School Administrators Attend Workshop

The Carroll County Board of Education arranged for three administrators to attend the workshop entitled "Human Relations in Educational Administration" at the University of Maryland during the six-week summer school program offered by that institution.

John Graybeal, principal, North Carroll Junior-Senior H.S.; William Ecker, principal, Sykesville Elementary School; and George Baker, Supervisor of Transportation, participated in the workshop that emphasized techniques for the improvement of human relations in school administration.

Sessions that dealt with communication and small group dynamics constituted the major portion of the workshop activities. Speakers were obtained through the University of Maryland, the State Department of Education and U. S. Government Agencies. The workshop participants took field trips to the J. S. Waxter Children's Center and the Washington County Educational TV Center.

The participants from Carroll County, as a workshop project, prepared a proposal program in human relations for employees of the local Board of Education. The intent of this program is to improve communication between and a better understanding of the roles and responsibilities of employees of the local board.

A one-week session of a workshop of the same nature was sponsored by the State Department of Education at Towson State College the first week in August.

The workshop was under the auspices of the State Department of Education, Mr. Andrew Mason, State Supervisor, coordinator, Dr. Clarence A. Newell, University of Maryland, was director of the workshop. Consultants were Eli Michael Bower, National Institute of Mental Health, Washington; Dr. Blanche Bowie, Associate Professor of Education, University of Maryland; Dr. Lewis Holder, Coordinator of Children's Services, Maryland State Department of Mental Hygiene; and Dr. Wilbert Edgerton, Associate Professor of Psychology, University of N. LCW Groups 3 and 4

One of the typical "sounds of summer" is the perennial picnic, and a most delightful one was mutually enjoyed by the Group 3 and 4 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mildred Jester and Mrs. Dorothy Lookingbill, respectively, in the cool of the evening at Taneytown Memorial Park, August 10, with Group 3 as guests.

After the invocation by Mrs. Joan Miller, an array of delicious picnic fare was served smorgasbord style, with Mrs. Barbara Baumgardner acting as hostess, assisted by Mrs. JoAnn Dougherty, guest hostess.

Following the bountiful repast, everyone joined in the singing of a number of lovely old-time hymns.

Twenty-one members representing both groups were present, with one guest, Mrs. Margaret Traugh.

Before adjourning, a brief resume of forthcoming events of interest to all LCW groups was given by Mrs. Miller, among which were the annual birthday covered dish social coming up at next general meeting, Wednesday, September 14, at 6:30 P. M. in the adult Sunday school room of Trinity Lutheran Church, at which time the birthday offering will be received; and

The Joint District Assembly Meeting with the Frederick group to be held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Frederick Wednesday evening, October 19.

LCW Group 5

Group 5 of the LCW met Wednesday evening at the Memorial Park. The evening was very pleasant with 11 members present for an interesting and informative meeting. The scripture was read by Mrs. Paul Shorb and Mrs. Wilbur Naylor offered prayer. Mrs. Mary Jane Smith gave a brief report of current events.

Mrs. Naylor, group leader, led the discussion of numerous articles of interest in The Lutheran. She also made announcements concerning the District Assembly to be held Oct. 19, and that the next meeting of LCW will be the birthday covered dish supper, which will be held Sept. 14.

Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Madeline Reifsnider and Mrs. Alma Bair.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER ADDRESSES SERVICE CLUB

(Address presented to The Kiwanis Club of Taneytown July 27, 1966, by Paul M. Snyder, Democratic candidate for County Commissioner.)

To get down to the business at hand, I would like to present my views in four separate parts. First, county government and public relations; second, administration; third, taxes, and fourth, sanitation.

On public relations — It has been my observation that criticism of government often comes from street corners or behind the stove in the general store, or places where people gather, and the subject isn't long in getting discolored and strays off in several directions, and it winds up meaningless.

Good government must have good public relations, and especially good press relations. I believe that the press can make or break any public servant. So, I want the press on my side. But more than that, I want the press on the right side, whether you, the voters of Carroll County want me as one of your commissioners or not.

I would not expect all of you here to agree with everything that I say, any more than I would expect the press to do so, but as long as we, meaning you and me, and the press have the right to express our opinions, plus the respect of that right of each other, in my judgment, we have a pretty healthy society. History teaches us that no man was ever sufficiently adequate for any job, especially those of government, no matter how large or how small. The one thing I promise you, there will be no deals without the knowledge of the press, and no tongue-in-cheek promises.

WITH THE ARMED FORCES

DENVER, Colo. — Airman Third Class Elmer C. Shildt, Jr., son of Mrs. Anna A. Shildt of R.D. 1, Taneytown, Md., has been graduated at Lowry AFB, Colo., from the training course for U.S. Air Force weapons mechanics.

Airman Shildt, a 1965 graduate of Littlestown (Pa.) High School, is being assigned to Glasgow AFB, Mont., for duty with the Strategic Air Command.

ETIQUETTE OF THE FLAG

There are many citizens who are not familiar with rules governing the use of the Stars and Stripes. The national flag represents the living country and is itself considered as a living thing. The union of the flag is the honor point; the right arm is the sword arm, and therefore the point of danger and hence the place of honor.

The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on national and state holidays and on historic and special occasions. The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the flag of the United States should be either on the marching right, i.e., the flags own, or when there is a line of other flags the flag of the United States may be in front of the center of that line.

When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States may be on the right, the flags own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the National flag should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag should be placed above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

When used on a speakers platform, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. If flown from a staff, it should be on the speaker's right.

When used in unveiling a statue or monument, the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

On Memorial Day, the flag is displayed at half staff from sunrise till noon and at full staff from noon until sunset, for the nation lives and the flag is the symbol of the living nation.

When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

When the flag is displayed in church, it should be from a staff placed on the congregations right as they face the clergyman. If in the chancel, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and other flags on his left.

When the flag is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed as a whole, privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country.

The above information was taken from a book called Stephenson's Social Dakota Eighth Grade Examination Question and Answer Book. Mr. Stephenson was a former county superintendent of schools.

He said the flag should be displayed on the staff of the public school every day during which school is in session. It should not be left out during rainy or snowy weather nor when there is an extremely high wind.

W. Va. School for Church Leaders Closes Friday

The Appalachian Regional School for Church Leaders held at Western University at Morgantown, W. Va., from August 9-19 will conclude its studies on Friday. Thus school in its first year is one that was formed by the efforts of the National Interfaith Committee on Continuing Education for Town and Country pastors and six land-grant colleges and universities in the Appalachian Region. The main purpose of the school has been to provide church leaders, especially pastors, in the region with practical training in the social sciences that would be useful in working with the people of Appalachia as well as in other communities of America. Particular emphasis was given to "Economic Development" and "Community Development" and accompanied with seminars in leadership, social action process, handling opposition, public relations. Studies were also on "Appalachia" in the realm of ethnic background, the family, its economics, communications process, and the changing role of women.

The students attending the school came from five states, namely: Pa., Md., Va., W. Va., Tenn. and Louisiana representing the Church of Christ, Disciples, the Methodist Church, the United Lutheran Church, the United Church of Christ, and the Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. William F. Wiley, pastor of Grace United Church of Christ, Taneytown, Md., was a student at the school, being sponsored by the Board of Homeland Ministries and the Catoctin Association of the United Church of Christ.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

DOUBLE JEOPARDY

To the athlete defeated in sport, the proverb says:
"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

But to the prosecutor defeated in court, the United States Constitution says just the opposite:

"If at first you don't convict, you may not try, try again."

For, if the prosecutor tried the same case again, he would be putting the accused person in "double jeopardy"—that is, he would be forcing him to face trial twice on the same charge.

Why does the Constitution forbid double jeopardy? It is a matter of simple fairness.

"The underlying idea," the Supreme Court once explained, "is that the State with all its resources and power should not be allowed to make repeated attempts to convict an individual for an alleged offense, thereby subjecting him to embarrassment, expense and ordeal and compelling him to live in a continuing state of anxiety and insecurity."

Yet society, by giving up its second chance of winning a conviction, takes the risk of letting some real criminals go free. To prevent double jeopardy from providing an "easy out" for rascals, the law puts careful limits on the rule.

Consider three examples:

A mail fraud trial was called off because the judge became seriously ill.

A murder trial was halted by the discovery that the defendant had smuggled a friend onto the jury.

A forgery trial ended in deadlock when the jurors found themselves unable to agree on a verdict.

In each of these cases, a second trial was begun. Each time the defendant objected that he could not be tried again because of "double jeopardy."

But each time the objection was overruled. For in none of these situations had the basic question of guilt or innocence really been answered. Through no fault of the prosecution, the law's machinery had been stopped short, its task yet undone.

In fairness to the accused, we do not ask him to face jeopardy twice. But in fairness to society, we do ask him to face it once. Society, too, is entitled to its "day in court."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 11th, 1966
The Carroll Record Co.

DEAR SIR:-

I am enclosing $2.00 for a renewal subscription to your paper. In Oct. I will be 94 years of age and still look forward to "The Carroll Record" coming each week.

Very respectfully yours,
C. F. Simpson.

System in business is a great asset if you can find somebody to operate the system while you take it easy.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning.
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

In this year there have been about six men of prominence who have many years on them—many girls much younger! And that reminds me of a comedian recently on TV who was joking about it and then added up with saying, "I just can't wait until I get old!" And thinking of TV personalities, a lovely note came from Merv Griffin who now is on the afternoon show instead of the late show at night.

An advance sale — the biggest ever in book history to the amount of 2,150,000 books and that by the Methodist Publishing house in Tenn. for the new Hymnal!

Ladies, the big shade for Fall is P U R P L E in any shade, as long as it is purple; and as to the short dresses they still will be up, and above the knee! It looks ridiculous on an older woman. The average woman walks with her knees forward and that is something else to think about!

And this I did not know, that at the age of 12 years, Thomas Edison was working on a train so as he could make money to buy chemicals in and for his laboratory which he had set up and he was selling candy, tobacco and newspapers. The papers sold the best so Edison set up his own printing press in the baggage car, ran off a one-sheet digest of the day's events and made money. A bottle of phosphorus was upset in the baggage car and started a fire. The conductor boxed his ears so soundly, Edison was deaf the rest of his life! How awful!

Yet he did not give up for he spent much time reading in the Detroit Public Library for knowledge! His life was published by a big columnist, Jim Bishop of a recent Baltimore-News American paper in condensed form. Never have I read anything more interesting! But that man, THOMAS EDISON was a wonderful "Aquarius" Feb. born and there are no braver and patient individuals!

Remember, folks a few years ago when I stated in my Chatty Column about the best show I had ever seen on TV called, "Wuthering Heights," with my favorite actress, Julie Harris. I told you that I would try and try to have it repeated in some way or other and I kept on trying. At that time it was put on my "Dupon't," but a thought just came to me, "Try, Paul Pry" and I'll be watching for the answer as I just called him (in the News-American).

Wuthering Heights was written by Emily Bronte in Haworth, England which sits on a cliff. It was here that her sister, Charlotte Bronte was born who wrote "Jane Eyre." The latter was born 150 years ago. Haworth is about 200 miles from London. There were three sisters and the father was the Rev. Patrick Bronte who was a very stern man. At the age of 26, Emily wrote that awful story of "Wuthering Heights" in a tiny room overlooking a huge cemetery. The three sisters died very young. Emily was 30, Charlotte 40 and Ann 29. So keep watching, folks and hope I'll be telling you one day that at last that TV story will be told all over again!

Now, as to teen-agers behind the wheel, The Ford Motor Co. is conducting a "Safe Driving Incentive Program for Young Americans" which convinced me that Foreign teen-agers are not speeders when they get behind the wheel! The Ford Co. will award more than 3,000 in the 15 to 24-year age group with prizes for SAFETY ON THE ROAD!

The contest started July 1 and it is to run until and through September 30. So, Miss or Mr. teen-ager you know what could happen to you — just to be one of the lucky ones. (And wise ones.) This I know, that when my three sons were learning to drive, with my husband as their teacher, they had the same urge to speed, s p e e d s p e e d! And this is what he did and said, "Turned off the ignition right there and said, when you have sense you may try again and not until that time!" And they turned out to be excellent drivers, for my husband stated he would not even pay for their insurance that they had to do so when they were of age. I was telling that to a very big executive and he remarked immediately, "well, if every parent was like that, we would not have the accidents from those ages — killing others and killing themselves. So after awhile just by the actions of teen-agers it is going to mean punishment as to laws!" The insurance man told me that is the reason that even the insurance of everyone is sky-high!

Have a grand week-end, folks.

Until next week, D.V.

I am,

Faithfully yours,

Irene deLeon Love.

GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

WEEDVILLE, PA., NEWS: "Americans believe in free speech, so we say. But sometimes honoring that right is another matter. . . . Though we say we honor a man's right to think what he wants to think and to believe what he wants to believe there have been too many occasions recently when fighting, disorder and bloodshed have resulted from citizens speaking their minds. . . . Free speech is only possible where we honor the rights of others to speak for a cause with which we disagree, perhaps violently."

FINDLAY, OHIO, REPUBLICAN-COURIER: "Congress seems destined to take a step shortly that endangers the Grand Canyon area in Arizona. The project involving construction of two hydroelectric dams in the Grand Canyon area of the Colorado river has been described as a 'monstrous boondoggle' that would desecrate one of the nation's most precious scenic, educational and recreational assets. . . . It's all part of the Great Society program, the cost of which is already so astronomical it staggers us."

DUBLIN, GA., COURIER-HERALD: "We believe that most Americans believe that the Viet Nam matter should be pursued to its logical conclusion, not played with like a cat playing with a mouse. . . . One is almost compelled to believe that the Administration is using the war to prevent facing up to the realities of a realistic economy of peace, balanced budgets and sensible federal programs."

PETERSBURG, TEXAS, JOURNAL: "In the feudal days, the lords of the land used to protect their castles by means of a moat. Now and then they would sally forth and wage battle, then retreat to their castles and pull up the drawbridges. Since it is said that a man's house is his castle, why not carry out the same idea when we enter our homes after the fight of each day is over; pull up the drawbridges and thus separate ourselves from the problems, perplexities, confusion, and difficulties of our business tasks."

REDWOOD FALLS, MINN., GAZETTE: "If it is appropriate that Senators shall be elected by a vote of the people, why is it not equally fitting that a vote of the same people decide how their legislative seats shall be apportioned? When the federal union was established, was there any thought of giving up such rights as the states lost in a U.S. Supreme Court decision nearly 200 years later? Or any suspicion that a Congress would ever deny the people of individual states the right to determine such issues at elections? . . . The U.S. Supreme Court, by a split decision, indicated such an assumption is, or can be, invalid. But it was the Senate, not the Court, which denied the people their right to decide, by majority rule."

NEW BERN, N.C., SUN-JOURNAL: "Did you ever think you'd see the day when the American flag would have to be protected from Americans? . . . Well the day is here. How do you like it? . . . It is tragic and outrageous for one American to defile and sneer at his country's flag at the very moment another American is dying to defend it. Is this the freedom we are fighting for?"

OCALA, FLA., STAR-BANNER: "Red China's hopes of making Indonesia a communist satellite appear dead — at least for the foreseeable future. . . . The new anticommunist policy should not make the U.S. complacent, however, because Indonesia still cannot be called pro-Western."

Yet we can take some comfort from the discomfort of the Red Chinese."

POMONA, CALIF., PROGRESS-BULLETIN: "It was only about 30 years ago that the first drive-in movie in the country was built. What was an oddity then has now become a way of life. The old drive-in hot dog stand has evolved into the drive-in restaurant. . . . you can go to church in your car, and almost everywhere today you can do your banking from your car. . . . Drive-in supermarkets are another recent development, the American Automobile Association reports. Shoppers drive through wide lanes of merchandise while walking attendants remove items selected and place them in a large basket that is attached to the car."

The 19th Annual Maryland State Grange Fair, under the auspices of Taneytown Grange No. 184, P. of H., opened most auspiciously on Tuesday morning at Ohler's Grove. Tuesday's program was given over to the Boy Scouts of Carroll County. Addresses on the nature and objects of the Scout movement were made by Rev. S. R. Downie of Taneytown and attorney Galt Birnie, a Philadelphia scoutmaster. The inclement weather greatly interfered with the plans of the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias on Wednesday. However, a very creditable procession was formed consisting of the grand officers and prominent members in automobiles, members of Calanthe Lodge of Union Bridge; Charity Lodge, Westminster; Pleasant Valley Lodge, Prizellburg and Taneytown Lodge, which headed by the Taneytown Band headed the parade. From all parts of the country they came, in autos and carriages, by train and on foot until it said 14,000 people were present on Thursday, Grange Day.

Come see Tecumseh

Tecumseh is probably the most famous Indian this side of Sitting Bull. His reservation, in case you didn't know it, is the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis.

There is so much for the whole family to see and enjoy in this colorful old town. You can delve into history, or take a sail on the serene Severn. Walk the picturesque docks or stand before John Paul Jones' crypt. Explore the State House, oldest state capitol still in use, or the graceful old mansions of another age. Name your pleasure . . . and Annapolis has it!

There are many delightful places to stay in and around Annapolis, but be sure to call ahead for reservations. After 8 p.m. weekdays and all day Sundays, you can make a three-minute station call to any place in Maryland for only 40 cents or less.

This summer, come to Annapolis—for a weekend or vacation. And be sure to bring your camera. Chances are, you'll want to take Annapolis back with you.

Guest speaker at the Keysville Lutheran Church on Sunday was Dr. Elwood Falkenstein, former pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Westminster and now retired. His message was based on the 19th chapter of Luke and about cities. He told how cities take on character and become known by it. Examples, Sodom and Gomorrah and Babylon in Biblical times and Reno, Nev.; Chicago, Ill.; Hong Kong and Paris today. Two observations he made: good people live in the worst cities and the character of a city can be changed by changing the character of the people who live in it. Small towns are still the bulwark of our nation and may help to redeem our cities. There is redevelopment in our cities but is it renewal? What can we do? Support the church in its Mission program. Be concerned about the unconcerned.

FAIRVIEW

Well, good morning everyone, let us all give thanks to our Heavenly Father for the good rains' we have been having; although a heavy storm accompanied the rain last week with winds blowing a gale. We were thankful for the rain and again on Sunday and then too for a few sprinkles on Monday; but the partly cloudy days help keep the moisture in the ground. Even though it has been dry all summer and you have to wonder where the garden vegetables came from. You listen to this one and that one and hear them say — we have put this away and that from out of our garden. You can drive along the highway right here in Carroll County on a week-end and see the people with sweet corn, beans, tomatoes, squash, potatoes, and cucumbers, all home-grown, to sell. The Lord has never left us down yet; so let us give God the glory. He that gives so much and we who give so little in return.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Selby of Taneytown called on Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock on Thursday evening; they also called on Mr. and Mrs. John Williams and family and Miss Donna Gail accompanied them home for a short visit.

Steven Frock who spent the past week with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Fogle and family of Wolf's Mill returned to his home here on Sunday evening.

We were sorry to learn of the death of Eugene Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vinal Bowers of 115 Airport Dr., Carlisle, Penna. He met his death in an automobile accident on Saturday night. We extend our deepest sympathy to the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carl and family of Mayberry, in the home on Sunday. They planned the lunch to be held some where along the highway, but due to the weather conditions we decided to eat at the house and we enjoyed it very much.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doble and son and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baker were J. Thomas Baker and son Douglas, and Danny Mikesell on Sunday afternoon. Danny will be leaving soon where he will enter college to study for the ministry. We pray God will richly bless him and we hope some day soon we will have the pleasure of hearing him preach.

Jimmy Frock with 4 of his young friends from Gaither Rd., near Baltimore, called on his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock on Sunday evening.

The Timid Hunter

He met a lion upon the stair,
And taking a skillful aim,
He fired his gun with a fearful
"bang!"
And felled the noble game.
Then a little brown mouse came creeping out
To seek for his food that day,
He met the hunter strolling about,
And each of them ran away.
That a hunter of lions could fear a mouse

I never should dream, should you?
But the lion was only a make-believe,
And the wee brown mouse was true!

IN OUR APPRECIATION

We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the Taneytown, Harney, Union Bridge, Kingsdale and Littlestown Fire Companies for their prompt response in fighting the fire in our poultry house. Also the many acts of kindness by our neighbors and friends.

Raisin Lemon Freeze Summertime Cooler

This smooth raisin lemon ice cream is deliciously cooling for porch party refreshments. Start with a gelatin custard base and add extra fluff with both beaten egg whites and cream. Notice that the California raisins are plumped in hot water and then chopped so their taste surprising flavor is distributed. It's easy to make and especially cool looking with a tinge of lemon yellow and a sprinkling of dramatic dark raisins. Accompany this frosty raisin dessert with cookies.

RAISIN LEMON FREEZE

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 egg, separated
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup California seedless raisins

Combine gelatin with salt and 1/4 cup sugar. Add milk mixed with lightly beaten egg yolk and lemon peel. Cook over low heat until custard coats spoon. Remove from heat and chill until thickened. Stir in lemon juice. Beat egg white stiff; gradually beat in remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Whip cream. Fold egg white and cream into custard mixture. Freeze 1 hour. Meanwhile cover raisins with boiling water for 5 minutes. Drain, cool and chop. Stir custard with fork after an hour and fold in raisins. Freeze firm. Makes about 1 1/2 pints.

TIGERS BREAK OWL JINX, 5-2

Fleagle Winner in Rain; Storey and Horton Star at Bat

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports —John Breth

Manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs says: "It's the world's biggest pool table."

Infielder Ed Bressoud of the New York Mets says: "I'd like to see somebody beat out a bunt on it."

Catcher Jerry Grote of the Mets says: "It's the first infield I ever saw that you can dribble a baseball on."

All three men were referring to the artificial grass infield in the HOUSTON ASTRODOME. During the All-Star break in July the outfield got artificial grass also.

The artificial underfooting at the Astrodome was made necessary by the painting of the dome to blot out the glare of the sun and sky. That cut off the elements which make real grass grow.

Actually, the infield looks like a pool table and with what is left of the original bermuda grass in the outfield the field has a two-tone green effect.

The artificial grass is called "Astroturf." It has fiber blades of grass three-eighths of an inch in height which will neither rot, bend nor wilt. It is gone over every morning with a vacuum cleaner.

But it is fast, fast, fast. And a lot of the ball players in the National League seem unhappy about it.

Ed Bressoud, infielder-outfielder of the Mets, says that when they install the artificial grass in the outfield he is afraid a couple of players may break their legs. Ed says when you're running at top speed you can't stop readily. He advocates sneakers instead of spiked shoes for the outfielders.

In that connection, football teams which have worked out on the astroturf have worn soccer-style shoes with square rubber cleats.

The manager of the Phillies, Gene Mauch, agrees with Ed Kranepool that the fast men will be handicapped and says one of them will be Jim Wynn, fly-boy center fielder of the Houston team.

Incidentally, the Astro players have gone on record as saying they like the artificial grass. That means it's probably there to stay.

The question of who is faster, Sandy Koufax or SAM McDOWELL, may be only academic but a lot of guys are going to fail that test this year.

Sandy — the Dodger ace — is fast rounding to form, after his long hold-out, and McDowell — top gun on the Cleveland staff — already has four games in the bank with a lot more to come.

Zoilo Versailles, the American League's Most Valuable Player last year, batted against McDowell in the regular season and faced Koufax in the World Series. He made a flat statement that McDowell is faster. Of course, until such time as Sandy and Sam take turns from the same mound with a machine doing the measuring, it will remain a matter of opinion.

One of the more interesting things about McDowell and his blurring speed is the fact that he does it with only a slight leg kick. Most outstanding fast-ball pitchers have been guys with a high leg kick. Koufax rears back and fires when taking his full windup. Juan Marichal of the Giants points his left foot over the hitter's head when halfway through his delivery.

Most of the greats of the past had big deliveries. To name a few, Dizzy Dean, Bob Feller, Dazzy Vance and Van Lingle Mungo.

A big delivery with a high kick has a couple of advantages. One, it distracts the batter and the ball coming out of that kind of windup looks even faster than it is. Two, it enables the pitcher to get his full weight behind the ball.

McDowell, however, doesn't seem to need any distraction. That high hummer he throws is all the distraction he needs. We imagine that he uses the short kick because he feels more comfortable with it. Control was a problem for him for some time but he is gradually beating it.

The veteran catcher, Del Crandall, handling McDowell for the first time this spring paid him the ultimate in compliments when he said: "Sam can throw the batter the wrong pitch and still strike him out."

Today's Sport Laugh — Orlando Cepeda of the St. Louis Cardinals was kidding his swift teammate, Lou Brock, who is a hot contender for the National League base-stealing title.

Cepeda, who was on first base in a recent game, called over to Brock on the bench, "Watch me and I'll show you how to steal second."

A minute later Cepeda was picked off first.

When one lives above his income, there isn't much doubt about the outcome.

No playing the game "if you scratch my back, I'll scratch yours."

This county is served by five weekly and one daily newspapers. I have been a subscriber to one weekly for about 18 years. And just in recent years have all the newspapers given editorial space to the county problems, which, in my judgment, is a healthy sign.

What I would like to see, is some constructive criticism about the problems that the county has, and, if the press takes a pot shot at a public figure, that's O.K. with me. Furthermore, if it should happen to be me, I hope that I am man enough to take it, and be the first to admit it if proven wrong.

I have often heard people say, (quote) "I believe you are doing the right thing, but don't get me involved." (unquote)

I believe to be neutral indicates only one thing, and that is, lack of courage to speak your convictions.

I believe Carroll County can do a lot better if people speak their minds instead of holding their tongues. So, I would seek for an inquisitive electorate, and encourage active participation in civic groups and an alert, and inquiring press.

On administration — As all of you know, government is the business of furnishing the people with the services they cannot render to themselves. The cost of these services should be in proportion to the amount of services rendered. Most of us know we don't get anything for nothing, and, if we do, it isn't worth much. In the administration of these services is where public servants are either good servants or poor servants.

The thing that irks me the most is, that, in many cases our public servants get the impression that the jobs were created for them, instead of the benefit of the citizens.

How many of you have had to lose time from your job or your business so you might see the County Commissioners, or to attend a public hearing, or go to the tax office or license office? If I should become one of your commissioners, I shall work consistently to have these vital offices open one evening every week until 9 o'clock for your convenience.

Just imagine 23,000 voters in Carroll County, and if each of them must appear at one bureau just one time per year, and they lose one-half day from their job or business, that totals up to 92,000 hours lost from work, or approximately four years of production that your county has caused you to lose in every single calendar year.

I have heard some complaints about the efficiency of some departments. I am not able to comment because I just don't know. And, not only that, everyone should be given the benefit of doubt. This much is certain: the more civic groups functioning in our county, the less chance of any department going astray.

Concerning roads and their improvement, I would suggest one hard and fast rule: and that is, that priority be given to roads improvement based on the number of houses and the number of school-age children living on the unimproved road.

Concerning zoning: We have good zoning laws and they should be enforced! I give all due credit to those who worked hard and long to achieve these standards for our county.

It has been said by someone, and I quote, "God quit making land, but He keeps right on making people." If for no other reason than that, we must use our land in a most cautious manner.

There are only a few places on this earth where Divine Providence has smiled so graciously as she has on this area in which you and I call home. So, it behooves us to take heed of the mistakes that our sister counties have made in the misuse of the land.

By so doing, we will be alert to the population growth, and by revising the zoning laws as the need arises, we will in turn attract the kind of people to our county who are civic minded, responsible, and a credit to our county.

By having civic minded citizens, we reduce the incidence of crime, we reduce the cost of our welfare programs, and all other socially associated programs.

I also believe that in a civic minded society, all persons in public life should stand for election, because in my mind each person would have to answer to the voters, thereby, bringing about a closer working relationship with the people.

Some may say that quality would be unattainable as compared to the appointment system. If that be the case, then we have the same problem all the way up to the highest office in the land.

As to taxes — Most people, when they hear the word, their pulse quickens and their blood pressure starts up, and I'll admit, I'm in that group also.

Then I begin to rationalize by thinking about how many things our tax dollar has to do. Then I get a feeling of humility and gratefulness that I live in the greatest country the world has ever known, and that it gives me the privilege to stand here before all of you and tell you that I am a candidate for public office in one of the richest and most beautiful counties in this land of ours.

You will never hear a statement from me that if you elect me to office I will lower your taxes. But I do say this: That every dollar of tax money will be spent with prudence and that all possible information will be obtained before any commitments are made.

There are some areas where I am in disagreement with present policy. One is, that I am for getting rid of the former "poor farm" property. The reason is that it is a valuable piece of real estate and would bring a handsome sum and when developed, would result in an additional tax source.

Another area is the ever increasing number of trailers in our county. There must be some changes made here because of the inequity it causes to the home owner in respect to his taxes.

With the federal government taking the biggest bite out of our pocket, and the state budget reaching the one-half billion mark, the counties are really hard put to acquire sufficient monies to render the necessary needs to the people. If it were not for state refunding of certain tax monies, it is doubtful if any county government would be solvent.

With due respect for the judgment and opinions of others, it is my belief we have made two costly mistakes. One is the building of schools in isolated areas away from fire hydrants, away from ambulance service, away from doctors, and away from the advantages of our towns. Secondly, it is my sincere belief that additions should be made to our existing schools as long as it is physically possible. The unnecessary long haul and the great inconvenience it places on students who participate in after school activities is a great loss in time and money to students and their parents as well.

I also believe Carroll County should have a non-resident hunting license tax, because of the hazards it presents to the residents of this county.

I am also in favor of solicitors being licensed by the county because too many people, each year, are approached for funds without presenting proper credentials to prove they represent a bonafide organization.

I am in positive favor of holding non-commercial property in a commercial district at the non-commercial tax rate and that it be changed only when it actually becomes commercial.

On the subject of sanitation — We had better face up to this problem while we still have time, because if we put it off hoping it will go away, we will wake up with an emergency and of course you know that always cost more.

Waste disposal is now becoming a problem and in my judgment we will soon need an incinerator plant in this county. I would suggest that it be on a pay as you go basis, by prorating the cost to every taxpayer. By doing that, it would not work a hardship on anyone, and the incorporated towns would have access to its use also.

The problem in the Freedom District concerning sewers and a disposal plant is an example of what we can expect in other areas sooner or later.

It is my opinion that water piped from a central source to that area would be the first logical step as a health measure, and waste disposal could come later.

Another constant source of worry to me, is the ever increasing amount of littering and the dumping of trash along our roadsides. This must be stopped! A solution must be found for this problem! For this I would propose that all county roads vehicles have signs reading "Littering Increases Your Taxes."

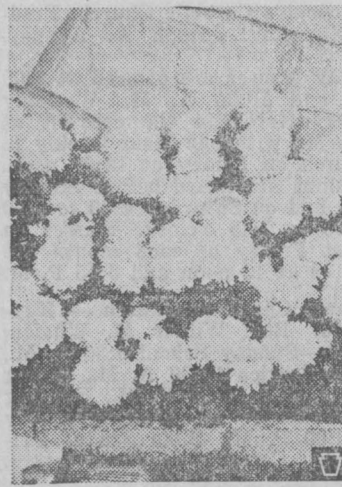

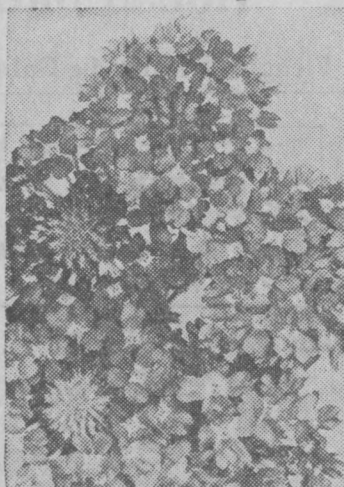

I also propose that all volunteer firemen be commissioned as litter patrolmen. This duty to be performed as a token of appreciation for the aid rendered by the county to their organization.

A study should be made to ascertain the feasibility of volunteer fire companies acquiring bulldozers for the purpose of constructing fire ponds in the farm areas, instead of spending their money on new fire engines which cannot put out a fire for the lack of water. This same equipment could also be used for emergency snow removal should the need arise.

In closing, I would say that it is a possibility that this coming 4-year term might be the last one under the commissioner rule. You may have home rule government by 1970, with all of its extras in the form of a county police department, a water department, a sewage and sanitation department, and Lord only knows how many other departments.

If I am elected as one of your commissioners I don't want to be another county commissioner, I want to be the best county commissioner you ever had.

Gay As Can Be

New for 1966 are these low-growing annuals — Spun Yellow marigold (right) which reaches a foot in height and Amethyst verben (left) which grows only six inches tall. Both are All-America Selections award winners.

These two new annual flowers are shown together because they are so striking when grown together in the garden — making a color scheme as gay as can be.

On the left is a violet-blue verben named Amethyst, on the right a dwarf marigold called Spun Yellow. Plant the foot-high marigold in back of the 6 inch verben. Then, when both start to bloom, stand back and admire your handiwork.

Spun Yellow is a counterpart of Spun Gold, extra-early to bloom, extremely floriferous, with large flowers even though the plants are dwarf. Flower stems are long enough for cutting. Plants are compact.

Amethyst plants are compact too; may spread 15 inches wide, so should be planted far enough apart to avoid crowding. They are uniform in size and height and, when covered with flatish flower clusters in that rarest of flower colors, blue, are just the nicest edging plant you can imagine.

TIME SAVERS

BY MARTHA BRANDT

A SPRAY IN TIME

To twist a phrase, "a spray in time saves nine..." The "nine" in this case, are not the stitches of the old adage but steps. For example: if you spray and shine the metal in bathroom and kitchen fixtures in a quick, once-a-day ritual, you'll save steps getting other cleaning equipment necessary when soap and spatulas build up on shiny metal. If you spray an oven after it's clean and before it has a chance to get dirt on it, a quick swipe with a sponge or dishcloth after each use could save you at least nine painful oven-cleaning steps. And in the laundry room or wherever your washing machine and other laundry equipment reside, spraying with a good enamel or metal cleaner after your biggest weekly wash can save you a long chore of actually scrubbing the equipment. (Saves wear on enameled surfaces too.)

These are examples to encourage you to look around your own house to see what nine steps you can save. These may even be in the closet where a thorough air freshening spray every few days (and leaving the door open whenever possible while you're dressing) can save you the far longer chore of taking the closet apart. (This will have to be done at least twice a year, of course, — and sprays can cut down time there — anti-moth, anti-odor and anti-dirt sprays of various kinds designed to speed up cleaning.)

One good way of getting the aerosol aids close at hand is to use an off-season (or an off-hour) to organize your army of aerosols.

Start with the grocery list — marking it off for two or three (depending on the number of places you want duplicate cleaning equipment) of each of the aerosol sprays which can be used in several ways.

One authority, the Aerosol Division of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association, suggests the following basic check-list of aerosols for cleaning aids:

- Glass and metal cleaning spray (two or three of any good brand to be stored in different places.)
- Spray Tile Cleaner (one or two — depending on number and location of bathrooms or other tiled areas.)
- Oven Spray Cleaners (two types — one to clean, one to protect, both to be kept conveniently in or near the kitchen.)
- Spray Disinfectant: (two or three — preferably of a type which combines extra germicidal action and pleasant odor or an odor-masking ingredient which has no scent of its own.)
- Spray Furniture Polish (one for each area or each floor of your house.)

These few basics can do a vast number of simple jobs — fast. Other aids you might need with them are an ample supply of sponges, clean rags and perhaps an apron with pockets, to give you literally a free hand while you're doing your fast once-over all over the house.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

The Spoiled Gift

Lesson For August 21, 1966

Background Scripture: Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-32; Mark 7:14-23; John 8:3-11; Philippians 4:8.
Devotional Reading: Ephesians 5:1-6.

Have you ever noticed Jesus' talent for bursting our little balloons of pride and self-satisfaction? Who can honestly consider his teachings without feeling quite deflated? He has a knack for turning our great moral victories into occasions of doubt and suspicion of guilt. The rich young ruler came to him with obvious self-satisfaction. He lived according to all the commandments, what

Rev. Althouse more did he need to do to be insured of eternal life. Apparently he expected Jesus to commend him and assure him that he was already "in." But instead of the expected pat on the back, Jesus replied with: "You lack one thing . . ."

No one can really take pride in his observance of the commandments if he really understands them as Jesus did. For example, one need not commit murder in order to violate the purpose of the sixth commandment. One may destroy or profane God's gift of human life with anger and bitterness as well as physical violence.

The Precious Gift

The same is true of the purpose of the seventh commandment: "You shall not commit adultery." It too is given to protect one of God's precious gifts to his children: man's sexual nature. Like all his gifts, it is a gift with a purpose behind it. He gives it to enrich and elevate life. He expects man to use this gift according to that purpose and when man does, his life is enriched and blessed. If, however, he does not use this gift in accordance with God's intention, he not only displeases God, he also hurts himself and others. The precious gift then becomes the spoiled gift!

The seventh commandment deals primarily with adultery, the act of sexual intercourse with someone married to another. In Deuteronomy 22 the commandment is expanded to include fornication, any act of intercourse outside the bonds of marriage. In other words, the Old Testament recognized marriage as the only lawful context in which men and women should employ the God-given gift of sex.

It is difficult to imagine how Jesus could improve upon this. What more could he ask then that people abstain from adultery and all fornication? Yet here is where Jesus displays his talent for bursting our balloons.

The Inner Fact

"But I say to you that every one who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart." (Matthew 5:28 RSV). The seventh commandment led some to concentrate too much on the physical act of sexual immorality. Jesus was just as concerned, however, with the inner fact of lust. The real problem, he knew, was with the impure thoughts and attitudes that precede the immoral acts.

When he defines it this way, who can escape his accusation? We may feel pretty smug because we have never violated the letter of the law, but when we consider the spirit of the law, the divine purpose behind it, there is no room left for smugness. Who is there among us who has never allowed lust to play with our thoughts?

This is true even if the lustful thoughts never result in an immoral act. "But in that case," you protest, "no one is hurt." Someone, however, is hurt . . . YOU! Just as hate can destroy the hater from within, so lust is a poison let loose within us. It gives us a very immature and selfish understanding of God's gift. It makes a curse out of what was intended to bless.

In short: It spoils the gift!

Delicate Graham Meringues Perfect For Beach Baskets

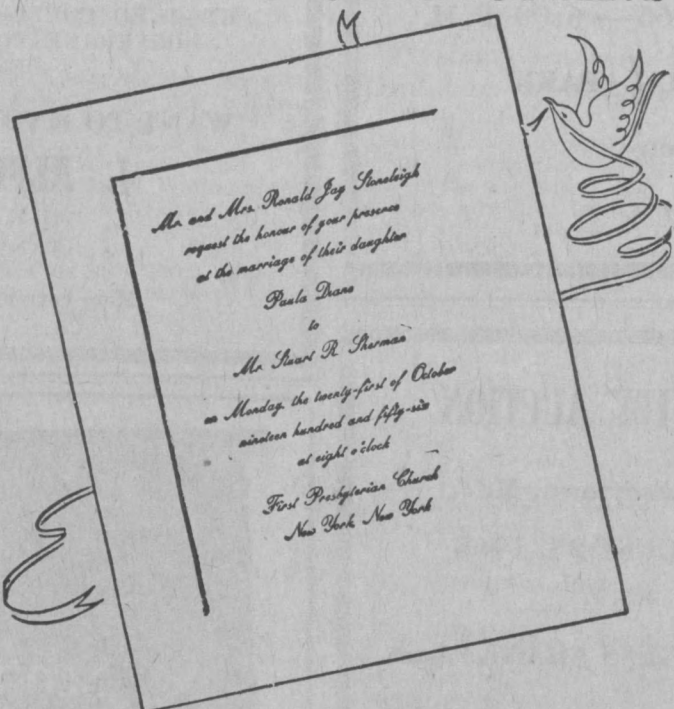

When you are planning a beach party or picnic, pack plenty of small sweets as a light touch for dessert. Delightfully airy Graham Meringues combine a topping of subtly spiced meringue with a base of delicious sugar honey graham crackers. Take them to the beach in an airtight container and serve with a refreshing beverage. Here's how:

Graham Meringues
12 whole Sunshine Sugar 1/4 teaspoon finely grated
Honey Graham Crackers 1/2 lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar 1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom 2 egg whites, at room
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves temperature

Preheat oven to 300°F. Separate crackers into thirds, place on ungreased cookie sheet and set aside. Blend cream of tartar, cardamom, cloves and lemon rind into sugar. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Slowly add sugar mixture to egg whites, beating constantly until meringue holds stiff and glossy peaks. Drop a teaspoonful of mixture on each piece of cracker, spreading lengthwise and making little whirls and peaks. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes, or until meringues are golden. Cool away from drafts. The meringues will shrink and crinkle slightly. They may be stored for several days in an airtight container. Yield: 36 meringues.

VIEW FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

As enthusiastic as I am, generally speaking, about living in the country, I would be the first to admit that it does have certain drawbacks, particularly in the winter. For instance, lack of central heating (no offense to my faithful friend, Hercules) in our old stone house means that while some rooms are comfortably warm, others remain frigid. Then too, I do not appreciate living on a back-country road when it becomes drifted shut with snow. At such a time, I feel strongly tempted to give up my rustic way of life and head for some town or city.

But then comes summer, and soon forget the "winter of my discontent," for summer brings special blessings to country folk, not the least of which is the abundance of fresh air, untainted by nauseous traffic fumes. Our nostrils are assailed by nothing more potent than the familiar barnyard odors, and I, for one, do not find them offensive. In any event, they are more than off-set by the fragrance of honeysuckle, roses, and new-mown hay. On a sweltering day, I can sit in the shade of a kindly tree and dunk my feet in the stream. This method of cooling off may be primitive, but it works! In the evening, I can watch a flaming sunset, and see the moon and stars as they were meant to be seen, unobstructed by tall buildings and undimmed by garish man-made lights.

Country people, living close to the soil as they do, are keenly aware of the gifts which each season brings, and summer is, of course, no exception.

BRIGHT IDEAS

FOR BEDROOM LIGHTING

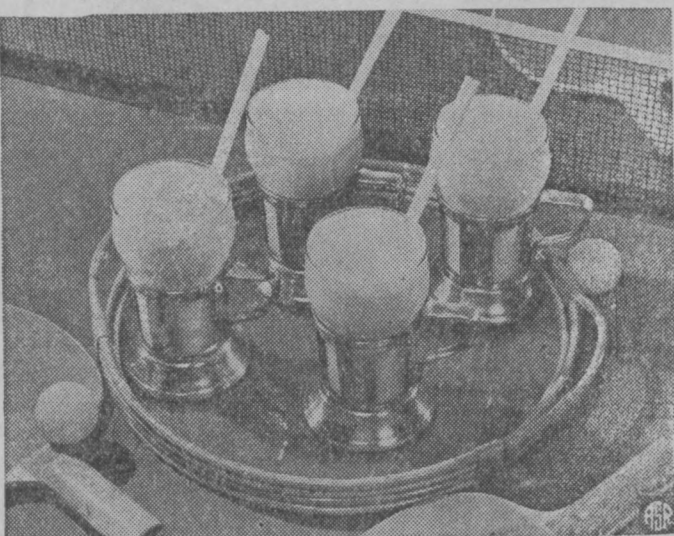

Restful lighting is the first requirement for sleeping quarters. The ceiling cove above bed contains two 40-watt fluorescent tubes for soft indirect lighting. An illuminated niche above headboard supplies excellent light for reading in bed.

For a child's bedroom a corner treatment of lighted niches with wooden panels highlight toys and collections. Single 20-watt fluorescent fixtures are mounted inside wall and covered with easily removable glass panels.

In a small bedroom-study, valance and bookcase lighting provides "den" atmosphere for a teenager. Sylvania's fluorescent lamps provide ideal illumination for doing homework or reading.

Time To Make A Shake

A lively game of table tennis, a devastating backhand smash for game point, and suddenly everyone is dying of thirst. No need to trot off to the corner drug store for refreshments. New chocolate and vanilla flavor shake mixes, that keep right on the pantry shelf, make creamy soda fountain type milk shakes in just a matter of seconds. So simple to fix, even the "littiest angel" can mix up a perfect batch.

For something deliciously different, try Spiced Mocha Shake, made with the chocolate flavor shake mix, instant coffee, and a dash of nutmeg. It's a real winner!

Spiced Mocha Shake

- 1 cup cold milk*
- 1 pouch Great Shakes Chocolate Flavor Shake Mix
- 1 teaspoon instant coffee
- Dash of nutmeg

*Use whole, skim, or reconstituted nonfat dry milk.

Pour milk to line inside shaker container. (Or use jar with tight-fitting cover.) Add contents of pouch, instant coffee, and nutmeg. Cover. Shake vigorously for 15 seconds. Serve immediately. Makes 1 serving.

Note: Spiced Mocha Shake may be prepared in an electric blender—blend about 15 seconds. Up to 3 times recipe may be prepared in blender at one time.
