion prints.

But later studies call that far too cautious. Recently a fingerprint expert estimated that duplication is not likely to occur in 10,000 years. Up to now, of course, not a single duplication has ever been found.

Besides the virtue of individuality, prints also have the virtue of permanence. A person's print pattern is fully formed three months before his birth (Mark Twain called it a "natal autograph") and remains unchanged until after his death. Although the print may vary in size, just as the person does, the pattern itself stays the same always.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports - John Breth

ZELMO BEATY of the St. Louis Hawks has a height problem. He wishes he were taller. The fact is, he is either six-foot-eight or six-nine, depending on where you get your information. Beaty says he is six-eight; the official National Basketball Association records list him as six-nine. Either way, he still is shorter than several other centers in the N.B.A., and the way Beaty tells it, the bigger guys are taking advantage of him. Or, at least they are trying to.

The duties of his job force him to do battle with the likes of Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers, Walt Bellamy of the New York Knicks and Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics. Chamberlain is seven-one, Bellamy six-ten and one-half and Russell six-ten.

Says Beaty: "You give away one or two inches, ten or twelve pounds every night and it's going to wear you down." Beaty, incidentally, weighs in at about 225 pounds.

The average sports fan will not find it easy to work up any sympathy over the problem of a guy as big as Beaty and his troubles with other giants. But Beaty says he comes away from a duel with Chamberlain bruised and sore from the punishment Will hands out under the boards.

Beaty says, however, that he is not complaining; he is merely pointing out a fact. He says he enjoys the game, and after all, he is getting paid to do the job.

And he has been doing a very good job. He has shown a steady increase in his scoring average since he broke into the league in 1962. And now he is averaging about 20 points a game. He also is improving rapidly in rebounding, ball handling and defense.

When he first came out of Prairie View A-and-M College, he was a bit taken back to learn he was not the biggest player around, as he had been in college. And it took him a while to get used to that fact.

As Beaty points out, "You have to adjust when you play against these big men."

It might be a good idea to get to an opinion from some other players - Guy Rodgers of San Francisco, for instance. He is only six feet tall.

Does the economic law of diminishing returns apply in baseball expansion? Has baseball suffered because of the addition of four new teams in the last five years and will it suffer even more if four more clubs are added in the next five?

WALTER O'MALLEY, the powerful president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was quoted the other day as saying that in about five years it might be possible to expand to three leagues of eight teams each.

That would mean that 100 new players of Major League caliber would have to be found. Allegedly, 100 were found in the last five seasons.

Nobody really believes that last statement, of course. The caliber of Major League play on an overall basis has suffered because of expansion. The talent has been spread thin. The top players are just as good as they ever were. But there is no question about the fact that there are dozens of players with a Major League label today who would not have been accepted into that exclusive society as recently as 10 years ago.

You can make a case for the idea that the caliber of play is not important, that what counts is rivalry spread across the country with every section dealt in and encouraged to think and act Major League.

You possibly can make an economic case for expansion also but you will run into a lot of opposition there. Not all expansion moves have been successful.

The baseball purists, the people who developed a taste for skillful play built on solid fundamentals and topped off with finesse born of experience, have not liked a lot of the baseball they have seen in recent years. But they may be in a minority.

Further expansion is a probability. Pressures will be brought to bear that will be next to impossible to resist. In time everybody, including the purists, will get used to an overall standard of play that can be best described as "first-class second-class" performance.

Today's Sport Laugh - Texas football coach, Darrell Royal, says the new rule which will virtually allow two-platooning next season doesn't bother him.

Says Royal: "The people with the best athletes will still win. The teams that don't have them will stay home and watch television on New Year's Day."

Yourself And...

Lesson for March 13, 1966

Background Scriptures: Romans 12:3-21; 13:8-10; Ephesians 4:25-32; 1 Peter 4:7-11; James 2:1-17; Devotional Reading: Romans 12:1-21.

We really didn't need the population explosion to rub it into our heads that there are a lot more people in this world than we can very well manage to live with. Still it's our business to live so far as it lies in us, to live at peace with all men.

Dr. Foreman One of these modern pagans wrote: "The world is my orange and I intend to squeeze it." Another one, the famous playwright Sartre, said something to this effect: Hell is the existence of other people. Every other person besides yourself is a threat to you, personally.

Others

It is obvious that we cannot live in this world—and never could have lived in it—without thinking about other people, some way or other. That is why any form of religion which puts it into purely personal, singular, individual terms, ignores the basic facts of life. Religion has a theoretical side—what we believe; it also has a practical side—what we do, or ought to do.

True love not sloppy

This commandment is quoted in the New Testament more often and more emphatically than any other. Jesus, Paul, Peter, James, John, — how different they all are! Yet every one of them headlines and insists on love as the first duty, the Christians all-inclusive duty to man. This can be misunderstood. "Love" — what is called by that name—is sometimes used by fuzzy-minded and healy-mouthed people to mean something as shapeless as a fog in a bog, as meaningless as the love-song of a sick bullfrog, as elusive as a wet ghost.

Love is concern

Love is active, self-sacrificing concern for the welfare of those who are loved. Love of a man for his country may be shown in honest tax return, or enlistment in the army, or helping reduce air pollution, or electing intelligent congressmen. Love of a parent or teacher for students or their own children does not mean indulging them in monopolizing the telephone or the family car.
