UNGRANTED PRAYER.

SUSAN M. DAY.

For all Thy gifts to me, my gracious Lord,
My heart outpours its wanted thanks to-day;
But now there comes an unaccustomed word,
Falling from lips unused such words to say;
More than for all Thy gifts, most rich, most fair,
To-day I thank Thee for ungranted prayer!

Ungranted prayer! I cried to Thee for health,
Then lay on bed of pain for untold hours;
Ungranted prayer! I prayed to Thee for wealth
For one I loved; and still with all his powers
Of thought and will he fights with sorrow,
And yet I thank Thee for ungranted prayer!

Thou wouldst not give me health; but then the pain
Brought an enforced silence in my life
When, freed from its stong restlessness and strain,
I felt Thy love, forgotten in the strife.
Stillness of darkened room! Thou camest there!
My Lord! I thank Thee for ungranted prayer!

Thou hast not given him wealth; nor the success
Which seems his due. Bitter to see him pass
By men whose courage, strength, are so much less;
But one learns fast through failure, oh, so fast!
Ah! when I see him grown so strong to bear,
I thank Thee, too, for this ungranted prayer!

Ungranted prayer! With all my being's might
I cried to Thee one weary year ago,
To save my darling's life; through dark, sad night
I watched her breathing grow more faint, more slow,
Until it ceased; oh, wilderness of despair!
Oh, desolation of unanswered prayer!

And yesterday beside her grave I stood,
The grass, the flowers were blackened by the cold;
The dreary wind moaned through the leafless wood;
The world looked very gray, and tired and old.
I thought—my darling knows a kinder air,
And thanked Thee then for that ungranted prayer!

Ungranted prayer! The mother draws her child
Back from the poisonous flowers, the gaudy pride,
But fills his hands with roses sweet and wild,
With treasures safe his longing satisfies;
So I should fear to pray, but for God's care,
Which gives me better gifts than granted prayer.

A Man That Succeeded.
"My only daughter, sir," said Colonel Montegale. "And, as I venture to hope, accomplished in her way. We are not much in the way of schools or academies here, but I have been her instructor myself, and she is a thorough mathematician, an excellent musician and a linguist of no mean capacity. We are studying Hebrew now every day, she and I, and she devotes her evening to comprehensive reviews of her Latin and Greek. She will be a scholar, sir, if I live to complete her education!"

Mr. Crofton looked curiously at the oddly-assorted pair—the silver-haired, shabbily-attired old gentleman, with his bold forehead, eagle eye and delicately-white hands; and the dark browned, sullen looking girl, with a gypsy skin, untidy frock and patched boots.

"Pretty? Yes, she might be pretty under some circumstances. The diamond itself is not an attractive stone before the lapidary's art has polished its rude angles into glittering facets of white fire. But she certainly possessed no sweet, feminine graces now."

"How old are you, Miss Montegale?" he asked, fluting it imperatively necessary to say something.

And Mary Montegale answered in words, "Seventeen," while her looks replied, plainly, "None of your business!"

"Go, my child, and gather some flowers to deck our humble board," said the old gentleman, magniloquently, while he conducted the son of his oldest friend into the tumble down old stone house, where the carpets were moth-eaten, the furniture mildewed, and every trace of decayed gentility told the sad story of better days.

Mrs. Montegale, who had been a beauty once, and had her portrait engraved in a "Gallery of American Rose-buds," was sitting up in state in a battered boudoir, in a black silk dress that must have been quite a quarter of a century old, with a flower in her silver-sprinkled hair, and still preserving the girlish attitude in which the engraver's pencil had immortalized her, oddly contrasting with the sharpened outlines and haggard abruptness of her sixty-odd years.

And this was the way in which the old couple lived, in the dead past as it were, Colonel Montegale starving contentedly on the recollection of his past grandeur, and his wife fondly fancying that time had stood still since the days in which she was counted worthy to be one of the "American Rosebuds."

Mrs. Montegale sweetly welcomed her guest and touched her little hand-bell at her side.

"We will dine, Sarepta," she said to the maid.

"Please, ma'am," breathlessly uttered that young person, "there ain't nothin' for dinner. We eat the last of the cold beef yesterday, and the dog he tipped over the pan of oysters, and—"

"That will do, Sarepta," said Mrs. Montegale, with a red spot mounting to each of her cheek-bones. "I said—we will dine!"

And Sarepta withdrew with a jerk.

The dinner was served presently—an instance of the magnetic power of will—but there was no cold beef, neither were there oysters, fruit, a thin, watery soup of herbs and parsley, tastefully garnished salad of lettuce and mayonnaise, and a dish of peaches and cream, formed the meal.

"Quite Arcadian!" said Mrs. Montegale, with a giggle.

"And very badly served," secretly commented Mr. Crofton to himself. "But the salad was nice."

"Where is Mary?" the colonel asked.

"Drinking in the beauties of the sunset, I presume," the lady answered, airily. "The dear child has an artist's soul, and we do not tie her down to any hours or rules."

The colonel fell asleep in his chair after dinner, Mrs. Montegale and her painted fan withdrew themselves into the boudoir—and Mr. Crofton, inwardly bewailing himself that he had promised to stay a week at Montegale Manor, sauntered out upon the heights which overlooked the valley below.

As he stood there, a rustling sounded in the bushes, and the dark-tinted gipsy sprang up the hillside.

"You have a fine place here, Miss Montegale," he said, by way of making himself agreeable.

"I hate it!" said Mary, darkly.

"I beg your pardon!" exclaimed Mr. Crofton, in amazement.

"I do!" flashed out the girl—"I hate it all! The learning, and the purity, and the grand pretences, and the miserable makeshifts."

"Ah!" said Mary Montegale, "you don't know it all. You never heard the tradesmen howling at the back doors like a pack of howling wolves; you don't know that the house is advertised for sale for arrears. How should you be aware that the very clothes we wear are not paid for, nor the coals that cook our dinner? Papa smokes his cigars and talks about the Mexican war; and mamma poses in the great chair, and dreams of embroidery work and tapestry stitch; and I—I am expected to learn Arabic and Sanscrit, and nobody knows what else, and ignore our wretched poverty. But I can't! Who could?"

Mr. Crofton looked pityingly at the girl's sparkling eyes, and pale, excited face.

"I am very sorry to hear this," said he. "Can nothing be done?"

"Yes," said Miss Montegale; brusquely. "Something can be done—and I am doing it, in so far as I can. But papa and mamma must not be allowed to suspect it, I am—learning a trade!"

"You!" he echoed. "A trade!"

"There's a factory near by here," she said, calmly. "The country girls earn a little pocket money there sewing on shirts. I am to have a machine as soon as I have learned to manage it. I go every evening, while papa fancies I am at the Greek and Latin, to farmer Pelham's, whose wife teaches me the use of the machine. I am learning evening, while papa fancies I am at the Greek and Latin, to farmer Pelham's, whose wife teaches me the use of the machine. I am learning evening, while papa fancies I am at the Greek and Latin, to farmer Pelham's, whose wife teaches me the use of the machine."

"You are quite right," said Mr. Crofton.

"That is what I wanted to know," said Mary, hastily. "Because, living here all by myself, in such a strange, unnatural atmosphere, I sometimes get confused, and scarcely know right from wrong."

"But they will have to know it, when—"

"When I really go into the factory," said Mary. "Yes, I know that. But until then, I would fain spare them the pang. I am to have a dollar a day, Mrs. Pelham says, if I operate the machine skillfully. And a dollar a day will buy mamma many a little luxury, and go far toward paying the grocer and the baker."

"You are a noble girl," said Mr. Crofton, warmly; and in his eye, at that moment, Mary Montegale was glorified with rare beauty, as she stood there, the fresh wind blowing her jetty curls about, the reflection of orange sunset deepening the color on her cheek, and the grave, far-away sparkle of her eyes half veiled beneath the long lashes. "And if I could be of any assistance to you in this task—"

"You can," said the girl, abruptly. "You can stay here and amuse papa, so that he shall not suspect what occupies my time. You can divert his attention from Sanscrit and Arabic, and all these mysteries."

And, for the first time in his experience of her, Mary Montegale laughed—a mellow, bird-like laugh.

"I will," said Mr. Crofton, heartily.

And so the compact was sealed between them.

Instead of the weak he had promised his father to spend with old Colonel Montegale, the sojourn was extended to three.

At the end of that period, he gravely addressed himself to the dark-eyed daughter of the house.

"How is the trade?" he asked.

"I am to have a machine next week," said Mary, with the conscious pride of one who has conquered fate; "and then—only think of it, Mr. Crofton—I shall earn a dollar a day!"

"Mary," said Mr. Crofton, seriously, "I have been thinking of another plan for you. You tell me that this farmer's wife, has made a first class housekeeper of you."

"I baked mince pie yesterday!" said Mary, exultantly; "and I have quilted a quilt and made soft soap, within the week!"

"I don't like the idea of your going into a factory," said Mr. Crofton. "Suppose now, by way of variety, you were to—marry me?"

"But you're not in love with me!" said Mary, opening her bright black eyes.

"But I am," said Mr. Crofton, with great gravity. "I have deliberately made up my mind that I can't be happy without you. And although I don't profess to be a rich man, I believe I can make you a better allowance than six dollars a week, while at the same time you will not be compelled to work ten hours a day for it. That is the businesslike view of the question. Now on to the more personal one. Don't you think, Mary, that you could love me? Because I love you very much indeed!"

"I—don't know!" whispered Mary. "I might try!"

And then she blushed charmingly.

So Colonel Montegale's daughter went to the fair Floridian plantation on the shores of the river St. John, and astonished every one there with her thorough knowledge of house-keeping in all its details. And the two old people, with their burden of insolvency and care lifted off their lives, dwelt quietly on, in the ancient tower-like house, and talk to everybody who crosses their path of "the excellent marriage which my daughter Mary has contracted."

"A thorough scholar," says Colonel Montegale, with dignity. "A musician, a linguist, a thorough Hebrew student, and a proficient in Latin and Greek. I myself was her instructor. It is not singular that a girl of such intellectual power should marry well."

But Colonel Montegale, honest man, never dreamed that it was the sewing-machine and soft soap, the mayonnaise dressing and the vehement struggle to get free from debt, which conquered Mr. Crofton's heart. There are plenty of scholars and poetesses in the world—but a real womanly woman—is not her price far above rubies?

Deadly Dust.
Dr. Leidy, of Philadelphia, believes that the dust of our cities is a serious source of disease. "When we reflect," he says, "that this is the dried and pulverized dirt and filth of our streets, derived from all kinds of refuse matter, the dangerous quality may be suspected, if they are not clearly obvious. Conveyed by the winds, it is diffused everywhere, and settles upon and adheres to everything. We inhale it, drink it and eat it with our food. A speck of mud on our bread excites disgust, but who minds the same thing when it is nothing but a little dust. If our food just brought from the market or provision store is examined with a microscope, it is found to teem with particles of dust, consisting of fine sand, bits of hay, straw, filaments of cotton from old paper and rags, wood fibre, hair and scurf scales of men and beast, starch grains, spores, &c. Recent investigations render it probable that dust contains the germs of decomposition, gangrene and contagious diseases."

The demand of the people for an easier method of preparing Kidney-Wort has induced the proprietors, the well-known wholesale druggists, Wells, Richardson & Co., of Burlington, Vt., to prepare it for sale in liquid form as well as in dry form. It saves all the labor of preparing, and being equally efficient is preferred by many. Kidney-Wort always and everywhere proves itself a perfect remedy.—Buffalo News.

A PERSON is not worth anything who has not had troubles. You cannot subdue selfishness without a struggle. You cannot restrain pride without a conflict. You cannot go through life without bearing burdens. But you are going to have help, under the circumstances, that will redeem you from these things. You are going to experience more victories than defeats. Your suffering will be only here and there little spots in a whole field of peace and joy.

There is a good deal of sense in the following advice: Never use anything but light blankets to cover the sick. The heavy, impervious counterpane is bad, for the reason that it keeps the exhalations from the pores of the sick person, while the blankets allows them to pass through. Weak persons are invariably distressed by a great weight of bed clothes, which often prevent their getting any sound sleep.

EASTER.

Yesterday, (Good Friday), all christendom stood in garments of woe, contemplating the body of the Lord of Glory, as it hung lifeless on the accursed cross, and in grief and humiliation of heart, all heads were bowed in recollection, that the anguish and death were borne for the redemption of mankind.

To-morrow will bring in the triumphal day of christianity, the summing up of the grand facts of the Incarnation, and Birth of its divine founder, His triumph over the powers of darkness, and death and Hades, and the final assurance that His victory, is also the eternal victory of His people.

Easter is essentially a day of joy and gladness, and the attributes everywhere resound the triumphant, "sur-rexit." The theme is one which cannot grow old, its recurrence brings with it ever renewed occasions of thankfulness, and the passing years but add to the advancing honour with which the day is observed.

The season of the year in which it occurs has been a time of rejoicing, from a period ante dating christianity. In its renewing influence over all human institutions, christianity most appropriately sanctified and applied its heaven-born spirit, to the use of the occasion, by ascribing ancient customs in the glorification of the fact of the Resurrection of the Lord.

And beautifully is the association of the event connected with the opening flowers, and the renewed life of nature, at the close of winter, as well as the ending of the time of humiliation and self-denial, which is involved in the Lenten season.

Easter is a moveable festival, whose time is regulated as we have heretofore stated, by the moon. The Sunday following the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st day of March, being the one celebrated as Easter. The egg as the symbol of life, has from the earliest times been used as the most appropriate emblem representative of the occasion, and thus it passes as a gift of love and remembrance from hand to hand; and the art of colouring, in imitation of the beautiful in nature, is happily resorted to, in adding to the beauty and attractiveness of the gifts.

In the church the services are conducted in such a manner as to render the day the most conspicuous one of the year. And now again the historic course looks forward to the necessary result of our Lord's resurrection—His Ascension to Heaven!

The Annapolis correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, thus sums up the work of the late Legislature which closed its session on Monday night: The Legislature of 1882 has done a great many good things, and has left undone probably as many more good or better things, but taking it all in all it has not been idle. It has provided for purifying the registration books, for abolishing the machine-made grand jury system of Baltimore, and abolished the compulsory feature of the tobacco inspection laws, a reform started in 1870, and found its culmination in 1882, and other things that may reflect to its credit; and some that upon investigation may not.

GOVERNOR HAMILTON has signed the bill recently passed by the Legislature to punish wife-beaters with the lash. THE notorious bandit and train roeber, Jesse James, was shot dead in the south eastern part of St. Joseph, Mo., on last Monday, by Robert Ford, one of his gang. Ford claimed to be a detective, and to have been on the track of James for a long while. It is supposed that the large reward offered by the Governor, the express and railroad companies, prompted the killing.

THE MILK LAW.—The Milk Bill just passed by the Legislature makes the penalty for adulteration of milk not less than $50, nor more than $200, or imprisonment in jail not less than 30 nor more than 90 days. Mixing water with milk is adulteration of it. The informer to receive one half if the fine.

THERE was a terrible storm at Reading, Pa., on last Sunday, accompanied by lightning and thunder and much rain. The Angellia water works that were situated about two miles below the city, had a tall tower of heavy timber on its property. At its top was a large water tank, containing many thousand barrels of water, which supplies the people. A party that was overtaken in the storm, took refuge below the tower. Whilst they were in this position, the tower was toppled over. The carriage and its inmates, and those seeking shelter were crushed in the wreck. A couple of miraculous escapes were made. The carriage was washed into splinters, and several parties were killed outright. One horse was dead and the other so nearly dead, it was killed at once.

BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE.—A second attempt to blow up the Andre' memorial, at Tappan, N. Y., was made in the night of the 30th ult. Whilst the monument itself is not materially damaged, the base is completely destroyed. The monument now stands on three pieces of the base. The ruins are to lie as they are. Mr. Field says he is on the track of the culprits, "If the people do not want the monument there, I am not going to insist upon it." He says the object of the structure was to commemorate an historic place.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—During a storm this afternoon the wind, which was blowing at the rate of thirty miles an hour, lifting the wooden covering of the stone steps leading to the chapel at Girard College, and hurled it against a column of lads who were marching past—Three boys were knocked insensible, and one of them dangerously but not fatally injured.

THE Third Assistant Postmaster-General has given notice that the Department will begin the issue on April 10th of a new five-cent postage stamp of the following description: On a tablet is suspended an incised shield decorated with an oval of pearls, forming a frame-work to the portrait of the late President Garfield, looking to the left and engraved in line. At the base of the oval is a dark six pointed star, relieved by a white outline, and in the center figure 5. Disposed on the right and left of the star flows a ribbon containing the words "Five cents" in white roman capitals. Below the star and ribbon, on the lower portion of the tablet, appear the words "U. S. postage," engraved in dark letters. The color of the stamp is chocolate brown.

HOW LONG WOULD IT TAKE TO COUNT 2 MILLIONS?—Over two million volumes of the revised edition of the New Testament were sold on the first day of its issue. These figures can only be equaled by the enormous sale of Swayne's Ointment for Itching Piles, which is universally used as a standard remedy for stopping the itching at night, when one thinks that pin worms are crawling about the rectum. To calculate the extent of its sale in actual figures, would involve the labor of a life-time. Will you be pestered longer from the aggravating Piles?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D.C., Apr. 5th '82. It is deemed probable that the debate in the House on the tariff commission bill may last a week or two longer, and the final passage of the bill is considered assured. There has been an impression that the establishment of a tariff commission would remove the tariff question from the domain of debate in the two houses of Congress, and eliminate it as an issue in the next Presidential canvass. Any tariff commission constituted under the reigning auspices is very certain to protract its deliberations to the remotest possible period, and therefore no report on the subject will be made until after the next Presidential election. But members of Congress and other politicians not wedded to the protectionist cause are very certain to protract its deliberations to the remotest possible period, and therefore no report on the subject will be made until after the next Presidential election. Good Recommendation. EMMITSBURG, Oct 23, 1880. All I have to say of the Wilds Rat Trap is: It is the best I have ever seen. The most we ever caught, was 27 rats in one trap, one night. I just put it in the cellar last night, and had three rats this morning. I would not be without one. Yours respectfully, WILLIAM P. GARDNER, Bold in Emmitsburg, by D. Zeck, July 2-ly.

Mrs. TILLY WATTS, a respected colored woman, residing near this place, took dinner at Mr. Frederick Black's, on the 2nd inst., in celebration of her birthday, she being then 90 years old. She was quite well, and gives good promise of reaching the period of 100 years.

A Mean Act. Some one or more persons forced an entrance into the warehouse in the rear of the drug store at Burkittsville, in which the instruments of the colored people's Band were kept, and totally destroyed them. That was a most dastardly act.

A Nuisance. As a result of the moving time the streets are at many points covered with straw, and bits of paper, creating a nuisance which, besides its unseemly appearance, is frightful to horses passing along and thus dangerous. Let the matter claim the attention of the citizens and of the authorities.

Big Results from Little Causes. "Do you know?" remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut Street, a day or two since, "I believe both Conkling and Platt had a bad case of skin disease when they resigned!" "What makes you think so?" inquired the listener in astonishment. "Well, you see they acted in such an erratic manner—so rashly as it were. Save?" "Oh! yes, I save," replied the other, "they were boiling over and merely resigned to humor themselves. I suppose." If such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayze's Ointment for skin diseases. 1841

An Entertaining. Mr. William M. Martin, the principal of the Public School of this place, has made, and is still making, extensive preparations for a Grand Entertainment, on Saturday evening, the 15th inst., at Gelwick's Hall. Our Contribution Box. Following the example set by the Press, in other places, we have placed a box for contributions to the wife and child of Sergeant Mason, at our office. That our people may have a chance to take part in the movement for their benefit, which we understand it, though in no way approving the act of Mason, in shooting at the assassin Guitau, is a tribute to a worthy woman in need, who has shown herself to be possessed of a true womanly character under the most trying circumstances.

Newspaper Sharks. Newspaper sharks—that is, that class who take a paper for a number of years and skip without paying for it—are reminded by a contemporary that "the new postal law now makes the taking of a newspaper and the refusal to pay for the same, theft, and any person guilty of such an action is liable to criminal proceedings, the same as if he had stolen goods to the amount of subscription." A New York paper has already commenced suit against several subscribers for such an offence.

The death of Michael C. Adelsberger, Esq., has created quite a void in this community, where he was highly esteemed as an upright and useful citizen. He was born in Manchester, Carroll county, on the 15th of August, 1798 and when but 16 years of age, took part in the war of 1814, at Baltimore, and therefore has been recognized as one of the old defenders. He settled in Emmitsburg in 1819, where he subsequently filled the office of Justice of the Peace, for a term 40 consecutive years, save one term. He was buried from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, in this place, of which he was a consistent member, on Friday afternoon, Rev. Father White officiating. May he rest in peace!

A Burglary. About 3 o'clock Monday morning, the warehouse at the railroad was broken into, an entrance having been made by a crowbar, taken from the tool-house of the track hands: A hole was drilled into the safe of Motter, Maxell & Co., not yet removed, just above the bolt in its door, and the safe was blown open, the door being much injured. The burglars secured the money it contained, being between fifteen and thirty cents, and left the express packages and other movables on hand had been looked over but were left behind. Three men were observed loitering about town on Sunday afternoon, taking observations of other premises, they are supposed to have been the actors in the burglary. They may have been part of the gang that has worked successfully, in not very remote places this winter. Combined efforts should be made to stop their proceedings.

A MONUMENT TO MERIT. A Tribute to the Memory of the Late Dr. John McCloskey. At the last annual meeting held at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, it was decided to erect a monument to the memory of the late Rev. Dr. John McCloskey, who for so many years conducted the destinies of that venerable institution. A committee was appointed to further that project, with Rev. Jas. J. Dunn, A. M., of Meadville, Pa., as president, Rev. Thomas J. Fitzgerald, A. M. vice-president of the college, treasurer, and Rev. Thomas F. Gambon, A. M., also of the college, as secretary.

The secretary prepared circulars setting forth the object of the meeting, and has so far met with the most gratifying encouragement. James E. Gowen, LL. D., an eminent member of the Philadelphia bar, has written as follows in response to a communication from Father Gambon: No. 210 SOUTH FOURTH STREET, PHILADELPHIA, March 25, 1882. Rev. Dear Sir: In answer to yours of the 20th instant, I take pleasure in sending my check to your address for fifty dollars, as a subscription towards the monument proposed to be erected to the memory of the Very Rev. Dr. McCloskey. More than forty years have elapsed since I first knew him, and, young as I then was, I could and did appreciate his devotion to the interests of Mt. St. Mary's. His subsequent life was one of daily sacrifice for the same cause. He lived for the college, and, I dare say, died for it, and his memory should ever be cherished by all to whom the Old Mountain College is dear.

Very truly yours, JAMES E. GOWEN.

The Hon. Wm. Walsin, LL. D., of Cumberland, Md., in sending the secretary a generous subscription for the same purpose, says: "I would do anything in my power to honor the memory of the good Father McCloskey, to whom all Mountaineers of thirty odd years past are so deeply indebted."

James M. Jarboe, A. M., of Upper Marlboro, writing on the same subject says: "I have the greatest esteem for the virtues, ay, the matchless virtues of the good Father John, the faithful, kind president and accomplished gentleman. His unwearied labors and faithful performance of duties would justify him in saying, if death had not closed his lips: 'Exegi monumentum ere perennius.'" These are but a few of the many kind expressions coming from all quarters regarding the self-sacrificing life of the good Father John McCloskey, the most popular, respected and dignified president that ever presided over the old Mountain, and it can be truly said of him that Mt. St. Mary's will not see his like again.—Baltimore News, April 4th 1882

Died of Poison. The well known coloured man, John Constant, had mixed some poison in a bottle, which he had used or intended to use to poison dogs, the bottle was snatched by his children and two of his children got the little and put walnut kernels in it and then ate them, they became suddenly very sick and Dr. R. I. Annan was called in, and detected the symptoms of poison at once. One of the children died that night, (last Monday), and the other on Tuesday morning. They were buried Tuesday evening.—Poisons, or the yeccels that may have contained them, should never for a moment be within reach of children.

An effort existing without a cause is an impossibility; tickling in the throat, huskiness of the voice, violent coughing, etc., are the effects of a severe cold. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures the cold at once and removes its serious effects. Mr. D. H. RUTZMAN was reelected by the county commissioners on Thursday as collector of State and County taxes for the ensuing year.

OUR thanks are due to Dr. C. W. Chancellor, of the State Board of Health, for a copy of his "report upon the Epidemic of Diphtheria at Frederick." The report covers 63 pages, very handsomely printed at the Sun Book and Job Printing Office, and is a very exhaustive treatise on the subject, and is accompanied by a map of Frederick, indicating the points of deaths, and those which were exempt during the epidemic, as well as showing the places where filth and other deleterious conditions abounded, tending to promote the unhealthy state of things. Taken as a whole the report confirms the great advantage of bringing scientific knowledge to bear upon the subject of public health, and shows how its deductions may be applied to the saving of life, and the consequent increase of prosperity in general; but at the same time it shows that science itself has its limitations, as far as usefulness is considered. It is not always the filthiest place, that death most severely deals with. The capacity of some persons to resist noxious exhalations is simply wonderful; a certain departure from the normal state of health seems needful, before disease can make its inroads. Continued exposure to this state, no doubt brings about the condition, and here science shows the way of avoidance by removing the cause.

And yet mysteries hang around the subject; the most promising are often taken, and the apparently weaker are left, showing that there are hidden springs in the working of the human constitution, which cannot be comprehended from the exterior. Reports like this should be hailed as harbingers of future good, preparing the way for greater advances in the promotion of public health, a prolongation of life and increase of happiness.

Since writing the above our obligations have been largely increased by the receipt of a copy of the "Fourth Biennial Report of the State Board of Health of Maryland," by the same authority. It is an invaluable pamphlet of 149 pages, from the Press of the well known firm of Baughman Bros., of Frederick, finely executed, and treats the subject of the public health in a most clear and satisfactory manner, giving full and explicit directions in regard to disinfectants, sewers, the care of the sick, the avoidance of disease, funerals, the resuscitation of the drowned, and should be in the hands of every family. Appended to it is the report on the Frederick Epidemic, noticed above.

A COMMUNICATION in this week's Examiner, signed by Messrs. P. Lugenbeel, D. B. Chambers, Joseph E. Webster, T. E. Miller and C. L. Wilson, members of the late Legislature, from this county, makes a reply to a card of the Board of Aldermen of Frederick, previously published in said paper, being an attack on the county delegation for declining to vote for the Bill to exempt the citizens of Frederick from paying the county road tax. It is a clear, concise, and well-written paper, and a manly vindication of their course in the Legislature. They show that a large number of the signers for the law do not pay one cent of taxes, we should like to reproduce the paper in our columns, but want of space compels its omission.

Accidental burning. Mrs. Joe. Krietz was seriously burned, last week, by her clothing taking fire, whilst washing near an open wood fire, at the house of her brother-in-law, Mr. Frank Krietz when she discovered that her dress was on fire, she rushed into the room where Mrs. Frank Krietz was lying sick, and who seeing her about to run out into the air, jumped from her bed, and threw the quilts over her, calling for assistance, which reached them in time to prevent the frightful catastrophe that might have resulted from such an accident.

By Universal Accord, AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use, and being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them; and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required. For sale by all druggists.

THE MATTER OF THIS COLLEGE IS FURNISHED BY MR. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE, THE AUTHORITIES OF WHICH ARE ALONE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE SAME.

HEALTH OF THE COLLEGE.

We notice that an impression prevails in the neighbourhood, that the health of the inmates of the College was not as good as usual this spring. We have probably had more than our average number of sore throats among the students. This arose chiefly from the wet and changeable character of the season. An attack of quinsy sore throat resulting fatally in the case of a boy of very delicate constitution, has probably given rise to rumors, that the much dreaded diphtheria had appeared among us. Dr. Annan and Dr. Brawner, after having carefully examined the students affected with sore throat, informed the President, that they could detect no symptoms of diphtheria in any of the cases. The fact that it was simple sore throat is proved by the readiness with which it yielded to treatment, and the brief period of the trouble. There is only one boy now at all affected in this way.

It is true that we have had a few cases of scarletina, or scarlet fever of a mild type as frequently happen here elsewhere at this season of the year. These have given no cause for alarm either to the physician in charge, the nurses, the parents, or the authorities of the College.

As a measure of precaution, however, several of the juniors, who were supposed to be likely to catch this fever, were allowed to go home to spend the Easter holidays.

In a few weeks all danger of spreading will have passed, and they will return to their studies.

Agricultural.

In building a fence around our young orchard, several years ago, we tried many plans for preserving the posts. Having occasion to remove the fence this winter, we noted the condition of the posts as follows: Those set with no preparation were decayed an inch or more in thickness; those coated with a thick wash of lime were better preserved, but were quite seriously attacked by worms; those posts coated with hot tar were perfectly sound as when first put in the ground; those painted with petroleum and kerosene were equally sound and as good as new. In future we shall treat all posts in the following manner before setting: Let the posts get thoroughly dry, and then, with a pan of cheap kerosene and a whitewash brush, give the lower third of the post, the part to go into the ground, two or three good applications of the oil, letting it soak in well each time. Posts so treated will not be troubled by worms or insects of any kind, but will resist decay to a remarkable degree. This we find to be the simplest, easiest, cheapest, and best method of preservation.—Country Gentleman.

Extra Food for Hogs. Coal-ashes and clay are beneficial for hogs when shut up to fatten. Hogs are fond of cinders, coal-ashes and clay, and improve in condition by eating a certain portion of them every day. Some persons are unable to account for this singular propensity in swine, poultry are very fond of egg shells, lime, sand, and it is well known these substances are necessary in order to form the shells of eggs, and to furnish material for bones for fowls. Now, is it not reasonable to suppose that swine eat ashes for the purpose of supplying the material for their bones, and this singular instinct in animals so low in the scale of intelligence is truly wonderful, for ashes contain ingredients which are necessary to form bone; clay, silica, coal, soft lime, stone and rotten wood, which contains the necessary ingredients but when they are peened up they endeavor to supply the material necessary for keeping up their frames by devouring ashes and cinder. Let them have a plenty of them.

"I'm all played out," is a common complaint. If you feel so, get a package of Kidney-Wort and take it and you will at once feel its tonic power. It renews the healthy action of the kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus restores the natural life and strength to the weary body. It can now be had in either dry or liquid form, and in either way is always prompt and efficient in action.—New Bedford Standard.

Does the Potato Deteriorate? We have an answer to the question. On Wednesday Mr. Jacob Krise, of Liberty township, brought us eight or ten potatoes of good size and fair looks, belonging to a variety grown on the farm he now occupies during 81 consecutive years, and every year but one on the same piece of ground. In 1800 his father bought and removed to the farm; this variety of the potato was then in favor and has so continued in the family to this time. Mr. Krise has this from older members, and is certain of its entire correctness. The quality of the potato he thinks has improved in his day.—Gettysburg Computer.

SKILL IN THE WORKMANSHIP.—To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enfeebled his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears, take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his nerves strengthened, his sight become clear, and his whole constitution be built up to a better working condition.

Brook—A Virginia correspondent of the Country Gentleman, suggests a plan to prevent or rather drive away the bugs from the melons. As soon as they appear on the vines put about half to a whole gallon of sharp sand immediately around them. Cucumbers and squashes can be treated in the same way. Just spread the sand as if putting ashes around grape vines or fruit trees. He supposes the heat and the inability of the bugs to shelter themselves from the hot sun by going into the ground, constitutes its virtue. Try it.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. CURE SICK HEADACHE. Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Diarrhoea, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been in curing...

KIDNEY-WORT DOES WONDERFUL WHY? CURES! Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time. Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develop in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or to Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints. SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY: Eugene R. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, "Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years." Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says she has given up all hope of curing her kidney troubles and other complications as ended by the use of Kidney-Wort. M. R. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him. Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says she has seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications as ended by the use of Kidney-Wort. John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and other ailments, but Kidney-Wort cured him. Michael Osto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him well as ever.
