MEETING OF THE EMMITSBURG SENIOR CITIZENS

In spite of the inclement weather on Monday evening, a good crowd assembled at the Open House held in the club rooms of the Senior Citizens Club of Emmitsburg. Approximately 80 guests and members attended the affair. None of the dignitaries invited from out of town were able to come, due to the icy highways. However, two brave members of the Brunswick Senior Citizens Club faced the elements to visit the opening.

Emmitsburg's Mayor, Mr. Guy Baker and Mr. Haley of the town commissioners came to show their interest in the project. Five pastors of the local churches visited the party, as did six Sisters from the Provincial House.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas spirit by Mrs. Louis Stoner, chairman of the decorating committee and refreshments of punch, coffee and cake were ably served by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Charles Harner.

The officers and members of the club wish to extend their thanks to all those who so generously helped in many ways to make the party a success. Much credit must be given Mrs. Virginia Sanders, director of the club, for planning the celebration and helping to carry it out.

Thanks is due also to a group of girls from St. Joseph's College who gave their assistance in many ways. Appreciation is extended to the Art's Flower Shop, Waynesboro, Penna.; Brager's Florist of Thurmont; Musselman's Greenhouse of Cashtown; and Mr. George Mellor for the lovely floral arrangements sent.

Much praise and gratitude is extended to Sister Madeline of St. Joseph's College and Mrs. Andrew Eyster, who have been so generous of their time and talents to initiate the whole project of the Senior Citizens Club of Emmitsburg.

DECEMBER VIEW FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

Now that December is here, we country-dwellers must brace ourselves for winter's frigid arrival. After such a mild and beautiful autumn, this sudden bitter cold comes as quite a shock, but then, winters are always a little hard to take in this section. And so it is that I view the first snowflakes with varying emotions—with fascination, for there is something so delicate and ethereal about those feathery-like crystals—but also with concern, for heavy snowflakes and high winds mean, for us, a drifted road. Accordingly, while trying to concentrate on the quiet grace of this special winter gift, I also, in a more practical frame of mind, haul out boots, gloves, jackets, and the snow shovel, and put an extra helping of sunflower seed, suet and corn on the birdfeeder. The woodpile grows higher, for both Hercules and Ben Franklin display voracious appetites on these cold, blustery days.

December, of course, means happy preparations for Christmas, and as I sit down to make up my Christmas card list, I think what a pleasant custom card-sending is. The warm, friendly thoughts wing across the miles to friends and relatives whom we, perhaps, seldom see and even to nearby loved ones. And it is so nice to receive cards, too.

Choosing gifts, in this age of affluence, when so many people have so much, can be a problem, but to me the most meaningful gift is the one which contains a real part of the giver. For instance, my mother makes the most delicious jelly I have ever tasted, and we are always delighted when she gives us these "jars of sunshine" at Christmas time. I personally, fall back on giving thin cut-out sugar cookies, as well as homemade fudge. No gift, after all, need be fancy or expensive—it is the thought which goes behind it that counts.

The program will conclude with "Song of Bethlehem," by members of the Youth and Adult Choirs.

Everyone is cordially invited to come and enjoy the brief and beautiful "Afternoon's Christmas Music." This Sunday, 3:00 P. M., Trinity Lutheran Church.

Scholarships Offered By Potomac Edison

Four college scholarships worth up to $2,000 each will be made available this year to area high school seniors through the Potomac Edison Company's annual Scholarship Program.

In previous years, three scholarships were offered but, according to PE's Taneytown manager, F. T. Dunham, ever-increasing interest in the program spurred the decision to boost this year's total to four.

Three of the scholarships will go to students whose parents or guardians are customers of Potomac Edison. The other will be available for a student whose parent or guardian is a company employee.

This year's scholarship competition is open to students of all high schools (public, private and parochial) in PE's service area. The scholarships may be applied to any accredited college or university in the United States.

Heading up the panel of judges for applicants will be the director of financial aid of Johns Hopkins University, Dean Robert L. Strider. Other panel members are Miss Grace Brown, Hood College Registrar, and Mr. Benjamin James, Dean of Students at Dickinson College.

Application forms and booklets explaining the scholarship program in full detail are being distributed to all high schools in this area and will be available through guidance counselors. They may also be obtained at all Potomac Edison offices.

Winners of the 1966 PE scholarships were James M. Foltz, South Hagerstown High School now at Swarthmore College; Joseph F. Pratt, Fort Hill High School, now at the University of Maryland; Vernon E. Reichenbecher, Jr., Northern Garrett County High School, now at the University of West Virginia; and Ronald E. Stouffer, South Hagerstown High School, now at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The Potomac Edison Scholarship Program was established in '63. It was started, company officials state, to aid deserving young people in furthering their education in hopes that they will return to their local communities to make their contribution to the social, political and economic welfare of this area.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Betcha, if you visited the "Dog Show" at the Armory last Sunday, there will be a pooch of some kind in your house for Christmas, and that to please any member of your family.

This year there were so many Foreign Dogs in the act and all breeds. It is too bad it really is just a one day affair for many cannot make it on a Sunday. The nice part of it all is that the proceeds will be turned over to "The Heart Association of Maryland." If you live in a house now and are considering apartment living—by all means investigate first if you will be permitted to take your dog and if not you will be glad that you kept your house and that is from actual experience. When those dogs just look at me and wag their tails—my heart feels as though it is bursting—beyond describing. Folks!

And that is from the bottom of my heart, and you know there is no Irish in me! What I observed as to this show—were the judges from all over the world. It was fantastic. Each year it all seems to get bigger and better than ever!

Such a grand feast put out for Thanksgiving Day (when I attend each year with 7 others) by those wonderful women of the West Liberty Methodist Church, West Liberty in Baltimore County. They serve more than 500 dinners! Think of those dear members to give up that special day. Eh?

If you have guests in your back seat of your car always remember to keep the front windows closed, for anyone sitting there can catch a dreadful cold. Always think of others and that will make everyone happy!

And if you have contracted a cold be sure and change your pillow slips daily of your bed for you might pick up one germ over again if it is not 100% clean.

Now, here is something to think about. As to those "Lenses" instead of regular eye glasses perched on your nose. They may be coming in to the lead—B U T, I was seated in a very fashionable living room lately and the beautiful girl before me suddenly placed her hand up toward her face and the left lens dropped into her palm of her hand! Ugh! She left the room and was back in a very few minutes with that lens adjusted and I asked her if she liked them and she said, "Oh, yes, I have been wearing them for a few years!" All in getting accustomed to anything, folks.

Now: BRITTTTTTTTTT—here's the "Farmer's Almanac" for December!!! "FIRST REAL splinter of hard winter. Black trees groaning while high winds are moaning. Even GRAMP can't remember a worse December. No let-up in sight, even on Christmas Night! This year's been extreme, or so it would seem!" How about that, folks?

The next time you come to the city with the children, by all means visit the "Methodist Exhibit" in the Love Lane Museum 2200 St. Paul St. It is entitled, "Baltimore Methodism and The Healing Arts." It will run until February 28th. Don't miss that one. There is no charge.

Be sure to see the movie, "Not With My Wife, You Don't," at the "Reisterstown Theatre" and "The Senator." Tony Curtis is the male star and that good looking actress, Virna Lisi in the leading female role. The other actor is George C. Scott. The two men are cast in the script as Air Force buddies in the Korean War. They both are interested in the same girls at all times. Curtis is injured in a barroom brawl and lands in the hospital where he meets Virna Lisi. It is love at first sight for him but not for the nurse as she is the kind of a girl that wants two of everything! Scott's plane goes down and Curtis lets Miss Lisi think he is dead, and uses this opportunity to marry her. Fifteen years pass and by this time both men are Colonels and Miss Lisi is a very dissatisfied wife. Scott has Curtis sent to Alaska and while there tries to get Miss Lisi interested in him! I'll leave the rest to you.

Now, that it is only a short time 'till Christmas be sure and go over all the decorations and what not so as you can replace anything that is necessary.

Have a grand week-end. Be careful when you drive and if you do not have to go out on any bad day, don't venture it.

Just think, folks this Chatty Column will be 21 year's old this month!

I am,
Faithfully yours,
Irene deLeon Love.

Plans for Closing Schools If Weather Necessitates

HIGH PRIORITY PASSENGER

Life magazine recently featured a pictorial preview of the supersonic transport, a monster 300-ton, 1800-mile-per-hour titanium airliner that in a few years will cross the United States in two hours with 300 passengers at 65,000 feet.

Far from being an impractical, fanciful dream the SST will be the culmination of long years of hard-headed planning, research and thousands of hours of actual supersonic flight—flight faster than the speed of sound. The SST program has been the largest in the history of aviation. Intensive studies have been made of the impact of the SST on the United States economy, on the traveling public and on the U.S. balance of payments. These studies forecast a world-wide need for 900 U.S. SST's by 1985, and it is estimated that by 1985 world-wide air travel will be 900 billion passenger miles, compared to about 123 billion passenger miles in 1965. One SST will equal the overall productivity of 74 of the famous DC-3's—the workhorse that revolutionized air travel in the early thirties.

The importance of a U.S.-built supersonic transport to this country in terms of jobs and taxes and maintenance of U.S. world leadership in air transport, the balance of payments problem and national security is almost beyond measurement. It will mean sales to the free world's airlines of $42 billion. It will provide direct employment to an average of over 100,000 persons for an 18-year period. It will provide a net benefit to the U.S. balance of payments of nearly $40 billion by 1985.

Beyond all these factors, a U.S.-built SST will assure this nation technological superiority in the aerospace industry, a superiority that is vital to national defense. The national interest will be the SST's highest priority passenger.

GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

OCALA, FLA., STAR-BANNER: "An opinion survey reveals that most Americans favor a cut in federal spending rather than increased taxes as a means of controlling inflation. What this shows is that more people are becoming aware of the real cause of the rising inflation which is troubling our country today. . . . Do the politicians want us to believe that giving them more money to spend will result in a lower cost of living—that is, a dollar with more purchasing power?"

HARRISONBURG, VA., NEWS-RECORD: "Dr. John D. Dougherty of the Harvard School of Public Health is one of a growing number of scientists who are taking a look at noise in contemporary society and its effects, apparently, are considerable. . . . A researcher on hearing problems, Dr. Dougherty contends noise levels in many environments have reached the point they are causing serious hearing impairments. . . . As examples of how noisy everyday contrivances have become, the researcher notes industrial studies which have shown that continued exposure to a noise level of 80 decibels has resulted in loss of hearing. Yet, such ordinary appliances as food blenders are rated at 93 decibels, a loud lawn mower at 107 decibels and a subway train at 95."

DUNCANVILLE, TEXAS, SUB-URBAN: "Whenever a property owner makes improvements on his property, his taxes go up. . . . This is an inefficient and most illogical way to run a government or a community. . . . The whole theory and practice of our real property tax system cuts across the grain of American history and political economics. We grew strong and prosperous by encouraging people to own and cultivate their property, to make improvements, to add to the wealth of the community."

ANTIGO, WISC., JOURNAL: "The prices charged for food are very prominent in public attention today, reflected most conspicuously in the boycotts of supermarkets in some of the larger cities. Few of the boycotters, we suspect, are aware of the complexities of food pricing and so they tend, either to blame the farmer as ultimate producer, or to vent their indignation on the last factor in the chain of suppliers, the retailer. . . . Given least thought of all is the part that inflation and the reduced buying power of the dollar playing in the situation."

SHELBYVILLE, KY., SENTINEL: "The fact is that the average American family is spending 18 per cent of its total income on food. No other nation in the world even approaches this figure, and in England 33 per cent of each family's disposable income goes for food, 45 per cent in France, and 62 per cent in the Soviet Union. Aside from the remarkably small amount of her income which goes for food, the American housewife receives more variety, more nourishment, more everything than her counterparts anywhere on the globe. . . . America's free enterprise, intensively-competitive system is the best guarantee yet devised by man that prices will not exceed demand."

COLDWATER, KANS., STAR: "Food for peace is a grand-sounding designation for a government program, but when the program is used indirectly to feed our avowed enemies the people of the United States may not think it so grand. Communism is a society which can keep its people from starving only with aid from the freedom countries."

TOOELE CITY, UTAH, TRANSCRIPT: "A government is no stronger than the character of its duly elected servants. Likewise, a political party or its elected representatives are either a source of integrity, industry and accomplishment, or a source of indifference, carelessness and failure."

SULLIVAN, ILL., PROGRESS: "Since our government demands such a strict accounting of every penny handled by every citizen, for taxing purposes, those taxpayers, by the same right, should be entitled to a strict accounting of now all those tax dollars are being spent."

DISCOTHEQUE BUFFET

Sterling sets a "shining example" in this teenage buffet table setting. Solid silver bowl holds flowers made of records trimmed with rick-rack and centered with mums. Other sterling silver pieces add to the op art look by reflecting gay awning-striped cloth.

When teenagers want to add a little bit of teenage wear and that dress-up look to parties, let them use modern-minded sterling which build up with sterling flatware and holloware. It's just the thing to bring an exciting touch of glamour to tables — and you don't have to worry, for the good looks of sterling silver won't be hurt one little bit by teenage wear and tear. In fact, those tiny lines on sterling which build up with use gradually form the beautiful patina which is so admired in antique silver. So by all means let the younger generation use grown-up sterling for parties — they're good for it!

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you:

Just learned recently that Mrs. John Blanchfield, Sr., has had surgery. Many of you will remember her and her husband as members of Keysville Lutheran Church when they lived off the Roop Road. If anyone would like to remember her with a card, the new address is Route 2, Schoharie, New York 12157. (Best wishes to her for a rapid recovery, from all her many friends, I'm sure.)

Understand, also, that Mr. and Mrs. John Blanchfield, Jr., and family have returned from their trip to Canada and are back in the farm house where they used to live (at least temporarily). Welcome back!

FAIRVIEW

Matt. 24:44 therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the son of man cometh. Also, verse 42 of the same chapter: Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. Oh, how we need to heed these sayings of the word of God. People who apparently in good health have been called home this past week. We were shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Roy Lookingbill of Thurmont. A very good friend of ours. He had worked in his barber shop during the day and returning home to settle down during the evening, when all of a sudden he was stricken ill and passed away before medical aid could reach him. Also, the death of Mrs. John Eckard of Bark Hill, who passed away very suddenly. Then the passing of Mrs. Florence Foreman, near Taneytown, but the past three months was being cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Parker, near Union Bridge. All three were our friends and we will miss them very much. The families of these loved ones has our very deepest sympathy. These few verses from John's Gospel I leave with you. John 14:1. Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. Verse 2. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would of told you. I go to prepare a place for you. 3. And if I will come again and receive you unto myself; that whither I go ye know, and the way ye know. Also our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Kenneth Nusbaur of Taneytown, in the death of her mother, Mrs. W. G. Rumbold, near Westminster.

Our sympathy is with the Morris family who had the misfortune to lose their home and most of their belongings in a fire last Friday.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doble and son and Mrs. Grant Baker, E. Baltimore St., Taneytown, recently were: Mrs. Ralph Eyer, Mrs. Mable Smith, Mrs. Claude Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carl and children, David, Danny and Debbie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frock were dinner guests on Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock.

As it is nearing Christmas I would like to share with you a poem written by Shelby Wright. Perhaps you will think of some little boy or girl you would like to make happy this Christmas.

Johnny's Christmas Present 'Twas the night before Christmas, Little Johnny hung his head, Santa would not visit him, His Mommy and Daddy were dead. Now the orphanage was Johnny's home.

And the orphans were his friends; No, Santa wouldn't remember this year, No one cared about him. Big tears streamed down Johnny's face, And he went outside to hide; Johnny was only 4 years old, Yet he tried hard not to cry. His Mommy wanted him to be a big boy, But he felt so all alone; He wanted to see Mommy and Daddy He wanted to go home. Johnny sat down on the snowy lawn, And watched the snow flakes fall; He tried to remember the story his Mommy told. Of another little boy, Long ago in Bethlehem. He was born on Christmas day; He said "They called his name Jesus And he slept on a bed of hay." He remembered she said the Angels Watched over him day and night; How the wise men came to worship him. They were led by the Star's shining light. Suddenly there was a flash of light, And an angel stood dressed in white; She took little Johnny by the hand And took him away that night. Now Johnny spends Christmas in heaven And he's no longer alone; He's with his Mommy and Daddy again. And heaven is his home. So remember this story each Christmas, And in the midst of all your Christmas cheer, Don't forget the story of Little Johnny. Won't you make some orphan happy this year? Shelby Wright

BOOKS

Books are the best things, well used; abused, among the worst. —Ralph Waldo Emerson

Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested.—Francis Bacon.

Speaking of books, I have just finished reading a biography of George Washington Carver, "The Man Who Overcame," by Lawrence Elliott.

Mr. Elliott has re-created the story of a great man who never looked for fame and fortune, yet found the world coming to him for his knowledge and friendship.

As many of you remember, he was a Negro born into slavery, was orphaned when he was quite small, was plagued by prejudice, poverty and bad health. But he became a most remarkable human being. His epitaph reads, "He could have added fortune to fame, but caring for neither, he found happiness and honor in being helpful to the world."

Anyone desiring to read the book need just ask to borrow it from my bookshelf. —Esther N. Speak

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear friend, FRANK W. OTTO, who passed away 8 years ago, Dec. 8, 1958.

Hand in hand we walked together, Missing not one stepping-stone; Now I stumble on the pathway As I try to walk alone.

Nights are long and oh so lonely, Darker than I've ever known. Morning brings me no contentment, Just another day alone.

Eight lonely years have passed away Since my great sorrow came; The shock that I received that day, I still remember well.

You are gone but the treasures you left me, Is truly a value untold. A life filled with deeds of kindness To all with

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports — John Breth

The Kansas City Athletics played a favorite children's game—hide-and-seek—to perfection in 1963 and outfoxed the 19 other major league clubs.

What the A's did was hide a young pitcher named JIM NASH. After signing Nash for a modest bonus following his graduation from a high school in Marietta, Georgia, the A's sent him to Daytona Beach, Florida, with orders that he not be used in keep the six-foot-five, hard-throwing right-hander out of the first-year player draft.

The A's hidden-player trick worked; Nash was passed over in the draft. Although Kansas City was pleased with its undercover gambit, Nash was not. He became restless sitting on the bench. His manager at Daytona, Bobby Hoffman, called the Athletics' front office several times, requesting permission to use Nash in a game. But the request was turned down.

Nash was permitted to pitch and run only in the mornings, when nobody could see him. At nights, when Daytona played its games, Nash was a spectator. He recalls: "I was disgusted. I sat in the bullpen and talked to the mosquitoes."

Nash got on to the field only once, when Daytona became involved in a fight with Miami. He became so excited that one of the players he hit was the Daytona first baseman. Nash never did tell his teammate that he knocked him down.

Now, Nash realizes that the A's made the right move in hiding him. After pitching in the minor leagues for the '64 and '65 seasons and half of this year, Nash was called up to the parent club. His talent no longer was hidden; it became the topic of many baseball conversations.

After joining the A's on July first, the 21-year-old Nash won 12 games, lost only one, compiled an earned run average of 2.06 and earned a berth on the Rookie All-Star team. But such phenomenal success has not left Nash complacent.

"There's nothing easy about pitching in the majors. I know that when spring training starts next year, I'll have to go all out. I'm planning on working harder than ever."

Nash's pitching repertoire includes a fast ball, curve and change-up. He hopes to add a screwball and a knuckleball. If he does, it will be more bad news for opposing American League batters, who already are baffled by Nash's deliveries.

MIKE EPSTEIN has had only two hits in the major leagues, but he already is being labeled as baseball's next super-star — if the Baltimore Orioles can find a place to play him.

Epstein's problem — or is it the Orioles' — is that he is a first baseman. And Baltimore is quite pleased with its current first baseman, John (Boog) Powell.

But the Orioles would like to make room for Epstein, who has been a batting sensation in his two seasons of professional ball in the minor leagues. In his first season, the strong six-foot-four, 235-pound Epstein batted .338 and had 100 runs batted in and 30 home runs for Stockton of the California League. This year, with Rochester of the International League, Epstein hit .309 with 29 homers and 102 runs batted in; he also was named the minor league Player-of-the-Year. Now, the Orioles think he is ready.

They brought him up at the end of the '66 season and he collected two hits, including a triple, in his brief appearances.

To try and solve the dilemma of where to play Epstein, the Orioles sent him to the Florida Winter League, where he is currently playing left field. But his fielding has been the complete opposite of his hitting. Epstein says: "I'm a continuing adventure out there."

If the Orioles use Epstein in left field next season, it will mean that Curt Blefary will be either benched or traded. But wherever Epstein plays with the Orioles, he will be just another big man on the team. Epstein says:

"The Orioles were telling me that with the Robinsons — Frank and Brooks — and Powell and myself, pitchers would be afraid to come out of the dugout. The thing is, I wonder how I'd react to playing with all those stars."

Epstein is wondering because he always has been the big man — in high school, at the University of California and in the minor leagues. He thrives on being in the spotlight.

But Epstein is an intelligent and determined young man and should be able to adjust at the beginning. If he is as good as his record indicates, it shouldn't take long for him to make headlines.

Today's Sport Laugh — When first baseman Marv Throneberry was with the New York Mets, he received almost as much copy as the team's colorful manager, Casey Stengel. One day, both were involved in a humorous incident, touched off when Throneberry hit what appeared to be a triple with the score tied in the ninth inning. But he was called out for failing to touch first base. Quickly, Stengel came charging out of the dugout to protest, but was advised by one of the umpires: "Save your breath. He didn't touch second base either."

Buying A Turkey?—It's In The Bag — by Martha Logan

The early settlers with game bag and blunderbuss never brought home a bird to compare with today's beautiful plump turkey. Cleaned, pinfeathered, vacuum wrapped and packed in a poly-net bag. The convenient mesh bag forms a loop at the top to simplify shifting the turkey in the freezer case. This easy grip handle also makes the birds easier to lift from case to cart and into kitchen freezer or refrigerator. White netting identifies the stuffed turkeys and yellow netting the turkeys to be stuffed at home.

There is a turkey the right size to serve for every occasion. The butter basted 2 lb. boneless roast fits menu plans for small gatherings and family meals the year around. Each roast is layered with butter so the tender turkey bastes as it roasts for better flavor and juiciness.

To give an idea of the size variety in today's turkeys, Butterball Swift's Premiums, for example, range in weight from 5 to 28 pounds. These freshly frozen turkeys have most leg tendons removed and the drumsticks tucked neatly into a slit of skin at the base of the body cavity.

When buying, allow 1 1/2 pounds of turkey per person. Increase the allowance to 2 pounds when selecting the already stuffed turkey. Complete roasting directions are on the wrapper of each bird.

Just planning the menu brings visions of tender, juicy white meat, a plump drumstick, good giblet gravy, old fashioned bread stuffing and all the trimmings. Such a magnificent turkey dinner begins with buying the bird.

Make Tomorrow's Breakfast Today

Make tomorrow's pancake breakfast tonight? It's easy with most modern self-rising flours.

At one batter-making session, you can prepare enough pancake or waffle batter to last (under refrigeration), for three bountiful breakfasts. And the batter on the third day will be as light and lively as the day you made it!

The key is an unusual new phosphate leavening agent which most mills are incorporating in their already versatile self-rising flours. The new leavening agent, from the food laboratories of Monsanto Company, lies quietly until triggered by griddle heat, then it releases leavening power at just the right time to give pancakes and waffles full and flavorful lightness.

For Delicious Pancakes

- 2 cups of self-rising flour 1/4 cup cooking oil or melted butter, margarine, or shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk

Put eggs and sugar in a mixing bowl and beat lightly with rotary beater. Blend in milk and oil. Add flour. Blend together and beat until batter is nearly smooth. Do not overbeat. Usual batter for pancakes is cream-like in thickness.

Pour batter into a closable container, covered tightly to prevent surface drying, and place in refrigerator. Before each frying, stir to eliminate any separation.

Pour batter on hot griddle or frying pan (about 400°). Turn when bubbles rise to surface in center. Griddle is not hot enough if pancake is not brown when turned. It is too hot if bubbles at edge of pancake break before bubbles rise to surface at center. It's not necessary to add more milk or water while frying the pancakes.

For refrigerated batter to produce succulent waffles, use above recipe with these changes: 1 tablespoon sugar; 1 1/2 cups milk and 1/4 cup cooking oil, butter, margarine or shortening. (Waffle batter is usually thinner than pancake batter).

Cranberry Christmas Ring

Just right for holiday serving is this Cranberry Christmas Ring. It's home-baked from a brand new cranberry bread mix with berry bits right in the mix. Pair pecans with the cranberries' tang, and bake the bread in a mold for this handsome ring. How to serve it? In slices, dolloped with a flavor-matched topping — whipped cream cheese laced with cranberry-orange relish. When to serve it? Just about any time the doorbell rings to announce holiday callers.

Cranberry Christmas Ring

- 1 package cranberry bread mix
1/2 cup coarsely broken pecan pieces

Cranberry-Orange Fluff:

- 8 ounce package softened cream cheese
1/4 cup cranberry-orange relish

OVEN 350°

ONE RING MOLD

Prepare cranberry bread mix as directed on package adding pecan pieces with the dry mix. Turn into 1 1/2-quart ring mold which has been greased and floured on bottom only. Bake at 350° for 40 to 50 minutes until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely. Serve with Cranberry-Orange Fluff.

Cranberry-Orange Fluff: Beat softened cream cheese until fluffy. Fold in cranberry-orange relish.

A Green Tree Is A Safer Tree

10 days after household preservative solution was used in tree on right and plain water in the same amount used with tree on left.

A household formula that is simple to make at home has been developed by Harold C. Cook of Dixon, Illinois, nationally known lecturer and florist. The formula will effectively double the indoor life of most cut evergreens, including Christmas trees.

The formula uses light corn syrup, a horticultural iron preparation, a chlorinated bleach and hot water. For Christmas trees it is recommended that a large tree holder be used that will hold at least 1 gallon. To preserve cut evergreen boughs, use the same formulation and arrange boughs in vases or suitable decorative containers.

Household Formula For Keeping Evergreens Fresh

- 1/4 cup Green Garde micronized iron 2 cups Karo light corn syrup
1 gallon hot water 4 teaspoons chlorinated household bleach

Mix micronized iron into hot water. Stir in corn syrup and bleach. The iron does not completely dissolve. It makes a bluish, green mixture with particles which settle to the bottom. Saw about one inch from bottom of tree trunk to remove any clogged resins and to level the base. Pound or smash the base of the trunk with a hammer or axe to crush the fibers. Stand the tree in a tree holder and pour in the solution. Add warm tap water daily, as needed, to keep it filled.

Note: Green Garde with micronized iron, a natural horticultural iron, is available at florists, garden supply and hardware stores. Get Karo syrup and a chlorinated bleach at your favorite grocery store or supermarket.

A Sovereign Servant
Lesson for December 11, 1966

Background Scripture: Isaiah 52:12 through 53:12
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 42:1-7

"Mozart," says theologian Karl Barth, "teaches us the sovereignty of the true servant."

What a strange idea: that a man can be both sovereign and servant all in one! The sovereign is to rule, is it not? A sovereign

Rev. Althouse of the "sovereignty of the true servant?"

The idea of a sovereign servant is not original with theologian Barth and the dilemma it raises goes back at least twenty-five hundred years. The exiled people of Judah, fed up with being a political football, looked for a return to great leadership and national glory to wipe away their humiliation.

Bone In Judah's Throat

What a disappointment, then, was the image drawn in Isaiah 53. This anointed one of God would not be physically attractive, but without "comeliness" or "beauty." Instead of receiving admiration, he would be "despised and rejected by men." Not a successful man as the world judges it, he would prove to be "a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." He would be as one who "was oppressed," not a conqueror on the field of battle. His strength would not consist of imposing might upon others, but in enduring the might of others without complaint or cursing. What Judah wanted was a man to punish his oppressors; what she would receive was one who would be punished for the wrongs of others.

The image of the "suffering servant" was clearly unacceptable, a "bone in the throat" of the exiled Jew. One might have to endure suffering and humiliation, but they could not see this as a way to victory and sovereignty. How could there be combined in one person the image of a servant who "was oppressed and . . . afflicted" with that of a victor whose hand "the Lord shall prosper?"

Still Bone Of Contention

The idea was no more acceptable five centuries later when a Nazarene named Jesus adopted this image as the model of his own ministry. His own disciples had great difficulty in accepting the suffering servanthood of their Messiah. It just didn't seem to be the way to conquer for the kingdom of God. Later, one of his apostles, Paul, would write of the crucified Christ as "a stumbling block to Jews and folly to gentiles."

The concept is hardly more acceptable today. Although the crucified Christ is declared from pulpits each Sunday (well, perhaps not every Sunday!), our television programs on Monday through Saturday are probably a better indication of what we really think. In both the television "western" and the "eastern," the victor is the man with the fastest gun, the strongest right hook, or the space-age technology of Batman or U.N.C.L.E. The sovereign is the person who is "on top of the pile" at the end of the episode.

Through his life, death, and resurrection, Jesus pointed to a new way of sovereignty: vicarious suffering and service. This means willingly spending one's self on behalf of someone else. He demonstrated the superior strength of loving service over that of wrathful violence. The enemies of Jesus were masters of violence; the followers of Jesus were to become masters of service. In the long run, God would turn their apparent defeat into victory.

We have found in the long run of the ensuing centuries that the failure of Jesus as the suffering servant was really miles ahead of the greatest "successes" of other men. He proved in the long run that only the servant can be truly sovereign.

Giant Jetliner Sets Stage

For Tomorrow's Air Travel

The massive 747 is over 50% longer, 50% higher than the 707. Each of its 4 engines develops 41,000 lbs. of thrust at a take-off of 115,000 lbs. against 42,000. Passengers enter the plane thru 10 loading doors compared with two for the 707.

NEW YORK (CFN)—The most magnificent flying machine of all time—the super-duper Boeing 747—will whoosh into the skies early in 1970, ushering in a new era of air travel.

That's the electrifying story behind the story of Trans World Airlines' purchase order for 12 giant Boeing jetliners, ships with dimensions to faze even the most jaded member of the Jet Set.

Jazziest, snazziest, fastest, most-est, longest, strongest—these are but a few of the adjectives that apply to the skyliner destined to make today's big passenger jet seem nearly as small as the DC-3 of the 1930's.

For those hipped on statistics, TWA's airborne "flying living-room" titillates. Measuring 232 feet long, the Boeing 747 lacks only a few first downs of being as long as a football field. Its tail stands as high as a six story apartment building.

At take-off, the jetliner's four Pratt & Whitney engines develop 164,000 pounds of thrust, enabling the 311-ton airplane to take off from a slightly shorter airstrip than those used by present-day jetliners.

Boasting a wingspan that would reach from home plate to short centerfield in Yankee Stadium, the Boeing 747 gulps 50,000 gallons of jet fuel per 6000 mile non-stop flight. This many gallons of gasoline would power an automobile 750,000 miles—and that's a lot of Howard Johnsons!

But the true magnificence of this flying machine is best told in terms of beauty and comfort. In terms of lavish appointments, the 747 is to the 707 what Jayne Mansfield is to Phyllis Diller.

Item: The ship's 325 passengers will ride in a series of spacious compartments individually decorated to resemble living rooms.

Item: A cocktail lounge in the nose of the 747, offering a wrap-around view of the world we live in, is envisioned.

Item: A special compartment for cigar smokers, long the bane of the airlines, is under consideration.

Item: For tots, there may be a nursery-play-room aboard.

Item: Big business deals are likely to be consummated in a fully equipped, sky-high conference room.

Item: Roomy seats, the width of an executive's swivel chair and doors wide enough to permit two persons to pass side by side, further reinforce the concept of the Boeing 747 as the world's first luxury airliner.

Item: And best news of all—No less than 11 rest rooms will accommodate the passengers. From before take-off to after touchdown, a flight on the 747 will be as wondrous an experience as any imagined by a science-fiction writer.

At the airport, Mr. and Mrs. Jetsetter will be given a "baggage container number." Near the ramp leading to the plane, the Jetsetters will place their luggage in the appropriate container, then board the plane.

Whooshing below the heavens at 600 miles per hour the Jetsetters can expect to reach their destination in record time though they may fret with impatience for the day when TWA receives delivery of the 16 supersonic transports it has ordered. These ships will fly at speeds up to 1800 miles per hour and take to the skies some time before 1975.

The interior of the Boeing 747 shown here in full scale mock-up features high ceilings, wide aisles, living room comfort. It will be designed from recommendations made by TWA passengers.

Arriving home, the Jetsetters may idly wonder "who in the world" designed the world's most comfortable airship. Surprisingly, the answer is: the Jetsetters themselves.

Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief—some 200,000 veteran air travelers from nearly every walk of life will be polled by TWA in an effort to design a jetliner embodying the features passengers want in their "dream plane."

Were tinkers Wilbur and Orville Wright to gape at this monster-sized, propeller-less aircraft, Orville might well poke his brother and exult, "Now there's a magnificent flying machine!"

Neither would it be surprising were Will to reply: "Yep, it's longer than the length of our first flight."

1966 Christmas Stamp-Christmas Seal Poster

Postmaster John R. Byers of Westminster and Mrs. John C. Schaeffer of the Carroll County TB Association officially welcomed the holiday season by previewing the 1966 Christmas Stamp-Christmas Seal poster which is appearing on 45,000 United States Post Office Department trucks throughout the country.

These posters will be displayed on the side of all Post Office trucks continuing through Saturday, Dec. 21. In addition, posters are being displayed in post office lobbies from coast to coast throughout the country.

This year's Christmas Stamp was adapted from a Hans Memling portrait on wood of "Madonna and Child with Angels" which is part of the Mellon collection in the National Gallery of Art in Washington. The inscriptions are in red-gold and both the artist and gallery are identified.

The 1966 Christmas Seal—done in rich tones of red, green, gold and black was designed by Heidi Brandt who also designed the 1965 and 1961 Christmas Seals. Mrs. Brandt has combined "flora from anywhere in America and a sweet bird of the imagination" to symbolize joy and hope in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

In displaying the 1966 Christmas Seal-Christmas Stamp poster, Postmaster Byers said, "It is a special pleasure for all of us in the Carroll County post offices to again be working with the Carroll County TB Association during this holiday season. I urge all citizens who send special holiday greetings to friends and loved ones to use Christmas Stamp and to promise them a healthier New Year by using Christmas Seals on all their holiday mail."

MARYLAND FARM YOUTH SPEAKS IN NATIONAL FINALS

John W. Rinehart, a young farmer in Carroll County, represented Maryland in the 1966 National Discussion Meet finals in Las Vegas, Nev., on Dec. 4.

The Discussion Meet, a project of Farm Bureau Young People, is designed to develop interest among rural people between the ages of 18 to 30 to think and talk about current farm problems.

Twenty-year-old Rinehart earned the opportunity to discuss "What Is the Future in Agriculture For a Young Person Today" with other participants by winning in county and state contests.

He is well qualified to speak on the topic, as he is farming in partnership with his father on a 225-acre dairy farm near Taneytown. This past June he graduated from the University of Maryland with a major in dairy production.

Past achievements include being a member of the 4-H Dairy Judging Team that represented the United States in international competition in England during the year of 1962.

"KNOCK OUT TETANUS" PROGRAM REMINDER

The Carroll County Medical Society would like to remind all the people who received tetanus immunizations for the first time in their lives last fall to return to their family physicians this month. This booster is necessary for protection said Dr. Karl M. Green, secretary of the Carroll County Medical Society.

Health and Safety Tips from the American Medical Association

This is the season of the year when the American Medical Association reminds once again that you can't cure a cold.

And if anyone tries to sell you on the latest version of a so-called "cold cure" you can save your money. Many of the classic diseases of history have succumbed in the 20th century to new medical skills and modern drugs. But the cold virus still successfully resists the best efforts of the world's combined medical research talent.

As the years go by more and more is being learned about colds and their causes. A number of viruses produce the symptoms that most of us call a cold, possibly as many as a hundred. The true cold is an infection with one or more viruses. Bacteria are believed to be purely secondary infectors.

Current research seems to indicate that colds are harder to spread than has been thought. Fresh colds appear to be more contagious than older ones. Children's colds probably are more contagious than those of adults. There still is much discussion among experts as to the relationship of becoming chilled or exposure to dampness to "catching" a cold.

What can you do for a cold? No specific treatment, so far available, is effective against the cold virus. Any treatment is directed toward relief of the discomfort of runny nose, watering eyes, sore throat, slight fever and the other symptoms of the cold. Penicillin does not stop the virus, but may be prescribed by your physician for secondary bacterial infections. Bed rest, or at least inactivity, is helpful. Your physician may suggest mild medication to help relieve the discomfort.

Cold vaccines have yet to be proved of much value. There is no evidence that any particular foods, vitamin supplements, special clothing or exposure to sunlight or fresh air have any effect on colds.

If a cold persists or seems unusually severe, see your doctor. Colds are great imitators and the early symptoms can mimic those of other more serious infections. Recurring colds may not be colds at all, but may be allergic attacks that require medical attention.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

DAY AT THE RACES

Most of the danger at a horse race or an auto race involves those who are racing. But sometimes an accident involves those who are watching. To what extent is the management legally liable for that?

Your rights as a spectator are very much like your rights as a shopper. The management owes you "due care"—that is, care measured by the hazards of the occasion—but no more.

You cannot collect damages for an accident which is simply no one's fault. In one case a horse in the paddock area suddenly reared up angrily. Frightened onlookers, although outside the fence, fell back in dismay, pushing one man against a platform.

He sued the management for damages. But since the horse had never been troublesome before, the court could find no basis for liability.

Nor can you collect if you yourself are to blame. Thus:

A racing fan, on his way to the betting window, came to a mud puddle. Although it was only a quarter-inch deep, he decided to jump. He landed short, skidded, and fell down hard. A court ruled later that he could not collect damages for an accident which, by his own bravado, he had brought upon himself.

But blame was pinned on the management when a grandstand seat caved in under a spectator. Proper maintenance, ruled the court, would have revealed that the wood beneath the seat had rotted away.

In another case, numerous spectators at an auto race were hurt when a car blew a tire, smashed through a fence, and hurtled into the stands. The blowout was traced to one of several loose nails, lying in plain sight on the track but overlooked by a cleanup crew. Here, too, the court upheld damage claims against the management.

Of course, safety measures such as careful maintenance, adequate policing, and strong fences can be costly. But in the eyes of the law, cost is secondary. As one court put it: "While the expense cannot be overlooked, it weighs less than human life in the balance. If a race cannot be held without inherent and extreme risk to life and limb, the command of the law is that it must not be held at all."

Plan An Easy Puff Party

Have you hosted a dessert party lately? It spells elegant informality for a birthday, bridal or anniversary gathering.

Bake the Dream Puffs a few days before the party, suggest home economists who developed the recipe in the General Electric Housewares test kitchens. Store puffs in an air-tight tin or freeze. An hour before guests arrive, prepare whipped cream variations and refrigerate. Rely on an automatic coffee maker to brew fresh coffee at the buffet table.

Dream Cream Puffs
1/2 cup butter or shortening 1 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
4 eggs

Preheat oven to 375°F. Combine butter, salt and water in saucepan. Bring to full boil, stirring until butter melts. Add flour and beat with Mixer at "LO" over low heat until mixture forms a compact ball and leaves sides of pan—about 30 seconds. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs, one at a time, at "MED"—about 30 seconds, beating time for each egg. Scrape bottom and sides of pan with rubber spatula. Drop by tablespoons 2" apart on greased baking sheets. Bake at 375°F. for 45-50 min. Immediately cut 1 or 2 slits in sides of puffs. Return to oven for 5 minutes to dry out. Cool before filling. Yield: 1 dozen.

Try variations in a half-pint of cream already whipped: add 3 tablespoons of brown sugar; or, add a teaspoon of instant coffee, mixing well; or, add a few drops of food coloring and peppermint extract.

For perfectly-brewed coffee, use cold water; rinse the basket in cold water; this prevents small coffee grounds from dropping into the brew. If you own a Permatel coffee maker, you know that coffee oils and acids will rinse away without scouring the special inside finish. Coffee will be at proper temperature, too, with the "keep warm" feature.

The Well-Schooled Look

Being well-schooled for fashion requires careful planning before you make the long trek back to college. If you can't decide what clothes to take and end up carting two trunks, three suitcases and 10 cartons of odds and ends while dad groans and the station wagon sags—you need help in packing.

First, make sure you take staples like sweaters and skirts and a few basic dresses that will see you through the year. Then, add the fun fashions like the newest in pant suits and this year's fashion darling—the corduroy outfit. Top these ensembles with a little cap and to make an extra good impression your first weeks at school and all year through—be sure that the hair underneath that cap is stylish and shining.

To help you, pack a tube of Breck Concentrate Shampoo in your suitcase. It comes in two types; one for normal hair, the other for dry and brittle hair. The shampoo foams up instantly, even if the water in your dormitory is hard. And the plastic container is unbreakable and easily packed in the smallest of spaces.

Before you go back to school, decide on a basic hair style for the whole year. One of the chirl-length blunt cuts with long bangs is ideal, since it can be worn in so many different ways. Try it tied with a wide polka-dotted ribbon or with the bangs brushed to the side. Have a good haircut before you return because chances are you'll be too busy your first month at school to attend to it. After this, have a trim regularly to keep the style in.
