JUNE

June is the most fragrant, bloomng month of the year. Roses glow in garden. Out here in the country, we have the old-fashioned variety, called by some people, "cabbage roses." And, of course, wild roses spice the lanes and by-roads. Honeysuckle riots along the course and hadesrees and desired. fences and hedgerows and daisies open their hearts to the sun. Wild strawberries will soon be ripe and the air is heavy with scent of new-mown

Now the Carolina Poplar sheds a green canopy over our old stone house. As I look up through its leafy branches, they seem to almost reach the sky This silvery old tree, a faithful friend indeed, has stood serenely by through all kinds of weather. I am especially grateful for it, now that hot, sultry days are on the way.

June is a joyful time of weddings and graduations, of picnics, iced tea and strawberry shortcake. It makes the beginning of long, lovely Summer days, when, in the words of James Russell Lowell, "heaven tries earth if it be in tune, and over it softly her warm ear lays."

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every with all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The other day, I visited dear friends of many years long standing and after we had lunch, I was asked to visit a room upstairs which this elderly couple called, "The Gun Room," erly couple called, "The Gun Room," of their lovely home, on a two-acre estate. Entering the room, I truly was breathless, for there they were so beautifully displayed on the walls with much history attached to each and every one and there were 300 guns! The collection is worth more than $25,000, as they are antique. When this gentleman was a young boy of 16 years of age in 1906, he became a silversmith's apprentice and for many years since has supervised for many years since has supervised the workrooms of a prominent Balti-more firm of sterling manufacturers.

Now, retired he gives loving crafts-man's care to over 300 firearms! He has restored dozens which he bought in poor condition, replacing the dec-orations and repairing the wood so that the line between old and new is virtually invisible. He believes in pre-serving the firearm's original char-acter which I learned as he and his wife explained much in detail to me. I was fascinated and speechless! I never was aware before there was so never was aware before there was so much beauty in a gun!

He has a real workshop over his garage which is well equipped and turns out the parts he needs to restore it to a flintlock. Beautifully finished wood cases for his prize pieces are also his handiwork. He makes his own molds and molds con makes his own molds and molds copies of absolete projectiles like the Civil War Minie ball

Never have I seen a man with such patience! He is a thinker and thinks much more than he talks!

Not content with merely making restorations, he makes exact copies of antique weapons from scratch! There is one, a copy of a 1740 Henry Albright pistol, was made from hard-to-find tiger flame curly maple. Even the screws were turned out by the collector!

His wife is just as enthusiastic about it all as he and she brought forward one he made for her which is a beauty with so much of the Maryland Scene on the sides of it that when she handled it showing it to me and explaining in detail, it was as though it was a string of the most valuable set of pearls—such loving care and I'll never forget the expression in her dark brown eyes as she placed it back on the hooks on the

This collector began about 27 years ago when he was presented with a gift of a rifle made in Balti-more between 1830 and 1840 and he to me but I bought the guns! Then, I wanted a Philadelphia Derringer pistol, the kind with which Lincoln was shot. I got that, too!"

The collector and his wife were

The collector and his wife were thus launched on gun buying expeditions that have taken them from Florida to Canada.

The prize piece was acquired eight years ago and is valued at several thousand dollars. It is the Colt per-cussion pistol known as the Texas Paterson, made by Samuel Colt in 1846. The Paterson model was the first repeating firearm made in the United States and is extremely rare. Other high points of the array are a pair of English dueling pistols dating from 1760, a rack of Kentucky rifles, one made by Daniel Boone's nephew in 1768, and a rare six-barrel "Pepperbox," made in Dublin around 1840 by William Rigby. Eventually supplanted by the revolver, the "Pepperbox" was the earliest form of repeating right of the bounded of ing pistol. It's barrel is composed of a bundle of several barrels, each of which had to be rotated manually into place before firing. He loves to hunt, this collector but quickly adds, "I hate to kill; wildlife is just too pretty to destroy!"

So you see, why I might add this couple has endeared themselves to me even more so than all the years

It is a wonderful thing when a cou-ple can be interested in the same hobby and love it on the same basis.

Dear Observer: We are an aged married couple (76 and 70) living in an apartment and are very nicely fixed but my husband refuses to have a phone installed stating that if the phone was in that I would be talking to my sons and their wives! I can't seem to make him understand how necessary it is. Any suggestions? Signed—An Old Pair.

Answer — Dear Pair: I do not know if you had a phone previous to coming to your apartment and if you did not, it would be most difficult to change the one-half of that pair! Your Observer.

Have a grand week-end, Folks. Be careful when you drive and if your son or daughter has an idea as to a hobby allow them to put it in force! Until next week. D. V.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad says: "A railroad car wheel touches an area on the track smaller than a dime. Only about three-tenths of a square inch. . . . The last day of May and we still have to have the stoves going. It was a beautiful day on Monday, Memorial Day, but rather cool. The flowers were not much in the way of real flowers available but there were plenty of artificial flowers, which to me, means the same as long as they are placed in memory of our beloved departed ones.

There are so many who are anxiously waiting for this road to be opened through here—it really has created quite a problem, due to the signs not being placed at the proper places. Sometimes there are at least six or eight cars come out to the cross-roads and have to turn and go back or ask how to get to Taneytown, in the course of a couple hours. On Sunday four cars at one time turned, each waiting for the other to get around so they could turn; but we did enjoy a certain amount of quietness as there were days and nights that very few came through.

ful world Is the world in which we live. Not a thing did we do to inherit the land

'Tis a gift the Creator did give. For parks and for roads, for this and for that; Take all that you want, if you will For cities, for both the living and dead

There is plenty of it left for us still. All over the land, spread out in its soil The essentials of life may be found For food and for clothing and many things more

We'll continue to look to the ground. Far down in the earth all out of the way

There's a storage according to plan. The plan is divine, not yours and not It surpassed the wisdom of man.

There's coal, there's iron; there's gas and oil, And many things more could we name. There's water for both the rich and the poor,

And diamonds for people of fame.
Since man has been on it, the earth has been tapped,

And yet if there's been any at all. The space has been filled by something that's new. More powerful, more useful to all.

'Tis true that at times much sadness prevails And sin and sorrow doth reign,

But the day is longer by far than the night And joy prevails over pain. And while we enjoy the blessings we have The greatest of all we should know Is the chance we have to prepare for a home When from this old world we shall For blessings unnumbered, for things

we enjoy We should always be thankful and glad, And honor the power that has given to man

The very best world that he had.

in the South Penn League standings. On Sunday, the Mummasburg Mets, last year's doormats, erupted for 7 runs in the fifth and sixth frames and went on to soundly thrash the Tigers, 11-6. Taneytown blew a 5-1 lead and gave up 12 base hits and committed errors to allow the lowly Mets to defeat Taneytown for the first time

The Tigers went in front in the first on four straight hits for three runs. Highlights of the outburst was a two-bagger by Ernie Combs. Two more were added in the second on two hits and a walk. The local nine wrapped up its scoring in the seventh on a single by Jimmy Myers and Arvin Bollinger again banged in the tally.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports -John Breth

The major league baseball season has reached its first traditional milestone, Memorial Day. And it has been an eventful first leg.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco
Giants broke the National League as manager and replaced him with general manager Ralph Houk, and big league baseball dug-in in Dixie with the Atlanta Braves. Also, one era ended and another began when the St. Luois Cardinals abandoned historic Busch Stadium and moved into their new multi-million dollar home. And baseball became a neighbor of Disneyland when the California Angels inaugurated their new stadium gels inaugurated their new stadium in Anaheim, Calif.

In a few ways, the first part of the 1966 season has been an extension of last year's campaign. Pitchers Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal and Jim Maloney picked up where they left off as winners last year, and in the process, indicated that spring training might be one of the most over-rated practices in baseball. All three missed a good part of the training camp warm-ups because of coning camp warm-ups because of contract disputes, but no one would ever know it from their records. Marichal and Maloney are unbeaten; Marichal with nine victories for the Giants and Maloney with five for the Reds. Koufax has won eight and lost one for the Dodgers.

Their performances really come as no surprises, but there have been some eyebrow raisers thus far in the major league season. The Houston Astros have provided the highlight in that department, climbing up to join the contenders in the National League race. And, two Houston players have produced some individual surprises. Joe Morgan, who hit 271 in his first full season last year, is among the top hitters in the league with a batting average of .327, and, his teammate, Dave Nicholson, who never hit more than .229 in the majors, is clubbing the ball at a .337 clip

The first leg of the season also has produced a pair of slugging rookies in the American League, Rick Reichardt of the Angels and George Scott of the Boston Red Sox, plus a dazzling rookie relief pitcher in the National League Development of the

Morgan Storey, again in relief, worked brilliantly, after getting up from a sickbed and a virus which had kept him sidelined for a week. Again slump-proof. However, he didn't. The Yanks have played winning baseball since Ralph relieved Johnny Keane in the pilot's

For the Yanks to go onward and upward they will need some mound assistance from Whitey Ford or Jim Bouton or both, hitting from Mickey Mantle or Elston Howard or both, and steady production from guys like Joe Pepitone, Tom Tresh and rookie Roy White. It can happen but the odds are still fairly long that it won't.

Boston and Washington are improving. Kansas City seems destined for the basement apartment.

MUSIC FORUM . . . by Dennis O. Baumgardner

This week in the Music Forum we will give you a brief look at one of the biggest success stories of our the biggest success stories of our modern music trend—yes, the Beatles. The Beatles' (George Harrison, John Lennon, Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr) popularity seemed to reach a pinnacle in Britian in November 1964, at the request of the Royal family, they headlined the annual command performance at the Prince of Wales Theatre. In February 1965, they came to the States for three Ed Sulivan CBS TV shots and some Carnegie all appearances.

Carnegie all appearances.

With Capital behind them, they launched a popularity campaign, which was the result from their record, which was No. 1 at that time, "I Want to Hold Your Hand." With everyone in the teach everyone in the teens yelling and screaming for more and more, it was screaming for more and more, it was not a hard task to become popular. And it seems that the American teens like their English cousins couldn't get enough of the Beatles as evidenced by the fact that two old masters of the group scored: Swan's "She Loves You" and Vee Jay's "Please Please Me." In the past few months they have made two more months they have made two more releases that are spinning their way to the top as most of their records

More could be said about the Beatles but it can be summed up in one word, "UNBELIEVABLE."

See you next week with more lit in Music Forum. Requests honored.

looks at the backyard swimming pool, these tips from Johns-Manville, manufacturer of Celite filter aids, will help you get your pool in shape for the first plunge of the season. 1. Remove the protective covers from pool and equipment. If you've left the water in the pool (many owners do), now is a good time to drain it and check walls and floor for damage, if not in a water-short area. If you are, check with water utility to see if you can 'early fill' or 'off-peak' fill at night or on weekends. Examine all exposed valves, controls, and pipe for deterioration

2. If all seems proper, furn on water to fill the pool. While the pool is filling, check filtration equ readiness. The manufacturer's recommendations for oiling and cleaning should be followed before the filter is put into operation; this can be done as soon as the water reaches the filter intake pipe.

Faith in Crisis

Lesson for June 5, 1966

Background Scripture: II Chronicles 29 through 32; Isaiah 30:15, 31:1 - 3. Devotional Reading: II Kings 19:14 - 19.

When something happens that never happened before, when a danger looms that is bigger than anything you have ever met, when something happens or threatens to happen which you did not start but cannot stop and a little bit, brother, that's a crisis. A lion bursting from his cage just as the circus parade passes your house is crisis. An epidemic of yellow

Dr. Foreman fever is a crises. so is the death by accident of the wage-earner in a family. Rare is the person who in all his lifetime never met with a crisis.

King Hezekiah of Judah (a country older than Israel (Samaria) but one which lasted longer) went through a crisis which, among other lessons, taught him how to take a crisis. The terrible feature of such a combination of circumstances is that it gives sometimes very little room to maneuver, to do anything at all. The crisis comes and is past and the damage done before you are well awake.

ATTITUDE IN CRISIS

Now Hezekiah was a good king. One good feature he showed was a sense of responsibility for the welfare of his country. But he found his beloved Judah invaded by the mightiest monarch of that part of the world at the time, Sennacherib of Nineveh. What could he do? The situation was completely out of his control. The problem was, what to do? And the only answer seemed to be: Nothing. But Hezekiah learned (from God's prophets and specially from Isaiah) that in a time of crisis the best thing to do is all you can do, namely nothing. What is important, as the King found out, is one's attitude, not actions.

BE STILL, AND KNOW ...

A word of the prophet that came to the King sounds, the first time we hear it, like nonsense, but it can be the highest wisdom: "Be still, and know that I am God,' What does this mean? It can be mother and father had been sitting in a great forest, with their small son and a small friend of his. From some unaccountable impulse, they all moved down the stream a few yards. Suddenly like the crack of a rifle a sharp sound broke the stillness of the forest. But it was not a gun. It was the beginning of the breaking-apart of a tall and heavy tree. For centuries it had been growing there, then decaying, and on that windless afternoon its time had come. The frightening thing about it was the fact that with the forest cover it was impossible to see just where the breaking tree stood. Worse than that, both small boys had vanished. The grown people shouted but there was no answer from the children. So there were no more shouts. When the mother was asked afterwards how shefelt at that dark moment, she always said that there came to her mind as if in letters of light, the words: Be still, and know that I am God. It was a call (she and he always believed) from God, a call to the attitude of faith. (And there were no deaths either, as there well could have been.)

FAITH IN MEN

Added to faith in God, there is need also in times of crisis some measure of faith in men, the right kind of men. We know that this same king led in a religious reformation, but not of the one-man kind. He undertook to lead in an important and wide-reaching reformation, but he summoned and challenged the Levites to help him in God's name. The attitude of faith not neccessarily faith that the sun will shine and all will be well, for the shadows may never lift, but faith in men of good will, servants of God, and faith in ourselves. God is not going to let you down; don't you let others down! The time of darkness, of crisis, is the hour and the opporunity of faith. So the king found in days of old; so may you again.
